TESTING AN EGG.

Many Ways to Detect Staleness Besides Smell and Taste.

It does not require a very discriminating palate to detect an old egg from a new one, says a correspondent of the New York Sun. The former has a musty flavor that the latter never has, and the mustiness may range from a slight taint to a very pronounced one. It is always noticeable in storage eggs.

If any one wishes to verify the judgment of his palate, the following tests may be used:

1.—It is almost impossible to peel the shell from a fresh hard boiled egg without having some of the white come away with it.

2.—A stale egg cannot be beaten to a froth.

3.—When a fresh egg is broken into a dish the yolk stands up and the white does not spread, whereas in a stale egg the yolk lies flat and the white seems watery.

4.—The shell of an egg after a certain length of time loses its chalky appearance and becomes shiny.

5.—The air space in the large end of a newly laid egg is about half an inch in diameter, and as the egg ages this space grows larger. In storage eggs it sometimes extends to one-fourth the length. An expert can very closely approximate the age of an egg by examining this space. This is known as candling and is done by holding the egg in a beam of light. A simpler test is to hard boil the egg and notice the relative size of the space.

THEIR AWFUL SECRET.

It Caused the Real Estate Agent to Change His Mind.

When the family who admitted that they were moving because the tenants at the old address made their lives miserable confided to the renting agent that they had one peculiarity which they wished him not to mention to their neighbors in his building the agent got uneasy and executed a mental quickstep trying to devise some way to break the lease. But aloud he said very courteously:

"I shall be glad to oblige you if I can. What is it you wish me to keep a secret?"

"The fact that we pay our rent promptly on the 1st of every month," said the head of the family. "That was something that nobody else in the other house did, and the agent as an incentive to quick action on their part published the news of our promptness. The only action it stirred them into was persecution of us, and they carried that to such extremes that we had to move. If you will kindly refrain from using us as a club to whack your delinquents into obedience we will appreciate it."

The agent resolved not to cancel the lease, but at the same time he relinquished a hastily conceived plan for procuring prompt remittances.—New York Times.

That Yankee Dodge.

The description of the first operation under ether in Europe as given by Dr. F. William Cook in the University College Hospital Magazine is reproduced in the London Lancet, and the scene is referred to as the "most dramatic ever enacted in which medical men grouped the stage." The operation was performed by Robert Liston on Dec. 21, 1846. "At 2:15 Liston enters, that magnificent figure of a man six feet two inches in height, and says, 'We are going to try a Yankee dodge today, gentlemen, for making men insensible,' so Liston introduced ether to a London hospital." The subject was a man, thirty-six years old, whose thigh was amputated. The operation was successful, and Liston uttered the epilogue, "This Yankee dodge, gentlemen, beats mesmerism holler."

Marvels of India.

What a wonderful country is India! There is only one India. Its marvels are its own. There is the plague, the black death. India invented it. The car of Juggernaut was also India's invention. So was the suttee, and within the time of men still living 800 widows willingly and, in fact rejoicingly burned themselves to death on the bodies of their dead husbands in a single year. And 800 would do it this year if the British government would let them. Famine belongs especially to India. India has 2,000,000 gods and worships them all. On top of all this she is the mother and home of that wonder of wonders, caste, and also that mystery of mysteries, the Satanic Brotherhood of the Thugs.—Churchman.

Setting Her Right.

The pretty and petulant wife of a congressman stood for a moment before the window of the receiving teller in a Washington bank, then tapped the window with her parasol, exclaiming:

"Why don't you pay attention to me?"

"We pay nothing here, madam," was the reply. "Please go to the next window."—Denver Republican.

Those Useless Questions.

"How did you get the bruised face?"

"It was caused by the hatrack last night."

"Accidentally?"

Biblical Reference.

"And who," asked the Sunday school teacher—"who was it that cried, O king, live forever?"

"All the life insurance agents," suggested the small boy whose father was an adjuster.—Judge.

Mark went back to Laura. She had not recovered from her fright, and he was obliged to wait a few moments before he could get a word from her.

"I suppose you think me a dreadful coward," she said at last. "After all, I'm only a woman."

"Not cowardly for yourself; for a poor devil whose neck is in a halter."

"Yes, I'm only a girl, but I own the

"I'M A COURIER. I BE'N CARRYIN' DISPATCHES."

"Anything else?"

"There are no more words to express what I mean."

"Laura," called Mrs. Fain, "if you are going to stay out any later you'd better get a shawl."

"I'm going in, mamma."

They walked into the house together. Mr. Rhett, of South Carolina, made a few commonplace remarks to Mrs. Fain and then begged to be excused, as he had been prospecting during the day and was very tired. He bowed low to the ladies and then went up stairs.

CHAPTER XII.

SURPRISED.

THE next morning Mark hearing a tap at the door got out of bed and opened it cautiously. He half expected to see through the slight opening he at first made the muzzle of a revolver pointing directly at him. He saw a very different sight. It was a large tumbler, with a straw in it, on a silver tray in the hands of a negro.

"Ah!" exclaimed Mark, with intense satisfaction.

"Present my compliments to your mistress and tell her I perceive with pleasure that this noble Virginia custom has found its way into Tennessee, as it has long ago into South Carolina."

"Yes, sah!"

However, Mark desired to keep his head cool, considering the circumstances, and contented himself with a few swallows of the julep, and after completing his toilet joined the ladies at the breakfast table. He praised Mrs. Fain's fried chicken and light biscuit and corn bread, and was about to give the coffee a few words of encomium when, tasting it beforehand, he discovered the prevailing chicory. So he entered upon a tirade against the blockade, and ended by hoping that Abe Lincoln would at last be hanged higher than Haman, a reference that gave him a disagreeable sensation about the neck and caused Laura's bosom to heave tumultuously.

After breakfast he took his pipe and went out to smoke in the yard. He sauntered around to the barn and found Daniel at work upon the horses.

"Daniel," he said, "good morning."

"Mornen, sah," said Daniel, eying him suspiciously.

Mark suddenly turned and looked him in the eye, knowingly.

"Daniel," said he, "are you all right on the cause of freedom?"

"Reckon I air, sah."

"Suppose you had a chance to favor that cause, the cause which if it triumphs will make all darkies free, would you do it?"

"Reckon I would, sah."

"Well, suppose a Union man were to ask you to"—

"Yo' countenance air berry familiar to me, sah."

"Do I look like Mr. Slack?"

"God bress the Lo'd! I wonder if yo' air Mr. Slack?"

"Or the colored girl who came here the other night," Mark asked in a low, confidential tone.

"Fo' de Lo'd!"

"Never mind who I am, Daniel. I'm a Union man. Now I want you to go into Chattanooga and learn all you can of the latest army news. Don't trust your own eyes, but ask people what's going on. I want to know if troops are leaving Chattanooga, and if so, where they are going. Here are ten dollars. Buy some things for the old woman and the children, and ask questions—of other people I mean, not me."

"Trus' me fur dat," said the old man, and going to the stable he began to harness a horse to the family wagon.

When Mark finished smoking he went into the house. He passed into the library, where he found Laura. She seemed to feel easier than when Mark had been up stairs, but she was in continual dread. Mark asked her to sit on a sofa facing one window while he sat facing another. "Then we'll have the position enfiladed," he said.

Laura did not understand what that meant, but she did as he desired.

They sat thus without suffering the watch to relax during three delightful hours—delightful notwithstanding the danger Mark was in. Laura wanted an account of his adventures in Chattanooga and he gave it. When she came to Souri's part in his escape Laura was visibly affected; indeed so intensely were her feelings wrought upon by this portion of the story that she started at every sound, realizing the more perfectly that Mark's neck was still in jeopardy.

Then came an account of the trial; the march to the courtroom; the waiting for the counsel; the arrival of Captain Cameron Fitz Hugh.

"Captain Cameron Fitz Hugh!"

Then it was all out that Laura's lover had defended the spy, and Laura confessed that she was Fitz Hugh's betrothed.

In the midst of the excitement attending all this Mrs. Fain entered carrying a silver tray, on which was a basket of cake and a decanter and glasses.

"A little luncheon may not be amiss, Mr. Rhett," she said. "I don't know your South Carolina customs in such matters, but my daughter and I occasionally take a biscuit at this hour."

Mark rose and faced about. His hand went to his heart, and he bowed low. Laura, too, rose and stood looking at her mother.

"Madam," said Mark, "can I ever forget this kindness?"

"If you will discover the ore you seek on our property I shall feel amply repaid," said the lady sententiously.

"Trust me, madam, I will have diligent search made."

"Are you a geologist?"

"None but a geologist would be hunting for ore in the government service."

"That is a fascinating study," remarked Mrs. Fain, who was a great reader and a very intelligent woman.

Now Mark, though an educated man and born to a taste for the sciences, unfortunately knew less about the profession he had temporarily adopted than any other.

"There are some curious geological facts," Mrs. Fain went on, "which always interest me. I was reading yesterday that a famous geologist has said that centuries—I have forgotten how many—were consumed while Niagara falls were wearing their way from Lewiston to the present site. How long was it, professor? I'm sure you have that title."

"It could not have been less than five hundred years, madam," said Mark, laying great stress on the figures as something enormous.

"Five hundred? I thought it was something like twenty thousand!"

Mark perceived that he had made a gross blunder, but it would never do for him to acknowledge it.

"I am aware," he said, "that such is the opinion of a certain school of geologists with more assurance than brains. I refer to those scoffers who are continuously trying to find evidence against the Mosaic account of creation, but I regard their position untenable."

There was a pleased look on Mrs. Fain's countenance. She belonged to the Baptist denomination and believed thoroughly that the world was made in six days of twenty-four hours each.

"Professor," she said, withdrawing from the room at the same time, "I trust that you will remain in the neighborhood a long while, and I beg you to honor us by making this house your home in the meantime."

Mark was standing with a half filled glass of wine in his left hand, while his right was on his heart. Mrs. Fain made her exit through the door by which she had come, opening into the dining room. As the door closed Mark was bending to the floor, admirably representing a South Carolina gentleman of the olden time.

He heard something like a low cry—half surprised, half terror—from Laura. Turning quickly toward her he saw her eyes fixed in a stare on some object at the door opening into the hall. Another turn of his head and there stood the figure of Captain Cameron Fitz Hugh.

Twice before had Mark seen that face, once when Fitz Hugh had approached the Fain house the morning Mark had left it for Chattanooga, and once when the young Confederate had defended him at the trial.

No sooner had Captain Fitz Hugh laid eyes on Mark's face than he recognized the spy he had defended at Chattanooga.

"Professor," he said coolly, "you are very adroit."

Mark turned scarlet, and then ashy pale. For a moment it seemed that his legs would not support him.

"Since you are so good at extricating yourself from difficulties, you have a fine opportunity to show your skill now." Fitz Hugh spoke with his hand on the handle of his pistol. "May I trouble you to throw up your hands professor?"

"It is not necessary," said Mark. "I am unarmed."

A picture of his certain fate flashed across his mind, and he wished Fitz Hugh would shoot him.

"On your word of honor?"

"Why do you ask such a question? You know that I am an arch deceiver."

"At any rate, you are a gentleman. Never mind throwing up your hands."

Laura remained silent, staring at them both as though she had lost her reason. Had she a hundred things to say her tongue could not have been made to utter one.

Mark turned toward Fitz Hugh and looked him square in the face. He had conceived an idea; a forlorn hope. It is true, still a hope. Quick to discern people's peculiarities, he had gotten an insight into Fitz Hugh's character when that officer had defended him at Chattanooga. He now resolved to take advantage of that knowledge.

"MAY I TROUBLE YOU TO THROW UP YOUR HANDS?"

"Captain," he said, "notwithstanding the position in which you saw me a few days ago, notwithstanding the painful situation in which you see me now, you have on both occasions done me the honor to consider me a gentleman. I assume to a perception in this respect not less keen than yours. Indeed so sure am I of the delicacy, the refinement of your instincts, that I feel perfectly safe under this roof."

"How so?" asked Fitz Hugh, surprised.

"I am the guest of that young lady."

Mark stood with his arm outstretched, his finger pointing to Laura Fain. Laura gave a glance at Mark as he spoke, which caught the eye of Captain Fitz Hugh. It contained admiration, devotion. Fitz Hugh gazed from one to the other without a word.

"I need not explain further, captain," Mark added. "A gentleman can not mistake my position; only a gentleman can understand it."

"You mean, sir," said Fitz Hugh, "that I cannot honorably enter this house and profit or cause my country to profit by what I find here without the consent of the inmates."

"I do."

"Mrs. Fain is the acknowledged head of this house, and she is evidently deceived. But I concede to Miss Fain the right to speak for her. I acknowledge Miss Fain's right to hold me to this secret, if any one has such a right. But when Miss Fain shall have been fully advised of all the facts"—

"Pardon me; she knows all you know."

"Then when Miss Fain shall have duly considered the interests of her country I am quite sure she will give her consent."

The attention of both men became fixed upon Laura, for it was evident that she would be called upon to make a decision between her country and her lover on the one hand and the defenseless Union spy on the other. Laura knew the sterling worth, the high sense of honor and duty of her lover. She knew that if she held him to secrecy he would consider it evidence that she permitted her interest in the spy to overwhelm her sense of duty. And would he not attribute her protection to something more tender than an ordinary interest? Fitz Hugh realized her position; indeed there seemed to flash into both of them the feeling that her decision would lie between two men—her lover and the Federal spy. With Mark it was a question of life or death.

"Miss Fain—Laura," said Fitz Hugh, speaking slowly and impressively, "I ask your permission to give up this impostor—pardon me, sir, for the plainness of my language; it is essential—this spy, who desires to carry information north to the detriment of our country; who seeks the defeat of our cause, the cause in which your brother is every day risking his life; lastly—though this may be a matter of small importance—the cause for which I, your lover, would lay down my life as I would lay it down for you. It seems to me that it is a question between your duty and your inclination. Does it seem so to you?"

"It does."

"Then tell me, may I send for a guard to take him?"

Laura's eyes shone like those of a tigress at bay. In a firm, clear voice, she said:

"No!"

For a few moments there was the stillness of death.

"She has decided in your favor, sir," said Fitz Hugh, whose color left his cheek when Laura spoke the little word that decided his and Mark's fate. "You have nothing to fear from me." Then turning to Laura:

"I can understand the motive, the temptation. The act remains."

"You may consider yourself released from all ties with one whose act you do not approve," said Laura.

"Be it so," and he turned to go.

Mark sprang forward and seized him by the wrist.

"My God, this shall not be! You believe that this is due to more than an ordinary womanly interest in Miss Fain for me. It is not so. I swear to you, on the honor of a gentleman and a soldier, that Miss Fain has manifested no other feeling than one of commiseration for a man hunted for his life."

"Your words do you credit, sir. Miss Fain, will you make my adieus to your mother? And I leave it to you to impart to her whatever, if anything, you may have to say as to the reason for my farewell to you."

He turned quickly and left the room.

CHAPTER XIII.

OFF FOR THE UNION LINES.

MARK'S first impulse after Fitz Hugh's departure was to leave the house at once. He tried to say something to Laura to soothe her, to excuse his own unfortunate part in her breaking with her lover. He could only go to her and taking her hand kissed it without a word. Then he told her that he should take the risk of capture and depart instantly.

He was discoursing upon the method of his departure in quick, excited tones, when a horseman entered the yard, and riding up to the veranda drew a letter from his belt and handed it to a negro who went out to receive it. It was for Mrs. Fain. It had been sent through the lines from Nashville, where her husband was lying dangerously ill, and begged her to come to him.

After its perusal Mrs. Fain determined to set out the next day, taking with her her daughter and the maid Alice. Daniel would drive them.

"You shall go with us," said Laura to Mark. "This is fortunate. In our company you will be far safer than trying to make your way alone."

It occurred to Mark that since he was being hunted as a half starved creature in the disguise of a negro girl he would be less liable to suspicion as a well dressed man traveling with a party of southern ladies than in any other character. At any rate he took this view of it, and when Mrs. Fain announced her intention to go he offered to escort the party to the Union lines.

The offer was accepted, and preparations were made to leave the next morning. Mrs. Fain wrote a note to the officer in command at Chattanooga (to send with the letter she had received from her husband for his perusal) asking for a pass for herself, her daughter and two servants. Mark took the missives and went out to find Daniel, who had just returned from Chattanooga.

"Well, Daniel?"

"I be'n dar."

"What did you learn?"

"I hearn every one talken 'bout sojers goen to 'de norf, and dey sayd dey was goen to Knoxville. Dey was marchen 'n marchen all de same way. I follered 'n dey brung up at de depot, 'n I sor one train after anudder go out full o' sojers inside and hangen on to de platfo'm and on de roofs."

"How many trains did you see go out?"

"'Bout forty hundred."

"Daniel," said Mark, smiling at the figures, "you're smart as a whip. But you'll have to go right back to Chattanooga, and take this note to the commanding officer with this letter from your sick master to show him. The note is a request for a pass for the party to the Union lines. Keep your wits about you, and if he is an easy going sort of a man, you might try to get him to put in three servants instead of two. At any rate try to ring me in if you can. Do you understand?"

"Reckon I do, sah."

"Can you read?"

"A leetle. Missie Laura learned me."

"Well, read the pass he may give you and ask him to fix it so that it will include me as a servant. But you must use your judgment."

Daniel drove again to Chattanooga. Mark waited anxiously for his return. Indeed so impatient was he that he thought the negro had been gone twice as long as he had when he saw him drive into the yard. He at once went out to the barn to meet him.

"Any luck?" he asked anxiously.

"I got de pass for misses and de res', but I didn't get what yo' wanted. I got a paper hyar. Mebbe it'll do."

Mark took the paper. It was a pass for Thomas Green and wife from Chattanooga to the Union lines.

"How did you get this?" asked Mark, surprised.

"I hab to wait while folks was getten passes. De officer go out to de udder room fur a moment. Dis was layen on de desk, 'n I tuk hit up and brung hit away."

"Well," said Mark, "it's not exactly what I want, but ingenuity will have to help me through. You're a trump, Daniel."

In the morning when all was ready for the departure two vehicles were brought around to the door, the one, a two horse carriage, the other Laura's phaeton, drawn by her pony. Mrs. Fain entered the former with Alice, Daniel being in the driver's seat. Laura and Mark got into the phaeton.

All went well during the first ten or twelve miles, when Mark received a piece of information which seriously interfered with his plan. Meeting a courier riding toward Chattanooga, who looked as if he might be the bearer of some important news, Mark hailed him and asked if he had anything from the front.

RACHEL'S GUITAR.

It Was Tuned to Play a Costly Air For Banker Fould.

Rachel, the famous actress, did not neglect any means of turning a more or less honest penny. In his new life of her Francis Gribble tells the following story of a guitar:

Rachel first saw and admired it in an artist's studio. "Give it to me," she said. "I want to pretend that it is the guitar on which I earned my living as a street singer."

The jest seemed a pleasant one, and the artist handed over the instrument. Rachel embellished it with ribbons and hung it in her own apartment, where it duly attracted the attention of Achille Fould, the banker. Hearing its story, he expressed the wish to possess it. "Very well," said Rachel, "you can have it for a thousand louis."

"Five hundred," said the banker, trying to bargain.

"No, a thousand," said Rachel, expressing her disdain for those who haggled.

And the banker actually paid a thousand louis for the worthless knick-knack. It is said that he learned the truth when he tried to sell his treasure at the Hotel Drouot and that the discovery of the hoax nearly sent him into a fit on the floor.

MEASURING THE EARTH.

Erastosthenes Made the First Attempt and Did Fairly Well.

The earliest attempt to measure the circumference of the earth was made by a Greek, Erastosthenes, who was born 276 B. C. He found that at Syene the gnomon, or upright pillar, used by the Greeks to measure the height of the sun in the sky, showed the sun to be exactly overhead at midday at the time of the summer solstice, while at Alexandria the gnomon cast a shadow upon the same date, showing that the latter point was one-fiftieth of the earth's circumference north of Syene.

Erastosthenes reasoned correctly that the length of the shadow at Alexandria bore the same relation to the circumference of the small circle described from the top of the gnomon as a center that the distance between the two cities bore to the circumference of the globe. This latter was 5,000 stadia, or about 625 miles, which when multiplied by fifty gives 31,250 miles as the circumference of the earth. This result is not quite correct, but as nearly so as could be expected from the first rough attempt to estimate it. —New York Mail.

Mexico's Way With Women.

Woman's place in Mexican life is the inevitable mingling of the Moorish ideas of the Spanish conquerors and the savage ideas of the natives, the Milwaukee Sentinel says. The Castilian hides his wife and daughters behind stone walls and the picturesque lattices of romance, and he is their lord and master. On the other hand, the Indian tribes are, of course, still bound by the spirit of the ancient savage customs. Historians tell of one of the baptismal ceremonies of the Meshic tribes, who fought their way to supremacy long before the Spanish arrived on the scene. To each boy baby the priests chanted this command: "Thy profession and faculty is war, thy obligation to give the sun to drink blood of the enemies and the earth corpses of the foes." To the girl baby they said with far less ceremonial: "You are to stay within the house, as the heart does within the body. Our Lord enshrines you in that place, and your office is to fetch and to grind maize in the metate."

Jokai's Joke.

At a banquet held in his honor in Torda, Maurus Jokai was called upon to propose the toast of "The Ladies." He made an excellent speech, during which he continually toyed with the brown curls upon his forehead. Finally he said: "I raise my glass in honor of the gracious ladies of Torda. May they all live until my hair grows gray." His audience drank to the toast, but it was easy to see by the faces of the ladies present that they did not think much of the compliment. Jokai rose again from his seat and took from his head a magnificent brown wig, showing an entirely bald head beneath it. "My hair," he added, "will never grow gray." And the ladies, who had not known of his baldness, were more than pacified.

Plants Without Roots.

The "flower of the air" is a curious plant found in China and Japan. It is so called because it appears to have no root and is never fixed to the earth. It twines around a dry tree or sterile rock. Each shoot produces two or three flowers like a lily—white, transparent and odoriferous. It is capable of being transported 600 or 700 miles, and it grows as it travels, suspended on a twig.

A Fidgety Age.

Repose of manner was considered at one time essential to the well bred woman, but this is an ideal long consigned to the past. Every one fidgets in these restless days, no one has time to sit still nor to listen for more than a minute at a time without being bored and showing it.—London Queen.

'PETS' KEEP LEAD

Driscoll was the hero of the day in the tenth. With the score 7-7 and none out, he drew a pass and was sacrificed to second by Joe Harter and Eddie Stallings, who had already connected with Clinton's delivery for a hard smash, stepped to the plate. The time had come and Driscoll knew it. But Eddie only sent a grounder to McCaffery. Driscoll had a lead and easily reached third and before McCaffery could realize the situation, the Plainfield first sacker had started for the plate. "Mac" winged the ball home and Driscoll slid—McCarthy tagged him but the "Old Faithful" was there first and the game was won.

The locals scored a three run lead in the opening round by taking the Somerville "Blues" off their feet by a burst of terrific speed. With one down, Hartman singled over McGee's head and was sacrificed to the keystone sack by Driscoll and then stole third. He started for the home plate and Clinton grooved the sphere to catch him, but Harter kept his head and batted the ball to the Somerville pitcher, who fumbled the pill. The result was that all hands were safe. Eddie Stallings then sent a hot one through second, scoring Harter and he himself stole second. Eddie came home when his brother drove a long fly into centerfield, which Wolfe muffed, but Brit Martin was an easy out and the tallying ceased.

Swanson came down the aisle of desire for Somerville in the first inning by stealing home after he had reached third while Gordon was being tagged out near the plate. The play was a pretty one and the cheers of the spectators were almost deafening. Another tally came across for the Blues in the third round when McCarthy went to first on the gift route, was sacrificed to second by Clinton and romped over the rubber on Gordon's swat into left field. In the fifth McCarthy tied matters by singling to center and taking second again on Clinton's sacrifice. He then came home when Gordon pounded the horsehide for two bases into deep left.

Plainfield came back with three in the sixth, thus getting a good lead. With one down, Joe Harter doubled to left and Stallings was passed to first. Harter made third on Clinton's error, while Eddie stole second. Then Bill Stallings walloped a single through short stop and two runs were chalked. Brit Martin sacrificed Stallings to second and the latter crossed the counting pan when Nelson hammered a clean one into left. Waller then hit a safety but Nelson was tagged out at third.

Somerville brought its total up to five in the seventh when three singles by Clinton, Gordon and Swanson were the means of producing two runs. Had it not been for Eddie Stallings, Somerville might have clinched the game right then and there. With Swanson on second and Gordon on third, Wolfe sent a long fly into left field which seemed to be traveling over the fence. Stallings sprinted hard after the aeroplaning pill and hauled it off the fence with one hook. He threw back to second and from the looks of things it was a double play, but Degnon thought otherwise. Gordon reached home on the fly, but McDonald was an easy out.

With none out in the ninth, "Red" Waller slammed the bounding sphere over the left field fence for a trip around the bags, but he made the journey alone except for the company of Dave Driscoll who went around to cheer him on. But Somerville had another rap, and rap they did. With Gordon out, Swanson singled and Wolfe gave the ball a ride over the centerfield fence to the tune of "Everybody Works but Waller." McDonald then singled and McGee followed suit, while Somerville money came to par value. But "Red" gritted his teeth and fanned Grimes and McCaffery and the suspense was suspended.

Manager Cawley, of the Somerville nine, has protested the game on the grounds that Driscoll had no right to run around the bases with Waller. But while the technicality is being decided, the Somerville fans can

WESTFIELD SURPRISED

In a game featured by timely hitting and sharp, snappy fielding, in which the element of luck at times made a prominent entry, the tail-enders of the Central New Jersey League downed Westfield at that place Saturday afternoon. The score was 4 to 3 and it was not until the last man was out that the game was decided.

The last out was a sensational catch by Bill Poole of McCabe's foul. Bill sprinted to the left field bleachers and leaning over the railing that divides them from the diamond, snared the ball. There were two down and one out on when the catch was made.

This play came as a garrison finish to a number of brilliant catches afield during the game. McCabe himself brought the crowd to its feet and caused it to empty its lungs by his one-handed snatch of McGrory's whale of a poke to left in the second. Jay Roberson was by no means only ornamental in the same garden. Jay raced for three fast riding wallops and clung to every one. They were all extremely hard catches and executed with neatness and dispatch.

Freddy Wolff is Bound Brook's new pitcher and he made an auspicious entry into league circles by pitching a cool, clever game, keeping the hitsmiths of the Mt. Ararat aggregation at all times in restraint. Sam Hope, considered by the mountaineers as pre-eminent on the mound, was driven from the box in the eighth. Hogarty replaced him and was no improvement, as Charlie Newhouse was by this time taking no chances for long hits and instructed his colts to nick the ball. Three nicely laid down bunts was the result, but they availed naught as "Silent Joe" Meehan popped an infield fly, McLoughlin was forced and Roberson fanned. The change of tactics took the defenders by surprise and coupled with two errors resulted in the filling of the bases.

Nolan was the big hitsmith of the game. His homer in the fourth brought in the first runs and his single in the eighth did likewise and was the last straw for Hope. Luck played a prominent part in the homer, but the bingle would have been good for three cushions without it.

The Bees drew first blood. In the fourth Meehan singled to right and was advanced by Roberson's sacrifice. Poole fouled to Lewis and then came Freddy Nolan with a belt to the left field fence. The ball hit a brace and bounded out of the lot, Nolan crossing the pan with Joe prancing on before. In the eighth two more came across. Meehan again singled, but was forced on Roberson's dribble to Howarth. Poole smacked a stinger to Howarth, which he juggled, and Nolan again brought them in with an earnest thump to centre. McGroary whiffed and Bollinger dribbled along the first base line for an easy unassisted out by Wilbur.

Westfield felt the plate for the first time in the sixth, when they tied the score. Howarth singled to centre and was forced by McCabe; Keene singled to left. Wilbur drove energetically through Wolff, the ball passing him like a cannon shot, scoring McCabe. Craig flew to Nolan and Pickering poled to right. An error in judgment by Bollinger, who threw to the plate instead of relaying the ball, let Keene cross the rubber with a wink to spare before Poole received Bollinger's spent throw. A single by Lewis and a double by Howarth brought in another in the ninth and the fans were howling for McCabe to bring home Howarth, but the best he could do was to furnish Poole the opportunity to convincingly make a great catch. THISTLES WON, 7-4

Scotch Plains bunched its hits in the fourth inning Saturday afternoon at High Bridge and scored five runs, which were sufficient to win the game from the Hunterdon county team. The final score, however, was 7-4. Warry MacLoughlin was in rare form and held the High Bridge boys to four scattered hits while the Thistles clouted Cliff Randolph's curves all over the lot for a total of 12 safeties.

Five singles and a triple in the fourth inning gave Scotch Plains the five runs which put the Plainers far in the lead. A cluster of hits in the first and third rounds gave the Thistles a tally in each while the best that High Bridge could do was to bring in two runs in the first and fifth.

Hand caught a great game for the Plains' aggregation and wielded the willow in good shape. Joe Alberts was the star for the Thistles with two hits, 3 runs, and 3 stolen bases to his credit, while Hoblitzel, who covered short stop for the Scotch Plains team, made a favorable impression. Elmer Walton was the chief slugger for the High Bridge boys, his three-base clout being a beauty.

Lively Doings in A. A. U.

Some lively doing are promised at the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic union, which is scheduled for September 18. The officers, from President James E. Sullivan down to Secretary-Treasurer Andrew F. Tully, will be -reelected, but a fight for election on the board of registration and handicapper is looked for. A majority of the committees now serving will no doubt be reappointed, although a number of changes are contemplated in the more important.

The Park Avenue Baptists took another game from the First Baptist team in the City Sunday-school League Saturday afternoon, while the Monroe Avenues increased their lead for the cup by swamping the supporters of old Trin. Interest was centered in the Baptist contest although small crowds attended both games. With but a few more games to be played the league race is not exciting yet for the Monroe Methodists have such a long lead that it seems almost impossible for them to be overtaken.

MONROES WIN AGAIN.

Trinity was no match for the Monroe Avenue Methodists on the Clinton avenue grounds Saturday afternoon and consequently the sixth straight defeat of the season was chalked against the Reformed players while the league leaders made it six straight victories. Neither of the Trinity pitchers were effective and the Monroes clouted the ball at will, gathering thirteen safties in all. Van Arsdale had the Trinity boys at his mercy and in the seventh round Brown went in the box and was also a puzzle to the tailenders.

PARKS WIN ANOTHER.

The Park Avenue Baptists, in one of the Sunday-school League games Saturday afternoon, showed they knew their lesson of baseball better than their adversaries, the First Baptists, and consequently defeated them by the score of 5 to 3. The game was a neck and neck struggle for a few innings but by the aid of a couple of wild pitches the Park Avenue boys were able to forge ahead and they maintained the lead.

Bailey, pitching for the First Baptists, sure did have the fates against him for a nicer game couldn't have been twirled, as he allowed only a couple of good wallops and walked one. VanZandt, on the slab for the winners, also delivered the goods in fine style, but his team-mates backed him up in better style than Bailey's did and that, in combination with his clever heaving, caused the First Baptists to wear the stigma of defeat. Trotter and Pomery, of the First Baptist, and Ricketts and Wilson, of the Park Avenue boys, were conspicuous for their speedy playing.

Fresh Air Home Service.

The Netherwood Fresh Air Home held another large meeting yesterday afternoon. Frederick H. Andrews spoke and his discourse was greatly enjoyed. Miss Madeline Metzler, a twelve-year-old girl at the Home, sang several solos and her work was creditable. The children's choir also sang. Tonight L. H. Bigelow, a former resident of this city, will speak to the children.

DUNELLEN SHUT-OUT BY FAST C.R.R. NINE

Dunellen lost the fourth game of the series with the Central Railroad of New Jersey nine at Dunellen Saturday afternoon in a close nine-inning struggle by the score of 1-0. Although the Dunellen boys outbatted their opponents, 5 to 3, yet the Centrals made one of their hits with a man on base and brought a tally across the pan. Ellersdrew a pass and stole second while Hanley was faning out and then Pender rapped a single to center, which brought the winning run home.

The Dunellen team had only one chance to score for Pender did not allow a man to reach third base. The opportunity for the Dunellenites came in the sixth when Shaw walked and Barnes hit to right but the lanky first baseman loafed on the way to the inital sack and was thrown out. Harney struck out and the run was lost.

Stein, who caught for the Dunellen team, put up a great game in the field, but was weak with the stick. Elliott, a new man this season, from New Market, continued his batting streak with two clean hits while Ben Brower also added a couple of singles to his record. Both pitchers were in form, especially Harney.

Manager Bogardus is arranging for a rubber game in the series between these two teams. Each side has won two contests this season and the deciding game will be played in the near future.

The score:

NEARING THE $300 GOAL.

Big Moose, N. Y., S. S. Adds $10.14—Mrs. Otto Arens Gives $10 and Phelps and Jack Mellick Add $5.00.

A handsome response to the appeal yesterday for $65.50 to bring the Baby Camp fund up to an even $300 was made today when a total of $25.14 was received at The Daily Press office. Following his annual custom, William D. Murray sent a goodly sized contribution in a letter from Big Moose, N. Y., which reads as follows:

"Enclosed please find ten dollars and fourteen cents for the Baby Camp fund. This is the offering made this morning at our Sunday-school. We meet in the hay loft of the barn, the only good sized room we have. People come in boats from the other camps, over fifty being present this morning. We are enjoying the splendid air of this lovely place so much that we are glad to send something to help in the good work of this camp in Plainfield."

Mrs. Otto Arens sent a crisp ten dollar bill for the worthy institution conducted by The City Union of the King's Daughters. The third donation came from Phelps and Jack Mellick, who added $5 to the fund.

LUCIUS H. BIGLOW TALKS TO FRESH AIR CHILDREN.

Lucius H. Biglow, a former resident of this city but now of Brooklyn, addressed the children at the Fresh Air Home last night. A large audience greeted the speaker and his talk was much enjoyed. Taking for his subject, "The Building of the Temple," he stated that Jesus lived in a temple in Jerusalem, that He now lives in our hearts, consequently we must keep our bodies and souls spotless in order to be a proper abode for the Almighty. He also forcibly impressed the children that a good life is the only one to lead. David M. Torrey, of this city, led in prayer and the children's choir sang several selections, accompanied on the piano by Clifford Braider. Tonight Miss Nettie Beeching will speak to the youngsters.

Turned Over Collector's Books.

Following proceedings which were started to get the books of John D. Bornmann, the former tax collector of Warren township, all the accounts of the office were turned over yesterday to Harry C. Zaiser, of South Stirling, who was recently appointed to the position of collector by the township committee.

Many Voluntary Bankrupts.

In opening a new bankruptcy docket in the United States Court at Trenton the clerk noted that since the passage of the present bankruptcy act 3,235 cases have been filed in New Jersey. In the early running of the law there were four voluntary cases to one involuntary.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY ON WOMAN'S CHARGE

Rocco Del Cadlee, of Warrenville, came down from his mountain home yesterday and after imbibing a quantity of wine, began doing some fancy driving on Front street. In an effort to execute a figure eight, looping one end around the traffic post at post at Park avenue, he knocked the post over and then drove upon the sidewalk to make a fresh start. Patrolman Meyers took a hand in the exhiibtion at this stage and said he would show how driving is done in Williamsburg.

The trip ended at police headquarters, where Rocco was put to bed on a waiffle-iron cot and this morning was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza who imposed a fine of $3 with the alternative of spending ten days as a guest of the county. Rocco paid and went to a livery stable for his horse, it having been taken there after he was locked up. Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, agent of the S. P. C. A., looked the animal over and had the court instruct Rocco to have it attended to as it was suffering from a cut on one leg, besides a saddle boil. He promised to doctor it.

WATCHUNG'S HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL PLANS

One hundred of the men and women of North Plainfield township gathered at the Improvement Society hall in Watchung last night to attend the regular meeting of the society and to enjoy the social time which followed the business session. President William de La Anderson was in the chair and made a public spirited speech, which was loudly applauded.

Three trustees of the society were elected last night as well as a member of the board of managers. Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, George Schmidt and William E. Patte were chosen as trustees and Howard T. Vail was elected to the board of managers.

In the course of the routine business, which included the ordering of several bills paid, the house committee made its report. It was stated that the wiring in the society's hall had been completed and that the building was now lighted entirely by electric lights. The completion of the offices for the township and improvement society officials was also reported to the members.

Plans for a harvest home festival for Watchung and the township were discussed. Charles E. Neier suggested that it would be appropriate for him and others, who are engaged in farming in the valley, to bring their produce to such a festival, which should be held during the last week in this month. President Anderson then said that the engagement list for entertainments in Watchung was filled for the entire month of August and that it would be well to wait for a few weeks. It was then suggested that the festival be postponed until the pigs, which are owned by Justice of the Peace George T. Hughes, become large enough to be driven to the scene of the festival, where it is expected that they will carry off several of the prizes.

After the meeting was adjourned the members of the society joined in an old fashioned social. "Mayor" John C. Cooper, of Mt. Bethel, had promised to attend the affair with his accordian and play the music for a dance in the society hall. Many of the young people in the vicinity had gathered for this gayety, but the Mayor sent word at the last minute that civic duties at home would prevent him from coming. Consequently the light fantastic did not appear on the program but everyone enjoyed the refreshments which were served by the women members.

In the course of President Anderson's speech, he pointed out the necessity for the improvement of the Warrenville county road, which was in a deplorable condition. He told of the amount of work which had been done on thus much used highway, but emphasized the fact that more money should be spent in repairing it. He also called the attention of the society to the much needed trimming of the trees along the sidewalk between Watchung and the Somerset street trolley station.

President Anderson announced that the list of entertainments in Watchung for the month was now complete with a festival and dance by the fire department on Wednesday, August 23, and a three-act comedy by the Watchung Dramatic Club entitled "Billy's Bungalow," in the township hall on Wednesday, August 30.

BOROUGH'S BOOMS

Two North Plainfield Democrats Aspire For Legislature Nomination.

MEETING THURSDAY NIGHT.

Republicans Also Have Lively Contests for Legislature—Councilmanic and Mayoralty Booms Are Started.

The interest aroused by the announcement of the public mass meeting to be held by the Democrats of the borough in Debele's Auditorium on Chatham street, Thursday night, received a fresh impetus today when booms for Elston M. French, of Somerset street, and William DeMund, of Somerville, for the Assembly and State Senate, respectively, were launched. They came close on the heels of one began last week for George E. Pace, of Millstone, as aspirant for the State Senatorial toga.

The entrance of Mr. DeMund and Mr. Pace puts four candidates for State Senator at the primaries before the Democratic voters of Somerset county. The other two are Samuel S. Swackhamer, of the borough, and Assemblyman George M. LaMonte, of Bound Brook. If all of these gentlemen persist in their intention to try and land the nomination it will make things very interesting and will doubtless be of assistance to William W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, who so far is the only logical candidate for the State Senate in the Republican ranks, Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen having been appointed a member of the State Board of Sducation and declared ineligible until after January 1 of next year, by the Attorney General. Senator Frelinghuysen emphatically declared some time ago that he had no intention of being a candidate again.

Since C. C. Wheeler announced his decision in not caring to accept the nomination for the Assembly on the Republican ticket, friends of William de laR. Anderson have started a petition in his behalf, he, next to Mr. Wheeler, being their choice as a standard bearer. The petition is fast finding signatures and will be filed with more than enough to spare within the appointed time, the "Mayor's" friends say, but this is a matter that will give the Democrats no concern at their meeting, so one of them remarked today.

Another matter over which they do not seem to be much exercised is the appearance of a petition for Edmund Rushmore, of Sycamore avenue, as a candidate for member of the Borough Council on the Republican ticket in place of W. L. Smalley, Jr. The latter announced several weeks ago that he would not accept renomination and friends of Mr. Rushmore started a petition in his behalf. It is understood that J. V. E. Vanderhoef has also been prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for Council and that his name is meeting with favorable mention.

Aside from the announcement made to the effect that either J. O. Osgood or J. M. Lewin is likely to be selected as the candidate for mayor of North Plainfield on the Democratic ticket, there will be no dearth of candidates for the two vacancies that will occur in the Council.

WALKS FOR 38 HOURS.

Marcus J. Barone, of Orange, left that city at 6 o'clock Saturday night and walked to Philadelphia without rest except for an hour's stop in Trenton. This message was received yesterday by the Orange Valley Civic Club, of which he is a member:

"Reached Philadelphia at 8:15 this morning. Left Orange Saturday, August 12, at 6 p. m. Completed walk in thirty-eight hours and fifteen minutes. Have walked continuously day and night except for one hour rest in Trenton. About exhausted."

Barone said he would do the walk in forty hours.

To Bridge Woodbridge Creek.

At a meeting of the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders yesterday at Perth Amboy, John C. Fowler, of Sewaren, Woodbridge Township, was awarded the contract for the erection of a steel and concrete bridge over Woodbridge Creek, between Maurer, a part of this city, and Sewaren. His bid was $1,960. The work of building will be started at once.

Warren Chapel Excursion.

The excursion of Warren chapel to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will leave this city Thursday morning at 8:15 and will leave the Asbury Park station on the return trip at 6:10 p. m. The trains will stop at the Netherwood station both going and coming.

AMEND BLDG. CODE

Two Changes Made in Regulations One For Oil Tanks and Other For Garages.

FINAL PASSAGE ON SEPT. 5.

An Amendment Made for S. O. Benefit—The Ordinance Provides Now Separately for Public and Private Garages.

The building code was amended twice at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, in one instance so that the Standard Oil Company will be able to erect two large oil tanks above ground on North avenue, one for gasolene and the other for kerosene. The company wants to abandon its tank on East Fourth street, and make provisions for carrying a large quantity of both kinds of oil. This could not be done without changing the building code.

The amendment provides that more than 250 gallons of such oil can be maintained in tanks above ground and not buried in tanks as heretofore required, but in such cases there must be erected a concrete wall seven feet high about these tanks; and all the other necessary precautions must be taken. It is proposed to erect these tanks on North avenue, where the corporation has acquired a tract of land.

The other amendment had to do with automobile garages, providing for those of a private and public character and differentiating between the two. These amendments were adopted on two readings and will come up for final reading at the September 5.

ROUTINE BUSINESS OF COMMON COUNCIL

The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted at the adjourned session of the Common Council last night, after City Clerk J. T. MacMurray included a resolution not appearing on the records. This resolution showed that W. A. Coddington was appointed counsel to the Board of Health, and it was not approved by Mayor G. W. V. Moy when sent to him. The resolution, Mr. MacMurray stated, had been returned without comment of any kind.

William H. Abbott and others petitioned for electric lights at Hillside and Martine avenues, Hillside and Evergreen avenues, Hillside and Kensington avenues and on Martine avenue. The matter was referred, as was also the petition from J. D. Loizeaux asking for permission to have some curbing extended one foot further in the street to avoid destroying a row of beautiful shade trees.

The Plainfield Park Associates asked the Council to improve Clinton avenue between the brook and Front street to correspond with the improvements on the borough side. This was referred. The Public Service Corporation notified the Council that six electric lights, as ordered, had been placed.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, the ordinance introduced on August 7, providing for the extension of the sewer system through Lenox avenue, Laramie road, Cameron avenue, was rescinded, and another one was substituted to include George street and Emerson avenue. A public hearing will be granted on the ordinance Monday evening, September 5, it having been passed on two readings. Mr. Gloak moved that Mrs. Esther Johnson and others be permitted to build a sanitary sewer on West Seventh street, to connect with the one in Monroe avenue, which was petitioned for, provided that the work be done under the supervision of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett. The motion was adopted. The ordinance providing for the repair of sidewalks was adopted on third reading on motion of Mr. Gloak.

Brutal Husband.

Louis Davis, colored, of West Third street, was arrested yesterday on complaint of his wife, who charged him with striking her in the face with his fist. Davis admitted hitting his wife but said it was with the palm of his hand. Judge William G. DeMeza, in the city court, imposed a fine of $3 or the alternative of spending ten days in the county jail. Davis paid and left the court with his wife whom he promised to treat properly in the future.

BUY CITY'S BONDS

Local Trust Companies' Highest Bidders, Awarded Two Issues by the City Fathers.

THEY AGGREGATE $74,000.

The State Trust Gets $40,000 School Improvement Bonds and The Plainfield Trust Obtains $34,000 St. Imp. Bonds.

The State Trust Company was awarded the $40,000 issue of school improvement bonds, and the Plainfield Trust Company secured the $34,000 issue of street improvement bonds at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night. Four bids were received. The Plainfield Trust Company's bid for the street bonds was $34,472.60, while The State Trust Company bid $34,086.67 for the same issue and $40,050 for the school bonds.

There were two other bids, that of J. S. Rippley & Co., of New York, $34,093.50 for the street bonds and that of the Plainfield Savings Bank of $34,085,14 for the street bonds and $40,000 even for the school bonds. Both issues are 5 per cent. interest bearing. The bids of The Plainfield Trust Company and The State Trust Company included accrued interest from date of issue.

Following a recess, Mr. Buxton offered a resolution awarding the two issues to the local trust companies. The street bonds run for a short period, while the school bonds are long time bonds, the issue terminating with the other school bonds now running. Mr. Buxton also offered a resolution, which was adopted, authorizing City Treasurer W. F. Arnold to issue temporary receipts, provided the engraved bonds are not ready at the time appointed for delivery, August 21. The checks of the unsuccessful bidders were ordered returned.

DESPITE DISAPPROVAL COUNCIL PAYS DEBTS

Three bills not approved by Mayor G. W. V. Moy were presented at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night by Councilman Herbert Buxton, having been sent to him by City Treasurer W. F. Arnold, and on his motion they were all paid, notwithstanding the action of the Mayor.

One bill was that of Alexander D. Ayers, overseer-of-the-poor, for $71.31, which included $66.66 for salary and $4.65 for incidentals. The other bill was from the Plainfield Cab Company for $10 for the use of a carriage to take fire hose to the horse show grounds while the horse show was being held and the third bill was that of Shirley & Johnston for $19, for a rug for fire headquarters, all of which Mr. Buxton stated had been ordered by the Council.

After reporting on the three bills, Mr. Buxton took each one up separately and moved that it be paid notwithstanding that Mayor Moy had not approved the bill. The claims were paid, all the members present voting in the affirmative.

Good Show at Proctor's.

"The Verdict," presented by J. J. Morrison and Co., is a wonderful protean sketch, with dramtic force to hold one's attention through the entire act. Mr. Morrison impersonates eight characters, who have some connection with a murder and are being subjected to questioning at the office of a chief of detectives. Hubert DeVeau, the clever cartoonist, whose pictures are most life-like, makes a hit. Rose and Adams, "The Doctor's Chauffeur," a comedy skit, is full of joy rides and explosions of laughter. "The Captivators," a ballet in which nine captivating maidens appear, in fancy and toe dancing, is a headliner. They are the prettiest bunch of girls that have ever played here. The Elks' parade picture will be shown here today and tomorrow. "Say, 'Bill,' don't miss them."

Ritz Luncheons.

The Ritz Company in the Babcock building, has inaugurated a new feature in its business this week, serving luncheons at any hour of the day in its candy shop. This service will be carried on in addition to the ice cream and candy business, which the company has conducted successfully in this city for the past two years. The luncheon department will be under the direction of an expert from New York city. It is the intention of the company to serve dainty lunches for shopping women and also for business men.

SCOTCH PLAINS MAN SOBERING UP IN CELL

While Detective Sergeant John Flynn is on his vacation his duties are being discharged by Patrolman Daniel McDonald. This morning Acting Detective Sergeant McDonald was on his way to investigate a matter that he had been assigned to by Chief Kiely, when at Park avenue and Seventh street he arrested George McCawley, of Scotch Plains, who was making a nuisance of himself by acting in a disorderly manner while under the influence of liquor.

The policeman placed McCawley under arrest but had to subdue him before reaching a call box to summon the patrol. The prisoner resented being deprived of his liberty and while waiting for the wagon again kicked up a rumpus when McDonald tried to hold him. When headquarters was reached McCawley refused to leave the wagon and again he felt the strength of the arm of the law. He was remanded for a hearing before Judge William G. DeMeza tomorrow morning, as he was not in a condition this morning to understand the gravity of his offense.

TOO MUCH SPIRITS AND SPIRITED HORSE

The trial of William Smith, of South Second street, who on July 22 entered the home of a neighbor at an early hour in the morning, was held this morning by Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court under $100 to await the action of the Union County Grand Jury. Francis J. Blatz appeared as counsel for Smith. Mrs. Gudgeon, the neighbor whose house was entered, was represented by Robert Newton Crane. The story as told by Mrs. Gudgeon differs from Smith's version of the affair although they agree in some essential details.

Alfred Gurgeon, husband of the complainant, was at Camp Wilson with Company K that night. Smith, who occupies the top floor on the opposite side of the double house, came home from work at 1:30 o'clock, and receiving no response to his knock at the front door of his home went around to the rear, but instead of removing the screen from a window of his home removed one from the window of the apartment occupied by the Gudgeons and went in.

Smith claimed in court that he was met in the kitchen by Mrs. Gudgeon, while she avers that she knew nothing of his presence until he had made his way to another room and had aroused her from sleep. Rushing from the room she called Smith's wife from next door to come and get her husband. Mrs. Smith complied. She testified in court that her husband was intoxicated, but as the window by which he had gained entrance is five feet from the ground, Judge DeMeza held that it would be quite impossible for a very badly intoxicated man to enter by that means and gave it as his opinion that Smith was aware of what he was doing.

MRS. E. C. CHAPMAN HAS PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Elsie Church Chapman, the widow of the late William H. Chapman, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her brother, C. M. Church, 710 East Front street. She had been ill for several years and for the past few months she had been in a critical condition.

Mrs. Chapman had lived in this city with her brother, C. M. Church, for the past twelve years, having come here from Brooklyn. Although Mrs. Chapman had been confined to the house for many years, she had many friends in this city. Surviving her are three brothers, C. M. Church, of this city; Eben Church, of Pelham, N. Y., and Samuel Church, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and one sister, Mrs. Mary S. Riggs, of this city. Funeral services will be held from the residence of C. M. Church Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

Welcome Rain.

A rain storm accompanied by a wind of some velocity and with terrific peals of thunder and flashes of lightning struck the city about 2:30 this afternoon. The humidity at noon was unusually oppressive. It was the first rain this month and will prove a blessing to the farmers.

TO CHILE TO WED

Miss Seaton Leaves New York Saturday to Become Mrs. E. L. Hegeman.

W. J. R. HEGEMAN'S SON.

Couple Met on Shipboard Three Years Ago and Culmination of Romance Will Take Place in South America.

When the steamship Trent, of the Royal Mail Line, leaves her New York pier Saturday morning, she will have as a first cabin passenger Miss Elizabeth M. Seaton, who, upon arrival of the boat at Colon will have completed the first lap of her journey to Iquique, Chile, where she will be married to Edmund L. Hegeman, son of W. J. R. Hegeman, of Sycamore avenue. Miss Seaton is a daughter of John Seaton, superintendent of Buildings of the Borough of Richmond, Staten Island. She expects to cover the whole distance in sixteen days and soon after her arrival the wedding will take place.

Mr. Hegeman and Miss Seaton had planned to be married early this summer, but the bridegroom found himself unable to leave his work in Chile, so the bride-to-be decided to do the travelling herself. Miss Seaton resides at New Brighton and was a teacher in the public school at that place. She met Mr. Hegeman on shipboard on a trip to Jamaica three years ago and they have kept up a correspondence ever since.

Mr. Hegeman is the second son of W. J. R. Hegeman and has been in Chile eight years. He is an engineer in the employ of the Westinghouse Electric Company and has charge of the electric railway and lighting construction work for his company in that country. He is a graduate of Union College, of Schenectady, in the class of 1899 and soon after graduation identified himself with the Wstinghouse Company. After several years of service in this country he was sent to South America and put in charge of the work contracted for there. He has made several trips to the United States and it was on one of these that he made the acquaintance of Miss Seaton. On subsequent trips he has been a visitor at her home on Staten Island and the culmination of their meeting and friendship will come upon the arrival of Miss Seaton at Iquique.

OCEAN GROVE TODAY SEES THE PRESIDENT

President Taft will speak in the Ocean Grove Auditorium tonight. The twin cities are decorating for the Presidential visit. Arrangements for the President's reception are in the hands of Representative John E. Andrus, treasurer of the Ocean Grove Association; Edward C. Stokes, of Trenton, and James L. Hays, of Newark. The President, as stated, will be accompanied by Secretary Hilles and Captain Butt. The Presidential train is expected to arrive at Asbury Park at 6:30.

While in Ocean Grove the President will be entertained by Mr. A. H. De Havens, member of the Ocean Grove Association, at his cottage in Ocean Pathway. The Red Bank troop of cavalry, Major Edwin Field in command; Captain Thompson and the Freehold militia company, and Captain Auten and the Asbury Park company, will escort the President and his party from the railroad station in Asbury Park and will perform guard duty at the Auditorium. The President will be taken to the De Haven cottage in an automobile. In another car will be United States Senators Briggs and Martine; Mr. Hays and Mr. Stokes. Two other cars will convey the newspaper correspondents. Seats will be reserved on the platform of the Auditorium for Governor Wilson, New Jersey legislators and Mayors of the Monmouth county municipalities. The Auditorium will be open to the general public.

Reports that attempts had been made by the man in charge of the President's entertainment to snub Governor Wilson were authoritatively denied last night. Dr. Wilson and his staff have been invited to all the public affairs, it is stated.

Motorcyclist Fined $5.

Peter Welsch, of Stirling, was arraigned in the borough court this morning charged with running his motorcycle at an excessive speed and without a muffler yesterday. He was arrested by Chief Marshal George Weiss and was fined $5 by Recorder Charles M. Dolliver this morning.

STATE TO HUNT NEGRO BURNERS

New York, August 15.—Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania, from the Waldorf, ordered a searching investigation of the lynching of Ezekiel Walker, a negro, who was burned at the stake at Coatsville Sunday after a mob of a thousand persons fought their way into the hospital at that place and dragged out the wounded victim from his ward.

"This outrage by the citizens of Pennsylvania is one of the most terrible that I have ever heard of," said the Governor. "I have ordered the State Constabulary to the scene, and after I am in possession of all the facts I shall see that proper action is promptly taken.

"The fact that this negro was not charged with attacking a white woman makes this lynching the more difficult for me to understand. He killed Edgar Rice, a watchman, who, I am informed, was very popular in Coatesville."

Residents of the town expressed a determination to balk the efforts of Sheriff Golden to arrest the persons responsible for the first burning at the stake in the history of the State.

As a result, Burgess Shallicross posted notices ordering all saloons and hotel bars to close. None will be allowed to reopen for business until the excitement has died down.

Despite the fact that there is opposition to Sheriff Golden's efforts to find the guilty perpetrators of the burning, both Coroner Myers and the sheriff declared that several arrests will be made.

They both declare that evidence has already been secured which will warrant the arrest of several leading citizens as the prime movers of the outrage.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were strong in New York yesterday.

O'TOOLE TO JOIN PIRATES.

Martin O'Toole, the sensational young pitcher of the St. Paul American Association team, who a few weeks ago was purchased by the Pittsburg Nationals for $22,500, left St. Paul last night to join that team. It was the intention of Manager Kelley, of the St. Paul club, to keep O'Toole until the end of the season, but Dreyfuss, desiring to have him at once, sent Billy Murray, head scout, there to plead with the local management, and they consented to let him go. O'Toole wound up his career in the minor league yesterday afternoon, when, pitching for St. Paul, he held the Kansas City team to three scattered hits and one run.

COBB LEADS WAGNER.

"Hans" Wagner, of the Pittsburg club, having played an even hundred games, leads the National League in batting, with an average of .359. Frank Schulte, the home run hitter of the Chicagos, has averaged .327.

In the American League "Charlie" Schmidt, of the Detroits, is at the top, with .429, but he has played in only sixteen games. Tyrus Cobb, who is second, with .419, has participated in 104 contests. There have been no important changes recently in the batting and fielding averages of the various clubs.

TO GATHER GOVERNORS. ON GETTYSBURG FIELD.

Gettysburg, Pa., Aug. 15.—The Governors of all the States in the Union, North and South alike, will be invited to join in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg on the battlefield the first three days of July, 1913.

It is the desire of Governor Tener that the veterans who fought the greatest battle in American history shall meet in friendly reunion and on the same soil where, half a century ago, they met in armed conflict. It is suggested that each State pay the traveling expenses of its own veterans to the celebration.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS IN FOUR WEEKS

Within a month the football season will be on in all the colleges in this country and already the schedules for the season have been announced. The games have been so arranged that intersectional and national championships will be more definitely decided this year, especially among the big college elevens.

Yale, Syracuse and Princeton will adopt the system of graduate coaching this year and the work will start before the middle of next month. The new game will again be played and everything points to a most sucessful season.

Plainfielders will have an opportunity to see some good college games within a radius of fifteen miles for the Rutgers team this year will undoubtedly be a speedy combination. Rutgers is scheduled to play Princeton on October 4 and on October 14 the boys from the Raritan will meet West Point.

The schedules of Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Cornell, Pennsylvania and West Point follow:

CIGAR FACTORY FOR RAHWAY.

Rahway, Aug. 15.—Representatives of the United Cigar Manufacturers' Company have been in town looking over the ground with a view of locating a branch factory here, and options have been obtained on several buildings which would be suitable for this purpose.

The United Cigar Manufacturers operate several factories throughout New Jersey, and a branch factory located in Rahway will be an important acquisition to the town. The company closed a big factory in Pennsylvania some months ago, which employed many hundred hands, and it is thought that the proposed new factory in Rahway is to take the place of the Pennsylvania establishment which was closed.

The firm has advertised for help and a tobacco stripping plant will be started as soon as enough applications for employment have been filed.

Mrs. E. M. Mosher, of Elmwood place, is detained at home by illness.

MOTOR TRUCK ENDS A 5,000 MILE TRIP

A large crowd, it is expected, will greet the "Pioneer Freighter" when it arrives in this city late this afternoon. This machine is a Saurer motor truck and it has received its name of the Pioneer Freighter because it is the first automobile truck to carry a full load across the continent. The 5,000 mile journey from the Pacific to the Atlantic was completed when the machine was driven up to the City Hall in New York city last week and a letter from the Mayor of San Francisco was handed to Mayor Gaynor. For the past six days the massive truck has been kept on exhibition in New York, starting today for the factory here.

Although the auto-truck had travelled over 5,000 miles of the roughest sort of country, crossing rivers under its own power, when the water reached above the hubs of its wheels, it was in excellent condition when it reached New York, the only damage having been done to it, was a broken spring. During the entire trip, a cargo, weighing 7,000 pounds was carried in the machine and its canvas top made it appear like the prairie schooner of old.

The five-ton truck left Denver, Col., on March 3, 1911, going from there to San Francisco, where it arrived on May 26. It was then shipped by rail to Pueblo, Co., since it had traversed this distance once and then started on June 12 for its run across the continent. A cargo of heavy hard oak planks was carried in order to build bridges across deep rivers and to strengthen weak roads.

The Saurer Motor Truck Company has been located in this city since March, 1910, but has spent its time thus far in perfecting the machines for the manufacturing of parts. These machines are now located in the Quincy, Manchester, Sargent Co.'s factory at Clinton avenue and West Front street, and the trucks are being built there now. They are being made under patents issued by the government of Switzerland to Adolph Saurer, of Arbon, in that country. When the plant in this city is put in full operation, the trucks will be turned out at the rate of one per day.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

"Jolly" John Larkins, who long has gloried in the title "the best American colored comedian in his line," is again happy in his choice of the vehicle that his managers have made for him. The new big musical comedy, "Royal Sam" is said to be rich in brilliant dialogue and tuneful melodies. John Larkins will be seen at the Plainfield theatre on August 24. "Royal Sam" will be produced here exactly as it was during its run in New York, where it comes directly to this city.

TAKING ADVICE.

There was a man that thought that he
Would build a house and in it dwell,
He said: "A triumph it shall be
Of art—I'm sure 'twill suit me well,
'Twill suit my helpful neighbor, too;
My heart with purpose now is filled
To let him tell me what to do,
Just how he thinks I ought to build!"

This builder toiled and raised a wall;
His neighbor came and saw it, then
Said he: "I like it not at all;
I'd tear it down and try again."
The builder put a window in;
The neighbor came again to see,
And said: "It's an artistic sin;
Alas, alas, it troubles me!"

And so this builder changed each plan
To fit his neighbor's free advice.
He surely was a patient man;
Some things he changed not once but twice.
At last the house was done, and then
The neighbor loved it, roof to shelf—
He killed this prince of easy men,
And went to dwell in it himself.

When is an Old Maid?

"Some day the marriageable age for women will be advanced from 20 to 30, and the old maid line will be changed from 30 to 40. When that time comes there will be surprisingly few divorces. The husband of whom we dream at 20 is not at all the type of man who attracts us at 30. The man I married at 20 was a brilliant, morbid, handsome, abnormal creature, with magnificent eyes and very white teeth and no particular appetite at mealtime. The man whom I could care for at 30 would be the normal, safe and substantial sort who would come in at 6 o'clock, kiss me once, sniff the air twice and say: 'Mm! What's that smells so good, old girl? I'm as hungry as a bear. Trot it out. Where are the kids?'"—From "Dawn O'Hara," by Edna Ferber Stokes.

Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council, of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Monday, the fourteenth day of August, 1911, an ordinance of which the following is a true copy, to wit:

AN ORDINANCE

To Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

Whereas, There has been constructed in said city a system of sewerage, and such action in relation thereto has from time to time been taken as is set forth in the several ordinances of said city relating thereto, and particularly the ordinances respectively entitled, "An Ordinance to Provide for the Construction of an Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved November 6, 1897, and "An Ordinance to provide for the Improvement of Sewage Disposal Works, Beds and Appurtenances, of the City of Plainfield," approved April 4, 1901, to which several ordinances reference is hereby made for greater certainty; and,

Whereas, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that a further addition, as herein described, to the system of sewerage already constructed, should be now constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided, and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine; therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that a further addition to the system of sewerage already constructed as aforesaid, be constructed in and for said city, under the provisions of the acts of the Legislature above referred to, including the necessary force mains, air mains, operating vaults, buildings, wells, motors, compressors, receivers and pumps, lifts or ejectors, with all the appurtenances required to complete the same, of the character, description, dimensions and material shown on plans adopted by the Common Council and filed in the office of the City Clerk which said plans are entitled "Sewerage System, City of Plainfield, N. J., Extensions and Pumping Station, 1911," and according to such further plans as the said Common Council may hereafter direct, in and through the following described streets, avenues, property, lands and rights-of-way described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

Lenox Avenue;
Cameron Avenue;
Laramie Road.

was presented, read and ordered to be considered and acted upon by said Common Council at a regular meeting thereof to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in said City of Plainfield, on Tuesday, the fifth day of September, 1911, at the hour of eight o'clock in the evening of that day, and at such meeting ample opportunity will be given to all parties in favor of or opposed to the improvement contemplated by said ordinance, to present their views with reference to the same in writing, or otherwise, as the Common Council may at that time direct, and public notice is hereby given of the intention of the Common Council to cause said improvement set forth in this ordinance to be made, and such persons or corporations as may object thereto, are requested to present their objections in writing at the City Clerk's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of this notice, or to the Common Council at its first meeting held after the expiration of the said ten days, and said Common Council at such meeting, to be held on the fifth day of September, 1911, as above stated, or afterward, may proceed to consider and pass such ordinance notwithstanding any objection.

By order of the Common Council.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

COLLINS ATTACKED

Former State Chairman 'Jim' Nugent Bitterly Flays Elizabeth Politician.

SAYS HE IS AFTER THE JOB.

Newarker Who Called Wilson Ingrate and Liar, Directs a Tongue Lashing at Military Official.

When asked what he had to say in reply to the denial of General Denis F. Collins, relative to the charges made by him involving the Elizabeth man, James R. Nugent, the deposed head of the Democratic State Committee, at his summer home at Belmar, declared that while he did not care to get into any further controversy with General Collins, because he did not believe the general worth it, he would comment on the denial by General Collins as published.

Despite what General Collins said in his denial, Mr. Nugent declared that he would stand by the statement made by him involving the treasurer of the State Committee, and he added that Collins was in a large measure responsible for the trouble in the committee, being prompted by his ambition to be chairman.

Regarding the statement made by him to the effect that it was through his efforts that General Collins was made brigadier-general by former Governor Stokes, Mr. Nugent said:

"Ask General Collins about the dinner he gave in my honor in the Hotel Stirling, in Trenton, immediately after he was made brigadier-general. He knows what I did to get him the position he now holds in the National Guard. He knows that he made an address at that dinner in the Hotel Stirling in which he attributed his election to my efforts."

Mr. Nugent was asked if it was not true that he practically made Collins brigadier-general because he (Nugent) threatened to tie up the appropriation bill in the House in 1907. Mr. Nugent replied:

"There is no secret about that. There was strong opposition to Collins, and, in order to pull away the opposition the Democratic members in the House threatened to hold up the appropriation bill. Of course, Governor Stokes did not want to see the appropriation bill held up and the opposition was withdrawn. That is how Collins was made brigadier-general. He knows who did it, and did not hesitate to attribute his election to my efforts and gave a dinner in my honor immediately after he got the position.

"I told Collins what I thought of him at the Coleman House in Asbury Park last Saturday. He shriveled up and appeared about that small." (Here Mr. Nugent indicated with his hands how small Collins appeared, and in actual measurement the size was about three inches in diameter.)

"He came out there on the porch of the Coleman House and called for police protection. His action was ridiculous. There was no violence shown, and to substantiate this fact I will refer you to a man who is well known in Elizabeth and a former member of the Democratic State Committee, Peter Egenolf. Mr. Egenolf was present on the porch with some newspaper men during the meeting, and he knows just what happened.

"Collins ran out on the porch and declared that he was in danger of bodily harm and he wanted police protection. Little 'Joe' Wright, of Newark, saw him. 'Joe' is a diminutive chap, but he saw the absurdity of the move made by Collins and he asked Collins what a great big brigadier-general like him wanted with police protection. Collins acted childish.

"It makes no difference what he may say in regard to the part he played in calling the committee together for the purpose of ousting me. It makes no difference what attempts he may make to cover up his position and to pretend that he was not concerned. He was the man who started the ball a-rolling. The general is ambitious, you know. He would like to be chairman of the Democratic State Committee. He wanted to be chairman, and he saw an opportunity to take a mean advantage. You know the developments.

"Two members of General Collins' staff were with me when I said what I said regarding Governor Wilson. What I said went back to the camp at Sea Girt the next day. The move to get the committee together was all hatched out in the tent of General Collins. Why, anyone who knows Collins knows his motives. He has been playing up to Governor Wilson. He saw an opportunity to make a strong play, he thought, and the letter of the committee to me followed.

"In regard to that letter I would like to say that the press of the State published it before I received it. It was on Thursday that it was drawn up and signed, and I did not receive it until four days afterward and until after the press of the entire State published it. According to Secretary Devereux, the letter was addressed to me in the handwriting of General Collins. I was not even shown the courtesy of receiving the letter before it was turned over to the papers of the State for publication. How that came about no doubt General Collins best can tell.

"I believe that the papers should be fair in reports, especially in reports regarding an incident such as occurred at Neptune Heights. The stories appearing in the papers were to the effect that I was in company with two women. That is true. But it was not stated that one of the two women was my wife. The other was her friend. It was a little party we were having in celebration of the presentation to me of a loving cup by some of my friends along the shore here. (Here Mr. Nugent showed a handsome gold loving cup suitably inscribed). Some of those in the party were jibing me about State politics and proposing toasts to Governor Wilson, the man who beat 'Jim' Smith, and to 'Governor Wilson, the man who beat "Jim' Nugent.' I voiced my sentiments and proposed a toast to the Governor. The next day at Sea Girt the story was magnified and ballooned, and if you have any political foresight, you can readily see why it was done, where it was done and who was the most interested party in the doing."

Mr. Nugent, just before the close of the interview, reiterated that he would stand by everything he said in his statement regarding General Collins, denials by the latter to the contrary notwithstanding.

NORWAY'S INCOME TAX.

It Reaches All Incomes In Excess of $83.08 Per Year.

How should you like to pay an income tax on next to nothing? If you were a Norwegian living at home and earning $134 a year you would be taxed on one-tenth of it if you were unmarried; on about one-twentieth of it if you were married and had no children. If you had children you still would be taxed on one-fiftieth of it.

With an income of $536 a year you would be taxed if unmarried on more than half of your income, if married and having no children on about 40 per cent of your income, having one child on about 37 per cent, two children on about 31 per cent.

Unmarried and having an income of $2,680 a year in Norway your income tax payment would be $421.22; married, with one child, $389.94; married, with six children, $355.17. All that you would get off your income tax (married) for having six children would be $66; all that you would get off by having five more children would be $44 and six bits!

Married or unmarried in Norway, you could escape paying an income tax only by having an income less than $83.08 a year. Think of paying an income tax out of earnings of $7 a month!—New York Press.

THEY PLAYED CHESS.

The Loser Afterward Learned Without Asking Why He Lost.

Baron Hengelmuller, the Austrian diplomat, a man famous for his chess ability, one day at a house in Washington met a young man whose name he did not catch when the introductions were made. Chess was the topic of the conversation by all those in the company, and presently the young man suggested diffidently that he would be highly honored if the baron would play a game with him.

The baron consented. They sat down. After a few moves the baron looked up from the table checkmated and found the young man reading a paper. The chessmen were placed again and, after not so many moves as before, the baron looked up to find the young man reading the paper and himself checkmated.

After his dinner the baron came back. He wanted another game, being somewhat chagrined at the ease with which he had been beaten. As he came in he found the young man who had played with him that afternoon blindfolded and playing against sixteen opponents at the same time. The young man was Pillsbury.—Saturday Evening Post.

Our Sleep.

As a race we sleep too little. An infant's life is nearly all sleep. Gradually as the child grows older the hours of sleep are shortened to half the day or about eight hours. Youth until the age of twenty is reached requires fully ten hours' sleep. Although nature demands fewer hours' sleep in summer than in winter, it has been proved that eight hours of sleep are required for the average adult in good health. By this, explains the Pittsburg Dispatch, is meant not simply eight hours in bed, but that amount of good, sound, restful sleep night after night. Our power to work is intimately related to our ability to sleep, and there is no more reliable indication of sound health than the capacity to sleep naturally, and the more active and energetic the waking life the deeper the sleep.

His Light Diet.

The actor's sense of humor is always uppermost. He will jest about his hard luck, his ill luck or almost anything that offers an opportunity for a joke. Generally, too, he has courage—the courage to smile when his heart is heavy. A comedian, who was known to be in desperate straits, was invited to a social gathering one evening. When the poor actor arrived he was seen to be thinly clad, although the weather was bitter cold. He looked also as if he had not had any too much nourishment for some time. The hostess greeted him cordially.

"I am so glad to see you," she said. "How well you are looking!"

"Yes," replied the comedian; "the wind has been very nutritious of late."—Saturday Evening Post.

A Kicking Deferred.

Aunt Clara (to her young nephew, who has just brought a bucket into the parlor where she is sitting)—Good gracious, Tommy! What are you doing with that bucket? Take it down to the kitchen at once. Tommy—I want you to kick it, Aunt Clara, 'cause I heard papa saying when you kick the bucket we'd get at the very least $25,000.

His Objection.

Mrs. Richquick—John, I want you to buy a new parlor suit. Mr. Richquick—Maria, I've been agreeable enough so far to get different clothes for morning, noon, afternoon and night, but I'm consarned if I'll change 'em every time I go into a different room.—Brooklyn Life.

Her Gain.

Mrs. Jones—Does your husband remember your wedding anniversary? Mrs. Smith—No; so I remind him of it in January and June and get two presents.—Harper's Bazar.

Feminine Ideals.

I look for the day when women will cease to be imitative, copying men, but will become completely, perfectly and proudly women.—A Woman's Letter in London Times.

The End at Last.

Miss Sparhawk believed in "having clothes appropriate to occasions," and she graded her wearing apparel with great care. She boasted, and with reason, that she could "get more wear out of a dress" than any one else in Canby.

When the garment was past its first, second and third stages of usefulness for public wear it was relegated to certain seasons of domestic stress, from which it passed eventually to the rag bag. One gingham, long dear to Miss Sparhawk's heart, had reached this last stage, and she acknowledged it one day to the village seamstress.

"Don't seem as if I'd had half the good I expected to out of it," she said wistfully. "'Tisn't but eight years since I had it made up. Two years I wore it Sundays; the next two, sewing circle afternoons; next two, when I went errands to the village, and these last two round the house, common. But now"—and she regarded the bundle sorrowfully before stuffing it into the yawning piece bag—"now 'tisn't even fit to hang out washing in Mondays."—Youth's Companion.

Powerful Paper.

A surveyor when inspecting one of the cottages under his care had his attention called by the tenant to a large diagonal crack in one of the walls, close to which they were standing, with the remark from Mrs. Hodge, "I am afraid, sir, as the old house be a-coming down, sir."

"We will see to this," said the agent, and, taking from his pocket a few strips of stamp edging, he pasted them transversely over the fissure so that he might on his next visit see whether the crack had extended and whether it was a settlement or not.

On his calling about a month afterward he found the pieces of stamp edging still remaining unbroken and, pointing out to the old lady that the crack had not opened any farther, was amused with this unhesitating remark: "Yes, sir, but who'd ha' thought as two or three such bits of paper would ha' held un together?"—London Answers.

The Tea Drinkers.

The chronic tea drinkers of this country are generally the kitchen girls and women who remain in the kitchen and in the house a great deal. The teapot is constantly on the stove, and the strong, stale brew, full of tannic acid and bitter extractives, is poured into the stomach at frequent intervals. Here we get not only the stimulation of the caffein, but the irritation of the tannin derivatives on the stomach mucous membrane. The sooner or later result is sleeplessness, an irritable, fretty disposition, nervous dyspepsia or even gastritis and constipation. Of course the treatment is to stop the cause, treat the insomnia, dyspepsia and constipation and give fresh air. Tea tasters show earlier than other individuals decay of the teeth. Children up to fifteen years should not drink coffee or tea regularly.—Journal of American Medical Association.

Osman Pasha's Daring.

One of the most gallant generals that ever surrendered to the enemy was Osman Pasha, the immortal defender of Plevna. Surrounded by an immeasurably superior army of Russia, Osman kept his flag flying for 142 days, inflicting a loss of 40,000 men on the enemy and losing 30,000 of his own garrison. It was only when both provisions and ammunition failed that he decided on that desperate attempt to cut his way through the investing army. The attempt, one of the most daring and resolute in history, failed, and Osman was at last compelled to admit defeat. So impressed, however, were the enemy with his valor that as he was carried wounded through their ranks they greeted him as a conqueror with cheers and presented arms.

Lincoln Told a Story.

At one time a friend complained to President Lincoln that a certain cabinet officer was administering his office with unusual energy with the hope of securing the presidential nomination.

"That reminds me," said Mr. Lincoln, "that my brother and I were once plowing a field with a lazy horse, but at times he rushed across the field so fast that I could hardly keep up with him. At last I found an enormous chin fly on him and knocked it off. Now, I am not going to make that mistake a second time. If the secretary has a chin fly on him I am not going to knock it off, if it will only make his department go."

The Clear Infinity.

That which we foolishly call vastness is, rightly considered, not more wonderful, not more impressive, than that which we insolently call littleness, and the infinity of God is not mysterious, it is only unfathomable; not concealed, but incomprehensible; it is a clear infinity, the darkness of the pure, unsearchable sea.—Ruskin's "Modern Painters."

Revenge by Proxy.

Celtic Stranger—Tim Hennessy has just bin arristed. What will yez charge to defind him? Very Young Lawyer—Ten dollars is my fee in police court cases. Celtic Stranger—Well, here ut is. I've had it in for Tim this long toime, an' 'tis worth tin darlars to git even wid him!—Puck.

Makings of an Artist.

He who works with his hands only is a mechanic; he who works with hand and head is an artisan, and he who works with hands, head and heart is an artist.—Ruskin.

Little things are little things, but to do little things faithfully is a great thing.

BUYING A VASE.

Wertheimer's Clever Coup by Which He Secured the Prize.

The late Charles Wertheimer when asked on one occasion what he considered to be his astutest business coup thought for awhile and then told how once when he was walking through a Brighton square he espied through an open window what he knew to be a priceless Chinese vase. He went to the nearest postoffice, examined a local directory and found the name of the resident. Then he called and asked for the gentleman and was shown into the study under the name of "Hamilton." He briefly explained that he was looking for a modest house in Brighton and had taken a fancy to this one. Would the gentleman entertain an offer for the place as it stood—"lock stock and barrel?"

The owner, a little nonplused, hesitated.

"If your offer is reasonable," interrupted Hamilton, "I will give you an extra thousand."

"Call tomorrow at 10:30, then," replied the owner.

Hamilton did and found him prepared to accept £18,000 for the twenty-two years' unexpired term and the contents of the residence.

Although this was well over market value, Hamilton at once closed, adding the extra thousand, according to promise. As, however, he afterward sold the vase for £35,000, his coup was unmistakable.—London Telegraph.

WHISTLER THE FIGHTER.

The Artist Always Took His Revenge In a Refined Way.

In "Whistler as I Knew Him" Mortimer Menpes, the author, has a good deal to say about Whistler the fighter and his quickness in resenting an affront. He is careful to add that Whistler was always refined in his methods:

While he was severe he was not actually brutal. He never treated his enemies in a coarse way. Any man who had offended him Whistler would rap sharply over the shoulders with his cane, and then by the time the sufferer had recovered the master would be in the next room explaining to every one how he had just felled his enemy.

Once he caught a man with whom he was for the moment enraged washing his face. Without a moment's hesitation Whistler dashed the unfortunate head straight into the basin of water, and while the foe was endeavoring to clear the soap from his eyes to see the cause of this sudden immersion Whistler was in the smoking room setting the men there in a roar with the account of his adventures.

When I first met Whistler he was in the act of searching for a man who had dared to criticise his Venetian etchings. "If you want to see some fun, Menpes," he said, "come with me." Fortunately the man had been warned and was nowhere to be found.

Slavery In Old Greece.

The Greeks were slave owners with a vengeance. All manual work was done by "barbarians," as the Greeks called those who had been captured in war. The greatest of the Greeks saw no evil in the institution. Aristotle is quite outspoken in his justification of slavery. A certain amount of mean work had to be done, he claimed, and "mean natured men" were intended to do it. The slaves in some of the Greek states outnumbered the freemen four or five to one. Manual labor came in Greece to be thought a degradation, suited only for beings who could not do the higher work. Even freemen who worked for wages were by Aristotle placed outside the constitution. And what was true of the Greeks was equally true of most of the other ancient nations.—Exchange.

Shakespeare as an Actor.

About the year 1590 one of the London companies received an addition in the person of a young man who was not only a skillful and useful actor, but who also possessed the accomplishment of being able to adapt older plays to the taste of the times and even proved to have the gift of writing tolerably good plays himself, though older and jealous colleagues might hint at their not being altogether original. This young man, whose capacities became of no slight use to the company and the theater, was named William Shakespeare.—From "A History of Theatrical Art."

Very Complicated.

Aunt Kate—What brings that young Mr. Stevens to the house so often? Mildred—Well, his mother's stepfather married a second cousin of my father's great-aunt. We're trying to figure out what relation that makes him to me, and it can't be done in one evening.—St. Louis Times.

Keeping Tab on Dad.

"What does your father do when you ask him any questions?" asked one small boy.

"He generally says, 'I'm busy just now; don't bother me,'" replied the other. "Then when I go out of the room he looks in the encyclopedia."—Washington Star.

Breaking the Record.

The Caller—I hear that you've been to a party, Mabel. Did you dance much? Mabel (aged eight)—I should say I did. I danced two quadrillions.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Labor—the expenditure of vital energy in some form—is the measure, nay, it is the maker, of values.—Holland.

CHATTANOOGA

By Captain F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association

"The Yankees air gettin' north right smart," the man replied. "Reckon th' air left Battle creek."

Mark argued that if this were true there would be confusion on that route and it would be better to take another. They were not far from the road leading from the Chattanooga pike north to Anderson, on which the Slacks lived. Mark concluded to take this road as far as Anderson, and then strike west with a view to reaching McMinnville on the other side of the mountains. Mrs. Fain left all to Professor Rhett, in whom she had perfect confidence, and on coming to the road in question Mark led the party northward.

The change of route was unfortunate, inasmuch as it would add another day to the journey. The departure from the Fain residence had been delayed by the preparations till nearly noon. McMinnville was a considerable distance over the mountains, and Mark knew they could not reach it that night. He remembered that they would soon pass the Slacks', and it occurred to him that it would be a capital place to pass the night, giving them a good day of twelve hours light on the morrow to pursue their journey. His disappointment at the delay was compensated for by the thought that he would likely learn something of Souri and Jakey, of whom he had heard nothing since he left them in the Chattanooga jail.

At last they drove up at the Slacks' gate. Mark handed the reins to Laura and jumped from the phaeton impatiently. Not seeing any one in the front of the house he proceeded to the rear. The first person he met was Jakey. He took the boy up and hugged him.

"Are you glad to see your big brother, Jakey?"

"Air th' corn ripe?"

Souri came out of the house, her big eyes glistening and her expressive face radiant with pleasure and excitement. She had heard nothing of Mark since he left her in prison. Mark seized her by both hands.

"You uns air safe. I knowed it," she said, almost in a whisper. She could hardly speak for joy.

"For the present, Souri, thanks to you."

Mark asked no questions then. He knew that they were safe and at home, and he hastened to inform them and the father and mother who came out to welcome him that he was with a party who was unaware of his true character, which they must not betray, and desired permission to stay in the house over night. Then he led them around to the gate. Daniel had meanwhile caught up, and the two vehicles were halted in the road.

"We will spend the night with these good people," said Mark. "They are quite willing, and will make us as comfortable as possible."

The party alighted and the horses were driven to the barn. Mrs. Fain and her daughter were given the room in which Mark had changed his clothes when he went through to the south, and Mark was assigned a bivouac on the gallery, or in the barn, or any other place he might select.

"What do you suppose it means, mamma?" she said.

"I fear," replied the mother, "that we shall be murdered before morning. These people are doubtless guerrillas."

An apology for a meal was carried in to Mrs. Fain and Laura, which they left untasted, preferring a luncheon they had brought with them in a basket. After supper Laura came out and begged Mark to bring Souri and Jakey to speak to her. She smoothed Jakey's tumbled hair out of his eyes and asked him if he remembered her. Jakey was about to reply in his usual fashion when he checked himself, and for the first time since Mark had known him answered directly. Souri stood eying Laura from the corners of her black eyes with a mingled expression of admiration and antagonism. Laura spoke to her kindly, but got only monosyllables in reply.

"I FEAR THAT WE SHALL BE MURDERED BEFORE MORNING."

After all were asleep that night Mark took Farmer Slack out into the yard, where they could converse unheard, and developed a plan he had conceived for Souri and Jakey.

"It is due to your son and daughter," he said, "that I am here at this moment, indeed that I am alive. I belong to a wealthy family and am wealthy myself. It only requires means to make a splendid woman of the girl and a fine man of the boy, for means will produce education, and education is the open door to a desirable career. I am going to leave with you a letter to my father in Ohio, which will contain an order for a sufficient amount of money to insure both Jakey and Souri an education. Take or send them north, present the letter, and you will find everything provided for you. Souri may not consent at once, but doubtless she will in time. Now I must have pen and paper."

"You uns is a good un, stranger. Y' treat us f'ar. Hadn't you better send the letter when y' git no'th?"

"No. I must write it tonight. I am by no means safe; my neck is still in a halter."

The man led the way to his bedroom, where the old woman was sleeping. There he produced writing materials, and Mark wrote an order which, whether he lived or not, insured the future of his two friends, his preservers among the "poor white trash" of Tennessee.

In the morning, after the pork and corn bread meal of the country, the travelers again got into the carriages. While they were standing before the gate prior to departure Mark saw Souri out by the well-house. He went there to bid her goodby.

"Souri," he said, "I wish there was some way in which I could show you the gratitude I feel toward you. When I think of my fate, had you not appeared in the nick of time to save me by your wit and daring and sacrifice, I feel that I would like to make some corresponding sacrifice for you."

"Laws, I didn't do nothen. Besides"—she leaned over the well and looked down into its depths—"you uns and me is too differ. You uns is a gentleman, and I air poor white trash."

There was an inexpressible melancholy in her tone.

"Souri," Mark went on, "I have made an arrangement with your father to make a lady of you. I can't make such a sacrifice for you as you have made for me; that is impossible; but I can do this if you will act with me and consent to the plan. I shall be off in a moment, and before I go I want you to promise me that you will consent. I am still in danger, and you must grant me this as perhaps a last favor."

The girl burst into tears.

"Promise."

"I don't keer what I do."

"Do you promise?"

"Yas, I promise."

With a pressure of the hand he turned away, and stalking to the gate got into the carriage beside Laura, Daniel and Mrs. Fain had started. Mark followed, and had gone but a short distance when he heard Jakey calling to him. He pulled in the pony and waited for the boy to come up. Jakey was holding something out to him, which, as he drew nearer, Mark recognized as the red silk handkerchief.

"Souri sent it ter y'."

"Tell her that I'll never part with it."

"'N I got the squirrel gun," said the boy.

Mark grasped the boy's hand and then drove on. Laura Fain leaned back on the cushions in silence.

CHAPTER XIV.

THOMAS GREEN AND WIFE.

MARK designed driving to Anderson, some twelve miles from the Slacks' house, whence he knew there was a road leading up in the mountains through a place called Altamont, some twenty miles farther, to McMinnville. He was informed by people he met on the road that Altamont had been recently occupied in force by the Union troops. With luck they might reach the Union lines, which would doubtless extend several miles from Altamont, that afternoon.

"Within six hours," said Mark, "I shall either be safe among Union soldiers or on my way back to Chattanooga."

Laura shuddered, but said nothing.

Mark found a very different condition of affairs at Anderson from what he had found along the road. The Confederates had some cavalry force there and more at Dunlap, five miles north. On the road he heard that General Bragg was at Dunlap, but with no troops save cavalry.

"I see it all," said the spy to himself. "The wily fox is confronting our forces with a handful of cavalry, while the two divisions of Cheatham and Withers are marching north behind him, and the main force has gone to Knoxville by rail on a line still farther east. No wonder our generals are puzzled and watching a line from Battle creek to Cumberland gap. If the Lord will only let me get through to carry this information, I'll never ask to live to go on another such expedition."

The party were stopped near Anderson by a picket. Mrs. Fain produced her pass and stated that the two behind were in her company. The officer took no especial care in reading it, and when Mark and Laura came up they got safely through without question.

Mark was now anxious about the picket which must be passed in a few minutes on the road leading west from Anderson. Mrs. Fain was still ahead and he hoped that all would go as well at the picket just passed. Not a word was spoken between him and Laura; both dreaded getting out of Anderson, but once past the next picket they would breathe easier.

When they reached it Mrs. Fain had been passed through and gone on. The officer in command, however, had read the pass carefully. He had not noticed any mention of Mark in it.

"Where's your pass?" he asked.

"Her pass didn't include you."

"Didn't it?" Mark feigned surprise.

"No."

"Oh, I forgot; mine and my wife's is separate," and he drew out the pass of "Thomas Green and wife."

Meanwhile Laura had turned white as a cloth. The officer read the pass, and would doubtless have let them go had he not noticed Laura's agitation.

"You'll have to go back to headquarters and get Major Taliaferro's order on that. He commands at Anderson."

Mark remonstrated. He argued that he would become separated from Mrs. Fain; he urged his wife's desire to reach her sick father. All in vain. He was told that the headquarters were only half a mile down the road and he would lose but little time. He made a virtue of necessity and drove back with apparent good nature.

The commanding officer had gone to Dunlap, five miles away, to pay his respects to General Bragg, and would not be back for an hour or two.

Mark resolved to report his absence to the officer of the picket post, in the hope that he would not be compelled to wait. He drove to the picket and used his tongue persuasively, but to no purpose. The more anxious he seemed the more resolved grew the captain.

There seemed to be nothing to do but return and await the arrival of the commanding officer. Mark reluctantly turned the horse's head and drove back to headquarters. Laura's heart sank within her.

It was sunset when Major Taliaferro, a pleasant looking man of twenty-seven or twenty-eight, rode up to the door and entered the office.

"Major Taliaferro?" asked Mark.

"At your service, sir."

"Major, I have been detained by the officer at the picket, who wants your name on my pass. My wife's mother has gone on, and her daughter is very anxious to join her. It is extremely unfortunate for us to get so far separated from Mrs. Fain."

"Fain, of the Fains of Chattanooga?"

"The same."

"I have heard of the family, but have never had the pleasure of meeting any member of it. One of my friends is engaged to Miss Fain. I have just parted from him at Dunlap."

Mark and Laura cast a quick glance at each other—a glance of terror on the part of Laura.

"We are fortunate in falling into your hands," said Mark, "and I beg you will not delay us a moment." And Mark handed him the pass.

"Certainly not." And the major took up a pen to write his indorsement. First he read the pass carefully. He was thinking of what his friend Fits Hugh had told him of the Fains. He was under the impression that there was but one daughter.

"Mr. Green," he said, looking up from the pass, "hadn't you better stay here over night? The road is mountainous and infested by guerrillas. It is positively dangerous to travel."

"By no means. What would Mrs. Fain think of our not joining her on the road?"

"It is dangerous for her as well as you. I'll send a messenger after her and advise her stopping at some farmhouse. I'll do better than that. I'll send a corporal and half a dozen men to insure her safety till morning."

There was something in the man's tone, polite as it was, that indicated to Mark that he was held for further information.

"As you please, major."

"And I shall insist upon your accepting my hospitality. One connected in any way with my friend Fits Hugh must not want for any comfort I can supply."

The house occupied by Major Taliaferro belonged to a family who had gladly given up a portion of it for the safety insured by the presence of a commanding officer. The major was given a room down stairs for an office, and a bedroom up stairs. When it was decided that Mark and Laura should remain he gave Mrs. Green, as he called her, the use of the latter for the purpose of arranging her toilet before supper.

When Laura was up stairs Mark was looking out of the window of the major's office. He saw the men ride off to overtake Mrs. Fain. To his consternation another cavalryman, with a letter in his belt, mounted his horse and dashed down the road.

Laura came down at that moment, and Mark said to her anxiously:

"I am detained on suspicion. I shall be taken back to Chattanooga," and he pointed to the courier.

The color left Laura's cheeks. They had got so near to safety, and now, after so many dangers, the end was at hand. She could scarcely sustain herself as she tottered into the room occupied as the office.

This is the letter the courier bore northward. It was addressed on the envelope to Captain Cameron Fits Hugh, near Dunlap:

Anderson, Aug. 29, 1862.

My Dear Cameron—A man purporting to be Thomas Green, with his wife, formerly a Miss Fain of Chattanooga, is here, desiring a pass to the Union lines. There is something suspicious about the man. The couple are separated from the wife's mother, and the father lies very ill at Nashville. I dislike to detain them, and I do not regard it safe to pass them. Can you help me out of the difficulty? Yours very truly,

WALLACE TALIAFERRO.

(To Be Continued.)

And Some at Much Less, for We Simply Must Sell It, and Quickly

It is all because these pieces and suites are in patterns that we do not expect to duplicate, or are odd pieces left from suites, that we cut the prices so drastically. For us to cling to them would be poor business, even tho we know they are worth every dollar they have been marked, for room to us is precious and we must have every inch of space we can gain for incoming fall stock, and the loss we take on these odd pieces will really prove a gain in the end. But you can profit immensely by taking advantage of the situation. You can save half and more on any piece you buy.

A Fumed Oak Bed, worth $33.00, will be cut to $16.50.
A $13.50 Oak Costumer, worth $13.50, will be re-priced $6.50.
A $15.00 Book Rack will go at $7.50.
A Satin Walnut Bookcase, that was $38.50, may be had for $19.25.
One $35.00 Cellerette is re-priced $17.50; a $19.00 Cellerette at $9.50.

CAMELS IN A RAGE.

When Roused These Usually Patient Animals Fight Like Fury.

The usually patient and submissive camel, like the proverbial worm, will sometimes resent an overdose of abuse. Too dense to think of a way in which he can outwit his driver and so take him unawares, when roused to the pitch of fury he rushes at the tyrant open mouthed, and his formidable teeth and powerful jaws do serious damage.

Of this vindictiveness the camel driver is aware and of the certainty that sooner or later the camel will seek revenge. Accordingly it is customary for the person who fears his malice to throw his clothes before the camel, meanwhile hiding himself until the animal's fury has been expended in tossing and tramping on them, when the injury, real or supposed, is at once forgotten.

The camel will not identify himself with his driver or rider in the smallest way whatever. He steadily declines all advances. His eye never lights up with love or even interest at the approach of his master. Should you attempt to pat or caress him he will object in a very decided manner.

Good treatment or bad makes no difference to the camel. Life and its hard conditions are taken for granted. His view of things is far too serious. He is so absorbed and preoccupied that he has no time to waste in the gambols indulged in by all other young animals.—Harper's Weekly.

A PLEASANT MEETING.

It Is Nice to Find a Friend Who Scatters Sunshine.

"I don't like people who are always coming to me for sympathy."

"They do get tiresome, but I prefer them to the ones who come boasting of their successes and trying to make me dissatisfied with my lot."

"Oh, I don't mind that kind. They never worry me any. I am always so successful myself that I never have cause to envy them. And, speaking of success, I made $500 last week in a little real estate deal, and my boy has been making a great record in school. He's away ahead of all the other boys of his age, and my wife has a maid now who is the best girl we have ever been able to find—the best one in our neighborhood, in fact. How is your boy doing now? I heard some time ago that he was inclined to be rather wild."

"Please don't mention him. I'm afraid he is going to bring sorrow upon us. You always were lucky. I guess I'll have to lose the little home I've been paying on during the past eight years, all on the boy's account. My wife has had to quit keeping help, although her health is very poor and"—

"Well, goodby. I've got to be going. Cheer up. What's the use of being grumpy? Look at me. You'll find, if you try it, that it pays to scatter sunshine."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Story of a Nail Keg.

A hundred years ago Jeremiah Atwater was a leading New Haven merchant, buying his supplies in Boston and receiving them by vessel. Among other goods received were several casks of nails, one of which on opening it under a layer of nails at each end was found to be filled with silver dollars. Mr. Atwater, who was a conscientious man, immediately wrote to the Boston merchant that there must be some mistake in the invoice of nails, as one of the casks contained other articles besides nails. He was promptly informed that the nails were bought for nails, sold for nails and nails they must be. Forthwith Mr. Atwater had a basin made of the silver and presented it to the Center church, where it has been used in the baptismal service from that time to the present.

Art and Nature.

Art is the revelation of man, and not merely that, but likewise the revelation of nature speaking through man. Art pre-exists in nature, and nature is reproduced in art. As vapors from the ocean floating landward and dissolved in rain are carried back in rivers to the ocean, so thoughts and the semblances of things that fall upon the soul of man in showers flow out again in living streams of art and lose themselves in the great ocean, which is nature. Art and nature are not, then, discordant, but ever harmoniously working in each other.—Longfellow's "Hyperion."

Illuminating.

"Could I interest you in our orange grove proposition?"

"Nope; I have already put all my money into a fruit orchard.

"Yes; I have just done Europe."

"Can you give me a list of hotels to go to?"

"No; the best I can do is to give you a list of hotels to keep away from."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Hardness of heart is a dreadful quality, but it is doubtful whether in the long run it works more damage than softness of head.—Roosevelt.

SPORTS

News and Notes

BASEBALL.

Consolation thought for today—Somerville's protest will not amount to much.

Those Somervilleites tried the Chicago trick Saturday and what a difference it does make if they be up or down!

Dave Driscoll, you're a regular Merkle! But you touched second, anyway, and then some!

That Somerville-Plainfield game was just a dash around the bases and the Pets were the speedier in the long run.

But while on the subject it would be well to mention some of those Somerville players. There's that Gordon, who covers left garden. He was the terror of the day for "Red" Waller for he clouted safely five times out of six trtps to the plate. Two of these swats were doubles and the other three were of the one base variety. Nevertheless they were sufficient to make the Peerless Red worry just a bit.

Swanson is also some baseball artist. When the team is on the field he is to be seen on third base but when the side is at the bat Swanie is there like a duck. Saturday he banged Waller for four singles, a sacrifice, and a long fly to Cosgrove. He stole three bases, one of these being down the hallway of fame and he scored two runs. Four chances came his way in the field and he nabbed every one.

If it had not been for the steady work of Walter Nelson behind the bat Saturday, the result might have been quite different. Old Big Six handled all of Waller's curves in great shape and more than once nabbed speedy wild ones in the pinches.

Coming down to sociology and morality in baseball, however, it would be well for certain members of the Somerville team to learn to control their tongues. Foul words count as strikes against the reputation of a club and tend to lessen the true spirit of sport in the league. If improper language is used on the field it will make a large difference in the attendance at the games, especially with the fairer sex. Manager Dorflinger is to be congratulated on having a team of gentlemenly acting players to represent this city.

In days gone by when the Crescents were the talk of Plainfield it was quite the proper thing for all the first families in the city to go out to the ball games and especially to the game with the West Ends of Somerville. Now the idea seems to have changed although a few of the so-called society are loyal to the National game and support the home team. If an interest in the local team was manifested by more of the Plainfield people there would be much more life in the Central League. There is plenty of good fast baseball to watch and the majority of the players conduct themselves on the field as gentlemen.

Did you ever see a team changed more than the Pets with the addition of a speedy player? Lou Hartman put a snap and ginger into the local nine Saturday which seemed to be lacking in the last few games. Lou was everywhere at once and kept everyone on the jump for he whooped it up with a whoop la, la!

Possibly George Firstbrook will change his mind. He stated in his Westfield paper that The Daily Press would have to vary the caption, "Pets Win Again" after Saturday's game. Drive on Fozzy.

Manager Joe Alberts, of the Thistles, has landed a star in Hoblitzel on short stop, as was clearly shown in the High Bridge game.

But speaking of catches—how about that nab perpetrated by Eddie Stallings from the Somerville fence! Set them up in the other alley it should have been a double play.

Any more homers, "Red?"

VARIOUS SPORTS.

A great feature of the Olympic games at Sweden next year will be the exercises of the various singing societies. The choruses to the number of 4,000 will each day render the national and other airs of the different countries. The singing will be competitive.

Tex Ramsdell, the University of Pennsylvania sprinter, is back in England from Germany. He is touring Europe and wherever there happens to be a meet worth attending he enters. His stay in Germany was very short after Rau, the German champion, showed Tex his heels. Photographs of the race show that the German won very easily, so that he will be a tough customer to tackle in the 100-meter next year.

Fred Thompson's victory in the contest for the all-around amateur championship of America, which was held on Marshall Field, Chicago, last Saturday, did not come as a surprise. It was more or less expected, as Thompson captured the title last year and he had very little class against him this year. Thompson is a theological student in Princeton Seminary and his home is in California. He rolled up a total of 6,709 points Saturday. His nearest competitor for the title was J. W. Donohue, a hitherto unheard-of athlete, who scored 6,209 points. Notwithstanding the fact that the ground was in a poor condition, Thompson lowered the figures for the half-mile walk. He covered the distance in 3 minutes 40 seconds.

Martin Sheridan, the great all-around champion, is coming out of his shell to prepare for the senior meets. The Irish-American A. C. star says he has had enough vacation, attributes his increase in avoirdupois to the long stay off and will for the next couple of weeks settle down to hard training and get back into shape. Trainer Lawson Robertson has entered Sheridan in the shot-put and discus for the big games. Sheridan has not put the shot in so long that he himself believes he has forgotten how to hurl it. But that's all bosh. He can put the weight just as good as ever, and only a few trials in practice will convince him that he is still there.

Girls Beat Men In Baseball.

Maplewood, N. H., Aug. 15.—Dr. Dudley P. Tenney and John F. Lynch of New York umpired the most exciting baseball game of the season yesterday on the Maplewood Country Club diamond, when the young women of the hotel played against a team made of men who wore ballet costumes, draperies of lace curtains and other grotesque costumes. The score was 2 to 1 in favor of the girls. The winning team included the Misses Atwood, Agnew, Moon, Meeker, Smith, Skinner, Bachellier, Garland, Rothschild, and Mrs. Bragdon, all of New York; and a dinner was given in a private dining room in honor of their victory following the match. The number of unique favors and place cards with lavish floral decorations given by Mrs. Leon H. Cilley made the dinner the most notable function of the week.

Lidgate Signs With High Bridge.

Eugene Lidgate, who has been catching a la Elbert Hubbard or every little while for the Scotch Plains team, has been signed by High Bridge and will appear with that aggregation for the first time Saturday against Bound Brook. Lidgate is a speedy backstop and resides in Fanwood. He was the catcher on the Plainfield High School nine for two years and then went with Dunellen. He is sure to make good with the Hunterdon county team.

LABORER MAY BE HEIR TO $300,000 FORTUNE.

Bradley Beach, Aug. 15.—Through the reported death of a sister in Europe, James B. Bowne, a laborer, living at 408 Park place, expects to receive a fortune of $300,000.

The sister was Miss Sarah A. Bowne, seventy-five years old, who left her home in Jamesbury sixty years ago. Miss Bowne became a trained nurse, and for many years was connected with St. Luke's Hospital, in New York.

For several years Miss Bowne went abroad with a wealthy Yonkers family, and it was while on one of these trips that she died, according to the information received by her brothers here. She had invested her earnings in Brooklyn and it is said that she owned several large houses in that city, besides other property.

The information of his sister's death reached Bowne through one of his sons, Henry J. Bowne, of Dean's Station, who is a foreman of a section gang on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Henry Bowne declares that he read an account of his aunt's death in a New Brunswick paper, and it was stated that the next of kin was her brother, James B. Bowne, of this place.

TAG DAY RECEIPTS $3,000.

Asbury Park, Aug. 15.—While all the returns from tag day are not in it is believed that the collections will amount to at least $3,000.

From 7 o'clock Saturday morning until 7 o'clock at night the taggers were at work, and the work of counting the money began soon afterward. The receipts will be divided between the Ann May Memorial Hospital at Spring Lake and several local charities.

FOOTPADS BEAT AND ROB WOMAN

Brutally attacked by two unidentified men speaking Russian, with her clothing torn to shreds, and her stocking thrust into her mouth as a gag to keep her from calling for aid, Bella Cohen, seventeen years old, of 118 St. Mark's place New York city, was held up, robbed and assaulted in fashionable Saybrook, a suburb of Elizabeth, late Saturday evening. Her assailants escaped, but in going over the ground Sunday morning, County Detective John A. Galatian obtained complete evidence, which, it is believed, will disclose the identity of the perpetrators of the crime.

After robbing her of jewelry and a purse containing $8 in money, the men dashed across the fields toward Elizabeth. During the early morning hours of Sunday, after having lain unconscious for over seven hours, the girl released herself and started toward her cousin's home.

In her weakened condition and with fear, almost unrecognizable from the brutal attack, she proceeded but a short distance, when she was overcome and sank to the roadside, where she was found later by her cousin's husband. She was removed to the Katz home and physicians were summoned.

The girl's condition is extremely serious, and it is not thought possible that she will be removed to her home in New York for some days. The countryside is thoroughly aroused, and police from all neighboring sections are hunting for her assailants.

HATPIN INJURES EYE; MOTHER'S ODD WARNING.

Asbury Park, Aug. 15.—Thirty-six hours after her eye had been injured by a hatpin while she was on the boardwalk Miss Mary Mitchell, a cousin of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the author, received a postal card from her mother admonishing her to be careful and avoid just such an accident. Miss Mitchell, who is a patron at the Florida, on Seventh avenue, is the daughter of Dr. Alexander Mitchell, of Monkton, a suburb of Baltimore.

The young woman was on the esplanade Saturday night with her sister Josephine, when a woman brushed by. As she did so she turned her head and her hatpin caught Miss Mitchell in the left eye. She screamed with pain and was hurried to her hotel, where she was attended by Dr. W. W. Beveridge. An ice pack was applied to the injury and it is not thought that the young woman will lose her sight.

The postal card from her mother stated that the writer had read in a newspaper how a hatpin had pierced a man's eye and that in consequence he might lose his sight. Mrs. Mitchell had not been informed of the accident to her daughter.

BALLOON JUMPER WENT THROUGH HOTEL SKYLIGHT.

Atlantic City, Aug. 15.—In a parachute drop from a height of 2,500 feet, made difficult by the failure of the umbrella-like contrivance to work properly, Charles Bennett, a young aeronauh, came down upon the glass roof over the dining-room of the Marlborough-Blenheim and crashed through, Sunday afternoon. At first it was thought he was fatally hurt, but at the hospital it was found he had escaped with cuts and bruises and will recover.

A layer of glass in a dome over the middle of the dining hall arrested his fall; otherwise he would have dropped twenty feet further to the floor among the startled diners.

As it was, the crash overhead made those who were at dinner think the roof was coming in. Bennett was taken to the City Hospital.

Auto Licenses In New Jersey.

Beginning with September 1, automobilists who may be required to obtain registrations in this State may do so upon payment of one-half the regular fee, the license to be valid until January 1. This law was enacted by the last Legislature, and is like that just passed in New York State. Heretofore persons applying later than September 1 were required to pay the full year's fee. It is not thought the State Motor Vehicle Department's revenues will be decreased by the new statute. Already 30,000 registrations have been taken out, and the total amount to be alloted to the State Highway Commissioner will exceed $350,000.

THREE ARE KILLED IN FIGHT OVER A WOMAN.

Indiana, Pa., Aug. 15.—Love for a young woman resulted in a free-for-all gun fight Sunday, in which three men were shot to death, another was mortally wounded and the woman involved was severely wounded.

The dead are: Valdo Aronoco, thirty-three years old; Antonio Lasarri, twenty-eight years old, and Pietro Matalli, twenty-five years old.

Ben Petrollo, twenty years old, was shot through the breast near the heart and will die. Marie Bartino, eighteen years old, received a bullet in the left leg; will recover.

The shooting occurred at Whisky Run, a mining settlement near Saltsburg.

TEN ARE INJURED IN TROLLEY CLASH.

Camden, Aug. 15.—In a head-on collision between trolley cars at a single track layover signal at Magnolia, ten miles from here, early yesterday morning ten persons were injured and the cars reduced to splinters. The motormen and conductors jumped before the crash came, but Frank Hassart, thirty-five years old, of Gloucester City, conductor, sustained a broken collarbone and fractured skull. Physicians say he will die.

Frank Berringer, fifty, of Philadelphia, conductor, is in a critical condition from a fractured skull and other injuries. The accident was due to dense fog.

SPLIT OVER CARNIVAL.

Asbury Park Mayor Trying to Make Peace.

At a special meeting of the Asbuty Park carnival association this week the antagonism between President John W. Aymar and Publicity Director Denegar will be taken up. These two are working against each other and have had great trouble in arranging for the various events scheduled in connection with the baby parade and coronation.

Mayor T. Frank Appleby has tried to keep out of the affair, but it is known that he has privately counseled peace.

Paul R. Collier returned yesterday from a week-end spent at Belmar.

P. B. Hodge and family returned yesterday from a stay at Asbury Park.

PERSONAL.

Misses Jessie and Ethel VanNest, of Liberty street, are spending a two weeks' vacation at Asbury Park, where they are registered at the Lake View.

Miss Ella Miller, of Rahway, who has been visiting the past week with her aunt, Mrs. John Lant, of West Third street, is now visiting her aunt, Mrs. Abe VanCleaf, of Elm place.

Mrs. William Baker and daughter Edna have returned home after spending one week at the cottage of Mrs. Henry Griffen, of Ocean Grove, and left last night for the mountains to finish their vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Crawford, of West Front street, accompanied by Martin B. Stutsman, Miss Helen Whitney and Miss Dorothy Whitney, left yesterday in Mr. Crawford's automobile for a trip to Culver's Lake.

Rev. Dr. Walter T. Swaffield, of Lawrence, Mass., who preached eloquent sermons at the First Baptist church Sunday morning and at the union service in Trinity Reformed church last evening, was entertained at the home of Rev. Charles E. Nash, Valley road Watchung.

ESCAPED LUNATIC CAUGHT.

Summit, Aug. 15—His pockets filled with cornoobs and coal and carrying two handkerchiefs filled with coal, a man, later learned to be Anton Yeager, who escaped from Morris Plains Insane Asylum last Thursday, was found in the freight yard of the Lackawanna Railroad near West Summit Sunday.

Yeager was taken to the police station. The man raved continuously. He was taken back to the asylum.

JAIL DELIVERY IN CAMDEN.

Seven of 15 Persons Saw the Bars and Take French Leave.

Seven men escaped from jail at Camden yesterday. The prisoners, who were serving from ten to twenty days each for minor offenses, sawed the iron bars of a large cell.

Eight other inmates refused to join in the flight, though invited to go. Firemen of an an engine company near by saw the men running from jail and notified the police.

WAS HEARD BY 8,000 PEOPLE.

Governor Wilson Attends Massmeeting But Was Not Invited to the Dinner Though Stokes and Murphy Were.

President Taft last night at Asbury Park made good his intention to carry before the people the fight between himself and the Senate committee on foreign relations to save the Anglo-American and the Franco-American arbitration treaties from the emasculatory amendments which the committee recommended last week. Mr. Taft's audience in the Auditorium numbered about 8,000 people. Governor Woodrow Wilson welcomed the President to New Jersey.

Mr. Taft faced squarely the criticism directed by the Senators against the arbitration treaties—that they infringed upon the prerogatives of the Senate and limited their treaty-making power. He advanced the power of the Executive in this regard as equal to that of the Senate, and said that the Senate should give its pledge equally with the Executive to secure the peaceful settlement of disputes.

"I am convinced," said the President, "that longer consideration will satisfy the members of the Senate that the chief objection, which seems to be made to the third clause of the treaty, has no weight in it whatever."

"I believe in arbitration to the point that I am willing to arbitrate anything in which I believe I have a good cause, and if I don't believe I have a good cause I wish to give it up in advance of arbitration."

Mr. Taft then defended his course in proceeding with the negotiating of the treaties without taking the Senate into his confidence. This has aroused considerable ill-feeling in the Senate.

Mr. Taft said: "The foreign relations committee of the Senate has stricken out the third clause, vesting the commission of six commissioners, three from each side, with the power to determine whether differences are arbitrable within the meaning of the first section and to bind both countries when the vote is five out of six in the commission to the acceptance of a judgment by arbitration upon such issue. I think this is a very important part of the treaty. I think it is one of the pledges of good faith in entering into the treaty that is essential to make it a step forward in the adjustment of international controversies."

The President reminded his audience that if the country were to go in for arbitration it must play the game, take its defeat with equanimity even when desiring victory and abide by the decision of the court, which could not decide a case very well without hurting someone. He summed it up thus: 'We cannot make omelets without breaking eggs."

Governor Woodrow Wilson, though invited to the mass-meeting, was not invited to attend the dinner given to President Taft before he spoke, though both former Governors Murphy and Stokes were asked to the board of A. H. Dehaven, who was the President's host. Governor Wilson arrived at the Auditorium hall an half hour ahead of Mr. Taft and waited his coming in an anteroom. Governor Wilson walked up to the hall in the pouring rain with the three members of his staff. Later Messrs. Stokes and Murphy rolled up to the door in one of the automobiles just behind President Taft. Representative Andrus, of New York, a member of the reception committee, is quoted as follows:

"I deny that this is a political move. I wish it understood that we are not a political machine, but an association born for the purpose of aiding common people. President Taft is coming here so that the world may see what good we are doing. Governor Wilson was not invited for the sole reason that he is in no way connected with the association and with its efforts to bring the President here. Besides Mr. Murphy every man at the dinner tonight is directly connected with the association or with the Dehaven family. We feel that we were justified in inviting the former Governor because he helped us bring Mr. Taft here."

COUPLE ARE ENJOYING BELATED HONEYMOON

Announcement was made today that Miss Beulah M. Van Winkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Van Winkle, of West Fifth street, and Harold Leadbitter, formerly of Poughkeepsie but now of Plainfield, were married on May 1 by Rev. George E. Barber, pastor of a Methodist Episcopal church of New York city. The couple are now enjoying a trip up the Hudson, stopping at various points, including Troy, Albany and Schnectady and will visit at the home of the grooms' parents in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., before their return.

The bride is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, class of 1910, and since that time has been a stenographer for the Standard Oil Co., 26 Broadway, New York city. The groom is employed in the Quincy, Manchester, Sargent Co. and is the tenor soloist of the First Presbyterian church. Upon their return to Plainfield the couple will reside at the home of the bride's parents, 207 West Fifth street, for the present.

DOCTOR IS PROVOKED BY AMBULANCE DELAY

The first call for the ambulance, which under the new arrangement is kept at police headquarters, was made last night to remove Louis M. Matlen, the nine years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Matlen, of Watchung avenue, from his parents' home to Muhlenberg Hospital. The boy died soon after being received and before the operation, for which he was sent to the institution was performed. Acute appendicitis was the cause of death.

There was considerably delay experienced in getting the ambulance and the stories as told regarding the cause are at variance. Dr. R. Yood, of Central avenue, was the attending physician and ,sen in the call to police headquarters for the conveyance. Police headquarters in turn notified the hospital that a call had been received and got instructions not to send the ambulance until the nature of the case could be investigated by the institution. This was in compliance with a rule of the hospital governors which is to prevent any contagious disease cases being brought to the institution.

Dr. N. W. Currie, of the hospital staff, was sent to ascertain the nature of the Matlen boy's illness and after an investigation ordered the police to remove the lad to the hospital in the ambulance. Acording to Dr. Yood's statement this was two hours after he had sent the call. Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, another member of the hospital staff, stated that the lad was received at the hospital about half an hour after word had been received that a call for the ambulance had been made to the police. The police say that the horse was hitched to the ambulance at the time word was first sent to the hospital and during the wait the horse was unhitched.

Dr. Yood also stated that at the time he sent the call for the wagon he stated the cause of the illness and that it was not necessary for his diagnosis to be verified. He spoke rather sharply about the procedure and said that as a medical man he was unable to appreciate the necessity of any such alleged "red tape."

Dr. Yood is a new physician here and was unaware that it is customary for doctors to first call the hospital when the ambulance is needed. Laymen only can get the ambulance by calling the police. It is also stated that when he first rang up police headquarters he did not give his name nor go into any particulars.

FIX BORO BUDGET

To Raise $27,350 by Taxation, the Expense Estimate Being Placed at $32,350.

TAX RATE ABOUT THE SAME.

License Fees Will Aggregate Approximately $6,000—Departments Estimates Slightly Increased.

The fixing of the annual tax budget was the principal business before the Borough Council at its adjourned meeting last night at which all the councilmen were present except B. R. Waldron. After listening to the suggestions from the various committee chairmen, the amount to be raised by taxation for the borough expenses this year was fixed at $27,350. This is $1,050 more than the budget of last year but Mayor Newton B. Smalley stated that the tax rate would not be affected to any extent since the valuations in the borough this year were much larger than they were last.

The total expenses which were estimated by the borough fathers last night amounted to $32,350 with a contingent fund of $1,000. It was also estimated that at least $6,000 would be received from licenses, etc., and this would reduce the amount to be raised by taxation for borough expenses to $27,350.

On account of a larger number of street lights in the borough the amount for this department was increased from $5,831.90 to $5,900. An appropriation of $4,000 was made for the police department, this amount being the same as was set aside for this purpose last year. An increase of $300 was made in the appropriation for the fire department, the extra money being necessary for the purchase of new hose. Councilman J. J. Stahl reported that the expenses of the fire department thus far were below the costs last year.

For the street department $7,000 was asked, this being $100 more than was appropriated last year. It was reported that only $5,500 of last year's fund had been spent thus far but as there is still some oiling to be done and two streets to be macadamized, it was the opinion of the Council that all the money would be used. No increase was made in the appropriation for water, including hydrants and street sprinkling, the amount remaining at $1,500.

On account of an increase in the number of cases of tuberculosis in the borough this year, the appropriation for the poor was raised from $1,200 to $1,400. The appropriation for bonds and interest was set at $2,050, $25 more than last year. A reduction of $500 was made in the amount for the general borough fund as this year only $5,000 will be necessary for this purpose. With the increasing legal work for the proposed sewer system, $200 more was appropriated this year, making the total for sewers $1,000. The Board of Health appropriation was fixed at $600, the shade tree commission at $100 and a contingent fund of $1,000 was again set aside.

Protests against the proposed widening of Somerset street from Jackson avenue to Johnson's drive were received from Morris and Lottie Ballantine and John P. Wolfe. These protests were read and placed on file. On a resolution offered by Councilman Alexander Milne it was voted to postpone all action on the proposed widening of Somerset street until the regular meeting of the Council on Friday, September 1.

Because it had been announced that the ordinance for the widening of Somerset street would be brought up for its third reading last night, a large number of the objectors and petitioners were present.

The Mayor said that he had gone over the line of the proposed improvement on Somerset street with the representatives of the Public Service Corporation and the New York Telephone Company and that these men had informed him that at least forty of the poles for wires along that street could be cut out when the roadway was widened. This would reduce the number of poles between Jackson avenue and Johnson's drive from eighty to forty. Mayor Smalley said that he hoped this would lead some of the objectors to change their minds on the subject.

In continuing the Mayor stated that he hoped the rain yesterday afternoon would have been hard enough to show the drainage needs on the unimproved street. He said that he was sorry that any man in the borough would have changed from a signer of the petition to a signer of the remonstrance.

MR. HIBBARD WEDS MRS. C. E. BROOKS

The wedding of Mrs. Charles E. Brooks and Henry Deming Hibbard, both of East Seventh street, took place this afternoon at Grace Episcopal church in the presence of their immediate families and a few intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church, and immediately after it the couple left for a six weeks' trip to California. Upon their return they will reside at Mr. Hibbard's home on East Seventh street.

While on their trip Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard will visit VanWyck Brooks, son of Mrs. Brooks, who is a professor in Leland Stanford University.

BAY STATE YOUNGSTER ONLY WANTS A CHANCE

With twenty-five cents in his pocket, Roy Slocum, fifteen years old, of Somerville, Mass., received a fresh start on his way through the world this morning at the hands of Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court. The youth was arrested last night for vagrancy. He left his home, he said, in the Bay State several weeks ago and worked his way to New York on a steamer. In New York, he said, he heard that Jersey offered fine opportunities to young men willing to work and he reached this city when arrested.

In reply to a question as to what kind of work he was looking for the lad said that he would like to get a job on a farm and was directed to Bound Brook or Somerville, which places he was told, were better farming centres than Plainfield. Thanking the court he went on his way, apparently lighter hearted.

UNION CO. DEMOCRATS ON AN OUTING TODAY

Union County Democrats in great numbers made their way to the deck of the "Sirius" at her dock in Elizabeth this morning, and spent the day at Witzel's rove, College Point, L. I., on the annual outing of the Union County Democratic Committee. Not the least inconspicuous in the crowd was the delegation from Plainfield which included J. V. F. Dilts, Frank Shattle, Robert C. Woodhouse, James Prindie, Leroy J. Ellis, P. J. Reville and several others.

Noticeable by his absence was Senator James E. Martine. This is the first outing of the Union County Democrats the Senator, or as he has always been styled, "The Farmer Orator," has missed in more years than most people care to recall. A letter was sent by the Senator telling of his inability to be present owing to the fact that all the Democratic votes of the Senate are needed in these days when everybody is anxious to have matters cleared up so that the house can adjourn, and legislation of such importance to the country is pending.

ANDERSON DECLINES TO BE A CANDIDATE.

The petition being circulated on behalf of William de la R. Anderson as a candidate for member of the Assembly on the Republican ticket, is without his sanction, according to a statement made by him to a Daily Press reporter today. He said that not only has he given no one authority to circulate such a petition, but to many of his friends who have suggested to him being a candidate he has emphatically declined on the ground that his work is cut out for some time to come as "mayor of Watchung," a title he is loath to relinquish.

Mr. Anderson continuing said that he is firmly of the opinion that North Plainfield Township should have a candidate, but as he is so deeply involved in a number of proposed improvements that are fast rounding into shape and which will be highly beneficial to residents of Watchung, he thought that he could be of more and better service by continuing where he is instead of devoting the time he has alloted to public labor in some other field. An effort is being made to have C. C. Wheeler reconsider his withdrawal and until his answer is received nothing definite will be decided.

LODGE CELEBRATE

Martha Washington Council D. of A. Observes its Fifteenth Anniversary.

AN ENTERTAINMENT PROVIDED.

Dancing, Refreshments and a Social Time Mark the Occasion—The Council Has 112 Members.

Two hundred men and women gathered last night to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, in the council rooms at 109 Park avenue. The occasion was marked by an entertainment and a business meeting followed by an informal social time.

American flags were used to form the background of the decorations of the hall. The entire color scheme had been arranged to harmonize with the setting of American flags and the emblems of the order.

A brief history of the local branch of the Daughters of America was given in the short business meeting which preceeded the regular exercises. The growth of the Martha Washington council was shown and it was reported that at the present time there are 112 active members, many of whom were present last night. Routine business was then disposed of and the meeting was thrown open for the celebration exercises.

A feature of the program was a sketch, which had been arranged by several of the members. It was entitled "Murder Will Out," being presented in one act. Miss Anna Lee took the part of "Lena Stiles" with a decided ease while Miss Louisa McCormick played the role of "Grandma Stiles" in a true old fashioned manner. "May Taylor" was better known to Plainfield people as Miss Mabel Lant and her work was well worthy of the applause which she received. Miss Irene Sawyer made an ideal "Minnie Spriggs," while Miss Clara Lee caused rounds of laughter and applause in the role of "Dinah," the cook. Miss Bessie Gunzelman played the part of "Bridget" and was well received by the audience.

F. S. Rogers was then introduced to the audience as "Weary Willie" and he caused much merriment with his tales about his pal, "Cinders." After this, he appeared as a magician and entertained the audience for some time with his slight-of-hand tricks.

During the evening Townley's orchestra rendered several pleasing selections and a male quartet sang two numbers. Phonograph selections were also enjoyed. After the entertainment program was finished Townley's orchestra played dance music and the light fantastic steps were done until long after midnight. During the dancing refreshments were served.

MAJOR MARTIN LEADS THE SHARPSHOOTERS.

Major William B. Martin, of the Second New Jersey Regiment, and formerly Captain of Co. K, of this city, led the field of 272 sharpshooters yesterday in the 20--yard stage of the Governor's match at Camp Perry, Ohio, by scoring 45 out of a possible 50.

In the fifty leaders of the first stage who go on the record stage of the match Major Martin leads with 189.

McCawley Penitent.

George McCawley, of Scotch Plains, the man who gave Acting Detective Sergeant McDonald a tussle yesterday morning, was very penitent when arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning for disorderly conduct, and said that if given another chance he would work steadily to support his family and leave drink alone. This is the first time he had ever been arrested and in view of his past good record, he was given a chance to keep his promise. His employer was in court and said that McCawley could go to work at once.

School Building Probe.

In company with County Superintendent F. T. Atwood, Assistant State Commissioner of Education J. B. Betts, of this city, will investigate tomorrow the condition of the school buildings in Oxford township, Warren county. It has been reported to the Commissioner that the buildings are inadequate and unfit for school purposes.

—Ritz Dainty Lunch served until 10 p. m.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Peaslee, of Waterbury, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence A. Peaslee, to William F. Root, of East Fourth street. No date for the wedding has been set.

HORSE ROLLS DOWN VERY STEEP HILL

A white blind mare, one of a team belonging to and driven by Charles Ralph, a stone carter, had an exciting experience yesterday at Mayor Smalley's stone quarry. The driver left the team standing on the road which is on the brow of a deep incline, while he went to a stone bin some distance away. It its uneasiness and being unable to see the steep declevity, the white mare stepped off the road and was hanging suspended in the harness threshing about when noticed. The other horse was braced to hold its mate and to prevent being drawn over the bank when the driver returned with Mayor Smalley.

The men fastened a rope about the horse's neck in an effort to hold it but being unable to do so loosened the harness. This done the animal went rolling over and over down the bank a distance of fifty feet. At the bottom it regained its feet with the aid of the men and after shaking itself was led back to the wagon none the worse for its experience.

LEWIN THE PROBABLE CHOICE FOR MAYOR

Unless the unforeseen happens at the meeting of the North Plainfield Democrats tomorrow night; J. M. Lewin will be named as a candidate for mayor of the borough. J. O. Osgood, who was announced last week as having entered the race, withdrew yesterday. This leaves Mr. Lewin alone in the field. W. J. Conroy, who was considered a logical candidate, would not consent to allowing his name to go before the primaries.

The announcement of Mr. Osgood and Mr. Lewin being in the race for the mayoralty emanated from a meeting of a number of prominent Democrats at the home of Freeholder Kirch, of Somerset street, last Wednesday night. Mr. Conroy presided and when his name was suggested he stated that he was not in a position to accept the nomination should it be tendered.

The names of Mr. Osgood and Mr. Lewis were then presented for discussion with the understanding that both of these men were willing to make the run and the announcement was hailed with approval both at the meeting and next day when it became known. At that same meeting the one to be held tomorrow night in Debele's Auditorium was arranged, at which time it is expected that the slate for the borough and probably the county will be fixed.

Since the withdrawal of Mr. Osgood an effort has been made to secure the consent of S. St. John McCutchen to allow his name to be presented at the meeting tomorrow night, but the result of this effort has not been made public by those making it. In addition to the possibility of Mr. McCutchen's name being presented, it is said that several good men have consented to having their names as candidates for the Council presented for consideration. This display of enthusiasm so early in the season is most encouraging to the old war horses of the party who have announced their intention of taking a hand in the fall campaign.

Alexander Kane Starts Suit.

Alexander Kane, the house wrecker, who formerly conducted a business in this city but who is now located in New Brunswick, has started a suit for $490 damages against the Art Paper Hanging Company, of New Brunswick. This concern sued Mr. Kane a short time ago to recover $242 on a contract, which it failed to fulfill, and was awarded six cents. Mr. Kane thought that he would get revenge and when his furniture was damaged, he alleges by the concern, he immediately started suit.

Cranford Canoe Club.

The annual regatta of the Cranford Canoe Club will be held on the Rahway River on Labor Day. The regatta this year will not be run under the rules of the New Jersey Canoe Association, but will be open to all comers. The club is at present planning to build two tennis courts at the rear of the clubhouse on Springfield avenue.

1912 Chalmers "30's" Arrived.

The 1912 Chalmers 4-passenger torpedo car made its first appearance on the streets here yesterday; everybody who has seen it says that it is the most beautiful car made. It will be on exhibition at Thompson Auto Co.'s salesroom; do not fail to see it.

Henry Johnson.

The funeral of Henry Johnson, an aged colored resident of this city, who died Monday at his home on Cottage place, will be held from Bethel chapel tomorrow afternoon at half past three.

DAMAGE BY STORM

Plainfield Was More Fortunate Than Other Places in This Section.

SCOTCH PLAINS' LOSS $1,500.

One Man Killed and Three Hurt at Newark — Lightning Struck Many Buildings About the State.

A severe storm struck this city yesterday afternoon shortly before 2:30 and for forty minutes Plainfield's streets were converted into rivers of water; darkness reigned for an hour except when the vivid flashes of lightning made zig-zag paths of light in the heavy black clouds. The rain was the heaviest that has fallen in this city for some time, one inch being the official record of the total rainfall.

No serious damage was reported in this city except for the washing out of several streets and the striking of a few trees by lightning. It seems that the further north the storm went the worse was its fury. In New York city the damage from the storm was perhaps the greatest for reports of the devastations caused by the high winds, lightning and rains are still coming in.

In Scotch Plains the effects of the storm were severely felt and over $1,500 damage, it is estimated, was caused in the village. Lightning struck the barn on the property belonging to Frank Sykes at the corner of Front street and Hunter avenue and the building was burned to the ground. The fire department answered the call, which was not sent for some time after the blaze started, but the blaze had gained too much headway and although strong effort was made, the barn was completely consumed. The loss to the structure is estimated at $1,000.

Lightning also struck the Toucey cottage on Westfield avenue, which is being occupied by Fred Merle and family. A hole was torn in the roof near the chimney by the bolt but did not set the house on fire. Mrs. Merle was stunned by the crash.

One man was killed and three were injured by lightning in Newark, where the storm raged with great violence. Five horses and a dog were also killed by being struck and fifteen fires were started, several of which caused serious damage.

At Westfield a large sheet-iron smokestack on the Westfield Steam Laundry building, located on Prospect street, was struck and broken in two. Broad street in the business section was flooded and for a time it looked as if all the stores would have to be closed. The main line trolley cars were held up by the storm in Westfield for nearly an hour.

The storm struck this city from the southwest and came quite unexpectedly. No sooner was a heavy black cloud noticed in the southwest than a heavy wind arose and the city was engulfed in a terrific downpour. A stillness before the storm broke and the darkness accompanied by the heavy peals of thunder added to the awesome spectacle of the young tornado.

HARRY J. CROWLEY WANTS TO BE A COUNCILMAN.

Henry J. Crowley, of West Third and Liberty streets, has announced himself as a candidate for councilmanic nomination from the Fourth ward on the Democratic ticket. In making his announcement today Mr. Crowley stated that he has resided in the ward for more than a year and if elected would do his utmost to have the streets in the western district of the city improved, saying that he has not been able to see where that section is getting what it is entitled to in this line of improvement.

He also went on record as being in favor of municipal ownership of water and if elected would be ready at all times to hear any opinions of those whom he represents.

Miss Estelle Kempson.

Miss Estellt Kempson, grandniece of the later United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, died last Sunday evening at the home of her uncle, John Noble Pierson, at Metuchen, N. J., from a heart attack. She was a daughter of the late Peter Tertius Kempson, of Metuchen.

In Police Court.

For raising a rumpus yesterday afternoon at the Queen City Hotel, Martin Selan, of the borough, was arrested on complaint of the management. He will be arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court tomorrow morning.

CITY HORSES OVERFED, ALDERMAN MAINTAINS.

New Brunswick, Aug. 16.—Alderman Peter Kinney had the members of the Board of Alderman figuring on oats at Monday night's meeting of the Common Council.

The city has eleven horses and buys 150 bushels of oats a month. The regular feed of a horse, according to what Mr. Kinney feeds, should be twelve quarts a day, and he had it figureed out that there should be 1,680 quarts left, whereas the city had none left over.

The alderman refused to sign the bills for the last two months' oats, although President Edward Burt said the stablemen had given the order. President Burt declared he would not dispute the alderman's statement, because he (Burt) was no authority on the appetite of a horse.

The budget was reopened to pay for the commission government election, the bills for which amounted to $1,350.

Mr. Kinney further refused to sign a bill of M. Vogel for $120 for collecting swill during July. He claimed there were enough city carts to do the work without hiring extra help. Street Commissioner Abraham Jelin explained that garbage during July and August had to be removed quickly and former commissioners had hired extra men during the season. Mr. Burt had advised him to get the help, and he and Alderman Charles Oliver signed the bill and it was paid.

Phoenix Fire Engine Company was given permission to take its apparatus to Somerville, September 21, for the parade there that day.

PLAN CONVENTION

FINE PROGRAM ANNOUNCED.

Those Who Will Speak—Complete List of Officers of the Association.

Plans are being completed for the forty-seventh annual convention of the Middlesex County Sunday School Association, to be held in the First Presbyterian church at Dunellen, on Thursday, September 14, with sessions in the morning, afternoon and evening. County President Daniel Wray will preside and the annual reports will be read by County Secretary William R. Applegate, of New Brunswick, who is arranging the details of the program.

The Product of the Sunday School workers and there will be numerous addresses and conferences on topics of interest to all Christian workers. The devotional services at the opening of the morning session will be led by Rev. George H. Gardner, of New Market.

Rev. W. A. Knox, pastor of the Dunellen M. E. church, will lead the afternoon devotions, while Rev. Ernest R. Brown, pastor of the entertaining church, will conduct this part of the program at the evening session. Addresses during the convention will be delivered by George H. Koehler, State Secretary of Sunday School work and also by Miss Alice Hamlin, State Grade Superintendant.

Other speakers include Rev. W. Torrence Stuchel, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, of Rahway, and Rev. Orville S. Duffield, pastor of the St. James M. E. church, New Brunswick. The speaker for the evening session has not yet been determined upon but an effort will be made to secure the best available talent. The committee is composed of Jesse G. Burdick, William R. Applegate and Daniel Wray.

Conferences on the various lines of Sunday School endeavor are to be conducted by the county superintendents, whose names appear below. The convention hymnal will be "Sunday School Voices," kindly loaned for the occasion by Hope and Company, of Chicago.

Rev. Henry N. Jordan, pastor of the New Market Seventh Day Baptist church, will be the chorister. The women of the Dunellen churches will serve a substantial dinner and supper free to all delegates, the address of welcome being made by Rev. E. R. Brown.

WILL ASK COURT PROBE OF BELMAR'S FINANCES

Belmar, Aug. 16.—The latest phase in the fight which the Belmar Taxpayers' Association is waging against Mayor Coleman Gibbs, is a move to go before Supreme Court Justice Voorhees and ask that the financial affairs of the borough be investigated. This action was decided upon Monday night by the executive committee of the board, which has employed the law firm of Durand, Ivins & Carton to present the matter at an early date.

Mr. Durand will go before Justice Voorhees and request that the investigation be ordered as soon as possible. It is claimed by Dr. John W. Hassler, president of the Taxpayers' Association, that the affairs of the borough are in a badly muddled state, and that the people's money is being spent extravagantly without any regard for results.

The Taxpayers' Association will send representatives to the meeting of the Borough Council and demand that a budget of expenses be made out, that the taxpayers may learn just what amount each department can legally spend.

The taxpayers contend that such a budget was asked by two councilmen early in the year, but that Mayor Gibbs prevented it being made.

Mayor Gibbs has threatened to cause the arrest of Dr. Hassler on the charge of perjury, alleging that the doctor signed a bail bond for the proprietor of the Columbia Hotel, who had been arrested on a charge of violating the excise law.

It is declared that Dr. Hassler has no property. The doctor admits signing the bond, but declares he did not sign the affidavits accompanying it.

MOB'S LEADER A POLICEMAN.

Coatesville, Pa., Aug. 16.—A policeman on the regular force of this borough was the leader of the mob that burned Zachariah Walker, the negro slayer of Policeman Rice, according to positive evidence that District Attorney Gawthorp says is in his possession.

The man's name is being withheld, for obvious reasons, until the authorities have arranged all the evidence they have collected and are ready to act.

"Yes, one of the regular police force of Coatesville led that mob," was the assertion of the district attorney when the matter was squarely placed before him.

According to the district attorney, it may be two weeks before any arrests are made. He realizes the magnitude of the task confronting the authorities, he said, and does not want to act until he is sure of his men.

Troop G of the State police is patrolling the streets after a night of arduous watching and has the situation completely under control.

ODD CLUE GIRL GIVES AS TO HER ASSAILANTS.

Elizabeth, Aug. 16.—With a white confirmation ribbon which Bella Cohen declares that she tore from the coat of one of the two men who attacked her as a clue, county detectives are trying to run down the assailants.

The Cohen girl, whose home is in New York, came to Lyons Farms by trolley Saturday night for a week-end visit to her cousin, Mrs. Alexander Katz, and as she walked down the road to the house two foreigners attacked her.

In the vain struggle she tore the white ribbon from the lapel of the coat which one of the men wore, and this, bearing the date of "June, 1911," together with the description she gave of the men, is the principal clue upon which the detectives are working. The girl is fifteen years old.

BRADLEY BEACH DIDN'T DECORATE FOR TAFT.

Bradley Beach, Aug. 16.—The Borough Council Monday night refused to spend a penny to be used in decorating the main street of the place in honor of President Taft's visit to Ocean Grove last night.

The request for an appropriation was made by Samuel Koenig, a summer resident here, who was formerly Secretary of State in New York and who is now chairman of the Republican committee. The councilmen questioned whether they had the power to spend the people's money in decorating the borough, although it was explained that the taxpayers would never offer any objection.

AMERICAN TENNIS TEAM.

President Dwight, of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, today cabled to the National Lawn Tennis Association of England the names of the players to represent this country in the matches to be played with the British team on the West Side Tennis Club courts here September 7, 8 and 9. The American team will consist of W. A. Larned, the National champion; R. D. Little, of New York, and Maurice McLoughlin and Thomas C. Bundy, the Pacific Coast cracks. The winning team will go to Australia to challenge for the international trophy now held in that country.

MOVE TO EXTEND THE ASBURY PARK SEASON.

Asbury Park, Aug. 16.—A move to extend the season here into October is to be made by the Boosters' Association, which met late yesterday afternoon in the Seacoast National Bank building. Several proprietors of the hotels, notably those of the Lafayette and the Coleman, have agreed to keep their houses open a month later than usual, and while they may lose money the first year, they believe that eventually the plan will pay.

STRICKEN ILL, FALLS AND IS FATALLY HURT.

New Brunswick, Aug. 16.—Stricken with acute indigestion, Gabriel Eberly, sixty years old, an employe of the Sayre & Fisher Co., of Sayreville, fell while at work in the plant Monday, striking upon his head. He died shortly afterward in St. Peter's Hospital here.

Eberly's skull was fractured by his short fall. He is survived by a family.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier began active campaigning by a long speech justifying his tariff policy; R. L. Borden, the Opposition leader, spoke in condemnation of reciprocity.

And as we were saying that Westfield was surprised, perhaps Bound Brook was almost as much surprised herself.

Once again—baseball is a funny proposition after all.

You have to take your hat off to Dave Driscoll for the head work. He was the genuine Steve Brodie in the Somerville game and he won out in the long run but it was a hard sprint. It all goes to show however that a lead is a thing to be desired and also a handy thing when distances count.

Did you stop to think while you were worrying because the Blues were clouting "Red" all over the field Saturday that on August 6, Waller shut out these same players under the name of the Bronx Athletics without a single hit? Well he did! Nevertheless he shouldn't be voted in the "Can't Come Backs" as yet for that's only one game.

Nineteen put-outs fell to the lot of First Baseman McDonald, of the Somerville team, Saturday. "Mac" handled them in great shape as well as the hit stick. But "Mac" is a kicker from the word go and he kept Umpire Degnon busy with his arguments throughout the entire ten innings.

Brit Martin remarked after the game at Somerville that he was still alive regardless of the torments of the faniest fans.

The name of Wolf must signify a good baseball player. Somerville's animal man in centerfield is the chief home run clouter in the league while Bound Brook won from Westfield through the work of the box artist, one man named Wolf.

Eugene Lidgate should prove to be a tower of strength to the High Bridge team. What Cliff Randolph needs is a heavy backstop for the local boy has plenty of speed in his salary wing. And Liddie has the beef.

A city Sunday-school league player joining the Central organization will be the next dope in the newspapers after John Jacob Astor retires from the foreground of the stage. Our one best bet on this subject is Pierson Bailey, who does the twirling for the First Baptists. He struck out 12 of the Parks Saturday afternoon and that is no mean record.

Those Dunellen boys are creating some excitement in the baseball line at Dunellen these days. That game there Saturday was a beauty, only one run being scored by both sides. No Florence, they each did not tally a half a run but the Central Railroad nine crossed the rubber all alone.

The Scotch Plains catcher came in Handy Saturday—don't, we promise not to go any further.

Nobody seemed to be satisfied with Umpire Degnon at Somerville Saturday for regardless of the play, some one was sure to have an objection to the decision.

But how would you like to be the umpire?

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Maurice E. McLoughlin, of California, won the New York State tennis championship Monday at Bay Ridge, by defeating T. R. Pell, the national indoor champion, 6-1, 6-8, 6-2 and 8-6. The defeated champion failed to offer effective resistance to McLoughlin, whose slight carelessness allowed Pell to take the second set. In the other matches, however, McLoughlin showed excellent form, and his services, which was exceptionally long, proved strong and puzzling to Pell.

The elimination trials to choose the three motorboats to meet the British challengers for the British International Cup have been postponed from August 15, 17 and 19 to August 30 and 31 and September 1. The postponement was decided upon at a meeting yesterday of the Motorboat Club of America at New York.

The 800-yard swim for the Metropolitan Association championship will be held Saturday at Travers Island, New York. Several other events are on the program.

This fellow Fred Thompson, the Princeton theological student, certainly deserves a lot of credit for his great work in the all-arounds decided in Chicago last Saturday. Though he failed by 676 points of touching Martin Sheridan's record of 7,285 points, still his performances altogether were admirable. He retained his championship laurels, rolling up 6,709 points. He won last year, also, under the colors of the Occidental College, of Los Angeles.

"CY" YOUNG RELEASED.

Denton T. Young, the veteran pitcher of the major leagues, was released yesterday by the Cleveland team of the American League. "Cy's" unconditional release has been announced before, but this time the Cleveland team officially announces that it has let him go. Young has a great record in baseball. He made his debut against Chicago in 1890, pitching for Cleveland. He twirled his five hundredth victory in the major leagues last season, after twenty-one years of pitching. "Cy" declares that he'll stay in baseball for years yet.

BARON WHIPS HURT.

In spite of the threatening weather fully 3,000 persons were present at the opening of the Monroe light harness horse meeting. The splendid chestnut gelding Baron Whips, 2:05, by Baron Dillon, had a serious accident in the first heat, which may result fatally. It was in the second lap, just at the turn, when he suddenly went down, carrying sulky and driver with him. Baron was unable to rise and it was impossible to resume racing until a stonebeat could be found to carry him to the stable.

Jersey Tennis League.

Tennis players from Madison, Chatham and Wyoming have formed an informal tennis league. Each club is to play each other twice, once at home and once abroad. The team finishing with the highest percentage will be presented with a banner. Thus far but one match has been played. Wyoming met Chatham at Wyoming—the former winning an easy victory. Wyoming took five out of seven matches, losing one and tying another.

"Hack" Arrives.

George Hackenschmidt arrived in New York yesterday on the Olympic from England on his way to Chicago, where he is to meet Frank Gotch on September 5. J. H. Herman will try to get Hackenschmidt to agree to meet Zbyszko in a finish match in New York.

TAFT TREATY TALK

Samuel Heilner, of Spring Lake.

L. C. Wheeler, the President's personal representative, took especial pains to see that every honor was paid to Governor Wilson at the Auditorium. He insisted that the Governor's chair be placed next to the President's, which was done. The President in beginning his speech addressed himself to "Mr. Chairman, Governor Wilson, ladies and gentlemen," and before entering upon his set address made a complimentary reference to the Governor.

The President left Asbury Park about 10:30 for Washington.

Volunteer Cooks.

On a camping trip of young persons two of the girls volunteered to get breakfast the first morning while the rest of the party went off to find a spring. When the earchers returned with the water they found nothing ready but the coffee, which, being in temperature-retaining bottles, required no preparation.

"The fire's all right," said the would-be cook, "but wed like to know how you expected us to fry bacon without any lard."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Why He Was Worried.

With a smile on his rubicund features the hotel manager was enjoying forty winks. Trade was booming. The place was full. Good!

Knocks on the door of his sanctum recalled him to earth. In staggered a perspiring waiter.

"P-p-p-lease sir," he stammered, "I'm in a terrible fix. A gent has just ordered roast mutton!"

"Well, what of it!" snapped the manager. "There's plenty of it, isn't there?"

"Y-yes, sir," breathed the distracted knight of the napkin, "but he's already had one portion for vension!"—Answers.

Professional Advice.

"Now that you've heard my daughter sing, what would you advise me to do?" "Well," the music master replied, "I hardly know. Don't you suppose you could get her interested in settlement work or horse back riding, or something like that?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Peter Snyderwein, of Prospect avenue, leaves shortly on a trip to California, where he will remain for a month.

Russell Runyon and Clarence Voorhees are planning a trip to Atlantic City for the end of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fink, of Worthsville, N. J., are visiting Harry Bell, of North avenue.

J. V. Smalley, the local rtuckman, has purchased a new van which will be used in his business.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The weekly prayer and praise meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight in the church parlors. On account of Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews being away on his vacation the meeting will be led by one of the deacons.

Roy Smalley, of Prospect avenue, has returned from an outing, enjoying life at the Staten Island resorts.

GOVERNOR WATCHFUL OF WATER DIVERSION

At a conference with the State Water Supply Commission yesterday afternoon, Governor Wilson requested that he be kept accurately informed as to the water situation in the Raritan river watershed. The request was made after the commission had outlined somewhat generally to the Governor the situation as it now exists.

The conference was held at the invitation of the Governor, and was the outcome of the resolutions recently passed by the Raritan town committee protesting against the waters of the Raritan river or its tributaries being further subjected to private control or ownership.

In these resolutions it was particularly set forth that the Somerville Water Company had recently entered into a contract to deliver at wholesale 20,000,000 gallons of water a day to the Raritan Township Water Company, the Piscataway Water Company and the Elizabethtown Water Company, and that it may make additional contracts for a total diversion of the waters of the Raritan watershed.

NEWS DISTRIBUTING TELEPHONE COMPANY.

The New Jersey Telephone Herald Company won an important victory yesterday afternoon when the Board of Public Utility Commissioners signed an order compelling the New York Telephone Company to lease it available unused wires. The Telephone Herald Company is to receive this service at such standard rates and conditions as obtained for similar services.

In its decision the board held that the Telephone Herald Company, despite its name, is not a public utility as defined by the act of 1911, but a publishing company, distributing news and other matter by means of telephonic apparatus.

SKUNK STRONG ENOUGH TO DERAIL TROLLEY.

Westbrook, Conn., Aug. 16.—A skunk, asleep on the tracks, is held responsible for the partial derailing of a Shore Line trolley car here early yesterday, tying up traffic for a couple of hours.

When the car struck the skunk the forward trucks left the rails and the car ran into a trolley pole, bringing down the feed wires, which caused a suspension of all traffic on the line. The passengers all escaped with a severe shaking up.

COUNTY CLERK DISLIKES GERAN ELECTION LAW

The office of County Clerk James C. Calvert in the Union county courthouse at Elizabeth is beginning to look like election time. Thousands of blankbooks and forms to be used at the primaries and November election arrived yesterday. Mr. Calvert is not in favor of the new election law, copies of which have been received. It is so complicated, he says, that some of the cleverest lawyers in that city have been "stumped" by it, and, he declares, it will mean thousands of dollars of extra expense to the county.

Mr. Calvert characterized as ridiculous the part of the measure providing for the reprinting of the complete registry lists in the form of handbills to be distributed in each of the election districts.

TWO GIRLS ARE LURED BY THE STAGE LIGHTS

That their daughters have been lured to New York by the glare of the footlights is the conviction of the parents of fifteen-year-old Marie Spangerberg, and thirteen-year-old Marie Mackey, both of Paterson. The girls left home last Sunday and the last word from them was over the 'phone yesterday that they had gone to Manhattan. Marie Spangerberg was employed in the Ashley & Bailey silk mills in Paterson as a sewing-machine girl, while her younger companion attended School No. 10, around the corner from her home.

The older Marie, according to her parents, often told fairy tales about the money she could earn if she went on the stage. She imbued the other Marie with love for the footlights. Marie Spangerberg played a small part in an amateur production, and the applause of her friends fired her determination.

The two Maries were last seen at the First Baptist church on Sunday night. Yesterday the bell in the Spangerberg house tingled. It was the older girl who did the talking. "Mamma," she said, "we are in New York. Don't worry about us." And that was all. Mrs. Spangerberg in vain tried to recall the voice, but the receiver had been hung up.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Now that the Bostonians, that famous and representative singing organziation which held the most commanding position in the history of light and comic opera singing in this country for over thirty years, has passed away, it remains for "Jolly" John Larkins and his happy flock of pretty girls and funny boys in the new big musical comedy, "Royal Sam," to sustain the popular interest in the melodies of the standard songs of the day and the songs of the Sunny South. As a singing organization "Jolly" John Larkins and his happy flock are absolutely without equal in this country. The press of the United States has proclaimed that to be a fact and though they are only humble colored entertainers, yet when they blend their repertoires, all question of race, color, creed and condition are forgotten. "Jolly" John Larkins and his happy flock will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre August 24. Mr. Larkins has just concluded a four years' contract as co-star with "Black Patti."

MRS. EVERETT MARSH GOES TO HER REWARD.

After an illness of several weeks, Mrs. Everett Marsh, died yesterday afternoon at her home on Somerset street. The funeral services will be held at her late residence Friday morning at 9 o'clock and at St. Joseph's church at 9:30 o'clock, where a requiem mass will be celebrated. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Marsh was a lifelong resident of the borough and her death is a matter of deep regret to her large circle of friends. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Frank and Everett Marsh, both residing at home.

Badly Burned by Hot Soup.

William Dixon, forty-six years old, of Elizabeth, was badly burned at Laurie's Riverside Hotel, Front street, Elizabeth, yesterday when a pot of boiling soup which he was trying to lift tumbled on him. He was removed to the Alexian Brothers' Hospital and is in a serious condition.

LAMP'S EXPLOSION FATAL TO A WOMAN

Mrs. Mary Marino, of 108 Clark street, Westfield, who was removed to the General Hospital, Elizabeth, yesterday morning suffering from burns caused by an exploding lamp, died there yesterday afternoon. Her body was seared from the flames and she suffered great agony.

The cause of the explosion cannot be ascertained. The accident ocurred as Mrs. Marino was making her way from the kitchen of her home to her bedroom, and she was about to ascend the stairs when she was blinded by the sudden flash. She fell senseless to the floor, but revived quickly. The oil scattered over her clothing and the flames were licking the inflammable cloth rapidly.

Her nephew, Joseph Stilino, was attracted by her cry and rushed to her assistance. He turned his attention to Mrs. Marino and he managed to put out the flames with a rug after a desperate struggle.

PRESIDENT ROUNDLY DENOUNCES RECALL

President Taft has made the recall a national issue in 1912. Sending to the House of Representatives at Washington yesterday his veto of the bill giving Statehood to Arizona and New Mexico, he gave a rebuke to that kind of statesmanship which shouts for this new political expedient as carried in the Arizona constitution. Because New Mexico is linked with Arizona in the bill the bar went up against her also.

That the President would veto the Statehood bill was well understood. He made this plain to her people when he addressed thousands of them two years ago.

The message, over which the House Democratc will now attempt to pass the Statehood bill, was more than a bar to the two Territories. In it the President takes a position for his party on the recall of judges backed by arguments which will give trouble to its advoctes. Even the men who differed from the President's arguments admit their force.

Some of the arguments which he sets down are: That there must be judges with courage to decide against the majority when justice and law require. That the Arizona constitution carries power to remove without delay a judge who may have the courage to render an unpopular decision.

"Could there be a system more ingeniously devised to subject judges to momentary gusts of passion than this?" he asks.

"Would not self respecting men hesitate to accept judicial office with such a sword of Damocles hanging over them?"

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

F. C. Jennings will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission tomorrow evening at 7:45.

A Danish Lutheran service will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Swedish Pilgrim church. The preaching will be by Rev. N. H. Nyrop, of Brooklyn.

THINK MAN WAS KILLED IN FALL FROM WAGON.

Flemington, Aug. 16.—John Pegg, aged seventy-five years, was found dead in the woods Monday night. Pegg drove to the woods during the afternoon and when he did not return in the evening a searching party discovered his lifeless body.

There was a gash in his head. There were no signs of foul play and it is thought he fell from his vehicle, striking his head upon a stone. His horse stood but a short distance from where the accident occurred.

Engine In Queer Accident.

Trenton, Aug. 16.—Traffic on the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Burlington and Camden was interrupted for about two hours yesterday afternoon by reason of a peculiar accident which happened to the New York express, which left Atlantic City about 2:30. The cylinder on the left side of the engine became detached, as did also the driving rod. These displaced parts tore up the adjoining track and actually raised the engine from the rails. The engine took the rails again, and outside of the fact that the locomotive was disabled no damage was done. No one was injured.

Fear Firebug at Work.

Bernardsville, Aug. 16.—The seventh fire which has occurred in this neighborhood recently was discovered early Monday in a stock containing over fifty loads of wood near the sawmill of Frank Elliott, of Mine Brook. The local firemen succeeded in putting out the blaze before much damage had been done. The inhabitants fear that the fires were the work of an incendiary.

Stocks were dull and, as a rule, heavy in New York yesterday.

A man was shot five times in a running fight with Mount Vernon police, firing sixteen shots himself in a vain effort to escape.

President Taft, in a speech at Ocean Grove, N. J., made an appeal to the people in behalf of the British and French arbitration treaties.

It was said one of the sisters of the late Walter Duryea had begun suit at Mineola to break the will of her brother, who left the bulk of his estate to a trained nurse.

Newman Erb was elected director of the Western roads controlled by Hawley, and it was said the plans for development included connections with Canadian trunk lines.

Premier Asquit and other members of the government held conferences with represenatives of the large interests and the trade unions, with a view to a settlement of the questions pending.

David A. Sullivan, president of the old Mechanics and Traders' Bank, New York, was indicted for forgery in the third degree as a result of the investigation into the affairs of the Union Bank, of Brooklyn.

The Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants of Great Britain decided to call a general strike, scheduled to begin tonight, unless the employers express readiness to meet the men and discuss grievances.

The coroner's jury of Chester County, Pa., after investigating the burning of a negro by a mob at Coatesville on Sunday night, rendered a verdict that he came to his death at the hands of unknown parties.

Miguel Gomez, son of the President of Cuba, confessed attempting the life of Armando Andres, an editor, who returned the shots fired at him; it was reported that Gomez was accompanied by friends, who also fired on Andres.

A chauffuer who had borrowed the car of his employer, William Hartfield, now in Europe, was arrested after a twelve-hour search, and charged with homicide for having run down and slain Dr. Herman P. Bender, in Brooklyn.

Harry N. Atwood, the aviator, in his flight from St. Louis to Boston, flew from Chicago to Elkhart, Ind., the second stage of the journey, a distance of 101 miles, in two hours and sixteen minutes, twenty-one minutes less time than the fastest train service.

Two men were killed outright and two injured in the metropolitan district by a storm which plunged New York city into darkness, suspended harbor traffic, caused a panic on the East Side, and many minor accidents through the freakishness of wind and lightning.

William Badger, of Pittsburg, and St. Croix Johnstone, of Chicago, contestants in the international aviation meet at Chicago, lost their lives; Badger's machine overturned and his neck was broken by the fall; Johnstone fell under his engine in Lake Michigan and was drowned.

Three thousand rioters in Liverpool attempted to rescue prisoners from fifty hussars; the latter fired on the mob and charged with drawn sabres, killing one man and wounding several; the city was virtually occupied militarily at night; the Canada failed to make her departure as scheduled.

Congress—Senate: The coalition passed the conference wool bill, 38 to 28; the Foreign Relations Committee's report on the arbitration treaties calls them "breeders of war;" Senator Penrose introduced a resolution to adjourn on August 22. House: President Taft's veto of the statehood bill denounced the recall of judges clause in the Arizona constitution; Mr. Taft was hotly defended by Representatives Mann, Humphrey and Burke, who denounced the abandoning of the Controller Bay inquiry.

BEYOND HER DEPTH.

They were seated around the table partaking of watermelon, so the talk naturally turned to the luscious fruit.

"It reminds me of a conversation which took plabe between two colored women," said one of the guests.

"'Um-a, but Ah certainly does lobe watermelons,' said one. 'It sure does tickle mah palate. How does you like watermelons, Sister Lize?'

"'Wa-a-al, Ah tells you, Sis' Jane,' returned the other. 'Ah certanly does lobe watermelons, but Ah can't eat 'em.'

"'Wall, that am too bad. What am de matter, Lize?'

"'It am like dis, Sis' Jane. I lobes watermelons, but Ah always gets mah ears wet when Ah eats 'em.'"—Milwaukee Free Press.

Spoiled It All.

A farmer went to hear John Wesley preach. Wesley said he would take up three topics of thought. He was talking chiefly about money. His first was, "Get all you can." The farmer nudged a neighbor and said: "This is strange preaching. I never heard the like before. This is very good." Then Wesley discoursed on "Industry," "Activity," "Living to Purpose," and reached his second division, "Save all you can." The farmer became more excited. "Was there ever anything like this?" he said. Wesley denounced thriftlessness and waste, and he satirized the willful wickedness which lavishes in luxury, and the farmer rubbed his hands, and he thought, "All this I have been taught from my youth up," and what with getting and what with hoarding it seemed to him that "salvation" had come to his house. But Wesley advanced to his third head, which was "Give all you can." "Ah, dear; ah, dear," said the farmer; "he has gone and spoiled it all!"

A Deceptive Fish.

A naturalist who is familiar with Ceylon writes: "In the clear water of Colombo harbor it is not uncommon to see fallen and faded leaves of the jak tree floating a short distance below the surface or sinking slowly to the bottom. Certain small fish, commonly known as sea bats, mimic these leaves both in form and color in order to escape detection. Both in shape and color they look when in the water like waterlogged leaves, but when removed from their native element this resemblance is immediately lost. They float in the water half sideways and all swim in the same direction, turning simultaneously. On one occasion Mr. Willey attempted to capture one of these sea bats in a rock pool and directly he made a plunge with the hand net saw nothing except what he took to be a jak leaf slowly and inertly sink to the bottom. To his astonishment, as he withdrew the net the supposed leaf righted itself and darted away."

Calamities of Authors.

Homer was a begger; Plautus turned a mill; Terence was a slave; Cervantes, the author of "Don Quixote," died of hunger; Bacon lived a life of meanness and distress; Raleigh died on the scaffold; Spenser, the charming, died in want; the death of Collins was through neglect, first causing mental derangement; Milton sold his copyright of "Paradise Lost" for £15; Dryden died in poverty and distress; Otway died prematurely and through hunger; Lee died in the gutter; Steele lived a life of perfect warfare with bailiffs; Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield" was sold for a trifle to save him from the grip of law; Savage died in prison at Bristol, where he was confined for a debt of £8; Butler lived a life of penury and died poor; Chatterton, the child of genius and misfortune, destroyed himself.

Early Horse Race Prizes.

Prizes for winners of horse races hundreds of years ago took curious forms. The earliest was the "briglia d'or," or golden bridle. After this the prize in England was a bell. This idea was taken from the custom among owners of pack horses of decorating the best horse, which led the cavalcade, with a bell, so that on dark nights and in dangerous places the whereabouts of the leader might be known and the others follow boldly. At Carlisle silver bells were raced for by the moss troopers and dalesmen, and specimens of these bells are still retained in the town hall.—St. James' Gazette.

Card Playing.

Card playing began in India in the ninth century. It was introduced into Europe by orientals some time prior to the thirteenth century. Saracens popularized the amusement in Spain and Italy. The taste for the game afterward spread to Germany, where it commenced to be indulged in about 1275. Its appearance in France was mentioned in the records of that country in 1393. Heraldic cards were first known in England in 1660.—New York Telegram.

His Trade.

"And you say you have a trade?" asked the kind lady at the door.

"Yes'm," said the tramp; "I'm a worker in precious metals and stones."

"Indeed! And can't you get anything to do?"

"No'm: de perlice and de jewelers are all on to me."

Dog Luck.

Police Officer—In order that the villain who caught and kissed you in the dark may be tracked, we must set our police dog after him. So to trace the scent you must give Nero a kiss.—Fliegende Blatter.

And That Came Near Being Right.

"Johnny, correct this sentence on the board: 'He drunked a number of toasts.'"

Johnny went to the board and wrote, "A number of toasts drunked him."—Houston Post.

Only Wanted a Chance.

Mother—Perhaps the young man needs a little encouragement. Daughter—Yes, mamma; I wish you would keep out of sight more while he is here.

Had to Talk a Lot.

Mrs. Naybor—You seem rather hoarse this morning, dear. Mrs. Lushman—Well, my husband came home rather late last night.—Boston Transcript.

It is the cause and not the death that makes the martyr.—Napoleon.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

AN ORDINANCE

A Supplement to an Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance for the Assessment of Taxes for the Year 1911," Approved May 3, 1911.

WHEREAS, The Board of School Estimate of this school district, that is to say, the school district comprising the City of Plainfield, has fixed upon and determined the amount of money necessary to be appropriated for the use of the public schools in such district for the ensuing school year, exclusive of the amount apportioned to it by the County Superintendent of Schools, to wit, the sum of Seventy-Four Thousand Dollars ($74,000), and has made two certificates of said amount signed by all the members of said Board, one of which certificates has been delivered to the Board of Education of said school district, and the other to the Common Council of said city:

Section 1. That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools, and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof," approved October 19th, 1903, and Acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, the sum of Seventy-Four Thousand Dollars ($74,000) be and the same is hereby appropriated for the purpose aforesaid as other appropriations are made by the Common Council, and that said amount shall be assessed, levied and collected for the year nineteen hundred and eleven in the same manner as money appropriated for other purposes in this city are required to be assessed, levied and collected.

Adopted by the Common Council, August 7, 1911; approved by the Mayor August 8, 1911.

BALLET DANCERS.

Long Training and a Ceaseless Grind of Hard Work Are Theirs.

The modern imperial ballet schools of St. Petersburg and Moscow are under government control, forming, with the theaters and dramatic schools, a department of the ministry of the court. Pupils, both male and female, are entered at the early age of ten years—seldom older. After the necessary nomination has been obtained—by no means an easy matter nowadays—a stringent examination regarding health, strength, beauty of form and natural gracefulness has to be passed before the child is finally accepted. From the time it becomes an inmate the whole of its education, secular and artistic, is taken in hand, and some years of training are necessary before it is considered ripe to appear in public.

The dancer's life is a ceaseless round of hard work. All, even great artists, when at home take regular daily lessons in addition to the daily rehearsals for the next performance which are demanded, however old and well known the ballet. Thus an average of five to six hours' dancing a day is rather the rule than the exception, popular ballerinas in demand at charity performances and artistic at homes often dancing as much as eight hours in the twenty-four.

Trained artists are kept to design in every detail of period and subject, the dresses, scenery and accessories—a task obviously requiring much imagination and much knowledge—and often as many as 150 personages appear on the stage at the same time. Even the orchestra leaders qualify especially for ballet music, having no place in the orchestra at any other time.—London World.

THE FOURTH DIMENSION.

To Catch a Glimpse of It Just Get Delirium Tremens.

The majority of us are like brutes. We believe but in the reality of things. Science, more hospitable, acknowledges the fourth dimension and with it the constant parade before our eyes of things and events ordinarily unseen. The phenomena of delirium tremens forms a case in point. The shapes which the layman believes the patient only imagines are really seen and are rendered visible through the excitation of the pineal gland, which now is the rudimentary organ of what once was psychic vision. Alcohol stimulates this gland. The drunkard in his aftercups sees with it the hideousness of shapes which his own hideousness has attracted to him. For they are there, or, rather, they are here, about us in the fourth dimension, precisely as there are other shapes as gracious as these are revolting. Only ordinarily we do not see them. There are, though, those who can and do, and without being drunkards either.

Thinkers as sober as Jevons and Babbage go a bit further. They will, if you let them, tell you that whatever occurs in the privacy of a room remains photographed in it. A mere extension of this enables oculists to say that nothing has ever occurred anywhere which is not also photographed; that in the ether above us is the great picture gallery of the world.

In India, at Adyar, the chief lieu of theosophy, this gallery is constantly being studied. The results, occasionally bizarre, are sometimes trivial. It has been found that Herbert Spencer was Aristotle; Gladstone, Cicero; Tennyson, Ovid.—Edgar Saltus in Forum.

Opened His Eyes to the Future.

"Dickie, I'm awfully sorry you use tobacco. I don't like it, and mamma simply loathes it. Will you stop when we are married?"

"Isn't that asking a lot, dearie?" asked Dick.

"I wouldn't care for myself," answered the girl, "but you know it makes mamma deathly sick."

"Well, then," he promised cheerfully, "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll never smoke when your mamma is with us."

She threw her arms around him. "Darling," she murmured, "that's so good of you! I was afraid you'd insist on smoking once in awhile after we were married!"—New York Globe.

The Iron Cross.

The Iron Cross, an order of knighthood, was established by Frederick William III. of Prussia in March, 1813. The order was founded in order to honor patriotic bravery in the war against France. It was revived by Emperor William I. during the Franco-Prussian war and awarded by him to his son for his great victory at Wissembourg on Aug. 4, 1870. Later on the order was bestowed most generously, some 40,000 persons being decorated between 1870 and 1872.

Expert Advice.

The prison turnkey found the two cellmates deeply engrossed. One pored over the market reports of a newspaper and figured on the margin with a pencil. His cellmate sat expectant.

Kept Him Guessing.

"The course of true lover never does run smooth."

"Well, it's a good thing. When a young man finds things running too smoothly he is apt to get bored and wander away."—Kansas City Journal.

A Poor Recommendation.

"He means well," she said.

"Say no more," he replied. "I know now exactly what sort of a fool he is."—Detroit Free Press.

CHATTANOOGA

By Captain F. A. MITCHEL

Major Taliaferro soon joined Mark and Laura in his office, and offering his arm to Laura led the way to the supper room. His treatment of both was most deferential, but it failed to deceive either that they were prisoners.

There was a strength of nerve in Mark that would not break while there was hope. He chatted with the host or jailer, whichever he might be called, with ease, and at times with gayety. Not so Laura. The situation was too frightful for her to endure without some manifestation of anxiety. She ate nothing. She did not hear what was said to her, and her eyes plainly showed the troubled spirit within. Mark made no reference to her condition till after supper. Then, when all three went out on to the veranda, he said to her:

"Come, let us take a stroll. You have been traveling all day, and this delay troubles you. A walk in the air will revive you."

Mark assumed with such apparent carelessness that he was free to walk about where he liked that Taliaferro had not the will to stop him.

The road led straight from the house a short distance and then entered a wood. As soon as they were concealed behind the trees Mark stopped suddenly and turned to Laura:

"My God, this is terrible!"

"You are lost!" said Laura faintly. She could scarcely speak the words.

"I? Yes, I. But you—what have I led you into? Why was it not over on that morning when it was intended? Then you would not be implicated; now your good name is"——

"No one will trouble me," she gasped. "But you—they will drag you"——

"You have protected me—a spy. Not only that—that is nothing in comparison with having passed as my wife. There is a blight."

"I can bear it."

"There is but one way out of this disgrace. You must be married before we return to that house. And to whom?"—his voice changed from a rapid, excited tone to deepest gloom—"to one who must die—die on the scaffold. At any rate you will be free. You will be a widow."

Laura stood, the very impersonation of despair.

"All I can do to atone for this," Mark went on rapidly, "and it is nothing—is to make you my wife, since I have passed you as such. Laura, will you marry me?"

She looked at him earnestly. Her eyes were big with deep emotion. There was a look in them that he could not understand.

"No!"

"Then I can do nothing for you."

"I will marry only the man who loves me, and whom I love."

"Oh, Laura," he said, "if your heart were only mine, then it would be different. I love you so well, I worship you with such fervor that I would go back to that dreadful jail without a word could I place you where you were before you met me. But you"—

Laura burst into a torrent of tears. This man, who had so suddenly appeared in her life; who had won her sympathy; who had compelled her admiration; who had absorbed her whole being into his daring, chivalrous, reckless nature—this man loved her, and he was doomed.

"Laura, sweetheart," said Mark, caressing her, "we have but little time. We know not whom we shall have to face. My true character must soon be known. Will you give yourself to one who will doubtless tomorrow be claimed by"—

Pale as ashes she put her hand over his mouth that he might not speak the word "death."

"Will you? Speak!"

"Yes, now, quick; what can we do?"

"Marry ourselves."

"How?"

He grasped her hand. There was a ring upon it—a plain gold band. He took it off, and putting it on her finger again said:

"I, Mark"—

"Is it really Mark?"

"Yes, I am Mark Maynard. I, Mark, take you, Laura, to be my wife. Do you take me to be your husband?"

"I do."

"Then we are man and wife in the sight of God"—

"And for man we care not."

"Man and wife under the law. We are really married."

Scarcely was this hurried ceremony over when a cavalryman came riding toward them to watch Mark.

There was nothing left for them to do but return to the house. As they walked Mark whispered:

"I feel again all the confidence I have ever felt. I must live to make you happy. Be ready for anything that may happen, my darling, my wife. I shall doubtless play some bold game; I don't know what, but it will be bold. If I leave you suddenly, meet me (should I succeed in my attempt) within the Union lines. If not, we will meet—in heaven."

"DO YOU TAKE ME TO BE YOUR HUSBAND?"

CHAPTER XV

FLIGHT.

It was nine o'clock in the evening. Major Taliaferro and his guests were sitting in his office room chatting. A clatter of horses' hoofs was heard at the front of the house and some one dismounted. In another moment there was a tramp of cavalry boots in the hall; all turned to the open door—and there stood Captain Cameron Fitz Hugh.

For a moment he regarded Mark and Laura sternly; then advancing a few steps he bowed low to Laura.

"Captain," said the major rising, "I suppose it is useless to deny to this lady and gentleman that I deemed it my duty to make sure of their identity before allowing them to pass. The family to which they claim to belong is known to you; therefore I sent to you for information. I see you have answered my inquiry in person. If you vouch for them I shall be happy to pass them in the morning, and shall apologize for their detention at the same time—my excuse being the cause we serve."

All eyes were fixed on Fitz Hugh, Mark's and Laura's with ill concealed anxiety.

"This was Miss Fain," said Fitz Hugh. "She would not be traveling as any man's wife unless she were married to him. If you detain them, you must do so on your own responsibility."

Both Mark and Laura drew a sigh of relief.

"I have no desire to detain them," said Taliaferro, "after what you have said, but it is altogether too late for them to proceed tonight. The only amends I can make for discommoding them is to make them comfortable. Mrs. Green, your room is ready for you."

"Captain," said Mark, "may I beg a cigar? I usually smoke at this time of night."

"Here are cigars, gentlemen," said Taliaferro, producing a box.

"If you smoke, captain," added Mark, "I shall be pleased with your company."

"With pleasure."

"Captain," said Mark as soon as they were outside, "I have never met a man whom I have so admired, so honored, as you, and yet I have robbed you of your love. This last act of kindness to her and to me, so well indicating your magnanimity, is more than I can bear. I cannot accept anything more, even for her sake. I cannot stay here to be shielded by you and behind her skirts. I am about to leave this veranda and fly to the Union lines. Thank God, I have met one who is the soul of honor, in whose charge I leave my wife. Consider her under your care. She will doubtless need all you can give her, for I never expect to see her again. I shall doubtless be captured before tomorrow noon. If you were not my enemy, if you had not been my rival, I would love you as a brother."

Captain Fitz Hugh stood as one petrified. Should he keep the secret—Laura's secret? He leaned against a pillar of the veranda and passed his hand over his brow.

He could not stab Laura; he could not even betray the man who had left her in his care. He did nothing.

Half an hour had elapsed when Taliaferro, who had been busying himself with some papers, began to wonder what had become of the two men. He got up and went out on the veranda.

"Where's Green?" he asked quickly.

"Gone."

"Gone?"

"Yes, gone half an hour ago."

"What does this mean, Cameron?"

"It means that I have been keeping from you what I can keep no longer or I would. This man Green is a Federal spy."

"Cameron—my friend—great God, are you a traitor? There is something back—tell me, quick."

"Twice before he has crossed my path. He was taken and tried at Chattanooga. I was detailed to defend him. I had never seen him before. He was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged, but escaped.

"When I met him again it was at the Fains' house. Laura Fain, the woman upstairs, then my betrothed, but now—his wife, was concealing him."

"Well?"

"I saw that she was infatuated with him. She claimed him for her guest. I"—

"Well, go on."

"I could not honorably inform on him."

"Oh, Cameron—what absurdity—what idiocy—what"—

"This afternoon you sent for me. I came. I saw the man I had seen twice before—with my—with the loveliest, the noblest of all women—his wife."

The major only stared at his friend; he had no words to express his feelings, his sympathy.

"When we came out here he told me that he would accept nothing further for himself at my hands; that he would not shield himself behind a woman's skirts. He walked away before me."

"And you?"

"I permitted him."

Taliaferro shuddered. He knew that his friend by his act had placed himself in a terrible position.

"Cameron," he said, "do you know you are liable to be shot for this?"

"I do."

"I always told you," the major went on anxiously, impatiently, "that your notions of honor were absurd, quixotic."

"The highest sense of honor is never quixotic. It is best fitted for a Christian, a soldier and a gentleman."

"And do you expect me to let this spy go?"

"No. Protect yourself—the cause. Send after him. It is I who have connived at his escape, not you. You must not suffer."

"The cause alone is enough."

"Orderly," he called to a man standing by the gate.

The soldier approached and stood at attention.

"Go tell Captain Heath that the man who was here this evening has gone, and I want him followed and brought back. Tell him to send by all the roads."

The man saluted and went away.

"Cameron," said the major, after giving the order, "God grant that this act of yours may not be known. It will not be, for I am the only one who knows of it, and it will never pass my lips."

"I am responsible for my act, and if it becomes known I trust I shall have courage to meet the consequences like a man. The young wife who was left in my charge I leave in yours. I would gladly protect her myself, but I prefer to spare her the pain of being under my protection. If her husband is taken and she needs me, send for me."

As soon as he had gone Taliaferro called a negro woman, and told her to go to the lady's room and ask her (if she had not gone to bed) to come to him, as he had a communication to make.

"Madam," said the major deferentially, "your husband has gone."

"Where?" asked Laura, with a blanched cheek.

"He walked away in the presence of Captain Fitz Hugh, who would not detain him or inform me that he had gone till he was obliged to do so."

Laura clasped her hands and mutely breathed a blessing on the man who had spared her husband for her sake.

"How long has he been gone?" she asked.

"More than half an hour."

"Have you ordered his pursuit?"

"I have."

"And he has a start of"—

"Thirty minutes."

"You'll never take him. He bears a charmed life."

"And now, madam, what can I do for you? My friend charged me to see that you have every attention."

"I will go on and join my mother."

"Tonight?"

"Tonight—now."

"Your phaeton shall be at the door in a few minutes. You must accept my escort. There will be a guard besides."

Mark knew the direction of the roads leading from Anderson, and believed that he could avoid the pickets. Making his way over a space covered with bushes and a low growth of timber, he struck the road by which he had come that day at a point beyond the vedette. Then half a mile's run brought him, out of breath, to a house. The occupants were not asleep, and Mark succeeded by persuasion and threats in getting a horse to take him to Slack's, promising to send it back the next day with liberal pay for its use.

He arrived at Slack's shortly before midnight, and his horse fell exhausted in the yard. Slack received him with a shotgun pointed through the cracks of the door. Mark made himself known and asked for his uniform and his arms. The old man got them for him, and taking them to the stable Mark put them on. Then he went to the stall where his horse stood. The mare knew her master when he threw his arms about her neck and seemed as glad to see him as he was to see her.

"Ah, Madge, my darling! Once on your back, old girl, and the devil may catch me if he can."

He lost no time in putting the bit in her mouth and strapping on the saddle. Then, putting his foot in the leather covered stirrup, he lifted himself into his seat.

AN UNEASY SKELETON.

It Had a Lively Time Until Its Final Burial Ceremony.

"Speaking of final resting places," said Ike Purcell the other day, "an Indian buried at Wakeeney has earned his. He was the first Indian killed in the last Indian raid in Kansas. The raid was pulled off by 150 Sioux Indians, and a good many settlers were killed, considerable property was burned and hundreds of horses and cattle were stampeded. The Indians came within a few miles of Wakeeney, when a part of a cavalry regiment from old Fort Hayes met them. The Indians fled, but were forced to a stand over in the edge of Rush county.

"The history of the chase is interesting. Every Indian in the band was killed. The subject of this item tumbled off his pony near Wakeeney and rolled into a ditch. His body was not found for several months, and by that time nothing was left but a skeleton. The men who found the skeleton wired the bones together and tied it to a post on the public road, with a label telling that it was the first Indian killed in the last raid, etc. Complaint was made about the grewsome spectacle, so the county board ordered the skeleton buried in the cemetery. To celebrate the fact that civilization had come to stay speeches were made at the grave of this the first Indian killed in the last raid, etc.

"Later some 'fellers' got full, dug up the skeleton, dressed it in store clothes and had fun with it. They hired a liveryman to take their 'friend' home, and when the driver found what he had in the seat with him he yelled mightily and jumped out of the buggy. The team ran away, spilling the Indian in a park where an ice cream festival was in progress. The skeleton was again buried with ceremony, being the first Indian killed in the last raid, etc. Lo was permitted to repose about a year, when another bunch of rounders disinterred the skeleton, redressed it and shocked sensitive citizens with a moonlight lynching, shooting at the dangling figure and all that sort of thing. Officers cut the 'corpse' down, and then the gang that was wise to the joke indulged in a merry ha-ha. For the third time the skeleton was buried with more speechifying. After that the skeleton was not disturbed, and the good people of Wakeeney hope that it has found its final resting place."—Kansas City Journal.

Stage Steeds.

The steed is always a difficulty in staging "Don Quixote." At the Theatre de la Gaite, in Paris, the Rosinante in Massenet's opera grew so fat under the light work and good food that it was found necessary to "paint protruding ribs on his rotund sides every night."

Irving's difficulty in London was in the other direction. He had engaged a peculiarly decrepit animal, the property of a baker, for the part, but on the morning of the rehearsal he found that it had been taken by an officer of the S. P. C. A. to Bow street, where the magistrate ordered it to be killed.

Wild Onion Place.

In a bulletin issued by the United States geological survey service giving derivations of local names in the United States is this entry: "Chicago, city and river in Illinois; the Ojibwa Indian form, 'She-kag-ong,' signifies 'wild onion place,' from a root form implying 'bad smell.'" Several derivations were dug up, but the definition of the word Chicago was generally admitted to be the most unpleasantly outspoken of them all, according to the Chicago Tribune.

Two Fatal Mistakes.

Marie Antoinette, escaping from the Tuileries, turned to the right instead of to the left after passing the inner arch. She lost her way, lost time and by this means lost her own head and the head of Louis XIV. So the story of Carlyle runs.

Queen Draga of Servia meant to leave Belgrade, but waited for a going away gown, being anxious that as a fugitive she should appear in becoming attire. It was a fatal delay.

An Inexpensive Amusement.

"Did you ever," said Belinda, "try standing cents on edge? It can be done if the cents are not worn. They can most easily be made to stand on blotting paper, but they will stand on a smooth, polished table. Try it some time when other amusements flag."—New York Sun.

Economy.

Wife—Dearie, I started today to economize on our household expenses. Hubby—Good! How did you do it? Wife—I went to all the bakeries for blocks around, and then I bought a dozen doughnuts at the bakery that puts the smallest holes in them.—Judge.

What Would Happen.

"What would your father do if I told him I loved you?"

"He'd refer the matter to me."

"And what would you do?"

"I'd refer you to the young man who proposed and was accepted by me while you were trying to make up your mind."

His Mean Comment.

Mrs. Doty (reprovingly)—Mrs. Capeck told me today that her husband always keeps her photograph on his office desk. Mr. Doty—I guess that explains why he's always late getting home to dinner.—Puck.

Truth often suffers more from the heat of its defenders than from the arguments of its opposers.—Penn.

TRENTON SELECTS ITS COMMISSIONERS

With about 65 per cent. of the average vote pulled the citizens of Trenton yesterday elected the five commissioners who will control the affairs of that city under the provisions of the Walsh act of last winter.

The election resulted in the choice of three Democrats and two Republicans. The five commissioners chosen were Frederick W. Donnelly, Democrat, who received the highest vote; J. Ridgeway Fell, Democrat; William F. Burk, Republican; Geo. B. La Barre, Democrat, and Edward W. Lee, Republican. Mr. Donnelly, the high man, polled approximately 6,000 votes, and Mr. Lee, the low man of the five, about 5,900. The five commissioners were chosen from among ten candidates, who in turn had been nominated eight weeks ago from a field of sixty-eight aspirants.

Mr. Donnelly is a retail merchant; Mr. Fell is a civil engineer now engaged in the real estate business; Mr. Burk is street commissioner of Trenton and a former member of the Assembly; Mr. La Barre is in the real estate business, and Mr. Lee is city treasurer.

Of the defeated candidates, Frank H. Hutchins, who ran sixth, is a police commissioner and a labor leader; William L. Waldron, who was seventh, is a retail grocer; Daniel J. Henry, who was eighth, is a cigarmaker and local Socialist leader; Harry E. Evans, who was ninth, is city comptroller, and James H. Mulheron, who was tenth, is a pottery superintendent and a former member of Assembly.

Donnelly, 8,394; Fell, 7,959; Burk, 6,820; La Barre, 6,253; Lee, 6.160; Hutchins, 5,981; Waldron, 5,667; Henry, 5,024; Evans, 4,114; Mulheron, 3,264.

W. H. Bennett, of Westervelt avenue, has friends from New York visiting him.

COMPLETE DETAILS FOR LOUDENSLAGER FUNERAL

Paulsboro, Aug. 16.—Finel arrangements for the funeral of Representative Henry C. Loudenslager were made with the selection of the following active pallbears: William J. Browning, David Baird and Isaac L. Moffett, of Camden; G. Dudley Whitney and Lawrence W. Sickler, of Glassboro, and Wilson D. Gill, of Paulsboro.

The services took place from the Loudenslager home at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Alexander Carson, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

The dead Congressman was a past great sachem of the Great Council of Red Men of the State, and the full board of great chiefs and past great sachems attended the funeral, along with Delaware Tribe of Red Men of Paulsboro, of which he was a charter member. Camden lodges of Elks, Masons and Odd Fellows were in attendance and held services at the grave in Eglinton Cemetery, Clarksboro.

ATKINSON IS NOT OUT FOR THE SENATORSHIP

After admitting that he had been approached repeatedly by friends who wish to promote harmony between the Collins and anti-Collins factions, William Mayo Atkinson, of Elizabeth, in an interview said that owing to press of business he would be unable to run at the primaries for the nomination for the State Senatorship in Union county. Because of his activity at the Legislature, Mr. Atkinson is considered as a candidate who would make a strong run at the primaries if he could be prevailed upon to run, and in the event of the combination being secured would carry a heavy vote in the outlying districts. His interest in behalf of the commuters and the railroad shippers in their attempt to make the freight car demurrage rule more favorable to them has won him a host of friends who are anxious for him to run. During past campaigns he has been an active stump speaker and was closely connected with the Democratic committee in 1908 and the State committee in other years.

When asked to make a statement Mr. Atkinson said: "There are too many good Democrats at this time who desire the nomination. It is hard to choose between them, because they are men who for years have done loyal and unceasing work for the party. There is no dearth of material and so it is not unpatriotic at this time for one not to wish to run for a nomination or to be elected to office. I am crowded with work and to run for the nomination and to be elected and to accept the State Senatorship would injure my law practice very much.

"If the Democrats nominate a strong man he cannot be elected unless he is known in advance to be in entire sympathy with the administration of Governor Woodrow Wilson, for if he is not he will neither get the independent vote nor the rank and file of the party vote."

This New Model Is Now Here

The new model Chalmers "30," the big bargain of the 1912 season, bas arrived and is now in our salesroom for your inspection.

The Chalmers "30" was the first real automobile offered to the public at a medium price. It set a standard in automobile value four years ago, and is still a leader. It has always been a standard by which other cars were judged.

It is the car of the most advanced design; a car that has been more widely copied than any other. It has a grace of line and finish not excelled in the costliest cars; it has given satisfactory service to 15,000 owners; it is backed by an absolute guarantee for one year.

Each season the Chalmers '30" has been greatly increased in value without increasing the price. This season we have more to offer, both in quality and price, than ever before.

Last year this car sold for $1,750, equipped with magneto, gas lamps, top and windshield. Think of it this year—improved in every possible way with thoroughly ventilated fore-door bodies, inside control, magneto, gas lamps, Prest-O-Lite tank, and including also Chalmers Mohair top and automatic windshield—for $1,500.

We ask you to inspect this new 1912 Model.

Comparison has sold more Chalmers cars than all of our advertising. We think you will agree that claims are unnecessary in view of such value at such a price.

May we demonstrate it to you?

INDIAN GIRL REGRETS COLLEGE EDUCATION.

Kansas City, Aug. 16.—With the prospect of being a squaw the only future in store for her, an Indian girl, educated in the latest methods of civilization, Miss Maggie Mitchell, who was here with a party of Ponca Indians, of which tribe she is a member, fears the future.

White Eagle, chief of the tribe, and who takes his name from the home of the Indians at White Eagle, Okla., and thirty other Indians, were in the party with Miss Mitchell. They were on their way home from Walthill, Neb., where every year the Indian tribes gather.

Miss Mitchell has been a student at Haskell Institute at Lawrence, Kan., for five years and was the only one of the Indians dressed in the garb of civilization. When asked what she had planned for her future, she replied:

"I hate to think of the time when I must leave Haskell for good. Of course, I must go back to the reservation. My father is still alive and it would be cruel to desert him. I must go back to the tepee and the blanket and then it will be only a question of time when my father persuades me to marry. I shall be just a squaw. I am sorry now that I ever went to Haskell for my life will be a continual looking backward."

CONGRESS IS STIRRED BY THE ASTOR TROTH.

Washington, Aug. 17.—National protests against the contemplated wedding of Colonel John Jacob Astor and Miss Madeleine Force culminated here yesterday in the introduction of two resolutions in the House of Representatives by Representative eorge W. Norris calling for a new code of laws to govern marriage and divorce in the various States.

Both resolutions request the President to invite the Governors of the various States to send delegates to a congress for the purpose of proposing to the State Legislature a uniform law on this subject.

"Of course," said Representative Norris, discussing his resolution, "the proposed Astor-Force wedding is a timely illustration of the necessity of strict laws regulating marriage and divorce, but the Astor case is only one of thousands which should be forbidden by law."

ELIZABETH SOCIALISTS BUSY.

Elizabeth, Aug. 16.—The Elizabeth Socialists are going to make a determined effort this fall for representation on the Board of Aldermen. They are concentrating their efforts in the Fifth ward, where many of them live.

The term of Alderman Peter Tag, Republican, expires this year and the Socialist teachers are openly boasting that he will be succeeded by a Socialist. The Democratic and Republican leaders admit they are doubtful as to the result in the Fifth and say they would not be surprised if the third party won out.

The Socialists have been conducting a vigorous campaign during the summer and have held several Sunday rallies.

GARFIELD WANTS NO COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Garfield, a borough of 10,000 population, yesterday rejected the commission form of government by 251 votes to 196. For the adoption of hte Walsh act 219 votes were necessary. Each of the three districts in the borough went against the act.

Mindreaders at Proctor's.

To foretell coming events, just what is going to happen in the far or near future, has always and always be a topic of conversation of every race. Everyone wants to know if they are going to have wealth, happiness, business success, to find one's lost relatives, to have a sweetheart and know that she is going to be true. Aletheia and Aleko, the mysterious Greeks, exponents of telepathy and prophetic vision, are prepared to answer all of these questions at Proctor's. This is the third return engagement of these remarkable people, and those who afiled to ask vital questions during their previous engagement will have the opportunity now. Don't miss it. Christine Hill and Co. in the excellent Italian dramatic sketch, "Fate," the scene in a fruit store in "Little Italy," N. Y., will prove to be a holder of one's interest throughout the act. There are four characters. Ziska and Saunders, in a magic singing and comedy act will be the fun makers. The Wartenberg Brothers, the world famous double foot jugglers, close the show.

Miss Margaret and James Conroy, of Stone street, are spending their vacations in Pottersville and Gladstone, N. J.

TAKE FINAL EXAMS

Pupils in City Summer School Finished Their "Make-up Work" This Morning.

SCHOOL CLOSES TOMORROW.

Few Failures Have Occurred During Six Weeks' Term—The Attendance Has Been Regular.

Final examinations on the "make-up work" were held this morning in the city public summer school which closes tomorrow. The school, which has been running for the past six weeks, has been most successful in the attempt to help those pupils in the city public schools who have failed in various subjects during the regular school year. Upon passing the final tests, which were given this morning, the pupils will be given certificates of promotion in the lower grammar grades and the eighth grade students will be graduated to the high school, the diploma being presented them by Dr. Henry M. Maxson, suprintendent of the local schools. All high school pupils will be given certificates, reinstating them in their classes, provided they pass the summer school work.

The school has been in charge of Mrs. S. L. Wardner, who is well known to every boy and girl registered in the city schools during the past ten years. Mrs. Wardner has been a teacher for 48 years, having started her pedagogical work when she was seventeen years old. It has been largely due to her congenial manner that all the pupils have worked faithfully to make up their deficiences. A spirit of harmany and earnest effort has prevailed in all the classes and a personal touch between teachers and pupils has been noticeable.

Contrary to expectations, there were few of the pupils who, having entered, dropped off the registration rolls without completing their work. At the beginning of the term, 150 pupils were entered in the school, these coming from the grammar and high school grades. By the fifth week of instruction, the majority of students had taken their examinations, passed them, and given their certificates. During this last week only 45 pupils were left to take the final exambinations.

None of the pupils stopped their work before they had attended the sessions for at least three weeks. The majority of the eighth grade delinquents passed their examinations in three weeks time, some of these having carried three subjects. The entire class in United States history, which numbered seventeen, boys and girls, finished its work in three weeks and passed high examinations.

In the high school department, the largest classes have been those in first year algebra, which subject causes more failures in that institution than all the others put together. The deficient pupils in this branch of the work have been taught by Milton St. John and only four have failed to pass the examinations. Three failures have been recorded in plane geometry and two in botany.

More girls have been in attendance at the school during the six weks than boys, although the number of the fairer sex is not greatly in excess. Mrs. Wardner said this morning that considering the fact that boys will be boys and that the summer is their opportunity for a good time, their attendance at the summer sessions is remarkable. Mrs. Wardner also stated that the heat has caused very little trouble in the week for the Whittier school building is situated so that all of the classrooms are cool in the morning.

The staff of teachers has numbered six throughout the entire term. Mrs. S. L. Wardner and Mrs. George Davis, a graduate of Alfred University, have been in charge of the grammar department work. Mrs. Davis took the place of Miss Margaret Case, whose illness caused her retirement on the first day of the term. Miss Anna Rafferty, a graduate of Et. Elizabeth's College and also of the Plainfield High School, has been instructing in French, physiology, and Latin in the high school classes while Harold Schenck, of Rutgers College, has been teaching Latin and German. Miss Ruth Bullock, a graduate of Wellesley, has taken the classes in English and history. Milton St. John, of New York University, has had charge of the work in the high school department and has taught classes in algebra, geometry, botany and physical geography.

MR. OSGOOD LOSES SIGHT IN ONE EYE

Joseph O. Osgood, of Myrtle avenue, is recovering from the effects of a peculiar mishap by which he has been temporarily deprived of the sight of one eye. It is hoped that the sight will not be impaired although it will be some time before a permanent cure is affected.

Mr. Osgood was washing his face several days ago when he experienced a sensation in the eye ball and immediately the sight was gone. He felt no sense of pain particularly and thought that his eye had become filled with soapy water, but after drying his face the vision did not return and he became alarmed. He consulted a physician, who upon examination said that a small blood vessel had burst and clouded the optic.

The occurrence has not caused Mr. Osgood any loss of time from business although it seriously handicaps him and is a source of worriment to himself and friends. He is chief engineer of the Jersey Central Railroad, president of the North Plainfield Board of Health and was prominently mentioned as a candidate for mayor of the borough on the Democratic ticket.

NO SLIGHT OFFERED WILSON SAYS STOKES

Former Governor E. C. Stokes explains in the following letter published in the New York Times today that there was no slight given Governor Wilson when President Taft visited Asbury Park this week:

"The absurd stories sent out concerning the attitude of the Ocean Grove Association toward Gov. Wilson in connection with the visit of President Taft as the guest of the association on Tuesday evening, August 15, make necessary a true statement of the case.

"President Taft, through the influence of Gov. Murphy, Congressman Andrus, and other friends of the associat'on, comes to Ocean Grove in a civic capacity as a guest of the association and not of the State. The indefiniteness surrounding the movements of the President, the time of his arrival, the manner in which he would come made it impossible to send out invitations. For that reason only one invitation was sent, and that to the Governor of the State.

"Prior to the sending of the invitation I wrote the Governor informally, explaining to him the arrangements were indefinite, that an invitation would be sent to him as soon as we could arrive at a definite plan, and that I wrote him this in advance, knowing that he was a busy man, so that he could arrange his plans to suit his own convenience. As soon as we had any definite information at all the Governor of the State was sent the following invitation:

"'Dear Governor: The committee on the reception of President Taft will deem it an honor to have you meet them at the residence of Mr. A. H. De Haven, 5 Ocean Pathway, Ocean Grove, on Tuesday evening, August 15, at 7:45 o'clock, and will be glad to know as to the time of your coming and how you will come, and if you will want us to send an automobile for you.'

"Every effort was made upon the part of the association and the members of the committee to show the utmost courtesy to Gov. Wilson, and this was done in the best way that we knew how. The Governor's response to my informal letter is ecuched in the most cordial terms, and I am sure that he fully understands the situation.

Raided Crap Players.

Roundsman Higgins broke up a crap game in the cellar of the North Avenue station last night and made prisoners of the sextette of players who were "fading the nickle." They were Joseph Parsons, William Bird, Henry Lewis, John Scott, William Morton and Dominic Parnelli. The latter was but a spectator, he said, and the others confirmed his statement. Fines of $5 each was imposed on Bird, Scott and Parsons. Sentence was suspended on Morton and Lewis.

Elks Game Today.

Plainfield Elks will have the hardest proposition of the season on their baseball schedule this afternoon when they tackle their antlered brothers from Bridgeport, Conn., on Crescent Oval. McCann, a former Eastern league star, will do the pitching for the visiting Elks and O'Rourke will do the catching. Warry MacLoughlin is slated to be on the slab for the local lodge and Jack Torpey will back him up behind the bat. After the game, the players will be banqueted at the Hotel Waldorf.

RECOVERS ON NOTE

Court Directs Verdict For Payment in Full to an Innocent Holder.

DEFENSE OF FRAUD FAILS.

A suit to recover on a note given the late E. D. Middlekauf as treasurer of the National Mining and Leasing Company, by Andrew Wyckoff, of Hopewell, was tried this morning in the District Court and resulted in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, William H. Abbott, for the full amount of the note with costs and interest. This was termed a test suit as there are a number of similar cases pending and great importance was attached to the outcome.

The original note was for $470 and was made by Mr. Wyckoff on November 28, 1910. In February of this year he made a payment of $70 and renewed the note for the balance. The paper was discounted by Mr. Abbott for Mr. Middlekauf, but when it became due Mr. Wyckoff refused to pay it on the ground that the stock in the National Mining and Leasing Company, for which the note had been given, was worthless. Prior to the note falling due Mr. Middlekauf had died.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy represented Mr. Wyckoff and endeavored to show that his client had given the note on a fradulent transaction but was unaware at the time that the transaction was a fraud. W. L. Hetfield, Jr., as counsel for Mr. Abbott, brough out that if there had been fraud, his client had not been a party to it and had discounted the note in good faith, which under the law gave him, as an innocent third party, protection.

Judge William Newcorn directed the judy to return a verdict for the full amount of the note with interest and costs, which was done.

WILSON IS DEMANDED BY THE TEXAS LEAGUE

An appeal to the Democrats of Texas to join in the movement to make Governor Woodrow Wilson President was issued this week by the executive committee of the Texas State Woodrow Wilson Democratic League. After directing attention to the fact that while the south has furnished more than three-quarters of the Democratic electoral vote, it has been seventy years since a southern Democrat has been President. The appeal continues:

"The hour has come, and the man, a man inheriting the proudest tradition of our past and representing the best hope of our future; a man of political and moral courage, who, although president of a northern university, did not hesitate to denounce the great crime of reconstruction as unconstitutional, intolerable and a 'regime of power badly used.' Let Texas lead the way."

SOME GOOD SHOWS

Manager Sanderson's Bookings For Early Presentation at Local House.

ELSIE JANIS IS COMING SOON.

Thomas Jefferson to Be Seen Here—"Alma, Where Do You Live?" and "Over Night" for Presentation In Sept.

For early presentation at the Plainfield theatre, Manager Sanderson has booked some extraordinarily good shows. The season will really begin on Thursday night, August 24, when "Jolly" John Larkins will appear in "Royal Sam." For several years, Larkins has been with the Black Patti show. Two nights later, Saturday, August 26, "The Water Wagon," carrying a hogshead of fun, will be the vehicle.

Joe Weber's "Alma, Where Do You Live," a musical comedy which was one of Broadway's best attractionc last season, will be on the boards. "The Confession," one of the most powerful dramas of recent years, will be the Labor Day offering. The following night, Tuesday, Sept. 5, "Seven Days" will be presented. Baily and Thomas in "The Top of the World" come next.

Elsie Janis has been booked for Monday night, Sept. 11, and naturally she will be greeted by a crowded house. On Saturday night, Sept. 16, "Mut and Jeff" Bud Fisher's creations, will amuse the audience. George M. Cohan's "The Fortune Hunter," plays a return engagement on Tuesday night, Sept. 19. Another big Broadway success of last season, William A. Brady's side-splitting comedy "Over Night" is due on Wednesday night, Sept. 20. Following it for Saturday night, Sept. 23, Thomas Jefferson, son of the immortal Joseph Jefferson, will be seen in the imperishable 'Rip VanWinkle." Other shows booked for the month are "The Smart Set" for Thursday night, Sept. 28, and "Let George Do It," for Saturday night, Sept. 30.

NEW MARKET STIRRED BY A COURT TRIAL.

A trial which aroused interest to such an extent that farmers left their fields to attend, was held yesterday afternoon in the fire house at New Market. It was the hearing of a breach of promise case brought by the Township of Piscataway against Richard Carter, colored, of West Third street. Carrie Carter, also colored, no relation to the defendant, made the complaint to the township authorities.

After the verdict had been pronounced by "the twelve men good and true," the spectators stood about the building and inconvenienced those who were endeavoring to back in the hose wagon which had been run outside to make more room. They were discussing the merits of the case from all possible phases and become so engrossed in the discussion that several were nearly run down. One fact stood out prominently and that was the impression made by Justice Clark T. Rogers, who presided and interpreted the statutes with "profound wisdom and understanding."

A number of witnesses were called by both sides and the testimony offered was drunk in like old wine. It also had a similar effect for it convulsed the spectators, compelling them to evince their emotions notwithstanding the "rap, rap, rap" of the Justice's gavel and his threat to clear the court if order was not maintained. City Judge William G. DeMeza appeared for the defendant and Winfield S. Angleman was counsel for the township. The jury was out an hour and returned a verdict of no cause for action.

Feed Company Wins Suit.

The Plainfield Feed Company was given a verdict for $29, the amount of an outstanding bill against Peter Alexander, of Somerset street, by Judge William Newcorn in the District court this morning. J. Henry Crane, of this city, was the counsel for the feed company and Robert Newton Crane appeared for the defendant. The defendant claimed that he never received the goods but it was shown that he had been using them right along.

Agents for Auto-Fire Engines.

The Woodhouse-Lough Engine Company, of East Front street, have closed a deal with the Nott Fire Engine Company, for the control of the Nott Company's apparatus sales in New Jersey. This is the concern supplying the New York fire department with automobile fire engines, the selection of their apparatus being made after a close inspection of those of several other makers.

Dorrance Smith, of Grove street, is spending his vacation in Canada.

BOOM FOR SHERIFF

Robert H. McAdams' Friends Back Him For Democratic Nomination.

OTHERS ARE IN THE RACE.

The steamer Sirius returned to Elizabeth last night with 1,500 tired but happy Democrats, who had the most successful outing yet held by the organization. There was plenty of fun for all at Witzel's Grove, Long Island Sound, the objective point of the excursionists. Most of the Elizabeth officeholders and many who expect to be aboard were shaking hands and doing a little plain and fancy buttonholing.

Collins men and regulars mixed for the day, but that was all, and no gulfs of discord were bridged. Financially and socially, however, the affair was a pronounced success. Most of the old-time Democrats were on board, and all of the leaders.

One of the surprises of the outing was the circulating of a petition for Robert H. McAdams, of the Elizabeth city committee, for sheriff. John J. Collins, fire commissioner there, who had been very much in the race for the shrievalty, it was reported, would withdraw. The entrance of McAdams makes four and probably five entries, however. The others are J. Logan Fay, George H. Schlotterer, both of Elizabeth; William H. Clarkson, of Rahway, and probably ex-Assemblyman Brodhead, of this city. Mr. McAdams is chairman of the Union County Election Board.

Former State Committeeman Peter Egnolf was on board and had some things not highly complimentary to say regarding State Committeeman D. F. Collins, regarding the latter's part in the recent State committee meeting. Mr. Egnolf questions the legality of the session.

JERSEY POSTMASTERS TO MEET AT ASBURY

The fourth annual convention of the New Jersey State Association of Presidential Postmasters will convene at Asbury Park August 29, 30 and 31, and Postmaster W. H. Bannard, of that place, is making arrangements for the arrival and entertainment of the guests. The headquarters of the convention will be at the Hotel Brunswick.

The annual banquet of the postmasters will be held in the Brunswick Casino on the evening of Wednesday, August 30. On Thursday evening, August 31, the Monmouth County Association will tender the postmasters of New Jersey a clambake at Neptune Heights. The Dixie Serenaders will entertain during the bake, and a great time is anticipated. At the baby parade a block of seats will be reserved for the postmasters and their wives, and other arrangements will be made for the pleasure of the postmasters and their wives during their visit to the city.

When arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning, Martin Selan, of North Plainfield, who was arrested Tuesday afternoon on complaint of the management of a local hotel, pleaded guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct. As this was the first time he has ever been arrested on such a charge, Judge DeMeza allowed him to go under a suspended sentence, after giving some good advice on the evils of over indulgence in strong liquor.

Goes to Troy, N. Y.

Rev. John Duerschner and family, of Stone street, left today for Troy, New York, where he will be the pastor of Trinity Lutheran church. For the last six years he has been pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church at Mercer avenue and Grove street. He leaves, he said today, with only the pleasantest memories of Plainfield. His departure is regretted by all who had the good fortune to know him here.

Announces Engagement.

At an informal heart party given last evening, Mrs. A. F. TenEyck, of East Sixth street, announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Bessie Rizpah TenEyck, to John Wesley Hegeman, son of W. J. R. Hegeman, of Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield.

CHICKEN ORDINANCE OFFENDERS IN COURT

Two complaints, the first brought by the Board of Health under the new ordinance relating to keeping chickens, were heard this morning before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court. The defendants, Thomas Burke, of West Third street, and David Steinman, of New street, were charged by Health Officer John O'Brien with allowing their chickens to roam about at large in violation of the ordinance.

The complaint filed alleged that on July 26, 28, August 2 and 11, the chickens were seen running at large by either the health officer or some of his inspectors. The defendants denied that the chickens in question were their property as they had built runways adjacent to the coops to comply with the law, but as the fouls were on their property and as the defendants were not at home when the alleged violation took place they were warned by the court to see to it that the runway is made secure so that it would be impossible for the chickens to get out. This they promised to do and were further instructed to tell the members of their families to keep a watch so that if any of the chickens got out to chase them inside at once, as it was the intention of the court to enforce the ordinance and further violation would mean the imposition of a fine.

NOT SO INNOCENT AS I LOOK--WILSON

Ten thousand persons greeted Gov. Wilson when he appeared at Belvidere yesterday afternoon to be the chief speaker at the farmers' annual picnic. Hundreds came from Sussex and Hunterdon counties, New Jersey, and Northampton county, Pennsylvania, to aid the farmers of Warren county in their celebration and to hear Gov. Wilson.

Former Judge William H. Morrow introduced Gov. Wilson, who spoke for thirty minutes, mainly on the corrupt practices act and the victory of the Democratic party at the polls. He said that every pledge had been lived up to, and he congratulated the people on their fidelity to principle.

"Men who disregard this act in New Jersey," said the Governor, "cannot have office. We will find room for all such men at Trenton. That is what prisons are for. We must stand shoulder to shoulder for good government, and we will win out."

The Governor said he would drive every man into the open. There must be no lying down at all, he said. The Governor continued:

"There must be no private conferences and no putting up of a game on the party. I am going to tell everything I know, and I know a good deal. I am on to their curves. I am not half as innocent as I look. I here serve notice on all men who are playing double that the game is up with them. There are men I could name who have had the chance of their lives. I have asked them whom they serve—the organization or the people. I serve notice on them that the game for them is up. They have preferred burial with dishonor to life with honor."

Some present believed that this had reference to Nugent, the recently deposed chairman of the Democratic State Committee, but Governor Wilson refused to talk on the matter.

WARREN'S EXCURSION TO ASBURY PARK TODAY.

Twenty cars were required to convey the crowd going on the annual excursion of Warren chapel to Asbury Park today. The train was run in two sections and as each pulled out there was a great waving of hands and handkerchiefs from the car windows to those standing on the platform whose duties prevented them joining with the happy throng. The sky was overcast when the train pulled out but all aboard were optimistic that it would be clear when the shore was reached. Their hopes were realized.

J. W. Gavett was chairman of the committee in charge and was ably assisted in seeing the excursionists aboard by David Ryno, Peter VanFleet, Benjamin Moore, Patrolmen Saffron and Meyers and Agent Kohler, of the Central Railroad.

Not a Candidate.

When seen this morning by a Daily Press reporter regarding the rumor that he would be a candidate for member of the Common Council, Henry L. Hall, of Woodland avenue, said emhpatically that he was not a candidate for the Council nor for any other city office, for his duties as a member of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital consumed all the time he is able to devote to public work.

MR. WILL'S DEATH

Aged and Highly Respected Resident Has Passed Away.

AT THREE SCORE AND TEN.

Frederick H. Wills, aged seventy years, a resident of this city for more than twenty-five years, died yesterday at his home on East Seventh street, after an illness of several months. A general breaking down induced by old age was the cause of death. Funeral services will be held at Grace Episcopal church Saturday morning at 10:45, and the remains will be taken to Woodlawn cemetery, New York, for interment.

Mr. Wills was a native of England and came to America in 1864 after he had been graduated from the Birkenhead school. He engaged in the insurance brokerage business in New York in 1868 and was still active in business when taken ill. He was married in Brooklyn in 1870 and removed to Plainfield several years later. Mrs. Wills died about three years ago.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, of Park avenue; Harold A. and Arthur L. Wills, both residing at home, and George R. Wills, at present in South America.

In a quiet way Mr. Wills took a deep interest in the welfare of this city during his residence here and was actively associated with the religious and charitable life of Grace Episcopal church. In his unobtrusive manner he had formed the strong friendship of a large circle of friends, by whom he was held in high esteem for his loyalty, high mindedness and unselfishness. Honorable in all his business transactions he had won the respect of a large clientele and attained a place of conspicuous eminence in his business.

BRAKEMAN SUCCUMBED OF INJURIES YESTERDAY.

So badly crushed was Reinhold Blumich, a brakeman living at Elizabeth, near the Elizabeth General Hospital, when he fell between two cars of a freight train at the transfer yards of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, near Trumbull street, about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, that he died at 7:05 last night at the hospital in Elizabeth. His legs were practically severed from his body at the thighs, and the surgeons marveled at his ruggedness in surviving so long. He was conscious part of the time and made a brave fight for life.

Scores of neighbors called at the hospital this afternoon to inquire for Blumich. He was known to many attaches at the hospital because of his near residence and was very popular. He was well known in German circles and had made Elizabeth his home for many years. He had been employed for some time by the Central Railroad Company.

Although living so near the hospital it was not known for several hours after his removal there what the injured man's name was. A neighbor finally learned of his removal there and told the family.

The spot where he met death is a veritable network of tracks and has been the scene of many such tragedies.

Blumich is survived by a widow and daughter.

HE COMPLAINS AGAINST FOUR MISCHEVIOUS BOYS.

Jacob Bedell, of West Fourth street, lodged a complaint in the police court against four boys of that neighborhood, this morning, charging that they acted in a disorderly manner in his store last night and when he refused to serve them with ice cream he was threatened with an eighteen-inch butcher knife. Frank Harding is alleged to have flourished the blade in a manner calculated to scare acquiesence to their demands into the storekeeper, but instead of having their effect it aroused his fighting blood and grabbing a stick that he keeps behind the counter to pack the ice in the ice cream freezers, he chased the lads from the place.

The boys, whose ages are about thirteen, will be arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court tomorrow morning. They are Frank Harding, John Duir, John Locke and Tommy Bunn.

My Corns Don't Hurt A Bit

Tired, Aching, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Callouses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-bye to your corns the very first time you use T I Z. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after T I Z than if there had never been a blemish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this.

"The corns on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you make to cure them. To-day there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend.—Sam. A. Hoover, Progress, N. C.

Just use T I Z. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. T I Z cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. T I Z is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill

The improvement in Pope Pius' health was well maintained.

Stocks were weak in an active market in New York yesterday.

Cardinal Moran, of Sydney, N. S. W., died of syncope; his removal creates the twenty-third vacancy in the College of Cardinals.

The Supreme Court of New York denied the application for an injunction to stop the construction of the Lexington avenue subway.

Judge Rosalsky denied W. T. Jerome's plea for leniency for the thirteen indicted poultry men and imposed a sentence of three months in jail and a fine of $500 on each of them.

New York Health Department records showed a large increase in typhoid fever, which, it was said, had been traced to ten milk companies, although its source had not been found.

Dr. Wiley told a Congressional investigating committee how he was overruled in the food inspection board, and said he never received the letter on which the Dr. Rusby charges were based.

David A. Sullivan was held in $15,000 bail following his indictment for alleged forgeries while president of the old Mechanics and Traders' Bank of Brooklyn, but failed to furnish a bond and was sent back to jail.

Further rioting was reported in Liverpool, and another attempt was made to rescue strike prisoners, but there was no firing; all attempts at conciliation made by the government failed, and a general railway strike is expected for today.

Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, who arrived on the Olympic, denied the interview ascribed to him, and spoke favorably of the prospects for peace, although he said it depended on the sufficiency and efficiency of the British navy.

Atwood, the Boston aviator, reached Toledo on his proposed cross country fight from St. Louis to Boston; he covered the distance from Elkhart, Ind., to Toledo, 135 miles in two hours and fifty-six minutes; he announced that he might discontinue his flight at New York, instead of continuing to Boston.

Three men were arrested at Coatesville, Penn., in connection with the burning of a negro on Sunday night; the funeral of the policeman shot to death by the negro, it was announced, would take place today, but no further trouble was feared, as the state constabulary was still on the scene; more arrests were expected directly after the funeral.

Congress.—Senate: The Democrats agreed to support iron and steel amendments to the cotton bill after a long caucus; the campaign publicity bill agreed on; Stephenson election inquiry committee named; committees of both houses worked on new statehood bill. House: Judiciary Committee set December 7 for hearings on the Clayton contempt bill; consideration of the free list bill prevented by debate on the Black Warrior River, Ala., dam measure.

WOMAN IN AUTO HELD UP BY IRATE FARMERS.

Hackensack, Aug. 17.—When an automobile in which were Mrs. Abraham Whitley, of Leonia, and her son, frightened a farm team and caused thirty-two crates of tomatoes to fall on the ground, farmers held up the auto and refused to let it proceed. They demanded $75 from Mrs. Whitley, and threatened her unless the money was paid.

It was not until word reached Sheriff Conklin and four of his trusty undersheriffs hurried to the scene, that the autoists were able to get away. The officers succeeded in coaxing the farmers from the machine and young Whitley seeing a chance cranked up the car and sent it along at high speed.

PREDICTED HIS OWN DEATH.

Trenton, Aug. 17.—The prediction of Max Corsnick, a tailor, of 12 Camden street, that he would die very shortly, came true early Tuesday morning when he was found dead in bed at his home.

Corsnick, who was thirty-five years old, told his thirteen-year-old daughter Annie before he retired on Monday night that he did not have long to live and would die shortly. Then he kissed the girl and went to bed. He leaves a wife and six children.

THIEVES GET PAPERS ON ELECTION FRAUDS.

Atlantic City, Aug. 17.—Robbery, believed to be the work of agents hired to secure papers which it is said involved big men of the city in crooked deals during the last election, was perpetrated Tuesday afternoon at the Hotel Continental.

The thieves forced entrance into the apartment of Franklin H. Holliday, who was in charge of the investigation here for the Democrats, and rifled the room of all data they could find relating to the probe.

They secured evidence that can be replaced only by hard work, but data concerning the biggest cases had been taken from the room only a few hours before by Holliday to use in a conference with Assistant Attorney-General Gaskill and Charles Moore, foreman of the grand jury.

Formal complaint was made to Police Chief Woodruff by Mr. Holliday and Mr. Gaskill, who furnished a complete list of the stolen papers.

About 2 o'clock a short man appeared at the hotel. The stranger inquired for Mr. Holliday and got the number of his room. After going to the room, the man went out.

At 2.20 the proprietress of the hotel saw two well-dressed young men come down the steps from the second floor. They carried a suit case. Mr. Holliday returned to his room to find the door unlocked. Papers were scattered over the bed and littered about the floor. Lying on the bed was a suit case. The robbers had "jimmied" it and extracted everything inside. Similar treatment had been accorded a traveling bag that had been placed in the closet. In this were many papers that contained reference to cases in the investigation.

Only a general description of the suspected trio has been secured.

Train Runs Down Five Men.

A carriage containing five men employed on the Senator Frelinghuysen estate, was struck by a train on an unprotected crossing of the South Branch Railroad, near Duke's Park, Tuesday. The horse was instantly killed, the carriage demolished, and the occupants were hurled for a considerable distance along the track, but were only slightly hurt. The men were Joseph Hadley, H. L. Rankin, Michael Schurtz, John Donohue and John Courtney.

A Responsible Role.

"Don't you enjoy having summer boarders?"

"Not much," replied Mr. Corntossel. "Most of them read the comic papers. Mandy insists on my eating with my knife and saying 'b'gosh' so as to keep 'em convinced that I'm a regular farmer."—Washington Star.

High Bridge Church Suffers.

High Bridge, Aug. 17.—During the storm which passed over this place Tuesday afternoon lightning struck St. Joseph's Catholic church, in Main street, doing considerable damage. The bolt entered the front of the building, ripped off many slates and boards and ran to the back of the edifice, damaging the walls. An alarm was turned in, and the local fire department responded. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Dr. S. A. Aldrich, of Grant avenue, returns from his vacation Saturday.

Miss Carrie Coon, of Watchung avenue, is spending two weeks' vacation at Carbondale, Pa., and other points of interest.

Consolation thought for today—The Elks' game for the Oval this afternoon has not been cancelled.

The local "Hello-Bills" are sure to be on the diamond with a romp although they wil have to go some to show their heels to that Bridgeport herd.

But even at that there's a game at Scotch Plains Saturday and that is only a short distance away.

From reports circulating at an early hour this morning when the first birds chirped their musical notes from the lofty tree tops, we learn that Tommy Mullen will go back to Alberts' fold like a real prodigal. Tommy has been doing bench duty for the Pets now that Hartman is back on the job and it is said that his Sunday playing with the McNulty Brothers is not as beneficial financially as it was during the first part of the season.

Joe Harter is taking a slump in his usual speedy playing nowadays. For the last two games he has only made one safe clout per game. That's not very good for Joe, who has the habit of slamming out at least two or three hits during nine innings.

It looks as if Manager Bogardus, of the Dunellen team, has a find in Percy Harney, of Bound Brook, who is doing the slab work for the Dunellenites now. Percy is a brother of the one time famous Norman Harney, who won the plaudits of the fans in a Bound Brook uniform two and three years ago, when he was the terror of the batsmen in this vicinity. Percy seems to have all of his brother's speed and almost as fine an assortment of curves. With a few more years of experience he will be a wonder in local pitching circles.

With three more games to be played in the city Sunday school baseball league, it looks as if the cup of glory would go to the Monroe Avenue Methodists. They would have to dose every one of the remaining games and the Parks would have to win two to come out in the lead when the season closes September 2. It is one best bet that Trinity will never beat the Monroes in the last struggles on the schedule and so it looks all peaches for the Methodists.

But there are other teams in that Sunday school league.

Has Trinity any chance for the pennant?

Foolish questions No. 1.

Hans Wagner Hurt.

Pittsburgh's chances of carrying off the 1911 pennant in the National League materially decreased Tuesday when Hans Wagner received an injury which necessitated his retirement from the game between Pittsburgh and Brooklyn at Washington Park. An examination showed that the ligaments had been torn and a small piece broken off one of the small bones near the right ankle. Dr. W. D. Scanlon, the Brooklyn pitcher, who assisted in the examination, stated last night that Wagner would be out of the game for at least three weeks. As Wagner is the mainstay of the Pittsburgh team and the league's leading batsman, his loss will be severely felt.

Cliff Randolph to Quit.

It is reported that Cliff Randolph, the former local star twirler, will not pitch for the High Bridge any more this season. Cliff has not been in form this year at all, for an attack of typhoid fever during the winter weakened his pitching arm considerably. He quit his work in the New York State League and it is expected that he will now retire from the Central New Jersey organization for the remainder of the season.

O'Toole Works Today.

It is probable that Pitcher Marty O'Toole will make his debut against the Dodgers today. The $22,500 uncertainty isn't a bit shaky, but he modestly admits that he doesn't expect to burn up the circuit, at least not for awhile. Much dependence is being placed on O'Toole.

MEL SHEPPARD SEEKS HALF MILE RECORD

Mel Sheppard is all primed up for his assault on the world's half mile record held by Lunghi, the Italian, and he will endeavor to hand it a wallop next Sunday at the Eccentric Firemen's games at Celtic park. Sheppard will start among the classiest field ever gotton together for a race of this kind. He will do battle with his most noted rival, Abel Kiviat; Jack Monument, Joe Bromilow, Mike McLaughlin and Frank Riley.

The national half-mile champion believes deep down in his heart that in his present condition he can lower 1.52 4-5, the time made by Lunghi for 880 yards at Montreal in 1909. His best effort of most recent date was 1:53 2-5, considerable good time when you consider that he did not have the proper competition.

Sheppard, though most experts believe he can't turn the trick right now, has been training hard the past few weeks at Celtic park, and according to Trainer Lawson Robertson he will most assuredly be crowned the new champion shortly before the dark clouds cover up the staid Long Island park Sunday night.

SOME SWEDISH MARKS.

At last we have a slight line on the Swedish athletes, as the London A. C. team defeated a "representative" Swedish team six events to five at Norrkoeping, Sweden, on August 1. The Englishmen won the 100 meters in 11⅕ seconds, the 200 meters in 23 seconds, the 400 meters by a walkover in 52 4-5 seconds, the 800 meters (by 45 meters) in 2 minutes 3 4-5 seconds, the 1,500 meters in 4 minutes 17 1-5 seconds, with the best Swede following in 4 minutes 28 7-10 seconds, and a 400-meter relay race. The Swedes won the shot, the hammer, the discus and the high and broad jumps. It will be observed that all times were ordinary. No returns in the shot or hammer are as yet available. One wonders at the conditions, for even the field events are far below our best school standards.

Hackenschmidt Arrives.

George Hackenschmidt, ex-champion wrestler of the world, reached New York Tuesday on the Olympic and left at once for Chicago, where he is scheduled to battle for the championship against Frank Gotch on Labor Day. "I weigh 225 pounds now," said Hackenschmidt, "and this time I believe I will defeat Gotch. He is a sturdy wrestler, but I am not at all fearful of losing the match."

Secretary Fisher of the Interior Department left Seattle on a tour of that territory; he will inspect Katalla Bay and Controller Bay and the Cunningham coal claims.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Aug. 24 "Jolly" John Larkins and his happy flock of pretty girls and funny boys will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre, presenting the new big musical comedy, "Royal Sam." With a comedian like "Jolly" John Larkins to thrill and delight them, local lovers of the best in musical comedy are certain to attend in such goodly numbers as to refute completely the oft-repeated statement of late years that there is no longer any dmand for good singing and brilliant comedy. It is reported that a regular ovation was accorded to "Jolly" John Larkins and his associated singers during his recent metropolitan engagement. Included in his supporting company are Jennie Pearl, Walter Crumbley, Irving Boots Allen, Irene Tasker, Ethel Johnson, Anna Tyler, Jas. A. Lillard, George McClain and the finest singing chorus and pony ballet ever assembled. Everything will be brand new and up-to-date. John Larkins has completed a contract as co-star with Black Patti.

That much abused, the entirely admirable vehicle, "The Water Wagon," will pay a visit to Plainfield, Saturday evening, August 26. This particular wagon happens to be a three-act farcical comedy from the pen of Robert E. Homans, and will be produced by William A. Brady at Atlantic City, Philadelphia and New Jersey cities. The title of the farce is derived from a sanatarium where the "boys" go when a too hilarious adventure makes it necessary to mount "The Water Wagon." Two husbands are sent to this "sanatarium" afflicted with "injuries" received in a taxicab collision, and their loving but over-inquisitive wives visit them there, only to learn the real purpose of the convenience institution. "The Water Wagon" makes three stops on its journey of merriment and confusion, the first in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hatch, in New York city, and the last two in the operating room and parlor of the sanatarium on Long Island. The wagon will be driven by Herbert Corthell, assisted by a company of temperance players including many Broadway favorites. Following a stay at Asbury Park, the wagon will be moved to the Comedy Theatre in New York for an indefinite run. Those who are desirous of witnessing the movements of this anti-booze perambulator during its one night occupancy of the Plainfield will be able to secure tickets on and after August 21.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

"The Confession," James Halleck Reid's great moral play, that has created so much talk in New York city will appear at the Plainfield theatre on Labor Day. The play while dealing with a subject in a reverent, intelligent manner, does not depend upon that alone for its large audiences of interested spectators, its powerful dramatic situations, knit together with gripping power, hold Protestant, Jew and Catholic alike, breathless to the end of the play. However, it is the only theatrical amusement that members of the Catholic faith have been advised to attend during Lent. M. J. Lavelle, Vicar General of the Archbishopric of New York in an open letter commends the play and sanctioned its attendance during Lent. This is the first time in the history of New York city the vicar general has ever attended publicly in a theatre during the Lenten season. The author deserves immense credit of the reverent and intelligent manner in which he has handled his play. There is nothing in it at which even the most scrupulous could take offense, but on the contrary there is much to admire and a great deal to applaud, and judging from the large attendance, the play will doubtless remain in New York for the balance of this year.

THE TANGARA TUNIC.

Among the new tunics that have been devised in the midsummer is one that is directly copied from the Tangara figurines. These little statues have given many ideas to the dressmakers this season, since the classic style have been o much in fashion.

The drapery must be thin and supple. It is over a skirt of itself or one of another fabric. The idea is not only kept for elaborate gowns but is used with flowered organdies, with figured marquisettes and with all-over lace and messaline, which is coming back into fashion.

TO RENEW CAMPAIGN FOR 'LOCAL OPTION'

"The movement recently inaugurated by the State League to secure the organization of a County Local Option League, in every county of the State," says this week's number of the Issue, "is being pushed forward with energy and is meeting with gratifying success. The plan of organization is as follows: Membership in the league is open to all persons favoring local option. The usual executive officers are chosen, which, together with a district committeeman from every voting district in the county, and five or more members at large, constitute a board of managers. This board is to have the active oversight of the work of the league during the interim of the two annual meetings. A most important and vital feature of the county league is the formation of district committees, to be composed of persons from every locality in each voting district of the county, the member of the board of managers from such district being the chairmen of these committees.

"First of all these committees can secure lists of names in their respective communities to which literature may be sent. These lists will contain three classes of persons: Those who are heart and soul in favor of the liquor traffic; those who are equally allied to the cause of local option; and a third class who are not yet decided one way or the other. By patient and persevering investigation on the part of the local committee the different classes can be determined. With the same investment five pieces of literature may be sent to the last mentioned to every one sent the others.

"When the list of such persons is eventually secured covering the entire State, we are close to the day of victory, and the reason for this is that this class of citizens for the most part only need to know the real truth about local option to become adherents of the cause. These added to those already in favor of local option will ensure a decided supremacy in a large number of the counties of New Jersey.

"In addition to the above the work to be done is the distributing of literature through the mails and by hand; arranging for local meetings by securing halls, advertising the meeting; furnishing music, and so forth; and then engaging in all legitimate efforts to secure the presence of the voters who favor local option at the ballot box on election.

"Four important committees of the board of managers are called for in the work of the County League. A legislative committe whose work is to keep an eye open for possible candidates; a press committee to secure as far as possible the publication of facts relating to the general question of temperance reform in the county papers, and all items of interest connected with the county work; a finance committee to care for the funds of the league, and a committee on public meetings, to arrange itinerary of meetings and secure speakers.

"The aim has been to avoid elaborate and unworkable plans in this scheme of organization. Where the methods of work have been presented to workers at the conferences so far held they have met with instant approval, and have been adopted in the faith that they hold within them the largest promise of successful endeavor to bring the day of victory near."

CANNING HINTS.

What a satisfaction, at the close of the summer season, to review a long row or rows of jars and glasses filled with mellifluent fruits for the cold months to come. When a guest drops in unexpectedly, or an extra delicacy is wanted for the family table, to open the doors of the fruit cupboard and select a jar of preserves or dessert fruit from the shelves is the reward of the woman who braves the summer heat in canning season. In preserving the following rules should be observed:

Select only sound fruit as soon as possible after it is gathered.

Wash carefully all fruits that come from the market or the home garden if exposed to dust or an insecticide.

Make sure that all jars, rubbers, tops and kettles are clean and sanitary. Scald before using.

Never cook fruit in tin or iron vessels, but in enamel or poreclain-lined ones.

Have everything ready before you begin the work of canning and be sure that you haveenough cans or glasses. Pint cans are more convenient than quart cans.

Use the best granulated sugar, the purest spices and good cider vinegar. Arrange to do the bulk of the work in the cool of the early morning.

For canned fruits to be used in the making of pies, puddings and for dessert, sterlization is the secret of success.

Jars, covers, spoons and utensils should be put on the stove in cold water and allowed to come to the boiling point, then kept there fifteen minutes.

Canning fruit fresh in cold water is only possible in the case of cranberries, pieplant and green gooseberries.

The proportion of sugar should be gauged by the purpose for which the fruit is intended.

Canf ruits as they come in season and strive for variety as well as quantity.

MOTOR-DRIVEN FIRE APPARATUS THE BEST.

Another strong argument in favor of the use of the commercial truck for municipal purposes in large cities is the fact that in New York city within the next year over one hundred three-horse teams will have been retired to make way for motor-driven fire apparatus. One hundred and ten pieces of this are to be purchased.

We sent our reporter out to Geauga county last week to interview an old codger who was celebrating his 104th birthday.

"How do you acount for the fact that you have been able to attain this remarkable age?" asked our bright young man.

"To the fact that I have never worked a lick before breakfast," answered the centenarian.

"There's another thing that pa failed to mention," a son-in-law whispered in the newspaperman's ear.

"What is that?"

"He never done a lick of work after breakfast, neither. Git that in your story, too."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A CROSS-STITCH VARIATION.

A stitch that takes but about half the time of ordinary cross stitch and is a rapid filler is useful when a coarse cotton or silk is used on a rather fine canvas.

Two colors can be used in this way a darker for the under straight lines and a lighter tone or contrasting shade for the half stitches.

NOTHING TOO BAD.

It was close on midnight and the professional guest felt it was high time for him to stop playing.

"Perhaps I'd better not play any more etonight," he said, wearily. "I see you have neighbors, and they might be annoyed."

"You needn't mind them for a minute," said his hostess, earnestly. "We are perfectly sure they poisoned our cat, and if they did nothing is too bad for them."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

HOODS ON COATS.

Instead of a sailor collar the new thing is to have a V-shaped hood on the back of your coat. It runs over in long ends in front and is then caught with an ornament or a flat silk bow.

The hood is of lace; that is, heavy lace, or eyelet embroidery or old-fashioned batiste. It is edged with a scallop and finished with a heavy tassel made of white silk or linen floss. These are put on all the summer suits and are being shown on the best of the new cloth coats.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Harry Flannery, who was injured in the Elks' baseball game at Crescent Oval Thursday of last week, will probably be out of the game for the balance of the season. He is still confined to the house, the ankle not only being badly sprained, but the ligaments are torn and it will be several weeks before he will be able to get around without the aid of crutches.

It is reported that Tommy Mullin may soon return to his first love and don a Scotch Plains' uniform again. "Tommy" is too good a man to be benched and his returne to the locals would strengthen the team.

James Corrona, who was injured at the ball game at Berkeley Heights Sunday afternoon, is able to be around again, but it will be several days before he will be able to return to his position.

MacLaughlin and Hand will be the battery used by Manager Alberts in the game against Plainfield Saturday afternoon on the local grounds.

Miss Alice Johnson, who has been spending a week with Mrs. Thomas Walsh, of Prospect avenue, returned yesterday to her home in Brooklyn.

Albert Hengler, of Valley road, has returned from a short vacation, which was spent with friends on Staten Island.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Improvements have been made during the past week at the Paul Ratti fruit and confectionery store on North avenue. New glass counters and tables as well as fine plate glass cases have been installed.

Miss May Killeen has returned to her home in Worcester, Mass., after spending several weeks in the borough as the guest of Mis Mary Wahl.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church will have charge of the services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tonight.

Moses Ayers has gone into the vegetable business and has rented the store in the Liable building for his display of his goods.

Miss Jessie and Amy Haynes are spending a two weeks' vacation in the Berkshires.

George Voehl, who has been quite ill, is now able to be around the borough again.

Horace G. Long has returned from a stay in Buffalo, N. Y.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The dance platform for the picnic to be held Saturday afternoon and evening for the benefit of Sacred Heart church is complete and everything is in readiness for a good time.

Miss Winifred Saverd, who is in St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, is steadily improving.

Mrs. Frank Miller has returned from a visit with her mother in Plainfield, who is ill.

Mrs. John Hogan, who has been visiting friends in Plainfield, has returned home.

Mrs. Charles Brantingham has returned from a visit with friends in Perth Amboy.

Mrs. William Norman has returned from a visit with out of town friends.

PERSONAL.

Miss Helen Bogart, of East Sixth stret, left today for Ashville, N. C., where she will remain until after Labor Day.

William Woodruff, Raymond Hart and William Nischwitz have returned from a ten days' vacation spent at Sharon, Vt.

Miss Harriet Squiers, of Grove street, has returned from a five weeks' trip spent in Pottersville and Bernardsville.

Robert H. Bellows, of Woodland avenue, has taken a position with the Lenox Manufacturing Co., as traveling salesman.

Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Frazee, of South avenue, are residing for the summer on the Tingley farm at South Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Woodruff, of Westervelt avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Osland, of East Front street, leave tomorrow on an automobile trip which will take them to Delaware Water Gap, Scranton and Mt. Pocono.

ELECTRIC APPARATUS FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

The current issue of the Electrical World contains a timely article on automobile fire apparatus, which as it is of special interest to Plainfielders is herewith reproduced:

Motor vehicles have of late been taking a place of increasing prominence in fire department service, and where the horse has been discarded the area of protection has been greatly increased, both in urban and suburban fire fighting. The city of Springfield, Mass., has the distinction to be the first in the United States to make a thorough service application of the electric vehicle in fire department operation, an 85-ft. aerial ladder truck and a combination hose and chemical wagon having been propelled by electricity with entire sucess since their installation in March of the present year. Marked economies in the cost of operation are indicated by the use of electric vehicles in this important service, and as might have been expected, the apparatus has demonstrated 100 per cent. reliability, the fire department executives being enthusiastic in their praise of electric automobile equipment in place of horses.

The Springfield apparatus was selected only after an exhaustive investigation of the best types of gasoline engine-driven fire department equipment. Energy is supplied by the United Electric Light Company, of Springfield, and the equipment is house at the central headquarters station on Pynchon street, in the heart of the business district. New quarters will shortly be taken up in a new and improved station in the Court Square district, the latter being fitted wih only motor-driven apparatus and equipped with the latest type of signaling devices, automatic machinery and batteries. No provision for horses is being made in the new headquarters building.

The new electrically driven truck carries a total length of 325 ft. in ladders and a crew of seven men, all of whom are available for service after the equipment reaches a fire. The ladder truck was built by the Seagrave Company, Columbus, Ohio, and is driven by four 3 h. p., direct-current motors mounted in the wheels on the Couple-Gear system, energy being supplied from a battery of eighty cells of "National" seventeen-plate, "WBX" storage units. The truck has a guaranteed maximum speed of twenty miles per hour on a level roadway, and on a test run made a half-mile in 1 min. 17 sec., corresponding to a speed of 23.4 miles per hour. The weight of the truck, including its full complement of men, is 10 tons, and it will run about 15 miles at full speed on a single charge. The truck is equipped with a side seat and special steering gear, Sangamo amp-hour meter, motor-driven syren, electric tail-lamp and tungsten head-lamp. The apparatus has five speeds in both the forward and reverse direction.

The combination wagon is provided with a 40-gal. chemical tank and 200 ft. of chemical hose, besides 1000 ft. of regular 2½-in. fire hose. It is driven by four 3 h. p. motors on the Couple-Gear system, and weights about seven tons. Its speed guarantee is 30 miles an hour, and its battery equipment is the same as that of the ladder truck above mentioned. On account of the high speed made by this outfit a 'Prest-o-lite" searchlight equipment has been supplied. An electric horn is provided, and the tail lighting is by electricity. On a 12 per cent. grade this apparatus has made a measured speed of 12 miles per hour. The combination outfit was purchased in various localities and the parts assembled by the department organization at Springfield.

Both pieces of apparatus are supplied with energy through a 7.7 Crocker-Wheeler motor-generator set located in the headquarters station. This outfit consists of a 35 amp, 220-volt generator, driven by a direct-connected 500-volt, direct-current motor running at 1175 r. p. m. The motor-starter, battery-charging rheostatic equipment and generator field regulator were supplied by the Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Company, Milwaukee, Wis.

About ten alarms per month are at present answered by the electrically driven vehicles, their district in the main covering a radius of 1 mile from the business centre of the city.

The results of operation have been satisfactory in every particular. On a test run the ladder truck ascended a 12 per cent. grade at a speed of 8 miles per hour. Its reliability is unquestionably superior to that of gasoline, on account of the complexities of the latter equipment. Three new electrically driven hose wagons have just been ordered by the city authorities in spite of the vigorous competition of local gasoline machine manufacturers having a strong foothold in the city. The cost of energy for the first month's service was only $3.78, and for the second month $7.77, the rate being about 3 cents per kw-hour. The initial cost of the motor-driven ladder truck was about $12,000. A first-class horse outfit costs about $5,500.

Both Chief Daggett and Assistant Chief Kimball spoke to the writer in the highest terms of commendation of the electric-vehicle equipment, pointing out that it can be handled more rapidly and safely on the streets than horses, emphasizing the quicker acceleration possible, the readiness with which a higher average speed can be maintained, and especially touching upon the value of the driver as an additional fire-fighting unit, the perfect condition of the engine houses from the sanitary point of view, absence of heavy expense in maintaining exercising outfits and costly planking in stalls, and the saving in time effected through the omission of the usual "quick hitching" of harnesses, opening of stall doors and traversing of the engine-house rooms by horses.

NEW JERSEY CEDAR IS BECOMING RARE

The New Jersey coast lands are rapidly giving up their hidden accumulation of cedar, and the commercial value of that wood is increasing yearly. Upon Long Beach, in Ocean county; upon Seven and Five-Mile beaches, in Cape May county, and in certain parts of Monmouth county, luxuriant growths of red cedar used to exist, but it is disappearing fast, and even the cedar logs lying submerged in the bogs and swamps are being sought for eagerly by the agents engaged in buying up all this wood they can find for lead pencil manufactures and shingle mills.

In the old days cedar had small commercial value and so common that it was used for fence rails, posts, sidewalks and other ordinary purposes. But this has long since changed, and today the fragrant, light red, durable wood of the coniferous evergreen tree is worth so much money that a farmer having a rail fence of cedar on his property can demand his own price for the old timber and perhaps get the purchaser to put him a modern wire fence in its place besides. A pile of old cedar slabbing will sell for enough to build him a new barn.

All through the pine lands of the State where the "Pine Robbers" dwelt in Revolutionary days the bogs and swamps are being dragged for cedar logs which have become submerged through the inroads of the ocean. As cedar is not injured by water, these submerged logs when removed make just as good pencils and shingles as the newly cut timber. No other wood possesses the even fineness of cedar for lead pencils, and "Jersey cedar shingles" are used to roof many frame houses in this and neighboring States. The ordinary cedar shingle known as the "Jersey" does not weather to such a pretty dark brown hue as the commonly known "Red Cedar" shingle, but it makes a more lasting roof. For siding the "silver gray" shingle is also used. Both the latter are imported into this State from the Northwest.

While there is talk among foresters of growing cedar trees, it has been declared that the work ought to be taken up by the State because of the long time required for a cedar tree to mature. The tree also resists transplanting, and no matter how carefully this is done the roots are apparently destroyed as soon as the tree is moved. Cedar requires water, but it will not grow close to the ocean.

THE POCKETKNIFE

Many Machines and Processes Used In Its Making.

ART IN FORGING THE BLADES.

To Become an Adept In the Delicate Work of Tempering Edge Steel Necessitates a Long Course of Training and Years of Experience.

The labor of making a pocketknife is, as usual in every industry that is carried on by the aid of a great deal of machinery, much divided. Each blade must go through six separate processes—first, forging; second, laying on the "tangs," that part which is inserted into the handle and through which the blade is riveted; third, marking or stamping with the name of the manufacturer; fourth, "cholling," or filing a depression in the neck of the blade between the sharp edge and the heavier part or "tang;" fifth, tempering; sixth, grinding.

All this applies to the two ordinary blades of a knife. Nail blades are subjected to still another process—namely, the cutting of the file, which is a department of work in itself.

Should we inspect the material room of a knife manufactory we should find heavy iron presses, which stamp out from sheets of brass or iron the metal scales and lining. The bright tips on the end of the knife, called "bolsters," are pressed out of German silver under another heavy weight, which does the work in one blow. Huge shears cut from sheets of steel, used only for this purpose, long strips that are afterward fashioned under a press into springs for the back of the knife.

The rod of steel from which the blades are made is taken from the material room to the forge. Here one end is put into a bed of hot coals, the bellows are pumped, and the end is soon red.

The skilled forger then hammers the blade into shape upon his anvil, and so accurate is his eye and so exact his hand that the blade does not deviate a hair's breadth from the little brass pattern that is before him and to which each blade must correspond exactly.

The blade is next dipped in water and becomes as hard and brittle as glass. But the edges are rough. It is nearly uniform in thickness and is a light gray in color.

Again the forger's skill is brought into play in the tempering. Laying the blades on a copper plate over the fire, he watches them as they change their hue with the degree of heat, first to straw color, then to darker straw and now to the dark purple which denotes that the proper degree of heat has been obtained. They are plunged into cold water as fast as they reach this point.

If the blades were allowed to remain longer over the fire the steel would change to a light blue and become so soft that the blades could be bent easily. This is perhaps the most important process in the manufacture.

The blades are taken next to the grinding room. The grinder must also depend upon the accuracy of his eye and the training of his hand, for as he presses the blade on the rapidly revolving stone, turning it on both sides and grinding all its edges, he practically finishes it, though afterward, in the cutler's room, a higher finish is given it.

From the "wheel room" the blades go to the cutler's room, where they find the other parts of the knife and where all the parts are put together.

Each workman here is at work upon a particular lot of knives, all of one pattern. Upon his work bench are the various parts of the knives, prepared by other hands—the center scales that separate the blades, the outer brass scales of lining, with the German silver bolsters, which have been secured to the ends by a heavy drop hammer; the wood, ivory or pearl scales, the springs and the wire rivets.

Each brass lining, with its covering, is put in a vise, and holes are drilled in it for the rivets. A brass wire is thrust through the middle of the handle toward the back. This secures the springs, and it is then broken off with nippers and headed down with a hammer. This holds the scales and springs. Another rivet through the bolster secures one blade or two blades if the knife has more than one blade hung at each end.

The several parts are now put together. The next process is "hafting" or finishing the covers of the handle, which is done on a leather wheel coated with glue and emery. The rough edges are rounded and smoothed, and then the knives are carefully examined to see if the cutler has done his work properly.

If the spring works easily and the blades close without striking the knives are sent to the blade polisher.

On a wooden wheel covered with the leather the ordinary blades are given a polish called a "glaze finish." Finer grades of knives are given a "mucus finish"—a mirror-like surface—on a leather wheel which revolves very slowly, in order that the blades shall not become heated and lose their temper.

The knives are now taken to another room, where, on an oilstone, the keen cutting edges are "set." This done, the blades are closed, and the "buffing wheel" gives the final polish to the outer side.—Philadelphia Record.

That endless book, the newspaper, is our national glory.—Henry Ward Beecher.

RAHWAY COUNCIL ASKS OFFICIAL TO STEP OUT.

Rahway, Aug. 17.—After criticizing what he termed the "lack of attention" to the trees on the part of the Shade Tree Commission, many of the trees being in a serious condition, Councilman Ludlow, at a meeting of the City Council Tuesday night, moved that the city clerk be instructed to ask the sole surviving member of the board, President Edward S. Savage, to hand in his resignation as member of the Rahway Shade Tree Commission. The motion was carried. Valentine Tindale, dog-catcher, tendered his resignation.

The committee, composed of Councilmen Cross, Ludlow and Trembly, appointed to investigate charges of incompetency against Police Justice John W. Buckley, rendered a majority and a minority report. That of the majority, consisting of Cross and Ludlow, only mildly censured Justice Buckley. The report was adopted.

Councilman Trembly, in a minority report, sustained the charges.

Should Hear Him Then.

Wife (complainingly)—You never praise me up to anyone.

Hub—I don't eh! You should hear me describe you at the intelligence office when I'm trying to hire a cook.—Boston Transcript.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend An Ordinance Entitled: "An Ordinance Concerning the Construction and Repair of Sidewalks and Curbs," Approved July 15, 1910.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That section 2 of the ordinance, the title of which is stated in the title to this ordinance, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 2. That all sidewalks of blue stone flagging or concrete which shall hereafter be constructed under this ordinance shall be constructed so that the nearest edge of the blue stone flagging or concrete shall be the following distances from the side lines of the streets, that is to say: On streets having a width of eighty feet or more, a distance of eight feet; on streets having a width of seventy feet or more and less than eighty feet, a distance of five feet; on streets having a width of more than sixty feet and less than seventy feet, a distance of three feet; on streets having a width of fifty feet or more and not more than sixty feet, a distance of two feet, and on streets having a width of less than fifty feet, said blue stone flagging or concrete shall be so laid that the sides of the same shall be at equal distances respectively from the side line and the curb line; provided, that in any case, on application to the Common Council for that purpose, the Common Council may by resolution specially direct the distance which any blue stone flagging or concrete may be laid from the side line as the Common Council shall deem to be for the best interests of the City."

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

SOUTH SEA FASHIONS.

The Dusky Native Belles Have Queer Ideas About Dress.

It would be hard to find a spot where the subject of dress does not sway the feminine mind. To the world at large its observance causes either a great deal of pleasure or a good store of amusement. In the category of amusement may be placed the proceedings of the dusky belles described by Beatrice Grimshaw in her book, "In the Strange South Seas:"

A lace trimmed garment of mine, usually worn at night under the shelter of sheets and quilts, went to a Sunday morning church as a best dress in full daylight on the person of the laundress intrusted with my wash. The funny side was so conspicuous that she never got the reproof she deserved.

A certain flower toque made of poppies, a bloom unknown in the Pacific, first drove the women of the island half distracted with excitement, then led thirty-six native ladies to appear simultaneously at a dance wearing excellent copies of my Paris model done in double scarlet hibiscus from the bush.

A wedding from which unfortunately I was absent furnished the finest display of native dress that took place that year. The bride wore fourteen silk dresses, not all at once, but one after another, changing her dress again and again during the reception until the white spectators were fairly giddy.

JOY IN THE SCHOOL.

How Infant Classes In Some Foreign Countries Are Handled.

The man in the club had been talking politics with the school inspector until that gentleman declined to discuss the subject any more.

"We'll talk about the youngsters themselves for a change," he said. "Do you know that both in France and Belgium reading, writing and arithmetic are being omitted from the subjects taught in infant schools? The children are simply taught to be happy instead. And when they bring their dinners to school the food has, under the official regulations, to be put into a basket, which must be labeled at the school and set on a special shelf in a clean, airy place. Fancy such regulations in England! Any old newspaper and any cupboard is good enough for our children.

"In Germany toys are provided for play time, and all little children are compelled to bring clean pocket handkerchiefs to school, and they must have a bath once a week.

"In Finland the tiniest children are taught to wash dolls, dust, sweep, look after flowers, and so on, and in some Japanese schools a resting room, with a bed, is provided, so that overtired children may have a nap!"—London Answers.

Bill and His Watch.

"Sure," says Bill, dragging out his watch. "My watch was just 'leven seconds slow at twenty minutes of 4 day before yesterday afternoon, and I don't believe it's varied more than a quarter of a second since. It's now twenty-two minutes and seven seconds past 5."

Really he wasn't so particular about knowing the time himself as desirous of giving pleasure to Bill, for he knows that Bill is one of the few million men in the world who think each that his watch is a wonder and who feel themselves flattered when their friends ask them for the correct time.—New York Sun.

Caught Her Secret.

Old Podkins lay back in his chair in calm content, and, though his wife was quite near him, he was happy, for she had not broken the silence for nearly five minutes.

He had been married for five and twenty long years, and Mrs. Podkins almost daily during twenty-four of them had disturbed the domestic peace by a too full exercise of her tongue.

"My dear," broke in Mrs. P., thinking it time she said something to interrupt the quiet, "I see by the papers that a petrified jaw two yards long has been found in Cornwall."

"What!" cried Podkins, starting up. "Now I know your secret. But you never told me your ancestors came from that part of the world!"—Dundee Advertiser.

Pointed Advice.

There was a traveling man once who found himself short of funds. His first thought, of course, was to wire his firm, which he did. In a night letter he explained the situation and asked:

"How shall I act?"

The next morning he got a day message which was nothing if not illuminative:

"Act as if you were broke."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Uplift.

"Is she a help to her mother?" asked one woman.

"Yes, indeed," replied the other. "She has taught her to say 'culinary art' instead of 'cooking.'"—Exchange.

CHATTANOOGA

By Captain F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association

For the first time in ten days Mark felt the comfort of being in the saddle with his arms about him.

A few steps took him out of the turn; then, turning his horse's head in the direction from which he had approached the place with Souri, he rode away among the trees. Before going a hundred yards he stopped and listened. Some sound had caught his ear. It was the gallop of horsemen. He waited, dreading a neigh from his own horse, which he patted to hold her attention. The horsemen passed on down the road.

"Ride on, brave boys," said Mark; "if you're after me, the faster you go in that direction the better I'll like it."

In the light of the waning moon he trampled over the shadows of leaves as on a "crazy quilt." He crossed the Squatchie by the ford over which Souri had guided him, and took care not to head too far down the stream, as he had done before. Then he crossed the creek near the fallen log. He struck the road by which he had left Jasper just south of the fork at which Souri had halted him. Without hesitating a moment he struck out at a brisk canter over the left of the two roads—the one leading to Tracy City.

Mark had never experienced such sensations as now. On his own fleet horse, his carbine slung on his shoulder, his pistol at his side, on the road to the Union camps, a wife whom he adored to join him in case he should arrive safely—why should not the spirit within him fairly glow with hope?

CHAPTER XVI.

THE BALL IS OPENED.

MARK reached Tracy City at sunrise. He did not dare to go through the place, so he skirted it, and once above it rode along the mountain plateau over a road leading directly north. He was now familiar with the country. Arriving at a place called Johnston's, he struck off to the right to Purdons, where two roads join, leading from there to Altamont.

Mark struck the main stem a few hundred yards from the junction. As he rode up a slight rise on to the road, he cast his eye to the right. There, standing at the fork, was a Confederate cavalry vedette.

He saw Mark as soon as Mark saw him. Shouting to the rest of the picket post, he dashed forward.

"Now for it, Madge!"

The animal knew by his tone that there was work to be done, and although she had been out since midnight she began the race with vigor. On sped the Union soldier, followed at a few hundred yards' distance by the Confederate, and half a mile behind by several others of the picket post. Mark was within range, but his pursuers did not care to draw rein in order to fire, doubtless fearing that if they should fail to bring him down by the bullet he would escape.

Madge did nobly, and had she not been riding up a mountain side for three or four hours would have easily distanced her pursuers. As it was, the man who followed first was gaining rapidly. Mark knew that he must either dispose of this fellow or be taken. Coming to a slight bend in the road, he rode a hundred yards beyond to a place where his pursuer must suddenly appear around the trees. Reining in his horse, he faced about and stood still with his carbine at an aim. As soon as the man appeared Mark fired.

Mark turned and was soon again flying forward. He judged that he could not be very far from the Union pickets between him and Altamont. Looking ahead he saw a horseman standing in the road. Whether he was Union or Confederate he did not know, but there was no way to escape the remainder of his pursuers except by keeping right on and trusting to meeting a friend. As he rode on he noticed that the horseman wore a forage cap. This looked well, for the Confederates nearly always wore hats. Then he could see that the man's body had a dark hue. It must be blue. At last he came near enough to discern yellow facings.

There was a whistling of bullets by his ears; he turned his head and saw that his pursuers had halted. They had evidently seen the Union picket and fired a farewell volley at the fugitive.

Private Mark Malone was within the Union lines; his mission was ended.

Mark was taken to the officer in command at Altamont. On the way from the picket line he was informed that the place was occupied by McCook's division. When he reached headquarters he made himself and his mission known, and in a few minutes a cipher telegram was on its way to General Thomas at McMinnville:

Bragg at Dunlap yesterday with no force except a few cavalry. Cheatham and Withers marching north. The main army gone by rail from Chattanooga on the twenty-eighth to Knoxville.

PRIVATE MARK MALONE.

Ten minutes later the spy was sound asleep on a camp cot in a tent belonging to one of the staff.

Mark had had no sleep for twenty-eight hours, and for much of that time he believed that he would be retaken and hanged. Now he slept a deep sleep. Hour after hour went by, and though bugles called and drums rattled he slumbered on. He dreamed that he was at Chattanooga. He was standing on the scaffold. Soldiers surrounded him. The noose was adjusted about his neck. He heard the sound of the ax as it cut the rope. He awoke with a cry.

She sank down by the cot, and in a moment they were in each other's arms. Neither spoke. Neither wished to do aught but leave tears—tears of an exquisite happiness—to flow on silently.

For a time Laura saw in Mark's face only a reflection of her own happiness. He was feasting his eyes upon her, passing his fingers through her dark hair or smoothing it back with his hand, while he covered her face with kisses.

Suddenly a thought seemed to come between her and him.

"What is it, darling?" she asked anxiously.

"I was thinking"—said Mark. "But no; I will not think of that."

"Tell me."

"I was wondering—Laura, did you love him?"

Laura cast down her eyes.

"Love? Was it love?" She asked the question of herself. "It was a summer breeze, while this"—

"This?"

"Is a tempest."

"A 'wild west wind.'"

"You are thinking of your Shelley," she said. "I shall love him too, now, since it was he who betrayed you to me."

"And I shall love him the more because he betrayed me—and made me"—

He did not finish. He was thinking of the morning in the garret when in her imperious way she had claimed that saving his life had made her its owner. She remembered it, too, and smiling finished for him:

"And made you my slave. But who made me 'your lyre even as the forest is' to the west wind?"

Her caresses prevented a reply for a time. When there was a pause Mark exclaimed wonderingly:

"Oh, woman, why must you so often deny to the worthy that which you may give in such abundance to one whose only recommendation is an ability to catch your fancy?"

Again there came into his face the expression of a thought which seemed for the moment to carry him away from her.

"What is it now?" she queried anxiously.

Mark smiled. "You will laugh at me when I tell you."

"Then you must be laughed at."

"I was wondering if, when I get back to headquarters, the general will want me to go right away on another mission."

Her arms were about him. She drew a little away and fixed her black eyes upon him. They shone like those of some savage but beautiful animal about to be bereft of her young.

"If you go again," she said fiercely, "into the presence of such a death I will go with you."

Mark made no reply, except to throw his arms about her neck and draw her to him again. Her fierceness was with him her chief charm. Then he made an effort to rise.

"Stay where you are," she said in the same imperious tone in which she had given the order once before when he threatened to leave the garret; "you shall lie there till you promise that you will be a spy no more."

"Let me up," cried Mark, smiling at her earnestness.

"Lie still!"

"Come, sweetheart," he said pleadingly, "let me get up, and I'll say with Hotspur to his Kate, 'When I'm on horseback I'll swear I love thee infinitely.'"

Mark was on his back, his arms pinioned. He was powerless. He was surprised at Laura's strength.

"Promise."

"Never!"

"Promise."

"Why so? I know I shall be dying to go again in a week."

"Then you shall lie there till the war is over."

"But I thought you told me once that if you were a man you would be all I have been."

"So I would. And you, being a man, might continue to be so were you the husband of any other woman; but mine, never!"

Mark looked into her eyes and knew that his career in the secret service had ended.

The arrival of Laura the night before at the farmhouse where her mother had stopped, and awaited her coming anxiously, their resumption of their journey the next day, during which Laura confessed all to her mother, their safe arrival within the Union lines, the finding Mark at headquarters, may be passed over in a few short phrases.

Mark's meeting with his mother-in-law was, to say the least, embarrassing. Mrs. Fain received him with the same dignity that had characterized her throughout, but without her former cordiality. As yet she knew nothing about his connections, and she disdained to ask. But Mark had satisfied Laura, and the information she transmitted to her mother was in a measure mollifying.

That afternoon the party that had ridden into Anderson the day before rode out of Altamont in the direction of McMinnville. To all outward appearance the situation was the same, but really how different! Yesterday Mark was in imminent danger, while Laura was in a state of terror. Then they rode with scarcely a word. Now language was inadequate to convey all they wished to express.

Mark went inside.

"General," he said, "you received my telegram?"

"I did."

"Had you not received the information before?"

"If we had, why should we be here?" There was a brief pause.

"I have brought something besides information, general. May I introduce a party waiting outside?"

"Certainly."

"General, permit me to introduce my wife."

"I thought you had been on a scout," he said.

"I have."

"And courted and wed at the same time?"

"Yes, general."

"Be seated, ladies. Now explain all this."

Mark gave an outline of his adventures, his listener's eyes opening wider as he proceeded. When the recital was finished the general called out:

"Orderly!"

In a twinkling a man was standing in the tent waiting an order.

"Send for Chaplain Gadsden."

"Yes, sir."

"I am a trifle uncertain about that wedding," remarked the general. "I think we'd better have it done according to the regulations."

All smiled save Mrs. Fain, who maintained a rigid and dignified silence.

While they were waiting for the chaplain the general wrote a telegram to Mr. Fain, at Nashville, announcing the arrival of his wife and daughter. He did not mention the son-in-law.

The chaplain came, and the bride and groom were wed again—this time with ample witnesses, for the whole staff had been ordered to "report in person at headquarters to witness marriage ceremony." The general gave the bride away, and after the benediction, offering his arm to Mrs. Fain, led the way to another tent where a collation of foraged viands—foraged unbeknown to the general, and consisting principally of cold chicken—was served.

While the party were refreshing themselves, word was received from Nashville that Mr. Fain was out of danger and impatiently awaiting his wife and daughter.

After communicating this pleasant bit of information, the general, turning to Mark, said:

"I shall need you hereafter on my staff. I have learned from your colonel that there is a vacant lieutenancy for you in your regiment, and I will issue an order detailing you for duty with me. But this rank need be only temporary. The army is about to be divided into army corps, and my troops will constitute one of them. Under the recent law fixing the staff of corps commanders I shall nominate you for inspector general, with rank of lieutenant colonel, to be appointed by the president."

For the first time since she had been apprised of the fact that her daughter was a wife Mrs. Fain looked happy.

"General," said Mark, "while I appreciate the honor you so kindly bestow upon me, I would prefer, were it not for my wife, to remain in the secret service. She certainly deserves the distinction you offer, and I accept it for her. I rejoice at the prospect of being near you, and shall not be averse, now, since I have so much to live for, to a service not connected with a constant reminder of hemp rope."

At this juncture an aid-de-camp entered and handed the general a telegram. He cast his eye over it and said:

"The ball is opened. Nelson is fighting the advance of Bragg's army at Richmond, Kentucky."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 20, 1911.

There are some mountains standing on this earth of ours that seem almost conscious beings, and if they could but speak and tell what they have seen and felt the traveler who pauses at their base would tremble with alarm and awe. No one familiar with the history of the world can doubt or deny the truthfulness of the words just quoted. And how many of these historic mountain scenes are associated with the religious history of the world. "For some good reason God has usually chosen mountain summits as the theater on which to make the grandest exhibitions of Himself, perhaps because these grand and striking features in nature fix the locality of events—stand as mighty monuments to them—so that they can never fade from the memory of man." The psalmist said, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help." Let us also look to the hills—the hills ever associated with thoughts of the Lord, our real helper, for help and inspiration.

Many historic mountain scenes, with our study and contemplation, are recorded in Bible story. There is Ararat, where the ark rested after the flood; Mount Moriah, where Abraham, "in will if not in deed," offered Isaac as a sacrifice to God; Sinai, amid whose terrific thunderings the divine law was given to man; Mount Pisgah, from whose heights Moses viewed the earthly Canaan and entered the heavenly Land of Promise; Mount Horeb, where God appeared to Elijah in the still, small voice; Carmel, where Elijah discomfited the priests of Baal; Mount Hebron, where Christ was tranfigured; Olivet, where He agonized, and Calvary, where He gave Himself for the sins of the world, and last of all, in John's glorious vision the Mount of God! How much of the world's religious history is contained in these mountain scenes, and who can contemplate these events?

1. The Mountain of Vision. This title may be given to Mount Pisgah. Here Moses was permitted to see the land of promise, although he was not allowed to enter it. This vision was in a measure a compensation for his loss and was given in answer to his prayer that he might "see the good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain, and Lebanon." The hopes of life are not always realized, but visions of great things are no small compensation and prepare us for the trial through which we enter in to their fuller realization in the life to come.

2. The Mountain of Victory. Thus Mount Carmel may be designated. It was here that the religion of the only living and true God was tested by conflict with idolatry. The result was sure and decisive. True religion triumphed. We need fear no testing of our faith or anything that pertains to it. In every contest in the past the victory has been won. It will continue to be so until "in the name of Jesus every knee shall bow and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father."

3. The Mountain of Transfiguration. This scene in the life of Christ took place on snow capped Hermon. Here Christ was transfigured under such circumstances as would comfort and strengthen Him for His great sacrifice six months later and would later on confirm the faith of His disciples in Him. But after the Mount of Transfiguration came toil and contact with lack of faith in the valley. We, too, have our times of exalted experiences, but their purpose is but inspiration for the performance of new duties and the endurance of new trials.

4. The Mountain of Sacrifice. On Mount Calvary Jesus gave Himself for the world, for us, leaving us an example that we should sacrifice ourselves for others. On Calvary we not only see the fulfillment of God's plan of redemption, but we are also taught our greatest lesson in self sacrifice. The greatest of all gifts is self. The world needs and wants the personal touch, and nothing else can take the place of it.

A Mission by Moonlight.

The moon is cold; the ocean air is chill;
Alone with lonely owls the mission stands,
The staring belfry towering on the sands
That hold in Serra's grave the ever still Repose of mighty labors—love and will
In rest profound, where once the brawling bands
Of dark souled beings lifted up their hands
To God and heard the angel voices thrill.

Mute are the bells that called the pagans of old,
Forever lost the chanted melody
That mingled with the sounding of the sea.
The lofty moon through clouds of windy cold
Mocks in her silver faith their vanished gold,
The altar lights of warmth and mystery.

MORE INDICTMENTS IN ATLANTIC CITY

Thirteen additional indictments were returned before Supreme Court Justice Samuel Kalisch at May's Landing yesterday by the Grand Jury of Atlantic county, which is investigating election law violations committed at Atlantic City last November. The name of Edward L. Bader, city contractor, a right hand of "Boss" Louis Kuehnle, was one of the first on the list and the others are all prominent political workers. The jury also made a special presentment against Atlantic and Philadelphia newspapers on acount of news and editorial utterances in reference to the proceedings.

Justice Kalisch filed yesterday the affidavit of Thomas C. Stewart, who alleges that he saw the Sheriff take registry books from the clerk's office. On this affidavit Justice Kalisch based his order disqualifying Sheriff E. L. Johnson from drawing a Grand Jury. Sheriff Johnson brands the affidavit as absolutely false.

All those indicted who could be found yesterday entered pleas of not guilty and were released under bail. The others will appear tomorrow. Those who pleaded were Edward L. Bader and George Profatt, conspiracy to bribe an officer, $1,500 bail each; Harry Dockerty, assault on election officer, $750; Henry Martland, two indictments for purchasing votes, $1,000 each case; Frank Majane, two for bribery, $1,000 each; Harry Stewart and Frank Majane, conspiracy, $1,000 each; Ben Allen and "Bud" Griffin, conspiracy, $1,500 each. The date of the trials was fixed as September 7.

Threats, it is alleged, have been made against witnesses and have either kept them from telling the truth in the jury room or made them change their estimony afterwards. The Justice said to the Grand Jury on this subject:

"The intimidation of witnesses is an indictable offense. This fact will not prevent the court from treating the interference or tampering with or intimidating a witness as contempt of court and if any instance of this occurs and the offender is brought before the court he will be summarily and severely dealt with."

Justice Kalisch warmly scored members of the Grand Jury, witnesses, and others connected with the proceedings who had given out information relating to the program of procedure. He declared this conduct to be contempt of court and that he would prosecute all who were guilty of it.

STRUCK BY BOLT ON MOVING TRAIN.

Long Branch, Aug. 17.—A fireman was struck by lightning on a moving train Tuesday afternoon. The victim, Soren Johnson, of Matawan, fireman on New Jersey Central train No. 44, had his left side paralyzed by a bolt while passing Normandie. The same bolt, it is believed, deflected, and demolished a flagpole near.

Johnson was between the fire box and tender shoveling coal during the blackest of the storm. The electric bolt rendered the man helpless and upon arriving at Atlantic Highlands he was taken to his home.

Several houses were struck in Long Branch and vicinity. The home of Dr. H. H. Pemberton in Third avenue is minus a chimney and the slate roof was badly damaged. Two houses at North Long Branch and one at Monmouth Beach were struck and slight damaged.

Khaki For Police.

Asbury Park's summer policemen are to be uniformed in khaki suits. Blue suits, it appears, take up the oil and dust and show wear on short service, and, besides they are very hot. On motion of Dr. Pratt, chairman of the police committee, khaki suits will be designed for summer service, and will be introduced next year. The police committee will endeavor, on suggestion of Mr. Rugarber, to give eight-hour shifts. It was complained that officers who are on traffic duty have to work all day in the sun and that they are overworked.

SCENTS GRAFT IN STATE WORK

Trenton, Aug. 17.—Evidences of graft in the construction of the State house have been laid bare by the tearing down of the stone work from the westerly side of the front wing to which a forty-foot extension is about to be added. This fact was laid before the State House Commission Tuesday afternoon, in the form of a report from State Architect George E. Poole, recommending the strengthening of the wall which has been torn out.

In the description of the front wing, published in the legislative manual and based upon the original specifications, it is said: "The walls are constructed of solid fireproof, brick masonry, faceti with a light colored stone from Indiana, known as Sales oolitic."

When the oolitic was torn from the end of the building the view presented looked like anything but a solid brick wall. It appeared that when the building was constructed the terra cotta fireproofing was first put in place and then the outer layer of stone. Between the two, instead of solid brick, there were many places where the bricks appear to have been dumped from a hod into the intervening space. Many of them had never been placed in position and were not even held by mortar. The condition of the wall was such that the State architect considered it unwise to leave it exposed, even for the few months that will intervene before the new wing is put in place.

The State House Commission directed that the exposed brick work be at once protected with a concrete wall which will serve the purpose of the missing mortar that was not used by the contractor. The front wing of the State house was built to supplant the old structure, destroyed by fire on March 21, 1885. The work was begun in the fall of that year but the new building was not finished until 1889. After expenditures aggregating $300,000 on the wing, a bill for something like $20,000 for extras, was presented. This was not paid.

AUTO CHECKED AT BRINK.

Tree Saved Five When Machine Became Unmanageable.

A small tree at a dangerous bend on Eagle Rock Way near Montclair saved a big touring car and its five occupants from being dashed over a thirty-foot precipice yesterday. The automobile bore the license tag No. 6,044 N. Y.

The automobile, in which were two men, two women, and a baby, becoming suddenly unmanageable when it neared the dangerous turn in the road, headed straight for the precipice. It struck the small tree with great force and came to a stop with the two front wheels overhanging the ledge, while the bent tree served as the under support.

There were wails from the baby, whose head was severely gashed through striking the front seat. None of the other occupants seemed to be injured. After a short delay the party resumed their journey, the automobile being only slightly damaged. The names of the occupants could not be ascertained.

According to the police records, the license number 6,044 N. Y. is that of an automobile owned by Warren F. Chanter, 37 Cresant street, Buffalo.

COMMISSION RULES.

Jobs of 150 City Employes Tremble Now In the Balance.

Following Tuesday's election for City Commissioners at Trenton the talk yesterday was largely speculative as to the makeup of the board when it organizes next Tuesday. La Barre, it is believed, will be made Mayor and Commissioner of Public Affairs; Lee, Commissioner of Revenue and Finance; Donnelly, Commissioner of Parks and Public Property; Fell, Commissioner of Streets and Public Improvements, and Burke, Commissioner of Public Safety. More than 100 city employes will hold over entirely at the pleasure of the new commission.

ACTRESS MUST QUIT BARRICADED HOME

Florence Lillian Wickes, the actress, after successfully barricading for twelve hours the country home in Absecon, where she is living with her mother and sister, against the siege of William Moore, who says the house is his, and the village constable, was served with dispossess warrants yesterday and has until Saturday to vacate.

This leniency was granted by William Moore, who, after being arrested and held in bail on assault charges by Miss Wickes, was advised by his lawyer to be lenient.

Miss Wickes, however, resents this attitude on the part of Moore, and she went yesterday to her lawyer in Pleasantville to try to effect more equitable arrangements. It developed then that the lease to the property was in Moore's name, and Moore's lawyer agreed to settle by letting Miss Wickes sell all the poultry and pigs in the barnyard as her share in the final settlement. Miss Wickes was angry, but her lawyer advised her that, under the circumstances, it would be best to acquiesce.

The matter is not to end here, however, for Miss Wickes has threatened to bring suit for the possession of the property and all the furnishings. She declares that it was her money that bought everything about the place. Moore, on the other hand, said that he would not go back to the house until Saturday, at which time he expects to oust Miss Wickes.

Miss Wickes formerly had a part in "Princess Bonnie," and ended her stage career by marrying Gilbert Johnstone. They separated years ago.

HORSE RUNS AWAY; DUNELLEN EXCITEMENT.

An exciting runaway and a thrilling capture of the frightened horse was the chief topic of conversation in Dunellen today. The animal belongs to George T. Schenck, the grocer. Left untied by its driver and becoming frightened during his absence it dashed down the main street at breakneck speed, causing consternation among other drivers, scattering the contents of the wagon about the road and scaring foot passengers. The young son of D. T. Heume was among the latter and taking a running jump landed safely in the wagon. Climbing over the boxes and baskets of groceries, he managed to get hold of the reins. This done it was the work of but a few moments until he had the animal under control. A few soft words and firm tugs on the lines brought the horse to a standstill before any further damage was done.

The driver came up soon after and took charge. Continuing on his route he made a tie at every stop.

CONSTRUCT NEW BRIDGE ON WASHINGTON AVENUE.

After three years of untiring endeavors to have a new bridge constructed over the Green brook on Washington avenue the residents in that vicinity have at last had their desire realized for yesterday work was started removing the old structure to make way for a new one to be built there.

The work of removing the old bridge will take a week's time. It will be carted to Albert street and there set up again but will be made stronger and safer.

The new bridge to be constructed at Washington avenue will be the acme of the perfection of builder's art. It will be of reinforced concrete and of steel. The contractors are the Faro Construction Company, of Pennsylvania. The structure will cost $8,300, which includes the renewal of the old bridge.

Do Not Shirk.

Many girls while in college make the mistake of lightly skimming over the classics that are assigned for reading. They do this on the grounds that other duties demand their time. No doubt this is sometimes true, but not often. If the girls who neglect the sincere reading of this truly worth while literature but realized that they are eliminating what would later enrich the memories of their "lofty senior" days they would be more faithful in their study of the escapades of "Pendennis" and the wooing of the queenly "Romola."

OILS FOR STREETS

Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett Compares Various Preparations Used on City Roads.

REPAIRING NEARLY FINISHED.

Tarvia B Has Proved Most Efficient As a Temporary Coating, Official Declares—Light Oils On Macadam Roads.

Oiling of the city streets to prevent dust has been discontinued for the present and no new coats of oil will be applied until the fall. The roads which are being built now by contractors are nearing completion and it is the intention of the contracting firms to have all the work done before the cold weather begins. Mobus & Burke, who have been woring on West Front street, rebuilding the road to Grant avenue, have finished this job and will start on the remainder of their contracts for the city immediately. John McNabb, of Bound Brook, is about to finish the work on the last street in his 1910 contract with the city.

On the city streets this year several different materials have been used for the purpose of laying the dust. Temporary oils had to be used on the streets which were already paved but Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett has taken the precaution to have all the new roads, which are being built under contract, treated with permanent dust layers. When a street is already paved, the permanent dust layers, which are applied hot and which must mix with the stone, cannot be used and consequently a light oil is substituted in their places. These oils wear off of a busy street in a month or six weeks while they will remain on a quiet thoroughfare for an entire season. North avenue, between Watchung and Park avenues, has been treated with a light oil three times already this season while the more quiet streets have been given but one coating.

Richmond street, between East Front and East Fifth streets, has been repaved and hot dust layers were applied on the last coating of stone. "Tarvia X," "Bermudez," "Pioneer," and "Texaco" were used in this work and have proved entirely satisfactory. These preparations are more expensive than the light oils but the fact that they will wear for several seasons renders them highly efficient.

Standard Asphaltic oil has been placed on West Eighth street, part of East Seventh street and West Seventh street, east of John street, west of John street, West Seventh street has been treated with Tarvia B, which has also been used on Park avenue from Seventh street to South End avenue, South avenue, Leland avenue, part of Central avenue, Elmwood place and others.

Street Commissioner Gavett said this morning that without doubt, Tarvia B is the most efficient of the coatings, which are applied cold. Although this preparation is not quite such a good dust absorber as some of the others, yet its efficiency lies in its power to bind the top stone dressing. Tarvia B can be spread from an oil wagon in the same manner as any of the lighter oils.

On all of the other oiled streets in the city, which have not been treated with Standard Asphaltic, Tarvia B or the hot preparations, three light oils have been used. These are "Dustoline," "Dust-oleum" and Standard Non-Asphaltic oil. All of these lighter combinations have proved satisfactory for the temporary need.

ELKS' GAME A TIE

Twelve Innings and Plainfield and Bridgeport Each Scored Four Runs.

SOME VERY SPEEDY FIELDING.

Errors Were Frequent—MacLaughlin in Great Form and So Was Kelley—Dinner Followed Contest.

Plainfield Elks did not lose to their Bridgeport brothers yesterday afternoon but they came as near to it as they possibly could and when darkness enveloped the feeding ground of Elkdom the score stood 4-4 and the length of the innings was twelve. It was a case of the local lodge players getting their antlers caught in a thicket in the first inning and before they could untangle them, the visiting brothers had reeled off two pelts. They were not earned however but the 885 bunch did not get the praise of stopping these tallies.

Errors were responsible for all the Bridgeport runs, Marcus Hoyt on second base being the cause of the majority of the scores. The Plainfield captain's arm and eye were sadly out of baseball commission, which was clearly shown by numerous calls to him from the grandstand. Warry MacLaughlin was in great form and grew better as the game progressed and the innings increased in number. Kelley held down the pitching honors for the 36 aggregation, taking the place of McCann, who was unable to come to this city. Kelley was good and kept the local swatsmiths from landing any serious clusters of safeties from his delivery in a row.

In the opening round, Burdick swatted the first ball pitched to Hoyt, which he muffed and the Bridgeporter took the tip to first. Donnelly advanced him to second on a single through short while Evans gazed at the passing sphere and both runners moved up a peg on Nichols long fly to left field. Musante struck out and O'Leary sent a slow rolier to Hoyt. Marcus had plenty of time to throw the third out at first but he sent the ball far above McNaughton's head and two runs came across the rubbered pan.

Bridgeport came back with another tally in the third but this time it was on account of Warry MacLaughlin's carelessness. Mustane was given a free trip to the initial sack and stole his way to second. Then O'Leary sent a hot liner to the Plainfield pitcher and Warry fumbled the pill. Not content with this, he threw the ball wild and Musante romped home. The visitors clouted Warry's curves twice in the seventh and chalked up another run, but an error prevented it from being counted as an earned tally. After Burdick had singled, Donnelly sent a long fly to Nolan, which he muffed. The 885 centerfielder caught Burdick in his attempt to reach third but Donnelly was safe on second. Then Neisener walloped the ball for two bases and Donnelly scored.

When the local Elks galloped to the plate in the seventh, the loyal supporters in the grandstand began to bellow and two runs came across. Nolan started off with a double to left and Torpey sent him to third when Musante muffed his grounder. Torpey was caught between second and first when MacLaughlin got a berth on a fielder's choice, and Marcus Hoyt stepped to the bat to redeem his past performances. Marcus sent a Texas leaguer into right and Nolan and MacLoughlin raced home.

Plainfield tied the score in the eighth by swatting, settling the question of—Has Anybody Found Kelley—and swatting his curves to all corners. Pittington singled at the start and after McNaughton had died an easy death on a pop to third, Evans poled a double to right and the fourth tally came across.

Then the two teams fought for three extra rounds without an opportunity for any scoring until the lengthening shadows of twilight forced the umpire to call "Time." Despite the fact that the game was full of errors, nevertheless there was some speedy fielding. In the sixth MacLaughlin, Evans and McNaughton worked a neat double play and in the eighth Neisener made a double putout unassisted when he nabbed Torpey's hot liner and touched Evans out at third.

The 885 rooters had a chance to yell in the second round when Craig got a berth on first through Neisener's error, stole the keystone sack and raced home when Fred Nolan poled out a long single to left.

A large attendance was prevented by the threatening weather conditions shortly before the game was called but a loyal delegation of Elks and others was on hand to make the contest exciting and happy. After the gruelling diamond work was over, both teams and their supporters were banqueted at the Hotel

PUMMELS CONTRACTOR TO COLLECT HIS WAGES

John Paretti, of East Fourth street, was tried on an assault complaint before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning. The charge was preferred by Joseph Manhattan, for whom Paretti had done some work, and the trouble arose over the payment of the wages. Paretti has made several attempts to collect, but said that he has been unable to do so and that the last time he asked Manhattan for the mony he answered with a threat.

On Wednesday another demand for the money was made on Manhattan and when he acted as if he was going to put his threat into execution, Paretti gave his employer a beating. Robert Newton Crane defended Paretti and W. L. Hetfield, Sr., was counsel for Manhattan. Judge DeMeza suspended sentence after adjudging Paretti guilty and told him how to go about getting the money due him.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT TO CHRISTAIN WOMAN

The Christian Intelligencer, the Dutch Reformed church organ, in its current issue contains this obituary notice of Mrs. Dirk Broek, mother of Rev. J. Y. Broek, whose death occurred on July 31:

"Mrs. Anna Broek, widow of the Rev. D. Broek, was called to her heavenly home after a very brief illness of three days at her home in Grand Rapids, Mich. She had reached the age of 71 years. On August 16, 1865, she was married to the Rev. D. Broek by the Rev. Dr. A. C. Van Raalte. The Rev. Mr. Broek died Nov. 11, 1903. They had seven children, one of whom died in infancy and a son, Harry, at 18, while a student at Hope College. A sister and five children mourn her loss. The children are: Mrs. D. C. Cook, of Holland, Mich.; Miss Christina, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Jacob D., M. D., of Grandville, Mich.; the Rev. Albertus Broek, of Newark, N. J., and the Rev. John Y. Broek, of Plainfield, N. J. Of the departed one it may be truly said that she was a Christian mother indeed. Together with her husband she educated her children in the covenant relations established with Abraham and his seed. She lived long enough to see all her children take upon themselves the vows of covenant children. Two of her sons adorn the Christian ministry with pious lives and by proclaiming the truth as it is in Jesus. Funeral services were held at her late home in Grand Rapids, Mich., and conducted by her pastor, the Rev. Edward Kelder, of Coytesville, N. J. The remains were brought to Holland on Friday to the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. C. Cook and laid to rest by the side of her husband, after a brief service conducted by the Rev. Dr. N. M. Steffens, assisted by the Rev. J. H. Karsten. A good life has passed away from the family circle. The children may call her blessed and be thankful for her life work in their behalf."

At Fresh Air Camp.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Dunellen Presbyterian church had charge of the meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home last night. The speaker of the evening was G. W. Day, of Dunellen, and he took for his subject, "Moses and His Sister." His talk to the children was both interesting and instructive. The children's choir which has all the summer been a feature of the meetings again acquitted itself well. Tonight Recorder Charles M. Dolliver, of the borough, will address the youngsters.

Steam Digger at Work.

A steam power digger began work yesterday on North avenue where the 24-inch main of the Plainfield-Union Water Company will be run to Westfield. The digger makes a trench four feet deep and wide enough to admit the large pipes with amazing ease and rapidity and is a source of interest to all passersby, who stop to watch its operations. A number of mechanics and others interested in this sort af a machine went up to have a look at the labor saving device today.

Masons Enjoy Clambake.

DEMOCRATS MEET

Some Minority Party Leaders in North Plainfield Gather But do Little.

DECIDE TO MAKE NO SLATES.

W. J. Conroy as Chairman Appoints a Committee and W. L. Linbarger Tells Who He Has Selected as Candidates.

Ten Democrats gathered in Debele's auditorium on Chatham street last night in order to discuss plans of organization for the party in North Plainfield for the coming campaign, but a cog wheel slipped and an argument ensued regarding the purpose of the meeting. The excessive heat and humidity, which prevailed at 8 o'clock last night, the time at which the meeting was scheduled to begin, kept many of the faithful supporters of Democracy at their homes, but nevertheless a breezy discussion was enjoyed by those who were present.

William J. Conroy, of Somerset street, who has again entered the political game in the borough, was in the chair and called the little band of enthusiast supporters to order. He was elected temporary chairman and David Bodine, of Somerset street, was chosen secretary. On account of an argument which was started by several of the politicians outside the hall the session did not get fully underway until nearly 8:30.

When those outside had taken their places in the hall, Chairman Conroy announced that the meeting had been called for the purpose of discussing plans for the organization of a political campaign after the primary elections on September 26. He stated that it would also be necessary to appoint a temporary committee on arrangements for future meetings and other business. Consequently he was given the power to make such an appointment and he chose David Bodine, Levy Kline and Fred Kohler to carry on such work.

During the informal discussion which was then started, Walter C. Linbarger ,a member of the Somerset County Democratic committee, took the floor and brought before the meeting the names of three candidates whom he had asked to run at the primaries. These candidates were John M. Lewin, of Watchung avenue, who had consented to Mr. Linbarger after much persuasion to allow his name to appear on the Democratic ticket for the Mayoralty nomination, Henry Nischwitz, of Fairview avenue, and A. S. Olmstead, of Westervelt avenue, both of whom had consented to run for nominations on the Democratic ticket for Council. Mr. Linbarger presented these names before the meeting and suggested that a discussion be started.

Mr. Conroy objected to this plan stating that nothing should be done at this meeting which was contrary to the new Primary law and such a discussion would be no more or less than an endorsement of the candidates by the party. Mr. Linbarger answered him by saying that he did not believe in any such endorsement and that he heartily supported the primary election law. He said that he understood that any man in the borough could enter his name as a candidate, provided he had the requisite number of petitioners for him any time before September 6, which is the last day for the filing of petitions. Mr. Linbarger merely wished to have an informal talk as to these men.

The general concensus of opinion of those present was that this was not in accordance with the Geran law's spirit, so the discussion was not held. No other business could be transacted on the organization last night and so the work of completing the permanent organization was postponed until Thursday, August 24. The committee on arrangements will announce later, where the meeting will be held.

Crowley Declines.

The many friends of Henry J. Crowley, of West Third and Liberty streets, were disappointed this morning when he announced his withdrawal as a candidate for nomination on the Democratic ticket for the Council from the fourth ward. He said that he had been drawn into the race by a number of friends to whom he had not really assented or declined to be a candidate and on the supposition that he would accept, the boom was started by them after they had learned that he entertained opinions on certain things.

URGE ARBITRATION

Italian-American Club Asks Senator Martine to Sup- Taft Treaties.

THE PRINCIPLE IS SUBLIME.

The Ratification of the Peace Agreements "Will Greatly Further the Brotherhood of Nations" Says the Club.

The Italian-American Civic Club, of this city, yesterday sent to United States Senator James E. Martine a letter urging that he use his influence and voice for the ratification of the proposed arbitration treaties signed jointly by President Taft and representatives from France and by the President and representatives from England. The organization, which was formed only a few months ago, has now 100 members who compose the more thrifty and intelligent Italians in the city. The president is Albert Coletta and the secretary is Henry Venga.

The letter to Senator Martine was prompted by the deliberations of the club at a meeting this week when an unanimous vote was recorded for speedy ratification of the treaties without amendment. The letter follows:

"We suppose you are informed about the existence of our Italian-American Civic Club in Plainfield. While our club aims, in general, at the intellectual, moral and social uplifting of our colony in this city and surroundings, it has the specific aim of preparing our young men for American citizenship.

"We follow with deep interest the pending question about the Arbitration Treaties recently signed by President Taft and representatives of England and France. We believe such a step perfectly conforms to the sublimest principles of true democracy and will greatly further the brotherhood of nations.

"We hear that in the United States Senate there will be opposition to its ratification.

"May we, therefore, respectfully but strongly urge you to put the strength of your eloquence in behalf of such a noble cause, and try to stop the bloody and barbarous monster of war?"

MRS. CHARLES CORIELL, OF DUNELLEN, IS DEAD.

After an illness lasting three weeks, Mrs. Charles Coriell, of Washington avenue, Dunellen, died last night about 10:45 o'clock. She had been ill with typhoid fever and when pneumonia set in her strength was wasted and death followed.

Mrs. Coriell's maiden name was Ruth Yawger, of Somerville. Five years ago she was married to Charles Coriell. She was held in high esteem both in Dunellen and Somerville.

Mrs. Coriell is survived by her husband, Charles Coriell; two children, and two brothers and one sister. The funeral service will take place at her late home in Dunellen on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and will be in charge of Rev. Ernest Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Interment will be made at Hillside cemetery.

Excursion Not Marred by Shower.

After a day of pleasure, though a bit tired, the excursionists who went to Asbury Park yesterday on the annual excursion of Warren chapel returned last night. The shower that visited this vicinity yesterday afternoon was purely local in its area as the sun was not hid at the shore by a cloud all day. The weather was ideal, the temperature of the water just right for bathing and the other pleasures of the seaside running full blast for the enjoyment of the visitors. The excursion will go down in history as one of the most successful the Sunday schools.

Fire in Photo Shop.

POW-WOW IN BORO

North Plainfield Republicans to Discuss Situation Next Tuesday Night.

SMALLEY REMAINS SILENT.

Many Booms Started but What the Politicians Want to Know is Whether the Mayor Will Accept a Renomination.

The Republicans of North Plainfield will meet in Debele's Auditorium next Tuesday night to discuss candidates to be nominated at the primaries on September 26 and to organize for the election campaign. The meeting has been called by Alexander Milne and Edward Smith, county committeemen of the borough. It is not known yet who will be selected to preside as chairman.

In addition to discussion candidates for the offices to be filled in the borough it is the purpose of the meeting to take up possibilities mentioned for county offices. The borough offices to be filled are that of mayor and two councilmen. Mayor N. B. Smalley, the present encumbent, has not made any formal statement regarding his being a candidate again, but it is known that if he does decide to stand for re-nomination he will be opposed by Robert Clark, Jr., who came out with a statement several weeks ago.

The two councilmen whose terms expire are William L. Smalley and Jules J. Stahl. Both of these men have announced that they would not run again, but friends of each are trying to persuade them to reconsider. So far as is known the efforts of the friends have not been successful. A petition for Edmund Rushmore has been in circulation for several days in the district Mr. Smalley served and is fast finding signatures. Mr. Rushmore is at present a member of the North Plainfield Board of Education and has served in this capacity several years. He has taken a lively interest in the political life of the borough for some time and his friends feel that he is well qualified for member of the Council. J. V. E. Vanderhoef has also been mentioned for the place in the event of Mr. Smalley not changing his mind. He is a good man for the place.

The men being mentioned for the place to be vacated by Mr. Stahl, if his friends are no more successful than Mr. Smalley's, is William J. Hudson. Like Mr. Rushmore, Mr. Hudson has long been a resident of the borough and owns considerable property there. He has also been active unofficially in administration affairs, and is known as a constant, loyal Republican.

As regards the county ticket, there is a feeling that the lower end of the county should be represented on the slate to be presented at the primary election and that the chances of thus giving the voters a chance to cast their ballots for the same candidate at the general election.

The only office for which a selection has not been made is that of assembly. W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, having received the unanimous vote for State Senator of representative citizens of the county at a meeting held several weeks ago in Somerville. C. C. Wheeler, of North Plainfield Township, was the selection of the meeting for Assembly, but since the meeting was held has declined to be a candidate, thus leaving that place on the ticket to be filled.

Court Lectures Boys.

William Lock, John Duir, Frank Harding and Charles Bunn, the quartette of lads charged by Jacob Bedell with acting in a disorderly manner in his store on West Fourth street, Wednesday night, were arraigned for a hearing before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning. Sentence was suspended on all the boys except Bunn and the charge against him was dismissed, as he was able to show the court that he was not with the boys at the time the alleged disorder took place. In suspending sentence Judge DeMeza gave the boys a big heart-to-heart talk on behaving themselves in the future.

DISCOVERED A FIRE IN CLOSED RESIDENCE

What might have resulted in a costly fire at the residence of G. Harry Squires, at Arlington avenue and West Seventh street, was prevented yesterday morning by Acting Detective Sergeant Daniel McDonald. The patrolman on the beat the night before had noticed an open window and after closing it made a report to headquarters. As the house was entered several weeks ago, it was thought that another attempt had been made at burglary so the detective was sent yesterday morning to investigate.

As soon as he entered the house he smelled smoke and started to ascertain the origin of that before he looked for evidence of the burglary, as he knew that the family was away. He traced the fumes to the flooring between the third and second floor where the insulating had been worn from the electric wires and the short circuit thus made had fired the flooring. After shutting off the current at the switch in the basement he smothered the fire with a rug.

MRS. MARTHA DRAKE 90 YEARS OLD TODAY

Not showing the infirmities of advanced years or the ravages of time and still able to read the newspapers without the aid of eyeglasses, Mrs. Martha Jobes Drake, of Duer street, celebrated her ninetieth birthday today. A dinner party at the home of her son, Thompson B. Drake, of Duer street, was arranged by the members of her family, was held this noon.

Mrs. Drake is one of the best known women in this city and is among the oldest inhabitants of Plainfield, having lived here and in the borough for the greater part of her life. She was born at Liberty Corners, August 18, 1820, and went from there to New Market, where she remained for a few years. The nonogenarian was a Miss Jobes and married Piatt Drake in this city 64 years ago. Her husband died 50 years ago, he being at that time the only man in the confectionery business in this city. After his death, Mrs. Drake carried on her husband's business affairs for several years and then sold out the establishment, when the work became too great for her.

Mrs. Drake had three sons, two of whom are still living, Thompson B. Drake and Newton P. Drake, both of Duer street. They formerly owned the property on West Front street, which is now occupied by Morris Abrams and lived there for many years. Fifty years ago, they removed to the borough, where they built the house on Duer street, in which they have resided ever since.

The only relatives of Mrs. Drake who are now living are two sisters, Mrs. Kathryn Manning, of Dunellen avenue, and Mrs. Sarah Manning, of Grant avenue. She also has a cousin, Halstead Compton, who has lived on Compton avenue for many years. Several grandchildren are also living in this city.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. ELSIE CHAPMAN.

Funeral service for Mrs. Elsie Church Chapman, whose death occurred Monday, was held yesterday afternoon at her late residence with her brother, C. M. Church, of East Front street. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, officiated and burial was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Long Island.

There was a number of relatives and friends at the service and a number of floral tributes manifested the respect felt for the departed.

Mrs. F. Louise Bradley.

Mrs. F. Louise Bradley, mother of Mrs. Thomas Barrett, died early this morning at the home of the latter in Fanwood in her fifty-eighth year. The funeral service will be held at the residence of her daughter on Sunday afternoon. Burial will be made in Westfield cemetery. Mrs. Bradley came to Fanwood from New York State with her daughter last June and since that time they have made their home there.

Mr. Teel's Illness.

Word was received yesterday that Clarence E. Teel, of Craig place, who is ill at Lake Hopatcong, is much improved and that the nature of his illness was somewhat exaggerated. It was reported that he was suffering with typhoid-pneumonia, but this is denied although he was quite ill earlier in the week and his condition gave rise to this rumor.

DEAD IN 82 YEAR

Edward Fitz-Randolph Succumbs to Apoplexy in Muhlenberg Hospital.

WAS STRICKEN LAST MAY.

His Grandfather Conducted General Washington to Historic Rock on Watchung Mt.—No Funeral Arrangements.

Edward Fitz-Randolph, grandson of and named for Edward Fitz-Randolph, the man who conducted General George Washington to Washington's Rock where he could view the Hsssian troops at New Market, died early this morning in Muhlenberg Hospital, where he had been a patient since last May when he was stricken with apoplexy.

Mr. Randolph was found on the street in a helpless condition after the stroke by a patrolman and taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles H. Buckelew, of East Fifth street. A week later, Mrs. Buckelew was taken ill and Mr. Randolph was removed to the hospital. He was in his eighty-second year and Mrs. Buckelew, who is two years his senior, alone survives him, being the last of a family of seven children.

He was born on the farm of his father at Randolphville, which was named for him and conducted the farm until several years ago when he removed to this city and engaged in the carpenter business. Being still hale and hearty he had no trouble, regardless of his age, in securing work and was taken into the Carpenters' Union of this city. That is the only organizaion of which he was a member.

Mr. Randolph was a widower and outlived both his wife and a number of children. After coming to this city he boarded with Mrs. John C. VanDyke, of East Fifth street. He was a son of the late Asa Fitz-Randolph and Rachel Vail Fitz-Randolph.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. EVERETT MARSH.

The funeral services of Mrs. Everett Marsh were held this morning at her late residence on Somerset street and at St. Joseph's church, where a requiem mass was celebrated by Father Dunphy, of St. John's church, Dunellen. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery. The church was well filled with relatives and friends of the departed who had always resided in the borough and whose death was a matter of sincere regret to her large acquaintance.

A number of floral tributes attested the esteem in which she was held. The bearers were Francis J. Blatz, William Currin, Charles Foster, Nicholas Meyers, Joseph Blimm and Howard Woolston.

Mrs. John B. Eick.

After a year's illness, Mrs. John B. Eick died at her home on West Front street, Dunellen, late yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Eick had been a resident of Dunellen for the last ten years and had many friends there. She is survived by her husband and one child, Stella. The funeral services will be held at her late home Sunday afternoon at 12:00 o'clock and at the Dunellen M. E. church at 12:30, the Rev. Mr. Knox, the pastor, having charge of the services. Interment will be at Hillside cemetery.

Dr. Chas. V. Buttler.

A cablegram was received in New Brunswick yesterday announcing the death in Paris of Dr. Charles V. Buttler. He had been abroad six months studying in Vienna. The death of his son, Mr. Gardiner Haviland Buttler, in the Presbyterian Hospital, Morristown, last September, broke down Dr. Buttler's health. He had long practised in Connecticut and New Jersey. Four sisters and three brothers survive him.

Mrs. Laura Sisk.

Mrs. Laura Sisk died yesterday at her home on West Third street, after a long illness with cancer. The body was taken to the home of her moth, Mrs. Allen, in Arlington, this morning and the funeral will be held there. Mrs. Sisk had been a resident of this city about a year. Her parents alone survive.

Arrested for Non-Support.

John McIntyre, of North avenue, was arrested yesterday on complaint of Overseer of the Poor Alexander Ayers to whom McIntyre's wife had made a charge against him for non-support. The hearing was set down for next Friday, McIntyre being released under bonds of $500 which were furnished by his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Duschense, of Regent street, are entertaining their niece, Miss Katharine Donnelly, of Gloversville, N. Y.

AUTO BURGLARS ARE BUSY AGAIN.

Hackensack, Aug. 18.—Assistant Prosecutor John B. Zabriskie, who lives at Wyckoff, reported to his county detectives yesterday morning that his house had been robbed Wednesday night of about $40 in cash and a few articles of silver.

The same gang of burglars, while Mr. Zabriskie was driving in his carriage at 3 a. m., to Campgaw to notify County Detective John W. Courier of the theft, went through the residence of Eugene Wilson, a copper dealer in Jersey City, living near Assistant Prosecutor Zabriskie, and carried away $1,000 worth of jewelry and silverware. One of the diamond pins was alone worth $450.

Detective Courier learned from a neighbor, Charles Hammond, that an automobile containing three men was seen near the Hammond place, under an electric light, early Thursday morning. One of the men seemed to be disguised as a woman, and Detective Courier says he is sure that this was the same trio who were seen near the Hackensack courthouse Wednesday evening, all being in women's attire at that time.

Several other robberies have been perpetrated by a mysterious automobile gang in Warren county the past few months. Detective Courier followed the strange car for a considerable distance, but his machine proved too slow to overhaul the burglars.

CLARK LOOKS FOR AN ADJOURNMENT SEPT. 1.

Washington, Aug. 18.—"When do you look for adjournment?" was asked of Speaker Clark yesterday.

"Well," said the Missourian, who is not much for making emphasized guesses, "I have had September 1 in my mind all along, and I do not mind telling you this morning that I believe we shall be able to close up business at that time."

FORMER ACTRESS SHOOTS HUSBAND.

Patachogue, Long Island, Aug 18.—Thomas Fullum, who was a bookmaker before racing was ruled off in this State, was shot yesterday morning by his wife at their home on Wittiens avenue. He is under the care of two physicians, who have decided that the bullet, which entered his back on the right side and proceeded toward the heart, will not endanger his life, although his condition must be watched.

In another room of the house is Mrs. Fullum, who was on the stage before she was married. Her husband has refused to make a complaint against her, but Deputy Sheriff Norton has stablished himself at the house and has kept track of her since he arrested her soon after the shooting.

The Fullums were alone at the time, but through the open windows neighbors said that they heard a quarrel in progress. Fullum and his wife Wednesday night celebrated her 30th birthday.

Mrs. Fullum's name before she was married was Abbie Sheedy. She left the stage ten years ago, when she was married. There is one child, a boy nine years of age.

Mother Taught Him Theft.

Elizabeth, Aug. 18.—Frank Shuba, a lad of eleven, living in Bayway, when arraigned in police court yesterday by a Central Railroad detective, charged with the theft of coupling pins, said that his mother taught him to steal.

Even Tramps Thankful.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 18.—"Thanks for what we got. Sorry you didn't leave more. The larder was fine," was the message left by tramps who occupied a wealthy man's home while the family was at the seaside.

Consolation thought for today—After that Elks game yesterday, the conclusion has been reached that Brit Martin has a partner in his misery as a second baseman.

And some more consolation is to be found in the fact that the 885 Elks didn't lose although they came very close to such a disaster.

While you were cheering the Plainfield Elks yesterday to break the 4-4 tie, perhaps you didn't know that yesterday's contest was the third even game that the Bridgeport lodge has played this season. The 36 team has only been in three diamond battles this year and each one has resulted in a tie, the first one being 2-2, the second 3-3 and the third one 4-4. Going up!

Warry MacLoughlin didn't worry much about the Bridgeport batters until they had garnered four runs and then perhaps the old boy didn't slam them in the groove! For references apply to some of the Bridgeport bunch.

Setting aside Nolan, Craig, MacLoughlin and Torpey who, you know, are of the A1 variety, there was one shining Elk in the Plainfield herd under the cognomen of Arthur Smith. The former Rutgers College fielder had his antlered hoof on everything that came his way and with the bat he did the right thing at the right time and eliminated errors as the Chicago Marshall would have it.

But remember the Pets! They play at Scotch Plains tomorrow afternoon and from all accounts some dust is going to fly on the Thistles' diamond 'ere Jack Dingwald's "retreat from Moscow" begins toward the homeward bound trolley cars.

If the Plainfield-Scotch Plains game shouldn't look exciting enough for your keen nerves just try the Westfield-Somerville scrap at Somerville. It is scheduled to occur in nine rounds but indications point to extra innings before a knock-out is called.

Stepping from the sublime to the ridiculous—there will be games in the city Sunday-school league here tomorrow afternoon.

Don't knock—walk right in!

Stocks were irregular in New York yesterday.

Edmond Rostand, hurt in an auto accident, was in a serious condition.

A report was current in Teheran that the ex-Shah of Persia had been assassinated.

Curtis Guild, Jr., Ambassador to Russia, was received by the Czar and had luncheon in Peterhof.

The Pope's temperature was normal, and the physicians permitted him to take a little solid food.

Several physicians praised the administration of Dr. Alvah H. Doty as Health Officer of the Port of New York.

Ex-Judge Lovett, of the Union Pacific Railway, denied that there was any dissension among the directors of the company.

Admiral Togo was prostrated by an attack of indigestion, and compelled to forego his visit to the North Atlantic fleet, at Provincetown, Mass.; his condition was not considered serious.

Mayor Gaynor ordered the Park Commissioner to reinstate John W. Beatty as Superintendent for Manhattan and Richmond, and this was looked upon at the City Hall as a forerunner to Stover's removal.

All the speakers, including Dr. Lyman Abbott and William M. Ivins, spoke against the proposed new charter at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, New York, which was attended by many prominent people.

Atwood, the aviator, made the flight from Toledo to Cleveland, a distance of 123 miles, in two hours and twenty minutes; he was ahead of his schedule, and expected to "glide into the sand at Coney Island" in five days.

Dr. Wiley told a Congress committee that many prosecutions of food cases were dropped by his colleagues in the inspection board; he also told how the labelling of glucose as "corn syrup" was made legal after an adverse finding by his board.

The Liberal government made desperate efforts to prevent the British railway strike, but the unions ordered out 100,000 of the 600,000 employes; the situation in Liverpool was quieter, though the men refused an offer of the shipowners to mediate.

Congress—Senate: The insurgents were completely routed by a combination of Democrats and regular Republicans, who passed the House cotton bill after loading it with farcical amendments. House: The conference report on the Farmers' Free List bill was adopted by a vote of 160 to 102; the conference report on the campaign publicity bill was also adopted by a vote of 283 to 27.

PAPER NIGHTSTICKS FOR COPS.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 18.—Lynn police are now equipped with paper billies. This does not mean that the officers will be any milder in arbitrating future differences with lawbreakers.

The paper clubs are harder and tougher than the old hickory sticks, and were adopted after the patrolmen had shown the police committee that some of their harder headed prisoners, who put up a fight and had to be subdued by force, had shattered the wooden clubs, and then disarmed the officers of the law.

INVITE TAFT ON AIR VOYAGE.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 18—President Taft will have an opportunity to take an airship ride at the air meet at Squantum, which begins next week.

Officers of the Harvard Aviation Association have decided to present an invitation to the President to take his first trip into the air on the day that he visits the exhibition. The President has already promised to attend.

THIEF RETURNS THOSE STOLEN "GRAFT" PAPERS

Atlantic City, Aug. 17.—Authorities of the city are searching for a tall, well-dressed stranger, believed to be one of the gentlemen burglars who made a bold daylight robbery at the Hotel Continental Tuesday, rifling the apartment of Franklin H. Halliday, chief investigator for the grand jury, of evidence he had gathered implicating prominent men of the city in crooked election deals.

The burglar called William Young, a messenger boy, to Wright's pharmacy, at Virginia and Atlantic avenues, at 8 o'clock Tuesday, gave him a package and told him to deliver it to Mr. Halliday.

When the investigator opened the bundle he was much surprised to discover many of the papers that had been stolen, among them several personal papers. The thief apologized for taking the personal letters, explaining that the mistake had been made because of necessary haste in securing wanted papers.

The messenger boy could give but a meagre description of the man, whom he described as "tall, smooth-faced and wearing a dark gray suit." He had not taken any particular notice of him, because the call was nothing out of the ordinary as far as the boy was concerned.

STOLE CAN OF SARDINES, IS HELD IN $200 BAIL.

Charged with the theft of "one can of fancy imported sardines, valued at twenty-five cents," Henry Harris, colored, of Montclair, was held at $100 bail by Acting Recorder Weller at the Montclair Police Court.

The complaint was made by Thomas J. O'Keefe, who keeps a store at 605 Bloomfield avenue. Mr. O'Keefe asserted that Harris took the sardines Wednesday. The defendant declared that he had made other purchases at the time and had supposed that the price of the sardines was included in the bill. He furnished bonds.

ROOSEVELT A GRANDFATHER.

San Francisco, Aug. 18—A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Mother and child are reported in satisfactory health.

Since their marriage the Roosevelts have made their home in this city, where Mr. Roosevelt is engaged in business.

Fire Wrecks Tuckerton Gas Plant.

Tuckerton, Aug. 18.—The destruction of the gas plant recently purchased by the Ocean County Gas Company from the Tuckerton Gas Company, by fire Wednesday, caused a loss of about $5,000 to the company, and the many business places have sustained some loss on account of being without lights. The fire was discovered while all the workmen were at dinner, and before the fire could be controlled the entire building was burned.

THIRTY GOVERNORS TO MEET AT SPRING LAKE

At least thirty, and probably more Governors will attend the annual Conference of Governors which begins at the new Monmouth Hotel at Spring Lake on Tuesday, Sept. 12, and will last five days. This is the confident expectation of former Gov. J. Franklin Fort, who is chairman of the Citizens' Committee which will entertain the visitors. Only seven positive regrets have been received, and most of the Governors not heard from are in nearby States, and will undoubtedly be present.

The program for the conference has not been completed, but several of those who have been asked to read papers have accepted, including Gov. John A. Dix, of New York, Gov. Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts, Gov. Augustus E. Willson, of Kentucky, Gov. Edwin L. Norris of Montana, Gov. Chester H. Aldrich of Nebraska, and Gov. Joseph M. Carey of Wyoming. President Taft is expected to be present.

Gov. Wilson is chairman of the committee on arrangements, and some time ago he appointed former Gov. Fort as chairman of the reception committee, the members of which he was authorized to appoint. He named fifteen or more of the better known summer residents at this resort, and they have taken charge of all the local arrangements. In accordance with many requests made to Governor Wilson last year, when the conference was held at Louisville and Frankfort, Ky., he has asked the entertainment committee to make but few plans, as the governors want this to be a working conference, rather than a social one. As a result there will be but two events of that nature during the five days' sessions, one a reception by Gov. and Mrs. Wilson at the State cottage, on the camp ground at Sea Girt, and the other a dinner to be given by the members of the entertainment committee at the Spring Lake Casino on Wednesday or Thursday night. There will probably be three social events for the women who may accompany the executives, at some of the handsome summer homes at Spring Lake.

ROMANCE OF MEXICAN REVOLT.

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 18.—A romance of the Mexican revolution culminated here Wednesday night when Miss Amelia Spenser, of El Paso, was married to Lawrence Converse, of Glendora, Cal., after an elopement by automobile from Santa Monica, where Miss Spenser was visiting relatives.

Converse's name was a familiar one in the Mexican war news. Captured by the federal forces after having served with the insurrectos, he was confined for many weeks in the jail at Juarez, but was finally released through the intervention of the State Department.

Miss Spenser visited the American prisoners in the cuartel and won his heart by smuggling dainties to him. Converse, who is the son of a wealthy orange grower, upon his return home persuaded Miss Spenser to come here on a visit, and their marriage followed.

ALETHEIA AND ALEKO SURPRISE 'BOB' FITZSIMMONS, 'THE FARMER'

A volley of thunderous applause was heard at Proctor's theatre last night when Aletheia, the wonderful Greek telepathist, said that some one by the name of "Bob" Fitzsimmons, who was seated in a box in the audience was questioning her. When the almost deafening handclapping had ceased, Aletheia continued by saying that "Bob" was wishing to know just how soon a White Hope will appear who can be relied upon to realize his wishes. Mr. Fitzsimmons quietly drawled, "Well, you're right," and with this answer the applause continued for five minutes.

Among the other things which Aletheia predicted last night was the result of next year's Presidential election. Aletheia told Plainfielders last fall when she was here that Woodrow Wilson would be the next Governor of this State and last night she said that the next president of this country would be a Democrat.

Aletheia appears on the stage with her husband Aleko and the two work together in their psychic performances. They are real Greeks and are among the few of that race who have inherited the ability of their ancestors to come in touch with one another through mental telepathy. It is said of the ancient Greeks that they used to "telegraph" to one another by simply concentrating their minds. In this act there are no mechanical devices used and the entire performance is based upon the wonderful workings of Aletheia's mind.

This act is bringing large crowds to Proctor's at every performance, although this is the third appearance of the Greeks here. After leaving here last fall they went to the Pacific coast and when they returned to New York a short time ago the local management immediately booked them for this city.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Harry Anderson, who has been spending the summer with his grandmother, Mrs. H. Mundy, injured himself while jumping, causing a clot of blood at the base of the brain.

Patrick A. McDonough, of Plainfield, but formerly of this village, has gone to Kansas City and expects to take a position there.

Mrs. William Anderson, of New ork, whose son is quite ill, arrived here last night.

WANT SUNDAY SET FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

That Memorial Day has deteriorated from its proper sphere as a sacred and reverent occasion was the consensus of opinion among the delegates to the annual convention of the Stat Camp, P. O. S. of A., at Atlantic City, Wednesday, and a resolution was unanimously adopted asking Congress to make the last Sunday in May a day for memorial services in all churches. The purpose of this resolution is to make the Sunday nearest Memorial Day a part of the celebration of the former day, on the ground that the day has degenerated into one of mere pleasure and recreation.

Few Men For Force.

The Civil Service Commission is finding it hard to get applicants for appointment to the police force at East Orange. There are plenty of men out of work, yet Gardner Colby, chief examiner of the Civil Service Commission, complains of the small number of applicants for the examinations which are to be held on Monday.

ROCHESTER PREPARES TO HONOR VETERANS

Rochester, N. Y., is donning a garb of flags and bunting in honor of the veterans of the Civil War who will attend the forty-fifth national encampmnt of the Grand Army of the Republic, which will open there Monday. Arrangements for the entertainment of the host of delegates have been completed.

State Department Commander General George B. Loud, of New York city, has arrived and opened headquarters. He is chairman of Governor Dix's committee in charge of the $35,000 entertainment appropriation made by the State. He is clined to believe that John McElray, of Washington, will be elected commander in chief, with Judge Trimble, of Ohio, a close second.

The annual encampment will be notable for the record breaking number of regimental and brigade reunions to be held in conjunction therewith. The unusually large number of reunions is due chiefly to the fact that the present year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the war. They will include the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Daughters of Veterans, Sons of Veterans, Army Nurses, Army and Navy Union, Army and Navy Auxiliary, Union Veteran Union, Women's Veteran Relief Union, ex-Prisoners of War, Naval Veterans and Andersonville Survivors.

A remarkable golfing feat was accomplished at Ekwanok, Vermont, by Fred Herreshoff Tuesday afternoon. With two clubs, a putting cleek and a jigger he negotiated a 74, which is only four strokes above par for the course.

HEIGHT OF CHICK'S HOP VEXES COURT

Judge Dixon in the Trenton City District Court was called upon yesterday to determine whether a two-days-old chicken can jump over a board a foot high.

The question arose in the suit of Mrs. Julia Holbauer, proprietress of a hatchery, against Isadore and Lawrence Meyer for a balance said to be due her for incubating 1,200 eggs from the defendants' farm. Lawrence Meyer, who acted as counsel for himself and brother, declared that he had furnished the woman with Plymouth Rock eggs, and that the 730 chickens returned to him were "mongrels."

He argued that perhaps the chicks had hopped over the incubator board, and others had taken their places. No decision has yet been given.

MAKE WAR ON BIRDS AT MONTCLAIR NOW

War on the birds in the grand trees along The Crescent, one of Montclair's most fashionable streets. The street is particularly noticed for its thick high maples, in which the birds have nested by the thousands until the residents have complained of them as a nuisance.

An employe of Montclair Shade Tree Commission was ordered to the street last night with a double-barreled shotgun, which did effective work. Soon after the first shot many of the wealthy residents poured out of their home to aid the man in the work, supplying lanterns and baskets to pick up the dead birds. After two hours they had gathered hundreds of birds from the street, while many more fell wounded or dead in the underbrush at the roadside and on the lawns. It was like a storm, as English starlings, blackbirds, robins, and sparrows fell thickly.

The work will be continued each night until the street and trees are thoroughly rid of the birds.

QUALIFY FOR ELECTIONS.

Trenton, Aug. 18.—Of the 1,077 candidates taking the civil service examinations for election officers in Essex county only twenty failed to pass the required tests. Of these twelve were Democrats and eight were Republicans. The Civil Service Commission has certified to County Judge William P. Martin and the County Board of Elections the names of the remaining 1,057 who are eligible for appointment.

These include 542 Republicans and 515 Democrats. The Reupblicans made 1,088 nominations and the Democrats 873. When the examinations were held 538 Republicans and 346 Democrats, who had been nominated, failed to put in an appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Bloodworth, of Dixie lane, left today for the White mountains, where they will remain for a short time after which they will go to Niagara Falls. There they will be joined by Mrs. Tunison, of this city.

ROYAL SCOTTISH CLAN CONVENTION CLOSING.

Boston, Aug. 18.—The closing session of the twenty-fifth biennial convention of the Royal Clan, Order of Scottish Clans, yesterday, was devoted to the election of officers and the selection of a place for the next convention. There were several contests for officers, although Royal Chief John Hill was unopposed for re-election.

The principal struggle was for vice-president between Colonel Kennedy, of Omaha; Stuart Ballintyne, Minneapolis, and J. F. Findlay, Seattle.

Propositions to amend the constitution formed a great part of Wednesday's business. An amendment to make past representatives eligible for election to office in the Royal Clan was adopted.

Among the proposals defeated were those to make the sessions of the order triennial instead of biennial, which was favored by the Western delegates on the ground of economy; one to create an additional officer called royal auditor, to make a further check on the clan's accounts, and a proposal to make the offices of royal chaplain, royal henchman, royal warder and royal sentinel elective instead of appointive.

MISSIONARY DIES IN CRATER BLAST.

New Brunswick, Aug. 18.—Jacob Wyckoff, of this city, received a cablegram yesterday announcing the death of his brother-in-law, Rev. John Hail, of Japan, who was killed in the Asama Yema eruption at Japan on Tuesday while climbing that mountain.

Rev. Mr. Hail and his family, consisting of his wife, who was formerly Miss Harriet Wyckoff, daughter of Mrs. Anna Wyckoff and the late Martin Wyckoff, of this city and Japan, and four children, were enjoying the heated term at their summer home at Karuizawa. The missionary was taking his father, Rev. J. B. Hail, and his uncle, Rev. J. E. Hail, both missionaries in Japan for the past fifty years, up the Asama, the second highest mountain in Japan, when the volcano suddenly erupted.

Rev. Mr. Hail was stationed at the Presbyterian mission at Tsu Ise. He was educated at the Missouri Valley College, Marshall, Mo., and the Cumberland Theological Seminary at Lebanon, Tenn. He had been in Japan for the past ten years. He leaves four children, the oldest five years and the youngest six weeks old.

TOWN OVERPAYS ITS LIGHTING BILL.

Westfield, Aug. 18.—This town is becoming known as a liberal municipality in its business methods. On August 7 the Council passed a resolution to pay the Public Service Electric Company $4,000 on account. This was a part of $12,000 borrowed at 5 per cent. Town Treasurer W. R. Darby has now been notified by the Public Service that the company had figured up the Westfield street lighting account in every way possible and could only find that the town owed $2,464 for lights to August 1.

The $4,000 check was paid under protest, because the Public Service has been charging Westfield $18 per lamp and the town officials think they should get the lamps at $15 a year, as called for in a contract which expired in 1910. When the Public Service notified Mr. Darby of the over-payment and wanted to know what to do with the money Mr. Darby said that the check had gone through the regular channels. The Public Service officials therefore said that they would credit the town with the difference.

HARMONY IN MIDDLESEX.

Bollschweiler-Clayton Slate Is Favored at Shore Dinner.

New Brunswick, Aug. 18.—The Middlesex County Democratic executive committee held a meeting at Seidler's Beach, Morgan's Station, yesterday afternoon, and enjoyed a shore dinner and talked over the political situation. It was the consensus of opinion of the members that the Democratic nomination for sheriff would go to Mayor Albert Bollschweiler, of Perth Amboy. Daniel W. Clayton, the deputy surrogate, will be nominated for surrogate. No formal indorsement, however, was made of a candidate for sheriff.

Many prominent Democrats were at the gathering, including Millard P. Ross, County Clerk Bernard M. Gannon, George A. Viehmann, Frederick Weigel, Parker Runyon, Peter H. S. Hendricks, Sheriff W. H. Quackenboss, Deputy Sheriff Edward Houghton, Senator George S. Silzer, Freeholders Ely, Gebhardt and Kerr and County Chairman Thomas H. Hagerty.

Reports from the various sections of the county were to the effect that the Democrats will avoid a primary contest this year and will unite on Bollschweiler and Clayton to head the ticket, which they think will sweep the county.

Woman Feared Dog Had Rabies.

Woodbridge, Aug. 18.—Fearing a dog belonging to a Brooklyn woman which she was caring for had the rabies, Mrs. Newton, of Green street, shut the animal up in her barn and then sent for a veterinary. The dog had acted strangely, but after an examination the veterinary declared it was not suffering from any disease.

UNCLE SILAS SULKED.

What Aunt Melissa Had to Say When She Heard the News.

Aunt Melissa Spigott was such an exceedingly energetic talker that the youngsters of the family used to suppose that her tongue must be copper toed, because it never wore out. Uncle Silas, on the other hand, was as economical of words as a marketman is of early strawberries.

The too free exercising of this unruly member of Aunt Melissa's on one occasion gave Uncle Silas serious offense, which he manifested by a severe silence lasting for several days. At the end of that period one of the older daughters approached her mother upon the subject with the remark, "Ma, seems like you ought to make up with pa by now."

"Why," returned the daughter, "don't you know poor pa's feeling bad yet? He's still huffing."

"Huffing—for the land's sake! How long's he been a-huffing?"

"Ever since you came down on him so hard about wasting sugar by not stirring his coffee; that's three days ago."

"Why, you don't tell me, Janie Maud!" Aunt Melissa looked amazed. "Your pore pa. Been a-huffing for three days, and I never mistrusted a thing of it!"—Youth's Companion.

LOADED SILKS.

The Way the Fabric Is Adulterated to Increase Its Weight.

If properly handled silk is the strongest and most durable of all textile materials, but the various processes of manufacture that remove much of the natural gum cause it to lose so large an amount of its weight that unscrupulous dyers and manufacturers resort to "loading," dipping the thrown silk into a solution of bichloride of tin. Some are not content with restoring the original weight of the raw silk, but "load" it until its weight is multiplied three or four fold. This operation makes the skeins more valuable, but it destroys the durability of the filaments.

Stretching the threads to their elastic limit, so that a given weight will weave a greater number of yards, and steaming to give the material an unnatural luster are other processes that prove profitable to manufacturers, but costly to the consumers and that cause many people to regard silk as an uncertain and treacherous fabric, with an inexplicable tendency to split, crack and fall into holes, even though packed away in drawers or hanging up.

The use of cheap, inferior and destructive dyes is another practice equally injurious and perhaps still more common.—London Family Herald.

Driven to It.

Guy, the youngest son of Farmer Timmins, had spent two years in college, during which time he had accumulated more indebtedness than education. His father paid his bills and left him to shift for himself. The boy had good stock in him, however, and managed by turning over a new leaf, practicing strict economy and doing odd jobs of work as opportunities presented themselves to pay for his tuition, and stayed on.

"How's your boy doing at college?" asked the elder Timmins' next neighbor one day.

"He's getting along all right now."

"I hear he's working his way through."

"Yes," grimly, but with a gleam of pride, answered Farmer Timmins. "He found he couldn't work me any more."—Youth's Companion.

Pineapple Juice.

As an aid of digestion, a really material aid, the pineapple stands alone among the fruit. Its vegetable pepsin neutralizes, or perhaps rather digests, albuminous substances in the stomach. Fresh pineapple or, better still, the fresh juice of one placed in direct contact with eggs or gelatine or milk will prove this fact conclusively by producing a bitter tasting dish. In cases of catarrhal ailments of the throat and in its downward connection the alimentary canal or tract pineapple cannot be overestimated, and it acts with equal force in malarial affections. —New York World.

Fickle Popularity.

"You started with the full confidence of your constituents, and now you are criticised on every hand."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum mournfully, "my experience has been very much like that of a man who good naturedly consents to umpire a ball game."—Washington Star.

A Master of Fiction.

"What is Dobbleigh's general reputation for veracity, Bildad?" asked Hickenlooper.

"Well, it's this way," said Bildad. "If Dobbleigh could write the way he talks he'd have Sir Walter Scott and Alexander Dumas lashed to the mast." —Harper's Weekly.

No Duty on Anecdotes.

"This sword came from the battlefield of Waterloo. An interesting anecdote goes with it."

"It is a really interesting anecdote," said the other man, after listening carefully. "I bought the same anecdote once with an old musket."—Washington Herald.

We are put into this world to make it better, and we must be about our business.—General Armstrong.

PHYSICIANS AND FEES.

A Medical View of the Doctor's Charge For His Services.

Those who discuss the physicians' fee frequently miss the essence of it. As a matter of fact, under present social conditions the charge made to the wealthy and well to do is the normal and proper fee; the lowered charges made to those less fortunate are concessions. The tremendous field of the physician's charity is therefore usually underestimated, for it extends to a great majority of his patients.

In olden times, when medicine was nearly all art and but little science, the fee was unknown. Like other artists, the leech received an honorarium, the weight of which depended naturally upon the resources of the patient.

The popular impression that physicians make the rich pay for the poor is incorrect. They extend their services to all alike, and all are supposed to pay as much as they can afford for services really priceless and impossible to represent adequately in money values.

Any attempt made to establish standard fees by law is sure to work injustice to the physician. The "standard" fee would have to be much higher than the average fee at present and there would have to be some method of enforcing its sure payment. Only with the standard fixed, as now, by the ability of the wealthy is it possible for the poor to receive the benefits of the highest professional skill without losing their self respect.—New York Medical Journal.

POWER OF MUSIC.

The Awakening That Came to Stephenson on Hearing Ole Bull.

Ole Bornemann Bull, who was one of the famous wizards of the violin in the nineteenth century, had little difficulty in swaying an audience by the magic of his wonderful performance on his favorite instrument.

The great violinist was greatly admired by Stephenson, the inventor of the locomotive, although the latter had little appreciation of music in his soul. A call of some nature one day took Stephenson to Ole Bull's home. After the business on hand had been transacted the inventor arose to go, whereupon the master pressed him to remain and hear the tones of a famous violin which had lately come into his possession.

Ole Bull began to explain the marvelous construction of the violin, the perfect exactness required in each minutest part. The inventor became interested in the subject. Finally Ole Bull explained how the sound waves were produced and the relation of the different parts to their production. Then, still explaining, he drew his magic bow across the strings in a burst of exquisite music.

Stephenson listened, spellbound. Ole Bull played on. When the music finally died away Stephenson burst into tears and sobbed. "There has been something in my life that was lacking, and at last I've found out what it is."

Escaped the Bullets.

Dr. James Craik, who was Washington's family physician, was with the Father of His Country in the expedition against the French and Indians in 1754, and the next year he attended General Braddock in his fatal campaigning. Fifteen years later, while exploring wild lands in the western districts of Virginia, Dr. Craik encountered a band of Indians led by an aged chief, who informed the physician through an interpreter that he had made a long journey to see Colonel Washington, at whom in the battle of Monongahela he had fired his rifle fifteen times and ordered all his young men to do the same. In fact, Washington had two horses killed under him that day, and his coat was pierced with four bullets, yet he left the battlefield unscratched.

A Chemical Experiment.

When the genial Quaker, Isaac T. Hopper, met a boy with a dirty face or hands he would stop him and inquire if he ever studied chemistry. The boy, with a wondering stare, would answer, "No."

"Well, then, I will teach thee how to perform a curious chemical experiment," said Friend Hopper. "Go home, take a piece of soap, put it in water and rub it briskly on thy hands and face. Thou hast no idea what a beautiful froth it will make and how much whiter thy skin will be. That's a chemical experiment. I advise thee to try it."—Life of Isaac T. Hopper.

Ancient History.

"I'm satisfied," said the young man who was just home from college, "that the science of electricity was understood before the flood."

"Don't be a fool," snorted the old gentleman.

"Beg pardon, but Noah must have certainly used some kind of an ark light."

Warned.

Engaged Man—Love me? Why, she actually counts the kisses I give her! Cynical Friend—That's bad. She may keep it up after your marriage.—Boston Transcript.

One of Those Crazy Questions.

"Well, great guns, Jones! I see you're wearing glasses. What for?"

"For a sprained knee, you darned fool! What do you suppose?"—Toledo Blade.

Another Trouble.

The trouble with most men is that they want to be at bat all the time and are never willing to do any fielding.—Chicago Record-Herald.

MY AEROPLANE ADVENTURES

By J. ARMSTRONG DREXEL

I.—Flirting With Death at 10,000 Feet

[Copyright, 1911, by Henry M. Neely. Copyright in Great Britain and Canada. All rights reserved.]

IT was on the train between Philadelphia and New York. I had just received confirmation of my altitude record of 9,897 feet—the highest man had ever been in an aeroplane—and had read in the evening papers that my great ambition to be the first to go up above the coveted 10,000 mark would never be realized, for Legagneaux had risen 10,499 that afternoon.

"Well," I heard one man say to another, "they have settled Drexel's record beyond all question now. Here's a fellow who has beaten him by 500 feet."

"Yes," said the other. "It seems to get easier every day."

Easy! A man climbs and climbs and strains every nerve and muscle to the breaking point—he fights inch by inch, forcing a frail machine beyond anything it was ever intended to do—he hears the creaking of the woodwork and the wicked singing of the tautening wires, and he knows that one little ounce more of strain somewhere, anywhere, and it will all be over in the most horrible of ends—he plugs onward and upward, sick at heart and in body, utterly weary and hopeless, nerves gone, strength ebbing fast, brain dizzy, ears bursting and eyes swimming until a momentary spell of near unconsciousness makes him pull himself together for the awful hell of that final plunge to earth, to leave him practically helpless when at last he does reach the ground—and they call all this easy!

No man will ever be able adequately to describe that long, vast plunge to earth after every nerve has collapsed and every muscle refused to do more work upward. I have experienced it more often than any living aviator, yet even now I cannot recall any detached or definite impressions of it—nothing but a shuddering memory of horrors rushing by with an awful sense of defenselessness and futility of effort as I fairly shrieked through the air to earth with the chances 100 to 1 against a safe landing.

"Anybody can climb for height," said Morane. "The thing is to get down again."

Climbing the Air Stairs.

That fellow who said that it was "getting easier all the time" should have seen the beautiful Bleriot as she swept gracefully off the ground with me that day at Point Breeze and as she flew, without effort and with scarcely a tremor, in the first wide preliminary circles as I mounted the first 2,000 feet.

Easy! That would have looked easy enough certainly. The machine must have looked like a great gull or a buzzard floating on the breeze, and I suppose I might have been sound asleep in her for all the spectators on the ground could have seen of motion or of effort on my part.

Then came the clouds, and I worked my way up through them, hoping that they would not be thick nor last long, for above the clouds in the sunlight are the wickedest gusts, and it means fight, fight, fight, all the time.

The hand of the aneroid barometer in front of me kept creeping round and round as I mounted. The first 2,000 feet were told off quickly, and then more and more slowly the indicator went as I entered the thinner strata of the upper air and began the struggle to pass the thousand marks. Three, four, five, six thousand I passed, each one taking an increasing length of time and requiring more of physical effort and mental and nervous strain.

Soon the hand of the aneroid began to caper back and forth. I knew I was mounting steadily, but the little instrument did not show it and finally flopped back near the starting point and stayed there. The aneroid had evidently gone higher than it was ever intended to go and was completely out of commission.

A barograph, which is a recording barometer, had been tied about my neck, and I took one hand from the control and turned the face of the barograph up toward me. Through the glass front I could see the purple line that had traced my ascent. I felt sure that I must be near the top. It seemed ages since I had started, and the terrible cold was beginning to penetrate even the thick, fur lined clothing that I had made particularly for this flight. My hands were beginning to get numb, and I felt that my ears would burst with the pressure from inside my head or, rather, with the lessening of the pressure outside.

But one sight of the barograph made me grit my teeth and shove the nose of the Bleriot a good deal higher than wisdom warranted. Instead of being near the coveted 10,000 mark, I was barely passing the 8,000 line.

No words of mine can express the disappointment and the discouragement of that moment. I was almost "all in," yet I had still the two hardest stages of my journey to cover—the bitter fight of jumping and falling, jumping and falling, during the final 500 feet, and last, but most awful of all, the horrors of that descent where the chances were 100 to 1 against me.

Laughing at 10,000 Feet.

There was nothing for it, however, but to continue the fight upward.

So I doggedly fixed my mind upon the magic figures 10,000 and mounted again. Below me there was nothing but space. The filmy clouds formed a haze which completely shut the earth from my view, and I seemed like an impudent little fly buzzing around importantly in the vastness of infinitude. The thought struck me as being rather droll, and I laughed aloud.

Then I remembered how a friend of mine had come to me at the hangar before I started and, with a quizzical expression on his face, as though he knew I was not serious, asked:

"Are you really going for altitude today?"

"Yes," I answered.

"Do you think you have any chance of making it?" he asked.

"There's always a chance," I replied and jumped into the machine.

Since then I have thought over that short conversation a score of times and I have failed to find in it anything amusing. Yet away up there in a loneliness whose vastness and impressiveness only Legagneaux and I of all living men can appreciate, with the motor buzzing and whirling and humming and spitting, seemingly to accentuate the very vastness of the solitude and make it even more awe inspiring than it is to the floating balloonist—away up there, passing close to the 9,000 foot mark—the two questions and their answers struck me as being the most droll things I had ever heard, and I started to laugh boisterously like a drunken sailor in a low taproom.

"Crazy," I thought, and as the thought flashed across my mind with all the horrible possibilities of a loss of mentality and mental balance nearly two miles above the earth—with the slightest mismovement spelling awful death—I pulled myself together again and made a final desperate effort to cross the 10,000 mark.

It was impossible for me to know whether I had succeeded or not. The last few feet were such a bitter struggle up and down, up and down, through the thin air that I could not look at the barograph and indeed could not see the line the one time I did try.

Finally, utterly exhausted and numb both in body and mind, I gave up the struggle and turned the nose of the Bleriot toward the earth.

The Drop to Earth.

I have no words to describe that descent. It would sound like the veriest drivel if I should try, for only a man trained to repression of superlatives could give an idea of its horrors without making it seem like silly exaggeration.

Every reader has probably gone down fifteen or twenty floors in an express elevator. Do you remember how dizzy and sick at the stomach it made you?

My descent was made at the rate of a vertical mile in about two minutes while I was traveling horizontally at the rate of seventy or seventy-five miles an hour. In other words, my vertical speed downward was about four times as fast as that of the fastest elevator, and I had the added strain of the tremendous horizontal momentum.

The effect of this rapid descent is almost paralyzing. Those who have traveled under the new Pennsylvania railroad tunnels to New York have felt the effect of the pressure of air against the eardrums. This is about one-tenth the effect that is made upon the ears when descending in an aeroplane from a great height. In my case in coming down from 9,897 feet at my tremendous rate of speed my ears felt that they would burst, and the top of my head felt as though it would fly off at any moment. Added to this came the feeling of nausea, which grew and grew until my head swam, and just for one moment I am sure I lost consciousness. This occurred, I should say, at a height of between 7,000 and 8,000 feet.

Again, I had to bring all my self control to my rescue, but my nervous energy was ebbing fast, and I remember wondering how much longer I should be able to fight back the utter collapse that I knew was coming soon.

You must remember that all this was occurring when I had only an approximate idea of how high above the earth I was and when I had absolutely no idea of my geographical position. After I had passed through the upper strata of clouds at a height of some 4,000 feet I had not again seen the earth except for little drifting patches of indistinct drab as I flew over the rifts in the vapor, and I did not know whether I was one mile or a hundred from Philadelphia. And now I was descending so fast and was so nearly helpless, both physically and mentally, that I could do nothing except keep the Bleriot on the proper slant to give the best descent with the least possible strain.

Astray In Skyland.

My first sight of the earth as I dropped from the lower fringes of the clouds showed me that I was doomed to another disappointment. Not a sign of a city was in sight. Not a single landmark that I had been told to look out for was to be seen. Instead there were farm land and forest, plowed fields and orchards and nowhere so much as a smooth meadow fit for me to alight upon without smashing up.

For the third time I saw Death, as it were, sitting grinning on the gasoline tank in front of me. My head swam, and again, with that awful feeling of nausea, I seemed to lose consciousness for a fleeting moment. Then the sight of a small field brought me back to my senses, and I circled again to come upon it from the best direction.

Fortunately for me, I made a perfect landing. It was probably the instinct that comes of long practice that kept me from smashing up on coming to the ground, for I know that my brain was no longer working and my muscles were incapable of obeying a mental command.

I must have sat there helplessly in the machine for fully five minutes, mumbling meaningless things to myself, until I saw a woman coming toward me. Then I stretched myself, half rose and sprawled rather than climbed down from my seat to the ground. But even then I could not stand without help.

I found that I had landed in Oreland, about fourteen miles northwest of my starting point in Philadelphia.

The After Effect.

Later came the dismaying announcement that a test of my barograph (a rough reading of which had showed approximately 9,970 feet) gave me only a little more than 9,400 feet. But the officials of the Aero Club of Pennsylvania, under whose auspices the flight had been made, were sure that a mistake had been made somewhere and so turned the instrument over to George S. Bliss, head of the United States weather bureau in Philadelphia. To the indefatigable and generous efforts of this official we owe the fact that the final official reading of 9,897 feet was given after tests to which no barograph had ever been subjected before. That was the world's record for only a short time, for a day or two later came Legagneaux's wonderful feat, when he ascended 10,499 feet and made it impossible for me to realize my fond hope of being the first man to pass the 10,000 mark.

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

A new play by James Halleck Reid —"The Confession" will be presented on Labor Day, September 4, at the Plainfield theatre, matinee and night. Of late it has been a serious question to select the given entertainment of a night, to be sure that one might not have their delicate sensibilities shocked by some untoward vulgarity. "The Confession" is a play which runs the gamut of every human emotion, and is presented with an all star cast of players, among whom are Herbert Barrington, Clifford Dempsey, William Sheridan, Charles Canfield, Anne Bradley, Bertine Robertson and others. From the above list, the public may be assured that whatever the play contains, it will be presented beautifully. It will be presented under the auspices of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus.

"Jolly" John Larkins and his happy flock of pretty girls and funny boys, in the new big musical comedy, "Royal Sam," will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre on Thursday, August 24. Larkins has rallied around himself about all the talent worth having in the colored world of comedy song and dance. His success has been so great as co-star with Black Patti for the last four seasons that he has been able to create a sort of monopoly and plutocracy of a jet tint. His company numbers over two score of white teeth and shiny-eyed male and female funnies and funsters. This collection of talented singers is headed by the merriest of funmakers, "Jolly" John himself is a corker, in fact, a fancy cut-glass stopper in the way of a good cork, who don't need burnt cork to be black or be merry, droll or hilariously amusing.

Proctor's Vaudeville.

Proctor's vaudeville offering for this week reaches the high standard of taste in the selection of acts and pictures. Aletheia and Aleko, the mysterious Greek mindreaders; Christine Hill and company, in an Italian character novelty sketch of life in New York Italian quarters tell a most dramatic story; Ziska & Saunders in a little comedy magic and a lot of "wise" talk; Wartenberg Brothers, expert double foot jugglers, have a wonderful ball juggling act.

PRINTERS CHOOSE CLEVELAND, OHIO.

Cleveland was chosen as the place for the next annual convention of the International Typographical Union at last night's session of the convention at San Francisco by a vote of 114 to 106, cast for Houston, Texas. Decision was on the second ballot. Ottawa, Ont., and Vancover, B. C., dropped out after the first ballot.

A Law Committee's constitutional amendment to raise the salary of the President and Secretary-Treasurer from $2,400 to $3,500 per year was adopted by an unanimous vote. A constitutional amendment by which the vote of 100 unions is required for the initiation of proposed legislation, instead of fifty was carried, 87 to 76.

SOMERVILLE PROTESTS GAME WITH THE 'PETS'

That "Chet" Cawley, manager of the Somerville baseball team of the Central New Jersey League, means to keep the promise made to the effect that he would protest the game played at Somerville last week, in which his team was defeated by the Plainfield team, is evident from the letter received by Manager Dorflinger of the Plainfield team, a copy of which follows:

"Somerville, Aug. 16, 1911.

"Mr. Ernest Dorflinger,
"Secretary Central League,
"Plainfield, N. J.:

"My Dear Mr. Dorflinger:—I have received a protest from the captain of the Somerville team of the game played here Saturday, August 12. This makes it necessary for me to ask you to call a meeting of the directors to consider the protest. Please call the meeting for Wednesday, August 23, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Queen City Hotel, Plainfield. As soon as you get a notice of the meeting, I will see that you get a copy of the charges so that you can be prepared to meet them at that time. I remain,

"Yours very truly,
"(Signed) A. M. BEEKMAN,
"President."

At the time Mr. Cawley said he would protest the game he took exception to Dave Driscoll accompanying Red Waller around the bases, after Waller had batted the ball out of the lot for a home run. Driscoll was coaching on the first base line and when he saw the ball go out of the lot he romped from first to third with "Red," telling him what a mighty swat it was. The wallop came in the ninth inning and put Plainfield two in the lead.

LEAGUE TEAMS WILL FIGHT FOR POSITIONS

Games Tomorrow.

Plainfield at Scotch Plains.
Westfield at Somerville.
High Bridge at Bound Brook.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.	Pc.
Plainfield	10	1	.909
Somerville	8	3	.727
Westfield	5	7	.417
Scotch Plains	5	7	.417
High Bridge	4	8	.333
Bound Brook	3	9	.250

Several important questions will be settled before the sun goes down tomorrow night provided that Old Sol shines during the day and the diamonds in this vicinity are not too muddy. The fight for last place in the Central New Jersey League will be determined when High Bridge meets Bound Brook on the tailenders' grounds and the safety of the Pets on the first rung depends upon the outcome of the Westfield-Somerville contest. Of course the Plainfield aggregation might be defeated by the Thistles since baseball is such a changeable thing.

Interest will be largely centered to morrow in the game at Bound Brook, where the two 17-inning fighters come together for another bout. Bound Brook is going at a much faster clip now than it was when that long game was played at High Bridge and if the Hunterdon county boys expect to do any damage to the tailenders' record they will have to put on a little more speed. To do this, Morris, who has appeared in a Westfield uniform this season, will beslated to be on the slab against the Bound Brookers while it is expected that Wolf, the hero of the Westfield game last Saturday, will twirl for Bound Brook.

Manager Dorflinger will show the same lineup at Scotch Plains tomorrow that appeared in the Somerville game with "Red" Waller on the mound. Warry McLaughlin will do the pitching for the Thistles with Hand on the receiving end. It is reported that Scotch Plainers have their eyes on the ball and are expecting to clout Waller hard. But wait!

If Westfield should win and Scotch Plains should lose, the Mt. Ararat aggregation would have a tight hold on third place. Manager Joe Alberts, of the Plains nine, is therefore particularly anxious to snatch the game from the Pets tomorrow for he realizes that Westfield has a chance to win.

FIRST BAPTISTS WILL TRY TO STOP MONROES

Games Tomorrow.

First Baptist vs. Monroe Avenue.
Park Avenue vs. Trinity.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

	W.	L.	Pc.
Monroe Avenue	6	0	1,000
Park Avenue	5	2	.714
First Baptist	2	5	.286
Trinity	0	6	.000

Carlton Smith's fast going First Baptists will attempt to stop the Monroes in their mad rush for the city Sunday school league pennant tomorrow afternoon while the Parks are waiting to fatten their average at the expense of the Trinity Reformed team. Two defeats for the Monroes and two more victories for Park avenue will make a tie in the league race.

As yet no new pitchers have been announced for the Sunday school slabs tomorrow although Hobson might twirl for the Parks in the place of Harry VanZandt. Pierson Bailey will be in the box for the First Baptist aggregation and if he continues his speedy work of last week, the Methodists will have to go some to land any hits from his delivery. Captain Harold Schenck, of the Trinity team, has been ill during the week and it is doubtful if he will be able to appear with his nine tomorrow.

Jacob Apgar.

Jacob Apgar, a former resident of this city, died at East Orange yesterday. He lived in Plainfield fifteen years ago. He resided here for over twenty years, being engaged in the contracting business. He was 63 years of age and is survived by John, Lewis and Edward Apgar, all nephews.

Death of an Infant.

Daniel Patrick, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Brien, died this morning at the home of his parents on South avenue, after an illness of a month. The funeral will be held from his late home tomorrow afternoon and interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

CROWN TITANIA XI

Miss Olga D. Venino the New Queen Surrounded by Court at Asbury Park.

MANY TABLEAUX AND PICTURES

Annual Baby Parade On August 31—Dinner For Queen On Monday Night—Cotillion On Friday Night.

Titania XI, queen of the Asbury Park baby parade and carnival, was publicly crowned last night at the Casino on the boardwalk. The queen, Miss Olga Dorothy Venino, of Orange, was accompanied by the members in that place of her court and a band of one hundred children representing fairies. A large number of spectators enjoyed the impressive ceremony, which was in charge of Oscar H. Ehrgott. The annual court ball followed the coronation. Many Plainfielders witnessed the festivities.

The coronation ceremony consisted of four tableaux and six pictures, ending with a grand march by the court party. The first scene represented Fairyland. One hundred children, gowned in white, engaged in a dance. The second picture, revealed Miss Ehrgott, dressed as a herald, in the act of proclaiming Titania queen of the carnival. Then followed a tableau showing the queen and her court.

Titania wore an Empire gown of heavy white satin with pearl trimming. Her maids were similarly attired. Miss Mildred Morgan, of Indianapolis, impersonated the Princess Cinderella. The maids were Miss Marie Winsor and Miss Harriet S. Smock, of Asbury Park; Miss Cora Belle Langfield, of New York city; Miss Marie Pauline Gilmour and Miss Hazel Adelaide Manners, of Newark; Miss Margaretta May Douty, of Philadelphia, and Miss Mildred May Jones, of Brooklyn.

Other members of the court party were Miss Geraldine Whalen and Miss Virginia Whalen, of Asbury Park, costumed as guards; Louis Van Zile and P. Van Zile, of Newark, princes; Miss Elodie Jaques Schemmerhorn and Miss Susan Schemmerhorn, of New York city, princeesses; Miss Vivian Gray Hall and Miss Beatrice Adele Hall, of Asbury Park, pages, and Miss Virginia Hope Kelsey, of Asbury Park, and Miss Margaret Schoolbred, of Jamaica, N. Y., attendants. The queen occupied a throne beneath an electric lighted wistaria arch.

The next tableau showed the Princess Van Zile presenting the crown and sceptre to Titania. The stage was darkened for ten seconds, when a spot light of great brilliancy illuminated Titania's head, showing the crown in place. The last tableau revealed the entire court party posing in the act of a grand march. Later they left the stage and executed a march on the dance floor. Titania and her maids occupied a prosecnium box at the end of the march, which was followed by dancing by her subjects.

The annual baby parade, around which all other carnival events centre, will take place Thursday afternoon, August 3. Next Monday evening a dinner will be given for the queen and her court and the members of the Carnival Commission at the Hotel Monmouth, Saturday evening, August 26, the queen will give a ball at the Hotel Albion, and on Wednesday evening, August 30, she wil give a dinner to her court at the same hotel.

On Friday evening, September 1, the Princess Cinderella will give a cotillion at the Hotel Lafayette. Mrs. T. Frank Appleby, wife of Mayor Appleby; Mrs. W. Harvey Jones and Mrs. George S. Ferguson, all of Asbury Park, will act as hostess to the court party during the carnival.

Fell by the Wayside.

Charles Payne, of Morristown, drove to this city yesterday and imbibed too freely in the "cup that queers." After a night in a cell he told Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning that if allowed to go he would never come to Plainfield and get in a like condition again. Sentence was suspended.

Fined $2 For Drunkenness.

William Birn, of Somerset street, was fined $2 by Recorder Charles M. Dolliver in the borough court this morning for being drunk and disorderly on Somerset street last night. He was arrested by Marshal Charles Keller and paid the fine.

LABOR DAY RACES AT THE FAIR ACRES TRACK

The Westfield Driving and Riding Club is looking forward to making its racing meet on Monday, September 4, Labor Day, at Fair Acres track, one of the most memorable in the list of its heretofore successful events.

All preparations are now being made to that end, and entries are already being received from all over the State. The racing committee, as well as club members, are putting in its best efforts to make Labor Day at Fair Acres a record breaker, both from the standpoints of trotting accomplishment and popular acclaim.

There will be races in four classes; three of the classes with purses of $300 each and one class of members only. It is promised that some of the fastest horses in the State will be present and try for records on what is conceded to be one of the fastest half-mile tracks in New Jersey.

DEMOCRATIC OUTING WEDNESDAY SEPT. 13

At a special meeting of the picnic committee of the Plainfield Democratic Club in the club rooms last night it was decided to hold the annual outing on Wednesday, September 13. Many prominent Democrats have been invited to attend, among them being United States Senator Martine, of this city, Ray Mayhew, of Westfield, president of the associated Democratic Clubs of New Jersey, and candidates Schlotter, Collins, Fay and Clarkson, as well as Assemblyman Brodhead. The scene of the frolic will be Wayside Park, Dunellen.

Many athletic contests will be introduced, the most important being a tug of war between the Plainfield and Elizabeth Democratic clubs. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of J. T. Caulfield, chairman, E. T. Lynch, secretary, and J. T. McCarthy, treasurer.

DEAD MAN IS FOUND TIED TO A ROWBOAT

Elizabeth's police department is still struggling with what is believed to be a drowning mystery. Last night the body found tied to a rowboat at John VanPelt's boathouse, South Front street, in that city, had not been identified. It is that of a middle-aged man with dark hair and mustache, attired in a black suit and dark shoes.

The boat was let out to two young men by Van Pelt early Thursday evening. It had not been returned up to midnight. When Van Pelt went to the dock yesterday morning he found the boat and the corpse tied to it. There was no trace of the young men. Van Pelt says he does not know who they are, but believes they know nothing of the matter and simply discovered the body flating on the Sound and tied it to the boat. No one had told the police or morgue-keeper last night of missing relatives.

NEW YORK BROKER BUYS WEST SEVENTH ST. HOME.

Malcolm N. McLelen, of New York city, a former resident of Plainfield, has purchased J. P. Wells Taylor's handsome house and property at the corner of West Seventh street and Spooner avenue, through Elston M. French. The house was built three years ago by Mr. Taylor, who has lived there since that time.

Mr. McLelen is a member of the firm of Buckhart, Spalding & McLelen at 71 Broadway, New York city, and expects to occupy his new house about the first of October. He lived here several years ago but since moving to New York he says that he has realized that Plainfield is the true suburban residential city and so he will come here again to make his home.

Mr. Taylor has purchased a house belonging to Mr. McLelen on Hobart avenue, between West Seventh and West Eighth streets, and will remove there October 1.

Cranford Valuations Jump.

Cranford's assessable valuations have been increased to over $5,000,000 for 1911. The Public Service power house, assessed at $105,500 in 1910, has been raised to $135,500 on account of the enlarged building and adidtional machinery. There are 1,001 polls in town.

Announce Engagement.

Mrs. Sarah Laible wishes to announce the engagement of her daughter, Kathrwn M., to Rudolph W. Toense, of Brooklyn, formerly of Plainfield.

LIFE IN SINGAPORE

LEAVES FOR HIS HOME TODAY.

Much Impressed With the Country, He Writes Instructively Of It —Has Been There For Three Years.

Having been away from this city for more than three years, Robert Hand, son of Clarence J. Hand, of Fairview avenue, is now homeward bound from Singapore, in the Straits Settlements. Word was received from him by his brother, Clarence Hand, this morning, stating that he would embark from the coasts of the Settlements today and that he had made extensive preparations for his trip to the United States, which will take him some weeks.

In the letter which was received this morning, Mr. Hand gives vivid descriptions of the life in that cosmopolitan city, where he has been a manager for the Standard Oil Company for the past three years, having gone there after obtaining his experience in the oil business in the New York office and in the Pennsylvania district.

Among the features of the life in Singapore, which Mr. Hand found of interest, was the celebration which occurred all over that country recently at the time of the coronation of King George in England. Singapore is a city in one of the British possessions and consequently the inhabitants held a demonstration of their own during coronation week when all the British Empire was dressed in gala attire. All the streets of Singapore were decorated for the festivities and the interest in the affairs at London were almost as keen as in England. Parades were held daily for an entire week and there was no end to the list of banquets, pageants, athletic contests and religious services.

Particularly interesting among the celebration ceremonies was the marked contrast in the characters of the people living in that city. The natives celebrated the coronation by parading all day in the most vividly colored dresses and costumes. The English part of the population regarded the affair as being of a more solemn nature and the sons of the Mother Country attended the religious services. Germans, French and Spaniards entered into the festivities according to their own customs.

Mr. Hand sent many pictures which he took of the coronation parade in Singapore. Among these is the picture of a float which appeared at the head of the procession and was built by the natives. On this float was placed a silk dragon, oddly colored, 400 feet in length, and the wagon, which was built to accommodate it, was drawn by twenty white horses, driven by the natives.

Mr. Hand was greatly pleased with the hospitality which was shown him by the officials and residents of Singapore, stating that the foreigners living there are especially cordial. Upon his trip to this city, Mr. Hand will stop on the continent, where he will visit the places of interest and will remain in this city for six months, the extent of his vacation. After coming here, he expects to be sent to San Francisco to look after the affairs of the Standard Oil Company there.

SEES POLITICAL FUTURE FOR RICHARD MOLDENKE.

Dr. Richard Moldenke, who, though a candidates himself for the Assembly, told the Republican conference last week that he would withdraw in favor of his neighbor and friend, Charles C. Wheeler, is a monument of patience and political fortitude. This is not the first time he has exhibited his magnanimity towards his friends, and he deserves to be honored for it. Dr. Moldenke is a man of national reputation, and is also well known in Europe. He is an authority on the practical methods of the foundry, and is the author of numerous articles and several books on that subject. He travels largely in this country and addresses many foundrymen's meetings every year. While his time is largely occupied in this strenuous work he is always interested in the political affairs of New Jersey and of Somerset county, and is very progresive in his views. He is doubtless a coming object for political preferment.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

Somerville Man Penitent.

John H. Kennedy, of Somerville, was arrested when found in a helpless condition from over-indulgence in liquor last night and when arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning, he was penitent and promised to leave town at once. He was given the chance.

HERE IS A FISH STORY FROM HARRY DE MEZA

While fishing for bluefish at Nassau last Wednesday, Harry DeMeza, of Summit avenue, had an experience entirely new to him and one that he did not relish. He was being entertained by Sam Adams and Edward C. Hardingham, of West Front street, at their cottage when Adams and DeMeza went out in a dory beyond where the waves break on the shore to fish. They had been gone but a short time when Harry got a bite that nearly pulled the rod from his grasp. Thinking that he had hooked a large blue, he began reeling in line and had pulled the fish to within a short distance of the boat when he saw that he had hooked a hammer-head shark about five feet long.

DeMeza stopped reeling and let the fish run. When it stopped he began to take in line and had brought the fish close to the boat when again it raced off, this time breaking the line.

James Metz, of Somerville, who is stopping at the same place also hooked one of them the same day. He managed to land his, but the line cut through the flesh of his fingers to the bone before he managed to drown it.

R.O. MEEKER ATTENDS GOOD ROADS' SESSION

The good roads meeting is being held at the New Monmouth Hotel, Spring Lake, this afternoon under the direction of the Ocean Boulevard Commission, of which Mayor T. Frank Appleby, of Asbury Park, is president. Many automobilists from different parts of this State and New York are present. Road Commissioner Stevens and his assistant, Robert A. Meeker, of this city, are present as is also J. B. R. Smith, the head of the motor vehicle department. Former Governor Fort will make an address.

In addition to discussing the question of good roads, the meeting will also consider legislation affecting automobilists, particular attention being paid to reciprocity relations between States. It is claimed that if proper reciprocity relations were established the shore resorts would be considerably benefited.

FRESH AIR HOME PROGRAM FOR WEEK

The services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow afternoon will be of special interest to Plainfielders as the speaker will be the Rev. Charles E. Dunn, pastor of the Tioga Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, a former resident of this city. Mr. Dunn will preach in the Westfield Presbyterian tomorrow and will come to Plainfield especially to speak at this service. E. D. Young, tenor soloist of Trinity church, will be the soloist.

The services at the Home this coming week will be under the auspices of the Young People's Societies of the various churches. Monday, Seventh-Day Baptist; Tuesday, Monroe Avenue Methodist; Wednesday, Westminster Hope, of Elizabeth; Thursday, Trinity Reformed; Friday, Presbyterian church, of Westfield.

The public is invited to all of these services and Miss Curry will gladly welcome visitors to the Home any time during the week or Sunday.

Preached in Nova Scotia.

Rev. F. St. John Fitch, of Central avenue, has returned from a trip through Nova Scotia. While there Mr. Fitch occupied the pulpit of the Bethany Presbyterian church and he also preached in the Presbyterian church of Rockingham. Mr. Fitch will be the preacher at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning and evening.

Purchases Clynes Property.

Milton Knapp, owner of the Lake Pigment Company, has purchased, through Elston M. French, the residence on Mercer avenue, which was owned by T. G. Clynes. The house will be greatly improved and Mr. Knapp will occupy it about the first of next month.

Appointed Administrator.

Francis J. Blatz was appointed administrator of the estate of the late Ferdinand Bader by Surrogate Parrott yesterday. Mr. Bader was killed in a railroad accident at Elizabeth several months ago. The estate is located in this city.

Miss Lucy Budlong, of Madison avenue, is visiting friends in New Haven, Conn.

BOOMS FOR OFFICE

Democrats Have Probable Candidates For the Common Council.

IN ALL THE FOUR WARDS.

Democratic Club At its Meeting On Monday Night Will Discuss Those, Who Are Backed For Nominations.

When the Plainfield Democratic Club meets on Monday night there will be an informal discussion of candidates for Councilmanic nomination. In each of the wards the Democrats appear to be aggressive and there seems to be no lack of material for the local ticket. Encouraged by the results last fall, the minority party leaders are sanguine as the fall campaign approaches that they will obtain representation in the Common Council after many years' effort in that direction.

In the Second ward, the Democrats most prominently mentioned are Clinton A. Wilmerding and John M. Hetfield. Mr. Hetfield is the better known since he was formerly a postmaster here and active politically for many years in the Democratic camp. Mr. Wilmerding is a strict party man and is also popular although as he has never figured in public life here he would be somewhat handicapped in making a campaign, his friends say. Neither is seeking a nomination but both are strongly supported.

The man most strongly boomed in the First ward for a Democratic nomination seems to be Tell A. Beguelin, or East Front street. Years ago he was a member of the Common Council and is familiar with municipal affairs. The Third ward Democrats have two candidates. One is Fred Endress, of West Sixth street, who will be run for councilman-at-large. The other is Dan Courain, of West Fourth street, who is agreed upon for ward councilman. In the Fourth ward there is a strong boom for Arthur T. Gallup, of West Front street, who has had councilmanic experience.

FUGITIVE SURRENDERS; ARRAIGNMENT MONDAY.

William Green, colored, of West Second street, who has been a fugitive from justice for several weeks, gave himself up to Chief of Police Kiely at headquarters this morning. He fled from Plainfield after a fight with his wife which resulted in her making a charge of assault and battery against him. In speaking of it this morning he said that he had to beat her off in self-defence and then went to Newark, where he has been since.

Green will be arraigned for a hearing before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court Monday morning.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF FREDERICK H. WILLS.

The funeral of Frederick H. Wills, whose death occurred Thursday, was held this morning at Grace Episcopal church and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church, officiated and interment was made in Woodlawn cemetery, New York. There were a large number of floral tributes manifesting the esteem in which the deceased was held, a number of them coming from business associates in New York, who also were present at the obsequies.

Lost a Go-Cart.

While Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Finney were standing at the merry-go-round in Asbury Park Thursday, where they went on the Warren chapel excursion, the baby go-cart, in which they had been riding their youngster, mysteriously disappeared although they had left the carriage close by the place where they were standing. Mr. Finney spent the remainder of the day searching for the missing cart about Asbury Park, but could find no trace of it.

Off to Convention.

John J. Carroll, Dictator of the Plainfield Lodge of Moose, who was elected delegate to the Grand Lodge session of the order, to be held in Detroit next week, will leave Newark on the "Moose Special" this afternoon. He will be accompanied by John J. Conway, prelate of the local lodge. They will be absent all week.

Alterations at City Market.

Plans have been drawn by Fred Lancaster, a local architect, for the new front on the East Second street side of the Plainfield City Market. L. C. VanNest has the contract and the work will begin next week. Other alterations are being made inside the market for stands to be occupied by the LaRue Realty Company.

HE WON'T SUPPORT HIS OWN MOTHER

Charles O'Neill, who was placed under $300 bonds to pay $3 weekly towards the support of his aged mother by Judge William G. DeMeza three months ago, was surrendered by his bondsman, W. J. Carpenter, an uncle, of Westfield, this morning in the city court. O'Neil's uncle said that he had not been keeping up the payments during the last eight weeks and rather than continue to do so himself he would see his nephew sent to jail. When being led to a cell O'Neil said that he "would rather rot in jail than pay his mother a cent."

Judge DeMeza remanded the prisoner until Monday morning and if by that time another bondsman has not been secured, O'Neil will go to Elizabeth for an indefinite stay. Since being placed under bonds he has married and his wife upholds him in the strange attitude towards his mother.

EMPLOYES' OUTING AT WATCHUNG POND

Employes of the Spicer Universal Joint Company are enjoying an outing on the banks of the Watchung pond today. The large electric truck was used as a conveyance for the convenience of the men from the end of the Somerset trolley line to the scene of the festivities which began at 11 o'clock and will continue until 7 this evening. During the afternoon a clambake will be opened. Previous to this all kinds of outdoor games will be enjoyed for a number of prizes that have been donated by Plainfield business men and various selling agents of the concern and automobile manufacturers.

James Rollinson was the unanimous choice of the men to act as referee of all events and it is rumored that this was done to prevent his entering so that others could have a chance to win. The outing was arranged and is in charge of Cornelius Guinee, George McCombe, M. Martin and Charles Thompson. The judges of the events will be Theodore La Rue, David Mack and Percy Davis.

AUTO SPEED TRAPS IN OUR OWN STATE

The bureau of tours of the automobile club of America has reported the following towns in New Jersey where speed traps are located or where it is advisable to use caution as to keeping within the speed limit. There are several small towns in this State whose officials recognize the danger to both life and property which may be caused by fast speeding and who are strictly enforcing the law concerning the same.

Bloomfield—Speed trap.
Belle Mead—Caution, speed limit rigidly enforced.
Clayton—Speed trap.
Deal Beach—Caution, speed limit rigidly enforced.
East Orange—Speed trap.
Fort Lee—Speed trap.
Montclair—Speed trap.
Orange—Speed trap.
Oxford Valley—Speed trap.
Sea Bright—Caution, cut out restricted.
Somerville—Speed trap.

School Enlargement Voted.

At a special school meeting in Garwood $20,000 has been voted for a four-room addition to the Jefferson School on the southern end, changing the front to Second avenue. Work will start in the spring. This fall the board will hire the old school on the south side of the town and a room on the north side to take care of the large increase in pupils.

Succumbed to Firewater.

Recorder Collins, of Westfield, yesterday gave Roy Deerfoot, a Carlilse Indian, arrested for being drunk and disorderly, twenty-four hours to leave town. Deerfoot, with his wife, have traveled from the reservation and are engaged in polishing furniture in towns. He at one time played on the Carlisle baseball team against Princeton.

Two Stars In "Uncle Sam."

Tom Wise and Jack Barrymore will appear in "Uncle Sam," which is booked for an early appearance at the Plainfield theatre. The show will be seen later at The Comedy theatre on Broadway.

WHAT CITY NEEDS

Chas H. Hand Gives His Views on Requirements For Plainfield's Betterment.

LIBERALITY AND HARMONY.

Better Feeling and More Broadmindness Among Local Authorities —Limited Sunday Opening.

In an endeavor to get opinions of real estate men along the Central Railroad as to what they consider would best benefit the various towns, W. C. Hope, General Passenger Agent of the road, has written to several requesting their views for publication in The Suburbanite, the road's monthly magazine. Among those whose opinion is sought is Charles Hand, of this city, one of the best known real estate men on the line.

According to Mr. Hand's idea the thing that Plainfield needs most and that would be the biggest help in the way of a boost, he says, would be more liberal views to be held by the officeholders, such as the mayor and councilmen and a more liberal exchange of these views between them. Until outsiders can be shown that the administration of a city is harmonious and broad-minded as regards the welfare of the municipality, he declares that they will hesitate about locating here.

Continuing Mr. Hand in telling what he thinks best for the city, took up the matter of Sunday closing and licenses. He declared that he thought that bootblack stands, soda and ice cream parlors, news stands, cigar stores and such like should be allowed certain hours in the morning to remain open and cater to the wants of the public. All could get their wants attended to before the hour for the churches to open, he said, and after that hour these stores should be made to close and remain so for the rest of the day.

Regarding the licenses Mr. Hand asserted that he would like to see hotel licenses reduced to say $300 and then force the proporietors to run good places and serve good food. As to the saloons he would like to see the license made $1,500 instead of $1,000 as a present and then allow such places to remain open until midnight, giving the proprietors to understand that they would be held personally responsible for any disorder that occurred in their places.

Mr. Hand says he is going to take up with Mr. Hope the price of commutation tickets between here and New York. He thinks that if a substantial reduction could be made, Plainfield and all other cities along the line of the road would have extra inducements to offer prospective residents.

REV. JOHN EASTLUNG TO GO TO BROOKLYN.

The final service of Rev. John Eastlung as pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, of this city, will be held Sunday morning, Aug. 27. After that he will assume his new duties as pastor of St. Paul's Swedish Lutheran church in Brooklyn.

The services of the Swedish Lutheran church have been held in St. Peter's German Lutheran church and during the three years that Rev. Mr. Eastlung has been pastor the congregation has quadrupled. He leaves with the best wishes of his parishioners and there is universal regret over his going.

A Child's Funeral.

Funeral service for Isabelle Anna Vincent, the ten years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Vincent, of Fanwood, was held at their home in Fanwood yesterday afternoon. Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, and Bishop John Vincent, an uncle of the deceased, conducted the service, which was attended by a large gathering of relatives and neighbors whose sympathy went out to the bereaved parents.

Endorsed for Sheriff.

At its regular monthly meeting last night the Plainfield Trades Council passed a resolution endorsing Joseph H. Neill, of Elizabeth, as candidate for Sheriff of Union county on the Republican ticket. Mr. Neill is a master painter and a member of a number of labor organizations, from which he is receiving support in his canvas for the nomination.

Sisters Hurt At Fire.

Two sisters were badly burned and another had a leg broken while rescuing a baby when the home of Henry Bruning, a Richfield farmer, was burned yesterday afternoon. One of the burned girls, Charlotte Bruning, will probably die. Sophie Bruning will recover, but will be scarred for life.

HEED THE WARNING.

Many Plainfield People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are sick they giv eunmistakable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Sick kidneys expel a dark, ill-smelling urine, full of "brickdust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequent rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only; they help sick kidneys, and rid the blood of uric poison. If you suffer from any of the above symptoms you can use no better remedy.

Plainfield people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

Albert Naylor, musician, 256 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I suffered from an ache in the small of my back and sharp pains when stooping or lifting. I took Doan's Kidney Pills, as I was told that they were good for such troubles and by the time I had finished the contents of two boxes, I was feeling better in every way. I have often recommended this remedy to people Ihave heard complaining of kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

POLICE CHIEF BUSY; BURGLARS LIKEWISE.

Netcong, Aug. 19.—Burgiars raided this place again early yesterday morning. Not satisfied with breaking into the borough lock-up and hall a week ago and stealing Squire Force's typewriter, they descended upon the commercial centre and made off with cash, clothing, shoes, jewelery and other articles which the merchants value at about $200. Apparently the word has been passed in the "underworld" that Chief of Police Alvin C. Smith, who, in addition to his police duties, is road supervisor, collector of the water department, custodian of public buildings and janitor of the same, and manager of a garage, has so much on his hands that it is with difficulty he can patrol the borough. Consequently the thieves have taken advantage of the situation. After the inhabitants had retired, following the festivities attending the annual fair of the Stanhope church, the marauders attacked the clothing store of Isaac Belzer. Then they went to John Garlick's cigar store, getting a watch and a plentiful supply of tobacco. They entered the fruit store of George Constantine, where the cash register was smashed and $75 carried away, and finished at the Hotel Imperial, where they stocked up with cigars and liquor. A guest at the hotel saw a light in one of the stores, and the proprietor of a Chinese laundry heard the burglars at work, but made no attempt to give the alarm. Several clues dealing with suspicious persons are being investigated. Besides the chief, Netcong has three deputy marshals, but they do no patrol duty, being only available for emergency calls.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS TO 5,000 TILLERS.

Camden, Aug. 19.—Standing in the presence of 5,000 or more farmers of South Jersey Governor Woodrow Wilson Thursday went after corruption in politics, exposed the real protection by which "big business" manipulates and controls, and urged the farmers of five counties to organize their own co-operative warehousing and transportation association with a bureau to collect and disseminate information on conditions all over the country.

The Governor branded the "machine bosses" as "neither Democrats nor Republicans, who speak untruths and know it, and who, delegating to themselves the rule of party organization, are neither part nor parcel of any party."

He declared that one of the best habits a man could form is that of non-partisan voting. He wanted men to vote the Democratic ticket only so long as they believed it represented their best interests.

The Governor's speech was the headliner on the program of the first day of the seventeenth annual picnic of the South Jersey Farmers' Association. It was held at Washington Park on the Delaware.

CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL PLEASES THOUSANDS.

Ocean Grove, Aug. 19.—The greatest children's festival ever held in the auditorium took place before an audience of 10,000 people Thursday night, under the direction of Tali Esem Morgan, musical director of the Campmeeting Association. There were at least 1,000 liittle ones on the stage. They were dressed to represent gipsies , fairies, Indians, rough riders and Japanese. The songs were all well rendered, particularly "Kentucky Babe," in which the children imitated the sound of the banjo.

A descriptive camp scene was the final number. The North and South were represented, as were also the Continental army and the regulars of today. At the close the children and aduience sang the "Star Spangled Banner" while lights shone forth from a flag on the organ. At the same time the children's loose gowns were so strung out as to form an American flag.

Mrs. Hardin Burnley, a child impersonator; the Aida Trumpet Quartet and the Criterion Quartet, Wilfred Morison, boy soprano, and Edith Mar Connor, a ten-year-old harpist, contributed to the success of the entertainment.

NOTED WOMAN AUTHOR SUICIDE

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Myrtle Reed McCullough, author of "Lavender and Old Lace," "Love Letters of a Musician," "Love Affairs of Literary Men" and many other books, was found dead at her home Thursday night. Reports to the police indicated that death was caused by an overdose of sleeping powders taken with suicidal intent.

Mrs. McCullough's body was found by Miss Anna Larsen, her maid, to whom she left a note and a check for $1,000. Mrs. McCullough was thirty-seven years old and was born in Chicago.

No Jersey Injunction for Postal.

Vice Chancellor Walker refused Thursday to allow a temporary injunction in the suit of the Potal Telegraph Cable Company against the Board of Freeholders of Hudson county, on the ground that the complainant had not made out a case sufficiently strong. The Postal Company brought the action to restrain the Freeholders from interfering with the construction and reconstruction of its line on one of the Hudson county roads.

Stocks were strong in New York yesterday.

The Ten Mile River was pronounced unavailable as a source of water supply for New York City.

The price of beef again advanced, No. 1 cuts and loins being 54 per cent. higher than on December 1.

The royal assent was given by royal commission to the Parliament bill limiting the legislative powers of the House of Lords.

Cololnel John Jacob Astor and his fiancee, Miss Force, accompanied by her parents, sailed from New York city aboard Colonel Astor's yacht, for an ocean cruise.

Admiral Togo practically recovered from his temporary indisposition, and it was announced that he would begin his westward journey today; his first stop will be at Niagara Falls.

Charges that witnesses had committed perjury were made by lawyers for both sides in the inquiry into the administration of Dr. Doty as Health Officer of the Port of New York.

The divorce suit brought by Captain P. C. Hains, now in Sing Sing for the murder of William E. Annis, against Claudia Hains, was heard in Brooklyn, Mrs. Hains making no defense.

More than fifty persons were injured in the wreck of the Big Four train running from Cincinnati to New York, near Columbus, Ohio; it was believed that none of the injured would die.

Contracts to build three battleships, each to cost nearly $10,000,000, were awarded by the Russian government, two to the Brown interests and one to the Vickers Sons and Maxim interests.

Congress.—Senate: A resolution to admit the territories of Arizona and New Mexico into the Union, framed in conformity with the views of the President, was passed by a vote of 53 to 8. House: The House failed to pass the wool and Free List tariff bills over President Taft's vetoes.

Oscar A Brinsley set a new altitude mark in America by arising 11,000 feet (uncorrected reading) at the Chicago aviation meet; experts believed that a corrected reading of the barograph would show that Brinsley's flight was the highest point ever reached by an aseroplane; the highest previous record was 10,761 feet.

Railway service was impeded everywhere in England, and in some cases brought to a standstill by the strike of probably half the workers in England and Wales; the movement spread into Ireland, the efforts of the government at conciliation were unavailing and apprehension exists, not only that food supplies may be cut off from many districts, but that Germany may use the opportunity to put the screws on France as regards Morocco; the Lord Mayor of London issued a call for the enrolment of special police.

FIFTY IN PANIC ON STRANDED YACHT.

Atlantic City, Aug. 19.—The sloop yacht Chalfonte, one of the Inlet pleasure fleet, stuck on the bar as it tried to come into the Inlet after an ocean sail Thursday night. There were fifty-six pleasure seekers on board and they were panic stricken for a time. Captain Adams and the men of his crew quieted the people and signaled to the life saving station for help.

The life savers put off in their power boat, took off all the passengers and landed them safely. Then they went back and after an hour of hard work the life savers and crew managed to flot the big sailing vessel and towed her to her berth at the Inlet pier. The boat was little damaged.

WANT GOVERNORS TO CONFER ON DIVORCE.

Washington, August 19.—For the purpose of convening in Washington a national congress for the formulation of uniform divorce laws, Representative Norris of Nebraska introduced a resolution instructing the President to call upon the Governor of each state to send delegates to such a convention.

The resolution, which carries an appropriation of $200,000 to defray expenses, was inspired, Mr. Norris declared, by the announcement of the coming marriage of Miss Force to Colonel John Jacob Astor, as well as by the solemnization of hundreds of such marriages in the past.

A leopard cannot change his spots neither can a wine maker change his wine made from Concord and other ordinary grapes into Port or Burgundy. He must grow the proper grape for these wines. The Oporto Grapes of Portugal are the only grape for Port, they must grow in soil rich in iron. Speer's Passaic, N. J., vineyards are the only real Oporto grape vineyards in this country.

Consolation thought for today—Whether the Pets win or lose today, they will still have the undisputed title to leaders of the Central organization.

But then Scotch Plains will have to move a bit to keep in pace with the Plainfield team with Hartman speeding the local boys throughout the game.

Evidently Dummy Deegan didn't make much of a hit with the 'Plains rooters when he pitched against Plainfield two weeks ago. Manager Alberts has not worked him on the slab since that date.

After the Elks' game Thursday, William N. Runyon and George O. Stevens were called on for a song and their merriment went something like this while the piano artist played an old hymn for the accompaniment:

We are the boys from Bridgeport town
And we are wonderous wise;
And all baseball games we play
Result in ties.

For the music to this ditty, ask George O. Stevens. He will do it.

Not content with the amateur nines in this city, Manager Beekman, of the Monroe Avenue Sunday school team is planning for a trip to Nyack with his baseball warriors on Labor Day. It is the intention of Mr. Beekman to play two games there on that day. Trinity will take a needed rest at that time.

Dunellen is certainly running up against some hard propositions this year and Manager Bogardus is filling his schedule with the fastest teams possible. This afternoon the Dunellen boys are slated to line up against the speedy Ramblers of Bound Brook, just about as classy an aggregation that is to be found in this vicinity.

It is reported that Frank Evans, who covered short and also covered himself with glory in the Elks' game Thursday, will hold down the second sack for the Dunellenites this afternoon. This will help them a lot in securing a victory from the Rambling Ramblers.

Driving on a little further we find a hard game booked for Bound Brook in the Central League race. The fight for the consolation prize will be on the Tailenders' diamond and the result has not as yet been predicted by Aletheia.

Yes, Willie Cass, Westfield hopes to win, but so does Somerville.

Or didn't he Merkle?

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK BRIGHT AT RUTGERS

With a schedule of several hard games, Rutgers College is looking forward to one of the most successful football seasons in its history. Following last year's record of being the only team which was not defeated by the champion Navy eleven, the Rutgers name has risen to a high place in football circles and this year it is expected that even better results will be obtained. Howard Gargan, the ex-Fordham College star, will again coach the Rutgers team and he has called the first practice early in September, shortly before the college term begins. The first game is with Princeton, at Princeton, on October 4.

Arthur B. Titsworth, of West Fifth street, and a graduate of the City High School in 1908, will be a promising candidate for the team this fall. Titsworth was a reliable line player when in the Plainfield High School and since going to college has added plenty of weight together with speed. He has played on the scrub and in three 'varsity games during his college course, which he will finish this year.

James K. Alverson, who has been a gridiron star for Rutgers for the past three years, and who will lead the Scarlet eleven this fall, says the outlook for the coming fall is the brightest in years. In a talk recently he said that only two of last season's strong team will be missing from the team this fall. They are Capt. Tad Smith, who graduated, and Jimmy Ziegler, the star halfback. At that it is not sure but that Ziegler may return after all, though Capt. Alverson has had no advice from him as yet.

The entering class at Rutgers this fall will probably be the largest in the history of the college, and may reach nearly the 200 mark. Capt. Alverson figures that there will be at least half a dozen good football men among them. Reports have it that some big football men are going to enter, but Alverson is of the kind that does not bank on these men until he sees them on the football field.

Among those mentioned in the reports are Yule, New York University's great fullback; Fuller, who was substitute lineman on Yale last fall, and Piez, a six-foot football and baseball athlete.

FALLS BETWEEN CARS.

Morristown Brakeman May Die of Injuries.

Morristown, Aug. 19.—George Youngs, thirty-five years old, a brakeman on the Morristown and Erie Railroad, was on top of a freight car Thursday afternoon at Diamond Mill, near Whippany, when the train was started suddenly and the jar threw Youngs down between two cars. He struck a brake beam and was dragged some distance before the train was stopped. Youngs was brought to the Memorial Hospital here, where it was found that he had three ribs and an ankle fractured and was suffering from internal injuries, which may prove fatal. Youngs' home is in this city, where he has a family.

FUGITIVES CAUGHT BY 'PHONE.

Phillipsburg, Aug. 19.—Jacob Thompson and Roy Egbert were arrested on a charge of trying to pass a forged check in Easton, Pa. They entered a clothing store without hats each selected one and then offered a check for $7.50 in payment. They said their hats had blown off as they crossed the Easton-Phillipsburg bridge.

The check contained the signature of a merchant whose place of business was located opposite the clothier's. He told the men to wait a moment and stepped across the street. As he left the store Thompson and Egbert ran down the street and crossed the bridge to Phillipsburg. One of the clerks had telephoned to the Phillipsburg police in the meantime and the two were arrested as they entered this town.

HOBBLE SKIRT IN CANOE PERILOUS.

Morristown, Aug. 19.—Pierson Little, of Ridgedale avenue, this town, and John Montieth, of Troy Hills, both Morristown High School boys, saved the lives of two young women at Cedar Lake, near Denville, Thursday afternoon. Miss Vivian Moore, of California, who is visiting Miss Davenport at Morris Plains, was spending the day at the lake with friends and went out in a canoe with Little.

Learning to swim with the aid of water wings was Miss Gladys Shea, of Madison. One of the wings burst and she sank. Coming to the surface again Miss Shea screamed for help. Little was nearby in the canoe and he jumped into the lake and swam to Miss Shea's rescue. His sudden exit from the canoe overturned the craft and Miss Moore was thrown into the water. She was wearing a hobble skirt, and, though a good swimmer, this hampered her movements so that she was unable to help herself.

Little reached Miss Shea in time to prevent her going down for the third time, and grasping her hair assisted her to the bank. Montieth was on shore, and when he saw Miss Moore's plight he jumped into the water and swam to her rescue. Miss Moore had gone down twice before he reached her. Both the young women were taken to a nearby bungalow and were soon none the worse for their experience. Miss Moore declares that never again will she wear a hobble skirt when she goes canoeing.

KINKEAD'S CLUB IS FOR SULLIVAN.

Jersey City, Aug. 19.—The Tenth Ward Democratic Club, of which Congressman Eugene F. Kinkead is president indorsed Thursday night for Mayor Mark A. Sullivan; for sheriff, Adolph Lankering; for surrogate, John P. Egan, and all the Assembly candidates with the exception of Assemblyman Davidson. George Brensinger, a young lawyer, was indorsed in Davidson's place.

Congressman Kinkead, who came from Washington to attend the meeting, made a speech in which he told of the legislative record of Judge Sullivan, saying he was a true representative of the people. Mr. Kinkead criticized Mayor Wittpenn for failing to speak for him when he was a candidate last fall and expressed the belief that the Mayor voted against him.

With the prediction that Sullivan would be the next Mayor the Congressman urged all the members of the club to work hard to make the Tenth the banner ward of the city.

The Tenth Ward Club is the first ward organization to indorse a candidate for sheriff.

ROYAL SCOTTISH CLAN RE-ELECTS NEWARKER.

Boston, Aug. 19.—David King, of Newark, N. J., was re-elected royal treasurer of the Royal Clan, Order of Scottish Clans, at the election of officers Thursday in the twenty-fifth biennial convention held in this city. There were several spirited contests during the election.

Royal Chief John Hill, of St. Louis, retains his office, although Alexander McKnight, of Duluth, Minn., the royal counsellor, who was later re-elected to that office, pressed him closely.

The ballot battle for the office of royal tanist (vice president), resulted in the defeat for re-election of John Saunders, of Braddock, Pa., by A. G. Findlay, of Seattle, Wash.

A movement for the reinstatement of George C. Watson, of Philadelphia, a former prominent member of the royal order, who was suspended in 1896 because of financial difficulties, was defeated.

On the recommendation of the committee on bequeathment and laws, the ban against Texas Clans was raised. The committee recommended that the constitution remain as at present.

BLAZE AWAKENS SISTER.

New Brunswick, Aug. 19.—Awakened in their bedroom on the third floor about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, Rose and Virginia O'Harra, daughters of a George street butcher, saw dense smoke pouring out of a clothes closet in the room. The girls screamed and ran downstairs to the kitchen, where their mother was preparing breakfast.

Mrs. O'Harra screamed for help and her husband, who was in the butcher shop on the ground floor of the building, ran upstairs. When he reached the bedroom it seemed to be filled with flames. Before the fire was out the building was flooded with water.

The building is a three-story frame structure at 224 George street, with frame dwelling houses on each side of it. It is owned by Conrad Icke, of Middlebush. Mr. O'Harra occupies the two top floors as living apartments. The cause of the blaze is not known.

LONG CONFERENCE OVER SHORT LINE.

Elizabeth, Aug. 19.—A long conference on the "short line," which will run from Trenton to conect with the South Broad street line in this city, was held Thursday at the City Hall, in charge of the joint railroad and street committee. The Public Service Corporation, or its subsidiary company, which controls the proposed line, recently petitioned Council for leave to cross certain streets. As a result of a petition from the First Street Association the committee urged the company to put a spur from the proposed line down to First street. A compromise was reached and it was decided by the corporation to run the line from South Broad street down Bayway as far as the Long Branch tracks, it being claimed by their engineers that it was impossible to cross the latter tracks under the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at this point.

A new petition making the spur concession was filed with Council and referred to the joint committee. There was a good deal of argument and the hearing lasted for many hours.

The corporation was represented by several officials and engineers and the city by Councilmen McGurn, Marsh, Morey, Moore, Berriman, Wagner and Engel, as well as Street Commissioner Thompson and City Surveyor Luster.

NEGRO POLICEMAN GETS SILENT TREATMENT.

New York, Aug. 19.—While nothing has been done in violation of the rules of the police department, the white policemen of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station are said to be subjecting the city's only negro policeman, Samuel J. Battle, to a hazing by the silence system since he was appointed, June 28, last.

Several policemen attached to the station were asked on the streets how the men got along with their colored brother. One and all of them moved quickly away, replying:

"Go and ask the captain or lieutenant."

Battle himself, unwilling apparently to idle around more than is absolutely necessary in the station, appears there each day only a few minutes before the set hour of beginning duty. Then he walks briskly in, silently salutes the officer at the desk, and passes on to the far end of the rear room.

A reporter stopped him Wednesday to ask whether it was true, as reported, that some of the policemen had insulted him by calling him offensive names. He denied this, but when asked whether it was true that his comrades at the station were subjecting him to the silence treatment, he replied:

"I have nothing to say about that, sir."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

A brand new farce comedy and one that is destined to become the bright particular success of the New York theatrical season of 1911-'12, will be seen at the Plainfield theatre on Saturday evening, August 26. It is called "The Water Wagon," and if it embraces all the many features of that wholly worthy, tho' somewhat abused vehicle, it will be a thoroughly entertaining play Wm. A. Brady, Ltd., producer of "Baby Mine," "Over Night," and other pronounced farcical successes of the past two seasons, is responsible for this latest temperance concoction of fun and merriment, and promises three acts of unalloyed joy and hilarity.

"The Confession," by James Halleck Reid, that will be seen at the Plainfield theatre, matinee and night on Labor Day, Monday, September 4, dares to tell the truth, and in its telling, unfurls a dramatic story of power, strength and literary merit. "The Confession" uses in its theme, such vital subjects as The Holy Roman Catholic Church, The Confessional, love in all its phases, murder, hate, revenge, a priest' duty to his church, versus his duty to his state; in fact, it is a story that runs the gamut of every human emotion, and yet in Mr. Reid's manuscript there is not a line that would offend the most sensitive. No more absorbing tragedy has ever been conceived, no greater stage picture and lesson ever presented. This epoch of Christianity provides material for a play of unusual interest, unlike anything else ever produced. "The Confession" will live for its theme and purpose is too great to die; truth cannot die, right must conquer might.

Lovers of mirth, melody and good singing, and to our credit it can be said that they are legion, are looking forward to the appearance of "Jolly" John Larkins and his happy flock of pretty girls and funny boys, in his new big musical comedy, "Royal Sam," at the Plainfield theatre, Thursday, August 24. No colored comedian possesses a more attractive personality or greater vocal accomplishment than "Jolly" John Larkins. His comedy vein has gained marvelously in strength during the past few years, but not at the loss of its purity, as is often the case when comedians strive for greater honors.

PRESSING OUT LACE.

This method of presing real laces is practised by a French woman, who always does up her valuable collection of old laces. The rolled lace is wound around a good-sized bottle, which is then covered with white muslin, carefully tasked on. Put the bottle in a kettle filled with cold water in which a good-sized piece of white soap is dissolved and boil for an hour. Pour off the soiled water and add fresh until the water is clear.

Remove the bottle and rinse repeatedly through cold water. Take off the muslin and let the lace dry on the bottle. If the stiffness is out the lace is dipped in a litle skim milk. It is then put in a damp cloth until ready to pin out.

The pinning-out process is most important. A wooden drum 12 inches high and 24 inches in diameter is covered with cotton wadding and white muslin on the circumference of the wood, and the cylinder has blue paper put over it, as less trying to the eyes than white.

Take out just enough lace from the cloth to pin it before drying entirely. Pin the heading of lace first in a straight edge, setting the pins closely and at equal distances. Then pin out each plot separately, taking care to keep them in shape and to retwist if they have become untwisted.

If the picots cannot all be pinned before the lace dies, dampen them with a wet cloth, as sticking pins into dry parts may tear valuable lace. Use very fine pins for the tiny picots and coarser ones for heavier lace. Only a non-rustable pin must be used.

The lace must stay pinned on the cylinder until dry, when it is removed and slipped into blue paper bags to keep clean, until the entire portion to be washed is finished.

Do not attempt this pinning-out when in a hurry, as the work must be done carefully and should be finished at one sitting.

When the lace is fragile and very soiled, before washing on a bottle soak for several hours in pure olive oil.

GOT KIPLING'S RATE.

"I understand Kipling is paid $1 a word for his poetry," said the soulful poet to the hard-headed editor. "Now you don't pay me any such price for my poetry."

"I can hardly afford to pay you $1 a word for your poetry," the editor said, "but I will pay you $1 a line for a short poem."

"Well," said the poet, "here's the poem:"

A MODERN METHUSELAH.

His face was furrowed, his skin was scarred and his back bent. Answers relates. But he chipped away by the roadside with a cheery placidity that attracted the attention of a passing tourist.

"How old are you, Methuselah?" inquired the traveler.

"I dunno," replied the stonebreaker, pausing in his work. "But I know I be a fearful age."

"Surely you have some idea."

"I know I be a fearful age."

"Come, we'll reckon it out," said the tourist, taking out his pencil. "How old were you when you left school?"

"Thirteen."

"Well, and then?"

"Then,' replied the veteran, "I worked wi' Farmer Giles for eighteen year. Then I wer' wagoner for Squire Tupman for thirty year, an' I 'ad a small shop for twenty-five year after that. Then I wer' wi' Mr. Soones for forty-two year and nine mon's, and then I wer, barman at the Blue Dragon for twenty-seven year—

Presently the tourist stopped him.

"Do you know," he said sarcastically, "that, according to your own reckoning, you must be 392."

"I dersay," murmured the ancient stonebreaker. "I know I be a fearful age."

COLLEGE GIRL SUGGESTIONS.

Popularity is like some of the other good things of life, the one who seeks it seldom finds it. However, a hint is that it follows respect.

College study is more deceptive than school work. The first few months often seem easy. That is why many girls join the social swirl. When the mid-years come they pay the penalty, unless temporary, artificial, flitting "cramping" comes to their aid. Therefore, at the very beginning do the necessary work each day.

One at a Time.

"One summer I spent my vacation on a farm with two old maids," observed a story teller the other night. "The corn season had just opened and we had corn every day. I observed that when Mary ate corn Lizzy didn't; when Lizzy did, Mary didn't. I couldn't figure it out, so one day I asked:

"'Mary, how does it happen when you eat corn Liz doesn't, and when Liz does you don't?'

"'Ho, ho,' said Mary, a little hot under the collar, "we hain't only one set of teeth, you idiot.'"—Pathfinder.

Two Centuries Hence.

In the year 2111 a snobbish gossip will run thus:

First Member—So she hasn't a good claim to belon to our Daughters of Aristocartic Lineage Society?

Second Member—No indeed. I have fully investigated her case, and her ancestor only went south with the New York team in 1911, and was then sent back to the minors. History doesn't show that he ever played in a big league game in his life.—Puck.

A Confusion of Terms.

Judge ———, who is now on the Supreme Court bench, was, when he first began the practise of law, a very blundering speaker. On one occasion, when he was trying a case in replevin, involving the right of property in a lot of hogs, he addressed the jury as follows: "Gentlemen of the jury, there were just twenty-four hogs in that drove—just twenty-four, gentlemen—exactly twice as many as there are in this jury box."—Case and Comment.

Changing the Subject.

Elderly Lady (who has been retailing at some length her domestic troubles)—And now, Mr. Jones, I've worried you about my domestic affairs; let's turn to a more cheerful topic—when are you really going away?—London Tatler.

Took the Hint.

"These summer girls would rather waltz than eat," remarked the hotel clerk. "In that case," said the proprietor, "I'll add a dance or two to the evening program and cut a couple of courses off the dinner bill."—Kansas City Journal.

RECALLS SOME REAL HEAT.

Mayor Charles P. Farner, of Burlington, is of the opinion that mental fear of the intense heat reduces the power of resistance and swells the lists of fatal prostrations. In the same argument he urges old soldiers to think of the summers of fifty years ago and keep cool by comparison with the present torrid wave. The Mayor is one of the survivors of the 6th New Jersey that fought through the entire war. "You see men in light clothing and shirt sleeves fanning with their straw hats and seeking shady spots, there to complain of the heat," says the Mayor. "If people think that the present weather conditions are terrible, what would they have thought of the experiences of thousands of young men in the summers of '61 to '65, during the Civil War?

"In the summer of '62 the Army of the Potomac, that had been through the Peninsular campaign under Gen. McClellan, was brought to Virginia between Washington and the Rapidan River, under Pope. Our division, under Gen. Hooker, arrived at Alexandria by boat from Yorktown. Here we were packed in freight and cattle cars and transported to Warrenton Junction.

"Oh you complainers against the heat of the present summer! You should have been with us then. The mercury hit the century mark every morning and soared above it until evening. And, remember, we had the same clothes winter and summer. The next time you sit before a soda fountain arrayed in light flannels and pongees shirt and quaff cooling drinks, think of this outfit for marching mile after mile along dusty roads under a blazing Southern sun! We wore heavy blue pants, thick woolen shirts, a woolen blouse, heavy woolen socks and a heavy cap. The thought of it would make many a present-day youth ring at once for the ambulance.

"We carried in our knapsacks a heavy woolen overcoat, woolen blanket, rubber blanket and part of a shelter tent. In addition we toted a musket that weighed 13 pounds, 60 rounds of ammunition and three days' ration in a haversack. On this particular campaign we marched under a hot sun, with dust seeming as thick in the air as it was on the roadbed, and with chances for obtaining drinking water few and far between. At the end of it all we went into battle near Bull Run and had a terrible fight, many who had dropped out because of the heat catching up in time to take part in the conflict.

"In the following year, on July 2, our brigade fought in the Valley of Death, at the foot of Little Round Top, near Gettysburg. The Sixth Army Corps, under Gen. Sedgwick, with 20,000 men, was at a point in Maryland thirty-two miles away, and in the hottest weather, by forced marches under trying conditions and outfitted as I have already mentioned, they marched to aid the main line, and their first division arrived in time to lend assistance that afternoon. It seems impossible that human beings could have stood up against the hardships experienced in these summer campaigns."—Philadelphia Record.

AIM TO CONSERVE PRINTERS' HEALTH

The volume containing the reports of the officers of the International Typographical Union for the fiscal year ending with May, 1911, is now in circulation.

The International Typographical Union has for years conducted a health campaign from its international headquarters, and working through local committees. In his report this year President Lynch has this to say as to the progress of the campaign:

"Your president has continued the agitation during the past year for better sanitary conditions in the workrooms where our members are compelled to labor. We have also continued the distribution of the tuberculosis pamphlet. As to sanitation and other workroom conditions, our local unions should continue to give these subjects attention. With the movement against filthy and nonventilated composing rooms there will be entire sympathy on the part of the general public, and no employer can afford to resist the demand for a change in working conditions that will guarantee health and comfort. As a matter of fact, well-ventilated and scientifically arranged composing rooms are as good an investment as is the latest improvements in typesetting machinery, or the newest and most up-to-date faces in type. The worker who is in good health and who is working amid pleasant surroundings is the best kind of worker, for both mentally and physically he is equipped to produce the best that his art knows. Good printing means additional patronage for the printing office, and to a very great extent good printing requires artistic typesetting.

All of our local unions should have health committees, and these committees should be untiring in their efforts to improve sanitary conditions and other features in composing rooms requiring betterment. Whenever a condition exists that requires improvement, if the employer fails to make the improvement on request of the health committee, then the bad condition should be called to the attention of the local board of health, and if the local board of health refuses to act, agitation should be started through the central body, through pamphlets circulated liberally, and through the withdrawal of our members from employment in the composing room of the offending proprietor, if this last radical step is an absolute necessity.

"As I have repeatedly asserted, a higher wage scale is of no benefit to a member if the conditions under which he works make for the propagation of disease and early death. The family might better retain the provider and protector under a low wage scale than enjoy the fruits of a high wage scale for only a limited period, and then when husband and fathe is removed become objects of the charity of the public, or of the union or of fraternal societies.

"Scientific research has proven that there is no known medicine that will cure consumption, and that it is a waste of time and money to use so-called 'consumptive cures.' All advertised cures of this nature are frauds. Doctors who advertise should be avoided as much as medicines which are advertised. Reputable doctors do not advertise. When a person learns that he has consumption he should go at once to a physician or dispensary and do as he is advised. He should not waste time and money on patent medicines. Advertised cures and advertising doctors are all worthless. This is the advice given by one of the most eminent physicians. Over $15,000,000 annually is poured into the coffers of those who exploit and advertise fake consumption cures, according to the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis; and for this vast sum the victims receive nothing in return, but the often permanently injured, and, in the majority of cases, cheated out of the chance for a real cure. Sanitary workrooms and an abundance of fresh air at all times are the best preventives. These admonitions are being constantly proclaimed by the International Typographical Union through its traveling tuberculosis exhibit, its sanatorium at the Union Printers Home, and by the annual distribution of thousands of pieces of literature.

She—Permit me to correct you—you mean only twice.—Fliegende Blaetter.

THROWS MATCH IN POWDER CAN.

Suffering from burns about the face, body and arms received by the explosion of a quantity of gunpowder with which he was playing, five-year-old Edward Krause is in a critical condition at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krause, Proffit avenue, Springfield Township. Edward, with his brother Joseph, aged seven, took advantage of their mother's absence from the house for a few minutes about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and, going to a small room off the kitchen, took from a shelf a tin box of powder, which belonged to their father. The box contained about a half-pound of the explosive.

Joseph placed a few matches in his pocket and the two went to the rear of the barn, a short distance back of the house. Joseph, it is said, gave the matches to Edward then ran back a short distance and stood watching his younger brother strike a light and throw it into the can of powder. Little Edward probably did not know of the danger he was in, according to Joseph, for he did not attempt to run away.

In the explosion Edward was thrown about ten feet. His cries frightened the elder brother, who ran to tell Mrs. Krause. She had just returned from a nearby store and hurried to the spot where Edward lay. She found him helpless and covered with powder marks. The mother carried the tot into the house and sent after Dr. Joseph A. Stites in Morris avenue, a short distance away. The physician hurried to the Krause home and found the lad in great pain. After dressing the wounds Dr. Stites declared that there was little hope for the youngster's recovery.

SECOND HONOR GOES TO A JERSEY OFFICER.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 19.—Lieutenant-Colonel W. A. Tewes, of New Jersey, won second place in the all-comers' 200-yard off-hand match in the National Shooting Tournament Thursday with a score of 94, being outranked by Rothrick, of Ohio, with the same number of points.

The Leech cup lon-range match was won by Lieutenant S. W. Anging, of the army, who scored 103.

The two other matches begun yesterday were the Marine Corps' match, which closed at 600 yards with Captain R. J. Kessler, of Kansas, leading a field of 351 entries wiith a score of 99, and the N. R. A. members' match, the 200-yard stage of which is led by Sergeant W. F. Leushner, of Buffalo. These matches will be finished today.

HUNTING ADVERTISING MAN.

Asbury Park, Aug. 19.—Inquiries are being made for Edwin J. Post, who was vice-president and treasurer of the Hotel Accommodation Company. He left here a few days ago and search at his usual haunts has failed to reveal any trace of him.

When he first came here Post said he represented the Sun Securities Company of Newark. He contracted with hotel people for advertising in a booklet which he said he was getting out.

A few copies of the booklets were left at the hotels and it is said that Post promised to deliver the remainder of the order in a few days. He collected from the hotel men.

It is alleged that Post secured several hundred copies of old booklets, tore off the covers, inserted the hotel advertisements and then had them rebound.

SHOT AT FLEEING INTRUDER.

New Providence, Aug. 19.—A man strolled into the home of Daniel Webster, Thursday night, while the family was out. Mrs. Samuel Baldwin, who lives in the same house, thought she heard someone, but didn't say a word about it to her husband. When Mrs. Webster returned Mrs. Baldwin asked if Mr. Webster was home. When told he wasn't Mr. Baldlwin began an investigation. He saw a man leap from a window.

Baldwin went upstairs, got his double-barreled shotgun and fired it off. Mr. Webster, who was then returning home heard the shots and hurried to the house. On the way, he says, he saw a man coming along the road on a motorcycle without a light. He believes the fellow was the one who had entered his home.

Dr. Holmes.

Wentworth Higginson in ... of Dr. Holmes said:

"He was a very small man physically. Though one of the greatest physicians in the country and one of the greatest wits and writers, he had almost a boyish appearance. I remember when he returned to Harvard to attend a meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa he had a poem to recite, and he had to stand on a table so that all might see him.

"Dr. Holmes had studied in Paris—quite a remarkable thing in those days—and his services as a consultant in serious cases were always in demand. In one serious case the patient was a woman. As her own family physician entered the room with Dr. Holmes, who had been called in, the patient turned around in bed and said indignantly:

"'Doctor, why do you bring that boy into this room?' 'Why,' expostulated the family physician, 'that's Dr. Holmes!' 'He isn't a doctor,' answered the patient peevishly. 'Take him out!'

"And Dr. Holmes had to leave the room, much to his annoyance. Then the family physician got a chance to explain matters, and Dr. Holmes went in, but, as he confessed to me afterward, with very bad grace. He didn't like to be taken for a boy even by a very sick woman."—New York Tribune.

Seeing Your Own Brain.

In Professor Lloyd's work, "The End of the World," the experiment of seeing one's own brain is interesting. The experimenter, with a lighted candle, enters a perfectly dark room. He stands before a black curtain or wall, so that details cannot be seen by the candle's feeble light. The candle is moved laterally to and fro in front of the eyes, keeping it about six inches from the face and just below the tip of the nose. In a few minutes something, as if a thin mist, seems to grow before the eyes. It becomes more definite and gains outline, and then soon one may distinguish the venation and the division of the brain. The theory is that the moving light produces a counter irritation of the nerves that conduct the impression of sight to the brain. The current is reversed, and the brain is pictured on the retina. Then the impression returns through the nerves and affects the brain so that we see it.

Shepherd and Sheep.

A minister was once addressing a Sunday school. It was a Sunday school of little children, and the minister in his address desired to compare himself to a shepherd and his congregation to the shepherd's flocks.

"What are these beautiful animals?" he said, pointing to a drawing on the blackboard.

"Sheep, sheep!" chorused the children.

"A shepherd!" the children cried.

"Exactly," agreed the minister, beaming with satisfaction. "And now, dear children, can you tell me what it is that the shepherd does for the sheep?"

A score of little mouths opened wide, and a score of treble voices cried shrilly:

"He shears 'em!"

Quaint Cures of Old.

For epilepsy wear a ring made from a coffin ring and take seven drops of blood from the tail of a cat. These remedies are equally efficacious either separately or in conjunction. For toothache carry in the pocket the tooth of a soldier killed in battle or eat mouse nibbled bread or trim your nails on a Friday. To cure warts, rub a potato and give the potato to a pig, or rub them with a piece of chalk, then put it in a little bag and throw it across crossroads. Holding the affected finger in the ear of a cat for half an hour was reckoned an excellent remedy for a felon.

The origin of the word "farm" is as follows: In the Saxons' time the estates which the lords of manors granted to the freemen were at first but for a term of years, with a render of a rent, which in those days was of corn and other produce. The leases so made were called fermes or farmes, but times ensuing turned the produce into money and terms of years to terms of life and inheritance.—Westminster Gazette.

... Hercules Beetle.

... of Dominica is the home ... natural habitat of the hercules beetle (Dynastes hercules), the very largest known species of the coleoptera or beetle family. Full grown specimens of this gigantic representative of the hard winged bug family average six inches in length from the tip of their pincers to the termination of the wing covers. It has a long black horn growing out of a head which is even darker than the horn itself. On its lower surface the horn is covered with a thick setting of gold colored bristles, which the entomologists say are used by the insect in capturing its prey. Another and shorter but more powerful horn grows out from beneath, the two forming a powerful pair of pinchers. The creature has six powerful legs, each armed with claws. The elytra or wing covers are of a dapple gray color and the underparts of the body black. Taken all together, it is a formidable creature, with strength sufficient to catch and hold a bird of the size of the English sparrow.

Back of Bad Luck.

Heaven sends us our good luck; we make our bad. A young contractor, careful, doing good work, always on his job, climbed a bit in the course of ten years and, with his prosperity, had a comfortable, happy family. There came a chance for some building much bigger than he had ever done. He wanted it. He wanted it so much that he bid way down—too far down, as he came to realize after he got the award. So he went on a hunt for subcontractors who, wanting business desperately, like him, would take desperate chances, like him, and he found them. He sublet excavation, masonry, carpentry, everything he could, farming it all out in dozens of different lots. But there was a stern architect, with an eagle eye and a heart cold for everything but his duty, and he began to reject work, piece after piece. Contractor all broke up: the fruits of ten years blown away upon the winds.—New York Press.

An Anecdote of Handel.

On one occasion Handel was caught in a shower of rain and, being unprovided with an umbrella, was obliged to seek shelter in a blacksmith's forge. Either Handel was in a silent mood or else the blacksmith showed no conversational symptoms, for in a little while the latter began hammering away at his anvil, accompanying his work with a song. He little thought the use his visitor was making of him and his anvil, for it is said that Handel was listening all the time to the strokes of the hammering on the anvil, which, by producing two harmonic sounds, according in time and tune with the tune the man sang, formed a bass accompaniment. Handel, on reaching home, remembered the air and the hammer accompaniment. He wrote down both, and so we owe to a shower of rain the composition known as "The Harmonious Blacksmith."

Charles Kean's Afflictions.

Charles Kean, the actor, could not pronounce the consonants "m" and "n." In the first scene with Jarvis in "The Gamester" he began by inquiring, "Well, Jarvis, what says the world of me? I'll tell thee what it says. It calls me a false friend, a faithless husband, a cruel father—in one short word, it calls me Galester!" In Shylock he was wont to say:

"You take by life
When do you take the beans whereby I live."

But his most unfortunate slip occurred in the last line of "Money," where Evelyn says that in order to enjoy the good things of life we require "plenty of money." In this situation Kean always brought the curtain down with a roar by sarcastically remarking that the one thing necessary to complete their happiness is "plenty of putty!"

Insulted.

"My husband has a remarkable collection of old curiosities," said Mrs. Bilkins, with an air of pride.

"Indeed!" said Miss Sharpenough. "Was he collecting when he married you?"

"Why, yes," replied Mrs. Bilkins innocently.

"That's what I thought," remarked the other spitefully.

And then Mrs. Bilkins saw what her dear friend meant. They meet as strangers now.

Anniversary Thoughts.

"Hubby, dear, do you know that we will have been married ten years next Tuesday?"

"Yes; I realize that we are getting along and should begin to economize for the needs of the future."

"It is not the future that I am thinking about, but the present."—New York Herald.

Truly Remarkable.

"Did somebody tell a story that was new?"

"No; the stories were all old, but one of the speakers who said he had nothing to say sat down immediately after saying it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Short Story.

"My new novel is a story of married life," said Scribbler.

"Boil it down," admonished the publisher. "Married life is a short story nowadays."—Philadelphia Record.

BOGUS ANTIQUES.

Tricks of the Crafty Italian Forgers of Old Curios.

There are dealers in curios, a crafty set of tradesmen, all over Europe, but it is in Italy that they have carried the art of deceit and forgery, the substitution of modern products for ancient, to the acme of perfection. Verona, Venice, Siena and Rome swarm with shops in which lurk these dealers in the antique, and they are keen to spot any American that may pass their way. Next to the American in gullibility is the Englishman, but he does not so freely give up his money.

Sir James Yoxall, the English connoisseur, thus describes one of these dealers: "He knew how to crackle new ivories by boiling them like eggs, how to cook new pictures in the oven, how to smoke new prints and how to green new bronzes with nitrate of potassium. It was so amusing to see the things age in a minute! He would bring a new earthenware dish out of the over, burning hot, and plunge it into iced oil; result, contraction, chilblains, so to speak—and the enamel all cracked into the wrinkles of age. And then he would rub the surface upon a dirty paving stone till signs of wear and tear appeared that might outwit anybody.

"As for pictures, it was easy to find an old canvas or an old panel for a Lorenzo. It was when the artist's work was over that the real science and art began—first of all, a wash of varnish that had been colored with sepia; next, on the more raised portions, rubbings with licorice juice to attract the flies. He could even imitate fly marks with india ink. A few drops of salty water left on the canvas would produce moldiness and mildew. A needle deftly used would cover the picture with a network of cracks."

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

Classed as a Tavern and Has the Right to Retail Beer.

In the census records of the city of London the Bank of England is classed as a tavern.

This is because it has the right in common with some other old established city businesses to sell beer by retail. The power to do this was granted it by charter under the great seal in 1694, and it has never been taken away from it.

The bank could therefore, if it chose, start in business as a public house tomorrow, or it could send round a special "Bank of England brand" of, say, bottled stout, delivered in its own drays at your door, with a facsimile of the chief cashier's signature on the label of each bottle as a guarantee of purity.

The dean and chapter of St. Paul's cathedral can also lay claim to a similar privilege, with the right, in addition, to brew their own beer. Paul's brew house formerly stood at the corner of the entrance to Doctor's commons from the churchyard, and an average of between 60,000 and 70,000 gallons of "strong ale" were brewed there every year.

The sale of this, however, was confined to the cathedral precincts. They must have been thirsty souls, those old time ecclesiastics. But, then, it must be remembered that in those days tea and coffee were unknown and beer was drunk at every meal. Even very little children had their allowance, two quarts a day, sent up to the nursery regularly each morning from the buttery below.—Pearson's Weekly.

Trade in Skeletons.

The principal center for the distribution of articulated skeletons for purposes of study by the medical profession is in Paris, from which point they are shipped to every part of the globe. The price of a well mounted articulated skeleton varies from $50 to $300. This difference has little to do with the condition of the subject while alive. In the cheap skeletons only the barest framework is offered, but in the expensive specimens every detail is worked out with sedulous care, and often both the nervous and the circulatory systems are shown.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Preference.

"After all," said Mrs. Oldcastle as they were returning from the picture gallery to the drawing room, "I think my preference is for Botticelli."

"Well," replied her hostess, "I can't say that mine is. For me it doesn't seem that there's anything to beat good old fashioned raspberry jam."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Quick Work.

"That editor is terribly slow at reading manuscript."

"Think so? Why, I know the time he went through twelve stories in less than a minute."

"Gracious! When was that?"

"When the elevator broke."—Philadelphia Press.

Appropriate to the Occasion.

"My tailor always has a touch of the appropriate in his work."

"Yes; I've known him to press mourning suits with sadirons."—Baltimore American.

Fitting Procedure.

If you want money, go to strangers. If you want advice, go to friends. If you want nothing, go to relations.—Lippincott's.

Where He Went.

"Did the prisoner go beyond well defined ethical bounds in his defense?"

"Nope. He just went to jail."—Exchange.

By J. ARMSTRONG DREXEL

II.—My Closest Calls In the Air

[Copyright, 1911, by Henry M. Neely. Copyright in Great Britain and Canada. All rights reserved.]

TO every man who flies there comes the moment when fate hangs by a filmy thread, when a hair's breadth one way or the other means life or death. I know of nothing in human experience which can leave so indelible an impression in so short a space of time. With the aeroplane as it is built today these critical moments are really only the infinitesimal fraction of a moment. The danger is reached and in a flash it is passed—safety or otherwise. There is no time for thinking. Everything must be done by instinct.

True, we do make voluntary and logical movements when we get into these scrapes, but I believe that these movements are always made too late to do any real good and that the first instinctive motion, without reason and without thought, is what decided the outcome of the moment.

Sometimes we have a warning of what is coming, and in such instances we can prepare ourselves and meet the danger with a plan of action logically thought out and calculated to meet the emergency in the best way. At other times the danger comes and is past before we really realize what is happening, and in these instances it is only the instinct that comes with long training in flying that pulls us through in safety.

"I KEPT DRAWING CLOSER AND CLOSER ABOUT THE CENTER, FLYING AT A GREAT ANGLE ALL THE TIME."

I have personally had many thrilling experiences in the air, but there are two instances that have left upon my memory stronger impressions than all the others. I regard them as my two closest calls.

Both of these thrilling moments came to me while I was flying for practice at my school at Beaulieu, near Southampton, England. My partner, MacArdle, and I have an ideal flying grounds there. It is seven miles from the railroad station, with perfectly flat country, smooth and clear except for one line of telegraph wires.

My Closest Call of All.

My closest call came to me in a most undramatic way. There were no spectators save only MacArdle and our mechanics, and I think that Mac was the only one of them who really saw my danger and knew that he was near to losing a partner.

I was flying low with the Bleriot XI., with the antiquated type of wings. I started to circle the place in wide, easy curves, without any definite object in view. I found the machine was banking well at the turns, and I became curious to see just how small a loop I could make with her, so I gradually narrowed the circle in which I was flying. There seemed no limit to her possibilities; I felt as though I could turn her on her beam ends if I wanted to, and so, without the slightest thought of danger, I kept drawing closer and closer about the center, flying at a great angle all the time because the circle had become so small that there was no straightaway flight. It was a case of jam the rudder over hard and see how close she would come about.

It may be well to explain that the Bleriot banks automatically when going about a turn—that is, the far side rises and the near side falls until the machine is frequently tilted at an angle of forty-five degrees. This can, of course, be prevented by warping the wings and keeping her on a more even keel, but to do this puts so severe a strain on the planes that it is extremely dangerous.

I think, on this day I speak of, that I was turning the machine in her own length or even shorter. I was paying not the slightest attention to the angle at which I was flying; all my thoughts were on the little circles I was cutting through the air, when suddenly I felt myself slipping on my seat, and I realized in a flash that my planes were dangerously near the perpendicular.

There was no time to think. One instant more and she would have lost her balance and come crashing down sideways to the ground 150 feet below.

Instinctively I threw my weight to the high side. My hand at once touched the bottom of the framework—a circumstance that will give some idea of my great angle. I took my feet from the steering lever, braced the left one against the side of the framework, shoved the steering post over with my knees to warp the left wing and help to right her and then—I closed my eyes and waited for things to happen.

But, fortunately for me, I had done the right things just in the nick of time. An infinitesimal fraction of a second later would have been useless, for I am convinced that I caught the machine just as she was passing the critical angle, after which there would have been nothing to support her in the air, and I should have gone crashing downward. As swiftly as it had come the danger had passed; the machine had righted herself, and I opened my eyes to find myself sailing away on an even keel—safe, alive, and thanking God for it.

I looked beneath me and saw that the mechanics were gazing up at me with no idea of what I had just passed through. Mac, however, looked as white as a ghost. He knew.

Naturally my nerves were about gone. My heart was thumping like a triphammer, and I could scarcely get my breath from the excitement. But I made up my mind that Mac was not going to see me quit, so, as though I had intended just what happened, I went sailing away to the far side of the grounds and came back again in wide, easy, sweeping curves that landed me at the feet of my excited partner in perfect style.

I did not fly again that day.

Lost In Cloudland.

My other narrow escape was the result of a fluke, and I was saved by a fluke. To this day I have not been able to figure out why either of the flukes happened. I was practicing at Beaulieu for height; altitude work had attracted me from the beginning, and I practiced constantly. In fact, I had several times exceeded the world's record for height as it stood then, but could not claim it officially, as I used my own barograph and aneroid and the flights were made with Mac and the mechanics as the only watchers.

On this day I went up toward evening. It was one of those gray days with a thin mist over everything and a damp feeling in the air that suggested an impending fog. I should have known better than to attempt to climb under such conditions, but I was keyed up to it and I did not want to put it off.

The mechanics turned the propeller over and I was off. The engine was running with that smooth purring that is music to the ears of an aviator, and without any incident whatever I climbed to something like 6,000 feet, which was then above the record, and was debating whether to try for any more altitude with the darkness of evening gathering when my engine began to sputter and miss in a way that sounded as though there were no more gasoline in the tank.

This, however, I knew could not be the cause of the trouble. The tank had been well filled before I started, and what the trouble was I have never ascertained, but I felt the power beginning to give out, and I shoved my steering post forward just about in time to get the machine's nose pointed down when the engine stopped entirely. There was nothing for it but to plane down and get as near back home as possible.

With the machine pointed right for a long spiral glide, I looked below to get my bearings, and that is where I got my first fright. The mists had gathered so thickly that I could not see a single glimpse of the earth. There was nothing below me but a billowy sea of clouds, impenetrable to the eye.

I blamed myself in forcible language for my folly in not taking more careful note of my position on the upward climb. Now it was too late. I had not the slightest idea what part of the country I was over nor in what direction I was headed, but I had all I could do to take care of the machine, rushing downward through space as I was at the rate of seventy miles an hour or more. I thought of nothing except the steering and instinctively tried to keep her going in a general way in about the same wide circles that I had followed on my journey up.

Soon I entered the clouds and began to catch glimpses of the earth. I thought I saw something that looked like one of the buildings on our grounds, and I steered accordingly, aiming to plane down so as to have plenty of room in the open land that stretched for miles away from the hangars.

Suddenly I plunged through the mists into the ordinary atmosphere of the earth's surface, and below me there was nothing but trees, trees, trees, as far as the eye could reach. I seemed to be directly over the heart of a limitless wood. To land in the branches meant certain wreck. I had no power in the engine to give me a chance to look about me for an opening. There was nothing to do apparently but to plunge down among the forest giants and trust to luck that the wreck of the machine would not cut me up badly and that my fall from the top of whatever tree I landed in would leave my features in good enough shape for identification at the inquest.

I took a deep swoop downward and then desperately turned the aeroplane's nose upward to coast as high as the momentum would take me and search for a clearing in this momentary respite.

I plunged downward for a hundred feet at a terrible rate; then at the moment of turning up my heart nearly stopped beating as I heard a choking cough from the engine, then another, then another, and suddenly the br-r-r-r of the cylinders as the explosions came with full force, and the propeller, getting its grip on the air, put on all its power, and I climbed safely away from the treetops, everything working perfectly and once more in control of a safe and efficient piece of machinery. I sailed close to the ground until I recognized some houses over the edge of the wood. I was more than twenty miles from home; but, with the engine working smoothly, the trip back was mere child's play, and I was soon on the ground again, being alternately cursed and hugged by Mac, while the mechanics trundled the Bleriot to the hangar.

The Eternal Question.

They are never pleasant to talk about—these narrow escapes. It is best to forget about them as soon after they have occurred as possible, for they get on the nerves, and things that get on the nerves are not good in aviation. It has always struck me as odd that almost the first question the average man will ask after he has met me is:

"What was the narrowest escape from death you have ever had?"

This is simply another manifestation of that morbid desire for thrills at another man's expense by demanding feats the aeroplane was never intended to perform. The aeroplane has its limitations, and they are, so far, very narrow ones. It will do certain simple things very well and if not pushed too hard is not a great deal more dangerous than manufacturing dynamite or being picked out by the Black Hand.

The late Ralph Johnstone recognized this clearly, and he once said, "It will get us all some day." "It" got him just as it has got many another good man who is trying to advance the new science, but these are the things that it is best for us not to think about.

I remember when the first news of Johnstone's death reached me. I was dining with Grahame-White in Philadelphia. White had had a hard afternoon flying in the teeth of a fluky wind that would have kept any other man safely housed in the hangar.

Reporters wanted to know if it would keep White from flying next day.

"No," said White. "These things cannot stop us. We must do our work just the same. But such accidents bring home to us the awful danger that we are constantly running, and we have to keep constantly pushing such thoughts out of our minds."

Yet, as I say, the average man, after he has talked to an aviator five minutes, will ask:

"What was the narrowest escape from death you have ever had?"

WASHING AWAY THE LAND.

Erosion of the Drainage Basins of the United States.

Investigations by the United States geological survey of the erosion of numerous drainage basins of the United States show that the surface of the country is being removed at the average rate of about an inch in 760 years. Though this amount seems trivial when spread over the surface of the country, it becomes stupendous when considered as a total or even in separate drainage basins. The Mississippi river, for instance, carries annually to the sea 136,400,000 tons of dissolved matter and 340,500,000 tons of suspended matter, and of this total the Ohio river carries 83,350,000 tons and the Missouri river contributes more than twice as much. The Colorado river, which has built up for itself a vast delta, brings down more suspended matter than any other river in the United States, delivering annually 387 tons for each square mile of its drainage basin or a total of 100,748,000 tons.

The rivers of the United States carry to tidewater every year 270,000,000 tons of dissolved matter and 513,000,000 tons of suspended matter. This total of 783,000,000 tons represents more than 350,000,000 cubic yards of rock or 610,000,000 cubic yards of surface soil. If this erosive action had been concentrated on the isthmus of Panama at the time of American occupation it would have excavated the prism for an eighty-five foot level canal in about seventy-three days.

A FAMOUS DWARF.

Borulwaski, the Pole, Was Handsome, Scholarly and Witty.

A notable dwarf, who had a long lease of life over parts of two centuries—he was born in 1739 and died in 1837—was Borulwaski, the Pole, of whose debut an interesting tale is told. As a boy of fifteen, when he was just one inch higher than a two foot rule, Borulwaski was presented to the Empress Maria Theresa, who was so charmed by his good looks and grace that she seated him on her lap and gave him a hearty kiss. To the queen's question as to what he considered the most interesting sight in Vienna the dwarf replied, "What I now behold, so little a man on the lap of so great a lady." This speech endered the little fellow a great favorite.

He became a special favorite of Stanislaus II., who took him to England and introduced him to George III., and for more than half a century Borulwaski made his home at the English court.

This dwarf, who at his tallest was a yard and three inches, had a sister whose head just reached her big brother's shoulders. Borulwaski was not only a handsome and courtly man, but a scholar of repute. He lived in five reigns, and when he died, lacking only two years of reaching the century mark, he was laid to rest in Dunham, side by side with the Falstaffian Stephen Kemble.

A Dark Smoke.

Funny thing about smoking! If a man were compelled to puff a good cigar with his eyes shut the operation would lose its zest. A man who had undergone a slight operation upon one of his eyes had to stay in a darkened room for a week with his optics bandaged. After a few days his doctor told him he could take a gentle smoke if he liked. He jumped at the chance and to his amazement found it afforded not the slightest pleasure. To be sure, men often smoke in the dark, but there's always the rosy glow of the lighted end to be seen and the faint outline of the cloud of smoke in the air. There's no more fun in a sightless smoke than a saltless egg or a kiss implanted upon your own hand. What's the psychology of it.—New York Press.

Universal Language.

He spoke his love in German—she answered not a word. In French he tried to woo her—the maiden never heard. He tried his luck in English, in Irish—all in vain; in Turkish, Greek and Latin, and in the togue of Spain.

And then an inspiration came to the anguished youth. "The universal language," he cried, "I'll try, forsooth!" He kissed the demure maiden and pressed her to his breast. She understood that language, and you can guess the rest.—Pearson's.

Thorough Mourning.

Mandy, who had just become a sorrowing widow, was sorting out several suits of black underclothes. Her friend asked in great astonishment:

"Mandy, whah fo' yoh done got them black undehga'ments?"

"'Cause when Ah mourns Ah mourns."—Everybody's Magazine.

Boston Gets "Cy" Young.

"Cy" Young, the veteran pitcher, who was unconditionally released by the Cleveland American League Baseball management several days ago, will report to the Boston Club of the National League on Sunday. It is stated that he probably will pitch Monday's game against Cincinnati. Pitchers Tyler and Pfeffer have been released to New Orleans of the Southern League, under an optional agreement to facilitate an early delivery of Pitcher Otto Hess, formerly of Cleveland, who has been purchased by Boston.

Jordan Equals Record.

"Home Run" Jordan would be the proper appellation to use when speaking of Tim Jordan, the first baseman of the Toronot Maple Leafs. Tim poled out his fifteenth home run of the season yesterday in the game at Providence. Incidentally, he is the leading plate-to-plate hitter in the Barrow organization, and is now joint holder of the home run record, which is fifteen, made a few years ago by Tim Flood, who was then playing first base for the Leafs. Jordan has a good chance to set a new record in the home run class, for there is still over a month of playing. Jordan is out to break the record, and it is believed by many that the former big leaguer will accomplish his purpose.

Good Game at Dunellen.

The Ramblers of Bound Brook will be the attraction at Dunellen this afternoon on the Madison avenue diamond. Manager Bogardus has booked one of the strongest amateur teams in this vicinity when he arranged the game with the Ramblers. Ralph Shaw, who has been playing second base for the Dunellenites this season, will be in that position for the Ramblers and Percy Harney will be on the Dunellen mound. Herbert Stein, of North Plainfield, will again catch for the Dunellen team.

COL. ASTOR WILL GIVE MISS FORCH $2,000,000.

New York, Aug. 19.—Nineteen-year-old Madeline Force will get $2,000,000 in cash when she marries Colonel John Jacob Astor, but she will have to sign away all dower rights in the enormous Astor realty holdings in return for the cash settlement.

The cash settlement is in accordance with a custom in the Astor family that is designed to keep the realty holdings intact for the males.

The Misses Lucile and Margaret Ewart, of Fairview avenue, who have been travelling through the Middle West for the past month, have returned home.

INVESTIGATE COST OF GAS IN STATE

In its general inquiry into the reasonableness of the rates being charged for gas in this State, the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners has decided to investigate the rates of the Public Service Gas Company, one of the branch corporations of the Public Service Corporation. In this proceeding the Board has decided that it will first take up the question of the justness of the rates of the Public Service Company in the operating zone, which includes the cities of Paterson and Passaic, and which is supplied from Paterson.

The preliminary hearing in this matter will take place at the Court House in Newark, Wednesday, August 23, at 11 o'clock a. m. At this hearing representatives of the Gas Company and of Paterson and Passaic will appear before the Board on the question of fixing a time for the filing of information needed by the members of the Board in deciding upon the justness of the rates for gas.

The order issued by the Commission directs the Public Service Gas Company to file an inventory showing its property located in each municipality in the Paterson-Passaic zone, including real estate, general equipment with all machinery, engfiines, all appliances, pipe lines, street lighting fixtures, etc. The valuations in this inventory are to be taken at the cost to reproduce.

The order also directs the company to list with the Commission its gross earnings, operating expenses, other expenses, fixed charges, dividends declared, a statement of the amount of gas sold in each municipality, expenses of franchises and of organization and all other expenses and charges.

The information as to the cost of franchises, expenses of organization, and so on must be filled for each year for the past eight years.

This order follows a similar one directed to the gas companies of Lambertville, Flemington, Freehold and Salem.

UNFORTUNATE.

His dog was a fierce Airedale, which could whip and had whipped every other bow-wow in the neighborhood. Then he clipped his coat.

"Yes," he said to a friend, "the clipping looks better, but it was very awkward for the dog."

"How was that?" queried the friend.

"Oh, the other dogs didn't know him. He had to fight them all over again."—Tit-Bits.

No Fear of That.

SLAUGHTER OF ROBINS EXPLAINED BY HUNTER

The killing of robins in connection with the slaughter of sparrows and other birds on The Crescent at Montclair Thursday night by an employe of the Montclair Shade Trees Commission with a shotgun was commented on at Montclair yesterday, but it was explained by Peter Stevens, the hunter of the birds, that he had no intention of slaying the songbirds, which the Audubon Society is making strenuous efforts to protect in this State.

Stevens asserts that he did not suspect that the songbirds associated with the sparrows, starlings, and blackbirds that were killed when he fired into the trees.

"Their death was due to being in bad company," was the way the shade tree commission man explained the untimely end of the robins. The slaughtering of the birds was done under orders from the Shade Tree Commission. Dr. William W. Wilson and other wealthy residents of The Crescent had complained to the authorities that the birds disturbed their sleep.

INSISTS ON SPUR TO FIRST STREET

The First Street Association of Elizabeth will oppose with vigor all efforts of the Public Service Corporation or its subsidiary, which controls the proposed "short line" extension from New Brunswick, to extend its line to join the South Broad street tracks. This was decided at a largely attended meeting of the organization yesterday afternoon.

The association went on record as being opposed to the concession made by the Public Service to the joint railroad and street committee of Elizabeth Council, in agreeing to extend a "spur" down Bayway to the Long Branch Railroad. The First street merchants want it extended all the way to First street and declare there is no reason why this cannot be done. They declare that the corporation "wants something for nothing," and that it should pay for the franchise for which it has asked Council, and agree besides to build the "spur."

It was decided yesterday afternoon to appoint a committee of several to canvass the situation and to arouse sentiment for the proposed extension. Edward S. Hersh is chairman of this committee. He will announce its personnel today.

He declared yesterday afternoon that the concession made by the Public Service Corporation is of little benefit to the First Street Association, for it leaves a vast territory still untapped by the proposed spur. This concession, Mr. Hersh said, is no better than if the Public Service adhered to its first decision to extend the "short line" only to South Broad street.

Mr. Hersh declared that the lack of proper trolley facilities kept residents away from the downtown section, and if a "spur" was not extended it would mean a serious setback to business along First street, as well as a handicap to working men.

The Public Service enginers claim that it is impossible to extend the line further than the Long Branch tracks, as the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad runs over the tracks there and there is not sufficient clearance to admit of the passage of trolleys. It is likely that the association will send another protest to Council asking that the new petition which now contains the "spur" concession will not be granted until the Public Service agrees to extend the "spur" all the way down town.

FARMER-NEIGHBORS OF BAIRD CHEER WILSON.

Camden, Aug. 19.—Speaking to the farmers of South Jersey Thursday as he had Wednesday to those of North Jersey, Governor Wilson again gave warning that he intended to wage relentless war on the machine brand of politicians, whose sole interest in politics was a selfish one and not the good of the people to whom he was talking.

The gathering was made up largely of Republicans and in the home of "Davy" Baird, yet after his address the Governor was surrounded by enthusiastic farmers, whose hands he shook for twenty minutes, and who acclaimed him time and again as "Our Next President."

Governor Wilson advised the farmers to organize by counties or sections to erect storehouses at favorable points for shipment of their products, to have a bureau of information which should keep them informed what the markets and prices were in other sections, and thus be in a position to move their crops or products at favorable times to such places as needed them and were paying best prices.

Be Blue This Fall—But Not Too Blue

Grace M. Gould, writing the fashion talk in the September Woman's Home Companion, says that blue is to be the favorite color this fall. She adds: "Don't regard the choosing of a color for your autumn costume as a trivial matter. Colors are not always what they seem. They have traits that are anything but dependable. There is the blue: that seemingly, staunch, old reliable shade. Just look out for it. It may make you happy and fashionable in the daytime, but at night you may be bluer than you want to be."

POWER BOAT AFIRE AT SEA.

The Carlton Is Reached Just in Time —Life-Savers Put Out the Flame.

The power boat Carlton, while off Little Egg Harbor Life Saving Station last night, caught fire and for a time it looked as though she would be a total loss. The Captain kept cool, however, pointed the prow to the shore, and put on full speed.

The boat reached the beach just as the little Egg life-saving crew, who had seen her danger, reached her. They beat out the flames with sand and pulled the boat high and dry on the beach. The crew escaped serious injury, although two of them were rather severly burned about the arms from fighting the flames. They could not say how the fire started.

FIND BODY OF MAN FLOATING.

Elizabeth, Aug. 19.—The body of an unidentified man was discovered early yesterday morning flating near the mouth of the Elizabeth River by a watchman in a factory nearby. The police were notified, and the body was removed to Engel's morgue.

The victim was about forty-five years old. He was dressed in a black suit of clothes, was about five feet eight inches tall and weighed about 190 pounds. There was nothing on his person to furnish a clue to his identity.

Surprises were again in order Saturday afternoon in the Central New Jersey League games, which were attended by the largest crowds of the season thus far. Scotch Plains brought forth the most unexpected occurrence of the summer by defeating Plainfield in a fast ninth inning finish while Somerville had an unusually easy time in trimming the regenerated Mt. Ararat aggregation with the figures 6-1. Many local fans who had journeyed to Bound Brook to witness another neck and neck fight with the High Bridge nine were also surprised to find a one-sided game for the Tail-enders.

By defeating Plainfield, Scotch Plains caused the Somerville Blues to creep within one game of the top notch and make Dorflinger's Darlings look to their laurels. Bound Brook and High Bridge finished their series Saturday afternoon, each taking two games, and by their victory Saturday, the Bees flew out of the cellar position and stung the Hunterdon county boys so that they will have to keep them company in their misery for at least a week.

Westfield was practically put out of the pennant race by losing to Somerville and Scotch Plains forged ahead of the Mt. Ararat clan by taking one from the Pets. Bound Brook struck its winning stride Saturday and showed almost championship form.

Several changes were made in the lineups of the various teams, two new players appearing in High Bridge uniforms, one new man being on the Bound Brook nine, while two outsiders were used on the Plainfield team on account of the failure of two of the regulars to put in an appearance. The topic of conversation at all the games was the trouble concerning the protest of the Somerville-Plainfield contest of last Saturday, many opinions being expressed both pro and con.

THISTLES WIN IN 9TH

Plainfield's Pets went to Scotch Plains Saturday but "Red" Waller and Cosgrove did not go with them and although they played almost errorless ball, they were surprised in the ninth inning ambuscade by Joe Albert's Thistles and lost the second game of their career by the score 3-2. For eight innings not a run was pushed over by either side and it looked as if the game would go to extra rounds. Otto Frederickson, the Netherwood southpaw, who recently broke into the league circuit and who has been twirling for the McNultys, of New York city, was pressed into service when "Red" Waller did not show up and the kid pitched great ball.

In the last part of the ninth inning, however, Freddie weakened after starting the final go with a bad mix up on first and three runs were scored. Warry McLaughlin opposed him on the mound and Plainfield's best batters went down to the bench of disgust as the southpaw's speedy slants shot in for strikes. He fanned nine Pets and did not allow even one base on balls. But that doesn't say that the game was all candy for the Thistles for they had an anxious period with plenty of worriment in the first part of the ninth inning and at several other stages in the contest.

When the locals went to bat for the last time, Joe Harter stepped to the plate and caught one of Warry's inshoots in the small of the back. He stole second however and came home when Eddie Stallings poled out a clean safety to centre. Billy Stallings could only lift a long fly to right and when Brit Martin came to the bat the Scotch Plains fielders edged their way back to the tall grass. Eddie Stallings stole second and Brit swung at the second ball pitched, clouting the sphere on the nose for a hard bang into right field.

THEIR CONFERENCE

Seventh-Day Baptists to Gather at Westerly R. I. For Annual Meeting.

SESSIONS START WEDNESDAY.

Twenty-four Delegates and Four Other Members of Local Flock to Attend the Deliberations.

The twenty-four delegates appointed to represent the local congregation at the General Conference of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church in America at Westerly, R. I., commencing Wednesday, and the forty other members of the flock who will unofficially attend, will leave here tomorrow for the conference city.

The delegates are Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor, Rev. Dr. Theodore Gardner, Joseph D. Spicer, N. H. Randolph, Mrs. N. H. Randolph, Joseph A. Hubbard, Henry M. Maxson, David E. Titsworth, Mrs. David T. Titsworth, Orra S. Rogers, William C. Hubbard, Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Frank J. Hubbard, Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, Arthur A. Hunting, Irving A. Hunting, John B. Cottrell, Mrs. Sarah Wardner, Nathan Wardner, Thos. B. Titsworth, Dr. O. B. Whitford, Clarence W. Spicer, Mrs. Asa F. Randolph, Asa F. Randolph.

The Pawcatuck Seventh-Day Baptist church has been selected as the meeting place. It enjoys an unique position in that faith and is one of several outgrowths of the church at Newport, R. I., which was constituted in 1671. An earnest and successful missionary by the name of Stephen Mumford was sent over to Newport from a church in London in 1664 and the founding of the Newport was the result.

From that time on those of like faith continued to increase in numbers although scattered by removals to other sections, but they held their membership with that church until 1768 when the first Hopkinton church was organized. Then followed the constitution of the other at Waterford, Conn., in 1785; the second Hopkinton at Ashaway, R. I., in 1835; the Rockville in 1835; the first Westerly in 1837 and the Pawcatuck in 1840.

The general conference was organized in 1802, previous to which time there was held each year what was called the Rhode Island Yearly Meeting. In the last few years the annual sessions have been held at Adams Centre, N. Y., Ashaway, R. I., Alfred, N. Y., Plainfield, N. J., Salem, W. Va., Nortonville, Kan. Shiloh, N. J., Leonardsville, N. Y., Bolder, Col., and Milton, Wis. The ruling of the conference limits the present number of delegates from the local church to twenty-four. Vacancies in this delegation may be filled by members of the church who may be present.

FRELINGHUYSEN TO GO ON STATE SCHOOL BOARD.

Sea Girt, Aug. 21.—Governor Wilson stated Saturday that he was holding the remaining vacancy on the State Board of Education open for the appointment of Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, State Senator from Somerset county. The bill changing the size and powers of the Board of Education was passed during the last session of the legislature. The question was raised as to Senator Frelinghuysen's eligibility for appointment during the term for which he was elected senator. Rather than embarass the senator, the Governor has determined to wait until the expiration of Mr. Frelinghuysen's term in January, and then appoint him to the board. He regards his services as indispensable to the board, as do the other members of the board itself. Governor Wilson's statement shows his solution of the problem.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF REV. TILDON'S MOTHER.

Rev. F. J. Tildon, pastor of Bethel chapel, has returned from Perryman, Maryland, where he attended the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Benjamin W. Tildon. He had been summoned to her bedside two weeks ago when she was stricken with paralysis. She died on Wednesday. Mrs. Tildon was in her eightieth year and for sixty-four years had been a member of the church there. She was held in high esteem in the community. Surviving her are two sons, Rev. Mr. Tildon and Dr. John W. Tildon, the latter of Fort Worth, Texas.

Benjamin Mills.

Benjamin Mills, a former resident of the borough, died in Trenton last Thursday and was buried in Hillside cemetery yesterday afternoon. At the time he lived here Mr. Wills was in the real estate business and was considered among this city's prominent business men. After leaving here he lived for a time in East Orange.

TELLS OF MEXICO

Miss Butler, After Five Years Stay There, Discusses Country's Trouble.

FEARED FOR LIFE AT TIMES.

During Recent Revolution, Plainfielder Expected She Would Have to Flee—Climate Delightful.

After an absence of five years, Miss Linda Butler, of East Front street, returned to Plainfield Saturday afternoon to the surprise of many of her friends, coming by boat from Mexico, where she has been living. She is well known here, having lived at her family homestead on East Front street, near Bank place, for many years and having gained prominence here as an active worker in missionary circles of the First Baptist church.

Miss Butler has many thrilling tales to tell about her life in Nixcaoc, a village near Mexico City, and in the Mexican metropolis too. Together with Mr. and Mrs. Buschwah and their daughter, Miss Marie, former residents of this city, she lived for many weeks this year in constant danger of her life at the hands of the Mexican rebels and on returning she said that she was glad to get to a place where one didn't have to keep one eye ahead and the other on the sulking revolutionists and federalists.

Although the Buschwah homestead was never attacked during he civil war in Mexico, Miss Butler said that they were always anticipating such an event. To prepare for a sudden surprise from any of the revolting forces, the family was obliged to conceal all of its provisions and valuables in bureau drawers, closets, under beds, behind pictures, and in almost every conceivable spot which would render any protection whatsoever.

Before the revolution broke out the family had failed to register with the American consul but as soon as the war trouble began they journeyed to Mexico City and placed their names on the rolls. The American consul informed the party that they would be informed whenever any danger to them was threatening and that if the United States should intervene the Plainfielders would be notified as quickly as a messenger could reach them.

Because of the fact that American citizens would be in danger of being put to death as soon as this country intervened in the strife, Miss Butler said that they were prepared to be packed up and started on their way for the United States at thirty-six hours' notice. Several times they stood waiting for the final orders from the consulate to vacate.

In speaking of the climatic conditions in Nixcaoc, Miss Butler said that the weather was most delightful. The temperature never goes much above seventy-five degrees and seldom below thirty-six. The water in that vicinity, according to her, is unfit to drink and causes much typhoid fever. Miss Butler said that it was a great pleasure to drink Plainfield water.

Miss Butler has returned to Plainfield to stay although the rest of the family will remain in Mexico. She says that Miss Marie Buschwah is enjoying the best of health and wished to be remembered to her friends here. Miss Butler received a warm welcome home by the members of the First Bantist church at yesterday morning's service

To Tell of Conversion.

An anniversary service will be held at the Salvation Army hall tomorrow evening, marking the seventh year of the conversion of Mrs. Jula Doyle, a member of the local corph. Mrs. Doyle will give the story of her life and conversion which is considered by many to be the most remarkable conversion known in this city. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Some More Fish.

Walter Wyckoff and "Spiel" Walsh of this city, went to Prince's Bay yesterday and the results of their fishing trip was eaten on their friends' breakfast tables this morning. While fishing but a short time they caught twelve weaks, nine blues and one fluke.

Will Purchase Fire Auto.

The Bernardsville fire company of Bernardsville, this State, has appointed a special committee to purchase a motor-driven pump-auto with 1,000 feet of hose. The secretary of the committee is Joseph B. Kronenberg.

—Peaches, pears and plums are in abundance at Neuman Bros., and prices a little lower.

COACHES SET AFIRE FROM A GAS TANK

A train of which Miss L. Kiernan, principal of the North Plainfield grammar school was a passenger, lost three coaches at Easton in a peculiar manner Saturday and resulted in her arriving here nearly two hours late. Miss Kiernan boarded the train at Buffalo and it arrived at Easton at 8 o'clock. While a gas tank underneath one of the cars was being refilled a laborer with a torch fell over the rubber hose, breaking the connection and the flame from his torch ignited the escaping gas.

The train crew maintained perfect order in getting the passengers out of the burning coach and before the car could be uncoupled and separated from the train the flames had spread to two other coaches. All there were finally pulled some distance down the track where the fire department could reach them. Other coaches were secured after considerable delay and the train continued.

DR. MOLDENKE'S CIGAR CAUSES GARAGE FIRE

A disastrous fire at the home of Rev. Dr. Charles Moldenke on the the Valley road was prevented by the prompt action of the Watchung fire department Saturday afternoon. The blaze started in the garage, which is located but fifty feet from the barn in which there was loft full of hay, and was caused by the explosion of a can of gasoline.

Dr. Moldenke's son was filling the tank of one of his automobiles and Dr. Moldenke was outside the garage smoking a cigar. It is believed that the high wind, which was blowing at the time, carried a live ash from the cigar into the gasoline can for it suddenly burst into flames. The boy dropped the can and ran out of the garage while Dr. Moldenke began to fight the fire with water. The gasoline soon spread and soon the entire interior of the place was a mass of flames.

A hurry call was sent to the Watchung fire department and twenty-five firemen answered the call in automobiles, carrying chemical extinguishers with them. They arrived at the scene of the fire in four minutes, and had the blaze under control before any serious damage was done. The automobiles were run out of the burning building by the firemen and no serious damage was done to them. The tops of the machines were burned off and the paint slightly scorched. The interior of the garage was badly scorched.

FOUR CONGREGATIONS HEAR REV. MR. SMITH

Rev. Frank A. Smith, of Haddonfield, preached the sermon at the next to the final union service of the First M. E., First Baptist, Trinity Reformed and First Presbyterian churches in the First Presbyterian church edifice last night. Tere was a goodly sized congregation and the theme of his discourse received skillful handling in the course of which several fine thoughts were brought out.

The sermon was on the words of St Peter at the time of the transfiguration: "It Is Good to Be Here, If Thou Wilt." Rev. Mr. Smith said that because Christ was here and made his abiding place on the earth, the earth is a far better place. If everything Christlike, which was inspired by His presence and teachings were to be removed, he said, heathenism would be the result. In the category of blessings mentioned were hospitals, almshouses, all kinds of homes, churches, song books, etc., until the congregation was able to catch the drift of his thought.

He then showed how men are benefitted by all of these things, whether Christians or not. "Many men," he declared, "have said 'There is no God,' but how it is possible for any of them to go on vacations even without seeing the presence of God everywhere?" and then cited the deductions of eminent scientists, proving that the Almighty exists.

An Auto Danger.

Automobiles using the street car tracks often overtake a trolley car, and pass it at increased speed at the left side of the car. The automobile can not be seen by persons crossing the street, nor can the automobile driver see beyond the trolley car. The consequence is accident, or a scare, which is sometimes as bad as a physical injury. The matter is one which requires police regulation. —Newark Call.

IN POLICE COURT

Justice is Administered to Week-End Guests at Headquarters.

SIXTY DAYS IN JAIL FOR ONE.

Cards and Liquor Prove Bad Mix-up For a Quartette—Colored Man Held For Grand Jury —The Others.

Many "week-end" guests at police headquarters were haled before Judge William G. DeMeza for sentence in the city court this morning. Edward Britton, Edward Bremmer, James Comisky and William McDonald were arrested at 3 o'clock Sunday morning by Roundsman Higgins on complaint of neighbors in the flats adjoining Britton's on Central avenue. The four were under the influence of liquor. According to their story they were playing cards intending to go crabbing yesterday. Their noise caused their arrest. Britton was fined $50 with the alternative of spending 60 days in the county jail. All of the others were fined $3 or 10 days. All paid except Britton.

Charles Januzzi, of Somerset street and Vincent Salvatora, of Somerset place, were arrested at 9 o'clock last night on complaint of an East Second street young woman, at whose home they had called four times in the absence of her parents to inquire about different streets. The men are well acquainted with the city, being hucksters and having left vegetables at her home. They were released in bail to appear for a hearing tomorrow morning.

Benjamin Perkins, colored, of Madison avenue, was arrested at 2 o'clock this morning on complaint of Miss Mary Moffet, a neighbor, who alleged that Perkins had entered her room by climbing up the porch posts and had aroused her from sleep. He denied the allegation and his wife said that he had never left the house all night. Bail was fixed at $300 for the action of the Union County grand jury.

The marital troubles of William and Lucy Green, colored, of West Second street, were aired and resulted in the court giving them some advice so that Lucy gave Willie another chance, he promising to take care of her and the five children and behave himself.

James Foley was arrested Saturday night for throwing a match holder off a bar at the bartender when refused more liquor. He was fined $5 or twenty days in jail. He paid and told the court that he would behave in the future.

Francis Murphy, a farm hand, came to town Saturday night and imbibed too freely with the result that he fell by the wayside and was given a night's lodging at headquarters. Sentence was suspended as the court felt that he had been punished enough by his confinement.

George Langford, colored, was in much the same plight and upon his promise to never let is happen again, sentence was suspended.

Boom For Assembly.

Friends of Morris C. VanArsdale, a borough councilman, are booming him for the Republican Assembly nomination in Somerset county. The popular councilman says "No!"

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Searing, of Park avenue, and Fourth street, spent Sunday with relatives in East Orange.

BOY'S FALL FATAL

Twelve Year Old Youth Who Weighed 165 Pounds Dies in Hospital.

CEREBRO - SPINAL MENINGITIS.

Youth Had Come From New York to Attend Local Schools—The Funeral Tomorrow Morning.

Harry Mundy Oswald died in Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday afternoon where he had been received as a patient two hours prior to his death. He succumbed to cerebro-spinal meningitis resulting from a fall on his head. The youth was but twelve years old and he weighed 165 pounds.

The funeral service will be held at the residence of his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Mundy, of South Plainfield, tomorrow morning at 9:0 and interment will be made in Perth Amboy. Rev. J. J. Allen, pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church, will officiate.

The lad was the son of Mrs. William Anderson, of New York, and was on a visit to his grandmother when he sustained the fall which resulted in his death. He was jumping in the yard at her home when he met with the accident. He was going to make his home with his grandmother and enter the schools here in the fall. The children of the village with whom Harry played were much attached to him and will miss him greatly. He was considered unusually bright for one of his years.

MARTINE'S ANSWER TO CLUB'S APPEAL.

The Italian-American Club of Plainfield has received this reply to its appeal to Senator Martine to vote for the Taft arbitration treaties with England and France:

"United States Senate,
"Washington, D. C.,
"August 19, 1911.

"The Italian-American Civic League,
"Plainfield, N. J.:

"My Dear Friends:—I am in receipt of your letter of the seventeenth instant, relative to the ratification of the new treaties with Great Britain and France.

"I am pleased to receive your views, and thank you for them. However, it now seems likely that nothing will be done with these treaties at this session, but that they will be laid over until the next regular session of Congress, which convenes in December.

"Sincerely yours,
"JAMES E. MARTINE."

Weeds on Tracks.

Rank midsummer growths of weeds have made a number of railroad grade crossings in the country districts of New Jersey far more dangerous than at any other season in the year, impairing a view of the tracks where there are no gates nor railroad employes to warn one of approaching trains. A few strokes of a scythe would make any one of these spots comparatively safe, and the authorities in such districts should see that the railroads removes these menaces to life immediately.—Newark Call.

RUNAWAY HORSE COVERS SEVEN MILES CAUSING EXCITEMENT BUT NO DAMAGE

Starting from in front of his store in East Fifth street on Saturday afternoon, a horse belonging to A. A. Keenan, dashed through the streets covering a distance of seven miles before it was halted. After the animal had gone five miles, Walter Morris, the driver, dropped safely to the ground from the back of the wagon. The runaway furnished lots of excitement but did little or no damage.

When the bridle was taken off and the bit removed to allow the horse to drink, the animal suddenly made a dash down South avenue to Leland avenue and along that thoroughfare to East Front street. At East Front street and Watchung avenue, Patrolman Kelly, who was on his bicycle, started in pursuit. Twice the policeman grabbed for the animal's neck, the second time, when the horse turned into Crescent avenue from Watchung avenue, receiving a tumble. The chase was resumed when P. H. Jadwin, a New Yorker who is spending the summer at the Homestead in Fanwood, took the patrolman into his car. Out through Crescent avenue and Park avenue the animal fairly flew, swinging into Clinton avenue, slackening its speed for the first when it reached Plainfield avenue. According to the auto's speedometer it had been doing a thirty-five miles an hour clip.

Morris, the driver, had been clinging to the sides of the wagon. He was afraid to drop from the back because the long reins and bridle were trailing in the road. As the horse slackened his speed, however, as bidden by the patrolman, he hung by his hands from the tailboard and let go when the bridle and reins were out of his way, landing uninjured. On and on the steed went and down Clinton avenue it dashed, through Front street, narrowly missing a car and about the twentieth wagon. Finally it ran into the driveway of J. A. Brunson's farm on Greenbrook road. The wagon was dashed against the barn and the horse was overtaken there by the cop in the auto as the animal was attempting to free itself. Grabbing a shovel, the patrolman tapped the beast on the nose and got it into the barn. The horse appeared none the worse for its run.

A. C. VAIL IS DEAD

Famous Laundryman Succumbs to Heart Disease in His 65th Year.

HAD LIVED HERE THIRTY YEARS

Proprietor of Gardner & Vail, New York—Wife and Two Children Survive Him—Funeral Private.

Following an illness of several months, Anthony Compton Vail, of West Eighth street, succumbed to heart disease at his late home yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Vail had been seriously ill for several weeks past, but his condition was not believed to be fatal. The dead man was in the sixty-sixth year of his age.

A resident of this city for the past thirty years, Mr. Vail was best known to Plainfielders as a number of the firm of Gardner & Vail, the most prominent collar and cuff laundry in New York city. He had been engaged in the laundry business in New York city since 1876, going there from this city, where he started a small laundry in the east end of the town. When he moved his business to New York, Mr. Vail joined with J. Wright Gardner and started their now famous collar and cuff laundry. Several years ago Mr. Gardner retired from the business and Mr. Vail has been conducting the work alone, seldom missing a day at his office until his recent illness.

The dead man was born at Greenbrook in 1846 and lived there during his boyhood days after which he moved to this city, where he has lived ever since. He built a handsome residence at the corner of West Eighth street and Madison avenue, in which he resided for many years and up to the time of his death.

Mr. Vail was taken ill last April when it is believed he caught cold while superintending the moving of his house to the lot on the opposite corner of Eighth street and Madison avenue. A case of la grippe developed and this brought on heart disease, with which Mr. Vail has been suffering for several months. The end came, however, quite unexpectedly to the members of his family.

During his life in this city, Mr. Vail lived quietly and was not actively interested in any of the local organizations except the Watchung Hunt Club. He was known as a fancier of horses, which was a pet hobby with him for many years. In his stable on Eighth street, Mr. Vail at one time had several horses worth over $3,000 apiece and some of his teams have won handsome prizes at theoira v

Surviving the dead man are his widow, a son, Ralph L. Vail, of this city, a daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Cutler, of Boston, a sister, Mrs. Kathryn Runyon, formerly of this city, and several brothers. The funeral services will be held at his late home Tuesday afternoon and will be private. Rev. Frederic Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, will officiate.

PLAY FOR TWO CUPS AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB.

Play for the president's and scratch cups was continued at the Park Golf Club Saturday afternoon, W. H. Woodland turning in the best net card for the day. Dr. H. K. Carroll made the best gross score.

The cards turned in were as follows:

W. H. Woodland, 79, 30-110; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 82, 8-90; N. A. Miller, 83, 20-103; P. C. Sweeney, 83, 15-98; J. B. Betts, 88, 27-115; F. W. Thompson, 93, 33-126; N. H. Morrison, 92, 14-106; R. V. Carpenter, 94, 13-107; A. M. Morrell, 102, 17-119.

Dumont Wins Play Against Par.

An eighteen-hole match play against par was held at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday afternoon and it was won by Morris J. Dumont with 4 down. D. H. Rowland, Wylie Brown and L. G. Carmen all turned in scores of 5 down, while C. P. Hamilton made an 85 net and C. W. King an 80 net.

Bit By Pet Dog.

William H. Addis, of East Second street, inspector of the Board of Health, was bitten in the fleshy part of his right hand by his pet dog yesterday afternoon. The animal's teeth inflicted a painful wound which Mr. Addis had cauterized. The dog has been tied up for observation.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Margaret T. Richards, complainant, and Alice C. Walsh and William S. Walsh, her husband, defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office in the Courthouse, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all those certain tracts or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, County of Union, and State of New Jersey:

First lot. All those five certain lots of land situate on Ravine avenue, and being the south half the piece or plot of land conveyed to William Spence and Sarah P. Cudlipp by the Belvidere Land and Improvement Company, by deed dated October 6, 1887, and recorded in the office of the Clerk of Union County on the eleventh day of April, 1890, at 11:50 o'clock A. M., in Book 217 of Deeds, page 392, etc.

Second lot. Beginning at a point in the centre of Denmark road, as the same is now laid out and opened, said point being distant in a general southeasterly direction one hundred seventy-five (175) feet from the point where the centre line of Ravine road intersects with the centre line of Denmark road aforesaid, said beginning point being also the southwesterly corner of lot number twenty-seven (27), as shown on a certain map entitled "Map of the A. D. Thompson Addition to Netherwoood Park, City of Plainfield, Nov., 1906, F. O. Dunham, C. E., 109 Park Avenue, Plainfield," which map has been placed on file in the office of the Register of Union County; running thence in a southwesterly direction and along the line of property now or formerly owned by one Sarah Cudlipp a distance of two hundred twenty-six and twenty-nine one-hundredths feet (226.29) to a point and corner of said Cudlipp's lands; thence running in a southeasterly direction a distance of seventy-nine and two one-hundredths (79.02) feet to a point; thence in a northeasterly direction a distance of eighty (80) feet to a point being the southwesterly corner of lot number thirty-five (35) on the aforesaid map; thence in a northerly direction and along the westerly side line of said lot number thirty-five (35) a distance of one hundred sixty-six and thirteen one-hundredths (166.13) feet to the centre of Denmark road aforesaid; thence in a westerly direction and along the centre of said Denmark road, and following the curves of the same a distance of sixty-two and eighteen one-hundredths (62.18) feet to the point and place of beginning. Being known and designated as lot number thirty-six (36) on the aforesaid map.

Said first lot being the same premises conveyed to said Alice C. Walsh by deed of Sarah P. Cudlipp, widow, dated January 22, 1910, and recorded in the office of the Register of Union County in Book 553 of Deeds, pages 17 etc.

Said second lot being same premises conveyed to said Alice C. Walsh by deed of the Plainfield Land and Building Co., a corporation, dated November 14, 1906, and recorded in said office in Book 476 of Deeds, page 470 etc., and subject to the same restrictions as to the use of said premises for business purposes, and as to the erection of house thereon, as contained in said deed.

EYELET EMBROIDERY.

With the fad for eyelet embroidery so strongly in vogue almost every woman will find she has small pieces of this dainty material left from the making of the guimpe or the bloue or the trimming of a gown.

These bits are usually consigned to the scrapbag, because they are too small to be of any use. But there you are wrong, for they can be used in many pretty ways.

Even the smallest bits can be cut oval or round, bound with a bit of gayly colored bias satin or silk and fastened together in the centre with an oblong loop of satin and worn as a finish to the Dutch collar.

You can simulate a butterfly by having four small pieces of embroidery cut egg-shape, two of them being slightly smaller than the other two. Bind them with narrow bias satin or finish the edges with the buttonhole stitch done in bright-colored floss, and join them with a bit of satin covering a small roll of cotton two inches, using the smaller wings over the larger as a butterfly would be with the wings flat.

With black floss make eyes and little straight marks on the body to give it the appearance of a real butterfly.

A little practise will suggest all sorts of styles and shapes to fashion these attractive bows.

Smaller pieces of the embroidery can be utilized in almost the same way by binding with satin and forming a number of pieces into a rose for the lingerie hat. Larger pieces can be cut in uniform figures and joined together with lace insertion, then made into a very pretty Dutch collar, having an edge of fine lace.

Pincushion tops are dainty when made of eyelet embroidery.

Cut the embroidery in the shape of the cushion's top and sew beading around it, then a slightly gathered lace edge. Run narrow ribbon through the beading and finish with a rosette bow.

These are only a few suggestions of the many ways embroidery can be made up into useful and fancy articles. The clever woman will see her own need and use her ingenuity to supply it.

Practical Demonstration.

Hearing a noise at midnight in one of his rooms, a gentleman tipburglar unawares. Sikes, however, burgar unawares. Sikes however, was not to be caught napping, and before the owner of the house fully realized what was happening he was looking down the muzzle of a revolver.

"You realize that you are at my mercy?"

"Ye—s," replied the house owner.

"And also realize that I could shoot you dead if I wished?"

Another trembling affirmative.

"You did not hear me enter the house?"

"No."

"Well, if you had your windows fitted with one of Ketchum's new patent burglar alarms this wouldn't have happened. I am an agent for the—"

But the house owner had swooned.—Ideas.

Where Time Is a Factor

Some people seem to have the impression that if their affairs are left in the hands of individuals as Executors, that they will receive more prompt attention and an earlier adjustment than would be the case if left with a Trust Company.

Come in and talk it over.

This is not justified by experience.

Fidelity Trust Co.,

NEWARK, N. J.,

when adjusting the affairs of an estate makes promptness a feature. Economy alone demands this. Then again, the Trust Department, in order to give satisfactory service, MUST GIVE PROMPT SERVICE—as prompt as legal limitations permit.

Individual Executors may never have another estate to handle. They haven't therefore the same incentive to prompt action that a Trust Company has.

A Brooklyn patrolman was beaten by a gang of rowdies and probably fatally injured.

President Taft found it difficult to worship in Washington, most of the churches being closed.

The Rev. James Guiness Rogers, the noted Congregationalist, died in London, aged eighty-nine.

Two dogs, supposedly mad, caused much excitement in Harlem, and bit two policemen before they were killed.

Miss Alsie Aykroyd, seventeen years of age, swam from Charlestown to Boston Light; three men who started with her gave up.

An unsuccessful attempt was made by a Lisbon mob to rescue four hundred men imprisoned on political charges.

The New York Fire Department will order the owners of more than two hundred loft buildings to install automatic fire sprinklers.

Teachers taking special summer courses at Columbia College complained that they were fined 10 cents if one minute late at meals.

Two hundred deaf mutes and their families attended special services in the chapel at St. Xavier's, New York, and later took dinner at St. Joseph's.

A large balloon which floated over from New Jersey attracted large crowds in 42d street and Broadway, New York, and fell in a yard near Seventh avenue.

Pierre Prier, the aviator, and his pupil, M. Hanot, died from shots fired by the latter on Friday at Hendon; Hanot, it was believed, became suddenly insane from the heat.

A dispatch from Coatesville, Penn., stated that probably a dozen additional arrests would be made today in connection with the burning of a negro on Sunday night of last week.

Harry N. Atwood, the aviator, reached Lyons, N. Y., flying the 104 miles from Buffalo in two hours and eleven minutes, leaving him only 335 miles to go to complete his 1,265-mile trip from St. Louis to New York.

In an interview at Kitchikan, Alaska, Representative Sulzer, of New York, stated that a revolt of the settlers seemed certain, and that the government would have to send troops into the territory to maintain order.

Plans were perfected for the President's trip in the fall to the Pacific coast; it was stated the trip would last forty days, and most of the progressive states where there is opposition to his renomination would be visited.

Work was partly resumed on the British railways; mass meetings were held, at which the men claimed the victory in last week's struggle against the road managers; the situation was still slightly strained in Liverpool and Manchester.

Lincoln Beachey, in an attempt for the world's altitude aviation record, ascended to 11,152 feet at the Chicago meet, according to an unofficial reading of the barograph; C. P. Rogers won the grand duration prize, the financial plum of the meet.

The New York State Department of Health reported at Albany that there were many flagrant violations of the Brennan cold storage law, and District Attorneys in many counties had been directed to begin prosecutions immediately against the offenders.

Loud Sounds of Woe.

Robert W. Chambers, the novelist, was discussing at the Century Association, in New York, a new volume of poetry.

"It is ambitious," he said, "but the tragedy seems to me to be mechanical. In fact, the grief in these verses reminds one of the grief of a Tennessee mountain woman.

"She was eating pigs' feet one day at the door of her cabin, when a neighbor came to tell her bad news. Her husband had got in a fight at the Three Corners Tavern, a ball had lodged in his lung and he had died instantly.

"The woman, a pig's foot held midway to her mouth, listened to his harrowing tale in profound silence. Then, falling to her pig's foot vigorously again, she said:

"'Wait till I finish this pig's trotter, an' ye'll hear some hollerin' as is hollerin'!'"—New York Tribune.

For Her Next.

"For whom is she wearing black—her late husband?"

"No, for her next. She knows she looks well in it."—Judge.

GOVERNOR WILSON TO TALK AT SEABRIGHT BANQUET

Seabright, Aug. 21.—Plans for the initial banquet of the Seabright Board of Trade have been completed by Judge John R. Davies, chairman of the banquet committee. The banquet will be celebrated in Sandlass' Bamboo Garden at the Highlands section of the borough on Wednesday evening, September 6. Postmaster P. Hall Packer, president of the Board of Trade, will be toastmaster. Governor Woodrow Wilson will be the chief speaker. His toast will be the "State of New Jersey."

Other toasts will be as follows: "Our Borough," Attorney General Edmund Wilson; "The State Boulevard and Inland Waterways," ex-Governor John Franklin Fort; "Monmouth County," Judge John E. Foster; "The Ocean Highway," George McLaurie. Covers will be laid for 150. All the county officers will be present.

Snores In Theatre Costly.

Dover, Aug. 21.—Charged with having assaulted John T. Howell in a local theatre, Harry Eland, of Lake Hopatcong, was cimmitted to the county jail at Morristown in default of $200 bail for the action of the grand jury. Eland had gone to see the show, but fell asleep and began to snore. Mr. Howell, who is one of the proprietors of the theatre, awakened him, whereupon Eland is alleged to have struck the theatre man. Patrolman Baxtrom arrested Eland.

Clifford L. Applegate, of West Fifth street, is spending his two weeks' vacation at Asbury Park.

WILL ORGANZIE FOR LIABILITY INSURANCE

Members of the Chamber of Commerce who are engaged as manufacturers, merchants or contractors and in fact all those who employ labor, whether they are members of that body or not, will be particularly interested in a meeting at the Chamber's room tonight when the Employers' Liability law, enacted by the recent Legislature, will be discussed. An effort will be made at this session to form an organization for the purpose of those interested carrying their own insurance. It is considered that it would be more economical and more satisfactory to pool together to bear any losses they may sustain than to pay the high rates demanded by companies in various parts of the country.

The movement is not started by the Chamber but most of those interested are affiliated with it. The committee in charge of the scheme consists of Alexander Milne, Lemuel B. Woolston and C. W. Krausse. All employers of labor are invited to be present.

REV. CHARLES E. DUNN AT THE FRESH AIR HOME.

One of the best meetings of the year was held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon, when Rev. Charles E. Dunn, pastor of the Tioga Presbyterian church, of Philadelphia, spoke to the mothers and children. James F. Parker, of this city, was in charge of the service yesterday afternoon and E. D. Young, tenor soloist of the Trinity Reformed church choir, sang several solos. Mr. Dunn's talk was entitled, "A Noble Chance" and he showed the boys and girls how most great men had risen from lowly homes such as theirs on the East Side of New York city.

Mrs. Coriell's Funeral.

Funeral service for Mrs. Ruth Corriell was held yesterday afternoon at her late residence in Dunellen. Rev. Ernest R. Brown, officiated and burial was made in Hillside cemetery this city. The home was thronged with relatives and friends of the deceased and the casket was surrounded by floral tributes from neighbors and friends to whom Mrs. Corriell has endeared herself by many acts of kindness.

Received Patents.

Among the Jerseymen being granted patents in the batch announced August 15 are three Plainfielders. They are G. A. Lutz on a primary electric battery; D. J. Galbraith for a flashing device, and R. S. Foote for a starting or cranking mechanism for explosive engines.

—It is canning time for pears and plums and Neuman Bros. have the stock.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Thomas M. Jones, of the borough, played the organ in the First Baptist church yesterday morning.

Rev. Edwin B. Shaw occupied the pulpit of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church last night and preached a strong sermon on the subject, "Marching Orders."

Rev. Edward B. Maynard preached at the Mt. Zion M. E. church last night in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Littleton Sturgess. Mr. Maynard took for his subject, "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled."

Mrs. Eick's Funeral.

Funeral service for Mrs. Lizzie W. Eick was held yesterday afternoon at her late residence in Dunellen. Rev. Dr. William Knox conducted the service and interment was made in the Clifton, N. J. cemetery. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service and a number of handsome floral tributes attested the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Charged With Larceny; Arrested.

On a complaint sworn to by Mrs. Bertha Weinberger, proprietor of the New York Clothing Company, William G. Tunison, of Craig place, who formerly worked at the establishment, was arrested Saturday afternoon and was released in $200 for a hearing tomorrow morning. The complaint charges the larceny of a suit of clothes several weeks ago.

Mrs. Bradley's Funeral.

Funeral service for Mrs. Flora Louise Bradley was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Barrett, of Fanwood. Edward Gabier, of Westfield, a student at the General Theological Seminary, New York, conducted the service and burial was made in Fairview cemetery, Westfield.

Flat Car Afire.

The firemen at No. 4 house in the Netherwood section were called by a still alarm Saturday night to put out a fire on a flat car of a passing freight train. The blaze was caused by a hot box and the train crew had the flames snuffed out by the time the apparatus arrived. The train was then able to proceed.

Funeral of Mr. Fitz-Randolph.

Funeral services of Edward Fitz-Randolph, who died Friday morning in Muhlenberg Hospital, were held this morning at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Charles H. Buckelew, of East Fifth street, at 10 o'clock. Rev. David Jordan, of the New Market Baptist church, officiated and interment was made in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

Responsive Auditors.

His Wife (who was unable to attend)—"Did the congregation agree to your utterances on the criminal rich?" New Clergyman (proudly)—"I am sure they did. They were all nodding."—Judge.

Dinner and Dance.

Just when the season is at its height new ideas for dinner and dance costumes are more than usually interesting, since the demand for them is almost incessant.

A typical model, which follows closely the mode of the moment, is of pale turquoise satin of the very softest weave, showing one of the newest tunics, designed in the form of a coat with long tails in the back.

On the underskirt, near the hem, is a broad band of handsome embroiderery, worked in pink and silver.

The skirt is further decorated with pink and silver fringe, arranged to give a tablier effect, and a ladder of small, flat pink bows made of pink satin ribbon.

The fringe is repeated on the bodice and serves as a trimming for the short sleeves, which are also adorned with pink bows.

A broad Stuart collar of pink and silver embroidery, worked on silver lace, outlines the decolletage.

The net is shirred on the bodice about the round-cut decolletee, and again into the normal waist line, from where it falls in soft folds to a point between the ankle and knees finishing with an embroidered wreath of flowers.

Such a wreath encircles the sleeves of net and likewise is laid on over the net shirring on the bodice.

Peach-pink satin is folded to form an extremely narrow girdle, just a new outline, and finishes at the side of the back in a soft knot with deep-fringed ends.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate have been recorded in the office of County Registrar Frank H. Smith: Hugh H. Kendall, et al., to Sophie L. Maltby, northerly side Putnam avenue, corner Kensington avenue, $1; Severine A. Dahl, et al., to Hugh H. Kendall, southwesterly side Woodland avenue, 220 feet of W. Callahan, $1; Hugh H. Kendall, et. ta., to Severine A. Dahl, westerly side of Webster avenue, 302 feet southerly of Berckman street, $1.

Former Pastor Here.

Rev. George B. Shaw, formerly pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church here and now pastor of the denomination's church at North Loop, Neb., is visiting his brother, Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the local church. They leave together tomorrow for the Seventh-Day Baptist Conference at Westerly, R. I.

To Sing at First Baptist S. S.

The children's choir of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home will sing at the First Baptist Sunday-school next Sunday morning. On Wednesday night the young people of the Westminster Presbyterian church, of Elizabeth, will entertain the mothers and children at the home with show pictures and tableaux.

DUNELLEN WINS FROM RAMBLERS BY 1 RUN

In a zig-zag game, in which the lead was taken by both sides several times, Dunellen finally won out in the ninth inning and defeated the Ramblers, of Bound Brook, at Dunellen Saturday afternoon by the score of 5 to 4. Both teams played loose games in the field and eleven errors were made during the nine innings.

Dunellen won out in the ninth on some clever work by Herbert Stein, the former catcher of the North Plainfield High School team, who is now doing the receiving for the Dunellenites. He opened the final go with a single and stole both second and third sacks with apparent ease. He crossed the pan with the winning run when Bowlby dropped Biernbrauer's long fly near the left field foul line.

The other Dunellen tallies were also made on errors except two in the fifth inning which were the result of a cluster of hits. Both Percy Harney and Edward Bowlby pitched good ball, each allowing five hits, although Harney had the better on the strike-outs with twelve to his credit. Stein caught a fast game and was strong with the bat, clouting a two-bagger and a single and then stole five bases. Norman Harney appeared on third for the Ramblers and played a steady game while Hawk, another Bound Brook veteran, held down second.

SAYS MONEY RAISED TO BEAT COMMISSION RULE.

Paterson, Aug. 21.—For the purpose of arranging details for the special election a week from Tuesday, under the provisions of the Walsh act, persons interested in commissions government met Friday night in Oakley's hall, Market street. One of the speakers was Rev. J. B. Galloway, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, who urged the people to get out and work for the change in local government. Assemblyman Thomas Layden, Alexander Bell and Harry B. Haines also spoke.

It was openly stated at the meeting that a big corruption fund was being raised by persons interested in retaining the present form of government.

"This money is to be used in buying votes," Henry Marelli declared. "It will be a fight of the people against money and corruption."

FAMILY OF EIGHT IS HAPPY ON $9 A WEEK.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 21.—While paying a fine of $10 in the City Court here for keeping an unmuzzled dog, Paul Gerth vouchsafed the information that his weekly wage was $9, which provided for a family of eight.

"Is that enough to care for them all properly?" asked the court, and Gerth replied that he would not exchange places with Rockefeller or Carnegie.

"Not all the money in the world would make me any happier, judge," he declared. "We have everything we want and a little something over. We don't claim to have solved any problem of existence, but where there is real love a couple can get along on little."

LONG BRANCH IS SEEKING COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

Long Branch, Aug. 21.—A petition favoring a commission form of government is being circulated in the city. It will require 1,000 signatures. As soon as this number is received a Commission Government League will be formed. Harry Truax, a lawyer, is circulating the petition, and has experienced but little difficulty thus far in getting signatures without regard to party affiliation. Nearly everybody agrees that the present government is cumbersome, thirteen members, including the president of the City Council. The absence of definite authority or heads of departments is another thing in favor of commission rule, where men are paid for their services.

The street department of the city, is subject to favoritism and frequently the most used streets are sidetracked for one less used because the councilman living in some particular ward, has more pull than the other fellow. It's often the case of "how much can I get for my ward?" rather than "how can I best serve the city's interests?"

Some of the politicians have expressed themselves in favor of commission rule, but declined to sign for fear they might be thought to have their axe out for those in authority because they are not holding office. After another week the progress for commission rule will be better known as it is the intention of those back of the project to start a campaign of education.

CANOEIST IS DROWNED AT LAKE HOPATCONG.

Lake Hopatcong, N. J., Aug. 21—A young man giving the name of E. Julian, was drowned Saturday afternoon in Lake Hopatcong. He arrived here Saturday and hired a canoe from J. L. Allen, at Nolan's Point, saying he was going to camp alone on Raccoon Island for two weeks. He gave no address. Saying he had friends in River Styx, he started to cross the lake. The water was very rough and he was cautioned against attempting the trip, but he replied he had grown up inn a canoe and was well able to take care of himself.

When part way across the lake the canoe capsized and the man sank. Two launches that were in the vicinity immediately started to his aid. He came to the surface once and then disappeared before either launch could reach him. The body has not yet been recovered.

No mail, express or freight has been received at the lake for E. Julian, nor have his friends in the River Styx been located. The young man was apparently about twenty years old, had a smooth face covered with pimples, and he wore glasses. He was about five feet seven inches tall and weighed about 145 pounds. He wore light clothes and tan ties.

Elizabeth Priest to Glen Ridge.

Elizabeth, Aug. 21.—After acting as curate at St. Michael's church and chaplain at the Alexian Hospital, for the last ten years, the Rev. Andrew Schoenhart has been changed to St. Mary's church, Park Ridge. Father Schoenhart, during his term in this city, had gained a host of friends. It is generally known that his salary is distributed among the poor, while it is a known fact that several times he had given his clothing and shoes to those who were unable to buy such. The Royal Flute, Drum and Bugle Corps, of this city, which was organized by Father Schoenhart, presented him with a purse of gold amounting to $150.

Roselle Park to Have a Borough Hall

Roselle Park, Aug. 21—Plans are being formulated by the Roselle Borough Council to secure a borough hall here. Two propositions are being considered, one being to buy the old historical Livingston High school building and move it into town, another suggestion being to purchase a site and eect an entirely new building. Councilmen Johnson, Kirby and Feirer have been appointed by Mayor Horning to investigate both plans. Roselle is just completing a handsome municipal building on Chestnut street.

Trenton Storm Damage $500,000.

Trenton, Aug 21.—Fuller reports of the ravages of the storm of Friday came into the city. The damage is estimated now as in the neighborhood of $500,000, inclusive of valuable trees blown down. Over in Morrisville, Pa., just across the Delaware river, the Pennsylvania canal is blocked with trees falling into it, and every pane of glass in the houses fronting the river was blown in and the furniture behind them ruined by the water.

SALAMANDER SUPERSTITION.

How the Reptile May Have Got Its Fireproof Reputation.

There is a very ancient belief that the reptile known as the salamander is proof against fire. It is not known how this superstition had its rise, but it will probably always continue to be held by some people, although it has been conclusively shown that the fireproof qualities of the creature exist only in imagination.

"Once I was camping out," he says, "with a party of friends, hunting and fishing. We had lighted a big fire, using for fuel several old logs. While we were seated around watching the progress of some cookery in which we were engaged a young lady at my side gave a little scream and pointed into the flames. I looked, and there was a small salamander crawling right out from among the glowing embers. It walked away unhurt and made its escape.

"Now, that salamander had occupied a hole in one of the logs used for fuel. Several species of its kind live in old tree trunks. Doubtless this one found that it was getting uncomfortably hot and crawled out. Being moist and slimy, its body was protected from injury by fire long enough to enable it to escape through the embers. But the sight of the lizard deliberately making its appearance from the midst of the fire was certainly very surprising. Any ignorant person might easily have been led to imagine that the creature was fireproof. It seemed to me quite probable that the superstition took its origin from just such occurrences."—New York World.

MEN WHO MAKE SAFES.

Closely Watched After They Resign or Are Discharged.

A number of years ago two prospective safe breakers succeeded in obtaining employment in two different safe factories, worked over a period of years in the various departments, gained all the information that they desired and, subsequently working together, managed to baffle the safemakers by their skill in opening complicated safes in different parts of the country.

The police were at loss to understand how the safes had been opened, and only upon the apprehension of the two men several years later was it learned that the jobs had not been "inside" ones, as was originally suspected, but had really been the work of two men who had been initiated into the mysteries of safecraft and had put their knowledge to criminal use.

This put the safemakers on their guard, and an exceedingly complicated system was immediately put into force, whereby not only was the pedigree of every workman looked into closely, but the work among the employees was so separated that no one man or two men could gather enough information about a safe to put it to dangerous use afterward. Furthermore, when an employee is discharged or when he voluntarily leaves, his position his actions are watched, and, although safe companies refuse to discuss this particular point, it is a matter of record that any former employee of a safe company who is possessed of intimate information regarding the secrets of that company's safes is kept under constant surveillance.—Harper's Weekly.

Our Modern Factory Spoon.

For our modern factory made spoon the stock is first rolled and cross rolled to get the graded thickness that is needed. The spoon outline is then obtained by means of cutting out dies. The blanks thus formed are struck up by another set of dies, which ornament the front and back and even bend the spoon into its proper shape, at the same time stamping the required "sterling" and the maker's mark. If a spoon is made by this latest of processes the sterling mark can be found raised on the surface instead of incised, as was the case when the marking was done separately.—Handicraft.

The burden of Prussia's military state, not spared even to the babes in their cradles, has proved too much for some of the younger members of the royal families. In "The House of Hohenzollern" Mr. Brayley Hodgetts mentions that the two sons whom the first crown princess of Prussia bore her husband (at the beginning of the eighteenth century) both died in their cradles, one from a nervous shock caused by the salute from heavy guns with which his arrival was heralded and the other from the burden of a golden crown which was placed on his head after baptism.

Coin Profiles.

Where a face is used on a piece of money it is always in profile, because the cameo is more readily struck with the die in that manner and if a full or three-quarter face were represented the nose of the gentleman or lady would get damaged in circulation and produce a ridiculous effect.

Stayed That Way.

"Hello, Stubbs! Haven't seen you for months. The last time we met, I remember, you were trying to break into literature. Did you succeed?"

"Yes, and I've been broke ever since."—Boston Transcript.

THE ADMIRAL FLED

SCARED BY THE FIRST SHOT

The Thundering Boom of the Oregon's Big Gun In Opening the Attack on Cervera's Fleet Proved Too Much For the Nerves of the Old Veteran.

"It's a remarkable thing," said the captain, "that almost always in any great event of exciting experience, even one in which human lives are involved, there is likely to be some little minor feature with a humorous side to it that will call forth a smile, if not a sudden burst of laughter. It seems as if in such trying moments one's feelings seek a quick vent and seize upon any little incident as a safety valve."

This particular piece of philosophy was expressed by the grim old captain of our steamer as we were lazily churning along the lower coast of Florida.

"I never get down on these southern seas," continued the captain, "without thinking of that 3d of July, 1898, when our fellows pushed the Spanish fleet up on the shore after their attempt to steal out of Santiago harbor.

"I was first officer of the Dasher, one of the auxiliary steamers that the government had chartered and rushed into service. We had been engaged in carrying provisions from Tampa down to the ships of the fleet, and it was ticklish business, too, because no one really knew up to the last few days just where the Spanish fleet actually was, and we expected to be overhauled and captured almost any time.

"This particular trip had been an eventful one, and after rounding Cape Maisi, on the eastern end of Cuba, we soon sighted our splendid fleet of fighters ranged in that fatal semicircle round the entrance of Santiago like a pack of hounds watching for a fox to come out of his hole. It was a great sight, I tell you! The smoke was lazily curling up out of each stack, showing that steam was up and everything ready for the spring from the leash the moment the fox showed his head.

"We had our orders and in a short time were close alongside the big old Oregon, which, you remember, had just made that wonderful trip round the Horn to take part in the fracas. I don't believe there ever was a hotter day even in the tropics than this Sunday, the 3d of July. Things were simply sizzling everywhere, and the ocean itself seemed to be steaming.

"After we had warped alongside and the crew had begun carrying aboard the consignment of bread, potatoes, onions and other stuff I stepped into the captain's room to see if I could get any comfort out of the electric fan which was working overtime. I had just spoken to old Admiral, the captain's pet tomcat—and a huge fellow he was—who was lying on the floor stretched out as wide as possible, fairly gasping for air, when, holy mackerel, there were a concussion and a deafening roar which sent me sprawling and nearly knocked my head off. All I remember seeing that instant was a big cat going almost to the ceiling, with a tail as big around as a grapefruit and every leg, claw and hair standing straight out. The Oregon had let go one of its big forward turret guns right alongside of us, for the Spanish fox had started out of its hole.

"In just one instant everything on earth in the way of activity seemed to be doing. I rushed to the door, and the thing that caught my eye was that old tomcat going aft on the upper deck like a streak of greased lightning, with every sail set to catch the wind and fairly clawing at the deck in his effort to make time.

"In almost less time than it has taken to tell you that one shot had grown into a deafening roar from almost every gun in the fleet that could bear on the fox. Our lashings had been cut loose, and away went the fleet in that dramatic rush to victory for us and death to the Spaniards.

"As my captain and I stood on the bridge and watched the sight he turned to me and said: 'Knight, I'm an old man and haven't but a few years more to live at best. I'll give the rest of my years to see this fight to the finish, and, by the gods, I'm going to follow 'em!' And he gave the signal for full speed ahead.

"Say, but that was a sight! No man who saw it will ever forget it. The race was all in front of us, the Spaniards running for cover and putting up the best fight they could in their half baked condition and our fellows plugging them fast and furiously.

"We followed until the fight was all over and then came about to return to Santiago. The captain gave orders to serve supper in the officers' mess, for neither of us in the excitement of the day had thought a thing about eating. As we sat down to our meal he turned to me and said: 'Knight, have you seen my old tomcat Admiral? I've hunted for him all over the ship.'

"'Well,' I replied, pulling out my watch and looking at it, 'if he has kept up the pace he was making when I saw him last going aft on the upper deck he's due in about six minutes now on his third lap around the world.'

"We never did see old Admiral again, and the captain mourned him till his dying day."—Frank Presbrey in Chicago Record Herald.

Found a Way to Help.

A worthy old Quaker who lived in a country town in England was rich and benevolent, and his means were put in frequent requisition for purposes of local charity or usefulness. The townspeople wanted to rebuild their parish church, and a committee was appointed to raise funds. It was agreed that the Quaker could not be asked to subscribe toward an object so contrary to his principles; but then, on the other hand, so true a friend to the town might take it amiss if he was not at least consulted on a matter of such general interest. So one of their number went and explained to him their project; the old church was to be removed and such and such steps taken toward the construction of a new one.

"Thee wast right," the Quaker said, "in supposing that my principles would not allow me to assist in building a church. But didst thee not say something about pulling down a church? Thee may'st put my name down for a hundred pounds."—Merivale's "Historical Studies."

Gautier's Superstition.

Theophile Gautier, the critic, novelist and poet, like many another great man, was superstitious and believed in the evil eye. Offenbach was his aversion, and in this respect a Paris contemporary tells us that one day the son and father were walking together. The son, for wickedness' sake, started a conversation about Offenbach, and his father gave him to understand that the subject was disagreeable. Nothing daunted, the lad led Gautier to a shop window where was exposed a photograph of the composer.

As they resumed their walk the son observed, "Well, you see, father, after all, nothing has happened through looking at the photograph." At that moment they were turning the corner, and the son preceded his father. In full view of the passersby Gautier administered to his tormentor a paternal kick, observing, half in anger and half in humor, "Well, something has happened."

Tight Collars.

Writing in the Hospital, London, Dr. Walford warns everybody against tight collars. He considers it remarkable that no one seems to have noticed or, at any rate, to have laid great stress on the fact that such slight obstacles to the free circulation of the blood through the vessels of the brain may adversely influence the health of those who are in the habit of wearing tightly fitting neckcloths. "The fact appears to be well known to veterinary surgeons, who tell us that neck constriction through badly fitting harness is a causative factor in 'staggers' in horses," says the writer. It seems to be equally well known that dogs suffer a great deal through having to wear tightly fitting collars. Is it too much, then, Dr. Walford asks, to argue that those of us who wear our own collars too tightly buttoned may find in that practice some explanation of symptoms ascribed to other causes?

Tiny Republics.

Klein-Alp is a diminutive republic tucked away between Switzerland and France. Only in summer is the republic inhabited and then by miners and cowgirls. There is one hotel, closed during the winter. Another little republic is in Tyrol, between Austria and Italy, and in long gone years was under the jurisdiction of first a king and then an emperor. But in the adjustment of frontier lines the state of Val di Ventino was in some way overlooked, and it promptly organized itself into a lilliputian republic. It has now about 2,000 inhabitants living in six villages. Neither Val di Ventino nor Klein-Alp has any taxes. There are no officials or compulsory military services. The only industry of Val di Ventino, aside from the farming of small fields, is charcoal burning.

His Tribute of Respect.

The freckle faced boy who was about to be emancipated from high school thraldom was writing his graduating essay.

"I suppose I ought to wind it up," he reflected, "with something touching and sentimental about the leather headed, snub nosed, squeaky voiced, conceited old snoozer that runs the shebang."

Thereupon he wrote, "And now, our dear and honored principal, we turn to you," etc.—Chicago Tribune.

The Translation.

Toole, the great English comedian, was once greatly tickled at finding in a French provincial town a poster announcing a translation of "Walker, London," the farce which he himself had made famous. The adapter had translated the title as "Londres qui se promene," or "London which goes out for walks."

Fact or Fiction?

"The trouble with these literary clubs," said a captious critic, "is that they always degenerate into meetings for the exchange of gossip."

"True enough," replied an enthusiastic member, "but how can you expect anything else when facts are so much stranger than fiction?"

A Gentle Reminder.

John—I understand Dashleigh's uncle has died, leaving him a fortune.

Tom—Yes; he has received a great many congratulations. Why, even his tailor sent him a bunch of forgetme nots yesterday.—London Mail.

The Only Way Out.

Peter (sent for the milk)—Oh, mother, I've drunk too much of it! What shall we do? Small Brother—Easy. We'll drop the jug.—Meggendorfer Blatter.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

China as a Bluffer.

Professor Ian C. Hannah in his book, "Eastern Asia—A History," says that taxicabs, or, rather, automatic registers attached to horse cabs, were invented about 630 A. D., during the Tang dynastry in China. In his opinion the Chinese empire is "the greatest bluff in the world," and it suggests to him a very ancient Chinese fable, which he relates.

A monkey was captured by a tiger. He whined that he was thin and his flesh of poor taste, but he knew of a fine fat donkey for the tiger. The tiger consented to be led to where the donkey was tied. When the donkey saw them coming he was frightened, but recovered his composure and bawled in his masterful donkey voice:

"Monkey, you used to bring me two tigers. Why only one today?"

The tiger did a record hustle back to the jungle.

China, says Professor Hannah, has shown much of that donkey's resourcefulness in its history.

Two Women.

In her book "Woman and Labor" Olive Schreiner gives an amusing illustration of the fact that it is not the amount of money a person has which makes him or her a parasite on society, but the way it is used.

"The wife of an American millionaire," says Mrs. Schreiner, "was visited by a woman, the daughter and widow of a small professional man. She stated that she was in need of both food and clothing. The millionaire's wife gave her a leg of mutton and two valuable dresses. The woman proceeded to whine, though in vigorous health, that she had no one to carry them home for her. The American, the descendant of generations of able, laboring, New England Puritan women, tucked the leg of mutton under one arm and the bundle of clothes under the other and walked off down the city street toward the woman's dwelling, followed by the astonished pauper parasite."

The Size of Some Stars.

M. Nordmann of the Paris observatory believes that he has devised a successful method of determining the diameters of stars by a comparison of their effective temperatures with their parallaxes. In the case of some of the brightest stars he has reached interesting results. Thus he finds that Aldebaran, the bright star in Taurus, is veritably a giant sun, the ratio of its diameter to that of our sun being greater than that of the sun to the planet Jupiter. This means that Aldebaran has a diameter probably not less than 8,000,000 miles, or more than thirty times the distance from the earth to the moon. On the other hand, Sirius, or the dog star, to our eyes the brightest of all the stars, is, according to M. Nordmann, but little larger than our sun.

Juggernaut.

Juggernaut—or "lord of the world"—was supposed to be one of the incarnations of Krishna. The idol is formed of an irregular pyramidal black stone, with two large diamonds to represent eyes. The nose and mouth are painted vermilion. An immense number of pilgrims visit the idol annually, reaching up into the millions. Juggernaut worship used to be a terrible thing, but it is not what it once was. The state allowance to the temple was suspended by the Indian government in 1851, and the festivals are growing less and less popular year by year. The growing intelligence of the people and the restraining influence of the government are doing their work, and Juggernaut is steadily losing ground.—New York American.

Tea Tremens.

"I used to be a tea taster in Hankow," said a New York tea dealer, "but I got a bad attack of tea tremens and had to give up the job. Tea tremens is a recognized disease among Chinese tea tasters. These men don't swallow a drop of tea from one week's end to another. They simply hold the tea in the mouth, get an idea of its aroma and then eject it, but nevertheless the aroma of the tea causes violent nervous attacks, with sleeplessness and even hallucinations that are known all over China as tea tremens. I have never had delirium tremens, but if it's one-half as bad as the tea sort I pity the poor victim."

When a Soft Drink Is Hard.

"You are arrested on a very serious charge, my good man," began the court, looking at the man severely. "You are accused of getting into a fight and hitting the complainant over the head with a bottle. What have you to say for yourself?"

"Your honor, I didn't mean to hurt him. I never thought that it would hurt him very much, 'cause the bottle contained nothing but a soft drink," returned the prisoner.—Milwaukee Free Press.

The Timid One.

An officer in the army, noted for his bravery, laughed at a timid woman because she was alarmed at the noise of a cannon when a salute was fired. The brave officer subsequently married that timid woman, and six months afterward he took off his boots in the hall when he came in late at night.—London Telegraph.

SANDY'S SCRUPLES.

They Almost Kept the Tourists From Getting the Boat.

A couple of tourists staying at a village which is in close proximity to a well known Scottish loch had a fancy one fine Sunday to go for a row on the loch. They accordingly sallied forth in search of the boatman, whom they met just leaving his house, dressed in his Sunday best and carrying a Bible under his arm.

"We want to go for a row," said one of the tourists.

"Dae ye no' ken it's the Sawbath?" answered Sandy. "Ye'll no' get a boat fra me the day, forby I'll hae ye tae ken that I am an elder o' the kirk."

"Yes, yes," expostulated the tourists, "that's all very well for you, but we don't require you with us. You can go to church; we can row ourselves."

"Aye, aye," said the elder, "but jist think whit the meenister 'll say."

"Never mind the minister," was the reply; "he will know nothing about it. We will pay you well."

"Ah, weel," said Sandy, "I'll no' let ye the boat, bit I'll tell ye whit I'll dae. Dae ye see yon wee boatie doon among the rushes? Weel, she's ready wi' the oars inside. Jist ye gang doon there an' row oot tae the middle o' the loch, an' I'll come doon tae the bank an' swear at ye. Bit never ye mind; ye jist row on an' I'll call for the money on Monday."—London Ideas.

CROWNED HIMSELF.

An Impromptu Ceremony In Which King George IV. Figured.

That was a curious sort of impromptu coronation in which his majesty King William IV. of England figured. Things did not go very well with Earl Grey's government after the second reading of the first reformed bill had been carried by a majority of one in 1831, and one Friday in April they suddenly got the king to go down and prorogue parliament in person. Somebody went off to the Tower to fetch the crown, and with a scratch body of attendants his majesty drove down to the house of lords. What happened there is described in Greville's memoirs.

The king ought not properly to have worn the crown, never having been crowned, but when he was in the robing room he said to Lord Hastings: "Lord Hastings, I wear the crown. Where is it?" It was brought to him, and when Lord Hastings was going to put it on his head he said, "Nobody shall put the crown on my head but myself." He put it on and then turned to Lord Grey and said, "Now, my lord, the coronation is over."

The crown did not fit very well, we are told, but the prorogation was successfully effected.—London Chronicle.

Serving Soup.

If anybody were asked to suggest why the soup plate was made broad and shallow the almost certain answer would be that such an arrangement facilitates the cooling of the soup to a temperature comfortable to the mouth. We believe that utilitarians drink tea out of a saucer for the same reason. While that may be the explanation of the peculiar shape of the soup plate, the advantage indicated is surely insignificant compared with the obvious disadvantages which may probably arise from exposing so large a surface of nutrient fluid to the air. Soup should be served in a cup, a low broad teacup, and the method, which is becoming more usual, is hygienic. Too deep a vessel would be an error on the other side. Its advantages would be canceled by its great drawback. We should miss some of the delicate flavors of the soup.—London Lancet.

Stage Scenery.

Walter Prichard Eaton, the dramatic critic, believes modern dramas are too elaborately staged. In "The Question of Scenery" in the American Magazine he says:

"After all, it was not the Elizabethans who were stupid because they could enjoy the drama on a bare stage. It is we who are stupid because we cannot enjoy the drama unless the stage is littered with 'realistic' scenery. We have no faith in our own imaginative powers. It would be a good thing for the drama if all scenery were abolished for the next ten years. Having learned to get along without it, we would perhaps keep it in its proper place for awhile after it returned. Its proper place is as a pictorial and suggestive background to the actors and the play and nothing but a background."

Ruined by Jesting.

The Antiochenes themselves brought about the ruin of the beautiful city of Antioch, the ancient capital of the Greek kings of Syria. These people were famous for their biting and scurrilous wit as well as their ingenuity in devising nicknames. When the Persians under Chosroes invaded Syria in 538 the Antiochenes could not refrain from jesting at them. Ample revenge for this was taken by the Persians, who totally destroyed the city.

Would Do His Own Biting.

The British gentleman new to our shores stepped up to the cigar counter and requested of the "clark" a cigar.

"What will you have, a bit cigar?" asked the "clark."

"No; I'd rawther bite it myself," replied the Briton.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Men Are Beacons.

Every man is the center of perpetual radiation like a luminous body. He is as it were, a beacon which entices a ship upon the rocks if it does not guide it into port.—Amiel.

MY AEROPLANE ADVENTURES

By J. ARMSTRONG DREXEL

III.—The Physical Strain of Flight

[Copyright, 1911, by Henry M. Neely. Copyright in Great Britain and Canada. All rights reserved.]

MAN has invented nothing that looks so graceful and so easy as an aeroplane in flight. Skimming overhead, with broad, outstretched wings and with no effort apparent in any part, so far as the beholders can see, the aviator sitting calmly in his seat seemingly doing nothing but enjoying himself, this modern air craft looks to be the very acme of comfort, of ease, of exhilaration.

Yet a few hours in the air in an aeroplane is the hardest day's work that any man can do.

What is there hard about it? What is there for an aviator to do or to endure that should make it comparable to labor? The man who races an automobile knows something of this strain. But he has only one method of steering to engage his attention. He sends his machine to right or left and that is all there is to it. The aviator must constantly be in control of three sets of apparatus, and a momentary neglect of any one of the three means wreck. He must steer up and down, to right or left, and must keep his horizontal balance in the air.

Three Kinds of Strain In Flying.

Roughly, the strain of flying can be divided into three kinds—the physical, the mental and the nervous. With the man who attempts to break any of the records established today these three become in a great measure interdependent and inseparable. I mean by that that when a man's brain becomes tired his body becomes tired with it, and that when his nerves are shattered his body and brain give way too.

During the trials in the Gordon Bennett cup race at the Belmont park meet, near New York, last October, I had had built for my Bleriot a special set of racing wings. They were the smallest surfaces it was possible to fly with even at the maximum speed, and were made with as little span from tip to tip as was absolutely necessary, so that there should be the smallest conceivable head resistance when the machine was in motion.

On the day when the Gordon Bennett trials took place I had had these little wings put on. I had never flown with them, but I knew that it would be useless with the regulation sized wings to try to compete against the two 100 horsepower engines that were entered because mine was only a fifty horsepower. So I had to trust to luck that everything would go right.

The Greatest Danger In Flying.

In flying an aeroplane the greatest danger comes from the constant tendency of the machine to tip over to one side or the other. A gust of wind, a movement of the aviator's body—anything and everything tends to throw it off its balance, and the minute it begins to tip downward on one side it must be righted.

There are two ways of doing this. A mechanism is provided by which the rear edges of the ends of the planes can be pulled down a few inches, thus offering on that side where this depressing or "warping" is done a greater impact against the air and consequently developing a greater lifting power. When the right wing is "warped" or pulled down at its rear edge it makes the machine rise on that side, and the mechanism at the same time pulls up the rear edge of the left plane, thus lessening the impact on that side and causing it to fall. It is in this way that the aviator controls his balance, warping his wings as he dips one way or the other and keeping himself on an even keel. After he has become thoroughly experienced he learns to balance without warping under ordinary conditions, for it has been found that steering the machine toward the high side brings it again to the horizontal. Then he uses the warping devices only in emergencies.

On this day at Belmont park the wind was nasty and gusty, and I was in trouble at the very start. The extremely small breadth of the planes, I found, gave me practically no horizontal support, and, though I kept steering first to one side and then to the other as the machine careened over dangerously, I found that this simple method of righting my balance would not suffice. I had to keep warping my wings to their utmost limit, and not for one moment did this necessity cease.

In the seven laps of the course that I made I cannot tell how many times I felt that I was turning over in the air. Almost momentarily I felt as though I must go crashing to the ground below, for try as I did I could not get an even balance on the little planes for any length of time.

It was a totally new experience for me, and I regretted more than once that I had not got these new planes in time to test them out and become accustomed to their vagaries.

J. ARMSTRONG DREXEL AND HIS BLERIOT MONOPLANE.

Demoralized by the Strain.

The mental and nervous strain of this flight was totally demoralizing. There was not a moment of certainty in it, except the certainty of demolition if I relaxed my vigilance for an instant, and with this thought uppermost it was only natural that there should be a reflex action that had its physical effect, and I found myself grasping my steering post with such a tension that it became painful to the finger tips.

It was like learning to fly all over again, and I was the sole representative of my native country in the greatest competition in the history of aviation. My position might have struck me as pathetic had it not been so dangerous.

For three circuits of the course I fought that stubborn aeroplane, determined to conquer it and to make as good a showing in the result as possible. Then I felt the strain begin to tell on my nerves. I found myself warping when there was no need for it. My arms jumped the steering post about in a way that threatened destruction, and I fancied the Bleriot was bucking when she was on an even keel.

Again I went around the course, hurtling through the air at a speed that would have left nothing but splinters if I had struck the ground, and again the strain of those unfamiliar and cantankerous little wings increased its evil effects upon mind, body and nerves. Soon I found my brain absolutely refusing to work, my nerves jumping like mad and my arms, shoulders, legs and back aching as though I had been beaten with a club.

Finally I came down thoroughly tired out in every faculty and almost unable to walk, though I did manage to brace myself up to pass the scrutiny of the onlookers about the hangars.

In this case the entire breakdown was the result of nervous strain. Yet flying can impose great physical strain without reference to nerves or mind. Those who go in for endurance records are subject to this, and those of us who have made climbing for height a specialty know the terrors of physical fatigue which is purely muscular, but which has the mental and nervous element added to it.

Strain of Endurance Flights.

I have seen men crawl down from their aeroplanes after a long flight and have seen their friends rush up to them to shake hands in congratulation for a noteworthy feat. And I have seen the hand dropped at once, for it could not respond to the grasp that was given it. There was no life in it. It hung limp, inert, powerless and feelingless from the fatigue of gripping a lever with little or no change of position for so long a time.

Yet endurance flights such as those made for the Michelin trophy and prize are flown over good courses, clearly marked by pylons or posts, and almost invariably over good grounds that provide safe landing places at any time. In this way there is as little as possible of nervous and mental strain. Otherwise such flights as that of Henri Farman, who stayed up over eight hours, would be impossible.

When these long flights are made across country the nerve and mind enter into the equation against the man. He faces uneven and probably broken land unfitted for a quick decent if anything goes wrong, and he frequently flies across country that is unfamiliar to him, and that keeps him in a mental uncertainty that adds a great deal to the physical fatigue he has to suffer.

The Greatest Strain of All.

Those of us who are foolish enough to climb for height have all of these torments infinitely multiplied, and, added to them, we face conditions that are not met with in the ordinary work closer to the ground.

To most people the strain of altitude climbing appears to be only a matter of enduring the rarefied air met with a couple of miles above the earth, but the big torture comes with the sudden descent—with the rapid change of pressures as we drop a thousand feet a minute or more—and this is indeed a torture long to be remembered.

In the early days of my altitude climbing, when I set the world's record at Lanark, Scotland, I kept fighting for each extra inch as long as there was any strength or endurance left in me. I struggled at the top until it was useless to struggle any longer, and then, with all my strength gone, there was nothing for it but to fall back to earth with my aeroplane pointed as sharply toward the earth as safety would allow.

When the Head Feels Like Bursting.

I came down like a thunderbolt. As the descent began the pressure began to change rapidly with my entering into heavier and heavier strata of air, and I began to feel pains in my head and ears. These pains got worse with every second of the descent, and when I was within hailing distance of the earth I felt as though something inside my head would surely burst with the awful tightening about my ears and temples. I can appreciate now the tortures suffered by medieval martyrs who had bands of iron gradually tightened about their heads. The recollection of that descent at Lanark makes me sympathize with them profoundly.

At Philadelphia last November I rose more than 3,000 feet higher than at Lanark and I fell faster on my descent to earth, but while my sufferings were intense they were not so great as in Scotland, for I had been told of a method of counteracting the increasing pressure and used it with great success. I had shortly before this been talking to Clifford B. Harmon about some of his ballooning experiences and had asked him if he had ever suffered during rapid descents as I did at Lanark.

"I did quite frequently in my early days," said Harmon, "but Captain Baldwin told me a way to avoid it."

"What is that?" I asked.

"Swallow—swallow constantly," said Harmon.

So on this plunge from the clouds above Philadelphia, when my nerves were racked to pieces and my physical faculties were utterly worn out, I suddenly thought of this scheme when the pressure became painful on my ears, and the relief was immense.

Effect of an Hour In the Air.

An altitude flight of this kind does not last long according to the time of the watch. It seems ages, but my barograph record for my highest climb, 9,897 feet, showed that it took me just about fifty minutes to reach the maximum altitude. It could not have taken more than four or five minutes to descend, but my plunge was so rapid that the ink could not flow fast enough from the stylo of the instrument to record, so I cannot tell exactly.

Assuming that the total flight from the time of starting to the time of landing occupied one hour, the physical strain of such work can be imagined when I say that I started in fine condition, fresh and feeling strong and equal to anything, yet when I landed in that empty field at Oreland, fourteen miles away from my starting point, I was so utterly worn out and helpless that I could not climb out of my machine for several minutes.

The next time any of my readers sees an aeroplane soaring gracefully aloft let him remember these things and be satisfied to stay comfortably on the ground until flying is made a good deal easier and a vast deal safer than it is today.

Embroidered Flannels 49c

At About the Price of the Plain

This is the reason why.

The embroidery mills in their dull, hot season took all 18-yard pieces and worked them up into beautiful petticoat patterns, in silk needlework scallops, leaf, flower and French knot designs, also hemstitch effects—just to keep their hands busy and their needles from rusting, selling these exquisite Embroidered Flannels to us for little more than the value of the plain flannels.

Most of these are in neat designs for infants' petticoats More elaborate work also, all at the same price, the yard 49c

MIGHTY FINE FURNITURE SELLING AT HALF PRICE

We have decided to continue to the end of August the selling of our odd pieces and discontinued designs at half the regular marked prices. In some instances the prices are cut even more deeply to speed the parting, for we need the room badly—every inch we can get, and as quickly as we can get it.

Folks who need pieces to fill out a dining-room suite or a bedroom suite, or additional pieces for the living room or the den will find rich pickings in this mine of beautiful furniture, and to be able to buy it at half the usual price makes the prospect a most pleasing one to the economically inclined.

A $61 Mahogany Cheval Mirror for $30
A $69 Mahogany Chiffonier marked $35
A $62 Walnut Bedstead Priced $30
A $15.50 White Enameled Bed Marked $8
A $14.50 White Enameled Washstand $7.25
A $79 White Enameled Kitchen Cabinet $25
A $60 Mahogany Toilet Table for $30

FREE.—Large & Beautiful Portraits—FREE

Until now we have required the purchase of at least $5 worth of merchandise to entitle our patrons to one of the superb portraits, which we reproduce from any photograph furnished us free of charge.

This week we are going to break that rule and we will make free for any patron or friend of the store, without requiring any purchase of goods whatever, one of these magnificent, large size oval portraits, with convex front, making them very lifelike.

These portraits are so excellent, so permanent in character and so valuable that there should be a tremendous desire upon the part of every one to own one, especially when the frames we sell for them are so inexpensive. Frames are to be selected, as a matter of course, from our fine collection. They can be had nowhere else.

The Spartans were distinguished for the brevity and conciseness of their speech. On one occasion during a terrible famine the inhabitants of an island in the Aegean sea sent an ambassador to Sparta, who made a speech imploring its aid. He had hardly finished before the Spartans sent him back these words, "We did not understand the end of your speech and have forgotten the beginning."

The poor, starving people chose another spokesman and impressed upon him to make his request as brief as possible. He therefore took with him a quantity of sacks, opened one before the assembly and said simply, "It is empty; fill it."

The sack was filled as well as the others, but the chief of the assembly said as he dismissed the ambassador, loaded with meal: "It wasn't necessary to inform us that the sack was empty. We saw it ourselves. Neither was it necessary to request us to fill it. We should have done it on our own account. Be less long winded next time."

Just What He Wanted.

The superintendent of the capitol and its grounds at Washington was walking along one of the corridors in the house office building one day when a greenhorn congressman, stewing with rage, grabbed him by the sleeve.

"What's the matter?" asked the superintendent, observing the man's emotion.

"Matter!" shouted the congressman. "Why, when I went into my office last evening there was a brand new typewriter on the desk. Now it's gone. You've got a lot of thieves around here."

The official walked into the office and without a word lifted the trap cabinet of the desk and brought the typewriter into view.

"Fine!" commented the congressman. "Now, have you got a place like that in here for my use when troublesome constituents knock on the door?"—Washington Star.

Punctuation In Piano Playing.

A joke is going the rounds of the press about the girl whose music teacher wished to compliment her, but of whom he could only say that she played the rests excellently. This is, however, real praise of a sort, for it is not every young student of music who is careful about playing the rests well. Indeed, a great many players seem to forget that the rests are just as much of the piece as is the punctuation in a sentence. Nowadays people do not put in so much punctuation as they used to do, but the pauses in the voice are there just the same and are readily understood by good readers and always regarded. The rests in music are like the pauses in reading that are needed to give expression to the sentences. If the player slights the rests or extends them too long the whole effect of the musical sentence is spoiled.—Christian Science Monitor.

Feet Versus the Pen.

In speaking of personal recollections of Dion Boucicault, Henry Miller dwells upon his superb skill as a stage director and tells of the following incident, which occurred during his first rehearsal under Boucicault:

"I went to him direct from Augustin Daly's management. Daly coached his players to cross and recross the stage during the progress of the play, with the idea that this continual moving about of the actors created dramatic action. During my first rehearsal I made a 'Daly cross' as I spoke one of my lines.

"'Why did you do that?' Boucicault asked in his quaint, quizzical manner.

"I explained that I imagined it would keep the scene moving.

"'Thanks, my boy,' said Boucicault dryly, 'but if I cannot interest the audience with my pen I don't think you can with your feet.'"

Bulldogs and Bulls.

Bulldog is so called because of his native antipathy to the bull. A thoroughbred bull pup as young as six months the first time he beholds a bull will run at the head, which is his invariable point of attack, and, seizing the horned beast by the lip, tongue or eye, hang on despite every attempt to detach him. The dog will even suffer himself to be killed or dismembered rather than relax his hold.—New York Telegram.

Protest.

"I beg pardon," said the new arrival, "but it seems to me it's excessively warm here."

"Eh! What?" snorted Satan. "Evidently you forget where you are. This place is meant to be warm."

"Quite so, but there's such a thing as overdoing it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Eager For Information.

An American took a friend, an Englishman, to a theater. An actor in the farce, about to do the dying act, exclaimed, "Please, dear wife, don't bury me in Yonkers!"

The Englishman turned to his friend and said, "I say, old chap, what are yonkers?"—Everybody's.

The Usual Result.

"Yes, Charlie is as brave as a stack of lions. Did you hear about his daring a policeman to arrest him?"

"No! Gee, what happened?"

"He was arrested."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DEFEATED FOR 'PETS'

While trying to reach second on the throw home, Brit was nabbed by Hand's quick return to the keystone sack and Nelson's strike out ended the inning.

With a two run lead, the Pets took the field confident but energetic while Scotch Plains came in determined to win out. Warry MacLaughlin rolled the first ball pitched to Dave Driscoll, who was unable to cross the bag ahead of him. Brit Martin stood by and watched the play while Driscoll made a pretty slide into the sack to catch the runner but Stockdale called him sife. Hennie Albert then laced a two sacker into left, far above Eddie Stallings' head, and Warry raced across the rubber. Goodwill flied out to Brit but Frederickson walked Tommy Mullin and then hit Hand. While striking out Joe Albert, Nelson missed one of Freddie's high ins and Hennie Albert scored. The tallies were then even when Gray took his bat and walked out to meet the foe. He caught a straight ball on the nose and sent it far into left field, bringing Mullin home with the winning run.

The game was full of startling plays and several times both sides had chances to score, thus adding to the excitement. In the first inning Frentz made a thrilling catch of Discoll's foul fly back of first base, the Scotch Plainer picking the twirling pill from a horse's back. Lou Hartman put up a sensational game at short stop and reeled off a speedy double play all by his lonesome, catching a hot liner from Goodwill's bat, tagging Frentz out at second and thus getting Frederickson out of a tight hole. The sandy haired lawyer-player also was there with the stick, clouting the ball for a double and a single.

Brit Martin came back into the love of Plainfield fandom by using his willowed ability to its full effect. The "old boy" poled out three clean hits, one of them going for two bases and another coming in when it meant a run. Gillow was borrowed from Joe Alberts to take the place of Cosgrove, who was among the missing when the bell rang for the game to start and he filled his position with credit as well as good playing.

Frederickson twirled a steady game up to the ninth and the Thistles could do but little with his teasing slants. It looked as if he was going to get away with his game but the fates were against him when the pinch came. Needless to say, Scotch Plains was a happy town Saturday and possibly its peaceful citizens will glory over this until the next balmy day.

SOMERVILLE AGAIN

With a vengeance Somerville tackled Westfield at Somerville on Saturday afternoon. Sweet revenge was theirs, for they defeated their rivals by the score of 6 to 1. The contest was at times very snappy and gingery as the four double plays Westfield made clearly show, but at other times the Westfield aggregation seemed to be swept by some unforeseen choatic winds and those winds spelled defeat. Somerville, however, played steadily and consistently; in consequence, victory was theirs.

Clinton and Hope were the opposing pitchers. Clinton, for Somerville, twirled another of his consistent games whereas Hope was erratic.

Somerville started the ball rolling in the first inning. Wolfe landed on the sphere for a little bingle, stole second and on McDonald's drive to centerfield reached home. The third saw more of the pernicious rungetting on the part of Somerville. Gordon was given free transit to the first sack, Swanson followed and he too walked to the initial bag. Hope aided matters for Somerville by making an error, thus allowing Gordon to move to the third station on the circuit. McDonald then grapsed his trusty bat and wielded it for a nice long fly to left field upon which Gordon romped across the rubber.

The fifth round was the most productive in the run getting line for Somerville, for at this time they annexed four tallies to their list. Gordon, first up, touched Hope for a drive to center, pilfered second. Swanson drove a long fly to right field which was allowed to descend to the ground. Now Wolf, the home run getter of Somerville, advanced to the plate, and a clean two bagger was the result of his endeavors, and caused Gordon and Swanson to score. McDonald also met the ball for a double and on Hope's wild pitch reached third. McGee made a sacrifice, bringing in the doughty first sacker. A fast double play retired the side. Somerville's scoring ended here.

Westfield's lone tally was made in the seventh, McCabe starting off with a single to right field, and stole second. Craig also touched Clinton for a little bingle, advancing McCabe, who on Hope's error made Westfield's solitary score.

BEES STING 'EM, 7-1

In their last meeting in the Central New Jersey League race High Bridge was flung back into Bound Brook's company at that place Saturday afternoon with a 7 to 1 score. The one run came in the sixth when a bingle to left went for a double and was closely followed by a single, scoring the run. This was the only inning in which Herbst allowed more than one hit, the others being well scattered.

On the other hand Morris was found freely in two innings, the second and eighth. In addition to being rapped hard he issued four passes during the game, two of which he gave out in the second. This lead made the game a rather one sided affair although it was featured by some snappy work afield.

"Chick" Boyd started the sensational work with a one handed snatch of Erxleben's cloud ripper to right in the second. The wallop went for a sacrifice however, as Poole easily scored on it. The Walton boys with the assistance of Silva pulled two rapid fire doubles as closers for the first and fourth innings. Herbst, McLoughlin and Meehan enlivened the seventh with one just as fast.

Adler's home run in the eighth started the inning and was followed by Roberson's double, his second of the game. Lidgate's backstop work was cool and clever and his clout to right for two sacks was the first safety unlimbered from Herbst's assortment. This game made these teams break even in their series, each side having won two. June 1, High Bridge beat Bound Brook 4 to 3; July 22, Bound Brook won 5 to 3; July 29, High Bridge won the seventeen inning contest at that place 7 to 5.

Park Avenue-Trinity game cancelled.

The First Baptist team struck its stride Saturday afternoon and humbled the Monroe Avenue Methodists for the first time this season in a close and exciting game while the Park Avenue team was idle because Trinity cancelled the game, several of the Reformed players being unable to participate on account of illness. The defeat of the league leaders at the hands of the Baptists came as a great surprise to many of those interested in the city city Sunday school league although the Baptist boys went into the game with a marked degree of confidence. It was one of the best contests that has yet been played in the league and the result of it will go a long way to make the fight for the cup a close one.

FIRST BAPTISTS WIN.

Playing with a speed which fairly took the Monroes off their feet, the First Baptist team stopped the winning streak of the leaders of the city Cunday school league on the Clinton avenueg rounds Saturday afternon. The Methodists were completely outplayed at every stage of the game from the very start and Van Arsdale received the first severe trouncing that he has been obliged to undergo this season. Then hits were cloted by the Baptists who had their eyes on the ball when safeties counted for runs.

Pierson Bailey, in the box for the Baptists, was almost invincible to the Monroe batsmen and he let them down with four hits. He caused nine men to fan the air in disgust, gave one base on balls, but hit two batters. Several times the league leaders had men on the sacks, but were unable to garner the necessary hit from Bailey's delivery to bring in the run.

The Monroes were the first to score, getting two tallies across in the fourth inning when a base on balls, an error and a hit did the disasterous work for the Baptists. Captain Smith's aggregation came back and tied the score in the fifth by clustering four hits in a row. Two more tallies were made by them in the sixth in a similar manner but an error aided them in this round. The Baptists made their last run in the seventh on three more hits of the bunch variety.

When the Methodists went for their final bat in the ninth, they made a desperate effort to keep their record clean and they brought one run across the pan. Their hopes for further glory were soon vanquished by Bailey's good pitching and the game went down on record for the Baptists.

Bert Trotter was right on the run in receiving Bailey's slants, while Dorman also caught a good game for the Monroes. Bill Taylor on second for the winners and "Home Run," or Leslie Powlison or short were conspicuous for their snappy fielding and good batting. Townley also put up a speedy game at the bat and in the field with two hits and six clean fielding chances.

This New, Big, Self-starting Chalmers Thirty-six $1,800

THINK of a new, high powered Chalmers car with a Self-strater as regular equipment—for $1,800! No more cranking, no more bother. Just push a button on the dash with your foot, and away goes your motor.

That isn't all. This car has a long stroke motor (4¼x5¼ inches, developing 36 to 40 h. p); four forward speed transmission; 'Bosch dual ignition; 36-inch by 4-inch tires; Continental Demountable rims; Mercedes type honeycomb radiator; dash adjustment for carburetor.

Furthermore this car has bigness, strength, proved durability, beauty, fine finish, comfort. Still further, it is a Chalmers car. On the radiator is the famous blue and white monogram.

A man from the back country, at the circus for the first time, viewed in amazement the giraffe. After looking the animal over for sometime and inquiring if it had a name, he turned shruggingly away saying, "There ain't no such animal."

Many motorists, hearing of the Chalmers "Thirty-six" for the first time, then learning the price, have felt much the same way.

But they are wrong. There really is such a car as the Chalmers "Thirty-six," with the same features named above—for $1,800.

A CAR FOR THE MANY.

This is an ideal car realized. A car perfectly adapted to the needs of the average user. The long stroke motor gives all the power and speed you can want, without useless burning of gasoline The four forward speed transmission gives perfect flexibility for hills, sand, traffic and straightaway. Big tires, 36-inch by 4-inch, give riding ease and insure low tire upkeep bills.

Take the size, the power, the conveniences, the construction, the comfort, the beauty and the price into consideration in comparison with the same features on all other cars, and see if you do not conclude that in the Chalmers "Thirty-six" we have come most nearly to realizing the ideal car for the greatest number of people.

A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

Public announcement of this car was first made on July 6th. Prior to that date, dealers had signed contracts for all we can make. They were anxious to sign up for twice the number, but we had to allot just so many to each territory. Since our announcement appeared, the Sales Department has received requests from more than two hundred other dealers, asking for the privilege of handling the Chalmers line in their section.

We asked dealers this year for exclusive representation for Chalmers cars in their price classes. Not one dealer was unwilling to grant this request, dozens of them giving up other lines in order to hold the Chalmers. The vote of confidence which experienced dealers have given this new Chalmers car is one of the best possible guides for the individual buyer.

"30" FULLY EQUIPPED $1,500.

The Chalmers "30" and Chalmers "Forty" are continued for 1912 and offer greater values than ever before because of the improved methods of manufacture and added equipment. The "30" sells for $1500, including magneto, gas lamps, Prest-O-Lite tank Chalmers mohair top, and automatic windshield. Last year this car so equipped brought $1750. The "Forty" sells for $2750, including the same complete equipment.

More than a year ago, as the heading of an advertisement, we used an expression which was frequently heard in automobile trade circles: "This is Another Chalmers Year." It was true then, and we repeat it now, for it is more apparently true now than in any other year. "This is another Chalmers year."

Catalog will be mailed on request.

"RED" WALLER WILL NO LONGER PITCH FOR PETS.

After waiting for "Red" Waller to show up at Scotch Plains Saturday, Manager Ernest Dorflinger used Otto Frederickson to pitch against the Thistles and when the Plainfield manager arrived home he found a letter, which explained the failure of the Peerless Red to put in an appearance. The epistle was from President Steele of the local team, who is visiting near Lynn, Mass. He said that "Red" had been signed by the Lynn team of the New England League, having been traded from Bridgeport. In a game recently, the Plainfield star struck out ten of the New England league batsmen and won the contest easily.

Manager Dorflinger believes that "Red" had intended to come to Scotch Plains on the sly and that was the reason for his failing to notify the management. Mr. Dorflinger spent yesterday in hunting up a new pitcher and expects to have a thoroughly satisfactory box artist for next Saturday's game with Bound Brook.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Otto Frederickson, the local pitching star, lost his game with the McNultys yesterday by a score of 7-5 although he gave the opposing nine only five hits and struck out twelve men.

Melvin W. Sheppard won the half mile scratch race at the games of the Eccentric Firemen in New York yesterday, defeating one of the classiest fields of the year. Abel Kiviat, the national titleholder for the half, Eddie Frick, Dick Egan, Joe Bromilow, and M. J. McLaughlin were the foremost contestants of the Peerless Mel. Sheppard's time was 1:56 1-5, and won after a hard sprint.

Fredericskon Quits McNultys.

Tommy Mullin was back in the game again for the Scotch Plains team, having quit the McNulty Brothers nine of New York city. It is reported that Frederickson, the local star, pitched his last game for the McNultys yesterday as he has decided to leave the team on account of being docked in salary. Freddie has not announced as yet where he will locate.

GROSZMANN'S TRIP

Specialist on Atypical Children Accomplishes Much in the West.

RECEIVED MANY HONORS.

Conspicuous at National Educational Association Convention—Lectured at University—Welcomed by Educators.

Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, educational director of the National Association for the Study of Exceptional Children, has just returned from an extended trip west, well satisfied with the great success he had in his endeavors to spread a better understanding of the work in which he is engaged. In fact, the result of his efforts in the west will mark a new era in the development of his own work, and of all efforts on behalf of the exceptional child, and of social betterment generally.

His original purpose in going west was to attend the annual convention of the great National Education Association where he was scheduled to lecture on the legal provisions for exceptional children. But his influence there extended much farther. The San Francisco meeting of the association proved to be one of the most remarkable gatherings in the history of this representative body of the nation's teachers. The struggle between the old regime and the forces of progress had been waging for years, and was now finally decided in favor of the progressives who favored progressive methods of school administration and also a more democratic management of the association itself.

Dr. Groszmann was secretary of the two most important committees, the committee on nominations, and the committee on resolutions. As secretary of the latter he drew up the bulk of the most important sections of the associations declaration of principles, and succeeded in having his Boston resolutions favoring the extension of the compulsory education laws and the introduction of maturity tests in schools, unanimously and enthusiastically adopted by the meeting of the 3,000 active members who had assembled in the final business meeting. We shall publish these resolutions in an early issue of this paper as they are most important in more than one sense.

Dr. Groszmann was also elected vice-president of the department of special education and state director of the association for the State of New Jersey. He had also intended to visit various institutions and study methods of treating exceptional children in the west. But his work had been so well known there that he was at once urged to meet large numbers of interested people and to start a movement of organization. He lectured before the summer schools of the University of California in Berkeley and of the University of Southern California in Los Angeles; before the county medical society of San Francisco and the entire corps of teachers of the same city, and before half a dozen other notable gatherings.

The specialist met with the judges of the juvenile courts and was invited, in several cities, to assist the judges and the probation commissions in disposing of puzzling cases, in every instance co-operating with the probation physicians who adopted his methods of classification and examination. He met with the leading educators, neurologists, medical specialists, social workers, etc., in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Chicago, Milwaukee and other places.

Among the various luncheons and dinners arranged in his honor the most notable affair was the luncheon which the Associated Charities of San Francisco gave him at the Hotel St. Francis on July 28, when over 300 of the most prominent citizens of that city met to honor the apostle of the exceptional child and to listen to his appeals.

Everywhere it was quickly recognized that his message was a momentous one and that the Association for the Study of Exceptional Children was really a focus in which all other efforts for the child and for social betterment should converge and find their true perspective. This view was at once translated into practice. Both in San Francisco and in Los Angeles committees were formed to organize the school authorities, medical specialists, juvenile courts and probation officers, charity organizations and social workers of different kinds, and other similar societies into one common body for active work, to be known as the Conference for the Study of Exceptional Children. The establishment of a California State organization is only a question of time and is already contemplated. These conferences at the head of which are the most noted specialists and most prominent men and women of the

3 ITALIANS GOT JOBS BUT LOST THEIR CASH

Frank Krowecky and Ignatz Valinsky, of South Plainfield, went to city police headquarters last night and asked the officers to locate an unknown man to whom they, with another of their countrymen, had entrusted $41.50 yesterday after the stranger had put them to work on a farm near the Watchung Hunt Club property on Plainfield avenue.

In broken English they told their story. A nice young man, American to be sure with a black moustache and wearing black clothes, apparently about 31 years old, not tall, not short, met them on Plainfield avenue and asked if they wanted to go to work. Of course they said they did. He put them to work all right piling apples in an orchard and said that he had other work for them but had no tools. He would go down town to get these while the three men were picking up the fallen fruit.

Going a short distance to the road, the stranger retraced his steps and said that he had only a $100 bill and as he wanted to make purchases before he would reach a bank where he could get the big bill changed he asked the men to let him have some money until he returned. They gave him all they had, $41.50. He never came back.

ENTERED FOUR HOMES, HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Reports made to the police since the arrest early yesterday morning of Benjamin Perkins, colored, who was recognized as he was leaving the room of Miss Mary Moffett, of Madison avenue, which he had entered by climbing up the porch posts to the roof and then removing a screen from the open window. It was but one of the four places he had entered during the night according to the police. At the other places positive identification was made impossible by his being more or less of a stranger and the speed he used in escaping after learning that his presence was known.

The places entered were the homes of Joseph Fay, of West Second street, Jacob Rosenthal, of Plainfield avenue, and Mrs. DeForrest, of West Second street. In each instance the man aroused some member of the family and was frightened away before accomplishing his purpose or taking anything of value.

At the Moffett home positive identification was made by two young women whose room he had entered. He aroused one by putting his hand on her and her screams awakened the other. The intruder lighted a match before she screamed, for the moment she didn't know what had awakened her. By the light of the match the young woman recognized Perkins whom she had known some time as he had lived in the neighborhood for several years.

His habit of lighting matches almost caused his identification at Mrs. DeForrest's home. She was awakened by the scraping of a match on the woodwork and in the flickering light she was able to define a man's outline and see that he was a negro. As she screamed he bolted through the open window by which he had gained entrance.

Perkins was held in $300 bail for the action of the Union County Grand Jury yesterday morning on the Moffett girl's complaint.

TURNERS MAKING PLANS FOR LABOR DAY OUTING.

The local branch of the Gesang and Turn Verein is planning for a gala time on Labor Day when several visiting societies will be entertained by the Plainfield delegation. A crowd of 150 members of out of town circles are expected to come to this city at that time, the majority of them from Elizabeth. It is the intention of the local society to hold a musical entertainment in the hall on Somerset street and then have a picnic on the Watchung mountains.

A committee on arrangements for the affair has been appointed these being the members: Eugene Rens, August Wolff, Mathias Menzenbach, John Retzner and Carl Felber.

Hearing Postponed.

The hearing of William G. Tunison, charged by his former employer, Mrs. Bertha Weinberger, proprietor of the New York Clothing Company, with the larceny of a suit of clothes, was set over for one week by Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning on request of Mrs. Weinberger's counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, owing to the absence from town of a material witness. W. L. Hetfield represents Tunison.

REPLIES TO PIERCE

His Right to Run is Defended by Thompson in Answering Newspaper Argument.

FOR SENATORIAL NOMINATION.

Westfield Candidate Says He Deeply Deplores Insinuation of Dissension in the Contest for Office.

Assemblyman Lloyd Thompson made the following statement today in connection with the article republished on page five today from the Cranford Citizen concerning the respective candidacies of Mr. Thompson and former Assemblyman Pierce for the Senate:

"I have read the suggestion published in the paper of Mr. Pierce's home town that I retire from the Senatorial race and go back to the Assembly. It is quite natural that Mr. Pierce should have friends in his own community who desire to see the track cleared for his unopposed nomination, and that they should urge everyone else to withdraw; but when it comes to advancing reasons other than their friendly interest in Mr. Pierce they are not entirely convincing.

"It is suggested that I have declined to abide by the so-called 'third term rule' for the Assembly, and that I should agree to accept a third term in the Assembly instead of running for the Senate this year. There is no 'third term rule' that I know of that has ever been adhered to in practice in Republican or Democratic politics in this county. Only intermittently have other Assemblymen been accorded three years in the Assembly; none has ever demanded it as a right nor had it forced upon him as a duty, and certainly it has not happened often or regularly enough to evolve any 'rule' about it, even assuming that there is anybody to make rules for the people as to how many times a man shall go to the Legislature.

"If Mr. Pierce believes in the first principles of the direct primary he must agree that it is perfectly fair and proper for any loyal Republican to submit his cause to the people at the primaries and let them decide the issue. That is the purpose of primaries, and I for one am perfectly willing to test the sentiment in that way.

"The people of Union county have loyally supported me in my previous candidacies for nomination and election, and I in turn have tried faithfully to represent them properly in the Legislature. In doing so I have made my record which the paper alluded to says will be a source of strength to the ticket. If so, why should not such strength be given to the head of the ticket?

"I regret very much to note a hint in the article mentioned that Mr. Pierce's failure to be nominated would mean a risk of 'dissension' and perhaps 'a loss of the ticket.' This could only result by Mr. Pierce's declining to abide by the verdict of the party as expressed at the primaries and working on election day to defeat the ticket. I refuse absolutely to believe that Mr. Pierce or any other loyal or fair-minded Republican would be guilty of such action, and I even believe the suggestion itself was not seriously intended by the writer, but may be ascribed to the warmth of feeling of a personal friend of one of the candidates at the time of writing.

"I personally promised to Mr. Pierce my hearty support on the stump and at the polls if he should be the nominee, and I should certainly expect that he and his friends would accord the same treatment to me if I should be the successful candidate at the primary.

"I was the first to announce my candidacy, which was received by Republicans in every section of the county with, to me, most unexpected favor. Assurances of support came immediately to me from all over, both within and without political circles. I have received numerous letters from citizens of all classes urging me to run and my support within the party itself comes from no special section or faction. I regard these expressions as evidence, that my efforts to make myself a worthy representative of the people have met with success, and if the voters see fit to afford me increased and continued opportunities in that direction I do not see why I should decline to accept them. For that reason I and my friends shall pursue every dignified, fair and honorable means to obtain the Republican nomination, according without question or reservation the right of any other candidate to do the same thing."

The Misses Emma and Myra Clouser, of Philadelphia, are visiting their sister, Mrs. E. D. George, of Duer street, as is also Miss Elmira Fry, of Linfield, Pa., an aunt of Mrs. George.

INSURANCE PLANS

Local Co-Operative Scheme as Employers Liability Law Protection.

THE IDEA IS EXPLAINED.

Chairman Lemuel B. Woolston Appoints Committee to Arrange for Permanent Organization Here.

Several of Plainfield's more prominent employers met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night to discuss the advisability of protecting themselves under the new Employers' Liability act, which was passed at the last session of the New Jersey Legislature and which was signed by Governor Woodrow Wilson. The meeting last night was called by L. B. Woolston, C. W. Krausse and Alexander Milne and the majority of employers present last night were those connected with the building trades, where much risk is run by their employes and where most accidents occur to workmen.

A temporary organiaztion was effected last night, L. B. Woolston being chosen chairman and Alexander Milne secretary. Mr. Woolston stated the purpose of the meeting, explaining that something would have to be done soon by which the employers in this city could better protect themselves from lawsuits and heavy expense in case their employes should meet with any accidents while working for them.

Mr. Woolston then put before the meeting the plan which had been worked out to this effect and which would be the best way in which such protection could be obtained at a cheaper rate than through the liability insurance companies. It is the intention of the proposed system to create a fund in this city from which the amounts for damages to employes can be drawn by those employers subscribing to the principle.

It is believed that at the start one hundred employers in this city can be listed to join such an organization and lay a foundation by subscribing a suitable initiation fee. With a principle of over $1,000 to start, the fund will be increased from month to month by the addition of new members and the payment of the dues of those enjoying the privileges of the organization.

The dues will be payable monthly and the amounts for each employer will be fixed on a percentage basis. It was suggested last night that each employer pay so much per man in his employ while another added that this would be unfair insomuch that some trades pay more wages than others and in case of an accident one employer would reap more benefits from the fund than another for the same amount of money. And so it was suggested that the dues be levied on a percentage of the pay rolls of each employer.

To avoid frauds, it was suggested that a list of possible beneficiaries from the fund be filed with the secretary of the organization. Each employer would thus have to give the names of each man who is in his employ and only those who are registered could obtain any benefits. A local banking institution was suggested to look after the accounts of the fund.

It is supposed that when the organization of the fund is completed that the initiation fee will be increased after the charter list of members closes. The dues will probably remain on the same scale for everyone, this being a suggestion made last night. Another suggestion was made, after Winfield S. Angleman explained the workings of the present law to the meeting, in which the grading of dues according to the danger risk run by the employe was brought up.

All plans for the permanent organization of the fund will be formulated by a committee, which was appointed by Mr. Woolston last night for this purpose. Those on the committee are Alexander Milne, E. C. Conover, C. W. Krausse, L. B. Woolston and Hugh B. Todd. Another meeting will be called by the committee in the near future.

Hearing Deferred.

When arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning on the complaint of a young woman who resides on East Second street, Charles Jannuzzi, of Somerset street and Vincent Salvatora, of Somerset place, pleaded not guilty to her charge of disorderly conduct. They were arrested on Sunday night for repeatedly driving up to her home in the absence of her parents and inquiring where certain streets are located. Owing to the absence from court of several material witnesses the case was set over for one week.

Dr. A. H. Dundon, of Somerset street, will be home about September 6. He will sail for this country from Glasgow.

DISTRICTS' BOARDS

Judge Atwater and County Elections Board to Appoint Members Tomorrow.

UNDER NEW GERAN LAW.

Parties Prepare Lists for Use of Court and Board Which Will Name Those for Districts Not Filled.

In accordance with the provisions of the Geran law, enacted by the recent Legislature, the Union County Board of Elections will meet at the courthouse, Elizabeth, tomorrow to select the district boards. The Union County Republican committee at its meeting last night prepared a list of eligible candidates in that party for the use of Judge Atwater and the board whose duty it is to appoint the boards throughout the county. The Democrats have also made up their list.

"It shall be the duty of each county board of elections, from the eligible list certified as aforesaid, on or before the twenty-fifth day of August in each year, to select the members of the boards of registry and election for said county in the manner following to wit: Each name so certified shall be written on a separate piece of paper, together with the election district in which the person so named shall reside, which pieces of paper shall be separately folded so as to conceal the name and election district of each person so certified; the pieces of paper containing the names of the members of the largest political party as aforesaid shall, in the presence of such judge or judges, be put into a box for said party, and those of the next largest political party deposited in a like manner in a box to be used for that party. Before depositing the same, said slips shall be, by said judge or judges, compared with the list certified as aforesaid by said Civil Service Commission. Said pieces of paper when so folded shall be of the same size, color and shape as nearly as may be. After the said boxes shall be closed and shaken in such a manner as to intermingle the pieces of paper so placed therein, the county board of elections, or some person appointed by such judge or judges for that purpose, in the presence of the county boards of

HE HURLED A BRICK BUT HIT WRONG MAN

James Ennis, James McGrath, Edward Galbraith and Edward Martin, comprised a quartette that gave residents of West Second street and Central avenue a bit of excitement yesterday afternoon. Martin played the role of peacemaker and Ennis got what peacemakers have been known to get, but what was really intended for Galbraith. It was a brick. The young men had been quenching their thirst with something stronger than water in the vacant lot on that corner.

All were in the best of humor and jolly good friends until McGrath did or said something at which Galbraith took offense. Ennis tried to restore harmony, but his efforts were of no avail. Just at the tme when the resounding whacks of fist hitting flesh were heard from the railroad bank, Martin came along and separated the beligerants. He was holding Galbraith and trying to drag him from the lot when McGrath heaved a brick. Poor shot that McGrath, or else he had double vision, for the brick missed its intended mark and caught Ennis squarely in the face. Dr. Lufburrow fixed up the bruises and cuts and Ennis lodged a complaint against the heaver. The hearing will be before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court tomorrow morning.

REFILLED BOTTLES, FINED TEN DOLLARS

On complaint of the Board of Health, Joseph Herberman, a milk man, was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning and was fined $10. The complaint charged a violation of that section of the sanitary ordinance prohibiting re-filling milk bottles on the wagon while delivering to customers.

On the morning of August 16, at Spooner avenue and West Fourth street, the driver of Heberman's wagon was detected by Patrolman Vanderweg filling bottles with a dipper from a can and when questioned regarding it said that he was filling up. Mr. Herberman said that the filling up remark was intended to apply to the man who was pouring some milk in a bottle to drink when the policeman saw him.

William A. Coddington, counsel to to the Board of Health, prosecuted the case for that body.

HOW THE LAW'S OFFENDERS ARE SPENDING THEIR TIME AS WARDEN DODD'S GUESTS

Summer boarding in Rahway avenue, Elizabeth, is popular by about six more than the usual number, for the average of fifty-five prisoners in the Union county jail has been increased during the present summer to sixty-one, and at present there are fifty-nine men and women serving sentences for misdemeanors under Warden Dodd. The run of sentences of this number runs from ten days to six months and the cause for their incarceration is almost everything from drunkenness to attempts at criminal assault.

To those on the outside enjoying dog day weather there is but little idea as to how the prisoners in the county jail spend their time. On this acount a trip through the jail is of interest. Under the care of the warden or his assistant the visitor is conducted through the office of the jail and here, as everywhere else, the principal articles of decoration are steel bars and cement floors, wood being at a premium.

Opening from the main office double iron doors swing into the men's cell room. It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the visit was made and the day was a little warmer than usual, but in the cell room it was comfortably cool to an unusual degree. There were five men in the corridor, these being "trusties," and they had just finished scrubbing the floors of the corridors extending around the cell tiers. Two of them were laughing over a game of checkers, and they were so absorbed that they did not seem to notice the entrance of the newspaper man and his guide.

Passing around the circuit of the jail the men could be seen lounging around in their quarters. Compared with the majority of county jails the one in Elizabeth is something of a sinecure. Here they are not obliged to work to any extent, but as the days go by without change, the monotony is wearisome.

One day passes just like the next. At 5:30 o'clock in the morning the men are released from the cells for their breakfast, which is eaten from benches standing waist high in the corridor. There are no chairs, so all meals must be eaten standing. At 7 o'clock they are locked up again and remain until 11:30 o'clock when they are given an hour to stretch their legs and also to eat. Again in the afternoon at 5:30 o'clock they are allowed to walk in the corridor, but at 7 o'clock lights are declared out and the occupants settle themselves to sleep.

There are a few of the men who are supplied with shoes, these being those who work in the bakery (for all the food is cooked by the prisoners) and the men who have gained the confidence of the warden to such an extent to allow them to work on the outside on the grounds and lawns. All of the prisoners in the jail are kept barefooted. There are a few bright spots in jail days. These are when the weekly services are conducted by the Elizabeth clergymen, and the semi-monthly services for those of the Roman Catholic faith. Through the kindness of the ministers, magazines are supplied to the prisoners, and these are the best method of passing away the time, for the prisoners spend the greater portion of the day in reading and exchanging the books with one another during their free hours in the corridors.

Another day pleasing to the prisoners is visitors' day, that one day in the week when they may speak to people from the outside world. They stand at the outside doorway and talk as long as they wish, but a screening keeps those on the outside from passing tools or files to the prisoners. This is the way the majority of those in jail pass their time. The long-time men are the bakers and gardeners, and when a man has a trade he is usually set to work to do what patching up is necessary to the building. The women keep the laundry, do the mending, etc., the wife of the warden acting as matron of the jail. It isn't such a bad place after all and most of the prisoners on their release, if they have met their jailers at least half way, have nothing but good words to speak of the treatment received in the Rahway avenue institution.

GEO. L. BABCOCK FOR ASSEMBLY

President of Chamber of Commerce Announces His Candidacy For Republican Nomination.

George L. Babcock, president of the Chamber of Commerce, today announced himself as a candidate for an Assembly nomination on the Republican ticket. He is unusually popular with the townspeople generally and it is predicted that he will make a brilliant run. His decision to become a candidate was reached after much persuasion on the part of his personal friends who saw in him an ideal candidate for the office.

Mr. Babcock is treasurer of the Spicer Universal Joint Company of this city, in which he is largely interested. His father amassed a fortune as the inventer and manufacturer of the Babcock-Wilcox boiler and had large property holdings here among which the Babcock building in West Front street. He died in 1903 and his wife a year ago. The entire estate, reputed to be approximately $1,000,000, was left to the son who has gained the admiration and respect of the community by his excellent qualities.

Although but 26 years, Mr. Babcock is not only president of the Chamber of Commerce but is a director of the State Trust company and a member of the Playground Commission, having been first appointed to the latter body by former Mayor C. J. Fisk. He was graduated from the Plainfield High School in 1905 and spent two years at Alfred University. He is married and has a handsome home in West Eighth street.

While actively engaged in business and to be found hard at work at his desk every day, Mr. Babcock is fond of outdoor sports and is intensely interested in the city's welfare. He is an enthusiastic automobilist and his private garage is said to be the best equipped one in the State of New Jersey. He is recognized as a man of marked ability and is very democratic.

Another candidate in the field is William F. Groves, of Elizabeth. Mr. Groves is a lawyer and was formerly a member of the Elizabeth Board of Education. Six years ago he was a power in the Colby movement in Union county but like most of the New Idea chiefs in Union county found his way back to true Republican principles.

PLAINFIELDERS DUCKED AT LAKE HOPATCONG.

Thomas Hanna, of East Fifth street, John Cose, of West Fourth street, and W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, had a narrow escape at Lake Hoptacong yesterday morning when the rowboat in which they were crossing the lake was caught beneath J. A. Haines' dock and upset. All three men were thrown in the water under the dock and although they al could swim, they were in a dangerous position. By clinging to some iron piping they managed to keep their heads above water until their rescuers arrived.

After waiting over night for their clothes to dry, Mr. Hanna and Mr. Cose started for this city and were so interested in their conversation over their narrow escape that they forgot to change trains at Lake Junction and went on to Dover. There they took a D. L. & W. train to Newark and arrived in this city two hours late.

AUTO VICTIM'S ESTATE ASKS $5,000 DAMAGES.

Abraham S. King, of Duer street, has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Charles Clifford, colored, who was killed by John O. Wilson's automobile on Park avenue on July 10. Suit has also been started by him for $5,000 damages against Mr. Wilson, the papers in the case having been served by the sheriff of Camden county this morning.

Robert Newton Crane and Frank J. Blatz are counsels for the administrator. The case will be tried in New Brunswick in the September term.

$OME BONE$

Old Aunt Jane did oft complain
About her poor old bones
But no one cared how ill she fared
Nor listened to her moans
Until one night it came to light
What Aunt Jane really owns.
But now its plain that old Aunt Jane
Need never be alone
For we'll try to save her every pain
While she still has a bone.
The whole blame push comes in a rush
The minute Aunt Jane groans!
For you can bet we dont forget
She has forty thousand bones.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were weak in New York yesterday.

Charles Dowing Lay, who was recently appoined landscape architect, said everything in Central Park looked neglected.

Sir J. P. Whitney, Premier of Ontario, came out against reciprocity, expressing the belief that it would lead to annexation.

All the field notes, cameras and exposed films of the Smithsonian Institution's glacial exiedition fell into the river at Cordova, Alaska, and are probably lost.

A boy from San Antonio, Tex., who dropped a revolver on the sidewalk, causing the fatal wounding of a woman in Park Row, New York, was exonerated by the Corone.

Work was resumed on the British railways, though some men held out, owing to the companies attempting to deprive the strikers of their seniority in favor of the men who did not go on strike.

Harry N. Atwood, in his flight from St. Louis to New York, reached Belle Isle, five miles west of Syracuse; he lost his way trying to find Auburn, and wandered about in the air for nearly an hour.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture, testifying before a Congressional committee, contradicted the testimony of Dr. Wiley and blamed the chief chemist for troubles in the department.

Charles M. Schwab denied in an interview at Bethlehem, Penn., the reports that the Bethelehem Steel Company would be merged with the Lackawanna Steel Company and the Republic Iron and Steel Company.

Colonel Roosevelt announced to the editor of a Pittsburgh newspaper that under no circumstances would he consent to the use of his name for the Presidential nomination in 1912; he said that such action would prove a calamity.

The recent marriage of Miss Katherine S. Dreier, of Brooklyn, to Edward Trumbull, an artist, was void, according to the lawyer of the bride's family, as Mr. Trumbull was not legally separated from his wife by an earlier marriage.

Six jurors were selected for the trial of Paul Giedel on the charge of killing Wiliam H. Jackson, in New York; both sides refused to discuss a report that the youthful prisoner was willing to plead guilty to murder in the second degree.

J. Q. Emery, of Wisconsin, told the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Department, in convention at Duluth, Minn., that stremendous pressure was being brought to bear on the pure food men in public employ by the special interests.

The trial of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., for the murder of his wife a month ago was begun in the Chesterfield (Va.) courthouse; Beattie pleaded "not guilty" to the indictment, and his counsel requested a postponement of one week, which the court refused.

Congress.—Senate: Messrs Root and Cullom and Mr. Burton submitted minority reports defending the arbitration treaties, but no action was taken; Mr. La Follette urged government control of Alaskan utilities. House: Cotton bill passed under a "gag rule," with Senate amendments; Democratic caucus agreed to adjournment at 3 p. m. today; the President sent a message urging $250,000 appropriation to finish raising the Maine; resolution introduced looking toward limited reciprocity with Argentina.

WESTFIELD SEWERS.

Town Engineer Vars Excavating Test Pits.

Town Engineer Vars, of Westfield, has had a force of men working at the town sewer beds during the past week in that place, engaged in excavating test pits. This work is necessary preparatory to enlarging the plant. Engineer Vars reported to the town Council over a year ago that the capacity of the sewer plant had about reached its limit, and recommended that expert engineers be engaged to investigate conditions and recommend what was best to be done to provide for the future of the town.

Magazine Free.

Dear Sir: On next Sunday, August 27, there will be given as a supplement with the Philadelphia Sunday North American the regular semi-monthly magazine, containing short stories and serials by noted writers. Ever since the publishers of The North American have been giving this magazine away to its readers, the circulation has been rapidly increasing. This magazine has now become a regular feature on the second and fourth Sunday of each month. Those who are not regular subscribers would do well to place their order in advance with their newsdealer so as to avoid the disappointment which usually follows.

Yours very truly,
THE NORTH AMERICAN,
JAMES L. FARLEY,
Acting Circulation Manager.

NOW FOR A STIRRING ADVANCE SALE OF AUGUST BLANKETS

HUNDREDS OF PAIRS OF FRESH, NEW DEPENDABLE BLANKETS AT EXTRAORDINARY SAVINGS FROM REGULAR PRICES.

When we planned this great sale of Blankets we intended it to surpass in magnitude and money-savings the best previous blanket sales held in this town.

Accordingly we visited some of the best mills in the country and by buying in large quantities for cash during their dull period we secured remarkable concessions in price which enables us to offer exceptionally unusual values.

Housekeepers, hotel and boarding-house keepers should take full advantage of this sale for the prices quoted are by far the lowest such good qualities will be offered at this season. Blankets stored free until wanted.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council, of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Monday, the fourteenth day of August, 1911, an ordinance of which the following is a true copy, to wit:

AN ORDINANCE

To Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

Whereas, There has been constructed in said city a system of sewerage, and such action in relation thereto has from time to time been taken as is set forth in the several ordinances of said city relating thereto, and particularly the ordinances respectively entitled, "An Ordinance to Provide for the Construction of an Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved November 6, 1897, and "An Ordinance to provide for the Improvement of Sewage Disposal Works, Beds and Appurtenances, of the City of Plainfield," approved April 4, 1901, to which several ordinances reference is hereby made for greater certainty; and,

Whereas, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that a further addition, as herein described, to the system of sewerage already constructed, should be now constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided, and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine; therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that a further addition to the system of sewerage already constructed as aforesaid, be constructed in and for said city, under the provisions of the acts of the Legislature above referred to, including the necessary force mains, air mains, operating vaults, buildings, wells, motors, compressors, receivers and pumps, lifts or ejectors, with all the appurtenances required to complete the same, of the character, description, dimensions and material shown on plans adopted by the Common Council and filed in the office of the City Clerk, August 7, 1911, which said plans are entitled "Sewerage System, City of Plainfield, N. J., Extensions and Pumping Station, 1911," and according to such further plans as the said Common Council may hereafter direct, in and through the following described streets, avenues, property, lands and rights-of-way described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

Lenox Avenue;
Cameron Avenue;
Laramie Road.
Emerson Avenue from George Street to a point 900 feet northwest therefrom.

was presented, read and ordered to be considered and acted upon by said Common Council at a regular meeting thereof to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in said City of Plainfield, on Tuesday, the fifth day of September, 1911, at the hour of eight o'clock in the evening of that day, and at such meeting ample opportunity will be given to all parties in favor of or opposed to the improvement contemplated by said ordinance, to present their views with reference to the same in writing, or otherwise, as the Common Council may at that time direct, and public notice is hereby given of the intention of the Common Council to cause said improvement set forth in this ordinance to be made, and such persons or corporations as may object thereto, are requested to present their objections in writing at the City Clerk's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of this notice, or to the Common Council at its first meeting held after the expiration of the said ten days, and said Common Council at such meeting, to be held on the fifth day of September, 1911, as above stated, or afterward, may proceed to consider and pass such ordinance notwithstanding any objection.

By order of the Common Council.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Consolation thought for today—Now you know that Brit can bat.

Scotch Plains is really on the baseball map at the present time.

But the little boy said that he couldn't find Moscow on the map for it burned down in 1812. Scotch Plains has also been defeated—so take that home and try their baseball record on your phonograph.

Otto Frederickson deserves boosts as well as knocks. You couldn't want better ball than the Netherwood southpaw pitched for eight innings but is was plainly evident that he went up in the air in the ninth. That slow play between Martin and Driscoll was largely responsible for the start of the disastrous climax and when the entire bunch of Pets began telling the kid what to do—no wonder he became rattled.

The Westfield College nine didn't seem to even give Somerville a run for its money Saturday. Won 5 and Lost 8 isn't a very auspicious record for the boys of Old Pop Fence Breaker.

From gossip around the Central circuit Saturday afternoon, it looked as if Somerville was going to have a chance in winning out on the protest of the Plainfield-Somervile game. It seems as if all the other managers were just in combination to beat out Plainfield at any odds and on account of this they are overlooking the actual value of the protest. While it may be admitted that Driscoll had no right to run around to third with "Red" Waller, yet to kick on such an act, which did not effect the result of the game, one way or the other, seems to be rather unsportsmanlike policy. The act of running around wasn't a Merkle and the outcome of the old Chicago-New York controversy cannot be applied to effect the decision in this case for when Merkle forgot to touch second, the ball was really in play, and at the Somerville game a clout over the fence is a home run gift to the batter.

Lou Hartman and Eddie Stallings had a bad smash up Saturday afternoon while they were both running after that fly back of third base. Stallings knee collided with Hartman's knee and Lou went down with a bang. Eddie had the presence of mind to nab the approaching hit and thus save two runs being scored. Hartman continued play in centerfield, Joe Harter taking his place at short stop.

By the way Joe Harter—your batting is falling off at a great rate.

Hats off to the First Baptist Sunday-school team. Carlton Smith's lads were the first ones to stop "them Methodists" and they did it with a vengence, too.

While we are galloping along on the Central circuit, it might be mentioned that "Warry" MacLaughlin is still among us and was quite in evidence for his good work Saturday. Nine strike outs against the Pets is going just a few, Warry.

And Dave Driscoll fanned out three times.

Lidgate was right there in the catching line at Bound Brook Saturday and handled Morris' curves in good style. The Fanwood boy also clouted with the stick for a two sacker.

Brit—You're a wonderful batter but just a Plainfielder. (Give us the corners Ump, we've got a sore arm).

And "Red" Waller believes that they never come back. So does Ernest Dorflinger after "Red's" disappearance.

Say, Brit, why don't you come out and see the Elks play Thursday?

JERSEY CITY MOOSE IS SEEKING HIGH OFFICE.

Detroit, Aug. 22.—Thousands of members of the Loyal Order of Moose are gathered in this city for the twenty-third international convention of their order, which officially opened yesterday. The largest visiting delegations are from San Francisco, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Mo., Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Seattle.

Politics early started to play an important part in the proceeding of the convention. Edmund A. Tanner, of Ohio, supreme dictator, is not a candidate for re-election. Arthur H. Jones, of Indianapolis, is mentioned to succeed him.

Jersey City hopes to secure the election of James J. Finn as supreme trustee, while San Francisco is booming the candidacy of Walter Dorn for supreme prelate. William N. Henning, of Milwaukee, is also a candidate for the latter office.

The nomination of officers was a part of yesterday afternoon's program. The election is scheduled for today. Kansas City, Baltimore and Seattle are waging a vigorous campaign for the next annual gathering.

BABE TERRIBLY HURT BY CAPE MAY FLIER.

Camden, Aug. 22.—Struck by a Cape May express on the Reading Railroad near Newtonville, Sunday, Antonio Eubarry, eighteen months old, sustained a fractured skull, both legs were broken, and the infant's body was terribly crushed. He is said to be dying in the Cooper Hospital.

The infant had stepped on the tracks just in front of the locomotive. When members of the train crew picked him up they were surprised to see that he was still alive.

On the train there was hardly a dry eye, and several women became hysterical as the bloodstained little chap was borne to the baggage car. No one believed he could live until he reached the hospital.

EAGLES CONVENE FOR MEETING AT FRISCO.

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—The grand aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, representing a membership of 300,000, convened here yesterday.

Four of the five founders are here. They are John Cort, John W. Considine and his brother, Thomas, and Harry L. Leavitt, all theatrical men. The fifth, L. C. Brown, of Seattle, probably will not be here.

In addition to the general officers of the order, most of whom arrived several days ago, regular and special trains have brought thousands of the Eagles into town. Features of the gathering will be a "roaring camp" under canvas, and a street parade.

ABANDONED SCHOONER WAS FROM ELIZABETH.

Nantucket, Mass, Aug. 22.—The British schooner Minnie, laden with coal from Elizabethport, N. J., to Halifax, N. S., was picked up abandoned near Coskata Life Saving Station near here, by the United States cutter Acushnet. There were no signs of her crew of five men. The ship was sinking.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Mirth, melody and music are the keynotes of the performance to be given by "Jolly" John Larkins and his happy flock of pretty girls and funny boys at the Plainfield theatre, Thursday night, when the new big musical comedy, "Royal Sam" will be presented. Those sweet ebony singers and colored funmakers of Dixie Land have been recognized for years as a high class standard attraction and one that has scored a phenominal popular success with theatregoers in all sections of the country. Among the forty in its ranks are to be found the most talented Afro-American singers, dancers and comedians in the world. "Jolly" John Larkins, lately co-star with Black Patti for four seasons, and today recognized by both press and public as "America's foremost colored comedian" in his line, is the star of the organization.

A brand new farce comedy, and one that is destined to become the bright particular success of the New York theatrical season of1911-1912, will be seen at the Plainfield theatre on Saturday evening, August 26. It is called "The Water Wagon," and if it embraces all the many features of that wholy worthy, though somewhat abused vehicle, it will be a thoroughly entertaining play. Wm. A. Brady, Ltd., producer of "Baby Mine," "Over Night," and other pronounced farcical successes of the past two seasons, is responsible for this latest temperance concoction of fun and merriment, and promises three acts of unalloyed joy and hilarity.

RAIN NEARLY DELAYED THEIR HONEYMOON

Miss Fannie Green, of New Brunswick, and William Giles, of this city, played prominent, but not the principal parts in an automobile romance at Perth Amboy Friday afternoon. They assisted William Johnson, of Dunellen, and Miss Amelia Fulton, of Brooklyn, to get married.

The four young people arrived here on Friday afternoon. Mr. Johnson had secured a wedding license the night previous from City Clerk La Roe, of New Brunswick, but he had failed to inquire about a minister to tie the knot. He thought that Perth Amboy was full of ministers. But the party had a merry chase to find one. Nearly all of the resident pastors are out of the city on vacation trips. It was only after a long search that they located Rev. E. C. Hancock, who tied the knot.

Everything went well until the rain began. This somewhat dampened the automobile and the spirits of the couple, for they wished to catch the train leaving at 4:40. They waited some time for the rain to stop, but it refused to accommodate them. Four minutes before the train was to leave they were forced to take the wet auto as the wedding coach. They reached the station as the train was pulling out, but managed to get on, leaving the machine in the hands of friends.

The newlyweds left for the Catskills, where they will spend a week. They will reside in Dunellen.

FIRED TO SCARE AWAY SUPPOSED CHICKEN THIEF.

While patroling his beat last night Patrolman Muir was startled at 11:50 by six ringing shots and upon investigation learned that they had been fired by Frank Quass, of 1224 West Third street, from a rear window to scare away what he thought was a chicken thief. Mr. Quass, who has a number of prize fowls, was awakened by a commotion in his chicken yard. It was too dark for him to see whether a thief was about but as the noise continued he raised the sash and blazed away.

When the policeman came up, a search was made but the supposed prowler was not found and no trace had been left. The noise in the chicken coop, however, ceased.

Plainfielders Win at Newport.

Three Plainfielders were in the national lawn tennis championships which are being held at Newport this week. Arthur S. Craigin defeated Ewing Stille in the first round in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3. S. Wallis Merrihew was defeated in the first round by Thomas Ridgeway, 6-3, 10-8, 6-3. Arthur S. Craigin lost to Walter M. Washburn in the second round 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. E. C. Lipscom won his match in the first round by default.

TO REVISE SCHOOL SYSTEM NEXT MONTH

Deputy Commission of Education J. Brogpnard Betts gave out an interview yesterday in the absence of Commissioner of Education Calvin N. Kendall which shows that the school system is to be revised considerably next month.

Mr. Betts believes that the State would get more for its money through the operations of the laws which compel the distribution of school funds four times a year, the payment of interest by all banks on school moneys and the other little bills which stop waste and extravagance.

Regarding the centralization of high schools, Mr. Betts said that under the old law many a municipality had a high school not worthy of the name while under the new law which permits of adjoining municipalities to club together for a high school, there is bound to be greater efficiency in the high schools for there will be more money for their support.

HERE AND THERE.

Robert Blair, the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair, of Duer street, is one of the proudest boys in the borough of North Plainfield today for he was the chief figure in a fishing trip which he took with his father and Elvin J. VanName yesterday. The party went to Bound Brook and fished in the Raritan canal and although the men had poor luck themselves, little Bobby pulled out two fine bass, the first fish that he had ever caught. He ate them for his breakfast this morning with a relish.

Little Fishes in the Brook,
Bobby catch 'em with a hook;
Mamma fry 'em in a pan,
Bobby eats 'em like a man.

Democrats Meet.

At a meeting of the Plainfield Democratic Club last night Otto Linke, J. Callahan, J. C. Schinkel, E. Fluck and F. M. Wagner were added to the committee of arrangements for the outing to be held at Wayside Park September 13. Contrary to expectations there was no discussion of the councilmanic timber. Frank J. SLattle was given the privilege for explaining his position on the candidacy of Calvin E. Brodhead for sheriff. It seems that Mr. Shattle was active in Mr. Brodhead's behalf when he was being boomed for State Senator but is opposed to him for sheriff. Mr. Shattle explained that he has been in favor of George H. Schlotterer for sheriff right along. Because Mr. Brodhead has refused the Senatorial candidacy for that of being sheriff, Mr. Shattle felt was no reflection on his consistency.

Wm. Green, father-in-law of Wm. J. Hudson, is very ill at his home, 257 Somerset street.

MRS. SHAY OVERBOARD; HER FRIEND DISROBED

Miss Marie Ellington, oft Sewaren, and Mrs. D. Shay, of this city, were enjoying a cruise in a motorboat, when the sky was suddenly overcast. They started for Christie's dock, which was the nearest haven of safety that presented itself. In their eagerness to land, and hampered by the gale, they shot past the dock.

The engine stopped, and Mrs. Shay, frightened by the situation, jumped overboard. At the some moment, Miss Ellington endeavored to start the engine. The fly wheel whirled around, catching the young woman's dress. In a few seconds time she was almost entirely disrobed. Her leg was badly bruised, and she was otherwise injured about the body.

In the meantime Mrs. Shay had recovered her composure, and when she saw Miss Ellington's predicament climbed back into the boat. She succeeded in placing the engine in working order again, and docked without further mishap, although the storm was now raging in all its fury. The boat is 18 feet long and has a six horsepower engine.

Harry Oswald's Funeral.

The funeral services for Harry Mundy Oswald, the boy whose death was caused by falling last week, was held this morning at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Mundy, of South Plainfield. Rev. J. J. Allen conducted the service and burial was made at Perth Amboy. The house was thronged with neighbors and friends of the bereaved, many of whom were visibly affected as they viewed the body in the casket which rested in the midst of a bank of floral tributes.

Birthday Party.

A birthday party was given for Nathon Deutsh by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Deutsh at their home on Madison avenue last night. There were about thirty guests present including the Misses Rose and Ruth Shavelson, of Brooklyn, who have been spending some time with friends here. The others were all from this city. The usual pastimes at social functions of this nature were enjoyed and refreshments rounded out the evening's pleasure.

Taken Ill on Vacation.

Benjamin Schuck, of Vine street, was brought home from Niagara Falls last night under the care of a nurse. He was spending his vacation at Niagara Falls and Buffalo and had been there a week when taken ill. His condition is serious.

W. R. Causebrook and family, of East Second street, are at Asbury Park.

PERSONAL.

Clarence Leslie Bond, of East Front street, has returned from a visit in Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen E. Beals and son, of East Second street, have returned from a visit at Belmar.

The Misses Amy and Ruth Moore, of West Fourth street, have returned from a visit at Lake Hopatcong.

Miss Louise Foote, of Buffalo, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Schuck, of West Sixth street.

Mrs. Frank Morris and daughter, Margaret, of East Second street, are spending a few days at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Bond, and Mrs. Theopholis Bond, of East Front street, are home after spending two weeks at Belmar.

Miss Mabel Schuck, of West Sixth street, is spending two weeks with cousins and friends at Providence and Newport, Rhode Island.

PARROT A LIVE SAVER.

New York, Aug. 22.—A talented green parrot gave an alarm of fire in a ten-story Madison avenue apartment house early yesterday, and saved the lives of twenty persons, who would otherwise have been suffocated by the dense smoke, which filled the upper floors of the building.

The parrot, owner by Henry W. Dearborn, secretary of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Association, noticed the smoke shortly after midnight, and roused its master by calling repeatedly "Come on, Harry! Come on! Come on!" The fire was in the apartment just above. Mr. Dearborn wakened his family and ran with the parrot's cage under his arm to the street, where he found a policeman. The bluecoat manned the elevator and rushed through the upper floors of the building rousing all the occupants.

The blaze was confined to two apartments, causing a loss of $50,000.

WEDDING GUEST FALLS FROM WINDOW; MAY DIE.

Elizabeth, Aug. 22.—While a wedding celebration was in progress Saturday night at 54 Marshall street, Elizabethport, Stephen Bush, one of the guests, tumbled from the third-story window into the basement, sustaining injuries which will probably prove fatal. Both his arms were fractured and also his spine.

Bush is thirty years old and has a wife living in Austria. He was removed to the Alexian Hospital.

The firemen at No. 4 house in the Netherwood section were called by 'phone this morning to put out a blaze in a tar oven at Putnam and Woodland avenues. The oven is being used by a gang employed in repairing Putnam avenue and the tar boiled over and took fire. The flames were easily extinguished.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

It is reported that Otto Frederickson, who recently quit the local ball team to play with McNulty Brothers, will be back with the "Thistles" again. This would give Manager Alberts two strong pitchers, as Warry MacLaughlin is pitching great ball at present.

Max and Keith Saunders, George Clark and several Plainfield boys, have returned from two weeks' camping at Camp Restless, Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. William Deegan will remove this week from the McIntyre flat on Park avenue, to the new McVoy house, on Front street.

The regular monthly meeting of Excelsior H. and L. Co., was held last night in the company parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Stevens have been entertaining Westfield friends.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

At the Republican Outing last Saturday, the main contest centered in the contest between former Assemblyman Pierce and Assemblyman Thompson for the Senatorship. Both men are recognized as strong men, and it was freely conceded by party leaders that party good would be advanced by stopping the fight and placing both names upon the ticket, Mr. Pierce as the Senatorial nominee and Mr. Thompson at the head of the Assembly ticket.

Nor was there any disagreement among the disinterested, as to which candidate should defer his senatorial aspirations. Under the three term rule obtaining in Union county, Assemblymen are expected to serve three years, one new man being elected each year. This usage is reasonable, is intended for party and public good and rests in the good sense of aiming to secure each year in the Assembly, a combination of experience and new blood. Mr. Pierce deferred to the rule a year ago in refusing a fourth term, and it is conceded Mr. Thompson owes the duty to defer to it this year and fill out his third term. Should he do so, it would mean party harmony, a man of experience in each House, the strength of both names upon the ticket, and undoubtedly party success. So far, there was no disagreement among the disinterested at the outing; but at this point the Pierce men were met with the flat refusal of the Thompson men to defer to the rule, or sacrifice the senatorial aspirations of their candidate for any reason.

The question arises, what will be the outcome. There appears to be no basis for the claim by Mr. Thompson or his friends to the honor except that he wants it and that this appears to be a good time to get it. This is at best a very short sighted policy for it fails to take into account the fact that if the fight goes on, whatever side wins there is certain to be disatisfaction which cannot be wholly reached, and which is liable to cause the loss of the whole ticket in a critical year like the present.

On the other hand, Mr. Pierce, by right of promotion, if such may be considered in legislative service, and it should be, by right of his most excellent record as a member of the Assembly for three years and his acknowledged superior ability and standing in legislative matters of great moment to the State as well as to his home county is entitled to the nomination. Beyond that, the nomination and election of Mr. Pierce will ensure to Union county a continuance of the great influence in the affairs of the State enjoyed in the past. The people of the State have greatly gained by Mr. Pierce's services in the past and beyond question will gain still more if he is placed in the larger field of usefulness, the Senate. There is reason in all things. The great body of Republican voters is disinterested. It cares little for the personal fortunes of either candidate, but it does care for party success. When it is understood, for the facts must come out, that Mr. Thompson has refused the joint ticket, which is concededly the best thing for the party, and is pushing his candidacy over reasonable party usage, against party harmony, and at the risk generally, through dissension, of the loss of the ticket, it is the belief of The Citizen that the popular verdict must be against him.—Cranford Citizen.

DISTRICTS' BOARD

election and of said judge or judges, shall, in an open and public manner, draw out of said boxes, separately, as many names as may be necessary to provide in each election district four members of the board of registry and election, being two members from each of said political parties.

"The names so drawn as aforesaid and transcribed by the county board of elections as they are read by the persons drawing them from the box, shall constitute the election officers as aforesaid, and it shall be the duty of the county board of elections to appoint the persons so drawn as aforesaid as the members of the board of registry and election in the respective districts for which they were chosen, and to issue to each of them a proper certificate of appointment.

"The proceedings as aforesaid shall be under the direction of the judge or judges of the court of common pleas, who shall have full power and authority to conduct such proceedings in accordance with the intent and purpose of this act and to provide for the correction of any mistakes or errors in the method of doing and performing the same.

"If in any election district there are no applicants on the eligible list of one or both of such political parties, or if at any time, for any reason, a vacancy occurs in any district, said judge or judges of the Court of Common Pleas shall select a member for such vacancy from the voters of the proper political party in said election district, and certify the same to the said county board of elections, which shall appoint the men so certified. Such selection by said judge or judges of the court shall be made without any civil service examination, but the said judge or judges shall select said men in accordance with the intent of this act, as hereinbefore provided.

"The election officers thus appointed shall hold office for the term of two years or until their successors are appointed, unless sooner removed as hereinafter provided, but the term of one of the members of the board of registry and election of each political party in each election district first appointed under this act shall be for one year or until his successor is appointed. The member whose term shall be one year shall be determined by lot by the said judge or judges of the Court of Common Pleas. Any person who has once passed the examination herein provided shall be eligible for appointment for the period of six years thereafter, without further examination; and upon his application to the Civil Service Commission, stating he has resided for the period of one year in the election district in which he seeks appointment, or any territory that is a portion thereof in case the same has been redistricted, said commission shall certify his name on the eligible list to the county board of elections, and to the judges or judges aforesaid.

community will affiliate themselves with Dr. Groszmann's National Association. Similar steps have been prepared in Denver, Chicago and Milwaukee.

Even apart from these organizing efforts, Dr. Groszmann's conferences with interested people and his visits to a large number of special schools, institutions, hospitals, detention homes, etc., have left a deep impression and will bear much fruit. So we may say that the seed planted here, on the little mountain near our own city of Plainfield, is sprouting forth all over the land and will in time develop into a growth of noble dimensions. And we who have watched the beginnings of this great work may well learn to be proud of its growth, knowing that it was begun modestly and with so much sacrifice.

Chimney Fire.

A defective chimney in the house occupied by Peter Cuff, colored, of 301 Madison avenue, set fire to the house this morning and gave the department some work. The flames were easily snuffed out by chemicals before much damage was done.

TRINITY COMMANDERY PLANS AN EXCURSION

At the meeting of Trinity Commandery, Knights Templars, last night, a committe was appointed to arrange for the excursion of the local Masonic orders to Asbury Park on Thursday, September 7, to attend the annual field day of the Knights Templars of the State. A special train will be chartered and will leave this city at 9 a. m. After the parade of the Knights an evening by moonlight will be enjoyed on the beach.

Prior's Band has arranged to play special music for the Knights during the day. It is expected that nearly all the members of Trinity Commandery will attend and march in the parade. Among those on the committee are John Ulrich, M. H. Ewart, Charles H. Russell, B. Frank Coriell, Clarence Goss, Garrett T. Dunham, all of this city, and Charles Kenyon, of Somerville.

The local Knights will make their headquarters at the West End hotel next to the headquarters of the grand commandery.

MURRAY RETURNS FROM CLANS' MEET

Robert Murray, chief of Clan Mackkenzie, has returned from the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Royal Clan order which was held last week in Boston. Edmund L. Mackenzie was the delegate from the local clan. One of the important measures taken up at the gathering was the question of the age limit at which beneficiaries of the insurance policies could join the clans. The proposition was made to raise the age from 45 to 55 years and to make a special class for those over 45. The matter was referred to theexecutive council.

Philadelphia was chosen for the next convention where clans will be organized in Camden, New Brunswick and Princeton.

This convention was the largest that has ever been held by the order, there being over 150 clans represented. Fifty past delegates were present. There are now over 200 clans in the order with a total membership of over 15,000. Chief Murray was honored by being chosen as one of the royal tellers.

CRABS ARE BEGINNING TO RUN AT SEWAREN.

One of the fishing parties from Acker's dock at Sewaren brought in a string of crabs yesterday, these being the first caught this season. It is reported that soon the crabbing will be at its height. Weaks, blues and eels are running plentifully at the cinder buoy beds. Some of those who have made good catches are J. Baker, Fred Marksten, Newark, 12 weaks, 2 eels; John DeVoe and Clarence Sidner, Irvington, 18 weaks; Mr. Carlson, Westfield, 10 weaks; John Larson, New York, 4 weaks; Dr. Ley and Mr. Bouton, Elizabeth, 17 weaks; Messrs. Hendricks and Wood, Cranford, 12 weaks; G. C. and J. H. Deidrick, 20 weaks, 1 blue, 1 kingfish; Harry Vernon, Raymond Gould, Woodbridge, 7 weaks; John Stewart, Netherwood, 8 weaks; Harry Davis and Dennis McGovern, Woodbridge, 26 weaks; William Chamberlain, John Murphy, Plainfield, 11 weaks; Charles Marks, Newark, 21 weaks, 1 blue, 5 eels; ex-Chief Wilson, Rahway, 12 weaks; Mr. Schrink and son, Newark, 10 weaks, 3 eels; W. E. and G. V. Brokaw, Orange, 13 weaks; A. L. Sidner and John Huckster, Irvington, 27 weaks.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR JOSEPH BRAND HELD.

Fifty men and twenty-five women from the local Gesang and Turn Verein went to the home of Joseph F. Brand, on Rock avenue, and helped their fellow member celebrate his forty-ninth birthday. After extending their congratulations to Mr. Brand, the members of the party spent the evening in an informal social way.

Singing and piano playing were the features of the gathering, several solos being rendered by some of the members of the Verein. Speeches were made by Mr. Brand, Eugene Rens and August Wolff. Among those who played the piano was Professor Heinrich von Hof, who recently moved to this city and who is the leader of the local Mannerchor. Refreshments were served during the evening and the party broke up shortly after midnight.

John Duffy Arraigned.

John Duffy, a driver for a local coal dealer, who was arrested in the borough Saturday night by Marshal Charles Keller for being drunk, was arraigned before Recorder Charles M. Dolliver this morning. Sentence was suspended.

Miss L. A. Billett, of East Fifth street, has returned from her vacation spent at Ocean Grove.

Proctor's Good Show.
How many lessons the "Old Folks" can teach by their loving patience, thoughtfulness and kindness? The clever comedy sketch presented by Lee Beggs and company, "The Old Folks at Home," tells a funny tale of a husband and wife who have had a serious quarrel and are going home to the old folks to have it settled. The way in which the old folks do settle is too funny for anything. It is an excellent act. "On New Year's Eve," a dandy musical novelty, the scene of which is laid in front of Grace church, N. Y., at midnight on New Year's Eve, is full of surprises in the way of music and singing. The clown in The Bannet Trio is a whole show in himself, cutting all sorts of capers most of the time while his partners perform the most wonderful feats of strength imaginable. A good act indeed. The Melroy Duo, a clever team of Irish funmakers in singing and dancing and funnisms are great.

WORK WITH DEATH

Powder Makers Toil In Constant Peril of Their Lives.

THEY DON'T WANT VISITORS

Men Callers Are Permitted In the Plant Only With Extreme Reluctance and After Drastic Precautions, and Women Are Absolutely Barred.

In all the vocations in which a man can make a living in the United States there is none more perilous than the manufacture of gunpowder and none in which the public, which usually suffers severely in case of accident, takes so small an interest. The word gunpowder itself carries a suggestion of peril which is reflected in all the superstitions of the men who work in the trade.

The men who work in powder plants are a study in themselves. Probably in no other business do the human agents take more precautions against disaster with such pitiful results.

Men who work in powder plants are in constant fear of death. They are face to face with peril every second. Instead of growing hardened to it, as do the laborers in many other fields of danger, they appear to be the most superstitious class of men on earth. They are well paid. A man who has nerve enough to work at this trade is worthy of his hire. He can command $10 a day, sometimes $20. He practically makes his own rules, since he is the one to suffer from an infraction of them. His every suspicion is respected by his employer. He cannot dictate the hours of labor, since that is a matter eternally in dispute, as in other kinds of labor, but he can dictate the conditions under which he works from the moment he enters the factory until he leaves.

These superstitions seem absurd sometimes, but they are the law of the gunpowder factory. If you are an employer you break the law at the risk of financial loss; if you are a fellow employee you violate it at the risk of your life.

One of the first laws among the employees is that of self preservation. They have a deep rooted fear of the casual visitor. Few men have gone through a gunpowder plant out of mere curiosity. They are not wanted and are told so frankly. If they succeed in obtaining the permission of the superintendent or possibly of some one higher in authority they are subjected to an extraordinary ordeal before they are admitted to the sacred precincts.

First they are searched, and no police official is more adept in the art of "frisking" than is the outer guardian of the average gunpowder plant. Every piece of metal, from pocketknife to garter clasp—every coin, match, suspender buckle, everything that could possibly strike a spark, is removed. The hatband of the most fashionable derby is examined with care to see that it carries no metal initials. And this examination is not carried on alone by the official whose favor you have gained. A representative of the employees takes an active part in the examination, and if he has any doubts he will politely request you to strip to the skin.

Once inside the powder factory you are under even more careful scrutiny. Your shoes are taken away, and you are provided with felt slippers. Convinced that on your person there is no piece of metal which under any provocation could strike a spark, you may feel at liberty to roam around, but you are not. Your every movement is watched carefully, and should you make a gesture calculated to inspire distrust you would be hustled out of the building and told to leave the neighborhood within a given time.

I had a graphic illustration of the extreme care taken by these men to prevent an accident and to save their own lives. After having been carefully searched and after having surrendered everything which might come under the classification of metal I was admitted to the plant. Secure in the knowledge that I was thoroughly "disinfected," I assumed a nonchalance which I was far from feeling as I watched the various processes of making gunpowder. I was so well at ease that I drew a toothpick from my pocket and calmly picked my teeth.

Instantly I was thrown to the floor and while two husky men held me a third searched my clothing. When finally I was released it was explained to me that they feared the toothpick might be a match.

Laboring under the constant fear of death, the employees grow extraordinarily superstitious. Once allow a woman to set foot within a powder factory and the entire force will quit. It is one of the axioms of the trade that a woman brings misfortune, and it is useless to argue the question. A woman photographer for a newspaper on a "Sunday assignment" once was admitted into an Illinois powder factory by an inexperienced official, and the next day the plant was shut down. The employees struck. The plant remained idle until an entire new force was recruited.—Chicago News.

Natural Longing.

However old, humble, plain, desolate, afflicted, we may be, so long as our hearts preserve the feeblest spark of life they preserve also, shivering near that pale ember, a starved, ghostly longing for appreciation and affection.

"Tis heaven alone that is given away; 'tis only God may be had for the asking.—Lowell.

General Bate's Unlighted Cigars.

General William B. Bate of Tennessee after distinguished service in behalf of the south was governor and then United States senator. His bravery in battle was attested by a dozen wounds, and in a single engagement three horses were shot from under him.

"It was a habit of the old warrior," said a man who knew him well, "to continually carry an unlighted cigar in his mouth, but few of those who noticed it ever knew the reason of his failure to smoke the weed. At the battle of Shiloh he and a brother were standing side by side when the brother asked General Bate for a light, as he had a cigar, but no match. The general lit a match and handed it to his kinsman, who had scarcely applied it to the tobacco ere a cannon ball came hurtling through the air and severed the smoker's head from his body. The terrible tragedy of Shiloh's bloody field was why in all the years that followed the surviving brother was never known to light a cigar."

Our First Steam Warship.

The Fulton, which at the time of her construction in the early thirties was classed as a "steam battery," was the first United States warship that was propelled by steam. She was built under the superintendence of Commodore Matthew Galbraith Perry and at the time of her completion in 1837 was regarded as one of the world's wonders by way of naval architecture and power at sea. The Fulton was the cause of no little speculation on the part of European powers, for at that time she was looked upon by other nations as all but invincible. When this wonder of the sea was put in commission Commodore Perry, then holding the rank of commander, was put in command of her, and he presently came to be called the "father of the steam navy." The Fulton was built primarily for defense of New York harbor, but she served as well to demonstrate the practical utility of steam power for warships.—New York Times.

Silent Lawyers.

It is almost a maxim nowadays that a lawyer's real importance at the bar is in inverse ratio to his prominence in the papers. The truth is that lawyers of great importance seldom nowadays appear in court. In the old days the great lawyer was the eloquent lawyer; today the great lawer is the silent one. Then bar reputations were made literally at the bar. Today they are made in the offices of the skyscrapers neighboring on Wall street. In England a visit any day to the law courts will be repaid by the sight of some famous K. C. assisting the court in a dramatization of the trial chapter from "Alice In Wonderland." But you might prowl for a month within the precincts of the New York courthouse without encountering a lawyer whose name would signify anything remarkable to the historian of the New York bar.—American Magazine.

Curious Justice.

A Paris contemporary gives us a glimpse of the administration of justice among the natives in the Lower Niger territory, which for its efficacy migh be compared with Swift's account of the means adopted by judicial authorities in Laputa, we believe, to discover conspirators. If a native is accused of theft the heads of the village make a decoction of herbs and put into the essence about a grain of ground pepper. The liquid is then lightly applied to the eyelid. If the suspect weeps he is considered guilty. But the murder test is an improvement upon that of theft. The "wise man" of the district draws a vessel of water, into which he puts some poison. Then he takes a cow's tail and "asperges" the eyes of the supposed assassin. If the man becomes blind he is pronounced a murderer.

For Testing Gold.

The acid used by jewelers for testing gold is extremely powerful and has to be very carefully handled. To prevent any considerable quantity of the acid being spilled a specially constructed bottle is employed. The stopper of this is made of glass and contains a long pointed glass rod which passes down the center of the bottle. When an article of jewelry is to be tested the stopper is simply removed, and the article is touched with the point of the glass rod to which a very slight quantity of acid has adhered. Gold is not affected by the acid, but imitation metal turns green.

One Way to Arbitrate.

Commodore Vanderbilt used often to arbitrate his tenants' disputes, and one day two farmers called on him in his function of arbitrator. The commodore before consenting to act put to the first tenant the necessary question:

"Now, Henry, if I consent to arbitrate will you abide by my decision?"

The farmer, a hard headed old fellow, answered thoughtfully:

"Well, commodore, I'd like to know what it is first."

A Cruel Apologist.

"Mr. Bliggins takes himself very seriously," said the critical young woman.

"Well," replied Miss Cayenne, "you can't blame him. To be thrown into a cruel world with no more brains than he possesses would be a serious matter for anybody."—Washington Star.

Her Tact.

Howard—Did she refuse you, old man? Coward—Well, in a delicate, indirect way. She told me she never wanted anything she could get easily.—Harper's Bazar.

Fixed to no spot is happiness. 'Tis nowhere to be found or everywhere.—Pope.

Paint that Stays Painted

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Bottomless Tarpon Springs.

The great body of water which gave the name to Tarpon Springs, Fla., is classed by all of the old citizens as bottomless. The center appears to be a hole curbed with jagged rocks. Sometimes the weight has lodged and then dropped on to the extent of the sounding line afterward. Many citizens say that they know the depth to be in excess of 700, 800 and 900 feet. Once when a depth of 200 feet was reached an obstruction was encountered; then it was dislodged, dropped on farther, and the line broke. A very heavy weight has to be used on account of the depth, and when divers are sent down in the springs, as they have been recently, they report the same great jagged hole, which, so far as they can find out, is without bottom. The spring is supposed to be the principal outlet of that beautiful Lake Butler which lies just a mile east of the town. Tidewater comes up into the spring, and it has acquired the name because it was the playground of the silvered king of fish, the tarpon.—Manufacturers' Record.

Preferred to Be a Quack.

A quack at a fair near Paris was driving a roaring trade selling nostrums, drawing teeth and beguiling the crowd in the usual ways, says the British Medical Journal. The letter of the French law against unqualified practice is very strong, though owing to the indifference of the magistrates it is not strictly carried out. This, however, was a particularly flagrant case, and the police felt compelled to intervene. The quack was therefore accosted by the guardians of the law, taken to a tent at the back of his stand and requested to show his diploma. To the stupefaction of the gendarmes he exhibited a perfectly authentic degree of doctor of medicine of the University of Paris. They were profuse in their apologies, which the doctor cut short with an urgent entreaty that they should say nothing about what they had seen, "for," he said, "if the people know that I am a qualified doctor I shall have no more customers."

A Marvel of Insect Mechanism.

The sting of a certain Indian fly offers as marked an example of design in nature as can well be imagined. When seen through a magnifying glass it is found to be composed of three sharp blades folded into one with their cutting edges outward and running down to one fine point. When the fly inserts this up to the hilt in its victim the three blades fly apart, and then it is seen that each inner edge is a beautiful saw, worked by six separate muscles, so that when withdrawn the instrument rips its way out with a gush of blood. But now comes the most curious provision of all. It would not do to fold up these blades with the blood adhering to them, so each blade is provided at its base with a fine brush of hairs growing out of an oil gland, which provides an antiseptic secretion to keep the blades clean.

Careless, as Usual.

The great baseball player's wife had never seen a game, but he finally persuaded her to view one in which he was to play.

He was doing his best, of course. One strike had been called on him, and, as usual in baseball anecdotes, two men were out and the bases were full. Our hero was gathering his strength for the swat he was going to give the ball.

And the ball came. He knew it was his as the ball started, and with a mighty crack he lifted it into space.

Dropping his bat, he sped for first, and ere the roar of applause burst out a slight woman in the grand stand rose and called:

"Will, come back here and put that bat where it belongs!"—Buffalo Express.

Kissing Ethel.

She was fashionably dressed and gave out the perfume of violets as the brakeman turned to help her up the steps of the train which was due to leave. Turning to her maid, she said:

"Oh, I must kiss Ethel goodby!"

"Oh, go on," said the fresh brakeman. "I'll kiss Ethel goodby."

"No, you won't, either," came from the woman. "That precious dog was never kissed by a stranger in her whole life!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Sensible Course.

"Why do you insist on that boy's studying music?" said the man with respect for art. "You know very well he can't sing."

"Yes," replied the patient father; "I know it. And I want him to learn enough about music to realize it for himself."—Exchange.

Another Viewpoint.

Clara—I overheard Mr. Bimberly say to a friend the other evening that I was a pretty young lady. Maude—Well, you are pretty young; but, of course, you are growing older each day.—Chicago News.

An Obstructionist.

"So you are going to have a new gown?"

"I don't know. Mother has passed the bill, but I expect father will veto it. He is opposed to all our bills nowadays."

Use For the Library.

Architect (showing plans)—This room will be your library. Mr. Newrich—My library? Oh, yes, of course. I must have a place to smoke.—Boston Transcript.

MY AEROPLANE ADVENTURES

By J. ARMSTRONG DREXEL

IV.—Fighting Fear In Cloudland

[Copyright, 1911, by Henry M. Neely. Copyright in Great Britain and Canada. All rights reserved.]

FEW aviators will admit that they have any fear in flying. Yet I venture to assert that there isn't a man using an aeroplane today who does not feel a sinking sensation either just before he mounts his seat or shortly afterward or many times after he gets well into the air.

The late Ralph Johnstone exhibited less fear than any man I have ever known, yet he admitted to me that he frequently found himself on the verge of panic while performing some of his most dangerous evolutions. He, however, was the type of man who kept absolute control of himself, and he never allowed this feeling the upper hand. He unconsciously illustrated this power of control when shortly before his unfortunate end he told me one day of a plan he had of turning a back somersault in the air.

"I want to get up about 5,000 feet," he said, drawing a diagram on a piece of paper. "Then I will begin the somersault. The machine will go backward a certain distance until it loses the support of the air. Then it will drop straight down for about 3,000 feet. During that drop I shall manipulate my levers so that they will bring her right side up again, and I will glide to the ground."

Johnstone was perfectly serious about it. He admitted that he was afraid of it, but he was determined that he would do it.

Captain Thomas S. Baldwin is probably as seasoned a veteran of air perils as is alive today. For many years he went about the world ballooning and parachute jumping and then he took to the aeroplane. No one in watching him would think that he knew the meaning of the word fear. Yet a friend of mine once asked him if he ever felt nervous, and he replied:

"Scared to death every time I take my seat. Some days my mechanics have to shove me on to the machine. Then, when I get her started, I am all right and the fear vanishes. But I am a baby until I hear the motor going."

Different Forms of Fear.

Some men feel their greatest fear at the thought of the engine stopping suddenly and without warning. I have never been troubled by this, though I have had it happen to me several times. Each time, however, I managed to get down safely, and I have always felt that there was a good chance in favor of the aviator if he keeps his head and takes as gradual a slant downward as is needed to give him control of his machine.

I know several men, though, who have never got over their nervousness at the thought of volplaning, as they term coasting down without power. The slightest sound in the engine that hints of trouble puts them in the same panic that the thought of the tail of my aeroplane puts me when I am out for altitude records.

As a man mounts higher and higher into the air the familiar objects of earth fade from his sight and he becomes overpowered with a sense of being absolutely alone—of being cast adrift and dependent entirely upon his own resources and upon a power plant which he knows may fail him at any moment.

Up and up he climbs, and soon he enters the region of the clouds. He seems to be whizzing through an immense void with neither sides nor top nor bottom, and the unreality of it all and the immensity of it oppress him and the nerves begin their unpleasant little tremors that tell of approaching fear.

Then above the clouds he bursts into the glaring, brilliant sunlight, and here again he meets conditions that increase the nerve tremors. Sudden gusts of wind catch him. They are quick and dangerous just above the clouds on a sunshiny day, and they give no warning of their approach, so it means every faculty on edge to prepare for all kinds of contingencies, and the strain begins to tell. So one grits one's teeth and sits tighter and looks to the whirling propeller or the anemometer or anything to take one's mind off the loneliness and the vastness and his own impudence in coming up so high into a region in which he has no rights.

When Fear Laughs at You.

Up near the top of the climb, when the last few mad minutes of plunging and rising, plunging and rising, begin, fear seems to laugh at you for trying to keep it away from you.

Now the nerves are gone. They jump and strain, and you fancy you hear and see things, and then your fears concentrate on a noise behind you, and suddenly you realize that you are gone—the tail has come loose! It is rattling on its broken wires now, and at the next plunge it will be wrenched off completely and leave you helpless in the one awful straight drop down to the earth that is lurking under the clouds thousands of feet below you.

You take a quick glance over your shoulder and find the tail in first class shape, holding the machine to her work and looking strong enough to balance a machine with two men your size.

Completely reassured, you turn again to your climbing. Your nerves are terribly shaken by this few moments of panic, but you make up your mind that it shall not occur again, and you grit your teeth and shove her nose upward once more.

Usually the danger is over almost before the aviator can realize it. It keeps him busy. Every nerve and every faculty is worked to the utmost to overcome the danger, and there is only a lightninglike passing sensation of awful horror.

A Flight of Torture.

But once in awhile we do get caught under circumstances that make flying a long continued torture, and one of these times that I shall never forget occurred to me during the meet at Lanark, Scotland, a day or two before I made the world's altitude record. I rose gradually in big circles and was, I should say, 2,500 or 3,000 feet high when I suddenly heard above the sound of the engine an unusual and most disagreeable flapping sound at my left.

Glancing along the front of the plane on that side, I was horrified to see that something was loose and was being torn this way and that by the pressure of the air, through which I was going at a rate of about sixty miles an hour. I was suddenly overwhelmed with the stupefying realization that the only thing it could be was a piece of the fabric with which the framework of the rib was covered and which gives the supporting surface of an aeroplane. To the layman the full import of such a realization cannot be understood in its full force. Briefly it meant that the cloth which alone held me in the air had begun to rip on that side, and I knew that at the tremendous speed at which I was going it would take only one good grip of the wind under such a small opening to tear the entire fabric from front to rear, whip it off the frame and leave me absolutely unsupported on that side to go crashing below.

All this flashed across my mind in an instant, and I made up my mind to turn about and try to get back to the aviation field.

I came down in as easy curves as I could because I did not want to put any extra strain on the torn fabric, and I kept my eye glued on that vibrating piece of cloth, fascinated, held spellbound by the problem of whether it would continue to vibrate without tearing until I got down another one hundred feet or so to comparative safety, or whether it was merely waiting until the last moment to give a final shrieking rip as though in a fiendish desire to tantalize me with false hope as long as possible.

I know that cold sweat stood out all over my body, and it was only by instinct that I worked the controls of my machine, for my entire mind was focused on that little flapping shred and all my thoughts revolved about that one question of whether it would hold long enough to let me get a little closer and have a chance for safety in the fall if the rip did come.

Blessing of Something to Do.

As I look back on it, I believe I never even noticed the jolting of the wheels when at last I touched the ground. Dumbly and by instinct again I had shut off the power on landing, bringing the machine to a full stop.

I sat in my seat as my mechanics came running up, and with my eyes still glued fascinated to the spot where I had seen the flapping cloth I waited for them. When one of my men came near I shouted to him to go over there and see what was hanging to the plane.

"I do not see anything," he said.

"Isn't there a shred of the cloth hanging there?" I asked.

He ducked under the plane and soon came up, holding in his hand a little piece of string four or five inches long.

"It wasn't a piece of cloth," he said, "it was just a bit of string that got caught in a bolt here."

Do not get the idea from what I have said that an aviator is more or less constantly engaged in fighting fear when he is in flight. As a rule, a man in an aeroplane is far too busy to think much of fear, especially when he is taking part in some meet. There are pylons or turning posts to be rounded, grand stands and inclosures to be avoided, outlines of ships to drop bombs upon, circles and squares to land in for accuracy and all such details that keep a man's mind fully occupied. The earth is near and flashes by at the rate of a mile a minute, and, more than likely, there are other machines in the air at the same time, and the rules of the "road" must be followed or there will be disqualification if not total smashup. So the aviator is too fully occupied in guiding his machine according to the rules to think much about the danger he is in, yet, oddly enough, it is in this very competitive form of flying that he is in most peril. In working by himself he is least in danger, yet he is likely to be more in fear, for he has more time to think of his peril and not so much to occupy his mind and so quiet his nerves.

Panic From Nothing to Do.

Before I had gone very far into aeroplaning I had an experience in the air which illustrates the point that the many things a man has to do while flying and think about for safety's sake as a rule operate to keep his mind away from fear.

I had been well up in my Bleriot several times and had felt very little nervousness when a friend in England invited me to accompany him and a party of guests on a balloon trip. As the ground sank away beneath me I tried to feel some of the thrills that I had felt in my good Bleriot. But they did not come. There was no merry humming of the motor, no stinging rush of the wind, no sense of great power overcoming nature, nothing to give me the idea that I was doing some of the work and that skill and courage were necessary to success.

It seemed that we were only hung suspended by a tiny thread and that all of us were on edge, waiting for the thread to snap and the whole outfit to go crashing below to the far distant earth and to destruction.

I could not get out of my mind this sense of suspended fate—of helpless waiting for something awful to happen. I had never experienced it in my Bleriot. There all was action. Muscles, mind, nerves were constantly occupied with the glorious battle.

I found myself looking at the ropes that suspended the car. They were all too thin and weak, it seemed to me, for the weight of such a party. I felt my nerves going fast. I felt the need of fighting something, of working levers, of directing the thing, of doing something or other that would give me a chance. I was in a cold sweat, and my knees and teeth actually trembled. I knew it was silly, yet I could not help it. I was in a complete funk. The awful stillness, the oppressive calm, the sense of nothing to do and nothing to be done—all so different from the inspiriting struggle in a fighting aeroplane—increased my panic every minute, and I was never before nor have I ever since been so glad of getting back to Mother Earth as I was when we stepped from the basket.

PAINTING FOR CASH PRIZES

OUR CONTEST FOR AMATEURS WILL SOON END.

The amateur painters of this vicinity have made a splendid showing this year in the paintings they have entered in the contest for the generous prizes we offered, and we expect still more pictures to be entered before the contest closes. We would like, however, to have every picture in this week so that the public may have ample opportunity of viewing the products of the aspiring artists who are ambitious enough to place the paintings on view and to seek the rewards open to them. The contest closes September the 9th. Prizes will be awarded September 16th.

Following are the cash prizes offered:

1st—For best work in Figure Studies in Oil, $10; Water Color, $10.
2nd—For the best work in Landscapes in Oil, $10; Water Color, $10.
3rd—For best work in Landscapes and Figure Combination in Oil, $10; Water Color, $10
4th—For the best work in Flowers in Oil, $5; Water Color, $5.
5th—For the best work in Fruit in Oil, $5; Water Color, $5.
An extra prize for best Study of Animal in Oil, $10; Water Color, $10.

All pictures intended for the exhibition must be framed. Those having work unframed will be given a special discount of 20 per cent. in our Picture Framing Department for the framing of any picture to be entered in the contest.

There will be no entrance fee, but as proof of your interest in the store we ask that you present checks showing that you have purchased $1 worth of artist material in our Artist Department.

Prizes will be awarded September 16th.

The exhibtion will be in our Gallery of Paintings, Second Floor.

Victor-Victrolas for $50

After much persistent effort and experiment, the Victor Talking Machine Company has produced a Victor-Victrola that in price will be within the easy reach of practically every one desiring to possess one of these extraordinary and highly entertaining musical instruments—$50.

Our first shipment has just arrived, and we are delighted with the instruments, as we are sure all will be who secure one.

Needless to say the tone of these Victor-Vivtrolas is beautiful and clear and will reproduce the human voice in the same marvelous fashion as the more expensive instruments. You surely must come in and hear them at your earliest convenience. We invite you to come and urge you.

The woods are mahogany, golden oak, and weathered oak; the finish is perfect, all the metal parts are enclosed, and it is indeed a thing of beauty.

We have other Victrolas at $75, $100, $150 and $200.

A QUICK TWIST.

Why the Watchful Owl Didn't Wring Its Own Head Off.

Boys who have tried to "put salt on a bird's tail" generally come to the conclusion that birds can "see behind them," and some may half believe that the heads of these little creatures are hung on pivots. How easily one could conceive such a notion is illustrated by the experience of a Maryland man who had read a story about an owl wringing its own neck by looking at a man who was walking around him. The Marylander decided to experiment along these lines and so procured a fine specimen of an owl and placed him on a post.

It was not difficult for the experimenter to secure the owl's attention, for the bird never diverted his gaze from the man while the latter was present. The man began walking rapidly around the post a few feet from it, keeping his eyes fixed upon the bird all the while.

The owl's body remained motionless, but his head turned exactly with the man's movements. When the man was halfway round the owl's head was directly behind. Three-quarters of a circle were completed, and still the same twist of the neck and the same stare followed the man.

One circle and no change. On the man went, twice around, and still that watchful stare and steady turn of the head. Three times the man went around, and he began to wonder why the owl's head did not drop off, when all at once the man discovered what he had failed to notice before.

When the man reached a distance halfway around from the front, which was as far as the owl could turn his head to follow the experimenter's movements with comfort, the owl whisked it back through the whole circle so instantaneously and brought it facing the man again with such precision that the latter failed to detect the movement, although he was looking intently all the while at the bird.

The Marylander repeated the experiment many times afterward on the same bird, and he had always to watch carefully to detect the movement of the readjustment of the owl's gaze.—Philadelphia Record.

SOBERED AND LABELED.

The Pre-Raphaelite Treatment For Drunken Geniuses.

Nothing in Mr. Ford Madox Hueffer's "Ancient Lights" is more amusing than the account of his illustrious grandfather's efforts to reclaim the many drunken geniuses of his acquaintance. It appears that he "was in the habit of providing several of them with labels, upon which were inscribed his own name and address. Thus when one of these geniuses was found incapable in the neighborhood he would be brought by cabmen and others to Fitzroy square. The poet, being thus recaptured, would be carried upstairs by Charlotte and laid in the bath and would be reduced to sobriety by cups of the strongest coffee that could be made (the bath was selected because he would not be able to roll out and injure himself). And, having been thus reduced to sobriety, he would be lectured, and he would be kept in the house, being given nothing but lemonade to drink until he found the regime intolerable. Then he would disappear, the label sewed inside his coat collar, to reappear once more in charge of a cabman."

Whistler was not among the winebibbers, but he had other peculiarities. "Upon one occasion," says Mr. Hueffer, "Madox Brown, going to a tea party at the Whistlers' at Chelsea, was met in the hall by Mrs. Whistler, who begged him to go to the poulterer's and purchase a pound of butter. The bread was cut, but there was nothing to put upon it. There was no money in the house, the poulterer had cut off his credit, and Mrs. Whistler said she dare not send her husband, for he would certainly punch that tradesman's head."

A Nice Sandwich For a Pink Tea.

Various counties in England have their especial brand of sandwiches. In some apple and meat are mingled together; in others the customary slices of bread are supplanted by slices of parkin. Devonshire perhaps can boast the most luscious sandwich of all English counties. To make a Devon sandwich a "split" or scone is cut in half, each side is buttered, then jam is spread upon the butter, upon that again a thick coating of marmalade. Finally clotted cream is added with equal liberality, and the split, thus swollen beyond recognition, is ready for consumption.—London Globe.

Cupid in Caledonia.

An ancient Scotswoman rallied her daughter.

"Meg, for why canna ye encounter Sandy boy but ye must go red as red?" she asked.

"Mither," the girl shyly confessed, "he glares at me that fiercely I maun deem he's in loo' wi' me!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Just Like His Dad.

"Bliggins says he has one of the smartest and handsomest youngsters in the country."

"Yes," replied Mr. Growcher; "that's what comes of so many people thinking it necessary to tell a man that his children take after him."—Washington Star.

Anti-Borough Campaign.

Ocean Grove, Aug. 22.—To strengthen its cause in the eyes of those who come here, the Camp-meeting Association will hold a public meeting in the Temple next Thursday night, at which time arguments will be advanced to counteract the influence of those who are seeking the formation of a borough government. The association cause will be defended by lawyers and other speakers. The anti-boroughites say that Ocean Grove was founded along such lines that to convert it into a borough would be to destroy its original purpose. It is proposed to form what will be known as the "Ocean Grove Lessees Association."

PRICES OF CHICKENS GO UP.

Despite the smashing of the so-called Poultry Trust, and the subsequent declaration of an "open market" in live chickens, prices are up this week. Wholesale, it costs the dealer eighteen cents per pound for chickens, crated and cackling. What they will cost the chicken eater, plated and crackling, depends on the individual retailer's respect for the profit and loss columns.

But those acquainted with the poultry situation for the past few years say that the greatest evil of the trust was raising the price on chickens to exorbitant figures around the holidays. A frequent sight during the past few years, it is said, have been long lines of live chicken cars in Hoboken, held there to create an artificial shortage in the market. This, it is hoped, will be no more.

Prices are now regulated directly, so the dealers state, by the standard "supply and demand" gage. The former custom of abiding by the trust prices set by the poultry ring leaders, and announced to the trade in weekly bulletins, has given way to what the dealers hope will be an open market.

ATHLETICS LOSE GAME ON 4 WILD THROWS

Plainfield Athletics were no match for the Jackson Field Club nine on Hyde field Saturday afternoon and the latter team won easily by a 7-2 score. "Lefty" Stewart was on the mound for the Jacksons and was in great form, striking out twelve men and issuing but two free trips to the initial sack. He was invincible when hits meant runs, the Athletics getting only four safe clouts from his delivery. The Jacksons could only muster six clean hits but four wild throws and two errors were responsible for the majority of the runs made by the winning team.

Terry pitched a steady game for the Athletics but poor support allowed the opposing team to score almost at will. The Athletics have next Saturday open and would like to hear from some first-class amateur team, preferably the Netherwoods or West Ends.

INTERNATIONAL RIFLE TOURNAMENT PLANNED

The first international rifle shoot since 1901 will be held this year at Sea Girt, if the efforts of General Bird W. Spencer, inspector-general of rifle practice in New Jersey, are successful. He is endeavoring to secure the presence of Canadian and English rifle teams to compete in the tournament at the seashore range in September. Challenges have been sent to the foreign teams, and a response, which it is hoped will be accepted, is expected in a few days.

The Canadian team to which the challenge has been issued is the same team which went to Bisley, England, in July, and defeated all comers from the United Kingdom for the title of English champions.

General Spencer is president of the Association of International Riflemen, which is made up of men who have shot on international teams, and as soon as he issues the challenge to the Englishmen, General John C. Bates, U. S. A., retired, who is president of the National Rifle Association, took the matter up and supplemented the invitation. On August 14 General Spencer offered the New Jersey range for the match as he had learned that the Canadians, if they came, would not go to Camp Perry, when the National Rifle matches are to be held, beginning August 28. He had a talk with Governor Wilson, and the Executive advised him that he would do everything he could to help make the visit of the Canadians pleasant. Following this General Spencer wrote to General Bates, stating that if the challenge was accepted he would have the matches of the State Association, scheduled to be completed September 9, pushed through, so that they would be completed on the eighth, so that the two teams could get a full day to try out for their matches.

The majority of the members of the New Jersey team for the annual National rifle matches left last night for Camp Perry, Ohio, where the matches will begin on August 28. General Bird W. Spencer, who will be the team captain, and Major Winfield S. Price, of the Third Regiment, are the only ones who have not now started, and they will leave next week. Lieutenant-Colonel W. A. Tewes, assistant inspector of small arm practice, and Captain Owen Smith, of the Fourth Regiment, are already at Camp Perry, competing in the individual matches.

UNION LABOR LEADER LAUDS THE GOVERNOR

Governor Wilson was lauded in no uncertain manner at the thirty-third annual convention of the State Federation of Labor, which opened in the Temple Building at Camden yesterday. President Cornelius Ford, of Hoboken, said in part:

"Knowing that men of labor will give credit where creidt is due, I take this opportunity of repeating at this convention that labor has never had a better friend in regard to legislation during the past session of the New Jersey Legislature than Governor Woodrow Wilson. Every measure introduced for and by labor received not only encouragement from the Chief Executive of the State but all bills passed in the interest of wage-earners received the Governor's signature."

Mr. Ford urged the appointment of a committee to raise funds for the defense of the McNamara brothers, whose arrests he brands as an outrage and legalized kidnapping. He denounced the use of injunctions in labor troubles, and advocated that power of the courts be curtailed either by legislative enactment or constitutional amendment. He recommended the abolition of the Department of Labor and Church and favored giving instructions to the executive board to devise means whereby the church can better understand the labor movement.

The convention, which is attended by 206 delegates, representing ninety-two unions—an increase of forty-eight local bodies over last year—was greeted by Mayor Ellis.

Today the reports of the various committees will be read and acted upon and there will be nominations of officers. The third and final day will be devoted to the election of officers, taking final action on whatever resolutions may have been offered, and the selection of a place for the holding of the convention in 1912.

There are many matters which the convention will take up for consideration that are of especial interest to the working class. Among them is the employers' liability act. It is said the convention will recommend that several changes be made in this law looking toward a more liberal protection of the workingman, it is pointed out that in some instances the compensation in cases of injury should be greater than provided for in the law as it now stands.

Child labor will receive due consideration, as will the question of curtailing the hours for female help in factories and stores.

The officers of the State Federation are as follows: President, Cornelius Ford, Hoboken; vice-presidents, Thomas A. Bowe, Woodbridge, and Frank A. Fettridge, Newark; secretary, Henry F. Hilfers, Newark; treasurer, Joseph P. O'Lone, Hoboken; executive board, James Matthews, Paterson, and Patrick J. Donovan, Elizabeth.

Mrs. Philip B. Macintyre, of West Seventh street, returned home Wednesday on the giant White Star liner, Olympic. Mrs. Macintyre was abroad since June 1, spending the time principally in England, Wales and Scotland, enjoying coaching trips.

STILL IN THE AIR

Borough Republicans No Nearer Settling Situation as Result of Meeting.

NO WORD FROM SMALLEY.

J. J. Stahl Wins Cheers By Announcing Willingness to Run Again If Candidates Remain Scarce.

Contrary to expectations, the meeting of the North Plainfield Republicans, held last night in Debele's auditorium, did not develope any solution to the acute political situation in the borough. It was anticipated that there would be a free and full discussion of candidates for the offices to be filled at the fall election and that a statement would be made by Mayor N. B. Smalley as to his position. He was not at the meeting and no statement was made regarding his candidacy.

Since the announcement by Robert Clark, Jr., of his intention to seek the mayoralty nomination on the Republican ticket in opposition to Mayor Smalley, no announcement has been made by Mr. Smalley as to whether or not he is going to stand for re-nomination. tI is known that his friends are anxious to have him do so and have been urging him to make his announcement to this effect.

Aside from affecting an organization, the assembled voters learned that William de laR. Anderson, of Watchung, had been announced as a candidate for nomination for member of the Assembly on the Republican ticket in place of Charles C. Wheeler, who had declined. Mr. Anderson received the endorsement of the meeting, and his name will be submitted for consideration at the next meeting of the county voters.

Louis A. Barclew was selected chairman of the meeting and E. P. T. Smith, secretary. Mr. Smith stated the purpose of the meeting and said that inasmuch as the county ticket seemed to be taken care of with W. W. Smalley, for Snator and Mr. Anderson, for Assembly, the matter to be considered was the borough ticket. This was the expected opening for discussion, but it did not develop.

Several times it seemed to be about to begin, but calm again settled over the assemblage. One of the times was when Councilman M. C. VanArsdale was recognized by the chair and said that he would like to see the retiring officials stand for re-nomination. He was referring to Councilmen W. L. Smalley and J. J. Stahl. Continuing, he said that a petition is being circulated for Edmund Rushmore for Mr. Smalley's place, but he said that it was only done with Mr. Rushmore's consent after he had learned that Mr. Smalley would not run again. If Mr. Smalley were to reconsider, Mr. VanArsdale said, he felt sure Mr. Rushmore would not oppose him. Mr. Smalley was not at the meeting and his views about reconsidering were not learned.

In reply, Mr. Stahl said that if it was found impossible to get a candidate in his plae he would onsent to run again, but he did noct want to do so, and was perfetly willing that another candidate be found in his place. His remarks were greeted with applause and a petition in his favor will be circulated in a few days unless another man is found to accept the nomination.

In the permanent organization Edmund Rushmore was elected president of the North Plainfield Republican Club, that being the name agreed upon for the organization; Raymond Miller, secretary and L. B. Woolston, treasurer. The office of vice-president was left open until next meeting. J. J. Stahl, L. B. Woolston and James K. Arnold were named as a committee to select a meeting place, and confer with the president about the date of the next meeting.

Alexander Milne read a letter from J. V. E. Vanderhoef in which he stated that he was not a candidate for councilman and that he was in favor of seeing the present incumbents of all offices returned.

The next meeting will be at the call of the chair.

Still a Candidate.

William H. Clarkson, one of the Rahway Democratic candidates for sheriff, strongly denies the report published in several papers that he has withdrawn from the shrievalty race, and says that the assurance of support which he has received from all parts of the county will keep him in the race to the finish. He regards the statement that he has withdrawn as a political trick.

REVIVE BOOM FOR 'MAYOR' ANDERSON

A boom for William de laR Anderson as candidate for member of the Assembly on the Republican ticket in Somerset county was launched yesterday. This is the second boom in his favor within a short time. It began to take shape after Charles C. Wheeler, of Johnston's Drive, declined to run. At the meeting of representative citizens of the county held in Somerville several weeks ago, Mr. Wheelr received the unanimous endorsement of those present, but several days later he surprised his friends by declining on the ground that his business would not permit of his being a candidate.

Since that time at the request of his friends he has endeavored to arrange his affairs so that he could reconsider and make the run for the nomination. Yesterday he announced that his efforts in this direction were unsuccessful and came out for Mr. Anderson. It is understood that Mr. Anderson will consent to stand and will receive the same endorsement accorded Mr. Wheeler when the county meeting is reconvened in the near future.

As soon as Mr. Wheeler's statement declining the honor was made public, a petition in Mr. Anderson's favor was started but he asked his friends to withhold it until Mr. Wheeler's final answer was received. It is understood that the sentiment in Somerset county is that the lower end of the county should be given the preferrence in the matter of candidates ofr members of the lower house, and if Mr. Anderson will submit himself, it is almost assured that he will secure the nomination.

He has been active in matters pertaining to North Plainfield township and has earned the title of Mayor of Watchung through his activities in securing much needed improvements for that section. He still has a number of projects under way and is loath to abandon these and relinquish the office he now holds, but he will do so if it is the wish of the voters.

WILLIAM GREEN DIES IN HIS 75TH YEAR

Following a short illness, William Green, aged seventy-four years, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William J. Hudson, of 257 Somerset street. Mr. Green had lived in this city for the past three years, having come here from Brooklyn, N. Y., where he had lived the greater part of his life.

Three years ago Mr. Green removed to the borough and was engaged in the livery business with the Plainfield Cab Company, of which his son-in-law, William J. Hudson, is the owner. Although not active in any of the social organizations or lodges in this city, he was well known here and had a large circle of friends.

Surviving Mr. Green are his widow,, who now lives with Mr. and Mrs. Hudson; a daughter, Mrs. William J. Hudson, and three grandchildren, Miss Ethel and Harold Hudson, of Somerset street, and Arthur Decker, of Brooklyn. Funeral services will be held at the residence of William J. Hudson tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Miss Susan Curry, a healer of the First Church of Christ Scientist, will officiate and the interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

MRS. DENNIS TEEPLE DIES IN PHILADELPHIA.

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Mrs. Dennis Teeple, which occurred last Tuesday in Philadelphia, where she was making her home with her son, George. She was formerly a resident of this city, where her husband was a foreman in the old-time wholesale clothing factory of Schepflin, Baldwin, Tweedy Company.

Mr. Teeple was a member of the well known Teeple family, of South Plainfield. Mrs. Teeple is survived by the following children: Henry, Fred, George, Charles, Albert, Alice and Laura.

Rev. George Bolsterli to Preach.

Rev. George Bolsterli, formerly of this city, but now holding a charge in New York State, will occupy the pulpit at Trinity Reformed church, Sunday morning. In the evening the last union service of the summer season will be held at the First M. E. church, when Rev. A. S. Zimmerman, the supply at the First Presbyterian church for the day, will preach.

Borough Democrats to Meet.

A meeting of the Democrats of North Plainfield has been called for tomorrow night in Debele's auditorium on Chatham street. A permanent organization of the borough Democrats will be effected at that time and officers of the club for this year will be elected.

DEPEW AN AVIATOR

Son of R. H. Depew, of Hillside Ave. Gained His License in France Yesterday.

FIRST PLAINFIELD AIRMAN.

Youthful Flier is Also One of the Youngest Certified Drivers of Heavier Than Air Machines.

Richard Henry Depew, Jr., son of Richard H. Depew, of Hillside avenue, has the distinction of being the first Plainfielder to gain an aviator's license. He received his certificate to navigate an aeroplane from the Aero Club of France, yesterday. Besides being the first resident of this city to obtain an aviator's license, Mr. Depew is also the first Plainfielder to successfully operate a heavier-than-air machine, for while several local men have had aeroplanes, and have operated them, their attempts at flying have not ben altogether successful.

The local aviator, who is but seventeen years old, and a graduate of John Leal's school in this city, has been studying aeronautic under the tutelage of Mons. Maurice Farman at his aerodrome in Buc near Versailles, France. Since the latter part of July. During his course of study Mr. Depew showed a decided knowledge of the mysteries of air travel as well as an unusual aptitude.

In the flying machine Mr. Depew displayed a remarkable coolness and resource and it was after only a few weeks of study that Mons. Farman regarded him as able to take his examinations for license. He took these tests yesterday and passed them with complete success. His remarkable performances have called forth from his noted instructor the statement that the New Jersey boy is a most brilliant pupil.

Young Depew is next to the youngest licensed aviator in the world. Mons. Hanriot, of France, being a few months the junior of the Plainfield boy. For the past year, while in this city, Depew has taken an active interest in aeronautics ad wireless telegraphy in company with several of his young friends. He had studied the theory of navigating the atmosphere with a heavier than air machine before he went abroad, a trip which he took with his father and stepmother on their honeymoon. They left this city July 14.

When the party arrived in Paris, young Depew was stirred by the accounts of the aeroplane feats in southern France which were published in the Parisian newspapers, and when his parents left the French nptropolis for Vercailles, Richard asked and received permission to take lessons at the Farman Aerodrome, at Buc. He received his first trip and instruction with Mons. Farman himself and after that went up several times with Mons. Fourney, the chief pilot of the Farman fleet, going each time in a Farman biplane.

After his first trip he exclaimed upon landing safely on terra firma, "it was magnificent." He said that he was bothered considerably by the noise of the motor, which rendered him almost deaf, because he had neglected to stuff cotton in his ears. He told of the peculiar sensation which is experienced while gliding through the air at a fast clip and seated on a soft cushion with the machine in the absolute control of the driver.

Young Depew remained at Buc, while his parents went on an automobile tour through France and he has been studying aeronautics there ever since. He will rejoin his parents when they start on their return to Plainfield next month and is expected to bring an aeroplane with him to this city.

The young aviator is widely known in this city. He was a popular student at Leal's School, and among the leaders in the athletic intterests of that institution. He is widely known here as a fast tennis player and a social leader among the younger set of this city.

SENATOR MARTINE AT WILSON CLUB'S OUTING.

Senator James E. Martine sent word yesterday to Washington E. L. Sperry, chairman of the Speakers' Committee of the Woodrow Wilson Democratic Club, of Trenton, to the effect that he would be in attendance at the outing of the organization at the Fair Grounds today.

Besides Senator Martine the list of speakers includes former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, Mayor Walter Madden, Congressman James A. Hammell, of the Ninth New Jersey District, and Prof. Winthrop M. Daniels, of Princeton University, and Colonel Libbey.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lorton, of Church street, are parents of a boy.

WANT HIM TO RUN

Wm. A. Coddington's Friends Urge His Candidacy For State Senator.

WILL CONSIDER THE MATTER.

Admits That Several Delegations Have Waited on Him—Will Announce Decision Within a Short Time.

Former Judge William A. Coddington is among those who have been prominently mentioned for the Democratic nomination for State Senator to succeed Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, and while he has not yet given his decision in the matter, it is believed that he would not be adverse to accepting a nomination, provided it was offered to him in the right way. Within the past week or so, a number of friends have called on Mr. Coddington with a view to getting him to consent to the use of his name.

When seen today, Mr. Coddington admitted to a reporter for The Daily Press that he had been waited upon by several friends who were anxious that he should become a candidate, but he declared that he had not yet had time to give the matter due consideration. One delegation that called was from Elizabeth, representing the Democrats of that city.

"There is only one condition upon which I would accept such a nomination," said Mr. Coddington, 'a'nd that is that the honor should come to me in a perfectly fair and square manner and that I felt sure that I was the choice of my party. There are many things to be considered in connection with such a nomination and until I have time to weigh the matter carefully I am not prepared to give my answer."

The fact that a delegation of Democrats from Elizabeth have waited upon Mr. Coddington indicates that he could reasonably expect the support of the party in that city, and as he is well known throughout the county he would undoubtedly poll the party vote. His friends in this city feel sure that he would get a large vote in Plainfield. There are many who believe that this city is entitled to this honor, notwithstanding the fact that Senator Ackerman has been in the upper house of the Legislature, and every effort will be made to retain it here. The fact that the Plainfield Democratic Club has decided not to endorse any candidate, but allow the people to make their own selection, would not interfere with the candidacy of Mr. Coddington. It is argued that he has enough friends here to give him all the support he needs for the nomination and election.

RAN 'BORROWED' CAR IN DITCH AND FLED

J. L. Brooks, of New York, motored to this city last night to call on G. A. Hodge, of Putnam avenue, and left the machine standing in front of Mr. Hodge's home while making the visit. He had been in the house but a short time when he heard his car giving evidence of life and ran out in time to see it driven up the street by a stranger. He shouted after the man to stop but instead of doing so the volunteer chauffeur threw in the high speed clutch.

A short time later the car was heard coming back, just when Mr. Hodge had determined on notifying the police to spread an alarm for what was thought to have been an automobile thief.

Running out of the house Mr. Brooks and Mr. Hodge called to the man to stop but he paid no more attention than before. He headed toward town with Mr. Hodge and Mr. Brooks following and making much noise to direct attention to the thief. In front of 15 East Seventh street, he ran the car into the ditch, shut off the power and leaped out, disappearing over the back fences of the neighborhood. Mr. Brooks drove the car back to the Hodge home.

Must Behave or Pay Fine.

Michael Mendio, an Italian living on Mountain avenue, was arraigned before Recorder Charles M. Dolliver in the borough court this morning on complaint of Mrs. Rosie Deacosti, a neighbor of his, who claimed that he had threatened to strike her and had called her abusive names. William G. DeMeza appeared as counsel for the complainant and told the court that it was not desired by Mrs. Deacosti that Mendio be sent to jail but that a heavy fine be suspended over him to insure good behavior in the future. A fine of $20 was accordingly suspended over the prisoner.

BUXTON WILL RUN

Fourth Ward Member of Common Council Will Seek Re-Nomination.

AT SOLICITATION OF FRIENDS.

Nomination Equivalent to Election, It is Believed—W. W. Wilson Will Also Try for Another Term.

Yielding to the earnest solicitation of his many friends, Councilman Herbert Buxton has consented to again enter the race for a renomination as councilman from the Fourth ward and will soon have his petition in circulation. Mr. Buxton is now completing his third term, during which time he has thoroughly familiarized himself with the details of the city government, and his friends believe that he is too valuable a member to retire at present.

Mr. Buxton at first thought that he would retire to private life after this year, but his friends have succeeded in urging him to again become a candidate for another term, believing that he will receive the almost united support of his party at the primary. If he is successful in getting the nomination, it is believed that it will be equivalent to an election.

During the three terms that Mr. Buxton has served as a member of the Common Council, he has held important positions on all the principal committees. At present he is the chairman of the finance committee, one requiring a great deal of time and attention, and he is also a member of the fire committee, the police board, as well as the street committee. He has always been agressive and been a leader in many of the measures introduced in the Common Council. This year he has had the support of a majority of the members of the city body and it is the opinion of his friends that he is one of the strongest members of the Council.

With the announcement of Mr. Buxton's intention to run again, there is but one of the retiring members left to declare himself, F. L. Montgomery, of the Second ward, William L. Gloak, of the First ward; George S. Clay, of the Second ward; F. E. Mygatt and C. C. Randolph, of the Third ward, and W. W. Wilson, of the Fourth ward, have each announced themselves as candidates for renomination and this means that the campaign will be a lively one in this city.

The Democrats are planning to place a complete ticket in the field this fall for all city offices to be filled, and they are counting a great deal on the same support that made possible the election of Mayor G. W. V. Moy last fall. It is confidently believed that there will be an opposition candidate to every Republican nominee throughout the city and already plans are underway to conduct an aggressive campaign. The City Republican committee has declared through its chairman, John H. Cose, that it will not endorse candidates for the primary election, allowing the people to make their own choice without influence. The City Democratic committee has also made this same decision.

FREEHOLDERS SHUT OFF TRAFFIC ON WASHINGTON AVE.

The Ferro Construction Company of Harrisburg, Pa., which has the contract for building the new bridge over Green brook on Washington avenue, has about completed the job of removing the old structure. As soon as this is done, work on the new bridge will be started.

Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, who is chairman of the committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders, today notified those in charge of the work to shut off traffic on Washington avenue at Front street; also at Prospect avenue, the borough, thus removing all possible danger to persons who might accidentally drive through those streets.

HE IS A CANDIDATE AND HAS PLATFORM

The following is a signed statement received today from Robert C. Woodhouse, of East Seventh street, regarding his candidacy for nomination on the Democratic ticket for member of the Assembly:

"After considering the matter for some time, in answer to the requests of many of my friends I have decided to put my name before the voters at the coming primaries as a candidate on the Democratic ticket for member of the Assembly from Union county. My petition is being circulated at the present time and will be filed with the county clerk shortly.

"I feel it only fair to my supporters that at the present time I should express some of my views on State questions. I believe that it is absolutely necessary that all grade crossings should be abolished at once. The slaughter taking place at these death-traps is absolutley appalling.

"I believe that there should be a thorough revision of the automobile laws on a commonsense basis without prejudice on either side, and the formulating of a reciprocity clause so that interstate travel can be undertaken without hinderance.

"I believe that our tax laws are in need of revision, so as to lighten the burden on the poor and I am also in favor of an adequate system of auditing.

"I believe that the time has come when the conservation of our water resources must be given attention by the State with a view to assuring an abundant supply of pure water for all time for the benefit of the people.

"I also believe that the time has come when a State-wide system of sewage disposal must be considered and I am in favor of having a commission appointed for this purpose. Communities are becoming so thickly settled that it is becoming impossible to dispose of sewage without offending our neighbor, and only a Statewide system can cure the present unsatisfactory conditions, as witness North Plainfield and Bound Brook."

BURLINGTON ELKS TO PLAY HERE TOMORROW

The Burlington Lodge, No. 996, B. P. O. E., will be here tomorrow on Crescent Oval to try their speed for the second time this season with the baseball nine from the local 885 herd. Manager Harry Marshall says that the Burlington players will surely be here and that the game will be one of the speediest yet played by the Plainfield antlered team.

Warry MacLaughlin will be on the slab for the local Elks tomorrow and Jack Torpey, the ex-Central league backstop, will be on the receiving mound. Piddington, of Dunellen, who put up such a speedy game last Thursday, will not be able to attend tomorrow and Walter McNaughton wil take his place in the field. This will leave the first base position open and Captain Marcus Hoyt expects to have Lew Wiltse to cover the initial sack.

Plainfield defeated the Burlington lodge three weeks ago at Burlington by the score of 13-6 but that doesn't say that the game tomorrow will be one sided for the Burlington manager says that he is going to bring over a faster team. Morgan and Ketler will probably be in the battery points for the visiting Elks but the rest of their lineup has not been announced as yet.

With the exception of possibly Wiltse and Piddington the 885 players will be the same as last week, the team appearing as follows: MacLaughlin, p; Torpey, c; Wiltse, c; Hoyt, 2b; Evans, ss; Craig, 3b; McNaughton, lf; Smith, rf; Nolan, cf.

COMMITTEE OF FREEHOLDERS INSPECT IMPROVED ROADS.

Director Cady and Freeholders S. P. T. Wilbur and Smith, of the Union County Board of Freeholders, inspected the work on Seven Bridge road, Morris and Mountain avenues and St. George avenue, near Rahway, yesterday. During the absence of Freeholder Krausse, Mr. Wilbur is acting chairman of the county road committee. All of the new work is progressing satisfactorily.

The contractor who has the work on St. George avenue has about completed that job, and bids will be received at the Court House, Elizabeth, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to complete the improvement, the continuation of the road to Meeker's Inn. The committee is well satisfied with the present improved condition of the county rods, despite the heavy travel especially on the part of automobiles.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Maguire, of Park avenue, are spending two weeks at Asbury Park.

ELECTION OFFICERS

County Board Appointments For Plainfield, and Fanwood Twp. and Boro Announced.

GERAN LAW CANDIDATES SHY.

Only Half the Needed Number Appeared to Take the Examination and Board Filled Vacancies Under the Act.

Those passing the civil service examination for members of the election board in this city and whose names were acted on this morning by the Union County Board of Elections are as follows:

Democrats—First ward, First district, John B. Mottley, Walter Sharkey; First ward, First district, Chas. Case; Second ward, First district, P. M. VanClief; Third ward, First district, James McCarthy, John McCann; Fourth ward, First District, F. M. Wagner, George Quinn; Fanwood—John H. McDonough, Peter Ritter, Jr. Fanwood Township, John Radin, J. Henry Cuerier.

Republicans—First ward, First district, Albert I. Littell; First ward Second district, Philip VanArsdale, Charles Griffen; First ward, Third district, John M. Lewis, Harry Hicks; First ward, Fourth district, Horace G. Adams, Thomas Keenan; Second ward, First district, George A. Ballantyne, Asa Collier; Second ward, Second district, Godwin Beard, Lewis F. Wilson; Second ward, Third district, Percy R. Banghart, George Zimmer; Second ward, Fourth district, A. C. Krog, Robert Guttridge; Third ward, First district, H. P. Ganaway, John Neagle; Third ward, Second district, F. H. Andrews, J. F. Phillips; Third ward, Third district, Walace J. Pierce, Gideon Johnson; Third ward, Fourth district, Michael Whalen, John King; Fourth ward, First district, John H. Cose, Harry Blimm; Fourth ward, Second district Roy Phillips, James Huntington; Fourth ward, Second district, William Kline, I. Kuntzman; Fourth ward, Fourth district, John Dunham, William F. Wilson; Fourth ward, Fifth district, John C. Traynor, Jas. Brown; Fourth ward, Sixth district, Jchn Kriney, Joel Pennington.

Fanwood—L. W. Lott, William Lidgate; Fanwood Township—J. E. Johnson, A. D. McCawley.

Not al of those whose names appear above took the examination as required by the recently passed Geran act. In fact about a half of them were appointed as the law requires where there are not enough eligible candidates taking the examination. It is expected that during the afternoon, too late to appear in afternoon papers the other vacancies will be filled in the same manner.

The appointment of D. E. Lorton in the First district of the First ward was made after two o'clock, thus filling the city board with the required Republican members.

There were not nearly enough Democrats taking the examination to fill the city board, and all of the vacancies in the wards given will be filled from names that have been sent to the Board of Elections for consideration. These will appear in tomorrow's paper.

Delinquent Husband Bonded.

David Beech, colored, was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning, on complaint of Overseer-of-the-Poor Alex Ayers, with whom Beech's wife had laid a charge of non-support and desertion. Beech admitted the allegation, but said that at the time he left home it was his wife's fault. She told him to "git out," he said. He was placed under $300 bonds to pay his wife $3 per week for one year.

Erects a Carpet Factory.

Chester Dennis, of 738 East Seventh street, has just put up a carpet factory, 12x18, and has equipped it with the latest improved weaving loom, including the new comb fly shuttle loom. Mr. Dennis has been in the weaving business in this city about three and a half years and his work has proved very satisfactory. The new factory will be open to the inspection of the public on Saturday, August 26.

Timbo Outing Arranged.

Arrangements for the annual outing of the Timbo Social Club which will be held at the Plainfield Riding and Driving Park next Sunday were completed at a meeting last night. The outing will be in all respects up to the high standard established in years gone by, and the members are looking forward to a day of solid enjoyment. Tickets can be secured from the members up to Friday night.

Mrs. William L. Gloak and daughter, Miss Isabel, of East Second street, have gone to Asbury Park, where they will spend two weeks.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Manager Bogardus' Dunellen baseball team is making a record season this year in the number of games won. Seldom has the borough had a team which has caused its opponents to bite the dust of the Madison avenue grounds and the local boys have been up against some hard propositions. Percy Harney, of Bound Brook, the pitcher for the local club, is regarded as the find of the year by Dunellen fans for it has been largely through his efforts that the games have been won. Herbert Stein, of North Plainfield, is making good as a catcher for Bogardus' team, although the second base position is not satisfactorily filled as yet. Last Saturday Elliott, the strongest batter on the local aggregation, held down the keystone sack. He took the place of Frank Evans, of Plainfield, who had been scheduled to play that bag but who had failed to show up.

Rev. Ernest R. Brown, pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, and his family, have gone to Connecticut, where they will spend their vacation.

Mrs. Paul Carpenter has gone on a trip through Pennsylvania and expects to be absent from the borough for about a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Winter are spending the summer in Virginia, where they are visiting relatives.

Miss Florence Dickerson, of Plainfield, visited Dunellen friends the first part of this week.

Miss Frances Hunt has returned from a week's stay at Asbury Park.

SOMERVILLE.

Mrs. Francis Clark, of Hong Kong, China, is spending some time with Mrs. Emily Andrews, on Doughty avenue. She is on her way to visit relatives in England.

Miss Grace Amerman, of Raritan, and Miss Elizabeth Tunison, of this place, have gone to Ocean Grove for a week.

James E. Martin, of New York City, is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Oscar Smith, of Raritan.

Miss Marion Gray, of Westfield, is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Augustus Tillman, of Raritan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sutphen have returned from a visit to Fred A. Quick, of South Branch.

Miss Jessie Stringe, of Maple street, is spending a few days at Lake Hopatcong.

Miss Katherine Davenport has been spending a week with relatives in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nevius are entertaining Charles Dearham, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. William Major are spending their vacation in the Maine woods.

Mr. and Mrs. George Honeyman and son Robert, are at Lake Hopatcong.

Howard Ashmead, of Philadelphia, is spending a week with relatives.

Raymond Todd is spending his vacation in Pennsylvania.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

The British Parliament adjourned to October 24.

Stocks were irregular, closing firm in New York yesterday.

Steps were taken to liquidate the assets of the Audubon National Bank, New York.

The Board of Elections of New York held examinations for election officers for the coming campaign.

Ex-Controller Grout said he would ignore the subpoena in the Union Bank inquiry unless he was advised in advance as to what particular transaction he would be asked to explain.

The joint charter committee of New York indicated at its hearing its intention to abandon further attempts to shear the Controller of practically all his power over city finances.

A dispatch from Colorado Springs stated that W. F. Skinner and wife, of Dallas, Tex., were frozen to death while attempting an ascent of Pike's Peak; their bodies were found in a snowdrift.

Rumors of a breaking off of the negotiations between France and Germany on the subject of Morocco caused a marked decline on the Berlin stock market; the reports were officially denied.

Dr. John W. Brannan, president of the board of trustee of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, New York, commended Dr. Alvah H. Doty's administration at the hearing before Commissioner Bulger.

Sir David Harrel was appointed chairman of the commission named to inquire into the causes of the recent British railway strikes and to make recommendations for averting a renewal of the trouble.

President Taft left Washington last night for Rochester, where he will address the G. A. R., then, it was stated, he would go to Beverly for three weeks' rest before starting on a forty-day Western tour.

It was reported that Sergeant-at-Arms Diegal, of the Ohio State Senate, had made a full confession of bribery in that body, and would be permitted to escape the consequences of the indictment against him.

Leonardo da Vinci's painting, "La Jeconde," for which the French government refused an offer of $5,000,000, was stolen from its place in the Louvre Museum; no clew to its disappearance has yet been obtained.

Many industrial, health and accident insurance companies were severely criticised at the convention of State insurance commissioners at Milwaukee; it was declared that many such concerns resort to every form of trickery and deceit to escape honest obligations.

Judge Buller, of the Chester County, Penn., courts, in denying a writ of habeas corpus in connection with the lynching of the negro at Coatesville, ruled that "any one who was in the mob and knew for what purpose the mob was gathered was guilty of murder."

A dispatch from Chesterfield Court House, Va., stated that the defence of Henry C. Beattie, Jr., on trial for the murder of his wife, will attack the story of Paul Beattie, a cousin, who asserted at the Coroner's inquest that he purchased the gun with which Mrs. Beattie was murdered; Miss Binford, "the girl in the case," was quoted as saying she hoped she would never see Beattie again; that she would be afraid to go out with him after dark.

Congress.—Adjournment sine die was taken at 3:02 p. m. Senate: The President visited the Capitol to sign late bills and was greeted by many legislators. House: Representative Mann rapped the Democrats for their work and Speaker Clark praised them; the President's veto of the cotton bill was received, but no effort was made to override it; the chemical schedule was shown to increase the duties on many items instead of reducing them.

Consolation thought for today—The Elks are sure to show up tomorrow according to the management of the local herd.

And some more consolation is to be found in the fact that you will be able to pick the all Plainfield second baseman soon.

Burlington is reported as having a speedy team so come early and avoid the rush.

Warry MacLaughlin will have his antlered wing in action again tomorrow so that the result of the game is not to be feared.

Centralizing our thoughts for a while—who will pitch for Plainfield Saturday?

Going from best to asbestos, Lou Hartman is still doing the lightning act around short stop and second base for the Pets. He is also getting in a wallop every little while with the long willow just to let the fans know that he hasn't forgotten how to bat.

Otto Frederickson has announced that he will twirl for the Scotch Plains Thistles again and be back with the old gang. Manager Joe Alberts is going to take the youngster in the fold again now that he has quit the McNulty team. It is probable that Freddie will be used in some of the league games as well as in the Sunday contests.

From reports circulating about town this week, Louis Slocum has been recalled to the Philadelphia Athletics. He was released by the York team of the Tri-State League and then went with a nine in a Southern bush league. While there he struck out sixteen men and allowed but three hits in one and when Connie Mack heard of this performance he sent a hurry call for the young phenom to return to Philadelphia.

"Hub" Stein is making good with the Dunellen team without a doubt and it looks as if the former North Plainfield High School player would be seen in speedy company before many seasons are over. Besides catching a fast game for the Dunellenites Saturday, Hub was a terror on the bases. He made a two sacker and a single and stole five bases. In addition to this he made the winning run for Dunellen in the ninth inning.

Norman Harney has apparently retired from the pitching buiness in favor of his brother Percy. In the Ramblers' lineup last Saturday, Norman was seen covering third base while his brother did the heaving for the Dunellenites. The one time star box artist made a hit as a thirdsacker, playing an errorless game.

Don't think that the Pets will have any cinch Saturday when they meet Bound Brook on Crescent Oval. Those Tallenders are coming up from the cellar with a vengence and with two straight victories to urge them on, they are looking for a win from the Pets.

But while Plainfielders are gossiping about the Central and Sunday-school leagues, how about that little National League, a game in which is causing much excitement in New York city today. Just watch The Daily Press score board tonight if you don't believe that there are many fans in this city.

Cheer for the Elks tomorrow!

Moving pictures and good playing all in one.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

It is predicted that there will be no mistaking the genuineness of warmth in the reception that will be accorded "Jolly" John Larkins and his happy flock of pretty girls and funny boys in the new big musical comedy, "Royal Sam," at the Plainfield theatre, tomorrow night. This splendid exponent of the best traditions in American colored shows is doing more than yoeman's service in bringing back to the right channels the taste of the public which has been perverted too long. It is said that nothing better in the musical comedy line has been produced in years than "Royal Sam" which is Mr. Larkins' vehicle this season. Managers Morrow and Mindlin have surrounded their star with one of the best companies of vocalists and comedians which has been brought out of New York, where they have just concluded a long engagement. Included in the supporting company are Jennie Pearl, Walter Crumbley, Irving Boots Allen, Irene Tasker, Ethelyn Johnson, Anna Tyler, Jas. A. Lillard, George McClain and a large chorus of real singers. John Larkin has just completed a four years' contract as co-star with Black Patti.

A husband and wife are visiting a husband and wife. It is a country home. The two husbands agree on a plan to get away from the cares of married life, and to further their purpose they claim to have been injured in an automobile accident, necessitating their removal to a sanitorium for an indefinate stay. This "sanitorium" is none other than a place of refuge for the "boys" when they want to seek quietude and rest for awhile on the water wagon, especially when such restfulness will take away the dark brown taste and quiet unsteady nerves.

That's the beginning of the story of "The Water Wagon," the three-act farcical comedy which comes to the Plainfield theatre for a single night's engagement on Saturday, August 26. Just what happens to the unruly husbands and their sojourn at the sanitorium is best seen to be appreciated. Plainfield playgoers are going to have an opportunity to see this laughter play before it goes to the Comedy Theatre in New York for an all-season's run, and there is every indication that its reception here will be a cordial one. There are few more prolific producers than Wm. A. Brady, who controls this particular "Water Wagon," and who has made all New York laugh long and heartily over "Baby Mine," "Over Night" and other farces. Mr. Brady believes "The Water Wagon" will take New York by storm, and its author, Robert E. Homans, is confident it will make many converts to prohibition, especially the prohibiting of long, sad faces and wrinkled foreheads. "The Water Wagon" can be viewed for prices ranging from 25 cents to $1.50 and the seats will be placed on sale Saturday night only, August 26.

The mid-week prayer-meeting at Trinity Reformed church this evening will be in charge of Philip A. Vroom.

BEEF PRICES TAKE ANOTHER BIG JUMP

Owing to the scarcity of cattle, especially of the first grade, the price of meat has made another sharp upward turn. According to an announcement yesterday the wholesale price of ribs and loins in the best grade of beef had reached a new high level of 16½ cents a pound, an advance of 1½ cents in a week and 4½ cents since the first of the year.

Rounds of beef were advanced to 11½ cents in the best grade, and 11 cents in the second grade, a rise of half a cent since last week. Chucks, too, have gone upward from one cent to one cent and half. Retail butchers say that they cannot help paying the high prices wholesalers demand of them. The wholesalers, on the other hand, lay the cause of the increase in prices to scarcity of good cattle in the southwest and west. That was their explanation of the same phenomenon last year. Plainfield in common with all other places throughout the country is affected by the increased price of beef, and the local dealers cannot state how long this condition will continue.

ED. SCHORB WEDS MISS HELEN SUTTON

Word has been received in this city of the marriage of Miss Helen Sutton, daughter of Mrs. William E. Sutton, of 601 Spooner avenue, to Edward Schorb, formerly of the borough but now of Bound Brook. The ceremony was performed several days ago and it is supposed that it took place in Massachusetts, near the Berkshire Hills, since this is where the couple was located soon after being married.

Mr. Schorb is eighteen years old and his wife will be eighteen in a few months. They are both well known in this city, Miss Sutton having been a student at the Plainfield High School in the class of 1912, while Mr. Schorb attended the borough school. The bride groom was at one time a prominent member of the Holy Cross choir and boys club.

Although no further particulars concerning the marriage have been received, it is believed that it took place with the consent of the parents of both parties. Mr. Schorb, who holds a position in a large New York company, has known Miss Sutton for years and it was because they happened to be spending their vacation in the Berkshires that they were married away from Plainfield.

LOCAL TAX RATE MAY BE $1.70

The councilmanic finance committee met last evening for the purpose of going over the city and county figures with a view to ascertaining, if possible, what the tax rate will be for next year. It was found impossible, however, to arrive at any definite conclusion for the reason that all of the county figures are not available at this time. A conservative estimate places the new rate at about $1.70, but it may vary one or two points either way. The rate at present is $1.65.

In making up the local budget this year, the finance committee has endeavored to shave every corner with a view to keeping the rate down. If there is any great increase, it will be due to the demands of the county and for school purposes, which is generally responsible for any jump in the rate. Out of the total amount of money raised here by taxation Plainfield gets a small slice in proportion.

It was rumored about the city today that the council met last night as a committee of the whole and that in addition to discussing city business devoted sometime to a consideration of political affairs and the chances of the re-election of the seven retiring members. Inquiry brought forth a denial on the part of some of the councilmen that such a meeting was held. It was stated that only the finance committee was in session and the only topic discussed was that pertaining to the city finances.

ORDER OF MOOSE WILL ELECT TODAY

In consequence of insurgent tactics employed by the Los Angeles delegation at yesterday's session of the national convention of the Loyal Order of Moose, both the nomination and election of officers will take place today.

To make the election possible the convention did not adjourn yesterday, when the session broke up in a near-riot. A recess was taken instead, so as to enable today's nomination session to be officially known as yesterday's.

The Los Angeles delegation demanded that the constitution be amended to allow the nomination and election of officers to be made at the closing sessions, to enable the delegates to become better acquainted with the candidates. An effort to secure the amendment may be made later in the week. The excitement lasted fully an hour.

Ralph W. E. Donges, of Camden, N. J., is apparently the favorite for supreme vice-dictator. It was in the interests of William A. Alderson, of Los Angeles, their candidate for this office, that the Los Angeles delegation broke up yesterday's session. It is believed Mr. Alderson will now refuse to allow his name to be considered.

Arthur H. Jones, of Indianapolis, and James F. Lennon, of Philadelphia, are the leading candidates for supreme dictator. During the excitement yesterday Lennon nominated himself for the office, and the act has apparently weakened his cause. The chances of Walter E. Dorn for election to the office of supreme prelate are doubtful, because he hails from San Francisco.

It is almost generally conceded that Rev. William J. Ryan, of Needles, Cal., will be elected prelate. He is the only clergyman seeking an office.

Wed at St. Mary's.

The wedding of Charles Schropfer and Miss Jennie Griffin took place this afternoon at St. Mary's church. Rev. Vincent Sciolla performed the ceremony in the presence of a small gathering of relatives and friends. The bride's home is at 910 George street, where an informal reception was held after the ceremony. The young couple will reside here.

Trinity C. E. in Charge.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will have charge of the meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow night. Henry Seader will conduct the service, assisted by the members of the society. It is hoped that all Endeavorers who can will be present and help make the meting interesting.

SPITE FENCE ARTIST RELEASED FROM JAIL.

Red Bank, Aug. 23.—The final act in the case of James M. Allgor, spite fence artist, took place yesterday with the discharge of Allgor from the Freehold jail to which he was sentenced for six months by Justice James H. Sickles, a short time ago.

Judge Sickles signed a warrant of discharge and handed it to William J. McFadden, a Newark lawyer, who will serve it on Warden Cashion. This act followed an agreement entered into by the complainant, C. D. Halsey; Mayor Packer, of Seabright; Frank McMahon, of Rumson, and Aligor. The offender has transferred the property, the cause of all the trouble, to his counsel, with power to sell with certain restrictions, and also agreed to move away from Seabright.

WILLIAM A. CRAIG AND MISS MARY RUNYON WED.

William A. Craig, of Jefferson avenue, and Miss Mary Alice Runyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Runyon, of Newark, were married last night at the home of the bride's parents. The wedding was a quiet one, only the immediate relatives of both being present, and the ceremony was followed by an informal reception and dinner.

After a short tour the newly married couple will reside in this city, where the bridegroom has a lucrative position with the Pond Machine Tool Company.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The chorus choir of the First Baptist church is expected to return to duty the first part of September, after enjoying a month's vacation.

Rev. J. M. Stifler, of Evanston, Ill., will be the supply at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning. On Sunday morning and evening, September 3 and 10, Rev. Dr. Samuel McBride, of Brooklyn, will be the preacher.

BITTEN TWO MONTHS AGO CHILD DIES OF RABIES.

Long Branch, Aug. 23.—Bitten by a dog two months ago, Frank Brown, seven years old, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, died from rabies at the Memorial Hospital yesterday. The disease did not develop until Sunday.

The child had complained of a sore throat, and the mother called in Dr. J. L. Welch. Symptoms of hydrophobia developed later in the day, and the physician on being informed of the attack by the dog last June, rushed the child to the hospital, where the boy grew rapidly worse, suffering terribly before he succumbed.

Before being removed to the hospital the child made a violent attack upon his mother.

Mrs. Mabel Woodruff-Potter, wife of Harry S. Potter, of El Paso, Texas, is expected to arrive in Plainfield this week for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second street.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Christopher Keuhn, who left several weeks ago on a sightseeing tour through the Western States, has arrived in Montana. He writes that he likes the west and expects to continue on to the Coast.

If Manager Alberts' Thistles put the same ginger in the game Saturday at Westfield as the team did in the Plainfield game, there will be weeping in the town of Mt. Ararat Saturday night.

Miss Daisy M. Wade, of Stanbury avenue, is entertaining her cousin, Miss Gretchen Imloff, of Jersey City, and Miss Belle Smith, of Chatham, for a week.

The weekly prayer and praise meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the church parlors.

A business meeting of the Epworth League will be held in the Methodist church Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Briant Johnson, of Westfield avenue, has returned from a stay of several weeks at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walpole, of Front street, have returned from a weeks' outing at Belmar.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Allen have returned to Walton, N. Y., to finish their vacation. Mr. Allen was called here to conduct the funeral service of Harry Mundy Oswald, who was buried at Perth Amboy yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCaffrey and son, have returned to Elizabeth, after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Kaine.

Stanley Phillips is visiting his sister, Mrs. Andrew Egk, in Perth Amboy.

Mr. and Mrs. Pickering are entertaining friends from Scranton, Pa.

PRIVATE FUNERAL FOR ANTHONY COMPTON VAIL.

The funeral service of Anthony Compton Vail, whose death occurred at his home on West Eighth street Sunday, was held privately at his late residence yesterday afternoon. Rev. Frederic Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, officiated, and the body was placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery. It will later be removed to a final resting place in the Hingham, Mass., cemetery.

Only the immediate family and intimate friends attended the obsequies which were af a simple nature. Banked about the casket were numerous floral tributes, attesting the respect and esteem in which he was held by his many friends.

POLICE SEEK MOTORIST WHO SPED FROM VICTIM.

While on his way home from work on a bicycle last night Patrick Kellegher, of Jackson avenue, the borough, was run down by an automobile, No. 27763, at Watchung avenue and East Second street, and badly shaken up. The machine did not stop. It was driven by a chauffeur and had two women passengers. The police have written to Commissioner of Motor Vehicles J. B. R. Smith for the owner's name and will make a charge against him.

Kellegher was bruised and cut and had to be assisted to his home. He will be confined several days.

Dog Resented Medicine Dose.

Paterson, Aug. 23.—While trying to administer medicine to her pet collie, which was ill, Mrs. Mary Finn, of 110 Jackson street, was attacked by the animal, which so severely chewed the second finger of her left hand that fear is entertained that she will lose that portion of the finger at the second joint. Her son went to the aid of his mother and the animal turned on the boy and seized the lad's hand near the wrist. The dog was captured and shot.

ASK FOR REPEAL OF DRINKING CUP LAW

On the ground that the act condemning the public drinking cup is unfair to the traveling public and working people generally, the New Jersey State Federation of Labor, at the second day's session of its thirty-third annual convention, in Camden yesterday, adopted a resolution asking the repeal of the act.

They claim that its enforcement is an injustice to glass manufactures and favors large paper concerns. They also ask hearings before Chancery or Circuit courts grant injunctions in labor disputes, recommend that women be eliminated in iron foundries, request the State labor commissioner to investigate sanitary conditions in such foundries, and indorse commission form of government, because under it the workingman has an equal chance with others in seeking public office.

GOVERNOR TO INSPECT RAHWAY REFORMATORY.

Starting early tomorrow morning, Governor Wilson will begi nhis first inspection of some of the State institutions. The trip will consume an entire week and a visit to the Reformatory at Rahway will complete it. Mrs. Wilson will accompany her husband throughout.

The itinerary, which has been prepared by Mrs. C. B. Alexander, of Hoboken, who is a member of the executive committee of the New Jersey State Charities Aid Society, is as follows: August 24—Leave Sea Girt and proceed to Vineland, where the Soldiers' Home, the Home for Feeble Minded Children and the Home for Feeble Minded Women will be inspected. This inspection will be continued on August 25. August 26—To Jamesburg to inspect the State Home for Boys. August 27—To the Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Glen Gardner, the proposed site for the State Reformatory for Women, and of roads which are under construction in the neighborhood under the supervision of Roads Commissioner Col. Edwin A. Stevens. August 28—Inspection of the State Village for Epileptics at Skillman. August 29—Inspection of the State Hospital for the In—sane at Morris Plains. August 30—Inspection of the State Reformatory at Rahway.

This is the first time in the history of the State that the wife of the Chief Executive has visited most of the institutions.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF FORESTERS OPENS.

Detroit, Aug. 23.—Several hundred delegates are in Detroit to attend the national convention of the Foresters of America, opening yesterday and which continues until Friday night. The great bulk of the delegates are expected to arrive during the day.

One of the features of the convention will be the class initiation of all the city and suburban lodges on a local excursion steamer. Five hundred candidates will be initiated.

Anti-Suffragette's Cruel Words.

Asbury Park, Aug. 23.—Declaring that women might better be occupied in their home duties than advocating what she called "petticoat government," Mrs. T. L. A. Greve, president of the Cincinnati chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, delivered a slap at the woman suffrage movement in a lecture at the Hotel Wellington, Monday night. Mrs. Greve said by way of satire that the women of her State were advocating the passage of a law making the hours of servants from 8 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon, and she added: "How could a household be run under such conditions? Women show their weakness for political administration by their inability to even argue on political or religious topics. They do not argue; they simply assert and let it go at that."

Swindlers Get Second Victim.

Chatham, Aug. 23.—Swindlers secured another victim in the old bogus express package game here Monday. Giovanni De Rosa, of Summit, was induced to part with $32, which he deposited with two strangers as a guarantee that he would return with a package consigned to "James Wilson." He was given a bogus check for $25 wherewith to pay for the express. The check was drawn on the American National Bank of New York, made payable to "James McPartland" and indorsed by "James Young." When De Rosa came back to report the absence of any express the swindlers were gone.

James Martone was victimized to the extent of $9 the other day.

MAYOR ORDERS LAW ON LIGHTS ENFORCED

All bicycle riders and travelers in horse drawn vehicles are advised to note that if their conveyances are not equipped with lights one hour after sundown tomorrow night, and all nights thereafter, they will be arrested and punished according to the provision of the law. Mayor Moy issued a command to the police today, and the traveling public has been given 24 hours in which to comply with the requirements of the vehicle lighting law.

A decided effort was made early in the summer to enforce the ordinance requiring all bicycles to carry lights and a number of arrests were made under a city ordinance. The law relating to horse drawn vehicles is a State law and has been receiving little consideration in cities, as it was intended to govern rural districts where the roads are not as well lighted as in town. For their own protection drivers have been carrying lights on country roads, but now the general traveling public and pedestrians as well will be protected.

SHOT FIRED AT FOWL HIT WOMAN IN NECK.

Netcong, Aug. 23.—A buttet, intended for a chicken, glanced after being fired at the fowl and struck Miss Ethel Berry, at Budd Lake Saturday afternoon, inflicting a severe wound in the neck, and just missing the larger blood vessels. Miss Berry was in the garden picking fruit when Neighbor Hance took the chicken to his door yard to slay it. His aim was good and the bird was killed, but the shot continued over the fence where Miss Berry was in line.

Dr. L. S. Haggerty was summoned to dress the wound, which is not considered dangerous, it is said.

MILK SHIPMENT PUZZLE IS SOLVED.

Califon, Aug. 23.—Disclosures of a surprising character about the tampering with milk shipments have been made here after months of vigilance. Incidentally there is involved a local resident, who is connected in a prominent capacity with a large creamery.

It long has been a puzzle why milk at the time of shipment was fully up to the standard, but when it reached its destination was sometimes way below. Many of the shipments were made to Newark, and dealers in that city, it is declared, have been fined for selling milk that did not meet the test.

The solution of the mystery was made by Central Railroad detectives. They claim to have caught the Califon resident referred to in the act of taking a quantity of good milk from a can belonging to Bobbie Blain a local shipper, and then emptying sufficient water into the can to make up the deficiency in the original shipment. The suspect has left his home here, ostensibly to take a two weeks' vacation in Sussex county, N. Y.

No formal charge has been made as yet, the railroad authorities having determined that as the shipment was on a siding when it was tampered with and technically in the possession of the shippers, action by the railroad did not lie. The shippers, however, particularly Mr. Blain entertain a different view of the situation and insist that as the railroad company has given a receipt for the milk, showing that it was received in good order, it is up to the railroad to prosecute.

The climax of the detectives' work came last Friday evening, when Chief J. B. Gray, of the railroad detective force, and Detectives Ritter and Etter, accompanied by Levi Hoffman, a private shipper, are said to have caught the culprit red-handed. According to their statements, the suspect in his amazement, as the detectives laid hands on him, declared that a mistake had occurred and that he thought he was removing milk from a can in a consignment that he had sent to the railroad station.

Shriners to Dine.

Ocean Grove, Aug. 23.—Members of the Mystic Shrine who are spending the summer along this section of the coast have been invited to a reception and banquet at the North End Hotel next Thursday night. It is said that there are hundreds of Shriners here and in Asbury Park and other nearby resorts for the summer, and it is believed that an organization for social purposes may be effected.

FOILED THE TURKS

Vienna Bakers Saved Europe From the Grip of the Moslems.

CAUSE OF SOLYMAN'S DEFEAT.

A Momentous Incident In History That Carries With It an Explanation of Why Vienna Rolls Are Molded In the Form of a Crescent.

Do you know why Vienna rolls are shaped like crescents? The story forms one of the great "ifs" of history. Solyman the Magnificent, sultan of Turkey, planned to overrun Europe, even as he and his Moslem predecessors had seized the countries of the orient. With a mighty army he captured the fortified island of Rhodes and invaded Hungary, annihilating the Magyar forces at Mohacs (in 1526) and slaying the Hungarian king.

So successful was the first expedition that he planned a second and more far-reaching raid in 1529. Moving onward almost unchecked and carrying all before him, he captured Buda and advanced against the city of Vienna.

All Europe stood aghast. Nothing had been able to stem the wave of Moslem conquest. Men remembered how one eastern land after another had been seized by the Mohammedan hordes and forced to adopt Mohammedanism as their religion. People trembled for the fate of Christendom. It seemed for a moment almost possible that the whole eastern section of the European continent might fall victim to the Turk and become part of the Moslem possessions.

To hope for clemency from Solyman was to rely upon the mercy of the merciless. Conquering one Christian army and stronghold after another, the sultan's all powerful army threatened to carry destruction and Mohammedanism throughout the continent. It was one of fate's big movements.

On moved the Turks. Vienna (then capital of the German empire) stood in their path, a seemingly frail obstacle between such a host and the rest of Europe. Should Vienna fall before the Moslem onset the progress of the sultan's army would be made far easier and other lesser cities would lose heart.

The inhabitants of Vienna were at that time more renowned for culture and thrift than for warfare. Yet under Nicholas von Salm they gallantly proposed to defend their city against the foe and to fight to the last gasp for their imperiled homes. The Turks drew near, destroying Vienna's suburbs, and encamped close to the town itself.

It was on Sept. 27, 1529, that the enormous Turkish host laid siege to Vienna, Solyman conducting the affair in person. Before risking useless loss of life in a general assault the sultan tried to make an entrance into the city by means of tunnels. His soldiers were set to work with pick and spade to dig a secret underground way into Vienna by which a body of men might later pour into the place and thus catch the defenders "between two fires."

The cleverness of the Turkish engineers and the countless workers at their command made the task a swift one. Here it was that an "if" intervened to save the threatened capital and perhaps Europe as well.

Some Vienna bakers were at work one night—so the story runs—in a cellar, making bread for the garrison. During a pause in their conversation one of the bakers happened to hear the muffled sound of digging. It seemed to come from a spot not far beyond one of the cellar walls. Guessing at once that the enemy was tunneling a way into the city, the bakers rushed out and gave the alarm. The garrison, aroused, was able to baffle Solyman's plan.

The sultan, failing at strategy, next tried force. He buried his army against the city in one fierce assault after another. The Viennese fought like heroes. Each attack was repulsed with terrific loss to the Turks. For four entire days the Moslems assailed the city, fresh detachments ever taking the places of those who reeled back defeated. On the fifth day of the assault, Oct. 14, Solyman gave up the attempt to crush Vienna. He withdrew sullenly from the scene of his defeat, leaving 80,000 dead Turks on the field. The price of conquest was for once too high for him.

Vienna was saved, and not only Vienna, but Europe. Vienna had been Europe's barrier against the Turks' farther advance, and the barrier held firm. The northern limit of Europe's Turkish raids was reached.

Once more, in later years, Vienna was besieged by the Moslems, and she again beat them off. The high tide of such invasion had come and receded. Europe at large was now forever secure from this long dreaded foe.

In the moment of victory, according to the account, the bakers who had given the alarm were not forgotten. To commemorate the event they and their descendants thenceforth molded their rolls into the shape of a crescent (the sacred emblem of Turkey). The custom prevails to this day.

Few Americans who are used to seeing crescent shaped Vienna rolls have any idea how such rolls first came to be thus twisted nor what great deed the crescent form commemorates.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The most sublime psalm that can be heard on this earth is the lisping of a human soul from the lips of childhood.—Victor Hugo.

Borrowed to Save.

Uncle Reuben, the village whitewasher and man of all work, was a frequent borrower of small sums from his neighbor, Colonel Arkwright, and as a rule he repaid these little debts at the appointed time. But on one occasion when he had been accommodated with a loan of $2.50, which he promised to return in a few days, he allowed two or three weeks to pass without making any mention of his indebtedness and, in fact, seemed to avoid his creditor. But one morning the colonel unexpectedly encountered him at the postoffice.

"Hello, Uncle Rube! Didn't you borrow a little money from me several weeks ago?"

"Dat's right, cunnel," said the old man. "I sholy did."

"You told me you'd pay it back in three or four days. Have you had bad luck?"

"No, suh," responded Uncle Reuben. "I'll tell you how it was, cunnel. I lacked jes' two dollahs an' a half o' havin' ten dollahs to put in de savin's bank, an' I used it fo' dat. It's all right, cunnel. I won't fo'git it."—Youth's Companion.

Insane English Monarchs.

George III. is the only British monarch who in modern times has been placed under restraint and deprived of his authority because of insanity, though similar measures were at one time contemplated with regard to his son, George IV., the monarch who has been described as "a bad son, a bad husband, a bad father, a bad subject, a bad monarch and a bad friend" and whose conduct while on the throne was characterized by an eccentricity which bordered on lunacy.

The insanity of George III. was really brought about by the dangerous illness of his youngest and favorite child, Princess Amelia. The unlikelihood of her recovery preyed upon him and hastened the attack of mental derangement which incapacitated him from reigning, although he had previously suffered from this malady. He died hopelessly insane at Windsor after losing his sight as well as his senses.—Pearson's.

The Difference.

It was at an afternoon concert, and in the stalls sat a smartly dressed girl and the young man who deemed her the most precious jewel of the universe. Behind them sat a couple of the type of concert goers who came rather to discuss the audience than listen to the music.

"Look at that girl just in front of us," commented one in a very audible whisper. "She's shop assistant at L.'s. I should like to know what business she has at a gathering of this sort. And just look at her hat! She served me the other day with the one I am wearing, and I suppose she persuades herself that there is no difference between it and mine. I never"—

"Oh, yes, madam, there's a difference," she said quietly; "mine is paid for."—London Tit-Bits.

Irving's Modesty.

Fuller Mellish, who was for several years in the company of Sir Henry Irving, first coming to America in his support, told a characteristic story of the great English actor.

"We were discussing Tennyson in the beefsteak room of the Lyceum one night," said Mr. Mellish, "when Sir Henry came over and joined in the conversation. 'Ah, yes,' he said, 'Tennyson. To be sure I know him. Clever chap, yes, but vain. One night Tennyson and I were walking down Piccadilly together, and as we passed a crowd on the street corner several of the men took off their hats and bowed. Ha! Do you know Tennyson thought they were bowing to him. Extraordinary! Yes, clever chap, but vain, you know.'"

Quick Action.

A southern farmer was trying to sell a mule to a negro who two years before had been kicked on the head by the animal.

"Of course," said the farmer, "this mule kicks, but"—

"I don' wan' him," objected the colored man emphatically.

"Just because he kicks?" asked the farmer, with an air of contempt.

"Humph!" grunted the negro. "Dat mule don' kick; he shoots."—Popular Magazine.

A Witty Thief.

Munich has been visited by a thief with a sense of humor. Several days ago all the clocks in the ministry of railways came to a standstill. The central or "master clock," which controls all the others, had been stolen. In its place was a sheet of paper with the words, "Time was made for slaves."

Making a Hero.

A nourishing supper, a good night's sleep and a fine morning have often made a hero of the same man who by indigestion, a restless night and a rainy morning would have proved a coward.—Chesterfield.

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS.

Plainfield People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions are dark, contain a sediment.

Passages are frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is constant day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.

The weakened kidneys need quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Plainfield evidence proves their worth.

Mrs. P. Manchester, 120 Lafayette place Plainfield, N. J., says: "I can again endorse Doan's Kidney Pills and willingly allow the further publication of my former testimonial for the benefit of other kidney sufferers. I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble for a long time and I doctored without being helped to any extent. In July 1905 I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and deciding to try them, I got a supply. They greatly relieved me and I have not had much need for a kidney medicine since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

BIG BLOWERS LIVE LONG.

Playing Wind Instruments Doesn't Tend to Shorten Life.

Ailments of the heart and lungs have been frequently attributed by pathologists and others to the blowing of wind instruments. It has even been asserted, without any definite foundation in fact, that the cornet, trombone or oboe player is "blowing his lungs away" and will die before his time.

Dr. Forcheimer in his "Prophylaxis and Treatment of International Diseases" shows the fallacy of this belief. He states emphatically that "just as many players of stringed instruments have emphysema as players of wind instruments," and after a long experience of musicians he has come to the conclusion that "neither emphysema nor its predisposition is a result of their occupation."

To determine statistically the effects on longevity of playing upon wind instruments Dr. James F. Rogers consulted Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" and Champlin's "Cyclopedia of Music and Musicians" and calculated the average age of 100 performers upon wind instruments and of a like number upon stringed instruments. The average length of life of players upon wind instruments was 63.5 years and of players upon stringed instruments 62 years. Of the former 34 per cent reached ages above 70 years.

For the different wind instruments the average ages were as follows: Flute, 61.2 years; oboe, 63 years; bassoon, 63 years; horn, 64.4 years; clarinet, 65.2 years; trumpet and cornet, 69.1 years. It is interesting that the players on wind instruments who exert the greatest intra-pneumatic pressure—namely, performers on the trumpet and cornet—were the longest lived, while the players who exert the least pressure, the flutists, were the shortest.—New York World.

GOOD VENTILATION.

It Possesses an Actual Cash Value In the Workshop.

That proper ventilation in factories has an actual cash value has been well illustrated in the case of a firm of shirt and collar manufacturers in Berlin, Ont., where the following results have been obtained from four years' attention to the material welfare of the workers:

The amount of business made was doubled, wages increased 50 per cent, by cutting out "contingent help" the number of employees was reduced 20 per cent, the absences on account of sickness were reduced one-third. To the firm this meant that 430 employees did 90 per cent more work in one year than was accomplished by 522 employees in a similar period four years previous. To the workers it meant that 430 of them earned in twelve months $28,000 more than 522 did during a previous twelve months.

Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology made a study of the amount of illness prevailing among the female operators in the telephone central at Cambridge, Mass., before and after the installation of a system of artificial ventilation. The figures obtained by him show that during the two winters preceding the change, when doors and windows had to be kept closed, on the average about one girl in twenty was absent daily because of illness. During the corresponding months of the following year, when the ventilation had been materially improved, only one girl in fifty was absent from duty each day.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Painter's Retort.

Shortly after Franz Lenbach had painted the portrait of Emperor Wilhelm I., a privy councilor called on him to express the emperor's satisfaction. There was only one criticism to make—would the professor be so kind as to paint more distinctly the buttons on the uniform, which were only indicated vaguely? Lenbach looked at him a moment over his glasses and said: "Look here, Mr. Councilor, I paint heads, not buttons (ich mal' nur koepfe, aber keine knoepfe!) Tell his majesty that!" The emperor when this answer was brought to him laughed heartily.

The Better Lot.

It is evident that Dickens' characters were alive to him as well as to his readers and that he moved them on and off the board with sympathy and consideration.

"I can never forgive you, Mr. Dickens," a lady once said to him, "for the death of Little Nell in 'The Old Curiosity Shop.'"

"Surely," he replied, "you would not have liked her to marry a butcher or a baker."

Branding Him.

"Jim doesn't think much of me, I guess."

"Yes, he does, old man. Just the other day he told me you were a brick."

"I'm surprised."

"He went further than that. He said you were a regular gold brick!"—Toledo Blade.

Why, Indeed?

He—Why does a woman always think she ought to wear a smaller shoe than she can? She—Why does a man always think he ought to wear a larger hat than he can?—Yonkers Statesman.

Wise Woman.

"Perhaps it was, but women found it out long before Cervantes did."—Chicago Record Herald.

MY AEROPLANE ADVENTURES

By J. ARMSTRONG DREXEL

V.—Bumping the Bumps In the Air

[Copyright, 1911, by Henry M. Neely. Copyright in Great Britain and Canada. All rights reserved.]

TO the man on the ground flying in an aeroplane looks like the smoothest sailing in the world. Under ordinarily favorable weather conditions the air craft seems to skim along on a perfectly even keel and without the slightest deviation from a straight line, and that is possibly one reason why the average man thinks that the life of the aviator must be one constant succession of pleasant and exhilarating experiences.

Air conditions 500 feet from the earth are vastly different from those 5,000 feet up. The lower layers of the atmosphere are enticingly smooth and easy to sail upon and offer none of the unpleasant surprises which we get as we go higher and higher. There is nothing in the first 500 or 1,000 feet to look out for except the vagaries of the wind, and these can usually be pretty well forecast from the indications on the ground before starting and from the conditions met in the first few minutes of flight.

But up above that, in the realm of the scudding mists and the drifting fringes of clouds, where one dashes out of a warm air current into the coolness of suspended moisture, one meets surprise after surprise and is forced to be always on the alert, with brain calm and hands and body ready for instant action at the first sign of an aerial hillock or ravine.

"Bumping the Bumps" In the Air.

Have you ever on a warm summer's evening gone to a pleasure resort, paid your nickel or 10 cents through a little box office window, got into a little car with six or seven other persons and for several minutes thereafter coasted up and down a series of artificial hills and valleys at a thrilling speed? In other words, have you ever tasted of the excitements of "bumping the bumps?" Well, "bumping the bumps" is just what we do when we climb for height; we engage in aerial rough riding. Sometimes we do it voluntarily, but most of the time the "bump" comes with the complete and sudden surprise that spells disaster for us unless we are on the alert to cope with its difficulties.

I think I may claim without boasting that I have done more altitude work than any man now living. Twice I have set the world's height mark, but in my practice work I have made several climbs which to me were even more notable than those which were officially recorded, and on at least two of these my barograph registered higher than the then world's record figures. I was preparing myself for work that should be officially recorded in open competition, and in this preparation I have had experiences with the "bumps" of the air which I shall not soon forget and which have taught me always to expect the unexpected in the upper strata of the atmosphere. As I write I have before me several barograph records of my various flights and the thin tracing of the pen points on one or two of them recalls to my mind the experiences through which I passed while making them, and one in particular I pick out as being a souvenir of as strenuous a day's work as I have ever done.

It was a little jaunt into the heart of the heavens made because of my long cherished desire to go up to the 10,000 foot mark, and it gave me my hard fight with the "bumps" in the air. The weather was ideal for climbing. It was cold, but the air was fairly still, and the first few thousand feet of my ascent were made smoothly and without much difficulty in a steady rise that was almost mechanical in its exactness.

The barograph record is interesting in showing the progress of this flight. For those who do not know it may be well to explain that the barograph is an instrument which registers altitude, and by means of a pen point filled with indelible ink it records the variation in a constant line on a piece of paper which is moved around by clockwork.

Story Told by Barograph.

This barograph record shows that in the first fifteen minutes I rose to a height of 4,500 feet. The increasing difficulties of the climb are indicated by the fact that at the end of the next fifteen minutes I was only about 7,700 feet high, but the line traced by the pen up to this point is fairly steady, and only when it passes the 7,000 foot mark does it begin to waver. It was during this part of my flight that the strain began to tell upon me and the steadiness of my climb was interrupted by frequent descents.

In the next few minutes I got myself together better, for the line shows a sudden jump of nearly a thousand feet in about five minutes, and then it is plain to be seen that my troubles began, for the line from 8,700 feet to the topmost limit, which was gratifyingly close to the 10,000 mark, is little more than a blur. It shows that the pen point was vacillating up and down and up and down, and I shall not soon forget the plunges and jumps—the bumping the bumps—the rough riding—that caused this line to take such an appearance.

I had set out to make 10,000 feet, and when I was sure that I must be somewhere near there I looked at my barograph and found that it registered nearly a thousand feet short of my mark. I had almost reached the limit of my strength. It seemed impossible to make the Bleriot climb any higher, yet I shoved her nose up at an angle that threatened destruction if anything went wrong, but the motor only spat protestingly and dragged her forward horizontally without seeming to pull her up an inch.

I decided to see what an increase of speed would do. Accordingly I headed the nose of the Bleriot downward, and, with the engine running at its utmost, I took a deep plunge into the space below and kept plunging until my speed must have been somewhere near 100 miles an hour. Then, with this tremendous impetus, I headed the machine upward again at a good angle and was rejoiced to find that I not only climbed above my starting point, but that the propeller seemed able to hold me there without difficulty.

Time after time I tried this extremely dangerous expedient, and at the end of each rise I found myself a little higher than I had been before, and, best of all, I found that I was able to hold the advantage thus gained.

Attended by Shrieking Fiends.

I cannot explain adequately just what a tremendous impression was made upon me by these aerial hurdles. On the downward slope I seemed to be hurtling madly into eternity, catapulted toward the earth and attended by all the shrieking fiends of the air. The wind screeched past my ears. Maddening shreds seemed to whip into my eyes with knife edges that sometimes seemed as though they were cutting into the flesh. Every square inch of my body felt as though it were being gripped by unseen hands that were literally lifting me from my seat, so great was the pressure of the air as I rushed through it. I had to hold my breath and shut my eyes, for it was impossible to inhale in the terrific rush of the wind past my mouth, and to have held the eyes open would be to have courted blindness, temporary at least.

When I turned upward I went at an angle little short of suicidal. Had anything failed it would have been impossible for me to get the machine on an even keel and head her downward. There would have been no alternative but a backward drop to inevitable and awful destruction.

For about twelve minutes, as shown by the barograph record, I continued this desperate means of attaining my goal. Finally I looked at my barograph and saw, as I thought, that the needle had reached the 10,000 mark. I thought of nothing then but of ending the strain and getting to earth again as quickly as possible. So I headed her downward and dropped at such terrific speed that the indelible ink in the pen point could not flow fast enough to make a mark, and my barograph record shows no trace whatever of my descent. It is for this reason that I doubt whether any human being ever lived through such a fall, for I know of no other barograph record on which the same conditions can be found.

The first part of this upward climb was smooth and easy, with one exception. That exception, which illustrated another phase of the rough riding in the air—of bumping the aerial bumps—came as I burst through the clouds and into the sunlight above.

Here we always expect to find gusty winds. The clouds seem to have the effect of breaking up air currents, just as hills and valleys will do on the earth, and the change of temperature from the cool moisture of the mist to the dry heat of the direct sunlight has a tendency to create whirlpools and vortices that are mighty nasty things to fight in an aeroplane.

Holes In the Air.

Still another phase of aerial rough riding is due to the holes in the air. I have heard a great many people ridicule this expression, and they have been surprised when I have asserted that these "holes" really do exist and that they are a constant menace to the aviator.

I met them first very early in my experience when I began practicing altitude flying at my private grounds at Beaulieu, in England. My first experience with them was a complete surprise to me. I was flying comfortably and easily at a height of about 3,000 feet. It was toward sunset, on a perfectly calm summer afternoon, and not a breath had disturbed me from the time I had left the earth.

So smoothly had my climb gone on that I had relaxed my vigilance and was sitting back comfortably, really enjoying the flight, when suddenly the Bleriot seemed to drop from under me and I felt myself falling straight for the earth. For a hundred feet or more, I should say, we fell, and then the Bleriot landed on a cushion of air and I landed on the seat of the Bleriot with a bump that jarred me.

Fortunately I was headed slightly downward at the time and was able to recover my equilibrium, but the shock of the surprise was sufficient for one day of flying for such a novice as I was at that time, and I came to earth at once.

When Glenn Curtiss made his famous flight from Albany to New York he was several times almost thrown from his seat by these sudden drops through "holes" in the air. So serious an impression did it make upon his mind that, I am told, he has since had the back of his seat made with little curved metal braces that go over his shoulders and hold him firmly down upon his chair.

Must Watch Constantly.

The philosophy of the hole in the air? It seems that many conditions of sun, clouds and earth will bring about different conditions of air over practically the same locality. In one place there will be a rising warm current and next to it a cold current that falls toward the ground. An aviator in flying through the warm current adjusts his machine and his mind to the conditions met with in that particular phase of atmosphere. Suddenly he passes from this rising current to the falling cold air. Instantly the sustaining power of the atmosphere is decreased, the machine plunges downward and continues to plunge until the aviator recovers himself sufficiently to adjust his machine to the changed conditions met with in the atmosphere of lower temperature. So, too, there are whirlwinds and vortices formed and sometimes between the warm and cold currents pockets of extremely rarefied air that offer practically no support for a flying machine.

These things are, as I have said, usually met only by the men who fly very high above the earth.

Still, the man who flies close to the ground will frequently encounter hills and valleys in the air, not so great nor so suddenly presented as these "bumps" and "holes" that I have described, but yet unpleasant and disconcerting enough to put his nerves on edge and give him an uncomfortable sensation for days afterward.

No; flying is not the smoothest and easiest kind of traveling, especially when there is "rough riding" to be done, when there are aerial "bumps" to be "bumped."

"HAD ANYTHING FAILED THERE WOULD HAVE BEEN NO ALTERNATIVE BUT A BACKWARD DROP TO AWFUL DESTRUCTION."

Buying Furs in August

Many folks find it highly advantageous to secure their winter furs in August, to have alterations made if in any way needed, and thus be ready for the cold weather as soon as it comes, and to secure concessions that we have secured by early buying, and thus practise intelligent economy.

Latest reports from the fur centres indicate further increases in the prices of furs. Pony Skins, for instance, have gone up 15 per cent. so that we will not be able to duplicate fur garments of any sort at the prices at which we bought these we offer in the August Sale.

We offer you wide choice of styles in coats, neckpieces and muffs—many coats with beautifully matched skins are shown in the collection; you will find on comparison the prices are remarkably low.

Would you believe that we offer in this August Sale—

Women's Black Pony Coats, 52 inches long, rich and lustrous; lined with Skinner's satin, for only $32.50.

Wouldn't it seem impossible to sell you

Handsome Pony Coats, 52 inches long, lined with brocade or Skinner's satin, for $39.50 and $49.50.

Wouldn't it seem equally incredible that we could offer

Natural Pony Coats, trimmed with natural raccoon, 52 inches long, for $98 and $135?

Hudson Seal Coats, 52 inches long, lined with brocade silk, are in the August Sale at $125, $150, $165 and $175.

Sable Squirrel Coats, brocade lined, 52 inches long, are priced in the August Sale at $135 and $145.

Caracul Coats, 52 inches long, lined with brocade and messaline silk, are being sold at $39.50 and $49.50.

Near Seal Coats, richly lined, 52 inches long, will be featured at $55 to $98.

Others at $225, $275, $298.

Muffs and Scarfs in a wide variety of styles and sizes, in all the fashionable furs; mink, ermine, lynx, pointed fox, fisher, Alaska sable, black fox and raccoon—at prices so low as to make it well worth your while to buy now and lay aside for fall and winter wear.

Furs bought in the August Sale will be reserved on payment of a moderate deposit, and kept in cold storage.

$2 Summer Shoes 85c

At no time within our recollection have we offered women's shoes for as little as 85c a pair, and certainly at no time in the past have we sold women's low shoes as good as these at such an insignificant price. But though these are regular $2 shoes and are up-to-date in every way, well made of the most wanted leathers, in various styles of toes and heels, we are going to sell about 800 pairs simply because the sizes are somewhat broken, at only 85c.

You will find all sizes in the lot, but perhaps not all sizes in every style, but who will stop to think much about style when they can get a pair of summer shoes to fill in the balance of the season for only..... 85c

These shoes will be on sale Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

No mail, 'phone or C. O. D. orders filled.

Welcome Ribbon News

Several lots of very pretty ribbons will be on sale Thursday at very low prices.

Messaline Ribbons in all the most wanted shades, 4 7-8 inches wide; value 29c the yard; special priced, 17c.

Messaline Ribbons, 5 7-8 inches wide; all the desirable colors; value 35c a yard; special priced 19c.

Moire Taffeta Ribbons, 5½ inches wide; specially suitable for hair bows, dress trimming and other uses; 35c a yard kind at 19c.

New Floral Ribbons with varied colored edges; very pretty indeed; 5 inches wide; value 29c a yard at 15c.

Out Go the Straw Hats

We are going to clear out every white hat we have in the Millinery Shop; we don't want to have one of them left after this week if there is any way of selling them, and we think the prices we name will do it, and quickly. Why, we are hardly asking enough to cover the wrapping paper for these hats, and no doubt some women will buy them just for the fun of shopping.

All desirable shapes, all styles of braid, in the most wanted of this summer's colorings are here to choose from.

Hats that were up to $1 to go at only 9c.
Hats that were priced to $1.50 go at only 19c.
All Straw Hats that were marked to $2 go at only 29c.
Straw Hats that were as high as $3 go at 39c.

WHITE FELT HATS—These most popular of present day hats for women's and misses' wear are here in a remarkably wide range of styles and qualities. We do not think there is another similar assortment in the State—nothing so attractive has been brought out in many a day; everybody seems to look natural in them, and some girls look particularly cute.

Prices are 95c, $1.45, $1.69, $1.25, $2.69 and up.

Suits Going for Little

FOR $18.98 YOU CAN BUY WOMEN'S SUITS WORTH TO $39.98.

There are attractive suits of Serge, Scotch and Novelty Mixtures and Chiffon Serge in dark and medium gray, navy blue, and black; made with satin, notched or strictly tailored collars in the newest and most up-to-date effects; lined with messaline or Skinner's satin; in the most wanted sizes; none of the suits are worth less than $25.98; most of them are worth over $30; some run as high at $39.98; we offer you this lot at the one price $18.98

REMARKABLE SERMONS.

Some Were Cruelly Long, and Others Were Models of Brevity.

Sermons are not so lengthy as they used to be, and one seldom sees in the comic prints the joke, so familiar in other times, wherein the minister was chided for his "fourteenthly" remark, which was supposed to mark a period in his sermon somewhat toward its close.

It is said that Thomas Hooker thought his duty ill performed if his sermon did not consume three hours. Once it is related that the famous divine did deliver a really short sermon—preaching exactly fifteen minutes. He sat down, but after a brief rest was up and at it again for two hours more. Every one of Cranmer's sermons was a small volume in itself, and Bunyan, Calvin, Baxter and Knox are all said to have been only a little more merciful to their hearers.

In striking contrast to these long winded discourses may be mentioned some startlingly brief sermons of late years. Perhaps the shortest of all was that delivered by a clergyman at Ocean Grove, N. J., who, after announcing his text, impressively surveyed his congregation and then said:

"Don't worry; it's wicked." He then sat down.

It would be difficult to exceed this in brevity and effectiveness, but a north of England vicar in the last century closely approximated it. He gave out the text, "God so loved the world," etc., to which he added this observation:

"My friends, did I speak an hour I couldn't make that message any plainer. I'll just leave it with you."

Another example of a brief but extraordinarily effective sermon was furnished by an aged and feeble clergyman in Ohio. He had been requested to deliver a charity address on behalf of orphan children, but his strength was unequal to the task. It was therefore an inspiration indeed that moved him to stretch forth one feeble arm in the direction of the little unfortunates sitting near the pulpit and to exclaim with no little pathos, "Whence shall we find bread that these may eat?"

So impressed was the congregation that the collection was the largest ever taken in that vicinity.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Ghost In the Commons.

A certain M. P., lying ill on the continent a number of years ago, received an urgent "whip" for a critical division in the house and replied that he would be present at all cost to his health or convenience. On the eventful night when the house divided the tellers at the division lobby door saw the M. P. in question, and his vote was recorded. The day afterward it was discovered that the number of votes recorded by the division clerks was one short of the number given by the tellers. It was afterward found that at the time the division was taken the M. P. had breathed his last.—London Mail.

Simple Spot Remover.

This is a recipe for the very best "spot remover" you ever tried:

Two ounces of castile soap shaved fine and two quarts of pure soft water. Boil till soap is thoroughly dissolved, strain and cool. When cool add one ounce sulphuric ether and two ounces of wood alcohol. Shake it well and keep corked.

It is now ready for use and will remove spots and stains from your clothing like magic, especially woolen garments.—National Magazine.

An Old Time Champion.

Robert Barclay Allardice, a Scotch captain in the British army, who was born in 1779 and died in 1854, was a noted pedestrian. At the age of fifteen he walked six miles within an hour. When he was twenty he covered 150 miles on foot in two days, and in June, 1801, in excessively hot weather he walked 300 miles in five days. His most surprising performance was walking 1,000 miles in 1,000 successive hours. A half million dollars was staked on the result.

Killing a Fashion.

The muff reached its highest point in the reign of Louis XV. Then fashion declared for a cloth muff instead of fur, and the furriers made a great uproar. Finally some ingenious merchant bribed the headsman to carry a cloth muff on execution day. The women shrank from such association, and the fur won the day.

Giving Him Encouragement.

"I am going to ask your father for your hand."

"Oh, that will be lovely!"

"You are glad?"

"Delighted! I will call and bring you flowers every day until you are able to be out again. I have never seen the inside of a hospital."—Houston Post.

A Loophole Open.

"You're a fraud, sir!" cried the indignant patient. "You guaranteed your medicine to cure after everything else failed, and"—

"Well, my dear sir," replied the fake medicine man, "probably you haven't tried everything else."—Philadelphia Press.

NEW CHAMPIONS IN NATIONAL TENNIS

Driven back from the net, the lawn tennis doubles champions of four successive years, Frederick B. Alexander and Harold H. Hackett, were defeated at Newport yesterday by Gustave F. Touchard and Raymond D. Little, the challengers and Eastern champions, by the score of 7-5, 13-15-, 6-2, 6-4.

The match was one of the fastest ever seen upon the turf courts of the Casino, and one of the largest crowds that ever assembled about the championship stretch of turf was on hand to liberally cheer the victors. How closely the two pairs fought for the crown of supremacy in the doubles may be seen from the games' tally, which was 32 games to 26, 208 points to 199 points.

The chief asset of the challengers was their shots for placement. Touchard and Little scored 102 points in this manner, to 55 for the defending champions. They were not so steady however, and this cost them dearly, as they hazarded all upon dangerous shots often with the result that they lost a total of 140 points on nets and outs, to 108 for the defenders. Little was stronger that Touchard, as he scored 54 shots by placement and passing, while Touchard only scored 48. Then Touchard made 50 outs, to his partner's 35, while Little netted 30 balls to Touchard's 25.

OLD CRICKETER DEAD.

William Rotch Wister, known as "the father of American cricket," died at his summer home at Saundertown, R. I., last night. He had been in ill health for many months.

To the old-time devotee of the game of cricket, Mr. Wister held the rank of a patriarch. He might properly be called the father of the American game of cricket, being one of the promoters of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, the oldest social organization devoted to the game in America.

LOU HARTMAN SIGNED BY WILKESBARRE TEAM

It is probable that Louis Hartman, the star short stop of the Plainfield team in the Central New Jersey League, will not play with the Pets when the line up against Bound Brook on the local diamond Saturday afternoon. Hartman has signed with the Wilkesbarre team of the New York State League. Announcement of the deal was made this morning. This will prevent Hartman from covering short for Dorflinger's aggregation for the remainder of the season.

The loss of Hartman at this time will be keenly felt by the local team which is now entering the final stretch in its fight with Somerville for the pennant of the Central organization. The former Fordham star has been playing a great game for the Plainfield team and his speed around the short field and second base has made a decided difference in the general team play. Manager Dorflinger has not announced as yet whom he will have to fill Hartman's place Saturday.

C. S. EXAMINATION FOR COURT OFFICE

Notice of a civil service examination for the position of sergeant-at-arms of the Plainfield District Court has been given by Gardner Colby, chief examiner of the Commission. The examination will be held September 11, and it is necessary for applicants to file their applications with the Civil Service Commission at Trenton not later than noon, Thursday, September 7. When this has been done the applicants will receive notice stating time and place of examination.

The subjects and relative weights on which the applicants will be examined are as follows:

Experience and personality	4

CAMP FUND GROWS NEARER $300 MARK

The Baby Camp fund was brought five dollars nearer the $300 mark today by a contribution from the Young People's Society of Warren chapel. This leaves but $40.36 lacking and the manner in which the appeal is being responded to is indicative that this amount will be received before the end of the week.

The letter accompanying the donation follows:

"Editor, The Daily Press:—

"Enclose find check for $5.00 from the Y. P. S. C. E. of Warren chapel for the benefit of the Baby Camp on the mountains.

"Yours Respectfully,
"Y. P. S. C. E. of Warren chapel,

HERE AND THERE.

Mrs. P. Newton Drake, of Verdon street, the borough, while talking with some friends a few days ago, remarked that her great-great grandfather, Jesse Coles, was a spy for General George Washington. At one time he and Jack Golding were taken prisoners and confined in the old sugar house in Duane street, New York. On three different occasions the two men were taken out to be shot. On the last occasion, as the men were called out, a guard handed the commanding officer a letter in which Washington said: "If you inflict any punishment whatever upon Jesse Coles and Jack Golding, I will retaliate four-fold." The men were then released from prison. Mrs. Drake said that she remembers hearing this incident as a child. Her mother, Mrs. P. M. Demarest, formerly of the borough, is the daughter of the late David Coles, of Tarrytown, N. Y.

SEEKS LAW'S BALM FOR HER LACERATED FEELINGS.

That relations between neighbors sometimes become strained and lead to the police court, was evidenced this morning in the city court when Mrs. James Traynor was haled before Judge William G. DeMeza on complaint of Mrs. Mary Allard. Both are residents of South Second street. In a wordy altercation one day recently Mrs. Allard alleges in her complaint, Mrs Traynor applied insulting ephthets and hurled varied and numerous unneighborly remarks, whereby Mrs. Allard's peace was disturbed and she suffered mental anguish.

Owing to the absence from court of several important witnesses the hearing was set over for one week on request of Augustus C. Nash, counsel for Mrs. Traynor. J. Henry Crane representing Mrs. Allard, agreed to the postponement.

SNEAKTHIEF GETS IN, GETS NOTHING, GETS OUT.

The residence of A. C. Lorense, of Madison avenue, was entered by a sneak thief yesterday and before the burglary was discovered the house had been ransacted from top to bottom, but so far as is known nothing was taken. The family are out of town and the house is in charge of a caretaker.

During the caretaker's absence the thief removed a pane of glass from the kitchen door and slipped the bolt. He was seen by the maid in the employ of the family next door but as the man was dressed much like a gardner and as he wore no coat she thought he was one. So she let him get away without raising an alarm.

John Hanpson, of Duer street, has gone to South Amboy, where he has been engaged to work on the wiring of a bridge.

United States Senator Martine Answers Critics in Stirring Address.

PLAINFIELDER GETS OVATION.

Woodrow Wilson Democratic Club Affair Attracts Many Prominent Men Who Discuss Politics and Listen to Speeches.

Trenton, Aug. 24.—More than two thousand persons attended the outing and barbecue given yesterday at the Interstate Fair Grounds by the Woodrow Wilson Association. United States Senator James E. Martine was the guest of the organization, coming here especially upon the adjournment of Congress to attend the outing.

Some of the other prominent men present were Frederick W. Donnelly, elected yesterday by the new City Commission as the head of the municipal government; City Commissioner George B. Labarre, Walter Madden, who will be the Democratic candidate for sheriff in this county this fall; Frank S. Katzenbach, whom Governor Wilson defeated for the Gubernatorial nomination, and Assemblyman Allen B. Walsh, of this city, father of the Walsh Commission act. Governor Wilson did not attend.

Senator Martine lauded Governor Wilson for inducing Trenton to adopt the commission form of government, which he declared, makes possible a government for and by the people instead of by a chosen few. He continued:

"I am a member of the minority party of the Senate and the minority does not get much consideration down there. The majority does not think we deserve much, but I will say for the glorious little band of Democratic senators that we are keeping the majority sitting up and taking notice.

"Some of the Republican newspapers of this State have said that it keeps the vice president busy calling me to order. That's true, and that's what he's there for.

"There is a custom in the senate that a senator cannot say anything in the senate until after he has served two years. But I tell you that I was not brought up on that kind of pap.

"It is said that I have violated the good order, the magnificent decorum and the dignity of the senate. But I can't sit there like a clam when I believe that the people's rights are at stake.

"I am having as much fun as those who want to hold me up to ridicule, and I tell you I am not through yet; I have only just started. I appreciate the dignity of the senate, and it is a magnificent legislative body, more glorious than any in the world.

"I am getting along favorably with the senators, but when Senator Borah attempted to get the laugh on me because I said I was a farmer, I paid that gentleman my compliments red hot.

"What was it that I did that shocked the senate? What bare-faced, brazen act did I commit? What crime was I guilty of? I only said that I could cradle a field of rye as well as any one in the senate."

Senator Martine wound up his talk by saying that he had lived out the session in good health and that he expected to serve his six years in the body. At the conclusion of the speech the senator was given an ovation.

AUTO AND SHOOTING CASES TO BE CONSIDERED.

The Middlesex County Grand Jury began a two day session yesterday to take up some matters that have occurred since the last sessions and on which action is desired prior to the September term. Among these are the shooting of Joseph Hadley, the eighteen year old lad of New Market, who died as the result of a rifle shot wound July 11, and the killing of Charles Clifford, of Manning avenue, by John O. Wilson's automobile, on Park avenue, July 10.

The witnesses summoned to testify were greater in number than at the other sessions. This was owing to a number of speak easy cases in Middlesex county, prepared by Prosecutor Booream, and a number of assault charges from al sections of the county.

Record of Second Class Mail.

Postmaster E. H. Bird at the local office, this morning, received a general order from the postal department at Washington to keep an exact record of the number of incoming second class mail matter pieces handled during the month beginning Aug. 25 and ending September 25. This order varies somewhat from a similar one received early in the year, when it ordered a count kept of the incoming as well as the outgoing second class matter.

FUSCO IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Joseph Fusco, of Hunter avenue, Scotch Plains, was arrested yesterday at noon by Officer O'Loughlin, on the charge of assault with intent to kill. The trouble occurring on the corner of the Park avenue trolley crossing two weeks ago Sunday night, when it was charged that Fusco and two companions attempted to cut Warner MacCauley with a razor.

Fusco was arrested at the time and when given a hearing before Judge Toucey the following day, MacCauley refused to press the charge or sign the complaint. The court discharged Fusco, but intimated that the case would not end there. Officer O'Loughlin took the matter up with Prosecutor Swift, and Fusco was given another hearing before Judge Toucey last night, Officer O'Loughlin making the complaint and Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., being present to represent the State. Fusco pleaded not guilty to the cutting charge, but admitted that he was one of the three men who had attacked MacCauley.

Several witnesses were sworn and after giving their evidence the court held Fusco under $1,000 bail to appear before the October Grand Jury. Donati Bonovogti, of Hunter avenue, signed the bond and the man was released.

MEADOWVIEW KENNELS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP

The Allentown, (Pa.,) dog show, which opened yesterday, bids fair to exceed in the number of entries all previous shows, and promises to be the best in the history of the Lehigh Valley Kennel Club, under whose auspices it is being held. Among the prominent exhibitors is Abram G. Hooley, of North Plainfield, owner of Meadowview Kennels. A conservative estimate of the value of the dogs now on exhibition is placed at $200,000, there being 1,200 entries and about 200 exhibtors. The Allentown Leader has the following to say regarding Mr. Hooley's entries:

"Heading all other exhibitors is the magnificent display of English setters made by A. G. Hooley, from his Meadowview Kennels at Plainfield. The dog world has stamped these ten as the finest collection of English setters in the world. In the lot are eight registered champions, valued at $20,000. Hooley swept everything in all the English setter classes, getting Colonel Masters cup for the best dog with Meadowview Yale and the Joseph P. Shimer cup for the best opposite sex with Deidora Countess. With Mallwyd Invader he got first for broken dogs and Lady Mallwyd captured the blue ribbon for the best American bred English setter female. The setters as well as pointers were judged by Jay C. Rohn, of Ricketts."

The total of Mr. Hooley's winnings for the day included the President's cup for the best dog in the show; cups for the best brace, cup for the best team in the show over every breed; also breeder's trophy, making in all eleven cups, ten medals and thirty ribbon.

Donaldson Ryder Improving.

The friends of Mrs. Charles E. Ryder, of East Front street, will be pleased to learn that her grandson, Donaldson Ryder, aged 16 years, who was badly injured on August 5, by the kick of a horse, is making satisfactory recovery. The accident took place at Silver Lake, near Dingmans, Pike county, Pa., and the boy was taken to Port Jervis Hospital, where he received skillful treatment and is now restored to his family with scars, but possibly no bad disfigurement. He is the son of E. Dean Ryder, formerly of East Front street, and his mother was Miss Donaldson, daughter of G. W. Donaldson, of New York.

Special Meeting at the Park.

A special meeting of the Salvation Army will be held at Wayside Park tomorrow evening. Captain and Mrs. Bell, of the New Brunswick Corps, will be in charge, assisted by several of their members; also by the officers and members of the local corps. A profitable time is assured and a cordial invitation is extended to all interested.

Another Meat Market.

Gus. Moore, who was formerly in the employ of Walter C. Lane, the butcher, has leased one of Charles P. Sebring's stores on West Front street opposite Grove street, and opened a first-class butcher shop there. Geo. Watts, who was also formerly in the same business is now associated with Mr. Moore at hi meat market.

VETERANS PARADE

Thirty Thousand Members of G. A. R. Join in Annual Demonstration.

PRES. TAFT MAKES ADDRESS.

Reviews Situation in Regard to Arbitration Treaties and Defends Their Terms.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Thirty thousand members of the G. A. R. representing every department in the United States, marched for two hours yesterday morning through two miles of streets lined with cheering crowds. It was, perhaps, the greatest parade the veterans have participated in in the last decade, and for many of the old soldiers it will be the last. Stirring as the spectacle was, it was not without its pathos. Many a veteran started out bravely, with figure erect, and succumbed before the march was over. Relief stations and hospitals were kept busy all morning attending to the wants of the veterans.

The march started at 10 o'clock, and before the end of the column had wheeled into line, the vanguard had passed the reviewing stand and had disbanded. New York city sent hundreds of old soldiers, Massachusetts turned out in force and the veteran fife and drum corps of Los Angeles was prominent.

The parade was led off by the regulars of the Twenty-ninth infantry, of Fort Porter, Buffalo, with their band. Next came the National Guard and naval militia companies. Commander-in-Chief John E. Gilman drove in a carriage, while Department Commander George B. Loud, of New York State, rode.

General Frederick D. Grant, with his aide, drove in a carriage and was cheered along the line of march. Another conspicuous figure in the parade was General Daniel Sickles.

The sight of 20,000 veterans of the Civil War recalling the dark days of that struggle gave a fillip to President Taft's address last night before the G. A. R. camp fire at the National Encampment which is being held here.

The president had come to talk of peace and he held his address principally to this topic, but the reflection of the immense struggle which had centered about the old men who marched before him in the parade in the morning contrasted in his mind the political struggle that has seethed about him for the past few months and which was only temporarily relieved yesterday by the adjournment of congress, and his thoughts turned naturally to this channel. He said that when he was tempted to think of his own troubles he had only to think of the troubles of Lincoln.

Mr. Taft reverted to the main topic of his address. He reviewed the situation with regard to the arbitration treaties and defended their terms from the attacks of the senate in much the same way as he did in his addresses at Mountain Lake Park, Md., and at Ocean Grove. This time, however, he went further into the details of the senate opposition to the treaties, specifically defending them from the charge that they permit arbitration of questions involving the Monroe doctrine; that they deny the right to exclude foreign people from our shores, which aroused opposition in California over the Japanese question, and that they open the way for reconsideration of the validity of the southern bonds issued in the reconstruction days.

STATE ROAD COMMISSIONER INCREASES APPROPRIATION.

Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur this morning received word from Robert A. Meeker, State Supervisor of Roads under Commissioner Col. Edward Stevens, that the annual appropriation from the State to Union county for this year had been increased $5,000. This is the second increase this year. The first appropriation made was $20,000. A short time ago an additional $5,000 was made and the $5,000, of which word was received today, brings the total appropriation up to $30,000.

Succeeds P. H. LaTourette.

D. F. Starck, of New York, has succeeded the late P. H. LaTourette on West Front street, having purchased the stock and good will of the second-hand business. He will also deal in real estate. Mr. Starck has purchased a lot on Kensington avenue, where he wil build and take up his residence, when completed.

ARREST FORMER AUTO COP FOR SPEEDING

Mayberry Mellor, of 963 Hillside avenue, was arraigned in the borough court last night charged with exceeding the speed law in his motor car and running the machine without lights Tuesday night. Mr. Mellor was formerly a special policeman appointed by former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, to help enforce the automobile laws with respect to speed and lights.

Marshal William Kiernan, of the borough force, arrested the former automobile policeman just as he was about to start up Hyde's hill. In the court last night, he explained that he was exceeding the speed limit in order to get a start for the grade and that it was 7:30 when the officer stopped him. According to the law automobile lights did not have to be lighted unil 7:21 and as he was but nine minutes late in complying with the requirements of the law, sentence was suspended by Recorder Charles M. Dolliver.

MRS. SCHOCK'S DEATH STARTLES COMMUNITY

The death of Mrs. Lydia P. Schock, wife of Rev. James T. Schock, of 23 Albert street, occurred suddenly at her home last night about ten o'clock. She had been slightly ill for a little more than a week and seemed to be on the road to recovery when stricken with apoplexy which caused her death. Mrs. Schock came here with her family from Bound Brook several years ago, after her husband was obliged to give up his ministry there owing to failing health. The funeral will be held from her late residence tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and burial will be made in the Cranbury cemetery Saturday morning.

Mrs. Schock was a daughter of the late William B. and Eliza G. Reed and was born at Bergen Point in May, 1853. She was married to Rev. Mr. Schock in Cranbury in June 1876. Surviving are her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Albert Close, of Madison avenue. She was a member of Trinity Reformed church and although of comparatively short residence here had formed the acquaintance of a large circle of friends to whom the sad word of her sudden death came as a great shock. Possessing rare abilities of womanhood, to know was to respect and admire her, and her constant loyalty, high mindedness and unselfishness, increased this feeling as friendship grew older. The sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved husband and daughter.

HIS THIRD VISIT HERE IN 46 YEARS

Among the summer visitors being entertained by residents of this city, perhaps Henry C. Davis, of Pueblo, Colo., who is the guest of his sister, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, in addition to having come the longest distance for his vacation, also has the distinction of being the oldest visitor in the city, to come unaccompanied from such a long distance off. Mr. Davis is in his seventy-sixth year and this is only the second time he has seen his sister since he left Plainfield in 1857.

At that time he was twenty-one years old and had just finished his time as an apprentice at the harness-making trade. From the time that he was ten years old until he was fifteen he lived with the late Randolph Dunn, in Piscataway township. Mr. Dunn will be remembered only by the oldest residents. After reaching the age of fifteen he was apprenticed to a harness-maker. He served his time and then went to Wisconsin and started business for himself.

At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in Co. A, of the 13th Wisconsin Volunteers and served four and a half years. At the close of the war he settled in Seline county, Kansas, and resided there until nine years ago when he removed to Pueblo, Colo., where he now lives. His first trip East was in 1871. Ten years ago he made his second visit and was profoundly impressed with the strides Plainfield had made. This time he notes still greater changes and remarked that at the rate of progress in the past ten years, which shows every indication of continuing, he can only imagine what lengths will be attained.

Mr. Davis is still hale and hearty and enjoys excellent health. He can hear perfectly over a 'phone, has unimpaired vision and looks strong enough to make a subsequent visit after this one, when he expects to see Plainfield much more of a city than it is at present.

FILLING VACANCIES

County Election Board Hopes to Complete List of Officers Today.

SINGULAR FEATURE OF LAW.

Those Who Passed Examination Will Serve One Year While Appointed Members Will Serve Two Years.

The Union County Board of Elections is still busily engaged today filling the vacancies in the election boards as required by the recently passed Geran act. It is a singular coincidence that nearly all of those who passed the civil service examination were chosen for one year, while those who have been appointed have been named for two year terms.

The completed lists for this city, both Republican and Democratic members, appear below with the exception of a few vacancies that still remain open. These, it is thought, will be filled during the afternoon. The figure following the name is the number of years for which the board member has been appointed:

Second ward, first district, F. L. Creager, (1); John C. VanDyck, (2); second district, Howard Huntington, (2); James E. Prindle, (1); third district, P. M. VanCleef, (2); Geo. W. Ord, (1); fourth district, James Scott,—vacant.

Third ward, first district, James T. McCarthy, (2); James T. McCann, (1); second district, Jeremiah Callahan, —vacant; third district, Lawrence Bray, (1); John J. Moran, (2); fourth district, Thomas Conolly, (2); Barthow Davies, (1).

Fourth ward, first district, F. M. Wagner, (1); Otto Linke, (2); second district, George Quinn, (2); Robert Skinner, (1); third district, Clarence Waldron, (1); Thomas McGrath, (2); fourth district, John G. POLICE GIVE TIMELY WARNING REGARDING LIGHTS

In pursuance of the order given by Mayor Moy yesterday to the police department to enforce the ordinance requiring all bicyclists and drivers of horse drawn vehicles to carry lights one hour after sundown, the policemen on all the city beats last night were stopping travelers. No arrests were made for according to the Mayor's order, twenty-four hours is to be allowed so that the conveyances could be equipped with lamps.

The time limit expires tonight and instead of the offender being warned he will be arrested and will have to appear in the city court. This will apply to all who were not stopped last night as well as to those who were. The penalty for violation of the city ordinance relating to bicyclists not carrying lights is a $5 fine.

INSURANCE CO. TO GIVE FREE NURSING

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company announces a new departure which is sure to become extremely popular with its policy-holders as well as being the means of increasing the company's business. The company, through a small pamphlet, informs its policy-holders that it is making an experiment in Plainfield, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville, Raritan, Westfield and Cranford, in sending visiting nurses to those who are sick. If it can be shown that such service can be given at a reasonable cost, the company will carefully consider the possibility of extending such service to all policy-holders.

The company states that only visiting nurses are sent. They do not remain permanently at the homes of patients, but give such attention as may be necessary. The length of the visit and the number of calls to be made on any particular policy-holder is left to the judgment of the visiting nurse, who, guided by the physician in charge, will carry out such orders as the latter may prescribe. The physician and the nurse are the ones to decide whether nursing service is necessary at all and how frequently the nurse should call. There wil be no charge to the policy-holders for this service, and a postal card, furnished by the company, directed to the latter will receive prompt attention.

THIEVES BREAK PLATE GLASS; THEN ESCAPE

Some time during the early hours yesterday morning, thieves broke a plate glass window, entered the hardware store of John Fenner, which is located on North avenue, Dunellen, and escaped without being heard. They stole several watches, which had been left in the window by a jeweler, whose store is in Mr. Fenner's shop and belonged to various residents of Dunellen, who had taken them there to be repaired.

The fact that the burglars broke the heavy plate glass window, thus gaining an entrance to the store without being heard by anyone is regarded as most unusual. None of the Dunellen marshals say that a sound of any kind was heard on North avenue Tuesday night or Wednesday morning and it is believed that the glass was carefully cut and then the edges roughed. The window, which is completely demolished, is valued at $40 while the watches will amount to several times that figure.

Marshal James Benson, of the Dunellen force, has not caught any of the thieves as yet but believes that he has the right clue as to their identity. It is the opinion of the marshal and several of the residents of Dunellen that the theft was committed by a gang, which lives in the vicinity of the Greenbrook water tanks, the members of which are noted for being desperate characters.

Firemen Enjoy Social.

The Watchung Chemical Fire engine Company held a successful social last night in the rooms of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society, and realized a neat sum towards the equipment fund. There was about 250 present and the refreshments found ready sale among them. Dancing was a feature of the affair, John Cooper, of Warrenville, assisting the orchestra with accordian selections.

Enoch Milford.

Enoch Milford, colored, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milford, of 301 Plainfield avenue, died suddenly Tuesday night in the Newark City Hospital. He was nineteen years old. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the residence of the dead boy's father, on Plainfield avenue, Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be made in Hillside.

Will Preach Annual Sermon.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, will preach his annual sermon to the residents of North Plainfield township, Sunday morning in Wilson Memorial chapel. A call has been issued to the members of the Watchung Chemical Fire Engine Company to meet at headquarters at 10:30 and proceed to the chapel in a body.

Drug Store in the West End.

Samuel Rubin has opened his new drug store, known as the "Red Cross Pharmacy," at West Third street and Lee place, and for the first time in many years the West End has a store of this character. Mr. Rubin's brother is associated with him in the business.

PLAN FOR OPENING

Local Playground Commissioners Arrange For First Day at Parker Field.

CENTRAL LEAGUE TEAMS PLAY

Folk Dances by Children From Playgrounds and a Band Concert—Free to the Public.

Parker Field, the new municipal athletic grounds situated on Randolph road, will be formally opened to the public of this city on the afternoon of Labor Day, September 4, and the occasion will be celebrated with a most interesting program of athletic contests and exercises. The program for the opening was arranged at a meeting of the Board of Playground Commissioners, held in Mayor Moy's office yesterday afternoon.

A feature of the afternoon's entertainment, which will be free to everyone, will be a baseball game between the Plainfield and Westfield teams of the Central New Jersey League. The contest, which is regarded as one of the decisive battles in the outcome of the pennant race, will be played on the new diamond of the Parker field, which is now being finally graded for the game. No admission fee will be charged enen to see this contest, arrangements having been made by the Board of Playground Commissioners with Manager Ernest Dorflinger, of the Plainfield team, for playing on Parker Field instead of on Crescent Oval.

Another interesting part of the program will be offered by the children, who have been attending the Irving, Bryant, Franklin and parochial school playgrounds this summer. The youngsters will do a series of fancy marches, give exhibitions of wand drills and gymnastic exercises, and then do several folk dances, which have been practiced at the city yards during the entire season this year.

Van Barr's celebrated Old Guard band from New York city has been engaged for the entire afternoon and special musical selections will be rendered. After the baseball game the band of twenty pieces, which will appear in full dress, will render a concert on the field. Music will aso be furnished by the band during the folk dances and exercises by the children.

The first number on the program will begin at 2:30, this being the part taken by the playground youngsters. They will be in charge of the supervisors of the four municipal recreation grounds. At 3 o'clock an American flag will be presented to the playground by Camp Bagley, the local organization of the Spanish War Veterans' Association. The emblem will be accepted by one of the commissioners and will be raised with appropriate ceremony.

The plans for the entertainment show that it will be a most interesting and enjoyable one and the commissioners are working hard to make the event a memorable one in this city. They are anxious that everyone in the city attend the affair and inspect the new field.

After Labor Day, the Parker Field, which is so called because it is situated on land loaned for the purpose to the city through the generosity of Andrew McLean Parker, will be open every afternoon as long as the weather conditions permit. The pieces of apparatus for the enjoyment of the children have arrived and have been set up. The apparatus is all located on the side of the field facing Randolph road and among the pieces which have been set, are four pairs of flying rings, one set of traveling rings, three stationery ladders and two swinging ladders, and a long slide, which is steep at the top but which affords sufficient length to prevent falling from the end.

Two tennis courts on the Randolph road side of the field are now completed and will be ready for the opening day. The baseball diamond is not finished as yet, men being now at work applying the final layer of loam. The field will be ready, however, for the game on Labor Day afternoon. Although still soft, the cinder running track is completely built, this being the only cinder running path in this city. The track is one-fifth mile around but a straightaway 220 yards is provided on the side nearer Park avenue. It is expected that several meets will be held there next year.

The shelter house is now finished, this being located near the apparatus at the entrance to the field. Here are provided three lavatories and in front is a cozy waiting room, which will be fitted with first aid supplies.

No admission fees can be charged for entrance to the field, the grounds being open to the free use of the public. Plainfield is one of the few cities in New Jersey, which has such a municipal athletic field and or-

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal church is planning for a notable event in the social line to be held on the afternoon and evening of September 12, on the lawn of the parsonage. It will be a peach festival and a birthday social for several members of the organization who are planning to celebrate the anniversary of the natal day at that time. The specific date for the affair however, is in honor of Mrs. M. E. Harris, whose birthday is September 12. There will be a supper and also a sale of fancy articles. A large attendance of the members of the society and their friends is expected and the committee in charge of the affair is planning for excellent accommodations for everyone.

Clarence T. Voorhees, the congenial and popular butcher of North avenue, and Russell Centerfield Runyon, of Front street, who was the captain of the Plainfield High School baseball team this season, are enjoying their annual trip to Atlantic City this week. They went to the Southern Jersey seaside resort last year and were so well pleased with the outing that they decided to make that place the scene of another summer of pleasure. Both of these Dunellen young men are looking forward to a dark coat of tan upon their skins before they return.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church will conduct the service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tonight. A large number of the members of the local society will go to Netherwood to take part in the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Lisbon Pierson are entertaining Miss Myrtle Howard, of West Virginia.

Mrs. Edward Ayers and children have been visiting in Glen Gardner.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

No one from the township took the examination held several weeks ago at Elizabeth, for members of the registry board. The result was James Johnston and Albert MacCauley, both Republican members of the board for several years past, were reappointed yesterday by the court.

Manager Alberts may decide to let Frederickson do the box work Saturday afternoon against Westfield. Frederickson is pitching good baseball and if he does the twirling the Mt. Arrarat team will find hits a scarce article.

Miss Florence Tunison, of Lyons Farms, has been spending several days with Miss Florence Wade, of Stanbury avenue.

Mrs. Anthony Dobbins, who has been visiting relatives and friends in town, has returned to her home in Newark.

Miss Mildred Drake, of Glenside Park, has returned from an extended visit with relatives at Cortlandt, N. Y.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., holds its regular semi-monthly meeting tonight in the library rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jamison are enjoying two weeks with relatives at Four Mile Point, N. Y.

WESTFIELD.

Westfield is to have a combination ambulance and police patrol. The wagon is to be stationed at one of the livery stables for the present. After the automobile fire apparatus arrives it will be at the fire department house.

Work on installing the police telephone system is to be commenced at once. Nine stations are to be installed. The system calls for an hourly report from the partolmen on duty day or night.

SOMERVILLE.

Prosecutor and Mrs. F. A. Pope have returned from their vacation. Most of their time was spent in Canada, but the past week they were also at Atlantic City.

Mrs. L. A. Thompson, who is spending the summer at Lake Hopatcong, returned to her home for a few days the first part of this week.

Miss Agnes McWilliams, secretary to James B. Duke, is back from her summer vacation, which she spent touring the Eastern States.

Henry R. Haberle, of this place, has returned to his home after spending a week's vacation at Camp Leisure, Lake Hopatcong.

Borough Marshal Joseph Hanlon has resumed his duties on the local police force after ten days' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mets have returned from a month's vacation at Nassau, Long Island.

Deputy County Clerk Fred N. Voorhees is spending his vacation at Bethel, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Codington are back from a sojourn in the White Mountains.

Rev. J. J. Zimmer, of Raritan, has been visiting at Niagara Falls and Canada.

Miss Tillie Craig has returned from the White Mountains.

E. P. Johnson has gone to the White Mountains.

WIDE PROGRAM FOR GOVERNORS

Spring Lake, Aug. 24.—How to strengthen the power of the Executives, employers' liability, the inheritance tax, fixing of interstate rates, public utilities and problems of prison labor will be among the subjects which will be discussed at the annual conference of the Governors of the States, which convenes at the New Monmouth Hotel here on September 12 and lasts until September 16. Fifteen set addresses are provided for and plenty of time is left for general discussion of all of the topics, as well as others which may be brought up. It is possible that the question of uniform divorce laws will be one subject discussed which is not on the formal program.

Tuesday morning the session will be opened by an address of welcome by Governor Wilson, and this will be responded to by Governor Joseph M. Carey, of Wyoming. Governor Augustus E. Wilson, of Kentucky, will deliver the first address, taking as his subject the "Possibilities of the Governors' Conference," and following this organization will be perfected for the week's work. Governors Edwin L. Norris, of Montana, and Emmett O'Neal, of Alabama, will read papers on "Strengthening the Power of the Executive," and the discussion following this will conclude the business of the day. In the evening Governor and Mrs. Wilson will give a reception at the Governor's cottage at Sea Girt for the visiting Executives and those who come with them.

The only subject announced for the session on Wednesday is "Employers' Liability and Workingmen's Compensation."

Governors John A. Dix, of New York, and Edmund N. Noel, of Mississippi, will make addresses at the opening session on Thursday on "The Inheritance Tax and State Comity." The laws of these two States on the subject are said to be the most comprehensive now in existence in the Union.

"State Control of Public Utilities" will be the subject of the entire day Friday, the principal paper being by Governors Francis E. McGovern, of Wisconsin, and Beryl F. Carroll, of Iowa. Saturday "Problems of Prison Labor" will be the topic, with addresses by Governors Oswald West, of Oregon, and Chase S. Osborn, of Michigan.

One subject which will be taken up, and which is not on the program, will be the establishing of a permanent office for the Governor's conference.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Neils Johnson, of East Fifth street, has returned from a two weeks' visit at Norfolk, Conn.

The family of Dr. Samuel Long, of New Brunswick, have returned to their home, after spending a few weeks in Washington Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Place and son, of Prospect avenue, are enjoying their summer vacation at Walter's Hotel, Cairo, New York.

Miss Minnie Line, of East Front street, is recovering from an attack of typhoid fever with which she has been suffering for the past three weeks.

Included in the registration of new arrivals at the new Mount Kineo House, Moosehead Lake, Maine, are Miss Finch, Miss Charlotte Finch and Henry L. Finch, of Park avenue, and Edward R. Finch, of New York.

To Amend An Ordinance Entitled: "An Ordinance Concerning the Construction and Repair of Sidewalks and Curbs," Approved July 15, 1910.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That section 2 of the ordinance, the title of which is stated in the title to this ordinance, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 2. That all sidewalks of blue stone flagging or concrete which shall hereafter be constructed under this ordinance shall be constructed so that the nearest edge of the blue stone flagging or concrete shall be the following distances from the side lines of the streets, that is to say: On streets having a width of eighty feet or more, a distance of eight feet; on streets having a width of seventy feet or more and less than eighty feet, a distance of five feet; on streets having a width of more than sixty feet and less than seventy feet, a distance of three feet; on streets having a width of fifty feet or more and not more than sixty feet, a distance of two feet, and on streets having a width of less than fifty feet, said blue stone flagging or concrete shall be so laid that the sides of the same shall be at equal distances respectively from the side line and the curb line; provided, that in any case, on application to the Common Council for that purpose, the Common Council may by resolution specially direct the distance which any blue stone flagging or concrete may be laid from the side line as the Common Council shall deem to be for the best interests of the City."

Adopted by the Common Council, Aug. 14, 1911; approved by the Mayor, Aug. 15, 1911.

G. W. V. MOT, Mayor.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were dull and generally lower in New York yesterday.

Admiral Togo was welcomed at Winnipeg on his way to Vancouver.

A dozen English and Jewish shops were looted and wrecked at Bargoed, on the Anglo-Welsh border.

Dr. Edmund Richter, the German engineer, held by Greek brigands since May 25, for $225,000, was rescued.

Estimates for the army of 1912, made public in Washington, called for $94,210,400, the same as this year.

Mayor Gaynor, of New York, in a letter to Dr. Lyman Abbott, asked for fair play and defended the proposed charter.

An automobile went over the side of the Mercer street viaduct, Jersey City, killing a woman and seriously injuring her husband and her son.

The publication of the traffic returns on British railways for last week showed that the two-strike had caused a loss of about $2,500,000 in receipts.

A cabinet council was called by the French Premier for tomorrow, at which France's "final word" to Germany concerning Morocco will be decided upon.

Harry N. Atwood rested at Castleton, N. Y., with the intention of completing his biplane trip from St. Louis to New York by flying 134 miles today.

Tammany officials and others denied that names of lawyers were sent to the judges for appointment as referees or that advertising rebates had been abused by referees.

Pure food experts in Washington attacked the standing of the cocktail cherry, objecting to its being preserved in benzaldehyde and glucose instead of real Maraschino.

President Taft discussed the pending arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France before the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Rochester.

Three tariff plans, a Washington dispatch said, seemed likely to come before the next session of Congress, as the three different elements in the Senate appeared to be far apart about revision.

The insurance commissioners' convention continued its deliberations and made recommendations for the reform of business methods obtaining among many health, accident and industrial concerns.

Leonardo da Vinci's painting, "Mona Lisa," stolen from the Louvre, was not recovered; inquiries showed that the picture had disappeared more than twenty-four hours before the loss was discovered.

An "ultimatum" was sent by Tom Mann, the labor leader, to the British Cabinet requiring the reinstatement by noon today of the streetcar men to whom the Liverpool municipality persisted in refusing work.

The funeral of John W. Gates was held at the Hotel Plaza, New York; his estate was estimated by his attorney at between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000, all but $1,000,000 of which was left to the widow and son.

A New York patrolman who was supposed to have been drowned on August 6 is still alive, according to Inspector McClusky, who says he planned a deception to hide his disappearance, perhaps with a woman.

A committee of members of Congress from the South issued a statement from Washington urging cotton growers to hold their product for 13 cents, and asking State banking associations to aid in a fight against bear speculators in the staple.

The jury to try Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., for the murder of his wife was completed in the Chesterfield County (Va.) courts; all but three were farmers; after instructing the panel on homicide, the judge adjourned the court until 10 o'clock this morning.

FORESTERS' CONVENTION.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 24.—At yesterday's session of the biennial convention of the Foresters of America a special committee made its formal report on the question of the lodge's erecting a tuberculosis sanitarium, where members of the order may reecive free treatment. This report, together with the election of officers, composed the principal business of the day.

There is also a movement on foot to give impetus to a proposition to start a national Foresters' publication, to be delivered free to the members of the order.

NEW ENGLAND IS FOR WILSON, M'COMBS SAYS.

Jefferson, N. H., Aug. 24.—W. F. McCombs, of New York, who has been active for months in promoting the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for the Presidential nomination, is here. He said yesterday:

"I have consulted with many leading Democrats of New England and am extremely gratified with the interest displayed in this section of the country in Gov. Wilson and the prospects of his nomination for the Presidency. I feel confident that the Democrats from New England, with the possible exception of Massachusetts, will be for Wilson in the convention of 1912. In Massachusetts the sentiment for Wilson is very strong, although there may be a complimentary ballot for Gov. Foss.

"I receive hundreds of letters every day from all parts of the country from men in all walks of life, many from Republicans, not only expressing an intention to vote for Wilson but asking what they can do to aid in his nomination."

GOING TO AID BIRD, HAS TERRIBLE FALL.

Asbury Park, Aug. 23.—Going up to his attic to release a pigeon that had been trapped, Benjamin Jones, forty years old, slipped through a trap door and received injuries that may cause his death. A piece of pasteboard covered the opening of the door and through this Jones plunged. He landed on some laundry machinery thirty feet below.

Jones' spine was hurt and he received internal injuries. He is being attended by Dr. F. F. Coleman.

TWO GIRLS ESCAPE FROM STATE HOME.

Trenton, Aug. 24.—Two inmates of the State Home for Girls made a sensational escape from that institution late Tuesday night by forcing the bars on a second-story window and dropping a long distance to the ground. One of the girls, Annie Rayhon, nineteen years old, who was sent here from New Brunswick, was captured early yesterday morning by Patrolman William Clow. The other girl, Henrietta Wakefield, seventeen years old, of Jersey City, is still at large. It is believed that she is making her way to Jersey City. Acting Sergeant Fitzpatrick sent a telegram to the Jersey City police.

The girls occupied different rooms on the second floor. Although they had planned to escape some time last night, one did not know of the other's success. They managed to make skirts for themselves, so when they escaped the police could not tell them by the regulation uniform worn at the institution.

EAGLES WOULD LIMIT OFFICIAL EXPENDITURE.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 24.—Resolutions calling for limitation upon the expenditures of all general officers were offered yesterday at the thirteenth grand aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, now in session here.

Thomas S. Greevy, of Altoona, Pa., who introduced the resolutions, is chairman of the caucus which supports J. J. Susack, of San Francisco, for the grand presidency of the order, and the move is considered, to some extent, a political one.

William J. Brennan, of Pittsburgh, poured cold water on a boom to make him grand president by announcing that he would not run for that office. He is a candidate for the grand vice-presidency.

Fred J. Lynch, of New Westminster, B. C., announced his withdrawal from the race for the grand secretaryship in favor of Conrad H. Mann. Lynch seeks to be grand conductor.

SAND IN DRESS HEM AIDED WOMAN SUICIDE.

Atlantic City, Aug. 24.—Fully clothed and with sand sewed in the hem of her dress, the body of Mary Conway, was found in the surf yesterday by life guards. It is believed while temporarily deranged the young woman ended her life by walking into the ocean. She was employed at one of the hotels.

Motorist Afoul of Tree.

Red Bank, Aug. 24.—While driving his touring car to Asbury Park, John Schwarz, of New York, ran into a tree on the curve on the Middletown turnpike, near the Middletown trolley station yesterday afternoon. There were two men and two women besides the chauffeur in the car. All were thrown out but escaped with slight bruises. The car was badly damaged.

KNIGHTS OF GOLDEN EAGLE TO CONVENE

Two hundred past chiefs from the seventy local castles of New Jersey, and representing the nearly eight thousand members, will visit Trenton on Labor Day, Monday, September 4, to attend the twenty-eighth annual session of the Grand Castle of New Jersey Knights of the Golden Eagle, which will open at 11 o'clock that morning in the beautiful hall of Mercer Castle No. 23, in the Risbam building.

Grand Chief Martin L. Ferris, of Asbury Park, will preside and the following other officers of the Grand Castle wil also be at their posts: Grand Cice chief, Peter L. Alberse, Paterson; past grand chief, Horace J. Martin, Plainfield; grand high priest, Horatio Clayton, Spring Lake, grand keeper of exchequer, Samuel S. Wyskoff, Trenton; grand master of records, A. L. Clark, Trenton; grand sir herald, Dr. H. G. Keeler, Atlantic City; grand bard, Byron D. Cohee, Trenton; grand first guardsman, Samuel S. Speer, Salem; grand second guardsman, William B. Tomkins, Trenton, trustees, F. A. Buren and R. M. Coffman, Camden, and T. K. Eastburn, Vineland.

The most interesting matter in sight sems to be the annual election of officers. Grand Chief Ferris will become junior past grand chief and will be elected New Jersey's representative to the annual session of the Supreme Castle, which meets at Boston in October. Grand Vice Chief Alberse will become grand chief, and the principal contest will come over the election of a grand sir herald, which is the first of the "line offices."

It is likely there will be several aspirants for this post. It is said Freedom Castle No. 42, of this city, will present a candidate in the person of Past Chief Peter H. Bennett, while South Jersey has brought forward the candidacy of Past Chief Walton H. Chew, of Lincoln Castle No. 31, of Hurffville, a well known Granger.

Thirty Days for Mrs. Mohan.

Mrs. Mary Mohan, of Dunellen, was sentenced to spend thirty days in the Middlesex county jail at New Brunswick this morning for being helplessly drunk and disorderly. She was arraigned before Recorder David Campbell of Dunellen and was taken to New Brunswick this morning in an automobile, her condition being too bad to risk conducting her there in the trolley cars.

Will Open a Drug Store.

William H. Pratt, son of Rev. W. W. Pratt, of Philadelphia, who is soon to remove to this city, has leased the new store at Watchung avenue and Fourth street, owned by Hirst, and will open a first-class drug store there about November 1. The property was leased through the agency of Joseph T. Vail, of North avenue.

STATE PLANS TO ENFORCE THE LAW

Recent happenings have made it probable that the marriage laws of this State will be made more strict by the next Legislature, or else the present law will be enforced so that the scandal attending it will cease. Really New Jersey has a marriage law as strict as New York or Pennsylvania, but the influx of couples from other States wishing to be married continues. Many instances have shed no glory on New Jersey or its marrying justices. Possibly a remedy will be found in stripping those semi-responsible officials of the right to perform marriage.

The publication of a letter from two noted elopers to a justice of the peace in Hudson county in response to his own letter has attracted wide attention. Apparently the justice was sending out a circular bid for business. The law was designed to prevent marriages that would not be legal elsewnere, and this was a case where a bid appears to have been made to overcome an obstacle in another State.

Persons from other States are supposed not to be married in New Jersey until several days have passed after a license is granted. Still a few days ago the newspapers were full of a story about a justice of the peace who went from town to town in Hudson county with an eloping couple seeking an accommodating town clerk who would issue a license to persons who lived in New York. The license was obtained finally, and the justice performed the ceremony forthwith.

Jersey City, Hoboken and North Hudson justices marry without question any one who appears as long as an easy-going town or village clerk will grant a license. Camden and Gloucester counties are Gretna Greens for Philadelphia. As the law stands it is easier for a couple from New York or Philadelphia to get married in New Jersey that it is for a New Jersey couple. It is thought that if only ministers and judges of a court of record had the right of performing a marriage ceremony the evil would be reduced.

She Was "Wise."

She was a bright girl and her escort, who was also her intended, was delighted to find how quickly she grasped the points of the game. She got on so well that he ventured a light witticism on the subject. "Baseball reminds me of the household," he remarked; "there's the plate, the batter, the fowls, the flies, etc." "And it reminds me of marriage," she retored. "First, the diamond where the are engaged, then the struggles and the hits, then the men going out, and, finally the difficulty they have in geting home." And he sat and thought and thought.—Boston Transcript.

LITERARY.

Among the well known and deservedly popular authors represented by uncommonly good stories in the September Red Book Mazazine are Edward Salisbury Field, Seumas MacManus, Walter Prichard Eaton, John A. Moroso, James Barnes, Edwin L. Sabin, G. B. Lancaster, Ellis Parker Butler and Richard Washburn Child.

Concerning madstones there can be none of the delightful speculations that are permissible in the instance of joint-snakes or hazel wands. Madstones are worthless. Kansas, usually the most tolerant of States in the way of liberty of thought, recently has been particularly energetic in trying to smash the madstone superstition into flinders. When health authorities in Winfield complained that a child who has been bitten by a rabid dog was being given no treatment but the application of a madstone, the State's Attorney-General promptly instructed the local county attorney to cause the arrest of the owner of the madstone and to have the child taken to the State University Hospital to be given Pasteur treatment.—Editorial in Collier's for August 12.

General Funston received the Medal of Honor and was made Brigadier-General of Volunteers for the remarkable crossing of the Rio Grande in the Philippines at the Battle of Calumpit. With humor and vivacity General Funston describes this adventure in the September Scribners. After more than a quarter of a century when the rancor of the time has subsided, James Ford Rhodes describes clearly and without prejudice "The National Republican Conventions of 1880 and 1884." These contests which nominated Garfield in one case and Blaine in the other were among the most dramatic in our political history. Readers of Mrs. Wharton's new serial—"Ethan Frome"—have been struck with the dramatic intensity of this tale of New England, which is told with the simplicity of a Greek tragedy.

He Knew His People.

Just before the collection was taken up one Sunday morning a negro preacher announced that he regretted to state that a certain brother had forgotten to lock the door of his chicken house the night before and as a result he discovered in the morning that most of the fowls had disappeared.

"I doan' want to be pussonel, breddern," he added, "but I hab my s'picions as to who stole dem chickens. I also hab reason fo' b'lieven dat if I am right in dose s'picions dat passon won't put any money in de plate which will now be passed 'roun."

The result was a fine collection, not a single member of the congregation feigning sleep. After the money was counted the old parson came forward.

"Now breddern," he said, "I doan want yo' dinners to be spoilt by wonderin' where dat brudder libes who doan lock his chickens up at night. Dat brudder doan' exist mah frien's. He was a parable gotten up fo' de pu'pose of finance."—The Housekeeper.

FRELINGHUYSEN IS AMUSED AT BOOM

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset, and president of the State Board of Agriculture, has asked the members of the board to be his guests, as well as everybody interested in agriculture in the State at his home at Raritan, Somerset county, on September 20 next. The State board has accepted the invitation and Secretary Dye is actively engaged in seeing that the Senator has many guests as the farmers can send him.

Behind this move there are a few politicians who profess to see some possible trouble for the regular Republican organization, which is backing former Assemblyman William W. Smalley for the regular nomination of the party for Senator from Somerset county this fall. Mr. Frelinghuysen has promised Mr. Smalley his support, however, and nothing has occurred so far to indicate that the former will not make his word good, or that he is seeking another nomination for the Senate.

Other politicians are inclined to think that behind this move lies the formal launching of a boom for Frelinghuysen for United States Senator, to succeed Frank O. Briggs in 1913. Frelinghuysen is laughing at these surmises, but they are entertained by the machine men, nevertheless, and until the coming meeting of the agriculturists at Raritan there will be much speculation.

CLERGYMAN'S DAUGHTER UNDER BAIL AS THIEF.

Spring Lake, Aug. 24.—Charged with stealing goods valued at $200 from the boarding-house of Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, at Second and Washington avenues, Viola Hazel, nineteen years old, daughter of Rev. Clinton D. Hazel presiding elder of the New Jersey district of the A. M. E. Zion church, was held in $200 bail for a hearing before Justice Milo H. Crego next Monday afternoon.

John H. Dickerson who is supposed to have purchased through the Riddle agency the property at Fifth and Morris avenues, and who is conducting it as a home for orphaned negro children, became the bondsman, offering the property as security.

The Hazel girl has been employed by Mrs. Johnson. The girl and her father lived at Dickerson's orphanage. Tuesday Mrs. Johnson missed a number of articles from the house, and she became suspicious of the girl and discharged her.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Johnson and Chief of Police Remson went to the orphanage, searched the Hazel's rooms and found the stolen goods, part of them under the bed, other pieces in a closet.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON "PROUD OF HIS RACE."

Indianapolis, Aug. 24.—Thousands of negroes assembled in this city for the national convention of the colored Knights of Pythias, heard Booker T. Washington say in an address Tuesday night, in the coliseum at the State fair grounds, that "he had no patience with the black man that was not proud he was an American negro."

"Teach the negro youth that, regardless of color, there is the same chance for them that there is for the poverty-stricken Greek, Jew or Italian that comes to America, and may begin at the bottom and grow into great prosperity," said Dr. Washington. "In spite of injustices and handicaps we can triumph and prove we are useful and worthy citizens."

LEMONADE CAUSED SICKNESS AT PICNIC.

Bernardsville, Aug. 24.—Poisoning supposedly due to lemonade, gave several score of people a very unhappy time Tuesday at the picnic of the local Royal Arcanum Council in Bockoven's Grove. The lemonade was kept in a pail, which had a tin cover. It is supposed that the tin, acted upon by the lemonade, developed an acid poison.

All who were affected had partaken of the lemonade. They suffered severely with cramps. Among the most seriously affected were Mrs. George T. Pepper and David Neill. The sufferers were attended by Dr. Josiah Neigh, who was at the picnic. All recovered with "first aid" treatment and no serious results are anticipated in any of the cases.

CARPENTERS' CASE BEFORE WALKER

The fight between Local No. 1787, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and the parent organization, was ventilated before Vice Chancellor Walker yesterday. The case came up on the return of a rule to show cause allowed by Vice Chancellor Howell, in Newark, about a month ago, in which the national organization was ordered to show cause why it should not be enjoined from further preventing members of the local organization "from procuring employment in any part of the State of New Jersey or in any part of the United States of America."

The complainants, who include 262 members of Newark Local, seek to have a permanent injunction issued in the place of the temporary order which was allowed by Vice Chancellor Howell when the suit was first started.

The entire day was consumed in the reading of affidavits on both sides. It was close to adjournment time when counsel concluded the reading of affidavits, and Vice Chancellor Walker announced that he would hear argument of the respective counsel here on Friday. It is likely that it will take the whole day to hear both sides of the case.

WIRE ROPE SHOP CLOSED.

Roebling Concern Blames Tariff Agitation in Congress.

Trenton, Aug. 24.—The wire rope shop of the John A. Roebling's Sons Company, one of the largest of its kind in the country, has been closed for five days past, and according to a statement made at the works yesterday will remain so for an indefinite period. Lack of orders, coupled with general conditions prevailing in the industry, were given as the reasons. The company attributes the present condition of the industry to the recent tariff agitation and the uncertainty as to what the next session of Congress will bring forth.

NO PROGRAM FOR LAYING OF STONE.

For some reason unexplained no program of ceremony has been arranged for the laying of the Public Library cornerstone at Elizabeth this afternoon. It was originally intended to have one of the city officials make an address, but this plan was changed.

Dr. J. P. Reilly, of the commission, will make brief opening remarks in the absence of the president of the commission, ex-Chancellor William J. Magie. The Rev. Otis A. Glazebrook will offer prayer.

FORTUNE FOR BANK PORTER.

Polishing Brass When Letter Announces $40,000 Legacy.

Jersey City, Aug. 24.—James Dundage, of 130 Bay street, employed as a porter in the Union Trust Company's offices, is arranging to return to his home in Ireland to take possession of an estate worth $40,000. He was polishing the brass railing in the bank building when he was handed a letter with an Irish postmark announcing that his uncle, a former member of Parliament, had died and left him his entire fortune.

Track Elevation is Near.

Work on the elevation of the Long Branch track in Elizabeth, from Elizabeth avenue southward, will be commenced at once and carried on under the provisions of the agreement made by the Central Railroad of New Jersey Company with the city. Several streets are to be depressed and three bridges are to be built.

Elizabeth Must Wait.

In a letter to James E. Lowden, president of the Downtown Democratic Club, of Elizabeth, Governor Wilson explains that he will be unable to speak there before the primaries. He states that he may address the voters during the campaign.

ANOTHER CONTRIBUTION AIDS BABY CAMP FUND

Mrs. E. C. Westcott, of North avenue, increased the King's Daughters' Baby Camp Fund today by $5 leaving but $35.36 lacking to make the total amount of the fund $300. It is believed that the latter figure will be reached within a few days. The needs of the camp are well-known to everyone in the city and borough and any amount contributed will materially help to bring the sick babies back to health and strength

MOOSE CHOOSE NATIONAL OFFICERS

Detroit, Aug. 24.—Arthur H. Jones, of Indianapolis, yesterday was elected supreme dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose, in national convention here, defeating James F. Lennon, of Philadelphia.

Other officers elected are: Supreme Vice Dictator, Ralph W. E. Donges, Camden, N. J.; Supreme Prelate, Walter E. Dorn, San Francisco; Supreme Treasurer, D. F. Crawford, Pittsburgh; Supreme Sergeant-at-Arms, E. L. Well, New Orleans; Supreme Trustee, James J. Finn, Jersey City; Supreme Councilor, M. M. Garland, Pittsburgh; Supreme Inner Guard, James J. Keough, Baltimore.

The secret ballot taken for supreme outer guard showed no election. R. K. Johnson, of Detroit; Jas. G. Jones, of Wilkesbarre, Pa.; and O W. Williams, of Birmingham, Ala., being the three leading candidates.

MARSHAL POPE KILLS RATTLER ON HIS VACATION.

Marshal Lemuel W. Pope, of the borough police force, used his club even during his vacation, which he has been spending for the past two weeks on the Blue Ridge Mountains in Pennsylvania, but during his period of rest the recipient of the blows of his trusty right was a large rattlesnake. The marshal met "Mr. Rattler" while walking through a field in the Blue Ridge mountains one day and before the snake could get away the officer had clubbed him to death. He stripped the serpent of its rattles, of which it had several since it had attained its full growth and brought them home. Already several of the marshal's friends have received some of the rattles as souvenirs.

Mrs. Andrew McCardell, of West Front street, has returned from Worcester, Mass., where she attended the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Joseph W. Fitton, who was also a sister of Mrs. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr. of East Second street.

JOINING THE ARMY

Opportunities That Are Open to the Enlisted Man.

HIS PAY AND HIS PROSPECTS.

Even as a Private He Can Run His Salary Up to $35 a Month, and as a "Noncom" He Can Double That and in Time Retire Rich and Pensioned.

There are many opportunities open to the man who enlists in the United States army and wears the uniform of Uncle Sam with honor to himself and his country. The pay is good, the food is good, and the chances for advancement are numerous. It is up to the individual man himself to make good and to take advantage of the situation.

Writing in the Columbian Magazine on army affairs, Edward Marshall in discussing the status of the enlisted man says:

Summarized, this is what a man who thinks of marching for his Uncle Samuel as an enlisted man has to consider:

On first enlistment the soldier for Old Glory nowadays gets $15 a month, far better pay, for instance, than the average clerk's, for board, lodging and clothing are furnished by the government. If he qualifies as marksman he adds $2 to his pay; if as a sharpshooter he gets $3 in addition; if as an expert rifleman a full third more. Thus he may at once get $20 monthly cash and found if he is able and keeps busy.

If he enlists as a musician he gets $21 monthly to start off with, the highest "rookie's" pay. In the signal corps, the hospital corps and the engineers' corps first class privates get $18 monthly, and second class privates get $15.

Upon enlistment every man is allowed $83.70 for his uniforms, etc., and afterward $13.54 twice annually. At least one-half the men save money on their clothing allowance, which is more than ample. Privates' pay increases $3 a month for each three year enlistment. An expert rifleman who never gets to be a petty officer, therefore, can run his pay up, with good conduct and intelligence, to $35 a month and all his necessaries "found" in five enlistments covering fifteen years.

Noncommissioned officers are taken from the ranks on recommendation of their company or troop commanders and are often given their posts upon their first enlistments. These men are really well paid. A sergeant major is allotted to each regiment. He receives $45 monthly when he is appointed and $4 additional per month each time he re-enlists. Regimental commissary sergeants, regimental quartermaster's sergeants and the three battalion sergeants in each regiment get the same high pay. Each company has a first sergeant at $45, with an increase of $4 upon re-enlistments; a second sergeant at $36, with $3 increase for each re-enlistment; a corporal at $18, with $3 each for re-enlistments. The government acts as banker for the soldiers, too, if they desire to have it, and noncommissioned officers have left the service with as much as $20,000 saved—not one, but many. If he sticks tight to the service for full thirty years a noncommissioned officer is entitled to retirement on pay ranging from one-half to three-quarters of his service pay. Seventy dollars monthly is not unusual pay for a "noncom" to retire on. And every year of service seen outside the United States counts as two years at a home post. A man, therefore, after fifteen years of service in the islands may retire on his half pay.

The food the "noncoms" and the other enlisted men are given is wholesome and well cooked, the medical attendance free and able, post and garrison schools have been provided at all posts for the primary branches, and at several posts trade schools have been established. A worthy man, no matter where he may be stationed, is almost certain to get transfer to a "school post" if he asks for it. Cooking, baking, blacksmithing, veterinary surgery, electrical and stationary engineering, all are taught at these trade schools, as well as many other things. Thus a boy who has had little chance to get an education may, after he has joined the army, get a very good one.

There seems to be but one thing which army life does not offer to the enlisted man. But that one thing is home.

In its degree indeed the life of the enlisted man now offers more inducements than the life of the West Pointer. The commissioned officer's pay is small when his expenses and the effort he must make to get commissioned are considered, and, furthermore, the noncommissioned officer is not so subject to political influences as the West Pointer, who gives him his commands.

Oysters as Rat Traps.

Catching rats with oyster shells is the unique method employed by some pearlers round about Broome, Western Australia. They leave a large oyster on the floor of the cabin at night. It opens for a breath of fresh air, and the smell of fresh meat attracts the rats. When the rodent thinks he'll try a little supper, the oyster suddenly decides that he doesn't like fresh air. Next morning the shell is pried open and the dead rat thrown overboard.

Well married, a man is winged; ill mated, he is shackled.—Beecher.

GOLF IN THE SOUTH.

The Game Was Played In Charleston as Early as 1788.

Golf was played in Charleston as far back as 1788. In the City Gazette or Daily Advertiser of Sept. 27, 1791, appears the following notice:

"Anniversary of the South Carolina Golf club will be held at Williams' coffee house on Thursday, 29th inst., when members are requested to attend at 2 o'clock precisely, that the business of the club may be transacted before dinner."

For several years following may be found calls for the anniversary meetings to be held at "the clubhouse on Harleston's green," a tract of land south of Boundary (now Calhoun) street, between the present Coming and Rutledge streets.

The fact that it was the anniversary meeting in 1791 would show that the club had been organized before that date, but unfortunately the file of newspapers in the Charleston library is not complete for some years just prior, and one finds no earlier notices of meetings or mention of the club. But in the same journal of Sept. 18, 1788, there is an advertisement of an auction sale of a farm on Charleston Neck, between three and four miles from the city, adjoining Cochran's shipyard, bounding in part on Shipyard creek, which, after describing the different items of property included in the sale, states that "there is lately erected that pleasing and genteel amusement, the golf baan." This certainly indicates that golf was one of the local amusements of that day.

The word "baan" (English-Dutch dictionary) means path, walk, way, etc., and golf, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, is derived from the Dutch "kolf," a club, and the game is doubtless of Dutch origin and introduced into Scotland about 1450.—Charleston News and Courier.

RIGHT ON THE JOB.

He Didn't Believe In Letting the Place Seek the Man.

A little story of success starting with the use of want ads. is contained in Business and the Bookkeeper. A Minneapolis manufacturer explains his liking for men who, even if they lack certain important qualities, have "initiative and originality."

The manufacturer, who at the time of which he spoke was just out of college, in Chicago and out of work, answered an advertisement offering a position, addressing, as instructed, "T24." He inclosed his reply in a large red envelope that could be seen and recognized at a distance. He was in the newspaper office early the following morning. In one of the boxes in which replies to advertisements were kept he saw his red envelope. He waited three hours until the letter in that box was given to a man calling for them. He followed the man to a west side factory. As the messenger laid the bunch of letters on the manager's desk the job hunter was standing by it.

"I'm ready to go to work," he said. The manager's reply was not "elegant," but in addition to being exclamatory it was interrogatory. How did he manage to present himself on the scene? The young man in need of the job pointed to his red envelope. The manager looked at it and looked at him. Then he turned to the messenger. "Find out who this young fellow is and put him to work," he said.

Discretion the Better Part.

Mr. Callahan had received a long tongue lashing from Mr. Hennessey, and his friends were urging on him the wisdom of vindicating his honor with his fists.

"But he's more than me equal," said Mr. Callahan dubiously, "and look at th' size of 'm."

"Sure an' you don't want folks to be sayn', 'Terry Callahan is a coward?'" demanded a reproachful friend.

"Well, I dunno," and Mr. Callahan gazed mournfully about him. "I'd rather that to 'ave 'em sayin' day after termorrow, 'How natural Terry looks!'"—Metropolitan Magazine.

How a Hindu Uses Clocks.

The Hindu places a clock in his showrooms not because he ever desires to know what the hour is, but because a clock is a foreign curiosity. Instead, therefore, of contenting himself with one good clock he will perhaps have a dozen in one room. They are signs of his wealth, but they do not add to his comfort, for he is so indifferent to time that he measures it by the number of bamboo lengths the sun has traveled above the horizon.

Too Many Numbers.

"You have forgotten your name?" said the kind policeman.

"Yes," said the victim of aphasia. "You see, I overtaxed my memory trying to remember my name and my house number and my telephone number and my automobile number and the number of my dog's license all at once."—Washington Star.

He Lost Out.

"Yes, sir, he wuz afraid o' the banks bustin' on him, an' so he buried his money."

"Has he got it yet?"

"No; he forgot to blaze the tree whar it wuz, an' the man who owned the land put up a sign, 'No Trespassing on These Grounds.'"—Pittsburg Dispatch

Among the Fliers.

"I took a flier in Wall street."

"And the result?"

"Same old aviation news—a fine start and all of a sudden a fearful bump."—Exchange.

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Use TIZ-- Smaller Feet
Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time. TIZ Makes Sore Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

Everyone who is troubled with sore, sweaty, or tender feet—swollen feet—smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions can quickly make their feet well now. Here is instant relief and a lasting, permanent remedy—it's called TIZ. TIZ makes sore feet well and swollen feet are quickly reduced to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes a full size smaller with perfect comfort.

It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists 25 cents per box or direct if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

DINED THE AUDIENCE.

And the Treat Proved a Fine Ad. For Liszt and Rubini.

An article in an Italian review contains an interesting story of Liszt and Rubini, the tenor. They were touring together and visited a town where, from the preliminaries which had been arranged, great things were expected. But they were disappointed, for when they entered the hall they found only fifty persons present.

Ribini was furious and said he would not sing, but Liszt calmed him. "You must sing," he said. "This small audience is evidently composed of musical connoisseurs of the town, so we should treat them with respect." Liszt set the example with a grand overture, and Rubini sang to perfection. Liszt gave another piece and then addressed the audience.

Liszt as an orator was as tactful as he had been in the role of pacificator. Addressing his audience of fifty, he said: "Ladies and gentlemen"—there was only one lady present—"I think that you have had enough music. Allow me to ask you to take a little supper with us." After a few seconds the invitation was accepted, and Liszt and Rubini entertained the audience to supper at their hotel, which cost them 1,200 francs.

When the guests separated the hosts thought the affair had been a joke, about which nothing more would be heard, but they decided to give their concert as advertised on the following night. To their astonishment the hall was packed. There was not standing room. The whole town had turned out on the off chance of an invitation to supper.

PATAGONIAN INDIANS.

Customs of the Remnants of a Once Powerful Tribe.

Normally the Tehuelches, as the Patagonian Indians are called, are a peaceable and kindly people, yet they are impulsive, capable of strong prejudices, very revengeful and—often with good reason—suspicious of strangers. They are not to be trifled with and when under the influence of drink are brutal and dangerous. They show love for their children and wives and kindness to their old people. They are divided into numerous tribes or groups, each having its chief or cacique, upon whom the burdens of government rest but lightly.

They believe in a good and an evil spirit, whom they propitiate, and have many stories, myths and superstitions connected with the sun, moon and stars, while the slaying of horses and drinking of blood form a conspicuous part of their superstitions, birth, marriage and death ceremonies, many of which are most repulsive.

When Magellan first passed through the strait there were perhaps no fewer than 10,000 Patagonians roaming from the Rio Negro to the strait, while today, driven back from the littoral to the high pampas and the foothills of the Andes, altogether they would probably not total over 500.—Harper's Magazine.

The Smallest Pension.

Great Britain's pension system is as liberal as may be considering the vast number of persons carried on both the military and the civil lists, but in one case the record for smallness of payment has undoubtedly been established. Various factors enter into determining the amount to be paid sailors, and these factors so combined against one old salt that it was found that he could draw a pension of not any more than fourpence—8 cents—a year. Promptly on each quarter day there comes an official communication transmitting the amount due in the form of postage stamps, and he is granted leave of absence in order that he may convert this into money at the postoffice. Then, after the proverbial manner of sailors, he promptly proceeds to "blow" the entire amount.—New York Tribune.

Wordsworth's Sense of Smell.

Poets have not failed to do perfumes justice, but one major poet—Wordsworth—went through life without a sense of smell and was not sorry for it. Nature, he told Aubrey de Vere, seemed to him all the more a vision. But once, and once only, did Wordsworth smell, and the prosaic occasion illustrates the unpolished household ways of his time. He sat down with his family to the midday dinner and began to carve a leg of mutton. The leg of mutton was stuffed with onions, and for once, and once only, the sense of smell was revealed to him. The onions, suddenly laid bare, conquered.—London Standard.

Taxed the Beards.

Peter the Great of Russia levied a tax on beards. Finding that his subjects were disposed to keep their beards at any expense of money, he ordered all those he found bearded to have the hair plucked out with pincers or shaved with a blunt razor. Russia then became a beardless nation.

Suspicious.

Bank President—What's the matter? Bank Vice President—I was just thinking. I sat next to our cashier in church yesterday, and I don't quite like the way he sings "Will they miss me when I'm gone?"—Puck.

Seizing the Opportunity.

Crabshaw—If you insist on this new gown I'll have to get it on credit. Mrs. Crabshaw—As long as it's going to be charged, dear, I may as well get a more expensive one.—Life.

Poverty is the sixth sense.—German Proverb.

MY AEROPLANE ADVENTURES

By J. ARMSTRONG DREXEL

VI.—When a Man Takes to Flying

[Copyright, 1911, by Henry M. Neely. Copyright in Great Britain and Canada. All rights reserved.]

WHEN a man takes to flying he enters upon a career which is the most troublesome and yet the most fascinating that has ever been opened up for human beings. He invades a realm for which nature never intended him. All of his instincts teach him that to ascend high above the earth is to court death and that to trust himself to so flimsy and so breakable a thing as an aeroplane is to go to the utter extreme of recklessness and daring.

My admiration is unbounded for those first men who actually rose off of the ground in their crude heavier than air machines and defied nature with their new found toy. Each of us who has followed has had to prove his nerve and his skill, but we know when we start to learn that the machines we trust ourselves to are right, that they will fly if properly handled and that there is no very great secret about it at all because it has been done before and we need merely do as our predecessors did. But those first men dashed absolutely into the unknown.

Not long ago Captain Thomas S. Baldwin, the veteran balloonist and aviator, investigated the subject and as a result he declared that every beginner in aviation smashes up $2,000 worth of property before he can get a certificate of competence, and one can easily imagine the risk to life and limb that is constantly run while these fledgling flights are being made. In my own case, when the mechanics let go of my machine for my first flight, it looked as though I were going to disprove this statement, but it was not many seconds thereafter before I showed that, if anything, Captain Baldwin's estimate of cost was altogether too low.

"I FELT THAT THE HEAVENS WERE TUMBLING ABOUT MY EARS."

My First Lesson In Flying.

My first lesson was taken from Grahame-White at Pau. His Bleriot was equipped with an Anzani motor, for it was before the Gnome had been placed upon the market, and it was probably fortunate for me that my machine did not have the greater horsepower developed by the later type of engine.

I learned as did most of the men who have made a success of the work. The controls were explained to me, and I made a thorough study of the theory on which the machine operates. I knew what to do to make the monoplane go up or down or steer to right or left, and I knew how to warp the wings to preserve my balance—that is, I knew them in theory, though I had, of course, never tried them in practice.

"Now," said Grahame-White, "you are to take a run along the ground and see if you can steer the machine. The wheel is tied so that you cannot go up into the air, and all you are to do is to keep going straight and shut off your engine when you come to the end of the field."

So my engine was started, and when the propeller got going at a fair speed I gave the signal to the mechanics who were holding the machine to let go, and I felt myself dash forward smoothly over the ground. I believed that all I had to do was to leave the machine pretty well alone and it would go in a straight line until I stopped the engine, but in this I was destined to meet with a great surprise, for instead of going straight ahead I found myself going around in a circle to the left, and almost before I knew it I was back at my starting place and had stopped the engine.

Then Grahame-White explained to me that a Bleriot always has a tendency to steer to the left when it is running along the ground. This is due to the downward thrust of the propeller and the greater effect of the air pressure on one side than another. After being instructed to steer with my foot lever until I got going at full speed I started off again. This time at the first sign of a pull toward the left I thrust out my right foot and headed her the other way. Once more I had to do this, and then I attained full speed and was able to keep on in a straight line down the course.

Feeling with the utmost confidence that the tying of the wheel would make it impossible for me to rise from the ground, I had not the slightest nervousness as to the outcome of my journey, and I thoroughly enjoyed my dash down that mile of level earth at a rate of about thirty or thirty-five miles an hour. But again I was destined to a great surprise—a surprise that taught me to fly much as one teaches a boy to swim by throwing him in the water and letting him strike out for himself.

I Find Myself In the Air.

At the end of the mile straight away on the course was a road crossing the field at right angles and at an elevation of several feet above the rest of the ground. Without thinking much about this road and feeling perhaps that so slight and so gradual an embankment was not a serious obstacle, I went dashing merrily on and up the slope toward the highway.

A few minutes later my utter astonishment may be imagined when I suddenly realized that I was not upon the ground at all, but was sailing gracefully through the air at a height of about eighty feet above the earth.

The explanation is simple enough to me now. When the front of my machine took the slope of the embankment it rose until the slant of my planes was exactly what was necessary for the impact of the air to get under them and give the required lifting power for the machine to fly. In other words, the embankment did for me what I might have done for myself had my wheel not been tied, and it sent my machine upward into the air as gracefully and as easily as though it had been purposely operated for that result by the most skilled aviator.

For the first few minutes my astonishment was so great that I did absolutely nothing but sit motionless and let the Bleriot take its course. Then I pulled myself together and tried to remember everything that Grahame-White had told me about how to manage the machine.

My one thought was to get back to my starting point, for by this time I had gone beyond the smooth fields and was flying over rough and dangerous ground that would have meant instant disaster had I landed upon it. So, in order to turn, I thrust my left foot gently forward, and I shall never forget my thrill of triumph as I found the Bleriot gradually sweeping about in a wide and easy circle to the left that soon brought me again back to the smooth fields and facing toward the direction from which I had come.

An Unexpected Disaster.

As I approached my starting place I shoved my wheel gently forward, as I had been instructed to do to come down, and a few moments thereafter I landed as lightly as a bird, feeling that my first flight had indeed been a triumph unmarred in any way and entirely disproving the discouraging things I had heard about the difficulties of learning to fly.

I landed with the wind and going at a speed well up between fifty and sixty miles an hour, and not twenty feet from where I touched the ground was a high fence. Into this I crashed at full speed. I felt a sudden jar and heard the loud noises of splintering wood all about me—so loud indeed that I felt that the heavens were tumbling about my ears. Then I felt another jar as I fell to the earth, and when I had recovered my senses sufficiently to examine the wreck I found that there was not much left except the seat and me. For the seat I had no very high regard, but I was mighty glad and grateful to find that I was able to get up and walk about with only a score or so of sore spots distributed over my body.

I must have been an awful sight to behold. From the very beginning of my flight, unaccustomed as I was to hurtling at such a rate through the air, the wind had lashed my eyes as though with whipcords, and my eyeballs had become sore and inflamed. The oil from the engine had been dashed back on to my face, and there it had mingled in grimy brotherhood with the water that streamed from my eyes under the lashing of the wind.

It took me a long while to get used to this pain caused in the eyes by the rushing air, and during the next few weeks when I began flying with the Gnome engine I got a double dose of lubricating oil in my hair, all over my face and down my neck.

I flew with the first Gnome engine ever put upon the market. It was a short time after I had taken my initial lessons from Grahame-White and when I was in the school run by Bleriot himself at Pau.

It was a vastly different matter to start a flight with this new motor. Instead of having an easy run along the ground and lifting at a speed of about thirty miles an hour, as I had done with Grahame-White's Anzani, I now found myself rushing along at nearly fifty miles an hour almost as soon as the mechanics let go of the machine. Here my poor eyes got a lashing which I shall never forget and which daily nearly blinded me until I became accustomed to flying at this tremendous speed.

I Go In For High Flying.

From the very first the one phase of aviation that held a really powerful fascination for me was altitude climbing. No sooner had I tried my fledgeling wings than I looked longingly into the upper air and wanted to climb as far as my engine would carry me.

On the third day of my practice at the Bleriot school with the Gnome motor I decided to take affairs into my own hands, and, disregarding all the advice that had been given me, I headed the machine upward and climbed close to a thousand feet, when suddenly, one after the other, three of my cylinders went bad, and I was forced to coast down to the ground again. It was the result of some minor defect in the new engine, and when it was repaired I took my equipment with me to my place at Beaulieu, in England, there to practice a bit and then try for my certificate, or aviator's license.

I became proficient in a remarkably short time. When I felt that I could pass inspection I had the officials of the English Aero club appoint a day when I should try for my certificate. An official came up to wish me good luck just before my mechanics started the propeller, and I asked:

"What is the English height record?"

"Paulhan has it," he replied. "It is 977 feet."

"Well," I said as I turned away, "I am going to try to beat that."

I started off in wide circles, and the first two times I passed over the heads of the officials I saw one of them wave a red flag, the signal for a naval officer with a sextant to take my height. Higher and higher I went, but I was surprised not to see the flag wave after that, and I came to earth again.

"How much did I do?" I asked the navy officer.

"Ten hundred and forty feet," he replied. "You have broken the English altitude record, and I believe you went twice as high as that, but unfortunately the man who was to signal me with the flag got mixed up somehow, and I only took your height on your first and second circles."

This love of altitude work has been my constant passion ever since. Merely to get into an aeroplane and fly no longer has any fascination for me. I want to climb. I want to keep going up until I am sure that I am higher than any man has ever been before in a heavier than air machine, and, though not long ago I almost determined to give up aeroplane work, I now feel the desire growing stronger upon me, and it would not surprise me if I tried for another record soon.

Eternal practice and unfailing patience are necessary when the average man takes to flying. Day after day he must go out "grass cutting," as they say at Mineola when the novices roll along the ground or take only short low jumps into the air. This is not exciting and it will seem to the would be pilot that he is making slow progress, but, as a matter of fact, he is training his mind and his muscles to work in unison and by instinct, and this faculty alone is worth all the trouble it takes to acquire it once it is called into play in a bad spot high above the earth. It may not be needed very often, but, like a gun in Texas, when it is needed it is needed badly

PREPARING TO IMPROVE MORRIS PLAINS ASYLUM.

Morristown, Aug. 24.—With the contracts awarded for one new building, the installation of 8,000 screens, and for a new dynamo, and with bids being advertised for two other structures, improvements will soon be made at Morris Plains State Hospital for the Insane.

The contract for the installation of the dynamo has been awarded to Mackenzie, Quarrier, Ferguson & Co., of New York. The Window Screen Company, of Jamestown, N. Y., has secured the contract for the construction and installation of the screens, and James J. Lyons, of Morristown, has been awarded the contract for the construction of the new firehouse. Bids are now being advertised for for the construction of the home for men nurses and for the cottage for tubercular patients.

The majority of the members of the fire brigade are connected with the business department of the hospital. The equipment of the department includes a hose cart, ladders and fire extinguishers. The firehouse will be located in the rear of the old building and between that and the new part of the institution.

The cottage for the tubercular patients will have accommodations for eighteen. At present there are sixteen patients, four men and twelve women affected with tuberculosis at the institution.

The Power of an Air Brake.

Some idea of the power of an air brake may be gained from the following facts: It takes a powerful locomotive drawing a train of ten passenger cars a distance of about five miles to reach a sped of sixty miles per hour on a straight and level track. The brakes will stop the same train from a sped of sixty miles per hour in 700 feet. Roughly it may be stated that a train may be stopped by the brakes in about three per cent. of the distance that must be covered to give it its speed.—L. E. Moore in Science Conspectus.

Libeling Old England.

According to General Pillet of France, the author of "L'angleterre vue a Londres et dans ses Provinces," published in 1815, wife murderers a hundred years ago generally went scot free in England. In this engaging work the author says that "the murder of a married woman by her husband is hardly recognized as a crime. If by some rare chance the guilty husband is brought to justice he is bound to be acquitted. This accounts for the heavy death rate among women in England. Most Englishmen of fifty have been married at least three times." Pillet had been a prisoner of war in England and published this work in revenge. It was so full of libelous statements that its circulation was forbidden by the French government, and the few copies available brought very high prices.

Apparently the English did not consider the work very dangerous, as a copy was secured for the British museum.

A Well Deserved Snub.

On one occasion an English gentleman called to see Lord Westmoreland on particular business. He was at breakfast and, receiving him with his usual urbanity, asked the object of his visit. The gentleman said that he felt somewhat aggrieved, as he had brought an official letter of introduction to him from the foreign office and, having learned that his lordship had given a great dinner the night before, was surprised and hurt at receiving no invitation. Lord Westmoreland exclaimed, with his usual heartiness: "God bless me, sir, I am really quite distressed. I think I received the letter of which you speak. I will send for it." Accordingly the letter was brought to him, and on reading it he said to the stranger: "Ah, I thought so! There, sir, is the letter, but there is no mention of dinner in it." On which the gentleman rose and backed out of the room in confusion.

How He Won the Votes.

A physician in a small town wanted to be mayor. Politicians told him he had no chance—the machine was against him. A few days before the election he printed the following card in the paper:

"To the People of Bingtown—I am getting old and have decided that before I die I would like to be mayor of Bingtown. I have no particular platform to run on except that I want the office. I have lived here forty years, have paid my taxes without a murmur, collected what I could and forgiven and forgotten many omissions. If I am not elected I will publish in the Bingtown Herald what I know about people in this community."

When the votes were counted the old doctor received all but three, and those three were cast by people who had moved into the town that spring.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Property Man Knew.

An English actor tells a good story of the old days of the touring fitup companies. They were at Oldham playing a melodrama called "Current Cash." One of the properties essential to the piece was a light rowing scull, with which the hero had to push himself off into the stream. When the company reached Oldham the oar was missing, but the property man promised to have one ready for the evening's performance, says the Pall Mall Gazette. That afternoon, with evident pride, he produced from the sacred recesses of his room a real human skull, and when it was pointed out to him that it was hardly what was required he declared in haughty tones:

"If that skull's good enough for 'Hamlet' it ought to be good enough for a piece like 'Current Cash.'"

Thanking the Bishop.

A vicar in England was taken suddenly ill, and his church warden was in great difficulty about getting a substitute when the bishop of the diocese, hearing of the circumstance, offered to take the Sunday services himself. The church warden, wishing "to do the right thing," at the close of the service went up to the bishop and after thanking him stammered out, "A poorer preacher would have done for us, your lordship, but we were unable to find one!"

The American Temperament.

"You observe," remarked the host, who was showing the distinguished foreign visitor around Newport, "that we Americans devote ourselves to pleasure regardless of expense."

"I'd hardly put it that way," retorted the witty foreigner. "Rather you devote yourselves to expense regardless of pleasure."—Boston Transcript.

His Comparison.

"Footlite is a good actor," said a playwright who was criticising a New York production wherein the hero's part was very badly cast, "and in this part he does his best; but, by Jove, doesn't he remind you of a man trying to play a Tschaikowsky symphony on a typewriter?"

Hopeless Case.

"Why don't you make hay while the sun shines and"—

"Huh! If I tried to do that it'd just be my luck to get sunstruck."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Cat!" She Exclaimed.

Nan—Anyway, I don't like his looks.

Fan—That's because he looks in my direction rather oftener than he does in yours.—Chicago Tribune.

Honesty is the best policy, but he who is governed by that maxim is not an honest man.—Whately.

WESTFIELD PROTESTS ITS SOMERVILLE GAME

A protest from the Westfield club on the Westfield-Somerville game last Saturday was read before the meeting of the officers of the Central New Jersey League in the Queen City hotel last night and because of the absence of a representative from Somerville, the matter was laid over until the next meeting of the league. This wil be called presumably for next Wednesday night. The Westfield club filed its protest and from gossip gleaned from the club officials last night, it looks as if the Mt. Ararat aggregation had a good chance to play the game over.

The protest was made on a decision offered by Umpire Rutherford H. B. Dalley, who called a Somerville runner safe after he had cut across the diamond and thence tagged out. This is in direct violation of the official rules and upon these grounds, Westfield is trying to have the game, which resulted in a victory for Somerville by a score of 6-1, played over. A copy of the protest follows:

Central New Jersey League.
Gentlemen:

We protest the game played on Saturday, August 19, at Somerville, N. J., Somerville vs. Westfield, on the following grounds:

With one man out, a man on second an a man on third, a safe hit was made to left field. The left fielder threw the ball home, and the runner, who was on second, seeing that he was caught at the plate, did not try to slide in order to reach it. In the meantime, the man who was on first base ran all the way around and crossed third base so that we had two men caught between third and home. The last runner, seeing that he was liable to be put out, short cut across the diamond to second base, whereupon I instructed the third baseman to touch the runner who was on second, and I also called the umpire's attention to the fact that the runner had not retouched third base, on the way back. There upon the umpire stated that the runner did not have to retouch third base and that I was crazy.

We refer the association to Rule No. 56, section No. 13, which states that the runner is out if he is touched in the regular or reverse order, as the case may be. This would have put the second man out, and the next man hit a fly to left field, which was caught and would have put the third man out. As the matter stands, the man who was on third scored on the secrifice fly. Subsequently, two hits were made and three more runs were scored. This changed the aspect of the game. It is not my habit to question umpires' decisions, where it is a matter of judgment, but where the umpire willfully violates one of the rules through ignorance, we think we are justified in claiming that the game should be replayed.

Yours very truly,
Westfield Baseball Club,
E. W. Bedford, Manager,
Per J. A. B.

SOMERVILLE PROTEST WAS ONLY 'MUCH TALK'

All the teams in the Central New Jersey League were represented at the meeting in the Queen City hotel last night, when the proposed protest from Somerville on the last Plainfield-Somerville game was to have been brought up, except Somerville. Consequently no protest was made by the Somerville club since only a verbal statement had been received by the league secretary and no notice had been given in writing up to last night's meeting, which was the extent of the time limit for the filing of objections to the results of decisions.

On account of the failure of Somerville to enter its protest before the meeting, the much disputed game stands as a victory for the local nine by the score of 8-7. The league meeting was called principally to take action on the protest and when the matter was decided in favor of Plainfield ,there was little other business to be brought before the government of the organization.

Manager Ernest Dorflinger, of the Plainfield team, seemed well satisfied with the result of the decision on the intended protest. He said that he believed the matter would pass without any objection from the Somerville team. The fact that Somerville objected to the result of the game because "Red" Waller knocked a ball over the fence for a home run and Dave Driscoll accompanied him around the bases as far as third base, was regarded by the majority of the magnates last night as only an unsportsmanlike plan. This opinion was expressed by The Daily Press immediately after the much disputed game was played and the following letter from the baseball editor of the New York Press to a local fan supports this view.

New York, Aug. 22, 1911.
Dear Sir:—

I would say that it was a clear home run, and that your adversaries used poor sportsmanship in contesting such a petty point, that had no bearing on the hit whatsoever.

Yours truly,
Fred G. Lieb,
Baseball Editor, N. Y. Press.

BASEBALL.

Consolation thought for today—there's no more worrying to be done over that last Somerville-Plainfield game.

Somerville evidently didn't care for the company of the other league officials last night.

But just think of the breath that you've wasted in discussing that Plainfield-Somerville game! And it will never come back.

If you are a gossiper, however, and must have something to chew about, just try this gum over—Westfield has filed a protest against Somerville. Just a little of Somerville's own medicine only not in the homeopathic dose, in which they intended to give it to the Pets.

As we gallop to press we wonder if the Burlington Elks will have any protest coming from the work of one Marcus Hoyt on second base. All in favor say "Aye"—Opposed, "No" The opposition seems to have it. Do you blame them?

Manager Ernest Dorflinger has not as yet discovered his twirler against Bound Brook Saturday. The Plainfield manager is in New York city today looking over the lists and will have one slated before the sun sets tonight. He will also hunt for a short stop to fill Lou Hartman's place.

When the local Elks suggested that they play the winning team of the Central league, Manager Dorflinger said that he was willing. Somerville wasn't there so they did not offer any statement, but did you notice that Westfield remained silent on the subject? Evidently the Mt. Arrarat aggregation has changed its mind about taking the pennant.

But nevertheless Westfield has sufficient grounds for a protest. Vive la Westfield!

Enter the Elks again!

Exit "Red" Waller!

Baseball is again like life according to Willie Shakespeare's definition—"Full of exits and entrances."

LOCAL K. OF C. LODGE TO HAVE A FAST NINE.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, has organized a baseball team, which will make its initial appearance in uniform Saturday afternoon when the nine from the Yea Bo Club will be its opponents. Edward Harding, Jr., has been elected captain and Henry Pasch has been chosen manager.

The local Knights have purchased uniforms, which are colored in K. of C. style and they will wear these when they lineup against the Yea Bos Saturday. Manager John Doyle, of the Yea Bos, has announced that he will have a strong team in the field and expects to down the Knights in their first performance.

The Knights will appear as follows:

Linke, c; Harding, p; McAfee, 1b; Parent, 2b; O'Keeffe, ss; Pasch, 3b; Wilson, lf; Lynch, cf; Kennedy or Carty, rf; Taylor and J. C. O'Keeffe substitutes.

CENTRAL LEAGUE PLACES UMPIRES FOR NEXT MONTH.

At the meeting of the magnates of the Central New Jersey League last night the schedule for the placing of umpires during the coming month was made. The officials wil appear as follows:

August 23—Stockdale at Westfield; Degnon at High Bridge; Dalley at Plainfield. September 2—Stockdale at Somervile; Degnan at Plainfield; Dalley at Westfield. September 4, a. m. and p. m.—Stockdale at Bound Brook; Degnan and Dalley at Plainfield; p. m.—Degnan at High Pridge. September 9—Stockdale at High Bridge; Dalley at Bound Brook; Degnan at Scotch Plains. September 16—Stockdale at Plainfield; Degnan at High Bridge; Dalley at Somerville. September 23— Degnan at Plainfield; Stockdale at Bound Erook; Dalley at Westfield. September 30—Daley at Plainfield; Degnan at Westfield; Stockdale at Bound Brook.

Waller on Central Black List.

Because he failed to give Manager Ernest Dorflinger sufficient notice thatt he would not appear at Scotch Plains to twirl against the Thistles last Saturday, "Red" Waller, the unaccountable yet peerless pitcher of the Central New Jersey League Pets, was black listed from the league rolls at a meeting of the magnates last night. "Red" had gone with the Lynn team of the New England League but it is believed that he had expected to pitch for Plainfield on the sly. He is out of it altogether now, however.

Elks Challenge Central Champs.

Manager Harry Marshal, of the local Elks basebal team, issued a challenge from the 885 lodge nine last night at the meeting of the officials of the Central New Jersey League to play the winners of the Central pennant. Somerville was not present but Ernest Dorflinger said that if Plainfield won out in the fight for the rag, he would agree to such a post season game.

In Honor of Miss Donahue.

A party in honor of Miss Laura Donahue, of Brooklyn, was given last night at the home of Miss Annabelle McAfee, of West Sixth street, by whom Miss Dnoahue is being entertained. There were about thirty guests present and music, vocal and instrumental, and games made the time pass pleasantly until a late hour when a collation was served.

TEMPLARS' FIELD DAY ON SEPTEMBER 7

The annual field day of the New Jersey commanderies of the Knights Templar will be held in Asbury Park Sept. 7. The commanderies will assemble there in the morning and an inspection and review will be held on Asbury avenue between Kingsley and Heck streets. After the review and inspection there will be a parade. The grand commandery of New Jersey will have its headquarters at the Ocean hotel.

Damascus commandery No. 5 of Newark, and Corson commandery of Asbury Park, and Trinity Commandery, of this city, will likewise have headquarters at the Ocean hotel. The parade will be reviewed by the grand officers who will occupy a stand on Asbury avenue.

The officers of the Grand Commandery of New Jersey, who will be the guests of the knights on field day, will be Grand Commander John P. Contrell, of Newark; Deputy Grand Commander Otto O. Stillman, New Brunswick; Captain-General Judge Nelson Y. Dungan, Somerville; Grand Senior Warden William P. Hayes, Trenton; Grand Standard Bearer Gilbert W. Blanchard, Passaic; Grand Warden Henry F. Barth, Millville; Grand Treasurer William Carman, Metuchen; Grand Recorder John M. Wright, Trenton; Grand Junior Warden, Judge Robert H. Ingersoll, Atlantic City; Grand Sword Bearer Dr. Joseph MacDonald, Jr., East Orange, and Grand Prelate the Rev. Dr. George C. Maddock, Trenton.

HIS VACATION CUT SHORT BY DEATH.

Death came suddenly to Cornelius Moyer, a resident of Paterson, as he stood at the Elizabethport station yesterday afternoon awaiting the arrival of a train on the Long Branch division of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which was to bear him to West Creek, a resort near Atlantic City, where he was to spend a two weeks' vacation. He was stricken with heart failure. The ambulance of the Alexian Brothers' Hospital was summoned but the surgeon pronounced him dead. His death occurred six minutes before his train arrived.

Mr. Moyer, with Charles Ulrich and another Paterson friend, came in from Newark on a train and changed for the Long Branch division. They were chatting merrily over their contemplated trip when Moyer suddenly keeled over. His friends rushed for aid but it was too late. The body was removed to Engel's morgue. It will be shipped to Paterson today.

Mr. Moyer kept a bakery store in Paterson and was well known there. He had spent a busy season but had been in apparently good health. The body was claimed by a brother.

Mr. Moyer was 43 years old and lived at 424 Twenty-first street, Paterson. He leaves a wife and five children. The county physician has granted a burial permit.

Many gathered at the scene of the death yesterday afternoon, thinking the man had been killed by a train, as the spot is noted for many accidents and fatalities. Mr. Moyer's friends put off their trip, so shocked were they over the occurrence.

TWO BURNED BY OIL STOVE.

Attempt to Carry it Out After Explosion.

While trying to remove a blazing oil stove, which had exploded, from the kitchen Abraham David, a shoe dealer, of 229 Third street, Elizabeth, was severely burned about the hands yesterday afternon. Mrs. Harry Padliski, who was in the kitchen at the time of the explosion, summoned David to her aid. She, too, was burned about the hands. The damage was slight.

TO LEAVE THEIR WARDS.

Two Elizabeth Councilmen Will Not Run Again.

At least two of the present Elizabeth councilmen will not run again. They are Francis Engel and Floyd R. Berriman. The former is a Democrat, serving from the Ninth ward, and the latter a Republican, representing the Sixth. Both contemplate moving from their respective wards.

Several Realty Changes.

Irving Paine, of New York city, has leased 430 East Front street, as his residence, and will take possession October 1. Rev. W. W. Pratt, of Philadelphia, district secretary of the American Publication Society, has leased the property at 1111 Park avenue, and takes possession October 1. Samuel f. Carter, a prominent New York lawyer, has rented Mrs. Howard McWilliams' residence on Belvidere avenue, and takes possession October 1. All of these rentals were made through the agency of Joseph T. Vail, of North avenue.

Plan a Fine Ocean Trip.

Frank H. Smith, chairman of the county Republican committee, and Charles H. Dunham, will leave on August 31 for an ocean trip, their destination being Colombo, South America. They will be on the water twenty-two days in all, and anticipate a fine time, which it is hoped will prove a great benefit.

Swackhamer Advises Voters t Avail Themselves of Privilege of Naming Candidates.

"BOSSES' POWER IS GONE."

Somerset Democratic Senatorial Candidate Tells How the New Law Was Enacted Despite Desperate Opposition.

Claiming it is of vital importance to free government that the new primary law be used when put to a test on September 26, former Assembly S. S. Swackhamer, makes an appeal to the voters to go to the polls and register their choices on that day. Mr. Swackhamer is a candidate for the senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket. His appeal follows:

"Through your columns I desire to urge my fellow citizens to use the primary election law as if their political salvation depended upon it. This law has been secured at a price commensurate with its value, and in the teeth of the bitterest and most implacable opposition by the bosses. 'We love it for the enemies it has made.'

"The object of the direct primary is to let the voters, and not a boss or a machine, or a corporation, choose the candidates for public office.

"Before the passage of the primary law, the old convention nominated the candidates, that is to say, the boss usually nominated, through the convention, the political tool of his choice. Generally a preliminary meeting of the delegates was held at the call of the boss, and sometimes at his own headquarters, and, if he had not made up his mind who should be nominated, he would decide that question later, and, when the convention convened, he would give his orders. Many a time, decent and self respecting men went to the convention with heads hanging with shame that a corrupt, or arrogant political dictator, should have the power to say to free born American citizens, 'you do as I say,' and to enforce that command with the imperiousness of a Julius Caesar, or a Nero. But under that system there was no escape from the control and domination of the political tryant, and corruptionist.

"But, at last, men got tired of that kind of thing, and they said, we will destroy the boss ruled convention, and wrench from the clutches of the bosses their most effectual instrument of political power, and oppression. Bossism by convention was Republic wide,and the means to overthrow it originated in the far west. The direct primary was the remedy advised, and, when it became a workable fact, to the chagrin and consternation of the western bosses, the eastern bosses sent their emissaries to the west, ostensibly to investigate, but really to discredit the law, and, of course, they found that the primary law was a dismal failure and a dangerous innovation. But this false pretense did not work, and the primary principle spread like the waters of the river Nile. By the enactment of this law, the bosses were unhorsed, and the people took into their own hands the reins of government. The legislature had plucked from the hand of the political manipulator his keenest instrument, and had given it into the hand of the voter.

"Now, let the voters of New Jersey stop and think. The bosses and the machines in every party resisted the passage of this law to the last ditch, but they failed to defeat it, for it had behind it the invincible will of the people. Now, that it is on the statute book, they are trying to circumvent and nullify it. They are not willing that the people should choose their candidates by the ballot at the primary election, but insist that they themselves shall exercise this prerogative as heretofore.

"In an editorial published in the Newark Evening News on the 16th inst., the editor, commenting on the Republican political situation in Essex county, and referring to the fight for nomination between the candidate who received the endorsement of the Republican county executive committee and the candidate representing the progressive Republican element, said, in part, 'It cannot be said that this condition of affairs vindicates the spirit of the direct primary law. The purpose of that law is not only to give the voters an opportunity to express their choice, as to candidates, but to permit a free and open field for candidates themselves. The News is expressing no opinion as to the qualifications of the two candidates, but it does believe that the voters should have a larger freedom of choice than will be possible under the circumstances. The effect of the county committe's indorsement has been to drive all other "regular" aspirants from the

DEMOCRATS MAY FIX UP A SLATE TONIGHT

The Union County Democratic committee will meet tonight at Westfield to confer on candidates and policies. The meeting has been called by Representative William E. Tuttle, the county chairman. The Elizabeth committee have not been invited and the explanation is given by one prominent Democrat that "we know where they stand down there at Elizabeth." There are lively contests for both the shrievalty and the senatorship and consequently it is expected that the meeting tonight will be "red hot."

Robert H. McAdams, of Elizabeth, is the most conspicuous candidate for the senatorial nomination. He is both able and popular and would make a creditable candidate. There are full definite reports, however, today that McAdams "won't have a look in when the time comes." Two dark horses are to be trotted out so the story goes and there may be something doing in that line tonight. Elizabeth has three candidates for the shrievalty but in this end of the county, the Democrats profess to believe that Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead, of this city, will have everything his own way.

A boom was sprung yesterday for TenEyck Beadsley, of Fanwood, for the senatorial nomination. Beardsley, however, is not eligible as he has not resided in the State for four years.

LAWYER SCARES AWAY WOULD-BE BURGLAR

James Dawe and his son, of Leland avenue, had a burglar hunt at an early hour this morning but did not succeed in making a capture. They were started on the chase by Robert Newton Crane who resided next door and who was awakened by his wife. She had been disturbed by a noise at one of the windows on the ground floor of their home.

Peering out Mr. Crane discerned in the dim light the figure of a man busily engaged trying to pry open the window with a jimmy. By the call to the neighbors, who had not yet retired, the man became aware that his presence was known and made off across the lots with Mr. Dawe and his son in close pursuit. By the time Mr. Crane had descended all three were out of sight.

A thorough search of the premises showed marks on the window sash of the burglar's tool, which he had dropped in his flight. When seen this morning Mr. Crane said that he had nothing to say except that the eastern end of the city would have better police protection if the force was larger.

FOR A HEARTY LAUGH GO SEE "ROYAL SAM."

"Jolly" John Larkin got a great "hand" at the Plainfield theatre last night when he appeared at the head of a capable company in "Royal Sam," so much a one that the management arranged right then and there to repeat the performance tonight.

As Sam Green, an easy-going darky, who is induced by Captain Doall to masquerade as the wealthiest negro in the South and thus help him get possession of a farm occupied by his sweetheart's mother, Mr. Larkin has a role that enables him to disport himself as a glass of fashion and to show his title clear to the "Jolly" prefix to his name. He is not the only comedian in the company, however, to earn applause. A less extravagant and more artful impersonator of color character is Irving Allen, who appears as Sheriff Ketchum, looks the darkey of the Southland, and shows an individuality and skill as a dancer that makes him a popular factor in the production.

In the furthering gaiety, the Misses Jennis Pearl, Irene Tarker, Anita Wilkins, Charlotta Freeman and Ethelyn Cohn and Messrs J. S. Mores, Tom Cross, James A. Lillard and Arthur C. Simmonds are interesting agents. An enjoyable feature of the performance is the singing by the chorus of sixteen young men and women, whose voices are far better that those heard in connection with colored companies presenting musical extravaganzas here in recent years.

The one big card as a singer was Charlotta Freeman, for to hear her alone is worth the price of an orchestra seat. The performance will be repeated tonight.

Ackerman Honored.

Ernest R. Ackerman, president of the State Senate, was appointed as a member of the Commission for Preserving Landmarks by Governor Woodrow Wilson yesterday. His associates on the commission are Isaac T. Nichols and William C. Gebhardt and Assemblymen George M. Lamonte, Henry E. Newman and Thomas R. Laiden.

FINDS BIG SKEETER

Rev. Dr. Herring Discovers that Cape Cod Variety is Superior to Jersey Brand.

DESCRIBES QUAINT TOWN.

Asserts That Despite Reports to the Contrary There's No Drunkenness in the Temperance Place—— Sailors Interest Him.

In the following letter, received today, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who is spending his vacation at Cape Cod, Mass., says he has found a mosquito that beats the Jersey variety and gives an interesting description of that quaint town:

"I want to thank you for the copies of The Daily Press which I have received in this quaint town at the tip end of Massachusetts. Massachusetts has a tip end for the the east side of it is shaped like a fish hook and Provincetown is situated on the inner side of the hook's prong. The Cape Cod folks I have seen here are not like those seen on the post cards, with shaggy beards, oil-skin hats and a bit of pipe in their mouths, but city people who have come to escape the heat of their homes, and they do escape it, for there is no such thing in these parts as a land breeze, for on one side of us is the ocean and the other Cape Cod bay, called so probably because there are no cod in it. The place is also the rendezvous for amateur and professional artists, who are doing their best to paint up the town and people.

"There are hundreds of sailors here in their characteristic white apparel together with young officers in brass buttoned regalia and golden cord adornment. These sailors have proved themselves an orderly lot of fellows and the town helps them to be orderly for nothing stronger than moxie is sold her. Of course, there are those who will say they can get it if they want it, and that probably there is more strong drink sold than if the town had a dozen saloons. There is just one answer to that statement, namely, it is not true. There is no drunkenness in this town.

"But I must not forget to tell you of the friends who spared no pains to entertain us during all of our stay, namely the ubiquitous mosquito. Jersey is known far and wide as the home of this svelte and willowy creature, but why she should claim the honor I do not know for the Cape Cod mosquito is far superior in every way. He is larger and more beautiful with his gaudy stripes. His tone is of a richer quality. He is always on the job and knows no weariness day or night. He shows no evidence of discouragement and bores right in regardless of the oil of citronella and Chinese punk.

"Another unique characteristic of this town is the 'town crier,' who daily announces matters of public interest. He holds a large dinner bell in one hand and a notice in the other. At stated intervals as he proceeds through the place, he rings the bell and calls attention to his notice, which he pronounces 'No Tus.' His usual announcement is that there is to be a change of pictures at the moving picture show the pictures portraying the usual scenes in a cowboy's life with the accompanying fearful facial contortions of the actors.

"Admiral Togo was to have visited us last Thursday but his digestion was not equal to another great dinner and so he failed to come. The chef on the Nebraska had provided for his delectation, rice at five dollars a pound and one hundred and fifty dollars worth of ice cream. Think what the rest of the dinner must have been.

DOG THAT BIT CHILD AFFLICTED WITH RABIES.

Health Officer John O'Brien received a report from the State Chemist this morning that the head of the dog sent there for analysis last Saturday, after the animal had bitten Nicholas Rocco, of West Second street, on Friday, showed signs of rabies. The dog was shot immediately after it had bitten the child. Nicholas will be sent to the Pasteur Institute for treatment.

Election Officers.

In the list of Republican election officers published yesterday, Frank Neal and John Carty should have been assigned to the second district of the Fourth ward and James Huntington and I. Kunzman to the third district of the same ward. Garret Dunham and not John Dunham was one of the election officers named in the fourth district of that Ward. John H. Cole and not John H. Cose is an officer in the first district of the Fourth ward. In the third district of the Third ward. Thad. Doane, Jr., was selected this morning as an officer.

W. C. T. U. TO MEET

Twenty-Seventh Annual County Convention to be Held on Thursday Sept. 21.

MRS. TOMLINSON TO PRESIDE.

Program Announced for Big Gathering at Roselle M. E. Church —Sessions both Morning and Afternoon.

The twenty-seventh annual convention of the Union County Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the M. E. church, of Roselle Park, Thursday, September 21. There will be morning and afternoon sessions. Mrs. Mary Davis Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, president of the county Union, will preside. The other officers are: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. L. Rarick, of Dunellen; recording secretary, Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of this city, and treasurer, Mrs. Mary T. Cox, of Cranford.

The morning session will be opened by prayer by Miss Emma L. Starr, of Westfield. Greetings by Mrs. Benjamin Abrams and Rev. J. H. E. Schultz, both of Westfield, will follow and will be responded to by Mrs. P. H. Bennett, of this city. The reading of the president's report will be heard next.

Among the important business to be transacted at the morning session will be the election of officers for the ensuing year and the selection of a delegate to the National Convention to be held in Milwaukee, October 27 to November 1. A box lunch will be served at 1 o'clock.

The afternoon session will be taken up with hearing reports of the L. T. L. secretary the heads of the different departments and the reading of papers on various subjects of interest to the society. Mrs. A. Swan Brown, State Superintendent of Scientific Temperance Instruction, will deliver an address; Mrs. L. H. Lee, of Elizabeth, will speak on "Purity in Literature and Art," and Mrs. A. E. Parse, of this city, will deliver an address on "Railroad Men, Motormen and Firemen." Social meetings and Red Letters days will be discussed by Mrs. Nancie Mosher, of Westfield, and Christian Citizenship and Franchise by Mrs. P. H. Bennett, of this city.

Miss Pauline Sparks, of Bridgeport, N. J., will deliver an address on "The Value of American Youth" in the evening.

INDIANA MAN FINDS COUSIN LIVING HERE.

John R. Dennett, of Richmond, Indiana, and his cousin, Andrew Love, Sr., of 44 Duer street, were once more made acquainted with each other yesterday through the efforts of Postmaster Elias Bird, of this city. Mr. Bennett and his wife are now visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Love.

Several months ago Mr. Bennett, who is engaged in the grocery business in Richmond, wrote to Postmaster Bird to inquire if any of his relatives by the name of Love lived in this city. Mr. Bird immediately turned the correspondence over to Andrew Love, who communicated with his cousin and invited him to come here and make a visit. The cousins had not seen each other for many years.

Miss Peter Peterson.

After an illness of several months, during which time she underwent two operations, Miss Peter Peterson died yesterday afternoon at the boarding house on Grove street, where she was employed as a domestic. She had been in this country but two years, coming here from Sweden to be near her affianced husband, Chris Rasmussen, of East Fourth street. They were to have been married this fall. Asidef rom Mr. Rasmussen, the only close friend or relative she had in this country is Marenius Matsen, of Elizabeth. The funeral service will be held at her late residence on Grove street tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

Old Glory Picnic.

Old Glory Council, No. 62, Daughters of Liberty, will hold a picnic on the lawn of Theodore Van Pelt's residence on Grant avenue, tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting. The affair was to have been held on the lawn of the Tingley home at Dunellen but the plans were changed so as to have it held at Van Pelt's.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Dufford, of 675 West Front street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Delia C. Dufford, to Wesley J. Moren, of Hartford, Conn. The wedding will take place in the fall.

MOTORIST HELD UP

Masked Robber Wounds C. M. Dumas and Relieves Him of His Watch.

NEAR RARITAN LAST NIGHT.

Mrs.. Dumas Starts Car's Engine When Highwayman Examines Watch and Couple Effect Their Escape.

In an encounter with a masked highwayman who had held up his auto near Duke's Farm, at Raritan, last night, Charles Dumas, of Somerville, was wounded in the right arm by a revolver bullet, and relieved of a valuable watch and fob. That he was not more seriously injured and suffered a greater loss was due to his wife who was with him.

The couple were returning from a harvest home out in the country back of Raritan when a plank across two barrels, seeming to indicate that the road was closed, brought the auto to a sudden stop. Dumas alighted to remove the plank as he had decided to take a chance in going over that route rather than make a wide detour to get home, when he was confronted by the highwayman. Light from the machine lamps glinted from the bright barrel of a revolver held in the robber's right hand and showed the long blade of a knife in his left.

Instead of throwing up his hands as ordered, Dumas moved toward the front of his car until the shot and a stinging in his right arm stopped him. When his hands were up the man stepped close and jerked Dumas' watch from his pocket. While the desperado was examining it in the glare of the headlight, Mrs. Dumas called to her husband.

The woman had the engine of the car humming and as Dumas jumped in the car she threw in the clutch. The robber barely missed being run down. He sent several shots after the speeding machine, but none took effect. Detective Totten was notified as soon as Dumas reached town and he started out for the scene of the holdup in an automobile. No trace of the robber was found.

MARITAL TROUBLES ARE ENDED IN COURT.

The charge of non-support brought against David Beech by Overseer-of-the-Poor Alexander Ayers, to whom Bech's wife had made a complaint, was dismissed in the city court this morning by Judge William G. DeMeza after Beech promised to go back to his wife and provide for her properly. The case was tried Tuesday morning and resulted in Beech being held under bonds. Since then a reconciliation was brought about.

Couple Reconciled.

The charge of non-support brought against John McIntyre, of North avenue, by Overseer-of-the-Poor Alex. Ayers and set down for a hearing this morning in the city court before Judge William G. DeMeza was the means of bringing about a reconciliation between the couple and the complaint was dismissed.

MUST BE CAREFUL ABOUT FOREST FIRES

Plainfielders, who are in the habit of going on picnics to the Watchung Mountains during the fal and late summer, wil have to be extremely careful hereafter in regard to the matter of starting fires of any kind in the woods. Since the new legislative administration has been in power, strict laws regulating the building of fires have ben laid down.

Regular patrolmen have been employed to watch the wooded sections of the State and they have the power to arrest any violators of the law. Placards have been placed on trees through the woods in the vicinity of the Watchung Mountains explaining the law to all persons who are likely to enter and start fires.

The new law forbids the starting of fires in any place within 200 feet of woodland and they must be built in the middle of a public clear road. No fires can be started during the afternoons or evenings when breezes are most likely to spring up, all blazes being restricted to the morning hours.

Chief Forester Gaskill, of New Jersey, explained before the meeting of the North Plainfield Tomnship Improvement Society recently that the laws regarding the setting of forest fires would be strictly enforced this year and that some of the most valuable timber land in the State was situated near the Watchung Mountains.

HE BLAZED AWAY AT A PROWLING NEGRO

The peace of Dunellen was disturbed last night when several rifle shots were heard in the vicinity of Dunellen avenue. Upon investigation of the shooting, one of the Dunellen marshals found that Earl Eising, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percival Eising had blazed away at a negro who was supposed to be attempting to enter the Eising residence. Young Eising was alone in the house at the time and told the marshal that the colored man had been prowling around, and when he heard him trying to get in a window, he fired.

This morning Marshal James Benson arrested John Hansen, a sixty year old negro, whom he thought was acting suspiciously. The prisoner was arraigned before Recorder David Campbell and after a thorough investigation, he was allowed to go free. Squire Campbell says he believes that the suspect is innocent.

On account of the robbery which was perpetrated Tuesday night in Holloway's drug store, when the thieves broke a heavy glass window right on the principal street of the borough, stole several watches and escaped without anyone hearing them, and the occurrence of last night, the residents of Dunellen are well stirred up.

LEWIN FOR MAYOR

Announces Himself a Candidate For Mayor at Boro Democrats Meeting.

ORGANIZATION IS EFFECTED.

W. J. Conroy Chosen Chairman; David Bodine Secretary; W. C. Chandler Vice Chairman and George Kirch Treasurer.

John M. Lewin announced his candidacy for the Mayoralty nomination in North Plainfield at a meeting of the borough Democrats in Debele's Auditorium last night. Mr. Lewin had been named by several of his friends as a likely candidate some time ago but he had made no mention of his acceptance of the invitation of his supporters until last night. His petition is now being circulated and as yet he is the only Democrat in the field. In a short speech at the meeting last night, Mr. Lewin stated that if he was the choice of his friends he would endeavor to gain the position of Mayor and if elected would serve the people to his best ability.

Although only fifteen of "the faithful" were in attendance, nevertheless an organization was effected. After the business meeting, S. S. Swackhamer, whose petition for the State Senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket in Somerset county is now being circulated, made a stirring speech.

Walter C. Chandler was chosen as the temporary chairman of last night's meeting in the absence of W. J. Conroy, who is out of town. Mr. Conroy was then elected to be the permanent chairman of the organization. Walter C. Chandler was chosen vice-chairman, David Bodine, recording secretary, and George Kirch, treasurer.

Walter C. Linbarger suggested that the organization should have a name before anything further was done. "The Woodrow Wilson Club," was proposed as the cogomen to be accepted but several of the others objected to this on the grounds that the Democrats in the borough last year were banded together as the "Woodrow Wilson Campaign Club," and the two organizations might be confused. Mr. Lewin stated that if the name of Woodrow Wilson were connected with the club, sevral of the independent voters of North Plainfield would work for the furtherance of the cause of the present Governor. The name "North Plainfield Democratic Club" was also proposed but could not be agreed upon. Consequently the question was laid over until the next meeting.

A committee consisting of George Kirch, David Bodine and S. S. Swackhamer, was appointed by the chair to draw up the by-laws of the newly formed organization and report at the next meeting.

S. S. Swackhamer was called upon to speak and he continued his talk for twenty minutes. He said that the time was now ripe for a Democratic victory in the county and that his party had the opportunity of its life to make a strong fight in the borough. He pointed out that the Republicans had had things all their own way in the borough for years.

"The opposition will not sleep this fall," continued Mr. Swackhamer, "and unless we heed to Andrew Jackson's advise, 'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty' we shall find ourselves lost at the polls when election day comes around."

Nothing was said about propesed candidates for borough councilmen. David Bodine's petition for Democratis county committeeman was signed by several of those present.

St. Mary's Playground.

In some quarters there appears to be a wrong impression prevailing regarding the use of the public playground at St. Mary's parochial school yard. As the location was considered a good one for a playground the Commission very sensibly decided to locate one there regardless of the fact that St. Mary's is not part of the public school system. It should be borne in mind that there is no religious requirement as to the use of this playground. Children of Protestant parentage equally as well as those of Catholic parentage are extended its privileges.

Frederick J. Beck.

Frederick Jacob Beck, the two years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. C. Beck, of South avenue, died yesterday afternoon at Oak Tree where his parents have been residing for the summer. He had been ill for eight months. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence of his uncle, John Dohl, of 770 Woodland avenue and interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

RALPH SMALLEY SAVED CHUM'S LIFE; KILLED BEAR WHICH SPRANG ON HIM

Councilman W. L. Smalley is in receipt of a letter from his son, Ralph, who is spending some time with James McAleer, of Riverside, Pa., vividly describing an exciting encounter they had with a bear while hunting in the wilderness of the Allegheny Mountains near McAleer's home one day last week. The bear was shot by young Smalley after it had wounded McAleer and Smalley will bring its claws home as souvenirs. The pelt has been mounted and will be placed among Mr. McAleer's collection of trophies.

With three dogs, the two youths set out early one morning for a day's hunting. They had been meeting with indifferent success until the dogs gave signs of excitement. Being trained hunters Mr. McAleer remarked that something big was in the neighborhood and advised Ralph to look to his gun and keep it in readiness for instant use. After following the dogs a short distance they led to a place which is about half swamp and the soft soil showed plainly the tracks of a bear.

A short distance further on, the dogs made it clear that the bear was near and sending the dogs on the men followed as closely as possible A thick growth hid the dogs from sight for a moment but the sounds which came through the bushes let the hunters know that the prey had been located. Plunging through the tangled briars the men were in time to see one of the dogs ripped open by a sweep of the bear's claws and a moment later another was sent spinning by a back hand wallop. Taking aim, McAleer fired and hit but did not wound the bear mortally. Turning its attention from the dogs the bear made for the hunter, who had dropped to one knee and was sighting along the barrel of his gun for another shot. This shot took effect also but McAleer had waited too long to pull the trigger and the bear was upon him before he could regain his feet.

Sinking his teeth in his arm and bearing him to the ground the infuriated beast would have soon torn him to pieces had not Smalley taken careful aim from close range and shot the animal through the head. It dropped dead and in falling held McAleer to the ground. He lost consciousness and could give young Smalley no assistance in removing the carcass which when dressed weighed 365 pounds.

With considerable difficulty the men managed to reach home where Mr. McAleer's injuries were dressed. Ralph guided several men to the place where the bear had been left and it was brought into town that night.

NEWPORT Coal and Gas Range

—a modern kitchen convenience that housewives will be quick to appreciate.

Embraces every good feature of the regular single oven "Newport," with the added capacity of the gas attachment.

This is one of the greatest improvements ever brought out by the

BOYNTON FURNACE CO.

It nearly doubles the cooking capacity of the range, as both coal and gas may be used at the same time if desired. Besides, this handy range gives, in compact form, both a winter necessity and a summer convenience. It solves the "cook stove" problem. Ask your dealer to show you this best of all combination ranges—the "Newport."

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were weak in New York yesterday.

Count Katsura, Premier of Japan, resigned his post.

Manoel de Arriaga was elected President of Portugal by the Constituent Assembly.

President Taft reached Beverly, Mass., and began his first vacation of any length since last spring.

The actual partition of Finland was begun by two large parishes being cut off from Viborg province and added to St. Petersburg.

The strike in Liverpool was ended and 68,000 men returned to work; the Lusitania and the Adriatic will sail for New York today.

Seven witnesses for the commonwealth testified at the trial of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., for the murder of his wife, at Chesterfield Court House, Va.

P. J. McGrane, the chum of Paul Giedel, on trial in New York for murder, told in court how the prisoner had befriended him when he was penniless.

The Health Department of New York reported thirty-five cases of typhoid fever in four weeks in the Catholic Orphan Asylum, in the Bronx.

The maximum terms which France will offer to Germany to settle the Morocco dispute will be submitted to the full French Cabinet today for approval.

William Lee, of Boonville, Ind., was arrested in connection with the murder of his father, mother and brother; robbery was said to have been the motive of the crime.

Harry N. Atwood landed at Nyack, N. Y., after breaking the world's cross-country aeroplane flight record by completing 1,241 miles, and planned to fly to New York city today.

E. E. Grosscup was chosen chairman of the New Jersey Democratic committee to succeed J. R. Nugent, recently deposed for having offered an insulting toast to Governor Wilson.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, announced that the War Department would soon establish schools of equitation for the instruction of officers and enlisted men in horsemanship.

Women and babies taken from a sinking vessel in Lake Huron were adrift in a small boat in a storm for thirty-six hours; a tug that towed the vessel disappeared with ten persons on board.

Bruno Rothenberg was held in $10,000 bail, in New York, on a charge of arson, the prosecutor saying the prisoner was "merely a pawn in the hands of others," and hinting at other arrests.

The legislative committee devoted the entire day to the educational chapter of the proposed New York city charter; practically all of the speakers declaring against a paid Board of Education.

Peter Carter, a negro, who had been captured by men who attacked Mrs. Minnie Spriggans, wife of an Oklahoma farmer, was burned to death on a bush pile by a mob in the main street of Purcell.

It was said at Albany that the State authorities would not attempt to prevent the New York State Wine, Beer and Liquor Dealers' Association from holding its annual convention in the State armory at Binghamton.

No result came from a conference in Chicago between Julius Kruttschnitt, vice-president of the Harriman lines, and J. W. Kline, representing the federal unions of shopmen; Wall street heard that the men had voted to strike.

District Attorney Gawthrop, of Chester county, Penn., believed he had the ringleader of the mob that burned a negro at the stake in Coatesville in the arrest of Oscar Zamping, a railroad brakeman, who was held for murder.

A Paris magistrate learned that on the day the "Mona Lisa" disappeared from the Louvre an excited man carrying a panel covered by a horse blanket left the city by the Bordeaux express. It was reported in Brussels the art work passed through Belgium into Holland.

RED BANK "INVESTORS" SCENT A SWINDLE.

Red Bank, Aug. 25.—The two members of a local "brokerage" firm who have been disposing of stock in companies said to control ore fields in Texas, have left Red Bank. No one is at their offices to give any information as to their whereabouts, and "investors" in the stock they marketed, are wondering and worrying.

They are not the only anxious ones. It is said that a number of bills are unpaid and that a bank in Asbury Park holds a note for $4,000, purporting to bear the indorsement of a local firm whose indorsement would make the note worth its face value. The firm, however, has no knowledge of the note and declares the indorsement a forgery. There is a story that one of the missing brokers was seen at the railroad station a few days ago and paid for a ticket to New York with one of a roll of bills taken from a grip, which seemed to bulge with similar rolls.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A fire broke out at the Lehigh Valley coal bins here last night, but was extinguished by an engine which was close by. The cause is thought to have been a spark from a passing train. The damage is small.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Dunham and son, Donald, of Plainfield, are stopping at Brookside Farm, the home of Mrs. Dunham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith.

Miss Winifred Saverd came home yesterday from St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Walter Harris and daughter, of Metuchen, have returned home after a visit with friends in the village.

Miss Marjorie Maguire has gone to Metuchen to spend her vacation.

John Miller has taken a position with Scheurer & Co., of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Smith are visiting out of town friends.

Elwood Johnson is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

SOMERVILLE.

The County Board of Elections has received the list of names of persons eligible to serve as election officers in the county under the new Geran law. Nearly every person who took the examination succeeded in passing. The names will be made public the latter part of the week. Judge Connett, of Flemington, will be here today to aid in selecting the election officers from the list.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reemer are home from Asbury Park, Mr. Reemer having gone there when he returned from Europe last week. He did not learn until he arrived in New York the extent of his loss by the fire which burned several of his buildings about May 1, just after he started for his old home in Germany.

Mrs. Clara Bird and niece, Miss Abby Miller, of Butte, Mont., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Southwick, of East Main street. Mrs. Bird, who is a sister of Mrs. Southwick, has not been East in many years.

Henry Keiderling, employed for many years on the Ross farm, is carrying his left hand in a sling as the result of a deep cut received while at work last week.

Miss Helen Fisher, of Philadelphia, is spending the week with Miss Gertrude McWilliams, of Doughty street, Raritan.

AUTO'S PLUNGE CARRIES DEATH

Jersey City, Aug. 25.—Ripping its way through an iron railing on the Mercer street viaduct, an automobile carrying three Bayonne residents, plunged forty feet Wednesday night, killing one of the occupants and seriously injuring the remaining occupants of the car.

Mrs. Sarah Burnett, thirty-five years old, of 39 West Thirty-first street, Bayonne, was the person killed. Her husband and her son, James Y. Burnett, and Clifford Burnett, nineteen years old, were injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett had been shopping in New York and were met at Jersey City by their son in the auto, a touring car. While ascending the viaduct from the lower section to the Heights, with the intention of proceeding to Bayonne over the boulevard, young Burnett followed close in the wake of a car owned by President Edmund B. Osborne, of Montclair, "Progressive" leader of Essex county. In an attempt to pass the Osborne car, Burnett swerved to the left and barely struck a heavy truck driven by Joseph Hoffman, of 145 Fremont street, Jersey City.

The car shot across the footpath of the viaduct, tore out about forty feet of the guard rail and dropped front foremost. The front of the machine embedded itself in the mud below leaving the rear wheels in the air.

Mrs. Burnett was caught under the machine. Her head and chest were crushed and both arms broken. Death was instantaneous. Young Burnett was thrown away from the car as it crashed through the railing and fell in the mud. He received a compound fracture of the right leg and was badly bruised about the face, head and body.

The elder Burnett was also thrown from the machine. He grasped a piece of the broken rail, hung suspended for a moment and then as the iron snapped fell to a pile of iron below. He was picked up with a fractured collar bone, contusions of the head and face and probable internal injuries.

In the Osborne car were Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. Julia S. White, mother of Mr. Osborne, and the Osborne's two children. They knew nothing of the ocurrence until the police called Mr. Osborne up and asked for information.

TOWN IN WASHINGTON IGNORES COURT ORDER.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 25.—Petitions asking President Taft to remove Judge Charles Hanford, of the United States District Court were being signed by thousands yesterday as the result of the court's stand in the fight of the people of Renton against the Renton, Seattle and Southern Interurban Railway Company.

On Monday Judge Hanford issued an injunction restraining the city and the people from interfering with the operation of the line by asking transfers to Seattle lines. The patrons of the line ignored the court order and stopped the entire system by insisting upon the payment of a single fare with transfers instead of a double fare.

Tuesday afternoon Judge Hanford issued another injunction commanding the Renton system to issue receipts for three cents extra fare collected when transfers were issued. Wednesday the patrons again ignored the court's order and the company consequently carried them free realizing the futility of resisting the entire community.

ABE ATTELL WINS OUT IN VAUDEVILLE FIGHT

Plainfielders were happily surprised yesterday afternoon when they attended the local Proctor's theatre and witnessed the act in which Abe Attell, the world's champion featherweight fighter, appeared with two clever team mates. They were surprised because the act is different; it isn't the ordinary hum drum punching of an inflated leather bag, which usually constitutes the performance of a champion prize-fighter when he makes his appearance as a footlighter. The act is an original one, yet it brings in the life occupation of the great featherweight and it also brings out the laughs.

Whoever would have thought that a fighter can use anything else but his arms and hands? Well, Abe does it and he uses his tongue in as clever a bunch of straight line feeding as the best interlocutor of the funniest minstrel show on earth. But the act isn't all tongue—it brings out an exhibition of a little of Abe's clever boxing, which has won for him the title of world's champion featherweight for the past twelve years, and has made it possible for him to defeat Battling Nelson, George Dickson and Ad Wolgast.

Goff Phillips, the famous negro comedian, makes the laughter in the act under Abe's straight. He takes the part of Jack Johnson, heavy weight champion of the world to be, and is scheduled to fight the human porcupine, who is really Mike Carroll, one of the heavy weight babes, who is under the training of Attell and who has already registered twelve knockouts in twelve fights out West. The result of their scrap appears doubtful at first for "Johnson" goes down with one whirl of the porcupine's right quill through the air. In the clinch, however, "Johnson" uses the secret punch which Attell has shown him and lands on the heavy weight so hard that he is obliged to retire from the ring in one round. Attell then finishes the fight to the delight of everyone concerned for he still has the speed as well as the clever lingo on the cross fire work.

This is the fifth day that the act has been played, the quartet coming here from Elizabeth where they were wildly received.

CHINESE STUDENTS TO COMPETE IN ATHLETICS.

Princeton, Aug. 25.—Competition in athletic events will be a feature of the gathering of students at the Chinese Students' Alliance Conference here.

The hospitality extended to the visitors includes the use of the athletic field. Yale will give nine medals to the Chinese team winning in the baseball contest. Columbia will give two gold medals to the champions in doubles at tennis. Cornell will present a gold medal to the best track athlete, Harvard a gold medal to the champion team in track athletics. Andover Seminary eleven medals to the team winning the association football match, and the conference also will give many prizes in the athletic competition.

Governor Woodrow Wilson sent a dispatch regretting his inability to be present and address the conference.

"KEEP POLITICS OFF OF ROADS"

Trenton, Aug. 25.—The elimination of politics from the construction of public roads is regarded by State Road Commissioner Edwin A. Stevens as of prime importance, if the highways of New Jersey are ever to reach a condition approaching perfection. More or less recent events have convinced Colonel Stevens that politics, especially as practiced in some localities, are seriously handicapping the efforts of the State to improve its roads.

The first remedy suggested by Colonel Stevens in an interview Wednesday, was to place road supervisors under civil service regulation so that merit, instead of "pull" should form the basis of their selection. The extent to which politics figures in making these selections was praticularly brought home to Colonel Stevens last Tuesday, when no less than fifteen persons, including a Senator or two and some former members of the Legislature, besieged his office in quest of appointments for various constituents.

Colonel Stevens does not object to the advocacy of candidates for positions provided it is based upon their qualifications for the work. He does, however, vigorously object to any and every attempt to foist upon the department political henchmen unfitted for the position sought or disinclined to properly perform the duties entrusted to them.

As an instance he had in mind, Colonel Stevens recalled the case of a particular county which, he said, had had a good road supervisor, who by conscientious and efficient service had put the roads of the county in fair condition. He described the incumbent as a practical and faithful official whose work produced results. Notwithstanding a vigorous protest made by Colonel Stevens this supervisor was ousted in order to give the place to a member of the Board of Freeholders upon the expiration of his term. Colonel Stevens declared that the new appointee is not fitted for the work. He remarked upon the impossibility of securing satisfactory road construction while such methods prevail.

The present freeholder system, as it exists in most of the counties, is looked upon by Colonel Stevens as not conducive to the bst results in the matter of road construction. Cases have been brought to his attention where a piece of road work had been started and while it was under way a freeholder in another part of the county had insisted that his section was not getting its proper share of road work. To satisfy him the work under way had been partially stopped, and the gang of workmen taken to another part of the county and placed upon a new job. The result, Colonel Stevens said, was that neither work was properly done. He would overcome such occurrences by adopting some such system as that employed by railroads, having permanent section gangs at work upon one job until it is properly done, and then moving to another.

Blame Typhoid to Wells.

Lambertville, Aug. 25.—Reports have been received from the State Board of Health regarding the fever epidemic here, which has received a thorough investigation. The water from the reservoirs is reported good, as is water from other public places in the city, but the board is of the opinion that the fever came from milk contaminated by bad well water on a farm near the city. This well has been condemned.

PARKER FIELD OPENING.

As told in yesterday afternoon's issue of this paper, everything is in readiness for the formal opening of Parker Field on Labor Day. The program as arranged by the Playground Commission is one that should attract the interest if not also the attendance of every citizen who has the city's welfare at heart. Among the events scheduled is a contest between two teams of the Central New Jersey League—Plainfield and Westfield. In this connection it should be borne in mind that the game will not cost the city one penny and neither will any admission fee be charged for it nor any other part of the well balanced program. The hundreds of children who have been benefitted by the use of the four school playgrounds this summer have their part in the events provided for this occasion and each and every man, woman and child resident in Plainfield or its suburbs will spend several enjoyable hours if they visit the field on that ocasion.

ESTHER CLEVELAND TO WED DEAN WEST'S SON.

Tamworth, N. H., Aug. 25.—Miss Esther Cleveland, eldest daughter of the former President, will wed about October 15 Randolph D. West, of New York, son of Professor Andrew West, of Princeton University. He has been attentive to her here at Tamworth.

Miss Cleveland is about twenty years old. She has been coming here with her mother for five years. She is an ardent tennis player and also an enthusiastic autoist.

At the Princeton Club in East Twenty-first street, New York, it was said that little information could be obtained of Randolph D. West. A catalogue of Princeton University for the current year, lists a Randolph West, Princeton, N. J., as a member of the junior class, who, if successful, will be graduated next June with the degree of A. B.

Professor Andrew West is well known to all Princeton men. He is dean of the graduate school.

Prisoner's Fine Paid.

City Judge William G. DeMeza received a check for $50 from Warden Dodd at Elizabeth yesterday with a letter saying that it was for the fine imposed on Edward Britton Monday morning and that the prisoner had been released from the county jail. The letter did not state who had paid the fine to the warden. Britton was sentenced for disorderly conduct.

Big Railroad Accident.

At 2:30 this afternoon a report was received that a Lehigh Valley train had gone over a sixty foot embankment at Manchester, N. Y., today killing twenty-five people and injured sixty. Another wire had it that it was a New York Central train.

LIME THROWN IN EYES MAY COST BOY'S SIGHT.

Bayonne, Aug. 25.—Nathan Friedman, five years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxmilian Friedman, of Broadway, Bayonne, may lose his sight, as a handful of lime thrown into his eyes caused serious injury. Walter Berjinska, who lives nearby, is alleged to have thrown the lime.

The boys were playing in the street when Berjinska is said to have seized the lime and hurled it into Friedman's eyes. A physician who was called expressed little hope of saving the injured boy's sight. Recorder Hugh Mara paroled Berjinska pending further investigation.

Find Ring Lost Six Months Ago.

Rahway, Aug. 25.—Six months ago Mrs. G. C. Ainsworth, president Rahway branch of the S. P. C. A., in an accident on Elm avenue lost a ring valuable intrinsically and as an heirlcom. Search was made for it for two days without avail. Yesterday Mrs. A. D. Mansfield found the ring uninjured in the gravel of the road not ten feet from where the accident occurred. Mr. Ainsworth was overjoyed at receiving it again.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Marshal James Benson and the rest of the borough police force are hard at work on the trail of the thieves who entered John Fenner's store early Wednesday morning or late Tuesday night and stole several watches, which had been left in the window of the jewelry store, located in the Fenner shop. The fact that the $40 plate glass window in front of the store was broken without any one hearing a sound of the disturbance lends mystery to the affair and leads the police to believe that the act was perpetrated by a band of experienced crooks. It is supposed that the thieves are members of the gang which lives near the Greenbrook water tanks.

The West Ends of Plainfield will be the opposing team to the Dunellen nine on the Madison avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon. The visitors are a fast aggregation and have made an excellent record this year, consequently Manager Bogardus of the Dunellen team has placed them on his schedule. Earl Fulton will twirl for the West Ends while Percy Harney, who has been delivering the goods for the local boys during the last few games, will uphold the pitching honors of Dunellen.

Wilson S. Frederick will attend the meeting of the Middlesex county Republican committee at New Brunswick tomorrow afternoon. The meeting, which will be held in Goodwill Hall on George street, has been called for the purpose of making out the Republican ticket for the nominations for county officers in the coming primaries.

An effort is being made to establish a subordinate branch of the Knights of the Macabees of the world in Dunellen. The charter list has already been started for the Dunellen tent and the officers will be elected during September. It is expected that the election will be held in the first week of next month.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mrs. George Henry and daughter, Lena, of Fanwod, are spending two weeks with relatives and friends at Burnside, Conn.

Walter Haskard, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. John Haskard, has returned to his home at Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Sabitino, of Park avenue, have been entertaining relatives from New Haven.

Capt. H. B. Saunders, of Washington Valley, is on a business trip to Newport News.

Louis Morel, Jr., has taken a position with the Nassau Bank in New York.

DUNELLEN AND WEST ENDS IN DIAMOND BATTLE.

The West Ends, of this city, will cross bats with Manager Bogardus' fast going Dunellen team on the Madison avenue grounds at Dunellen tomorrow afternoon. Dunellen won the first game this season from the Wst Ends by a margin of but three runs and until the sixth inning the Plainfield boys had it on the Dunellenites 3-1. The West Ends are much stronger now than they were at the time of the last game while the Dunellen nine is considerably weaker, hence both sides are anticipating a close struggle.

Earl Fulton, a well known pitcher from New Market, will be on the mound for the Plainfield aggregation with Dixon on the receiving end. Percy Harney will do the twirling for Dunellen and Herbert Stein, of this city, will again be the catcher.

USE THE PRIMARY

field, and thus is established the precedent that, so far as the organization is concerned, the action of the committee is exactly equivalent to that of the nominating convention in former days. This is a usurpation of power on the part of the committee which deserves rebuke. The selection of candidates is no part of the committee's duties. It is not even proper that the committee should recommend any particular candidates. Every Republican should stand upon an equal footing before that body. Then it should be left to the voters at the primary to decide as to the man whom they desire to support. The method adopted is a travesty upon the direct primary. It merely substitutes one boss method for another.'

"I desire, here and now, to put, in indelible lines, my earnest and sincere conviction that the question whether the people, or the politicians shall henceforth rule this State, will be practically decided at the coming primary election.

"The politicians want to place in nomination the men who will serve them, and this they will do unless the people seize the primary privilege and nominate the men who will serve them. Simple self interest demands that the people should attend the primaries and make the nominations, but there is a higher consideration which should actuate every patriotic citizen, I mean the perpetuation of popular government, which, at this hour, is at stake.

"Now, my fellow citizens, are you prepared to make the effort, and personally register your names, and then, on primary election day, cast your ballots for the candidates who respect this law, and who believe in the people's right to choose?

"The object of this act was to open the door of opportunity to all who desired to become candidates, and to give the voters a choice from a number; and personally, although I would profoundly appreciate the high honor of being called to the Senate by the people of Somerset county, yet I would rather go down in defeat, while helping to carry out this principle, with several competitors for the nomination against me, than to win through the endorsement of any political organization with the door shut in the faces of others who would like to enter the field. That is my honest opinion and deliberate estimate of the value and importance of the primary principle, and I sincerely hope that a number of Senatorial petitions will be circulated in every county of this State, so that the people may select their candidates from a list of representative names."

Fuller Recovers $500.

In the East Orange District Court yesterday Judge Duggan sitting for Judge Mountain rendered a judgment in favor of Joseph F. T. Fuller, of Union street, this city, for $500 and costs against the Sweet & Dodge Foundry and Machine Company. The suit was brought to recover a balance due Mr. Fuller as commissions for selling cut-outs for automobiles for the defendant company. Robert Newton Cran represented Mr. Fuller.

Violated Ordinance.

Henry Muscavitch was the first victim of the recently issued order of Mayor Moy to the police department to arrest al drivers and bicycle riders on the roads one hour after sundown whose lights are out. Patrolman Nolan made the arrest on Front street. In his defence Muscavitch stated to Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning that he knew nothing of the order and that he is not a regular driver. Sentence was suspended.

Funeral of William Green.

The funeral services of the late William Green, who died Tuesday afternoon, were held last night at the residence of his son-in-law, William J. Hudson, of Somerset street. Miss Susan Cory, first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientists, officiated in the brief service. Many of the friends of the dead man were present. Interment was made this morning in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Bread Takes a Drop.

A basket of bread dropped from one of the Schultz Company wagons on North avenue last night and attracted the attention of a number of passersby. Among the number was a wag who remarked that that is the only way bread is coming down.

SOCCER FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS HERE TOMORROW.

The soccer football season opens in this city tomorrow afternoon when the Plainfield Association Football team will meet the Elizabeth Uniteds on the Clinton avenue grounds. Although this is not a State league game, it will nevertheless be a speedy contest as the Elizabeth players have the reputation of being a speedy bunch and capable of giving the local eleven a hard run for the laurels.

Plainfield wil have a speedy team in the field this year as many of last year's players are still in this city and ready to appear again in the favcrite English sport. Arrangements for the league season have about been completed and it is expected that the local boys will have a favorable chance of winning the championship. The game tomorrow will be started at 3:30 p. m., on the grounds at the corner of Clinton avenue and South Second street.

Dooley Quits Force.

Patrolman Peter Dooley, appointed to the force several weeks ago, yesterday resigned his position and turned in his badge and other equipment to Captain Frederickson at police headquarters yesterday afternoon.

DEMOCRATS SELECT THEIR NEW CHAIRMAN

Trenton, Aug. 25.—Edward E. Grosscup, of Gloucester county, was unanimously elected to succeed Jas. R. Nugent as State Democratic chairman by a majority of the State committee at the meeting held in the Hotel Stirling yesterday.

The reading of the minutes by the secretary was listened to with close interest. The minutes contained a terse recital of the stormy events at the Asbury Park session.

Judge Carrow asked if the minutes made it sure that Mr. Nugent had called the Asbury Park meeting to order. There had been no mention in the records that Nugent and Gallagher had left the meeting. Judge Carrow and Mr. Cutler expressed the opinion that the fact that they left should be recorded. It was their idea that it should appear Nugent has practically abdicated his office; and a condition made accordingly.

One of the interesting features of the minutes was a statement that "Mr. Kraft was forcibly ejected from the room by a number of outsiders who broke through the doors and windows."

When the members of the committee got together one of the first decisions was to admit the newspapermen. The motion to the effect was made by former Judge Howard Carrow, of Camden.

Former Judge B. P. Wills, of Mt. Holly, vice chairman of the committee, called the session to order. Secretary Devereaux called the roll. No one even blinked an eyelid when Mr. Devereux called the name of James R. Nugent. There was no response to the call.

The committeemen present were: Mr. Carrow, Camden; Dan Fellows Platt, Englewood; Mr. Willis, Mount Holly; William H. Davis, Camden; Michael Kearns, Cape May City, Edward E. Grosscup, Wenonah; David S. Crater, Freehold; Willard W. Cutler, Morristown; George C. Low, Toms River; Thomas Flynn, Paterson; Judge Nelson Y. Dungan, Somerville; Johnston Cornish, Washington; Dennis F. Collins.

FUGITIVE FIRES UPON OFFICERS

Newton,, Aug. 25.—Surrpised by Sussex county officials who had been seeking him for nearly three years, Edward Babcock, of Franklin Furnace, a fugitive from justice, fired upon Under Sheriff Albert T. Lyons and Constable Matthew T. Buckley when they attempted to arrest him Wednesday night. One of the bullets from Babcock's pistol struck Buckley in the hand, inflicting a slight wound. Another shot just missed Lyon's head. Babcock was caught and brought to the county jail here.

Babcock was indicted by a Sussex county grand jury in December, 1908, for making an assault with attempt to kill Samuel E. Sletzher at Franklin, in November of that year. Before an officer could locate him he had fled and had not been seen in the county until a day or two ago.

At the sight of the officers Babcock bolted, Lyons and Buckley after him and gaining. After running about 100 yards Babcock wheeled about, drew a .38-calibre revolver and emptied the chambers at his pursuers, who did some lively dodging in the roadway. Buckley was hit in the right hand and his thumb lacerated.

After running out of ammunition Babcock resumed his fight, but stumbled and fell. The officers were upon him with drawn pistols, but Babcock feigned unconsciousness and submitted to capture without further trouble. Charges of assault upon Lyons and the constable will be made, in addition to the old indictment.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

What "The Old Homestead" was to the theatre years ago, Henrietta Crosman and "The Real Thing" at the Maxine Elliott theatre in New York, are today. "The Real Thing" is one of the sweetest, cleanest and funniest comedies that has been seen in a generation, and because it was good and clean and wholesome, there were those who said it could not succeed in New York. The critics, too, took a little slap at Miss Crosman's play because they couldn't appreciate the great appealing power of the home and because they said the play was not good enough for Miss Crosman. But just the same the public and New York have said it is good enough for them and the prospects are that Miss Crosman and "The Real Thing" will be running at the Maxine Elliott theatre when another summer comes around. It is gratifying to note Henrietta Crosman's success in this play because of its absolute simplicity. On the face of it, it would seem that "The Real Thing" is just one big laugh, but back of it all when you get home there is a great big lesson that makes you think. And this is the appealing power of the play and this is the reason why all New York is flocking to see "The Real Thing."

Many Physicians Prescribe
BARTHOLOMAY
Rochester BEER

Clever physicians know that in order to benefit the weak and ailing, Beer must be properly aged.

Not one drop of beer ever leaves the Bartholomay Brewery that is not aged perfectly. That's why it never upsets your stomach—it's the green, unripe beer that makes you bilious.

Bartholomay Rochester Beer is a good beverage for you. The malted barley that goes into it is a digested food. The fine hops are admittedly a splendid tonic.

Physicians who have visited the Bartholomay Brewery are the most persistent advertisers of its famous products.

"Bartholomay means Quality."

They know Bartholomay Rochester Beer is brewed of highest quality hops and malt, under the most spotless methods of cleanliness, and that it is a tonic beverage that promotes health.

Bartholomay Rochester Beer is the right beer for your home. It is delightfully palatable and refreshing, and it's just as easy to get as the wrong kind.

When physicians prescribe it for the sick, it surely cannot do harm to the healthy.

You can have a dozen or a case of bottles delivered right to your door. Phone or mail your order and it will be promptly filled.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

Hagenbeck's Narrowest Escape.

I am often asked what is my narrowest escape. Perhaps the following is the closest shave I have had. I was superintending the dispatch of some animals at the railway station in Hamburg, when a half grown elephant which was standing in one of the trucks with its legs chained suddenly turned round and tried to pin me to the wall. I was at that moment examining a cage containing monkeys. When I entered the car I knew the elephant was cross and should have kept my face toward him. Instead of doing so I turned round to look at something, and at that moment the brute went for me. He tried to pin me to the wall, but fortunately for me his tusks were too wide apart for him to properly grip me. The tusks just grazed my skin on each side of my back. One of my men rushed to the rescue and pulled me down between the animal's head and the wall. They then stood me on my feet to see if my back was broken. With the exception of torn clothing and a grazed skin I was all right.—Wide World.

Stonewall Jackson's Death.

Nothing in the war perhaps, excepting the surrender, ever struck Richmond with such stunning force as the announcement of "Stonewall" Jackson's fall, of the amputation of his arm and finally of his death, following the battle of Chancellorsville. Even the brilliant victory of our arms was placed in total eclipse by this irreparable loss. From the first, when the shy Puritan professor of the Virginia Military institute had startled the armies by his extraordinary daring and military skill, Jackson had taken hold of the popular mind as a supreme favorite. "Old Stonewall," "Old Jack" or "Old Blue Light" was by the soldiers held in the reverence bestowed by Napoleon's grenadiers upon the person of their sacred emperor. With Lee and Jackson to the fore quiet people sitting in their homes felt themselves as behind two massive towers of strength, facing and meeting every adverse wind.—Mrs. Buxton Harrison in Scribner's.

Tragic Tale of a Rat.

The story of the luck of the Howths is well known, and down to very recent times no member of that family would permit a rat to be put to death. It was said that about the year 1750 the twenty-sixth Baron Howth was giving a banquet to his friends when a rat rushed into the hall, followed by several dogs, and, jumping on the table, sat up before Lord Howth as if appealing for protection. He saved its life, and from that moment it never quitted him. At last he set out on a foreign tour, accompanied by his brother, who persuaded him to leave the rat behind. Sitting in a hotel at Marseilles, the door suddenly flew open and the rat, dripping wet, came crawling in and went straight to the fire to dry itself. Lord Howth's brother, enraged at the intrusion, seized the poker and dashed out the rat's brains. "You have murdered me!" exclaimed Lord Howth and instantly fell down and expired.—London Tit-Bits.

The Man Eaters.

It seems strange that bears, so fond of all sorts of flesh, running the risks of guns and fires and poison, should never attack men except in defense of their young. Only wolves and tigers seem to have learned to hunt man for food, and perhaps sharks and crocodiles. Mosquitoes and other insects would, I suppose, devour a helpless man in some parts of the world, and so might lions, leopards, wolves, hyenas and panthers at times if pressed by hunger, but under ordinary circumstances perhaps only the tiger among land animals may be said to be a man eater unless we add man himself.—John Muir in Atlantic.

A Blow at Science.

"And the voltaic current," continued the lecturer, "was the discovery of Volta, and its development is a comparatively recent achievement of science."

A still, small individual hoisted himself to a chair in the rear of the hall.

"Hold on there, professor! What about the earlier discoveries of Noah?"

"I don't understand you, sir."

"Then brush up! Didn't Noah make the arc light on Mount Ararat?"—Baltimore News.

Odd Churchyard Inscription.

The following quaint inscription is taken from a monument in a London churchyard:

To the memory of Emma and Mary Littleboy, the twin children of George and Emma Littleboy, who died July 19th, 1782.
Two Littleboys lie here,
Yet, strange to say,
These Littleboys are girls.

On Condition.

Customer—See here! I thought you said these things would grow in any climate. Dealer—They will. But if you want to grow them in this climate you've got to have a hothouse for them, of course.—Puck.

Reasonable Inquiry.

Business Manager (to applicant for vacant situation)—I shall want you to be partly indoors and partly outdoors. Simpleton—Yes, sir. But what will happen to me if the door slams?—London Telegraph.

Hint That Failed.

Visitor (waiting an invitation to lunch)—Two o'clock! I fear I'm keeping you from your dinner. Hostess—No, but I fear we are keeping you from yours.—Meggendorf Blatter.

People seldom improve when they have no model but themselves to copy after.—Goldsmith.

Gems From Pope.

With the exception of Shakespeare, Pope is the author of more familiar phrases than any other writer of modern times. Here are a few of his gems:

"Shoot folly as she flies." "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." "Man never is but always to be blessed." "Whatever is is right." "The proper study of mankind is man." "Grows with his growth and strengthens with his strength." "Order is heaven's first law." "Worth makes the man and want of it the fellow." "Honor and shame from no condition rise; act well your part—there all the honor lies." "An honest man's the noblest work of God." "Thou wert my guide, philosopher and friend." "Every woman is at heart a rake." "Woman's at best a contradiction still." "Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined." "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" "A little learning is a dangerous thing." "To err is human, to forgive divine." "Beauty draws us with a single hair." "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." "Damn with faint praise." "The many headed monster."

Sharp Banking.

Everybody is familiar with the little savings banks for ten cent pieces, the kind that holds fifty dimes and cannot be opened until it is full. Such a bank was given to a little girl and her brother, the children of a Washington official. It contained one dime, a nest egg. The day was warm and soon the desire of the joint owners of the bank to convert the deposit into two glasses of soda water became all but uncontrollable. The question was how to get the money out. Finally the boy—destined, his father thinks, to become a Napoleon of finance—hit upon a plan and dragged his sister to the nearest drug store. There he explained the situation to the man behind the counter and broached his plan of operations. In short, he asked the man to lend him forty-nine ten cent pieces for a minute or two. The man was ready for a customer, produced the needed coins, and the little boy and girl went home penniless and happy.—New York Tribune.

The Blow on the Jaw.

A man struck with any degree of force upon the mental area of the jaw, although he may be in perfect physical condition, instantly collapses and falls to the ground, says a medical journal. The attitude assumed in recovery, which may be instantaneous or delayed some minutes, is most characteristic. He squirms about, raises his head and rolls his eyes in an attempt to locate himself. He tries to get on his side and elbow; he endeavors to rise upon his hands and knees. If he regains his feet he staggers like a drunken man, and should he proceed to reopen hostilities he is usually promptly "put out" by his adversary. The blow is practically never fatal; the heart's action is never unduly accelerated; the pulse and respiration are normal; the pupils are normal; there is no headache, no sweats, no cold extremities, no pallor—none of the ordinary signs of shock or concussion.

When the Time Comes.

Man little knows what calamities are beyond his patience to bear till he tries them. As in ascending the heights of ambition, which look bright from below, every step we rise shows us some new and gloomy prospect of hidden disappointment, so in our descent from the summits of pleasure, though the vale of misery below may appear at first dark and gloomy, yet the busy mind, still attentive to its own amusement, finds as we descend something to flatter and to please. Still, as we approach the darkest objects appear to brighten and the mortal eye becomes adapted to its gloomy situation —Goldsmith.

When the World Is Full.

The mean decennial rate of increase in the population of the world is 8 per cent, and at this rate the 28,000,000 square miles comprising the fertile regions of the earth, which Ravenstein computed can only support 207 persons per square mile, will have their maximum population of 5,994,000,000 persons in the year 2072. This estimate allows fourteen persons per square mile in the 18,000,000 square miles of steppes and deserts.

Cautious.

"Spending the night railway traveling doesn't improve one's personal appearance, does it?" said a haggard looking man to a barber.

"Well, I don't know what you looked like when you started," responded the knight of the razor, "but perhaps you're right!"—London Mail.

The Real Struggle.

"I suppose, now that you are married and settled down, life is a struggle for bread."

"Not exactly. It's more of a struggle with bread."—Judge's Library

Proved His Innocence.

"Prisoner, you are accused of having stolen a gold watch."

"It's false. In the first place I never stole it, and in the second it wasn't gold."—Pele Mele.

Too Willing.

"Say, Frost, lend me your razor, will you?"

"Gladly."

"Oh, if it's as dull as that I don't want it."—Housekeeper.

Not Edible.

Him—Are you fond of "La Bohème?" Her—I don't know. It depends altogether on what kind of dressing you put on it.—Toledo Blade.

A Fit of the Blues.

It is a hard saying, but "the blues" may generally be traced to one or both of two horrid qualities—greed and laziness. Nine times out of ten the low spirited person is suffering from autotoxication—from too much food taken into the body and too little attention paid to elimination or to proper exercise. The human mechanism can take care of only a certain amount of food. After that point has been passed it seems to turn sullen in its efforts to ignore what it cannot help, and, although it is a wonderfully conducted chemical laboratory up to the limit of its own needs, it is not at all amiable about working overtime. The result is that all superfluous products sent to it are permitted to lie round and become poisonous. This poison is promptly taken up by the blood and carried to all parts of the body, including the brain. The brain, which needs a plentiful supply of clean blood to enable it to do its thinking, is naturally indignant at finding poor and impure blood supplied to it, and, although not actually going on strike, it refuses to be either pleasant or reasonable.—Youth's Companion.

How They Did Hate Wagner.

Wagner's music was at one time violently opposed in England, and Ford Madox Hueffer, whose father was musical critic of the London Times, gives in his "Ancient Lights" some curious instances of the lengths to which the campaign was carried. "The compositions of Wagner were denounced as being atheistic, sexually immoral and tending to further socialism and the throwing of bombs. Wagnerites were threatened with assassination, and assaults between critics of the rival schools were things not unknown in the foyer of the opera. I have in my possession three letters from three different members of the public addressed to my father. The writers stated that unless Dr. Hueffer abstained from upholding the blasphemous music of the future—and in each case the writer used the word blasphemous—he would be respectively stabbed, ducked in a horsepond and beaten to death by hired roughs."

Wonder What Tennyson Said.

In his volume of reminiscences Professor E. B. Poulton writes of a visit to Boston, where he met several notables.

Holmes spoke of Emerson stamping his foot with rage when he could not remember a name. He mentioned the Corbett-Mitchell prizefight, which had just taken place, and said, "I own to a lurking sympathy with prizefighting, perhaps because I am so unfitted for the ring myself." He told Professor Poulton he would never repeat to any one what Tennyson said to him when he entered his house. William James pressed him to do so with the assurance, "There are no reporters here." But Dr. Holmes replied with emphasis: "I have said that I will never tell any one. It was not a thing that I should have supposed any man would say to a guest he had invited to his house."

Faithful to Its Meat Pies.

In England one county still resists the encroachments of the sandwich. Cornwall will have none of it. There the pasty reigns supreme—that delectable compound of meat, onion and potato inclosed in a semicircle of rich brown crust. Pilots, fishermen, farm laborers and school children one and all carry their pasties. These range in size from a comparatively minute semicircle priced in confectioners' shops at twopence to gigantic combinations of meat and crust that no ordinary dish can hold. Even the tramp in Cornwall scorns "travelers' diet" of bread and cheese. He, too, seated by the roadside on a heap of stone, will be observed to draw from some recess in his tattered coat a substantial pasty.—London Globe.

First Masked Ball.

France is the universal parent of the ball as we understand it today. The first noted affair of this character was given at Amiens in 1385 to celebrate the marriage of Charles VI. to Isabella of Bavaria. In 1715 le bal de l'opera was organized by the French government to popularize balls, and gradually they entered into the amusement of the general public. The first masked ball was given by the formidable Catherine de' Medici.

Keeping Cool.

Mrs. Peck—Henry, what would you do if burglars should break into our house some night?

Mr. Peck (valiantly)—Humph! I should keep perfectly cool, my dear.

And when, a few nights later, burglars did break in Henry kept his promise—he hid in the icebox.—Lippincott's.

Versatile.

"They tell me your boy Josh is very versatile."

"He is," replied Farmer Corntosser patiently. "I never saw anybody who could do so many fool things without repeatin' hisself."—Washington Star.

Then He Lost Them.

A professor of Greek who was noted for self appreciation bought a dozen collars and marked the first one with his full name and the others simply "Ditto."—Everybody's.

OLD NEW ENGLAND WAYS.

Curfew Still Rings, and District Schools Still Flourish.

Everywhere, even in the midst of the most flourishing and progressive cities and towns, there are examples of the work and evidences of the lives of the fathers—old houses, rows of stately elm trees, old business buildings with their queer gable ends to the street—while ever and anon there are still to be encountered men who adhere to the dress and fashion of life current two or three generations ago. There are everywhere reminders of the glory that was. There are many households that are conducted almost as in the colonial times. Supper is yet the evening meal throughout rural New England and in a goodly proportion of the city homes as well, and it is not only supper in name, but the same foods are served in the same manner.

What are called primitive customs survive. The curfew rings from many church steeples, though leniency is practiced with respect to the ordering of lights out at the same time. The district school exists everywhere in the more remote and smaller sections. The town academy has not wholly surrendered to the modern high school. A majority of the farms are still worked as great-grandfather worked his, though this is cited solely as a pictorial element of charm, not as an industrial fact to flaunt.

The New England style of architecture gives way to more modern conceptions with stubborn slowness. Most of the country churches are redolent with suggestion of the storied past, and the echoes from the pulpits often serve to strengthen the illusion. The old fashioned gentleman and lady are present at every church service and at every village function. We cling to the memories and the habits of the past, and by so doing we exasperate the more progressive among our younger people.—Boston Chamber of Commerce Publication.

A RISE IN MUTTON.

Only the Leg Went Up, and Then There Came a Drop.

In the "good old days" at the Haymarket theater there was being played a musical farce in which was required a real boiled leg of mutton every night. This, according to the law of "property," or, rather, the "property man's" law, went after the performance almost untouched to the official named. But the "flymen" perched up aloft did not like this, for they, too, had wives and families, to whom a boiled leg of mutton would have been a thing to be remembered.

So they hit upon a plan, and one night William Farren, who had the carving of the joint, was asked to fix a hook that would be let down from the flies into the mutton and "leave the rest to them." Farren, always ready for a practical joke, consented and as the scene was coming to a termination fastened the hook into the leg of mutton. As scene shifters were preparing to "close in" and the property man stood in the wings ready to seize on his perquisite the leg of mutton was seen slowly to ascend.

The audience laughed. Henry Compton, who was watching the maneuver, laughed, too, and the employees all gave vent to their feelings in ill suppressed merriment, all except the property man, who remained miserably serious and gazed at the fast departing supper with a woebegone countenance. Suddenly as the scene was almost closed in the hook, which Farren had unfortunately fastened only in the fat, gave way, and down came the coveted mutton with a terrific splash upon the dish.

The audience now roared, the employees roared, both Farren and Compton roared, and as the "flats" hid the unrehearsed tableau from view the now delighted property man rushed upon the stage and secured his ill treated supper. — London Family Herald.

Byron's Three Great Men of Europe.

Lord Byron said that Europe saw three great men in the early part of the nineteenth century. But no one now, in the early part of the twentieth century, could guess at the names of more than one of the three. It may be that Lord Byron was joking, but it is quite possible that he was serious when he named the curious trio.

Third in his little list he placed himself, the second person was Napoleon Bonaparte, and the first and foremost was George Bryan Brummel, Beau Brummel, "king of the beaux" and "Le Roi de Calais."—From Jerrold's "Beaux and Dandies."

Making It Worse.

Willie had just received a severe spanking. "Now, sir," said his father, "you go straight over into the corner there and sit down."

A semihumorous thought struck Willie. He stopped howling, and a sheepish grin overspread his face. "Gee, pa," he remarked, "isn't that sorter rubbin' it in?"—Exchange.

St. Valentine.

The 14th of February is a day sacred to St. Valentine. It was a very odd notion, alluded to by Shakespeare, that on this day birds begin to couple. Hence, perhaps, arose the custom of sending on this day letters containing professions of love and affection.—Noah Webster.

MARTINE RETURNS

United States Senator at "Cedar Brook Farm" After Busy Time in Washington.

GREETED BY MANY FRIENDS.

Senator Declares Stories Published About Him To Be Falsehoods and Intended to Weaken His Position.

Senator James E. Martine breezed into town yesterday afternoon and his arrival was the signal for a series of impromptu receptions that lasted all along the route he traversed to his home. For the most part these receptions consisted of a wringing grasp by the Senator and an explosive, good natured greeting ere he loosened his grip to reach another extended hand and reply to a hearty "Hello, Jim," by another acquaintance.

When seen this morning Senator Martine said that his first night's rest in his own home since he left it to take his seat in the United States Senate in March, was just as enjoyable as in the days of old. Feeling much refreshed this morning he took a short walk about his property and then steered a course for the business section. Here the performance of yesterday afternoon was repeated, only with a bit longer duration.

To a number of friends who asked him about the reports appearing from time to time in different newspapers the Senator replied; "They are all false and made out of whole cloth. In the city of Washington are probably 500 reporters from al sections of the country and several important European cities. Among these gentlemen are some splendid fellows and some who are not. The reports you refer to eminated from the latter, but I realize that they are only doing the work they have been sent by their papers to do. These papers stoop to anything and a man to hold his job must do as he is told.

"I had one of these men come to my office some time ago and show me a story he had prepared. After I had read it, he said, that I did not want anything like that published, did I? And followed up this suggestion with others of like nature. For reply I said, If it is true publish it, and if it is not"—and here the Senator exploded.

Continuing he said that as a result of this he was not visited by any of these men again although the reports appeared in the papers and have been of such a low nature that he did not think them worth denying as he considered that no reasonable man would stop for a moment to think that they were true. Regarding the Borah incident he said that the report regarding it was so garbled that he (Martine)) was made to appear ridiculous, when as a matter of fact he had been congratulated by both Democratic and Republican Senators on the fitting defence made of the State he represents.

Other reports to the effect that Senator Martine had donned an apron in a hotel and had gone behind the bar and that he had gone "slumming" with a number of "gay boys" had been shown him by friends and of these he said there is not a scintilla of truth in the whole story, but rather than enter into a controversy, he ignored them. The purpose of these articles, to his mind, is to get his "goat" as the saying goes and to weaken and discredit his position in the upper house.

Speaking along this line Senator Martine said that the special session has done more to break down the long established precedents of the Senate than anything else that has occurred in years. The time honored so-called "unwritten law" that a Senator must sit quietly in the Senate for at least two years before he can voice his mind, has almost entirely been wiped out and now a man can go there and be recognized the first day he occupies his seat.

In conclusion the Senator said that if the untrue stories circulated for the purpose of injuring his position had been given credence, he would not have been called five times within the last week of the special session to preside over the deliberations of the Senate. A man such as the stories showed him to be would not ever be thus honored if the stories had any foundation whatever.

At Trinity Tomorrow.

Rev. George S. Bolsterle will preach at the morning service at Trinity Reformed church tomorrow. As he is a former resident and much admired, a large congregation is expected to hear him. At night, the people of Trinity will attend the Union service at the First M. E. church when Rev. A. S. Zimmerman, of Newark, will preach.

Joseph R. Schuck, of West Sixth street, has returned home after spending two weeks in Providence and Newport, R. I.

MRS ANNETTE MOORE DEAD; AGED 69 YRS

Mrs. Annetta Moore, wife of Harry H. Moore, aged 69 years, died at her home at Grove street and Mercer avenue, at 9 o'clock, this morning, after an illness extending over a period of three years, during which time she had been a patient sufferer, doing everything possible to regain health and strength. About three years ago Mrs. Moore underwent an operation, which afforded temporary relief, but the trouble returned and during the past three months her condition was serious. She had been confined to her bed about a month.

Mrs. Moore was born in this city, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Martin, who were old residents here, and she had always lived here. Thirty-nine years ago she was married to Mr. Moore and since that time resided at Grove street and Mercer avenue. She was a member of the Park Avenue Baptist church and active in every department, especially the Ladies' Aid Society. She lived a quiet life and her many acts of charity which never became public, will be greatly missed. She always showed a marked devotion to her home as well as her church.

Surviving are a husband and one son, Herbert Moore; two sister,s Mrs. Miles, wife of Rev. E. S. Miles, of New York, and Mrs. Charles E. Steiner, of the borough; also two brothers, Horace J. Martin, Sr., and Joseph C. Martin, of the borough. The announcement of funeral will be made later.

THE NEXT SESSION WILL CONSIDER TARIFF

Senator Martin, minority leader, at Washington yesterday, expressed the opinion that tariff revision would be the most important business of the next session of Congress. He would not predict whether the Democrats and Insurgent Republicans would unite to enact tariff legislation. He declared there was no illfeeling between the Insurgent Republicans and the Democrats because of the vote on the cotton bill at the session just closed.

"The Insurgent Republicans," he said, "realize that the Democrats had no course open to them but to support the Democrts of the House. We should have united with the Insurgents to pass the LaFollette substitute had the Democratic bill been defeated in the Senate, because the LaFollette bill sought reduction in the tariff rates, and half a loaf is better than none. I deny emphatically that there was any agreement between the Democrats and regular Republicans whereby the regular Republicans were to abstain from voting on the Democratic cotton bill. Insurgents realized there was no other course open to the Democrats that to support their own bill.

"All three parties will have their program for tariff legislation at the next session. By that time the Tariff Board will be ready to make a report and the President will undoubtedly recommend legislation. Much will depend upon the reduction in the tariff advocated by the Tariff Board. If its recommendations are for big reductions I doubt if many of the stand-pat Republicans will support the recommendations. This would tend to line up the Democrats and the Republican Insurgents again.

"The Democratic party has strengthened itself before the country by demonstrating in Congress its attitude toward tariff and other important legislation . Also there is more harmony among the Democrats in the Senate than there has been in years. Stories of friction among the Democrats are made out of whole cloth."

Senator Penrose says President Taft has strengthened himself greatly before the country by his action in vetoing the tariff bills passed by the Democrats and the Republican Insurgents.

Sketch at Proctor's

"A Story of the Hills" presented by Montgomery, Medley & Co. will be the headliner at Proctor's theatre. The incident takes place in a mountain cabin in Arizona and is a very strong dramatic sketch. There are four characters, the wife, a cattleman, a Mexican and his double. Lawrence and Thompson, a pair of clever singing comedians in clever songs and funny stories, are the principal funmakers. The Erna Troupe of European Novelty and Burlesque Dancers have a novel and interesting act, Butler and Farley, singers and dancers, are exceptionally good.

Music for Sunday School.

The children's choir of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home will sing at the Sunday school services at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning at 9:30. Miss Madeleine Metzler, a member of the choir, will be the soloist.

DEMOCRATS MEET

County Committeemen Gather at Westfield to Organize the Party For Fight.

ENDORSES NO CANDIDATES.

Ten Eyck Beadsley, of Fanwood, Says He is Eligible for Senatorial Nomination—Claim no "Slate."

No candidates were endorsed by the members of the Union County Democratic committee at their meeting in Westfield last night. The majority of those present represented the districts outside of the city of Elizabeth. A large delegation of the local Democratic Club was in attendance. Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield and county chairman, presided at the meeting, which had been called simply for the purpose of organizing the Democratic party outside of Elizabeth.

None of the prospective Democratic candidates for the primaries was present last night except TenEyck Beardsley, of Fanwood, who announced his intention of running for the State Senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket some time ago but who was believed to be out of the running because it is reported he has not lived in the State for a period of four years, the necessary time required by law. Mr. Beadrley, who is a young lawyer, stated last night that he had lived in Fanwood for the past twelve years, thereby making him eligible for the Senatorship, if nominated.

For reasons of their own, the other candidates for the Democratic primaries did not appear at the meeting last night. Among these was Robert C. Woodhouse, of this city, who has announced his intention of becoming a candidate for the Assembly on the Democratic ticket this fall. Several of the other prospective candidates were among the missing.

Contrary to the expectation of many of those outside the County committee, not a word was mentioned in the meeting about the making up of the Democratic slate for the primary elections, nor was anything said which would lead to the belief that any candidate had been endorsed. The general sentiment of those present was that to exprss any opinion, either pro or con, was contrary to the spirit of the primary election laws as well as the spirit of Democracy and that such an action would be likely to hinder the coming forward of candidates and also give rise to a feeling of prejudice in candidates.

The principal subject discussed at the meeting was how to awaken an interest n the primary election and bring out the full vote of the party at that time. To accomplish this purpose it was decided by the county committee to appoint a sub-committee, whose duty it should be to promote mass meetings throughout the county at which all the primary candidates wil be invited to appear jointly and discuss with freedom and good temper their campaigns. It was also decided to arrange for other outside speakers to address these meetings who should speak with the purpose in view of arousing the people to a proper sense of the importance of the primary election.

Very little was said at the meeting in regard to the prospects of the campaign in Elizabeth as it was decided to concentrate all efforts toword work in the outlying districts.

HOPE'S PASTOR TO SPEAK AT FRESH AIR HOME.

The services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow afternoon will be of special interest. The speaker will be the Rev. Frederick Greene, pastor of Hope chapel. The soloists will be E. P. Wheeler, flutist, and Miss Jeanette Grant, soprano of the church of St. Mary the Virgin, New York city. The coming week will mark the closing days of the Home, and a special program is being arranged for the final services on Sunday. During the coming week the speakers at the evening services will include H. J. Martin, Allen E. Beals and Miss Nettie Beeching.

The public is invited to all of the services and the mid-week services will be found to be as interesting as those on Sunday. The children's choir will sing at all services.

COLORED WOMEN SCRAP AND CITY COLLECTS $25

In taking her sister's part in an argument yesterday afternoon Louise Taylor, colored, of South Second street, was hit over the left eye by a stone thrown by Cora Saunderson, colored, of West Third street. The gash thus caused required seven stitches to close. In the city court this morning Judge William G. DeMeza fined Cora $15 or thirty days in jail and Louise $10 or thirty days. They both paid.

The cause of the scrap was some disparaging remarks passed about Cora by Louise's sister who was met on West Third street by Cora and called to account for having talked so. The argument had not progressed beyond the talky-talk stage when Louise took a hand. Her entrance was a violent pushing of Cora, who came back with a slap and then ran, closely followed by Louise. Cora picked up the stone and banged Louise as a finish to the fight. Then the police came and Cora and Louise went away with them.

The scrap aroused the neighborhood and the court room was filled with friends of the women, a number of whom were called as witnesses.

TICKETS FOR TESTIMONIAL DINNER TO MARTINE.

Tickets for the testimonial dinner to be given in honor of Senator James E. Martine in the Hotel Waldorf on Thursday night, may be secured from any member of the committee which consists of former Mayor James F. Buckle, W. L. Hetfield, L. B. Woolston, W. L. Hetfield, Jr., John J. Kenney and John A. Staats. The price is one dollar. As can be seen from the complexion of the committeemen the dinner is to be a non-partisan affair and it is expected that politics will have the soft pedal held down hard throughout.

Miss Nellie V. Lawler.

After an illness of but a few days, Miss Nellie V. Lawler, daughter of Patrick Lawler, of John street, died at her home early this morning in her twenty-seventh year. The funeral will be held from her late residence Monday morning at 8:30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock, where a requiem mass will be celebrated. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery. Surviving besides her father are a sister, Miss Margaret Lawler and two brothers, Michael and John Lawler, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. William Lawler.

Fainted in a Store.

The ambulance was called to the Woodhull and Martin store last yesterday afternoon to remove Mrs. Edmund Rushmore to her home on Park avenue. She had been in the store shopping when seized with a fainting spell. Mrs. Rushmore has fully recovered today and feels no ill effects of her experience which gave her friends and the store clerks quite a fright.

Violated Ordinance.

Edward Parsons, of Cottage place, was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning on the charge of allowing a vicious dog to roam at large. His hearing was put over for two weeks owing to his being late in reaching court and the witnesses called had been excused. He was severely lectured by the court for his tradiness.

Joseph Callahan.

Joseph M. Callahan, of Elizabeth, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Callahan, 918 South street, Elizabeth, after a lingering illness. He is survived by a widow, who was Miss Liola Coddington, of this city, and a son, eighteen months old. The dead man was twenty-nine years old.

Rev. Dr. Eaton at Wilson Chapel.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, the pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York city, will preach in the Wilson Memorial chapel at Watchung tomorrow morning at 10:45. This is the annual sermon, which Dr. Eaton always preaches in the Wilson chapel.

Pastor's Farewell.

The farewell service of Rev. John Estlund, as pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church will take place tomorrow evening. The service will start at 8 o'clock and will be followed by a farewell reception to the pastor by the congregation.

Clan Mackenzie Meeting.

Clan Mackenzie, No. 204, will meet on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in its rooms 109 Park avenue,. A full attendance is requested as general important matters will come before the meeting.

E. T. VanWinkle, chief of letter carriers at the local postoffice, has started on his vacation.

Miss Helen Baker, of Elizabeth, has been visiting Mrs. Harry C. VanEmburgh, of East Second street.

NAB HIGHWAYMAN

William Diamond, Colored, Arrested in Philadelphia Identified by Somerville Victim.

WANTED HERE BY THE POLICE.

Dumas, Who Was Robbed, Claims Stolen Timepiece and Recognizes Prisoner—Held for Extradition.

By the arrest yesterday in Philadelphia of William Diamond, colored, for holding up and shooting Charles Dumas, of Somerville, Wednesday night, the local police say they believe that the man who perpetrated several hold-ups in this vicinity during the last two months has been captured. The description of the prisoner in nearly all respects tallies with the meagre details the hold-up victims were able to furnish to the authorities here.

When arrested Diamond was trying to pawn a gold watch with the initials C. M. D. engraved on the back. An effort had been made to deface them but without success. The Philadelphia police had ben notified in the general alarm sent out by Prosecutor Fred A. Pope, of Somerset county, to arrest anyone trying to pawn the watch described. County Detective George Totten and Mr. Dumas were communicated with and went to Philadelphia last night.

Mr. Dumas positively identified the watch as his and was also able to give the Philadelphia police the assurance that Diamond was the man who took it. Diamond's voice and general build are the same Mr. Dumas says as the man who held him up near Duke's farm Wednesday night, when he and his wife were returning from Neshanic, where they had attended a harvest home. To stop the automobile in which they were riding the highwayman placed a plank across the top of two barrels one on each side of the road. When Dumas did not immediately comply with the robbers order to hand over his valuables, the foot-pad fired four shots from a revolver, one of which took effect in Dumas' arm.

Diamond is being held to await extradiction. The hunt for the highwayman received an added incentive yesterday by the posting in Somerville and vicinity of notices by the Automobile Club of America to the effect that $1,000 reward would be paid for the capture of the robber. It is said that the offer was made partially as the result of the hold-ups here in which a negro was mentioned and there seems to be no doubt, the police say, that Diamond is the man.

LINEN SHOWER FOR MISS FLORA KIRCH.

The many friends and relatives of Miss Flora May Kirch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kirch, tendered her a linen shower at the home of her sister, Mrs. Peter Voorhees, 934 West Fourth street last evening. The house was decorated with ferns and flowers. Hydranges and golden rod predominated, the color scheme being yellow and white. During the evening refreshments were served and games enjoyed. Music was furnished by Miss Frieda Gray.

Miss Kirch received many beautiful and costly gifts which will be appreciated in her own home in the early fall when she will be married to William Henry Stryker.

WM. A. BRADY TO SEE WATER WAGON TONIGHT

A husband and wife are visiting a husband and wife. It is a country home. The two husbands agree on a plan to get away from the cares of married life, and to further their purpose they claim to have been injured in an automobile accident, necessitating their removal to a sanitorium for an indefinite stay. This "sanitorium" is none other than a place of refuge for the "boys" when they want to seek quietude and rest for awhile on the water wagon, especially when such restfulness will take away the dark brown taste and quiet unsteady nerves.

That's the beginning of the story of "The Water Wagon," the three-act farcical comedy which comes to the Plainfield theatre tonight. Just what happens to the unruly husbands and their sojourn at the sanitorium is best seen to be appreciated. Plainfield playgoers are going to have an opportunity to see this laughter play before it goes to the Comedy Theatre in New York for an all-season's run, and there is every indication that its reception here will be a cordial one. There are few more prolific producers than Wm. A. Brady, who controls this particular "Water Wagon" and who has made all New York laugh long and heartily over "Baby Mine," "Over Night" and other farces. Mr. Brady, who will be here tonight, believes "The Water Wagon" will take New York by storm.

LAID DOWN HER CROSS TOOK UP HER CROWN

The funeral service for Mrs. Lydia P. Schock, wife of Rev. James T. Schock, was held yesterday afternoon at her late residence on Albert street, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church in the absence of Rev. John Y. Broek, Mrs. Schock's pastor, who was unable to reach the city in time to officiate. The clergyman, in his prayer spoke feelingly of the many admirable qualities of the departed.

At noon today at the home of Mrs. Schock's sister, in Cranbury, there was a short service before the committment of the remains of the beloved woman to the last resting place in the family plot in the Cranbury cemetery. The aged former pastor of the Presbyterian church of that town and the pastor who married Rev. and Mrs. Schock assisted at the service.

The home yesterday afternoon was well filled by those to whom Mrs. Schock had endeared herself during the short time she has been a resident of this city and a mass of floral tributes attested the esteem in which she was held by all who enjoyed her friendship. Among those noted was a piece from Mrs. Lydia L. Bryan, widow of Rev. Mr. Bryan, a neighbor, Louise Bryan Dorr, who was a classmate of Rev. Mr. Schock at Rutgers Preparatory School, the Home Department of Trinity Reformed church and others.

P. A. Vroom, of Stone street, left today to join his wife in Port Jervis, N. Y., where she is visiting her mother, Mrs. E. M. Lane. Mr. Vroom will spend his vacation at the home of his mother-in-law.

RELIC OF THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR PRIZED BY MRS. STEPHEN G. VAN HOESEN

Not the least among the relics of the Revolution and one that figured prominently in the important history making events of our country are in the possession of Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, of Fanwood, the local agent of the S. P. C. A. The one she prizes most highly is an order written by General Putnam to Garret VanHoesen, great, great grandfather of S. G. VanHoesen.

Garret VanHoesen was in charge of the sharp shooters at a station outside of Fort Ticonderoga during the Revolutionary War. The British sent soldiers outside of the fort at different times to a nearby spring for water and the Continental sharpshooters were given orders to pick the "Red Coats" off as fast as they appeared.

After having lost a number of men in this manner, they tried sending the women of the garrison, thinking that the American soldiers would have scruples about slaying them. The ruse worked as well as the British had calculated and had the effect of placing VanHoesen in a quandary, to get out of which he wrote to his General for orders.

For reply General Putnam wrote the following dispatch; "By no means shoot the women, but shoot their buckets full of holes. We are not warring on the women. General Putnam."

The paper is yellow with age and the ink has almost eaten its way through the paper. The handwriting is a good specimen and easily legible when the old fashioned characters are remembered. In the collection with the paper is a cane that belonged to Major VanWort, the man who captured Major Andre when he was a fugitive. VanWort was carrying the cane at the time he made the capture. It is an old fashioned homemade "shephard's crook" modelled out of hickory.

Not the least serviceable relic in the collection is the whisky flask carried by Garret Van Hoesen all the time that he was fighting the cause of freedom against the English. The flask does not show the rigors of time like the parchment and is a good specimen of the glass blower's art. On one side is the head of General Washington and on the other a sheaf of wheat. The glass is a pale blue tint.

OUT FOR SENATOR

Former City Judge Coddington Announces Himself a Democratic Candidate.

FRIENDS PERSUADE HIM TO RUN

Will Run Against Robert M. McAdams, of Elizabeth, at the Party Primaries Sept. 26—Sketch of the Judge.

Yielding to the solicitations of his many friends throughout the county, former Judge William A. Coddington, of this city, announced himself this morning as a candidate for the State Senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket from Union county. Judge Coddington was waited upon by a delegation of his friends two weeks ago, and at that time was reluctant about allowing his name to be used as a prospective candidate for the office of State Senator and did not decide to enter the race until this morning, when the urgent requests of several supporters of the cause of democracy in the county led him to make this decision.

W. A. Coddington.

Judge Coddington said this morning that had he been compelled to decide the question last night, he would have refused to become a prospective candidate at the primaries, but he felt this morning that it was his duty to respond to the needs of his party and to serve it to the best of his ability.

Although never actively engaged in the political game, except once, Judge Coddington is perhaps one of the best known Democrats in Union county, having always been a supporter of the Democratic platform, yet not being partisan in his views regarding the election of candidates. In 1892 Mr. Coddington was elected to the office of city judge in this city, being the only Democrat who has ever held that position. He sat on the local magistrate's bench for three years and then declined a renomination. While in office he gave decisions in 2,000 cases, some of which were taken into the New Jersey Supreme Court and the Court of Sessions, and in no case was his decision reversed by the higher court.

The prospective candidate announced this morning that he was independent in political beliefs and in no way tied down by any corporate interest. Although Judge Coddington has many loyal supporters, he has not made himself a tool of any friends or of any political organizations, either in the county or in this city.

Having lived in this city for the past twenty-five years, at one time on East Second street and now on Madison avenue, Judge Coddington is well known to Plainfielders and his reputation as an able lawyer, has spread throughout the entire State. He was born in Bound Brook, where he was educated in the public schools at that place and in which he was a teacher for three years. While performing his pedagogical duties, Judge Coddington studied law in this city in the offices of John H. Jackson and of Suydam & Stillman. After being admitted to the bar, he began his practice in this city and in 1894 he entered into partnership with former State Senator Charles A. Reed, forming the law firm of Reed & Coddington, which continued for seventeen years.

Judge Coddington is counsel for the Plainfield Trust Company, the borough of North Plainfield, Piscataway township, and special counsel for this city. In addition he has a large clientage throughout this section.

Robert H. McAdams, chairman of the Union County Board of Elections and a resident of Elizabeth, announced his intention of becoming a candidate for the State Senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket several weeks ago. Ten Eyck Beardsley, of Fanwood, will be another formidable opponent of Judge Coddington, in the coming primary fight.

Miss Mary Smith, of Rockview avenue, has gone to Ocean Grove for two weeks.

ADMITS ATTACK ON OLD WOMEN

Arrested in Elizabeth Thursday night for brutally beating an aged woman in Newark more than a year ago, James J. McDonald, twenty-eight years old, gave Detective Ryan and Farrell a lot of trouble before they landed him in a cell at local police headquarters. Several times he attempted to break away from his captors and once he tried to snap the handcuffs that had been placed on him.

McDonald had been sought by the police since a year ago last May. He is alleged to have entered the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins, seventy-two years old, who lived in Vesey, near Harmon street, and attacked her.

It is charged in the warrant that McDonald beat the woman over the head and body with his fists and then kicked her in the left ankle. After doing this, the police assert, he tied her to a chair and escaped.

Mrs. Higgins was removed to the City Hospital and it was feared she would die. Policeman Brex, of the Third Precinct, was detailed to the case, and on account of Mrs. Higgins' critical condition he swore out a warrant for McDonald's arrest. Mrs. Higgins laid in the hospital for nine months before she was able to leave, being discharged last January.

When McDonald saw the detectives entering the house he attempted to get away, but was not quick enough. He objected to being handcuffed, and gave the detectives a struggle before they placed the manacles on his wrists. The prisoner made another attempt to break away when they reached the street, but the detectives were on the alert and grabbed him before he could get a lead.

DO IT NOW.

Plainfield People Should Not Wait Until It Is Too Late.

The appalling death rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of dropsy, Bright's disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they act where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home:

Mrs. C. B. Coriell, 60 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for they helped me after every other remedy had failed. I suffered from kidney disorders for years and the principal one was a severe backache. Since I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills, I have taken them off and on and they have always acted like magic, giving me prompt relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

About forty persons were killed and sixty injured in a wreck on the Lehigh Valley railroad near Manchester, N. Y.; many of the dead and injured were Grand Army veterans and their relatives returning from the national encampment at Rochester.

MOTHER WILL DIE IF BELLBOY DOES.

New York, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Anna Geidel, mother of the boy who is on trial before Judge Crain for killing William Henry Jackson, announced over her own signature yesterday that if the son were sent to the electric chair she would die when he dies.

"If they send him to death in the electric chair," she writes, "I will die when he dies. I could not live."

This was said in a long statement which the mother gave out at the courtroom shortly before the noon recess. She explained much about the trial in it and declared that when all the facts about the private life of Mr. Jackson, "in all its horrible details," become known the jury will believe the boy is innocent.

After calling District Attorney Whitman as a witness yesterday afternoon the State rested its case against the bellboy. Judge Crain then adjourned the trial until Monday.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

At a meeting of the Dunellen Athletic Club, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Clarence T. Voorhees; vice president, Thomas Loughlin; secretary Benjamin Dodwell, treasurer, Harry Giddes. In the absence of President Voorhees, Thomas Loughlin presided at the meeting. A fair is being planned by the club for the early fall and a special meeting will be called in the near future to arrange for the event. There will be no football team representing the club on the gridiron this year as the majority of the old players will be unable to leave their work on Saturday afternoon.

Burglar scares are still in order in the borough for another exciting experience was had by Earl Eising, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percival Eising, of Dunellen avenue, Thursday night. The young man was alone in the house when he heard someone trying to gain an entrance through a window and upon looking out saw a negro standing there. He fired several shots at the man to scare him away. Marshal Benson is at a loss to know who the intruder can be.

Clarence T. Voorhees, of Washington avenue, and Russell Runyon, of Front street, have returned from their vacation trip to Atlantic City. They spent four days at the summer resort but business affairs necessitated their early return to Dunellen. They both report having had a most enjoyable time.

Postmaster Charles S. Day, of New Market, has returned from his tour of New York State.

SOMERVILLE.

Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, of the Second Reformed church, returned this week from a European tour, and after a short sojourn here started for Chicago to spend the remainder of his vacation with his son.

A well-attended social was held on the lawn of the Keys property, in East Somerville, Thursday night, under the auspices of the women of the local synagogue.

Mrs. Clara Bird, of Butte, Mont., accompanied by her niece, Miss Abby Miller, is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. R. J. Southwick.

Mrs. Benjamin Duffield and daughter, Elizabeth, of Somerville, have returned from a visit to Mrs. George Duffield, of Harlingen.

Miss Jennie Stryker has returned to her home here after a visit to Miss Etta Van Middlesworth, at South Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Van Nuys, of Belle Mead, have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Labaw, of Neshanic.

Miss Elsie Hoyt, of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, is the guest this week of Miss Grace Kershaw, of Mercer street.

Mrs. E. B. Quick, of this place, has returned from Lake Hopatcong, after a short stay at Camp Leisure.

Mrs. Adelaide and Grace Bergen, of Belle Mead, are entertaining Mrs. Harry S. Kissen, of Brooklyn.

Miss Jessie Strong, of Maple street, has returned from her vacation, spent at Asbury Park.

Miss Maud Dilts, of Raritan, is a guest of Miss Lelia Alpaugh, at New Germantown.

D. H. Beekman and family have returned from a week's outing at Asbury Park.

Miss Davis, of Raritan, has been visiting Miss Gertrude Sutphen, at Millstone.

The Somerville baseball team will play the High Bridge nine this afternoon.

Harold Cartwright is spending his vacation in New York.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Italian residents are planning to hold a big all day celebration on Labor Day. There will be games and band concert on Thorp's field in the afternoon. At night there will be a display of fireworks and a band concert.

The weekly prayer and praise meeting of the Methodist church will be held tonight. Rev. Mr. Rockey will lead the meeting.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will include morning preaching 10:45 and B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7 p. m. in the church parlors.

William Hamilton has returned from a visit with relatives in Hunterdon county.

John Wade is spending the month at Ocean Grove and Asbury Park.

Miss Susie Parse is spending the week end with Brooklyn friends.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Miss Gertrude Monahan, of Wilkes Barre, who has been spending her vacation with relatives here and in Plainfield, has returned home.

Mrs. William Smith, of Caldwell, has returned home after a visit spent with her sister, Mrs. Charles Thornton, of Hotel Thornton.

Miss Margaret Hamilton is visiting her cousin, Miss Anna McDonough, of Plainfield, for a week.

Miss Nellie Newell, of Church street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Mack, in New York.

Mrs. P. C. Johnson is slowly recovering from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horn visited out of town friends yesterday.

FOR UNIFORM DIVORCE LAWS.

But Vice-Chancellor Walker Opposes Federal Legislation.

Trenton, Aug. 26.—Vice-Chancellor Edwin Robert Walker is an earnest advocate of uniform divorce laws. He says: "New Jersey's new divorce law makes it impossible for anyone coming into this State from another to obtain a divorce here for a cause which arose in that other State and which is not recognized as cause for divorce in that State. Public sentiment will, I think, compel all the States eventually to pass divorce laws of uniform character.

"I am opposed to any Federal divorce law. It would not accomplish all that its advocates claim; only a world-wide law could do it. Anyone divorced in the United States could repair to Canada or any other foreign country and might there accomplish what would be forbidden in this country."

Trade Board for Rahway.

Rahway, Aug. 26.—Active steps were taken at a meeting of merchants of this place Thursday night for the organizing of a Board of Trade to promote the interests of Rahway generally. It was agreed that a trade board would prove advantageous in mny ways and it was finally decided to call a second meeting next Monday night to which all residents who are interested in the project will be invited. George C. Miller presided at the gathering Thursday night and L. J. Axman acted as secretary. A number spoke in favor of the proposition.

WOMAN DIES OF FRIGHT WHEN THUNDER CRASHES.

Atlantic Highlands, Aug. 26.—Going to a window to close it during a severe storm early yesterday, Mrs. Daniel Ferguson had just placed her hand on the sash when a blinding flash of lightning and crash of thunder caused her to sink to the floor. Her husband, fearing that she had been struck by the bolt, ran to her aid but failed to revive her. She had succumbed to the fright, which had affected her heart.

Not knowing his wife was dead, Ferguson ran to the office of Dr. E. B. Failing, a mile away, and returned with the physician. During his absence the five children of the couple gathered about the body and vainly besought their mother to speak to them. The physician said that death had been instantaneous. Mrs. Ferguson had always been in great fear of electric storms.

BROTHER AND SISTER DIE WITHIN 24 HOURS.

Elizabeth, Aug. 26.—Within twenty-four hours of the death of his sister, Thomas Francis McBride succumbed to gastritis early yesterday morning. The sister, Miss Margaret Mary McBride, died after an illness of a few days from cholera morbus. Both she and her brother resided with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McBride, of Elizabethport.

Miss McBride was twenty-five years old. Her brother was twenty-eight, was unmarried and was employed in the Singer works. Both were born in Elizabethport and attended St. Patrick's Parochial School.

A double funeral service will be held in St. Patrick's church, Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Very Rev. Dean Gessner will be the celebrant at a solemn high mass of requiem.

BALTIMORE MAY WIN NAT. DEM. CONVENTION.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Baltimore will entertain the next Democratic National convention, according to reliable information. It was said on authority that enough votes already have been pledged to the Maryland city in the Democratic national committee and, as a result one or two of the cities which have been in the race have practically withdrawn.

This information was based on a canvass of the national committee made by a member of that body. The movement to bring the convention to Baltimore was initiated in that city at the time of the big Democratic jubilee dinner there shortly after the first of the year. Business and other interests in Baltimore then pledged $100,000 to secure the meeting.

MARSHAL RIEPE IS NOW ELIGIBLE FOR EIGHTH JOB.

Marshal Fred W. Riepe, of North Arlington, has been notified that he passed examination for a Democratic member of the election board. Henry Rodenberg passed as a Republican member. Thus do honors pile thick and fast on Riepe. Besides being an election officer and marshal of the borough, he is truant officer, inspector of the Board of Health, official auctioneer, petit juror for the present term of the Bergen County Court, deputy game warden and bureau of information. Even with this seeming limit of official responsibilities, Riepe says he thinks he can stand two or three extra appointments.

BLOODY CLOTHES MAY CONVICT BOY.

Boonville, Ind., Aug. 26.—Evidence connecting William Lee with the murder of his mother, father and brother and his attempted burning of the house to conceal the crime was produced before the coroner yesterday morning in the shape of blood-smeared, torn and burnt underwear.

The shirt was torn in numerous places and charred. Across the front is a bloody streak, appearing as if made by wiping a bloody hand across it. The underwear was identified as those of the accused man. An examination was made of the underwear Lee is now wearing, and it was found to be of exactly the same size and texture. The underwear was wrapped in a small package and stuffed between the quilts of the pallet on which his dead mother lay. The clothes had been thoroughly saturated with kerosene.

Mrs. Jacob Eller testified that she saw Lee leave the house a few minutes before the fire was discovered, walk to a pond nearby and throw something into it. It is believed that the axe with which the three men were killed will be found in the pond.

PAROLE BREAKER GETS FIVE YEARS.

William Hefferen, one of a party of young men implicated in holding up and robbing Harry Kratchmar, a New Brunswick merchant, in Highland Park on May 8, 1910, received a shock in court yesterday morning when Judge Daly sentenced him to five years in State prison. Hefferen had been convicted with John Pogue, William Hague and William Senker. All come of good families, and strong recommendations were made to Judge Lyon then on the bench, to show mercy to the boys. Judge Lyon placed them on probation for three years.

Hefferen soon afterward left New Brunswick and went to Philadelphia. There were two deaths in his family. He says this unnerved him and he took to drink, with the result that he robbed gas meters in Philadelphia to get money to buy liquor. He was sent to the penitentiary there for a year for this crime. His time was up this week, and Probation Officer MacWilliams went after him and brought him back on extradition proceedings.

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSING.

Athletic and Literary Programs at Elizabeth Schools.

A program of athletics marked the closing of the public playground yesterday in Elizabeth at Julia Street School under the direction of John E. Schmidlin. Today there will be a program of songs and recitations at School No. 1, where No. 1 playground is located.

The second playground was established this summer. The playground commissioners are: Walter B. Timms, president; Robert B. Cissel and John Lammerding, with Superintendent of Schools Richard E. Clement, ex-officio.

Miss Evelyn Starr, of Passaic, is spending the week-end with Miss Kate Huntington, of Sherman avenue.

Consolation thought for today—Although Bound Brook is in last place along with High Bridge, there is sure to be some excitement on the Oval this afternoon.

While the Monroe Avenue Methodists are preparing for the Sunday school lesson, they can be consoled over this fact—if their team loses this afternoon, it will still have a chance for the silver cup. In other words—every cloud is silver lined.

Now that Senator James E. Martine is back in the City Beautiful again, perhaps the unexpected will happen. And that might mean that Bound Brook will take a win from the Pets this afternoon.

There doesen't seem to be much doubt that Somerville winning from doubt about Somerville winning from High Bridge this afternoon, but if Clinton should get his bumps Somerville will almost say "Good-bye" to the pennant.

Russell Johnston, son of George H. Johnston, county committeeman from Westfield, is one of the most loyal fans on the Central circuit. Young Johnston has chosen the Scotch Plains team to be the object of his cheers this year and comes back to see the Thistles play every Saturday from his summer home at Asbury Park.

Harry C. VanEmburgh is almost as true to his home club, which is Bound Brook. He even took a trip to High Bridge a few weeks ago to see the Bound Brook-High Bridge game and he wasn't a bit disappointed for the contest went to a seventeen-inning finish.

Now who is the champion fan of the Plainfield team?

But nevertheless there is just a bit of worriment at Westfield this afternoon for those Scotch Plainers are not to be laughed at when it comes to doing the surprise act on the outcome of games. Just consider the Plainfield tragedy last Saturday.

Joe Harter is just about due for some more hitting so keep your optics peeled on the speed boy this afternoon.

And then Dave Driscoll's average could stand a few boosts.

If Marcus Hoyt is Ivory, is Brit MarTin? (Easy with the bum decisions, Ump, you're getting paid).

R. R. VALUATION IN STATE; $99,978,394

Trenton, Aug. 26.—The valuation of second-class railroad property in New Jersey, as tentatively fixed by the State Board of Assessors for the year 1911, is barely less than $100,000,000.

The exact figures made public at the State department yesterday are $99,978,394. This is an increase of $26,393,936 over the valuations on the same class of property for 1910.

The increase is made up partially by the inclusion of new property in the schedule, but for the most part increased valuations are responsible for the gain. The valuations approved by the State board, subject, of course, to appeals and corrections, were based upon the reports submitted by Charles Hansel, the expert, employed to revalue railroad property. The second-class property will be taxed at local rates in the various municipalities in which it is situated and will be distributed between them.

The valuations upon the second-class property as divided between the various railroad systems are as follows:

Pennsylvania, $29,868,795; Central, $15,359,201; Philadelphia and Reading, $1,727,798; Erie, 12,172; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, $17,911,043; Susquehanna, $1,228,626; Lehigh Valley, $10,901,239; railroads not classified, $11,118,899; total, $99,978,395.

The apportionment by counties is as follows:

Atlantic, $1,373,632; Bergen, $2,323,639; Burlington, $193,096; Camden, $2,627,955; Cape May, $400,647; Cumberland, $372,970; Essex, $4,380,968; Gloucester, $988,409; Hudson, $72,501,829; Hunterdon, $385,521; Mercer, $1,777,184; Middlesex, $4,163,865; Monmouth, $582,111; Morris, $920,984; Ocean, $228,137; Passaic, $956,048; Salem, $76,315; Somerset, $311,596; Sussex, $313,200; Union, $3,891,368; Warren, $938,920. Total, $99,978,394.

NEGROES' OUTING ENDS IN CHASE AFTER THIEF.

Elizabeth, Aug. 26.—As an excursion of the Colored Investment Club of Elizabeth was nearing the wharf at Elizabethport Thursday night, Walter Brittam created a near panic. He was discovered behind the bar on the boat and was accused of stealing $14 that was lying in the open cash drawer. It was when he tried to escape, dodging between women and children on the boat, that the excitement started. Brittam managed to get off the boat, but was run down an the city dock by two policemen who were with the excursionists to preserve order. The prisoner, who is thirty-four years old, and single, was given ninety days in the county jail on complaint of Joseph S. Williams, president of the club.

In the excitement three satchels were stolen from pleasure-seekers, but were later recovered by the police, who found them on Marshall street, near the water front, where they had been thrown over a fence.

Finds Old Coin.

Whitehouse, Aug. 26.—While at work on his farm near this place Thursday afternoon, George W. Farley found a very ancient coin, which is in a fairly good state of preservation, although it had doubtless been exposed to the weather for many years. It is dated 1727 and there are a number of words on it, but these are not legible. The coin is about the size of a half dollar and is of silver. On one side of it is engraved a woman's head and on the other the figure of a woman with a staff.

ATTELL WILL QUIT THE RING IN 2 YEARS

Abe Attell, the world's champion featherweight pugilist, who has been playing in a vaudeville act at the local Proctor's theatre this week and who appears there again tonight, said in an interview with The Daily Press, that he would retire from the fighting ring within two years. Abe is only twenty-eight years old, but has held the world's title for his weight during the past twelve years and is still open for a challenge to the distinguished honor.

The noted clever fighter said that he is now in the pink of condition although he has not done any training for the entire summer, which he has been spending at Avon-by-the-Sea. The little fellow neither drinks nor smokes and his natural athletic build makes it possible for him to jump back into the roped arena within two weeks time. He will go back in the ring early in September, when he has a match with Knock-Out Brown in New York city, this fight, however, will not be for a title.

Abe Attell
World Featherweight Champion.

In speaking of the recent Papke-Burke bout, Attell said that the result was a complete surprise to him for he had picked Papke as an easy winner. He said that at the present time there was a large bunch of promising light and feather weights in the vicinity of New York city and that 'ere long some title was going to be snatched. The speedy fighter said, however, that he would work with all his might to defend his own title should that be threatened at any time.

Attell weighs 128 pounds at present, but will train down to 122-124 pounds when he re-enters the ring. His ability as a fighter lies almost entirely in his speed and cleverness for he has won many bouts with pugilists above his own weight. He was born and brought up on the Pacific coast, where he made his initial appearance as a fighter. He won his title twelve years ago from George Dickson at St. Louis after a long gruelling match, and recently defended the honor against Battling Nelson in a hard fight out West. The fighting prowess of Attell is due largely to the thorough training which he has received from the famous Alexander Gregan, although he is now under the tutelage of Danny Goodwin.

Attell says that the fighting game is all right for a while, as there is plenty of money in it, but for a life work, it is a thing to be abandoned after a few yeares. "I expect to retire within two years," he said, "and I hope to have my title when I quit the ring.' The fighter is now making good in a vaudeville act with Goff Phillips, the black face comedian, and Mike Carroll, a noted heavy weight pugilist.

Rev. J. M. Stiffler, formerly of Roselle, but now of Evanston, Ill., will preach at the First Baptist church, tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock. The last union service will be held in the evening at the First M. E. church, when Rev. A. S. Zimmerman, the supply at the First Presbyterian church, will preach.

H. W. VanArsdale will lead the W. C. T. U. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

February 12, 1874.

New Grocery Store—Mr. P. M. Demarest will open his new grocery store in Stillman's Block this week, as will be seen by reference to advertisement in another column. Mr. Demarest proposes to furnish the citizens of Plainfield with first class goods at low cash prices. His segars, wines and liquors, of which he will keep an assortment of the best and purest brands, come direct from the well known importing house of Acker, Merrill and Condit.

Mr. John Tingley last Friday slaughtered a calf raised on the farm of Mr. Ephraim Vail, Green Brook, which, although but 11 months and 6 days old, dressed 554 pounds of meat, 98 pounds of hide and 33 pounds of rough tallow. Total weight, 685 pounds. Who can beat this? Uncle Ephraim is hard to beat on raising if he is in his 90th year Sept. 26.

By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that Miss Josephine Rogers proposes to open on Monday, April 6th, 1874, a select morning class for little girls only, in the elementary English branches and we desire to commend her most cordially to those who wish to give their children a thorough education. Limiting the class to fifteen in number will enable Miss Rogers to give that attention to each pupil which cannot be given in schools. She also continues to give private lessons in French and Drawing.

Fatal Accident—On Monday last, an unusual and singular accident caused the death of a young man, son of the late William Dougherty, about two and a half miles from Rahway on the road leading to Scotch Plains. The young man was running a wagon into the carriage house, when the wagon gaining too great velocity, forced him against the side of the building, the pole of which he had hold of pushing against and cruching his chest in a manner that caused his death in a short time. The deceased was the only son of a widowed mother, his father having died a short time since. His sad and sudden death will be deeply felt by the relatives and friends of the family.

EAGLES EXCURSION TAKES PLACE TOMORROW.

Arrangements have been completed for an excursion to be held tomorrow by Elizabeth Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, which a number of Plainfield Eagles will attend. About 1,500 members and their friends are expected to attend.

The steamer Rosedale and barge Empire have been chartered, and will sail at 9 o'clock Sunday morning from Recreation Pier, Elizabeth, for New York waters, sailing up the East River.

They will pass under the Brooklyn, Manhattan, Williamsburg and Queensborough bridges. North Beach will be the final stopping point. There will be music on the boat and refreshments and dinner will be served on board.

COUPLE'S 2,500 HIKE.

Hackensack to Montana on Foot Their Aim.

Hackensack, Aug. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hummer, of Hackensack, will start next Monday to walk to Montana, a distance of 2,500 miles which they expect to cover by next Christmas. Mr. Hummer is a driver for a milk company and is 23 year of age, his wife being 21. They have no children.

Mr. and Mrs. Hummer will take a letter from Mayor Gaynor, which they promise to deliver to the Mayor of Butte, Mont.

Pay No Attention to It.

"I see you put up a sign, 'No mosquitoes.'"

"Yep," replied Farmer Corntossel; "but the mosquitoes don't pay any more attention to it than gunners pay to the sign, 'No trespassing.'"—Washington Star.

Must Wait His Turn.

"Why don't you take your vacation?"

"Can't get the use of my trunk until September."—Washington Herald.

$1.50 Mauch Chunk Excursion.

G. A. R. VETS ELECT TRIMBLE AS CHIEF

Judge Harvey R. Trimble, of Illinois, is now commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. and Los Angeles will be the city which will entertain the 1912 encampment. These two things were settled by the veterans at their session at Rochester, N. Y., yesterday.

The other officers of the National G. A. R. elected are: Senior vice-commander, Colonel Nicholas Day, of New York; junior vice-commander, William A. Ogden, of Kansas; surgeon-general, Dr. John W. Hanrahan, of Vermont; chaplain-in-chief, Dr. J. Wynne Jones, of Maryland.

Commander-in-Chief Trimble appointed the following: Adjutant-general, C. D. R. Koch, of Illinois; quartermaster-general, Colonel D. R. Stowots, of Buffalo; judge advocate-general, W. A. Ketcham, of Indiana; assistant quartermaster-general, J. Henry Holcomb, of Philadelphia.

THEY KEPT COOL WITHOUT THE AID OF THE PARTY.

The Y. W. C. A. girls were fooled last night when their 'keep cool party was a thing of reality instead of theory and they were almost frozen while trying to keep the temperatures of their bodies below the boiling point. It had been the intention of the association to hold an informal "Keep-cool porch party" but the weather was really cold and the affair had to be held in doors.

Twenty girls attended the party and enjoyed the progressive games which composed the evening's program under the direction of Miss Edith Hanaford, the popular director of the association for the summer in the place of Miss Amy Tapping, who has resigned. After the games, ice cream cones were served to the frigid gathering and paper teddy bears, icebergs and ice cream cones were distributed as favors.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Debele, of Somerset street, the borough left today for a short stay at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Vroom, of Stone street, leaves today for Port Jervis, N. Y., where they wil spend their vacation.

The Strength of Infants.

The myth of the infant Hercules who strangled two serpents in his cradle may not be a myth at all, but a fact. Modern science has proved that it is a possible feat. The newborn babe is relatively much stronger than a full grown man, according to the result of medical tests. The muscles of the forearm are surprisingly strong. A few hours after birth a baby suspended by its finger to a stick or to the finger of a person can hold itself in the air for ten seconds and in the case of particularly strong infants for as long as half a minute. At four days old the child's strength has increased, and the time is two and a half minutes for 98 per cent of babies. The maximum is attained at a fortnight. Few infants can hang on for more than one and a half minutes, though one exceptionally young Hercules remained suspended for two minutes and thirty-eight seconds by his right hand. After that he hung on with his left for fifteen seconds longer.

She Got Her Manuscript.

George Eliot was always solicitous about her manuscripts and was afraid she should lose them. Blackwood had occasion to send her the manuscript of "Daniel Deronda." She would not have it intrusted to the mail, and Mr. Blackwood said he would send it by his footman the next day.

"Oh, don't," the author said. "He might stop at a public house and forget it!"

Mr. Blackwood explained that this footman was a perfectly sober man of high character and went on to praise the man's virtues, but this did not reassure her at all. "If he is the sort of chivalrous Bayard that you describe," she said, "he is just the kind that would stop and help at a fire."

This was a contingency that Mr. Blackwood could not bear to consider. He promised that some member of his family would bring the manuscript, and next day, in fact, Mr. Blackwood drove over with it.

When Shaw Was Married.

"I was very ill when I was married," Bernard Shaw once wrote, "altogether a wreck on crutches and in an old jacket which the crutches had worn to rags. I had asked my friends, Graham Wallas and Henry Salt, to act as witnesses, and, of course, in honor of the occasion they were dressed in their best clothes. The registrar never imagined I could possibly be the bridegroom; he took me for the inevitable beggar who completes all wedding processions. Wallas, who is considerably over six feet high, seemed to him to be the hero of the occasion, and he was proceeding to marry him calmly to my betrothed when Wallas, thinking the formula rather strong for a mere witness, hesitated at the last moment and left the prize to me."—"George Bernard Shaw—His Life and Works," by A. Henderson, M. A.

The Word Shibboleth.

The word "shibboleth," now applied to any kind of party watchword, has a Scriptural origin. In the fifth and sixth verses of the twelfth of Judges we read: "And the Gileadites took the fords of Jordan against the Ephraimites, and it was so that when any fugitive of Ephraim said, Let me go over, the men of Gilead said unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he said Nay, then they said unto him, Say now Shibboleth, and he said Sibboleth, for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they laid hold of him and slew him at the fords of Jordan. And there fell at that time of Ephraim forty and two thousand."

A Vicious Dwarf.

Bebe was the favorite dwarf of the former King Stanislas of Poland. Born in 1741 in Lorraine, at the age of five he was twenty-two inches high and at his death in 1764 thirty-three inches. He was neither physically nor mentally active. Once Count Borowlaski visited him, and he became so jealous of the former's superior manners and intellectual qualities that he attempted to throw his visitor into the fire, but was prevented by the household.

A Sure Sign.

That levity is a subject that is sometimes worth while avoiding has been learned to the sorrow of a would be undertaker.

At a recent examination of the state undertaking board among the questions asked of the many applicants was the following one:

"What do you consider as an infallible sign of death?"

"Crape on the door," answered one.—Chicago Journal.

Progressing.

"I think Arthur would have proposed to me last night if you hadn't come in the room just when you did."

"What reason have you for believing that?"

"He had just taken both of my hands in his. He had never held more than one of them at a time before."

Tit For Tat.

"Jims thought he was going to bag the heiress."

"Well?"

"She gave him the sack."—Baltimore American.

Cruel.

Clara—He says he thinks I'm the nicest girl in town. Shall I ask him to call? Sarah—No, dear; let him keep on thinking so.—Town Topics.

Weather Note.

Mistress—Well, Cooper, what is the weather to be like? Gardener—Well, mum, I dunno, but the paper do say "forecast."—London Punch.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 27, 1911.

Topic.—A missionary journey around the world.—VIII. Missions in Persia and Turkey.—Acts iv. 13-31. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

In taking a survey of the various missionary countries of the world it is very appropriate to consider Persia and Turkey at the same time or even together for the reason that in the history of the past their relations to Christianity have been very similar and the problems that confront the Christian church in both countries today are practically the same. The history of God's people has been associated with that of Persia from the very beginning, and the present Turkish empire includes lands where prophets lived and labored, the apostles preached first the good news of salvation and where, above all, occurred the life, the toils, the sorrows, the death and resurrection of our Lord.

In both the supreme conflict is against Mohammedanism, the ancient enemy of the Christian religion. Persia and Turkey therefore appeal to us in the same way for a special interest in our prayers and sympathy and assistance to the end that they may become a part of the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Modern Christian missions in Persia date back just a century ago. The first missionary was Henry Martyn, who learned the Persian language as a chaplain in India. In 1811 he went to Persia to complete and improve the Persian translation of the New Testament. When his translation was finished he tried to get it before the king, but was bitterly opposed by the mullahs, and his book was rejected with scorn. Though he left Persia without the knowledge of a single convert as a result of his labors, yet in after years his translations of the New Testament and Psalms bore remarkable fruit.

The first American missionary to the Turkish empire was Levi Parsons. He reached Jerusalem Feb. 17, 1821, and again the conquest of the Holy Land was begun, not by the methods of the ancient crusaders, but by the modern methods of missionary activity, and let us earnestly pray that these methods may be more successful.

It is a singular fact that there are no mission fields in the world where the Bible has been such an important factor as in Persia and in Turkey, the very places in which God gave His revelations to man. Henry Martyn went to Persia to translate the Scriptures and nothing has been more influential in building up Christ's kingdom in the hearts and lives of men than these very translations. When Levi Parsons went to Jerusalem he had with him the Scriptures in nine languages. Bible distribution is one of the chief agencies of missionary activity today, and in the early days, while few Moslems were converted to Christianity, the number of copies of the Scriptures sold to them indicated a profound interest in the Bible that is bearing fruit today.

The difficulties in the way of advancing the kingdom of Christ in Persia and Turkey are very great. The presence of many sects calling themselves Christians constitute one very great obstacle for the reason that these sects had their origin years ago in strife and bitterness and jealousy and rivalry which still exist among them.

Political conditions present another serious problem. The natural attitude of Moslem governments is bitter enmity to Christianity. It is true that in both Persia and Turkey new rulers are on the throne and constitutional governments seem to be firmly established. The national tendencies seem to be decidedly progressive, but conditions are still unsettled and political situations and their bearing upon Christian missions are far from reassuring. It is a time when the church should spend special seasons in prayer to the God of nations that the new national longings in these lands associated with sacred story should accrue to the advancement of His own kingdom.

The supreme obstacle in the way of missionary success is Mohammedanism, the national religion of both Persia and Turkey, with its fierce spirit of persecution toward all that is Christian and its unyielding attitude of bitterest hatred and ostracism toward native Christian converts. Once the penalty was death, and while this penalty can no longer be exacted by law, it is still death to home ties, to social relations and temporal welfare.

The problems presented being the same, the solution is the same—the development of a native Christian church, freed from the errors of the old churches, responsive to the new national aspirations and conditions and thoroughly equipped with schools and colleges to direct the training and education of the present and coming generations of the young men of the land.

THE MAN HIGHER UP

BY HENRY RUSSELL MILLER

COPYRIGHT, 1910, BY BOBBS MERRILL CO.

PROLOGUE.

Bob McAdoo, waif of the slums, ragged, hard fisted newsboy, masterful office boy, bully of Irishtown, steel worker, ward boss, boss of the Steel City, is the central figure of this absorbing, thrilling, realistic story of American politics. He is friendless, but one friend enters his life and changes its whole course. He is a hater of women, but one woman comes between him and his sole friend, and then things happen that are worth while. Unflagging heart interest is the dominant characteristic of this great, real life romance of today.

CHAPTER I.

KNIGHT ERRANT.

IN the heart of the foothills, in a basin where two rivers meet to form a mighty third, lies the Steel City. To see it you must journey by night along its rivers, whose yellow, placid waters, reflecting the lights of a hundred steamers, seem a field of gold incrusted with diamonds, rubies and emeralds. Mile after mile you pass by mills, mills, mills—nothing but mills—magnificent monuments to the inventive and adaptive genius of man. Thousands of black faced, muscular Titans rush hither and thither, swift, methodical, earnest, single purposed. But even this powerful army, levied from the world's strongest, is pygmy-like beside the marvelous mechanism, which works, seemingly, of its own will, unerring, unfaltering, unceasing, irresistible. Rivers of molten metal flow beneath your gaze. Massive ingots of white hot iron, beyond the strength of men to lift, swing easily on the cranes from cast to car. Fiery serpents of steel writhe and plunge as though obsessed by the spirit of hell that broods over the smithy of the world. This is the Steel City.

He was standing at the window in one of the city's bleakest tenements, a ragged, dirty faced boy. In the years he remembered of his ten he had known no other surroundings. Of what went before he knew—was to know—nothing. From without came the sound of shuffling, uncertain footsteps. He turned in an attitude of sullen expectancy.

"If he licks me again I'll run away," he muttered. The faded drudge who shared the room with him nodded hopelessly.

The door opened and the relic of what had once been a man entered. "My felish'tashuns, ghentle par'ner 'f my jhoysh an' shorrowsh," he addressed the woman in drunken irony. "Wha've y' got t' eat?"

"Nothing."

"An' why not, faithful Penel'pe? I'll have you know I'm hungry. Woman, I'm hungry! Why not?"

"No money," answered the woman listlessly, hopelessly.

"No money? That reminsh me. Where'sh that Bob? Oh, there y'are, y' little devil. You got 'ny money?"

"How'd I get any money?" demanded the boy sullenly.

"Beg it—shteal it—it'sh all one t'me."

"Ain't a beggar, ain't a thief," said the boy doggedly.

In a sudden unexpected movement the drunken man lurched toward the boy and with one hand seized him by the collar and with the other picked up a stout stick. For a time Bob submitted to the beating in a stoic silence, horrible in such a mite of humanity, devoting his energies to the unsuccessful effort to dodge the descending stick until a blow of unusual force fell upon his shoulder. Then his dirty face was distorted with pain and hate. His clinched lips parted in the shrill scream of a wounded tiger cub. Quick as a thought he seized the hand that grasped the stick and buried his teeth in the flesh until they met the bone. Uttering a howl, the drunken brute dropped to the floor, rolling in agony. The boy darted through the door, pulled up a loose board in the hall and drew out the sum total of his worldly wealth—a single dime. Then his flight was resumed.

He did not cease running until the tumbledown tenement district was far behind him. Then he set his face toward the downtown business section.

A portly gentleman of good natured aspect came toward him. The boy boldly accosted him.

"Say, mister, where can I buy some papers?"

"I've no money for you," answered the gentleman impatiently.

"Don't want any money. Got all I want," the boy said sturdily.

The gentleman laughed. "That's more than I have, my youthful Cyprus Press office, Fifth avenue, three blocks down."

And the boy trudged bravely on his way through the crowded thoroughfare, unmindful of smarting shoulders, his fortune grasped tightly in his fist.

The statement that his fortune was carried in his fist is true in two senses of the word, for, when he had expended his treasure in copies of that organ of publicity known as the Press, with the instinct of genius he sought the most crowded corner of the city's busiest avenue. Here an unforeseen obstacle met our young knight errant. Hardly had he begun to cry his wares when another "newsie," who had preempted the corner, swaggered up to him and fiercely challenged:

"Say, kid, wotcher doin' here?"

"Sellin' papers," said our young friend.

"Not much, yer don't. Dis is my stan'. Take a sneak, see!"

"Aw, go on!" And then the fight began.

The assailant was the older and bigger, but this was a style of argument with which Bob was familiar. He dealt his blows lustily and maliciously, greatly to the delight of the crowd that gathered to observe the hostilities. Not the least interested was the burly, red faced limb of the law who controlled the traffic at that corner.

"My money on the little fellow," laughed a youth.

"Sure," said the policeman, "an' ye'll be findin' no takers, I'm thinkin'."

"Officer," a woman cried indignantly, while she stared at the little fighters, fascinated, "you ought to be ashamed of yourself. Pull them apart at once."

"Oh, lave thim alone, ma'am," responded the guardian of the public peace. "It'll be doin' thim good."

"Lord," shouted the sport, "see that uppercut! I win. The little one has him down."

The sport spoke truly. The combatants were prostrate in the gutter, Bob on top and pummeling his antagonist's features with an earnestness of purpose that was inspiring. At this crisis the policeman regretfully recalled himself to duty.

"That's enough, me son," he declared, pulling them apart.

"'Tain't enough," the victor rebelliously answered, a thin ribbon of blood streaming from his nose, the light of battle in his eye. "'Tain't enough till he says I can sell papers here."

"Ain't he th' little divil!" the policeman ejaculated admiringly. "Ye stay all right, kid. Ye're th' boss now. Show's over, frinds. Move on."

And so, while his late antagonist slunk, sniffling, away to hide his disgrace, Bob McAdoo stayed, master of the field and convert to the doctrine of the great American specialty—monopoly. When darkness fell that evening the original dime's investment and a third replenishment were sold out, and Bob, with a pocket full of pennies, faced the responsibilities of wealth.

"THAT'S ENOUGH, ME SON," HE DECLARED.

When the policeman entered his home that night and faced his faithful spouse he was with a quaking spirit.

"Well, now," his lady exclaimed sarcastically—"well, now, Patrick Flinn, an' what is this angel av marcy ye do be bringin' home th' night?"

"Shure, Norah," Patrick apologized, "'tis the most illigint little gamecock ye iver saw. He came to me corrner this afthernoon a-sellin' papers. Th' newsie on the corrner, a big gosscon what's always bullyin' th' little fellows, thried fur to chase him away. An' what did me little bantam do but go afther that big bully like me sainted namesake afther th' snakes in th' ould counthry. An' he wiped th' gutther clane wid him. An' whin I was fur lavin' me corrner the la-ad come up to me an' says, 'Say, mister, where'll I be findin' a place to slape th' night?' 'Over beyant be th' river there's a lot of boxes,' says I. 'Aw, t'ell wid boxes,' says he; 'it's a bed I'm wantin'.' 'An' what'll th' likes av ye be doin' wid a bed?' says I. 'Slapin', av course,' says he. 'I nivir slipt in a bed, but I got lots av money now, an' I'm wantin' a bed fr th' night.' 'How ould are ye?' I asks. 'Ten years,' says he. 'An' where have ye been livin'? 'Nowhere,' says he. 'Who's yer payrints?' 'Ain't got any,' says he. 'Who've ye been livin' wid?' 'Nobody,' says he. 'Shure, ye're a quare custhomer,' says I. 'An' who owns ye?' 'I own mesilf,' says he. 'Thin come home along av me th' night,' says I. An' here he is. An' now," Patrick concluded sadly, "he must be goin', fr there's no room f'r him here."

"Think shame to yersilf, Pathrick Flinn," Norah cried hotly, "to be thinkin' av sendin' a poor, motherliss little spalpane like him out into the cold worruld!"

While Patrick chuckled within himself over the success of his diplomacy Norah fell to her knees and drew the boy to her ample bosom, at which unaccustomed tenderness the frozen springs of his childish heart were melted and Bob burst into a torrent of sobs.

"Husha, husha, me de-arr," crooned Norah. "There's no nade to be cryin'. Shure, ye arren't to be lift alone, nivirmore, nivirmore."

Bob drew back from her embrace and, stamping his feet, cried:

"I'll never cry again—not—another—dam'—time!"

"Whisht, ye little spalpane!" Norah laughed. "Don't ye be swearin'."

"Ain't he th' little divil!" Patrick slapped his thighs delightedly. "Bob, shake hands wid Molly and Kathleen, an' make yersilf at home."

Bob obeyed.

Some hours later Patrick, bearing a candle and accompanied by Norah, crept upstairs softly to the spare bedroom where Bob, face downward, reposed in uneasy slumber—and in a bed. Norah sank to her knees by the bedside.

"Th' poor, poor la-ad!" she murmured, laying her hand gently on his shoulder.

Bob groaned and in his sleep shrank from the touch. The movement displaced the nightgown—Kathleen's—and disclosed a black and blue shoulder.

"Th' little spalpane!" Norah whispered tenderly.

"It's not from fightin', I warrint ye," Patrick whispered. "It's on his back."

"Don't you hit me again, Jim Thompson!" Bob screamed in his dreams. "When I'm big I'll kick you."

"Th' little divil!" Patrick whispered compassionately.

"He's like Paddy 'nd 'a' been," sobbed Norah.

"Arrah, Norah, darlint, ye do be makin' a fool av yersilf over th' la-ad that was nivir borrn." Paddy was the boy for whom the Flinns' hearts had always longed, but who never came.

With deep satisfaction of soul Bob opened his eyes on a new day.

"I'll stay here," he said aloud.

And stay he did, Bob, in the arrogance of his boyish egotism, taking his welcome for granted, while to the Flinns, big hearted and instinctively hospitable, it never occurred to wonder at the boy's presumption. The arrangement thus tacitly established proved a happy one.

So it was that when Policeman Flinn set out that noon to his duties Bob accompanied him, to revisit yesterday's battlefield, where henceforth, by right of conquest and Patrick's protection, he was to reign supreme. And when the day's work was done together they returned home to "Irishtown."

A few days later their bonds were finally riveted.

It was Saturday night, and the family of Flinn was gathered in the kitchen, which was also the living room. Over the table in the corner Bob counted the earnings of the week. To this task the assistance of Molly and Kathleen was needed, since, alas, Bob's notions of arithmetical values after the sum of ten was reached were hopelessly vague.

"Three dollars and fifty-three cents," Kathleen announced proudly

"He'll be layin' aside a bit av it, a dime or a quarther mebby, fr th' sisters whin they come, won't ye, Bob?" Norah suggested piously.

But Bob had planned other uses for his money. He laid to one side the 53 cents and gathered together the $3, which he carried over to Norah and dropped, jingling, into her capacious lap.

"An' what's this for?"

"Take it," said Bob.

"Ye mane kape it f'r ye?"

"No; keep it fer yourself."

"An' why should I kape it?" demanded Norah.

"To pay fer me bed an' grub."

"Away wid ye, ye little rapscallion! Kape yer money; ye'll be nadin' it f'r clothes an' th' like. Ye can stay here without payin' yer way an' welcome."

"But that's char'ty, ain't it?" Bob demanded directly.

"Well, yes—sometimes," Norah returned slowly. "But not in this case, whin it's frinds is givin' to ye."

"Ain't goin' to be a char'ty boy," Bob insisted. "I got to pay."

"But why?" Norah insisted.

"I don't know," Bob returned slowly, with a puzzled frown. "I ain't a cheap skate. You'll keep it, won't you?"

"Not a cint av it," Norah declared flatly.

Bob gave no answer to this declaration other than to collect the coins and place them in his pocket. Then he took his cap from its peg and without a word or backward glance made for the door.

"Hould on there," Patrick cried, seizing him. "Where arre ye goin'?"

"I don't know," said Bob coolly.

"Thin why arre ye lavin' this time av night?"

"I'm goin' to find a place where they'll let me pay."

For a moment Patrick stared helplessly at his wife and then laughed delightedly. "Ain't he th' little divil! Hand th' money to th' ould woman. Ye stay, Bob."

Years passed, and Bob grew in stature, if not in wisdom, viewing life from the lowly standpoint of the newsie and being thoroughly spoiled by his friends. It was strange, the matter of fact fashion in which he tyranized over Patrick and Norah. Over Molly and Kathleen he lorded as absolutely when he condescended to share their games. He was the pride of the corner loafers by reason of his propensity and talent for fighting, and they delighted to egg him on to combat with older and larger antagonists. In these fights Bob always came off victor. Willful, masterful, intractable, he caused much worriment of soul to the elder Flinns, but neither had the heart or even the hardihood to chastise him. Their reproofs, mildly administered, were received with an indifference and cool surprise that robbed them of all possible good effect.

With fear and trembling Patrick sent him to the ward school. The fear was justified by the results. The boy proved himself bright enough to master his lessons—when he chose. It was rarely, however, his choice to study. He preferred to fight and to drive his schoolmates into mischief. He became the bully of the school.

His schooling came to an abrupt end when he was thirteen years old. To punish an unusually flagrant act of insurrection his teacher called in the aid of the principal, a stout, pompous young man who was Bob's pet aversion. The principal had no more than seized the rattan when Bob suddenly snatched it from him and belabored the astonished pedagogue with it so fiercely that he fled the room in dismay. Bob then took his cap and bade farewell to school forever.

By this feat Patrick was at last nerved to his duty. That night he gave Bob a severe thrashing, which the boy, with white face and set teeth, quietly endured. When it was over he said:

"I take it this time, Pat, because it's from you. But nobody will ever lick me again. And now I'm through with school and papers. I'm goin' to hunt a job."

"Humph!" returned Patrick. "An' who'll be hirin' th' likes av ye, wid such a ripitashun f'r deviltry?"

"Oh, I'll get a job, all right," Bob declared.

The next day Bob entered the confines of Sanger's mills, boldly defying the legend, "No Admittance Except on Business." Bob made his way to the office, where a cherub in brass buttons stood guard and demanded to be shown into the great man's presence. He was refused. He then threatened to punch the cherub's head and evinced such readiness and ability to put his threat into execution that the office boy at last tremblingly ushered Bob into the presence of Mr. Sanger.

The master met the interruption with a scowl. "Well, what can I do for you?" he rasped out.

"You can give me a job," Bob suggested.

"Indeed, can I?" the man said tartly. "But suppose I don't?"

"I'll have to get one somewhere else, then," Bob responded cheerfully.

Mr. Sanger laughed in spite of himself. "You're a cool one. What can you do?"

"Well," Bob said thoughtfully, "I didn't think of that. I've scrapped and sold newspapers mostly, but I guess I can do other things just as good."

"Do you think you could stand at that door and keep out of this office impudent boys who have no business here for $4 a week?"

"You bet I can."

"All right. When can you go to work?"

"Now," Bob grinned. "You might change your mind by tomorrow."

Bob was as good as his word. While he was on duty he was a brave and adroit man indeed that reached Mr. Sanger's presence undesired. Bob also established a mastery over the force of office boys and disciplined the refractory with such promptitude and severity that he reigned a very tyrant. And from office corridor to furnace and rolls was a short step for him.

When he came to man's estate he had learned the hard, cruel lesson of the steel he forged.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

ELIZABETH'S NEW ORPHAN ASYLUM

Plans for Elizabeth's new orphan asylum to be erected in Salem avenue, have ben filed with the building inspector. They call for a structure which will cost $100,000.

The old brick structure at Cherry street which housed the orphans for years has been purchased by the Pennsylvania Railroad for the purpose of straightening its tracks toward South Elizabeth and using this site with other large tracts. The new building will be of gray stone and capped with red Spanish tiles. It will contain spacious bedrooms, playrooms and reception hall, and will be well back from the street and surrounded by a fair-sized plot of land and large trees. It will be four stories high and will be built within the year.

This makes the fifth new structure of stately design planned or completed within a comparatively short time. The others are the new armory in Chestnut street, now in course of construction; the new High School building in South Broad street, on which work has not yet started; the Public Library, for which ground has been broken, and the Union County Trust Company building. Besides these an eight-story business building is to be erected at West Jersey and Broad streets by the Goerke Company, of Newark. In addition several new churches and halls have been completed within the last two years, making a total expenditure of approximately $1,000,000.

The congregation of St. Adelbert's church, Third and East Jersey streets has arranged to spend $40,000 on the church edifice, which was built only a few years ago.

REVOLT AGAINST BAIRD'S MACHINE

Camden, Aug. 26.—With the entrance of Charles H. Ellis, Mayor of Camden, as a candidate for Congress, a combination has been formed that threatens the overthrow of the Republican machine, of which David Baird has been absolute ruler since the death of General Sewell, a dozen years ago. The combination against Baird comprises State Senator William J. Bradley, Sheriff Cooper B. Hatch, Mayor Charles H. Ellis, David O. Watkins, of Gloucester county, and George Starn, under-sheriff. The rest of the anti-Baird ticket is: State Senator William J. Bradley; Sheriff George Starn.

Against these the Baird faction has placed in the field: For Congress, William J. Browning; State Senator, William T. Reed; Sheriff Joshua Haines.

Browning was chief clerk of the House of Representatives for many years up to this session of Congress. He was close to the late Representative Loudenslager. Reed is comparatively unknown, while Haines is a member of City Council.

Not since the fight for supremacy of the Republican forces of South Jersey between George M. Robeson and William J. Sewell, many years ago, has Camden been so wrought up.

Under the new election law it is made a misdemeanor, punishable by five years' imprisonment to attempt to influence city or county employes with threats.

Evidence has already been placed with Prosecutor Scovel against prominent politicians for attempting to influence office-holders. With a new Grand Jury to be drawn by Sheriff Hatch in a few days and the announcement by Prosecutor Scovel that cases of intimidation will be vigorously prosecuted, the primary election, September 26, is likely to represent the personal opinion of the voter to a greater extent than ever before.

SOUTH ELIZABETH DEMANDS A PARK.

A park for South Elizabeth and the building of the proposed "short line" to join the South Broad street line were some of the matters discussed at the monthly meeting of the South Elizabeth Improvement Association at the Battin High School annex last night. Council will grant the association a hearing next week on the park project.

Among those who declared that better trolley facilities are needed in South Elizabeth were Excise Commissioner Peter M. Kling, Roland Calhoun, Edward F. Whelan, Christopher Hansen, Councilman Floyd R. Berriman.

A special committee of the First Street Association met last night at the office of Secretary B. B. Miller to agitate the extension of the proposed "short line" down Bayway to First street, as against its extension to the Long Branch Railroad only. The association expects to get expert opinion to contravert the contention of the Public Service Company that it is an impossibility to run trolleys over the Long Branch Railroad at the point where it is crossed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Living Up to His Ad.

"Guess I'l hitch up the old mare to the wagon and drive down to the depot to meet those new city boarders," said the farmer.

"Why don't you run down in the machine?" said his wife.

"It won't do," replied the farmer, sadly. "I'd like to, but it isn't business. You see, I advertised this place as having all the comforts of the old-fashioned farm, and I've got to give 'em what they expect."

This New Model Is Now Here

The New model Chalmers "30," the big bargain of the 1912 season, has arrived and is now in our salesroom for your inspection.

The Chalmers "30" was the first real automobile offered to the public at a medium price. It set a standard in automobile value four years ago, and is still a leader. It has always been a standard by which other cars were judged.

It is the car of the most advanced design; a car that has been more widely copied than any other. It has a grace of line and finish not excelled in the costliest cars; it has given saitsfactory service to 15,000 owners; it is backed by an absolute guarantee for one year.

Each season the Chalmers "30" has been greatly increased in value without increasing the price. This season we have more to offer, both in quality and price, than ever before.

Last year this car sold for $1,750, equipped with magneto, gas lamps, top and windshield. Think of it this year—improved in every possible way with thoroughly ventilated fore-door bodies, inside control, magneto gas lamps, Prest-O-Lite tank, and including also Chalmers Mohair top and automatic windshield—for $1.500.

We ask you to inspect this new 1912 Model.

Comparison has sold more Chalmers cars than all of our advertising. We think you will agree that claims are unnecessary in view of such value at such a price.

May we demonstrate it to you?

LITERARY.

In Scribner's Magazine for September General Funston continues his remarkable narrative of fighting and adventure with the most thrilling incident of his Phillipine experiences. He describes the battle of Calumpit and the famous swimming of the Rio Grande River, which secured for him and two of his regiment the Congressional Medal of Honor. It was in a later fight that the regiment was taken across the river on a raft, eight at a time, under a heavy fire. James Ford Rhodes reviews in historical perspective and with clear judgment the Republican National Conventions of 1880 and 1884 which nominated respectively Garfield and Blaine. Mr. Rhodes has a power of definite statement which clears away much of the misunderstanding, and rancor of those fierce contests.

The parts of the food which the digestive juices cannot dissolve, and which therefore escape digestion, are periodically given off by the intestine. Such solid excreta, or feces, include not only the particles of undigested food, but also residues of the digestive juices, bits of the lining of the alimentary canal, etc.—From Physical Culture for September.

The recent substantial increase in the size of Lippincott's Magazine affords room for an alluring table of contents this month. The complete novel is by Carolyn Wells, whose detective stories are live matter all through, as is proved by the tremendous sales of her latest book, "The Gold Bag." On its heels comes this new novel "His Hand and Seal," published complete in the September Lippincott's. Its scenes are all right in New York city; and you will welcome the familiar and magnetic Fleming Stone, the detective, who is again to the fore in telling fashion. The plot is ingenious enough to baffle the most acute, and up to almost the very last the question "Who did it?" will not down.

SPORTS

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Almost every champion of importance will measure strides and strength at the field day of the Knights of Columbus at Olympic Park today with the cream of the athletes of the East. Fourteen events are carded. Every event will have a champion on scratch and in several contests metropolitan, senior, juniors and State champions will be allowed liberal handicaps. The committee arranged the games thus so that the honor men would put forth his best efforts to win, which will perhaps mean the establishing of new world's records. This method will apply with unusual force in the half-mile, one mile and the thre-mile run. Peerless Mel Sheppard is working hard to create a new mark in the half-mile. Today is his one big chance to do so, as Eddie Frick, the New York A. C. crack, who is looked upon by experts as the coming half-mile champion has been alowed eight yards over the "Peerless One." While Dick Egan, the metropolitan junior champion, will start at fourteen-yard mark. Other middle distance cracks will take liberal marks, the limit being sixty yeards.

Martin Sheridan, of the Irish-American A. C., will not have everything his own way by a long shot in the discus at the coming Olympic games, if the reports in the Swedish newspapers are to be believed. Carl Anderson, coach of the Newark High School track team, who hails from Sweden, gives the latest reports as stating that Niklander, a Swede, recently shattered the world's record for the discus.

There is a likelihood that Randolph Granger, the colored half-mileer, of Newark High School, will join Harry Hillman's squad of athletes at Dartmouth College, when the fall semester starts.

Matt McGrath, the former New York A. C. weight man, will take a crack at the record for the 16-pound hammer from a nine foot circle at Celtic Park tomorrow. Matt is now throwing in record form and has an excellent chance of turning the trick.

Judging from the way the entries are coming in for the senior metropolitan championships, which are scheduled for September 16 at Celtic Park, this meet will be one of the most representative in the history of the game.

The entry blanks for the fall games of the New York A. C. are a little late in making their appearance this year. No date has ben set for the meet.

R. D. LITTLE DEFEATED.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 26.—Seven of the eight matches yesterday in the fifth round of the all-comers' tournament for the National lawn tennis championship fulfilled expectations, the unlooked-for result being the defeat of the veteran Raymond D. Little, one of the new doubles champions, by W. M. Washburn, who won the Columbia interscholastic title only a few weeks ago. Little made the younger player go through five hard sets, the first two being duce affairs, but in the latter part of the contest Washburn was speedier and steadier at critical periods and outgeneraled Little. The committee will star young Washburn with McLoughlin for the feature match today.

To Play Englishmen at Soccer.

Some of the best amateur soccer players of England will be seen in action at the Polo Grounds on Sept. 16. The Corinthians, almost all of them Oxford and Cambridge men, will play an eleven selected from the best of the metropolitan soccer players. The English game has picked up considerably in interest around New York during the past two years, and the contest will give the local enthusiasts an opportunity to look over Great Britain's best players. Three trial games are to be played by the New Yorw teams in order that the best team possible may be secured to oppose the Englishmen. The first of these games will be played tomorrow on McDonald Field, Brooklyn.

Phillies Lose Their Protest.

President Lynch, of the National League, yesterday afternoon declined to allow the protest filed by President Horace Fogel, of the Philadelphia Club, against Thursday's game won by the Cincinnati in Philadelphia. Lynch ruled that Umpire Eason did perfectly right in reversing his decision and declaring Downey, of Cincinnati, safe after originally calling him out. Fogel protested that Eason erred in conferring with Assistant Umpire Johnstone and then reversing himself and deciding that the ball Downey hit to Paskert had been "trapped." "We have two umpires for that very purpose," declared Mr. Lynch.

Miss Louise Foote, of Buffalo, has returned home after a visit of two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Schuck, of West Sixth street.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

I wish to correct an account of the report in a recent issue of a Plainfield paper stating that a party who had been trespassing on my property was discharged for lack of evidence.

The facts are these: A suspicious party was seen and did enter our grounds Thursday night, August 24, and was fired at several times after which he disappeared and was captured after an all night search by our efficient marshals and was then identified by the persons who saw him enter the grounds.

Then he was brought before the recorder and discharged. What for I do not know. What I wish to know is, what protection people living in the borough of Dunellen have If Justice is administered in this manner.

MRS. GRACE E. ISING.

ABOLISHED OWN JOB PRAISED BY WILSON.

Robert A. Sibbald, formerly Register of Deeds, of Bergen county, who was elected to that office last fall so that he could have legislation passed that would abolish the office and his salary of $5,500, and who suceeded in his efforts, having been legislated out of office on July 4, was in the Bergen County Democratic conference in the Armory Hall last night.

Charles F. Thompson, county clerk, read a letter from Governor Wilson, who was expected to be present. In it the Governor said he was sorry he could not atend the conference and join in paying honor to Sibbald.

"Mr. Sibbald," wrote Governor Wilson, "has performed an act of public duty and of patriotism which does him singular honor. He not only carried out literally the pledges with which he entered office, but he did the county a great service in bringing about the abolition of an unnecessary office." The Governor also said Sibbald has "shown to the voters of the county the real character and purpose of the Democratic party in the new program of public service."

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT THEIR SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The program prepared by Superintendent George E. Hall for tomorrow's session at the Park Avenue Baptist Bible School is the last one of the summer series and promises to be as attractive as those preceding. In place of the lesson in the classes, Mrs. F. W. Miller, of Somerville, superintendent of the temperance department of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association, will talk to the school. Mrs. Miller has visited the school before and is always cordially welcomed for her pleasing presonality and interesting addresses in connection with her work throughout the State.

The musical program includes solos by Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Moyer, of this city; also cornet selections by E. D. Young and Whitney Frezee. The room will be prettily decorated in the color scheme of the day, and every effort made to render the session especially attractive.

Former Mayor William Saunders, of the borough, left yesterday for Houghton, Mich., where he will be a guest at Douglas House for three weeks.

INSTINCTIVE PLAYING

is an art medium. It enables you to put into your playing, involuntarily, beautiful tone and touch and accent. It is involuntarily to such an extent that you would really have to pay attention to find out how you produce much of the expression, such as accent, shadings of force, attack, and delicate touch effects.

The result of instinctive control is that you at once enjoy the sensation of playing music—not of operating an ingenious machine. This sensation to its fullest extent, has been known only to the few most skilled pianists.

Until you have had the Virtuolo in your home you cannot realize how true this is. From the first hour you are fascinated. From the first you find that you are led naturally and almost involuntarily to put feeling and expression into your playing, more beautifully than you would ever do if you had to master difficult control devices. Your instinctive control over tone, touch and accent to such an astonishing extent makes you eager to play with fine tone shading, molding every phrase to your fancy or mood. So, month by month, your ideas grow beyond anything you ever believed possible. You never tire of it.

The Virtuolo departs from all other players in principle. Instead of using lifeless wood and leather as the substitute for the pianist's hands, the Virtuolo plays upon its own set of keys with "air muscles" located in its eighty-eight "channel fingers." The flexing of these sensitive "air muscles" is in response to every natural impulse given by the Virtuolo pianist. All of the touch expression which makes playing artistic, is produced involuntarily. That is why the novice "finds himself" when he begins playing the Virtuolo.

We make the Virtuolo Player-Piano in our recently erected $500,000 model "Daylight" factory at Boston, and offer it in the Hallet & Davis Piano at $700 in a special Mahogany Colonial case. At $775 in a refined Arts and Crafts design. Also in the Conway Piano at $575 in a chaste design, either mahogany or walnut.

We make special easy terms of payments as low as $15.00 monthly. Pianos and ordinary player-pianos taken in exchange at fair values.

Our reliable, fully guaranteed, Lexington Player-Piano is sold at $450 on terms as low as $12.00 monthly.

SERMON ON BIBLE

Rev. A.S. Zimmerman at Union Service Talks on Modern Attacks on Holy Writ.

DEFENDS SACRED VOLUME.

Says the Divine Book is the Best Rule of Life and Puts Danger Signals at Pitfalls of Men.

"Our Bible" was the subject of the instructive discourse of Rev. Andrew S. Zimmerman, pastor of the Memorial Presbyterian church of Newark, at the union service of the First Baptist, First M. E., First Presbyterian and Trinity Reformed churches in the First M. E. church last night.

Rev. Mr. Zimmerman's sermon was in part as follows:

"This year marks the three hundredth anniversary of the English Bible which was translated into our language as soon as the people under the reign of King James, the First, of England, began to apply their thoughts to religious freedom. But the battle about the Bible has been raging for nearly 1900 years and all the great conflicts between nations up to the eighteenth century were started through disputes concerning the interpretation of the Holy Scriptures.

"But the Bible is receiving its most severe trial today for it is being tried in the church, the very institution which was responsible for its origin. Its stories are being contradicted by those who have been ordained in its doctrine and education through its teachings. These same antagonists have been trying to reduce Christ to the ranks of a mere man and the Saviour stands today before the world in some people's eyes as Julius Caesar did in the days of the Roman Empire, being crucified by His Brutus, for His truth is being doubted by His own desciples and He must be obliged to say, 'Et tu Brute.' In spite of this opposition and mutiny within the ranks of His followers, Christ's cause goes on and His Kingdom is being spread to all the sections of the globe.

"If the athesists and materialists bring forth their doubts, let us challenge them to test the question of the Bible! Elijah of old, proved His God to the followers of Baal, so let us show the doubters that the greatest book is the true word of God.

"The question is raised by the doubters that the Bible was written by ordinary men and they argue why believe the statements the ignorant fisherman of the Red Sea or the hunters of the forests of Palestine. But if the materialists, with their better education of today, can produce a better book, let them do it! could the poor fisherman of Perth Amboy, who are far better schooled than those fisherman in the time of Christ, write such a book? Let them try it!

"Although some churches have been compelled to change their doctrines because they were illogical and irrellevant, the Bible has never had to be changed even though it was the work of ignoramuses. The Bible has invaded nearly every home in the world and its scope of subjects is broader than that attempted by any other book. It deals in philosophy, law, sociology, philology and in almost every phase of life.

"The Bible is the best rule for life and men who follow its teachings seem to succeed. There seems to be a connection between worldly success and service to the Holy Scripture. If young men would only realize that the ministers of the churches hold the keys of explanation of this wonderful book, which can be the instrument of success in their lives, they would not run down a back alley when they see the preacher coming down the street. The Bible puts danger signals at the pitfalls of life and keeps us out of the snares of the devil.

"We are above the people of the old times except in our knowledge of the science of life, for who today could write the Ten Commandments or the Sermon on the Mount. We are just beginning to look after the people and their interests and through Governor Wilson the legislature is differentiating in the cause of the common people. Man is not retrograding as the conquering of the sciences of nature and the solution of social problems prove and the world is made over in everything except in character building.

"The Bible has been the cause of the enlightening of nations, for it has made its impress on the map of the world. It teaches that the man who lives for himself alone is ignoble and disproves the belief of the Buddists that life is but a dewdrop which fades away at the rising of the sun. And then to the doubters and agnostics the Bible answers one great question, 'I believe.'"

TOMMY TIMBO CLUB ATE CLAMS YESTERDAY

The Timbo Social Club's annual outing held at the Driving Park was somewhat marred by the rain yesterday which prevented quite a number from attending. The fifty members and friends who were on hand, however, thoroughly enjoyed the affair, which was held under the shelter of the sheds at the park and during the showers various outdoor sports were enjoyed. These consisted of running races around the track and shorter distances ofr the runners according to their avoirdupois. The sports were followed by a clam bake served by Erwin Neighbor.

Thomas Timbo.

The most pretentious of the foot races was a half, or more around the track which was won by Stanley Vardon, who led in the only other two finishing out of a large field that started. Leo Moore finished second and Frank Schich third.

The committee in charge of the affair was Henry Wierenga, chairman; Erwin Neighbor, John Denise, Robert Hayman, Frank Schuck, Jack Horner, Thomas Timbo and August Laggren.

NEW CAR LINE FOR WESTFIELD-IRVINGTON

L. P. Naylor, owner of Echo Lake, spent several days in Westfield last week, during which time he quietly sounded public opinion upon a proposed short cut trolley line from Westfield to Newark. Mr. Naylor is projecting a high speed traction line which will run the majority of its distance over a private right of way. After leaving Westfield the line will skirt Echo Lake and continue to Irvington, there connecting with two Newark lines. It is proposed to equip the line with Edison storage battery cars and thereby do away with poles and overhead wires.

The route of the proposed trolley through Westfield starts at the corner of Broad and Elm streets, where the Main line trolley turns to go to Plainfield. The new line would run south on Elm street to North avenue, opposite the Central Railroad station, over North avenue to Lenox avenue, through Lenox avenue to Fair Acres avenue, thence bearing toward the north to Woodlawn avenue and to a point near Garfield avenue, in the Germantown section of Westfield, where the route will turn northeast and follow Echo Lake to a spur of the Rahway Valley Railroad. The line will thence continue on through Union and along private right of way into Irvington.

The proposed, it is said, would meet with considerable favor n Westfield, as the route touches Fair Acres race track, passes near the new Grant School, runs within a block of Fairview cemetery, and gives the people of Germantown easy access to the town; it also runs directly to the new Echo Lake Golf links. Mr. Naylor intends to appear before the next meetinf or the Town Council and ascertain the officials' opinion of the plan. This proposed trolley line would also develop residential property in Westfield, which is now too far for commuters to walk to the Central Railroad station.

Miss Peterson's Funeral.

The funeral service for Miss Petra Peterson was held at her late home on Grove street at four o'clock Saturday afternoon was attended by a number of her countrymen and women whose acquaintance she had formed since coming to this country from Denmark some time ago. Rev. N. H. Nyrop, pastor of the Danish Lutheran church, of Brooklyn, officiated, and burial was made in Hillside cemetery.

Albert Steiner, paying teller in The Plainfield Trust Co., is spending his vacation at Block Island. During his absence F. J. Walsh, the receiving teller, is ably filling his position.

ELECTION PUZZLE

Attorney General to Act on Request For Information Concerning Geran Law.

DANIEL S. VOORHEES' QUERIES.

Many Puzzles of the New Statute to Be Solved for the Benefit of District Election Boards.

As the season of election comes on the office of Attorney General Edmund Wilson is being flooded with requests for interpretations of different sections of the new Geran election law. Questions are coming up every day and some things not consistent with other sections are brought to light and then the mass is sent to the State House at Trenton for passing upon by the chief law officer of the State.

State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, acting for the election officers of his county, Morris, has sent the following communication to the attorney general and while waiting for a reply the election officers and the election experts are trying to figure out how the law officers of the State will answer. Mr. Voorhees letter is as follows:

Hon. Edwin Wilson, Attorney General,

Trenton, New Jersey.

Dear Sir—Will you kindly answer the following questions relative to the election laws of this State?

First—In regard to transfers. It is necessary for a voter to apply to the Court for an order before the Board of Registry and Election in municipalities of 5,000 or less can issue a certificate of transfer from one district to another at either the general or primary election?

Do section 51 and 52 apply to the primary election in municipalities of over 5,000, or to any municipalities? There seems to be no provision in section 52, or in the law, providing for the sitting of the Judge on or before the primary election.

Second—Can a voter in an election district in a municipality of 5,000 or less register on the date of the primary election for the primary election? The act provides that Election Boards in municipalities of 5,000 or less shall meet on the first registry day and proceed to make a house-to-house canvass, but there is no provision for a voter to get registered before the day of the primary election in case the board fail to register him in their house-to-house canvass.

Third—In municipalities of over 5,000, what registry books, or lists, if any, are furnished by the District Boards of Registry and Election to the municipal clerks, or to the County Board of Elections, after the last registry day, for the use of the County Board or Judge in revising and correcting the register?

Fourth—Is it lawful, under the corrupt practices act, to carry voters to the polls for the primary elections?

Sections 51 and 52, about which the State Treasurer asks questions for his constituents read as folows:

51. It shall not be lawful for any district board of registry and election in any city, town, township, borough or village exceeding five thousand inhabitant in the State to execute or deliver to any voter any paper in the nature of a transfer, purporting to authorize the said voter to vote in any other election district than that in which he is registered, as now provided by law, except when authorized by the court as hereinafter provided.

52. No person shall vote at any general election in any election district other than the one in which he is registered, unless he shall appear before either the justice of the Supreme Court holding the circuit court in said county, or one of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas of said count, or one of the judges assigned to hold the circuit court of said county, at the courthouse, or prior to the day of the general election, and shall make proof to the satisfaction of said justice or judge that he has moved from the election district in which he has registered since the day on which he did register, and that he has moved into another district in said county, and shall obtain from said justice or judge an order sealed with the seal of the county clerk, directing the board of registry and election to place the name of the said voter upon the registry of said election district; said order shall be shown to the board of registry and said board shall thereupon erase his name from said register and issue a transfer as now provided by law, which transfer and the order of the court shall be filed by the voter with the board of registry and election in the election district where said voter desires to vote, and said board shall obey said order.

MORE CANDIDATES

Booms For Wood and Otto Launched For G. O. P. Assembly Nominations.

BOTH ARE ELIZABETHIANS

W. F. Grove and G. L. Babcock Already in the Field and Are Excellent Men for the Nominations.

It became evident this morning that the rain of the past few days has not had a dampening effect on the material with which political booms are manufatcured, inasmuch as two were launched favoring George C. Otto and William J. Wood, respectively, both of Elizabeth, as candidates for nomination on the Republican ticket for members of the Assembly.

Mr. Otto nas been mentioned at different times during the past month as a candidate but it was not until Saturday night that his candidacy was formally announced by himself. He is one of the best known residents of the downtown district of Elizabeth and has been prominent in Republican politics there for a number of years and has been mentioned at different times as a candidate for the Assembly, Mayorality and councilmanic honors.

Mr. Wood is no less prominent and his friends are painting out that he is the only candidate thus for mentioned who is familiar with legislative routine and inside workings of the Legislature. He has been a familiar figure in Trenton during the last four or five years where he has been active in legislation effecting railroads and reform measures. It is also said that Mr. Wood contemplates a State wide campaign for the purpose of securing legislation which will increase the State revenues and which will embody propositions somewhat novel in this State.

The candidates already in the field are William F. Groves, of Elizabeth, and George L. Babcock, of this city, each an ideal man for the places.

CORNESTONE LAID FOR NEW MT. OLIVE

With appropriate ceremonies the cornerstone of the proposed Mt. Olive Baptist church was laid yesterday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. M. W. Vaughn. Those assisting were Rev. P. W. Ross, pastor of Bethel chapel, Westfield, who conducted the morning service; Rev. Dr. G. E. Morris, of Calvary Baptist church, Morristown; and Rev. G. W. Bailey, pastor of Calvary Baptist church of this city. The cornerstone laying followed a sermon and exercises conducted by Rev. Dr. Morris, who is also the president of the Afro-American Baptist State convention.

Mt. Olive church was organized in 1870 and the present edifice was built one year later which makes it forty years old. The development and growth in membership made it imperative that larger quarters be secured and the new church is the result. For a long time the Mt. Olive Baptist church was under the patronage of the First Baptist church, with the late M. C. Dobbins as its superintendent. Some years ago it became independent and self sustaining and as such is still.

CLAM BAKE PLANS OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

The Clam Bake committee of the Knights of Columbus held a meeting Seturday and named Arthur Cannon as the chairman of the sub-committee having in charge the arrangements for the athletic events. He has been instructed to get full entry lists and a suitable prize for each event. The tickets are going at a gratifying rate, but the necessity of knowing how many to provide for was emphasized and those selling tickets were requested to make early returns. The bake will be held at Kenney's park, in the rear of Mt. St. Mary's college, on Labor Day afternoon.

Asleep in the Rain.

John Hansen, colored, of Warrenville, was arrested yesterday on complaint of several residents of South avenue, who became alarmed at the man's action. He was under the influence of liquor. When located by Patrolman Nolan, Hansen was lying in a field along the railroad tracks and was drenched to the skin. When the policeman found him he was peacefully sleeping regardless of the downpour of rain beating on his unsheltered bed. Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning suspended sentence.

George Webster, of West Second street, has returned from Atlantic City.

CITY NAT. CHANGES

Extensive Interior Improvements at the Banking Institution are Completed.

THE APPOINTMENTS SUPERB.

The Enlargement Scheme Made Many Innovations Possible—General Design and Color Scheme Pleasing to the Eye.

The enlargement and the interior improvements at the City National Bank are now complete and the institution's arrangements and facilities are unsurpassed by any other banking house in this section of New Jersey at least. Special pains were taken to make the interior as artistically attractive as possible and those in charge of this feature of the work have been amply repaid for their efforts. There is nothing gaudy nor cheap about the decorative scheme, but there is a rich simplicity throughout and the color scheme harmonizes admirably with the mahogany partitions and trimmings.

By the addition of that section of the building formerly occupied as a jewelry store on the first floor and by offices on the second much needed room has been obtained. The front part on the ground floor excellently located for the purpose because of the light and the close proximity to the tellers and staff generally, is arranged for clerical work. The rear is fitted up with five or six private compartments where a client may seclude himself to examine his securities or to give his close attention to any other financial business. Entrance is gained through a broad lobby leading from the front of the banking house. Along this lobby are to be found a private room for women clients and a large meeting room for men who have big legal or financial transactions to take place privately.

A handsome winding stairway takes one from the clients' department to the second floor where is located a superbly appointed room facing Park avenue, for the board of directors. The interior design of the directors' quarters is most charming and is not to be surpassed for the purpose for which it is set aside. On the same floor, across the hallway is a retiring room for the directors and other bank officials. Next to it is something little known in this section and yet most useful and economical in the banking business. It is a kitchen replete in every detail. As a general rule, particularly on Saturdays when the rush work is at high tide, it is a serious handicap to have the clerks take time to go elsewhere for their luncheons. Under new conditions, they may be provided right in the bank building in short order.

Other improvements and enlargements have been made in the basement, where the huge and strong safe deposit vaults are located. Separating the banking building on both floors as well as the basement are steel plates and other protective devices, which make the structure absolutely burglar and fireproof. The tile floors throughout, the beautifully designed ceiling work and the rich stone columns are three of the most striking features of the many improvement. It will well repay any citizen to make an inspection of the banking institution since the alterations have been completed.

WOODHULL'S PETITION FOR A RENOMINATION

A petition is being circulated for Floyd T. Woodhull for the Republican primary nomination for member of the Board of Education. Mr. Woodhull, who for years has shown a deep and active interest in the city's welfare particularly in the educational field, is now finishing his second term as a school director. He is the only member to retire this fall and his colleagues, who know of his valuable service, and the public generally are anxious for him to continue on the board.

Floyd T. Woodhull,

It was Mr. Woodhull's desire to retire but heeding the earnest and persistent pleadings of his colleagues, he has consented to be a candidate for renomination and re-election. There appears to be no opposition and the chances are 100 to 1 that he will be returned. Those wishing to sign the petition may do so tonight or tomorrow by ringing up telephone No. 125 or 852.

HIS NEIGHBORS HEAR REV. DR. C. A. EATON

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison avenue Baptist church, New York, preached to the people of North Plainfield township, where he resides, as is his annual custom, yesterday morning in Wilson Memorial chapel. Despite the inclement weather the edifice was filled by folk from the countryside, many of whom came a considerable distance. The Watchung Chemical Fire Engine Company attended in a body, meeting at the fire department headquarters.

Aside from the sermon there were no special features in connection with the annual service. The voices of the firemen swelled the volume of music and made the singing of the hymns soul stirring indeed. The sermon was of the kind for which Rev. Dr. Eaton is noted and peculiarly appealed to his hearers as he intended it should. He had based it on his knowledge of and acquaintance with his neighbors.

The theme of his discourse was a comparison of the man who seeks his strength through his own resources for the accomplishment of his desires and of the man who trusts in a Divine Providence for guidance. After making this comparison in a lucid and convincing way he urged his hearers to prepare themselves for the promised blessing by right and proper living and conduct towards their neighbors.

Violated Ordinance.

Morris Albertson of New street, was arrested this morning by Patrolman Dobson for riding a bicycle on the sidewalks of East Seventh street. He told the policeman that the road was too muddy. Judge William G. DeMeza suspended sentence with a warning as Albertson said that he is a stranger here and did not know that it was against the law to ride a bicycle on the sidewalk when the roads are muddy.

Free Outing Labor Day.

On Labor Day the Salvation Army will give its annual free outing to the poor at Wayside Park. Everything will be provided free and no labor will be spared to make the day one of real benefit and enjoyment to as large a number as possible. Tickets may be procured at the Army hall, East Second street, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Italian Weddings.

Two weddings were celebrated in this city yesterday afternoon. They both took place at St. Mary's church with Rev. Vincent Sciolla officiating. The first was the union of John Pomasino and Carmina Lombardi at 1 o'clock. Angelio Benedetto and Maria LaCosta were married at 5 o'clock.

J. L. Watson and family, of Washington avenue, have gone to the Catskills, N. Y., for their summer vacation.

DIES IN 91ST YEAR

Mrs. Martha Jobs Drake Passes Away Suddenly in North Plainfield.

SHE LIVED HERE 64 YEARS.

Celebrated Her Ninetieth Birthday Ten Days Ago—Two Sons Survive Her—No Funeral Arrangements.

Although apparently enjoying good health for one of her years, Mrs. Martha Jobs Drake, of Duer stret, died suddenly at 12:30 this afternoon five minutes after her granddaughter, Miss Carrie Drake, had been talking with her and giving her medicine which had been prescribed for an attack of indigestion. Mrs. Drake, who is one of the best known women in the borough, celebrated her ninetieth birthday on Friday, August 18, and at that time was in good health and walked downstairs to participate in the family party which had been arranged for the occasion. Her physician called to see her this morning at 9:30 and found her in no alarming condition. It is believed that her constitution simply gave out, the heart being affected suddenly.

Mrs. Drake was the second oldest member of the First Baptist church, having joined it sixty-seven years ago when she was baptized by Rev. Dr. Simeon J. Drake. She had been actively engaged in the affairs of the church ever since. She had been a regular attendant at the services until a few months ago when her health began to fail and she was obliged to remain at home. Only for the past week had she been confined to her room and she was sitting in an armchair by the window when the end came.

The dead woman was born at Liberty Corner August 18, 1821, and was a members of the Jobs' family, none of whom is living now. She spent the early part of her life on the farm at Liberty Corner and resided for a short while at New Market. Sixty-four years ago, she married Platt Drake, of this city, and came here to live. At that time her husband was the only man engaged in the confectionery business in Plainfield and when he died in 1861, Mrs. Drake carried on the establishment for several years and then sold it out. She and her children resided on West Front street for many years, living in a house belonging to them, where Abrams' shoe store is now located. Some time ago they removed to Duer street, where Mrs. Drake has been living with her son, Thompson B. Drake, ever since.

Although a nonogenarian, Mrs. Drake's faculties were most wonderfully preserved and at her ninetieth birthday she could read the daily newspapers without the aid of eyeglasses. She possessed an exceptionally good memory and her stories about Plainfield in the olden days were eagerly listened to by many of her friends.

Surviving Mrs. Drake are two sons, Thompson B. and P. Newton Drake, of Duer street, and five grandchildren, Andrew B. Drake, of South Plainfield, Miss Alice Drake, of Duer street, Miss Carrie V. Drake, of Duer street, Mrs. Thomas Davis, of Nebraska, and Harry B. Drake, of Perona, Col. Halstead Compton, of Compton avenue, Mrs. Kathryn Manning, of Dunellen avenue, and Mrs. Sarah Manning, of Grant avenue, are cousins of the dead woman.

No announcement has been made as yet as to the arrangements for the funeral.

A Yeomen's Homestead.

M. D. Ayers, of this city, has been appointed State manager for New Jersey and will institute the first "homestead" of Yoemen in this city on September 12, with a charter membership of fifty. The Brotherhood of American Yeomen was instituted in DesMoines, Iowa, in 1894. On July 11, 1911, the society had a reserve fund of $1,779,800 and a membership of 151,253.

Plumbers' Clambake.

The Plumbers' Uuion held an outing and clambake at Scotch Plains Saturday. About 150 members and friends were present and enjoyed the outdor sports until the old fashioned clam bake was opened. The sports consisted of foot races, a game of baseball, quoit pitching and jumping contests. The committee in charge was headed by Louis Reiring and Joseph Tobin.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Rogers, of Myrtle avenue, are stopping at Clear Lake in the Catskills, where they are spending their vacation.

Miss Louisa McCormick, of Essex street, leaves tomorrow on a two weeks' trip through the New England states. On her return she will visit Nantucket, Mass., where she was born.

NOTICE — During August and September this store will open at 8:30 a. m. and close at 5:30 p. m., Saturdays excepted, to shorten the hours of our employes.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Margaret T. Richards, complainant, and Alice C. Walsh and William S. Walsh, her husband, defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office in the Courthouse, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all those certain tracts or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, County of Union, and State of New Jersey:

WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-THIRD DAY OF AUGUST, A. D., 1911,

First lot. All those five certain lots of land situate on Ravine avenue, and being the south half the piece or plot of land conveyed to William Spence and Sarah P. Cudlipp by the Belvidere Land and Improvement Company, by deed dated October 6, 1887, and recorded in the office of the Clerk of Union County on the eleventh day of April, 1890, at 11:50 o'clock A. M., in Book 217 of Deeds, page 392, etc.

Second lot. Beginning at a point in the centre of Denmark road, as the same is now laid out and opened, said point being distant in a general southeasterly direction one hundred seventy-five (175) feet from the point where the centre line of Ravine road intersects with the centre line of Denmark road aforesaid, said beginning point being also the southwesterly corner of lot number twenty-seven (27), as shown on a certain map entitled "Map of the A. D. Thompson Addition to Netherwoood Park, City of Plainfield, Nov., 1906, F. O. Dunham, C. E., 109 Park Avenue, Plainfield," which map has been placed on file in the office of the Register of Union County; running thence in a southwesterly direction and along the line of property now or formerly owned by one Sarah Cudlipp a distance of two hundred twenty-six and twenty-nine one-hundredths feet (226.29) to a point and corner of said Cudlipp's lands; thence running in a southeasterly direction a distance of seventy-nine and two one-hundredths (79.02) feet to a point; thence in a northeasterly direction a distance of eighty (80) feet to a point being the southwesterly corner of lot number thirty-five (35) on the aforesaid map; thence in a northerly direction and along the westerly side line of said lot number thirty-five (35) a distance of one hundred sixty-six and thirteen one-hundredths (166.13) feet to the centre of Denmark road aforesaid; thence in a westerly direction and along the centre of said Denmark road, and following the curves of the same a distance of sixty-two and eighteen one-hundredths (62.18) feet to the point and place of beginning. Being known and designated as lot number thirty-six (36) on the aforesaid map.

Said first lot being the same premises conveyed to said Alice C. Walsh by deed of Sarah P. Cudlipp, widow, dated January 22, 1910, and recorded in the office of the Register of Union County in Book 553 of Deeds, pages 17 etc.

Said second lot being same premises conveyed to said Alice C. Walsh by deed of the Plainfield Land and Building Co., a corporation, dated November 14, 1906, and recorded in said office in Book 476 of Deeds, page 470 etc., and subject to the same restrictions as to the use of said premises for business purposes, and as to the erection of house thereon, as contained in said deed.

THEY WANT WRIGHT NAMED AS SHERIFF

Enthusiastic endorsement of various Republican candidates was given last week at the meeting of the Republican County and the Rahway City Committee held in the Republican Club headquarters, Woodruff building, Rahway. The candidacy of William H. Wright for sheriff was most strongly favored, also that of Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield, for Senator. Mayor William Howard was again the unanimous choice of the committee for the city's chief executive. Petitions favoring the present Republican Freeholders, William H. Randolph and Adolph Gruener, were circulated and freely signed by prominent Republicans present.

The meeting was presided over by Chairman Peter Tillman, while Oscar B. Garthwaite acted as secretary. The members of the county committee present were: First ward, Adolph Gruener; Second ward, Silas K. Tombs; Third ward, William H. Randolph; Fourth ward George Laing; Fifth ward, William H. Wright. All the members of the city committee were in attendance besides a liberal number of the club members. Another meeting of the county and city committees will be held this month.

THEIR FIRST RETREAT WILL BE OPENED SEPT. 8.

The Laymen's League for Retreats and Social Studies announces the opening of its new house of retreats, Mount Manresa, at Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, on Friday, Setpember 8, when the organizers of the movement and the officers of the Laymen's League will begin the first retreat for men ever made in the United States in a house exclusively devoted to that purpose.

The Very Rev. Joseph Hanselman, Provincial of the Society of Jesus, will be present at the opening exercises, which will be conducted by the league's spiritual director, the Rev. T. J. Shealey, S. J. The house will accommodate forty men at a time, but applications for retreats in September and October are coming in in large numbers.

Mount Manresa, formerly known as Fox Hill Villa, has been refurnished from top to bottom, a beautiful little chapel has been built in, and the magnificent park-like grounds—twenty acres in extent—have been cleared, so that the extraordinary beauty of the place is apparent, and it is possible to see where the several hundred thousand dollars went which were spent there by the original owner.

The Archbishop of New York is the honorary president of the Laymen's League, and the bishops of Brooklyn, Trenton and Newark are honorary vice presidents.

Miss Colton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Colton, of East Sixth street, is registered at Summit Hill House, Sugar Hill, N. H.

WE ARE REMODELING OUR SECOND FLOOR AND WILL FIT IT UP AS ONE OF THE FINEST READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENTS IN JERSEY. WE WANT TO OPEN IT WITH A BRAND NEW STOCK. HENCE EVERY GARMENT IN OUR PRESENT STOCK TO BE DISPOSED OF REGARDLESS OF LOSS!

Carpenters are at present busy making extensive alterations on our second floor, which heretofore has been used for reserve stock. We are going to make it one of the finest ready-to-wear departments in New Jersey. The entire second floor will be devoted to this line. We ordered from the Grand Rapids Show Case Co. their finest Wall Cabinets of the newest style, for the handling of Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts and Furs. These will be here shortly. In the meantime the rest of the floor is being fitted up for Waists, House Dresses, Petticoats, Kimonas, etc. Every modern convenience for shoppers will be installed. There will be large comfortable arm chairs and tables with the latest magazines. In short this new ready-to-wear department will be far and away ahead of anything of its kind in town.

Now, we want to open this department with an entirely brand new stock; every garment fresh and in latest style. To dispose of our present stock is an undertaking requiring the most powerful and drastic measures at our command. Extraordinarily low prices will do it; we have marked every Suit, Coat, Dress, Skirt, etc., now in stock at such absurdly low prices that there should be no trouble aa all in disposing of our stock.

The death roll of the Canonsburg Opera House stampede was reported at twenty-six, all of whom died from suffocation; twenty-five were seriously injured; a break in the moving pitcture film, causing a bright light on the canvas, was given as the cause of alarm of fire by a small boy, which started the stampede.

KILLED IN HEAPS AT MOVING PICTURE SHOW

Cannonburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—Twenty-six persons were killed and over sixty injured Saturday night when a moving picture film exploded in the Canonbury Opera House.

Immediately folowing the flash of the film some persons shouted "fire." There was a rush for the exit and in a moment there was a writhing, screaming mass of humanity, ten feet high, in the narrow stairway leading to the entrance of the theatre.

Most of the dead were smothered at the bottom of the human heap.

A majority of the audience was composed of women and children. In the fierce rush for the exit, they were thrown from their feet and trampled.

Within a few minutes after the film flashed and the panic started, the fire whistles were blown. Practically the entire population of the town responded and packed into Pike street, on which is the fatal theatre entrance.

The people were apparently terror-stricken and could give little aid. The only cool persons were the firemen and the several members of the police force who appeared.

When two volunteer fire departments reached the theatre the sight staggered them.

Those of the audienc who had escaped from the building, and other spectators drawn to the scene, were rushing about the front of the building, but no person, it seemed, was making any effort to aid the struggling mass within the theatre.

The firemen pushed into the building and practically threw persons into the street. As these regained their feet they ran shrieking in terror about the streets.

When the firemen neared the bottom of the pile, they began to bring out the unconscious forms of the injured. Later came the dead.

The dead were laid tenderly in a row along the sidewalk and relatives of persons who had gone to the show fought and struggled to break past the guards to identify the victims.

REPUTATION

Reputation, according to Webster, is "the estimation in which a person or thing is held by others."

A good reputation is a PURCHASABLE quantity and the price is not high, either. A good reputation may be bought at the cost of SQUARE DEALING and decent living. A good reputation is within the reach of any man, and once acquired, it is a priceless thing.

The Bamberger store has won a reputation for square dealing and liberality which few stores anywhere enjoy. We started out to BUY this reputation the day we opened our doors eighteen years ago, and now that we have taken full title to it we shall guard it closely so that, no matter what may come, it will never be taken away from us.

This reputation is not a local affair—bounded by the four walls of Newark—it is far-reaching—national, in fact.

The Bamberger store is a SQUARE store.

ONE DAY'S HEARINGS IN BOROUGH'S COURT

In the borough police court this morning, Recorder C. M. Dolliver administered sentences as follows on the Saturday night offenders: Lemuel Bolton, of West Front street, locked up by Marshal Saule, for being unable to make his way home, received a suspended sentence. Fred Ammon, of Duer street, arrested by Marshal Pope for disorderly conduct, was fined $2.00. Lewis Bimble, of Jefferson avenue, arrested by Marshall Herman, for being drunk and disorderly, fined $2.00.

Garfield Nelson, colored, and his brother-in-law, William Hooper, both of Warren street, arrested for fighting, will be arraigned for a hearing before Mayor N. B. Smalley this evening.

Albert Potts, of Somerset street, and Chris Huff, of Lincoln place, rival painters, became involved in a wordy war that developed into a knock-down affair Saturday night and as a result of it Huff made a charge of assault against Potts. They will tell their stories before Justice Snape this evening.

REV. GEO. BOSTERLE IS HEARD AT TRINITY

Rev. George Bolsterle, a former resident of this city and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Bolsterle, of Watchung avenue, preached in the pulpit of the Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning. Considering the inclemency of the weather, a large congregation was in attendance to hear the former Trinity Sunday-school pupil deliver his second sermon in that church.

Mr. Bolsterle spoke on the wages of sin and its consequences, taking for his subject the first verse of the thirty-second Psalm, "Blessed is he whose transgressions are forgiven." The sermon was much enjoyed by those who heard it and a happy future as a preacher was predicted for Mr. Bolsterle by Trinity members. The local man is now the pastor of a small Reformed congregation near Troy, N. Y.

Meeting of Soccer League.

A special meeting of the Inter-city Soccer League was held Saturday night at Murray's hall in Newark, to arrange for this season's schedule. The local club was represented by J. D. Brown and R. Baillie. A schedule of games was presented, but owing to a few necessary changes in it, the matter was postponed until the next meeting, which will take place at Murray's Hall Saturday, September 2.

S. P. C. A. Case at Watchung.

Gerard Underhill, of Watchung, will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward Feickert at Texier's Mills tomorrow night on complaint of the State S. P. C. A. for alleged cruelty treatment to a horse, which he left out in the storm for forty-eight hours and then shot. As Justice George T. Hughes, of Watchung, is the principal witness for the prosecution, he called Justice Feickert to try the case. The matter was turned over to State Agent Lewis C. Peed through Mrs. Stephen VanHoesen, the local agent, and the case was brought up yesterday, but postponed until tomorrow night.

Golr Scores.

JACKSON A.C. DEFEATS JOHNSON A.C. 14-10

The Jackson A. C. took a game from the Johnson A. C. team Saturday afternoon by the score of 14-10. By a hard batting rally in the seventh and inth innings, the Jacksons were able to score eight runs and overcome a lead of four runs. Hoffmeister did the twirling for the Jackson nine and struck out ten batsmen, allowing only two free passes. Caufield was on the mound for the losing team and pitched a steady game. He struck out nine and passed four.

Lineups and score by innings:

Jackson A. C.—Hoffmeister, p; Hansen, c; J. Egan, 1b; H. Eagan, rf; R. Chatel, 3b; H. Chatel, 2b; Lefty, ss; J. Hoffmeister, lf; Long, cf.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

"The Confession Co.," will be the offering at the Plainfield Theatre matinee and night on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 4. The piece possesses several strong dramatic situations and at the same time affords countless opportunities for excellent acting. "The Confession" is the work of James Halleck Reid, one of our most noted playwriters and in selecting the cast, perfect types for the characters were selected.

A Scene From "The Confession," at Plainfield Theatre, Labor Day, Matinee and Night.

There isn't a care or worry in the whole sum of human ills that won't be put to rout by "Seven Days," the comedy by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood that will be at the Plainfield theatre, Tuesday, September 5, with a cast the Wagenhals & Kemper Company is sending here straight from the Astor Theatre in New York, where the play is now in its second year. Everybody's magazine described "Seven Days" as a "concentrated compound of pure, honest, joyous fun."

PHILIP MAGUIRE DIES AT AN ADVANCED AGE.

After an illness of several months, Philip Maguire died this morning at the home o fhis son, Patrick Maguire, of Central avenue, with whom he had been making his home for some time. Death was caused by a complication and his weakened condition due to old age. The funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 8:30 at his late home and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church, where a requiem mass will be celebrated. Burial will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Maguire was a native of Ireland, but had been a resident in this vicinity for many years. He lived at South Plainfield and was one of the prominent prosperous farmers of that village until a few years ago, when he gave up active work and came to live with his son in this city. His wife died about thirty years ago. Surviving are three children, Miss Sarah Maguire, of this city; John Maguire, of South Plainfield, and Patrick Maguire, of Central avenue.

A Big Rainfall.

Since Sunday a week ago, the rainfall has been 2:27 inches. John Nagle, the "weather prophet" reports that last week 1:54 inches fell and that yesterday the rainfall was .73. There were more showers during today.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM AT THE PARK AVE. S. S.

The session at the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school yesterday was a fitting climax to those arranged for August by Superintendent George E. Hall. In spite of the rain, there was a large attendance and an enthusiastic interest manifested in the program, which opened with an exercise consisting of responsive readings and singing, after which Mrs. F. W. Miller, of Somerville, gave a practical talk on the subject of "Self Control." She is superintendent of the temperance department of the New Jersey Sunday-schol association.

The musical portion of the program included two solos rendered by H. R. Moyer, "Gently Lord, O Gently Lead Us" and "O, Jesus, Thou Art Standing." He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Willis. A selection from "Aida" was rendered as a cornet duet by E. D. Young and Whitney Frazee. Miss Arline Brown presided at the piano throughout the session. The color scheme on this ocasion was a combination of all the colors for the month, yellow, white, red and gren, and the Sunday-school room has never before presented so attractive an appearance. The decorations included quantities of bunting and a magnificent display of flowers and foliage in the four colors, which gave the impression of an immense flower garden with the effect made more beautiful under the full glare of the electric lights. The artistic arrangement of the flowers was the work of Mrs. Ada Cuming and Mrs. E. Frank Vail.

The tickets that had been distributed each week for punctual attendance were redeemed, and a reward in the shape of a book was given to every officer, teacher and pupil holding two or more of the tickets. Each book was accompanied by a card reading:

"Park Avenue Baptist Bible School, Plainfield, N. J., the superintendent wishes to congratuate you upon your punctuality during August, 1911. G. E. Hall."

These sessions have been prepared in all their details by Mr. Hall with a view to keeping up the attendance, and rendering the hour interesting and attractive in midsummer; and the time, thought, labor and money, which he has put into this work have resulted most happily in the largest attendance the School has ever known during the summer months. A number of new pupils have been added to the rolls, and a gratifying interest manifested by the entire school. The plan has met with perfect success, and this fact was spoken of in yesterday's session by Mrs. W. S. Lowry, who expressed her appreciation of the untiring efforts of Mr. Hall in making the summer session so happy. At her suggestion, the entire school arose as an expression of their "Thank you" to which the superintendent responded in his usual pleasing way.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MISS NELLIE V. LAWLER.

Funeral services for Miss Nellie V. Lawler, whose death from ptomaine poisoning occurred Saturday, were held this morning at her late home on John street and St. Mary's church, where a requiem mass was celebrated by Father Vincent Sciblla. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

The church service was largely attended by relatives and friends of the popular young woman whose sudden death came as a severe shock. A number of handsome floral tributes manifested the esteem in which she was held. The bearers were John B. Mottley, Edward McAvoy, Alfred Noel, George Hurst and Dennis O'Keefe.

REV. C. E. OSWALD AT HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Rev. C. E. Oswald, rector of St. John's church, Yonkers, officiated at the morning service yesterday at the Holy Cross church and impressed his hearers with his discourse on church doctrine.

In the course of his sermon the clergyman vividly compared the methods of old days with those of the present and asked the reason for the numbers of vacant pews in churches nowadays as compared with the numbers which tradition tells were unoccupied in days of yore.

Royals Want a Game.

The Royal Giants, of this city, a strong colored organization, have an open date for Saturday, September 2, and wish to arrange a game with some fast nine to be played on the Royals' grounds. On account of the inclement weather the Royals did not play their scheduled inter-city colored league at New Brunswick yesterday.

LOCAL SOCCER TEAM WINS OPENING GAME

The Plainfield Association Football club started its season auspiciously Saturday afternoon by winning from the strong Elizabeth United eleven on the local grounds at the corner of Clinton avenue and South Second street. When the final time was called the score stood 3-0. Despite the humid weather conditions, both teams showed speed and quick work. The local eleven played together well and it was through combinations and relays that the three goals were kicked.

From the playing Saturday afternoon it looks as if this city would have a strong team in the inter-city league this season, which starts in two weeks. Several of last year's players are back in the game, among them being Spalding, who starred in the team work last year. He kicked the first goal Saturday.

Neither team was able to score in the first half of Saturday's game and the contest was wildly exciting for the first period of play. Menzies kicked off for the locals and a speell of mid-field play followed in which the half backs on both sides worked hard. Roxburgh had a try for goal but his shot went wild. The Plainfield eleven were having the most of the play and Menzie missed a good chance to score when he sent the ball wide with only Crombie to beat.

The visiting team then broke away and forced a corner which was not improved. From a throw in Kenney shot a neat one but Crombie made a spectacular stope. The locale again closed in and from a speedy cross by Sutton, Spalding came near scoring.

In the second period of play, Plainfield forced a corner which resulted in nothing but a peedy piece of team work from this position enabled Spalding to kick the first goal five minutes after pla yhad been resumed. The Uniteds then had a look-in, but they missed an excellent chance to score when Watts went off-side just as the ball was about to be sent home.

From the kick off, the Elizabeth forwards took the ball, but could not pierce the Plainfield defence and the locals then ran the leathered ball up the field and Henigan scored the second goal. A clever piece of combination by the Plainfield forwards ended in Henigan again shooting the ball across in a play which gave Crombie no chance whatsoever.

HOPE CHAPEL PASTOR AT FRESH AIR HOME.

Rev. Frederic L. Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, gave an illustrated talk to the children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon. Elmer Wheeler, of the First Baptist church choir, was the soloist. The closing service of the camp will be held next Sunday and will be conducted by Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church; Rev. Dr. John R. Henry, of New York, and Rev. Samuel Guy-Snowden, of Elizabeth. Miss June Bilby, of the First M. E. church choir, will be the soloist.

The Sound of It.

The ladies' aid ladies were talking about a conversation they had overheard before the meeting between a man and his wife.

"They must have been to the zoo," said Mrs. A., "because I heard her mention 'a trained deer.'"

"Goodness me!" laughed Mrs. B. "What queer hearing you must have! They were talking about going away, and she said, 'Find out about the train, dear.'"

"Well, did anybody ever?" exclaimed Mrs. C. "I am sure they were talking about musicians, for she said 'a trained ear' as distinctly as could be."

The discussion began to warm up, and in the midst of it the lady herself appeared. They carried their case to her promptly and asked for a settlement.

"Well, well, you do beat all!" she exclaimed, after hearing each one. "I'd been out to the country overnight and was asking my husband if it rained here last night."

After which the three disputants retired, abashed and in silence.—W. J. Lampton in Lippincott's.

A Road Made in a Day.

Lothian road, a prominent street in Edinburgh, was made in a single day. Sir James Clerk of Penicuik bet with a friend that he would between sunrise and sunset prepare the line of road, extending nearly a mile in length by twenty paces in breadth. It happened to be in the winter season, when many men were unemployed. He had no difficulty in collecting several hundreds of these on the ground at the appointed time, when he gave them all a plentiful breakfast of porter, whisky and bread and cheese, after which, just as the sun rose, he ordered them to set to work, some to tear down inclosures, others to unroof and demolish cottages and a considerable portion to bring earth to fill up a great hollow to the required height. The inhabitants, dismayed at so vast a force and so summary a mode of procedure, made no resistance. So active were the workmen that before sunset the road was sufficiently formed to allow Sir James to drive his carriage over it.

Easy to Make a Gun.

The ameer of Afghanistan once started a gun factory of which he was very proud and placed it under the supervision of a smart Yankee who could keep his business to himself. Ameer Khan, one of the ameer's chiefs, came in to see the factory one day. The Yankee showed him around, and at the end of the inspection Ameer Khan said:

"This looks very simple. Now tell me just how to make a gun, and I will set up a factory in my own province on my return home."

"It looks simple," said the Yankee, "and it is simple. To build a gun you make a hole first; then you wrap some iron around it, and there you are."

Ameer Khan shook his head. "Ah," he said, "there is plenty of air for the hole in my province, but how the iron should be wrapped around it is a thing none of my people know."

Bruce at Bannockburn.

Robert Bruce was the descendant of a Norman. He was half an Englishman and half a Scotchman, and by his mother's side he was a claimant to the Scottish crown. After many daring adventures and rude perils, borne up throughout by strong persevering conscience and an ardent love of liberty, Bruce was able to get together a patriotic army to meet the English at Bannockburn in 1314. Before the battle began the Scottish army knelt down in prayer. Edward II. was looking on. He turned to his favorite knight and said: "Argentine, the rebels yield. They beg for mercy." "They do, my liege," the reply was, "but not from you."

The battle ended not only in a victory, but in a rout.—Samuel Smiles' "Duty."

Poetry.

It is a shallow criticism that would define poetry as confined to literary productions in rhyme and meter. The written poem is only poetry talking, and the statue, the picture and the musical composition are poetry acting. Milton and Goethe at their desks were not more truly poets than Phidias with his chisel, Raphael at his easel or deaf Beethoven bending over his piano, inventing and producing strains which he himself could never hope to hear.—Ruskin.

Sins of the Fathers.

Fair Girl—I am sure papa would not object to you, but I am afraid mamma will. She says your family have depraved tastes. Rich Grocer's Son—Good gracious! Where did she get that idea? Fair Girl—I think she judges by the butter that your father used to recommend as good.

Hoist With His Own Petard.

"Why, Harkins, where have you been? You look like a wreck."

"I know it. My twin brother and I had a quarrel, and I hired a bruiser to lick him. The fellow mixed us up, and here I am."

His Present Love.

Wife—I came across some of your old love letters today. How you loved me, Harry! Husband—Yes. Is supper ready? I'm awfully hungry.

Etiquette.

Mrs. Blank—Is your husband going to Mrs. Jason's funeral? Mrs. Dash—Decidedly not! She never returned my last call.

Poverty wants some things, luxury many, avarice all things.—Cowley.

YIELDED TO EDMUNDS.

Cleveland's Political Foe Won After His Friends Had Failed.

Soon after Mr. Cleveland entered the White House in 1885 Vice President Hendricks died at his home in Indianapolis, and the president made arrangements to attend the funeral. Many of his social intimates and all his official advisers united in an effort to dissuade him from making this twenty hour journey, enlarging on the manifold risks of rail travel at all times and the special opportunity this would offer some fanatic to assassinate him. But he remained immovable until within a few hours of the time set for closing up his business he received an unexpected call from Senator Edmunds of Vermont.

Mr. Edmunds was the leader of the Republican side of the senate and was understood to have in preparation several measures of opposition to the announced policies of the new administration. But he was also and above all else an American citizen and a patriot, and his visit to his political foe was made in that character. In a conversation of less than half an hour, in which he drew the curtain over all differences and disregarded all empty formalities of intercourse, he laid before the president in the clear terms and logical order in which he knew so well how to express himself the larger aspects of the situation.

As the presidential succession law then stood the speaker of the house of representatives stood next in line to the vice president, and next to him came the president pro tempore of the senate. The house not having organized since the inauguration, no speaker had been elected, and, the senate having failed at its special session to choose a president pro tempore to serve during the recess, only one life—that of the president himself—stood between the nation and administrative anarchy; hence, argued Mr. Edmunds, it was Mr. Cleveland's duty to forego every other consideration and invite no chances of throwing upon the country they both loved a strain such as it had never been subjected to before.

The writer of these lines was seated in the next room while this visit was in progress, and he will never forget the president's expression of satisfaction on coming out of his office after the senator had gone. He gave orders at once that all preparations for his journey should be suspended and declared that nothing that had occurred since he entered the White House had so touched him as the kind solicitude shown by Mr. Edmunds about his exposing himself to any peril now. The others who had reasoned with him on the subject were men who were presumptively friendly and whose chief anxiety seemed to be lest he should suffer some injury to his individual person or fortunes. But here was a man who, as far as politics was concerned, was a hostile of hostiles, yet who appealed to him in behalf of the American people and their government.

"That settled it," Mr. Cleveland concluded as he turned to go back to his office. "After what Edmunds said there can be no further question of where my highest obligation lies."—F. E. L. in New York Post.

Soft Toned Bells of China.

The natives of China use large bells of their own make in many of their temples and monasteries. I have noticed all through Japan and China that the tone of the monastery and temple bells is very soft and smooth, due to the superior quality of the material used in their manufacture and to the absence of iron clappers, the result being a marvelous softness and mellowness of tone. The bells are never swung, being always suspended in a fixed frame, and the sound is produced by striking them on the outer edge with a wooden mallet. This makes the soft tones which are so delightfully melodious.—Consular Reports.

Dr. Holmes' Wit.

One of the best repartees ever credited to a habitual maker of happy phrases was that made by the beloved "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" on a certain social occasion.

Going to dine with a Boston neighbor, Dr. Holmes was met by her with an apology:

"I could not get another man. We are four women, and you will have to take us all in."

"Forewarned is fourarmed," he said with a bow.

Flies and Filth.

The fly is born in, lives and thrives upon filth. If no filth is allowed to accumulate in a house or its neighborhood it will not be troubled by flies, for they do not ordinarily stray far from their breeding places and their sources of food. In a thoroughly clean neighborhood they cannot live in the face of screens preventing their access to food and to the absence of manure heaps and other receptacles for filth in which to deposit their eggs.—Survey.

Helping Things Along.

"The family in the next flat has three phonographs and four boys with toy express wagons," said Mr. Growcher's wife. "What on earth shall we do?"

"Send for the piano tuner and ask him how much he'll take to work by the day."—Washington Star.

Good News.

"My dear, our landlord says he's going to raise our rent."

"Glad to hear he can do it. I can't."—Baltimore American.

Paint that Stays Painted

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Japan's Snapping Turtle Farm.

One of the oddest farms in the world turns out each year tens of thousands of snapping turtles and has solved the problem of preserving the supply of what is to the Japanese as great a delicacy as diamond back terrapin is to some Americans. This queer farm consists of a number of ponds. Certain of them are set apart as breeding ponds. Once a day a man goes over the shores and with little wire baskets covers up all new egg deposits. Sometimes thousands of these wire baskets are in sight at a time marking the places where the eggs lie and preventing turtles from scratching the earth from them. Hatching requires from forty to sixty days, according to the weather. The young as soon as they appear are put in separate small ponds and are fed with finely chopped fish. They eat this during September and October and late in October burrow in the mud for the winter, coming out in April or May. Most of them are sold in the market when they are from three to five years old, at which time they are most delicate.—Harper's.

A Resourceful Badger.

An English artist while painting a sea piece discovered a badger's lair and thought to play the animal a practical joke. Gathering together a bundle of grass and weeds, he placed it inside the mouth of the hole and, igniting it with a match, waited for the ignominious flight of the astonished householder. But Master Badger was a resourceful animal and not disposed to be made a butt of practical jokers. He came up from the depths of his hole as soon as the penetrating smoke told him that there was a fire on the premises and deliberately scratched earth on the burning grass with his strong claws until all danger was past. No human being could have grasped the situation more quickly or displayed greater skill in dealing with an unfamiliar event.

Building a Reputation.

Young physicians in the smaller towns have an idea that appearing very busy will help them greatly in starting a practice. The following is told by a now prominent Kentucky physician. He had a call the afternoon following the hanging out of his shingle and started through town in his buggy at terrific speed. A policeman stopped the enterprising physician.

"Doctor," he said, "it is against the city ordinance to drive at the speed you are going. You must accompany me to the judge and pay your fine."

"What is the fine?" inquired the doctor.

"Five dollars."

The doctor's hand flew to his pocket. "Here's $10. I have to come back just as fast as I am going."—Success Magazine.

Ambition.

The scroll of fame has variant attractions for different minds.

"Here lies one whose name was writ in water"—the despairing and dying John Keats desired that admission of defeat engraved for his epitaph.

"Write me as one who loved his fellow men," was Leigh Hunt's aspiration.

To be remembered as the author of the Declaration of Independence and of the first statue for religious freedom and as the founder of the University of Virginia, this was Thomas Jefferson's prayer to posterity.

Thus one may go the range. And thus the lines recur:

Ambition is our idol, on whose wings
Great minds are carried only to extreme,
To be sublimely great or to be nothing.

Generous Tramp.

"Please gimme a quarter," begged a panhandler on Washington street. "I won't hand yer no tale about bein' hungry, pard—honest, I wanter git a drink."

"But," we objected (for it was indeed us), "you don't need a quarter to buy a drink."

"Sir," answered the panhandler, "do youse t'ink I'm fallen so low as ter take a gent's money an' den not invite him ter drink wid me?"—Boston Traveler.

Salt Eaters.

Idiosyncrasy often takes the form of a special craving for instead of an objection to certain foods. Many people possess an extraordinary relish for common salt and will eat it by the teaspoonful when opportunity admits. This sometimes leads to obesity and dropsy, but it has also the peculiar effect of increasing the weight.

Highly Improper.

"What is the proper thing for a man to do when his wife asks him for money and he hasn't any?" queried young Newed.

"Oh, there isn't any proper thing to do under those circumstances," replied Oldwed. "Anything he does will be wrong."—Chicago News.

A Few Words.

"No; only a few words, but they were repeated—very often."

THE MAN HIGHER UP

CHAPTER II.

BOB ENTERS A NEW FIELD.

BUT Bob was not to conquer in the Empire of Steel. Squire Mehaffey—the squire had married Molly Flinn—was the pebble that deflected the course of Bob's destiny. One night this young dispenser of justice for the Fourth ward entered Maloney's saloon, white faced and excited.

"Whisky, Mike."

The proprietor placed a bottle before him. "What's up, Jim?"

The squire made no answer other than to seize the bottle with trembling hands and pour out a full glass of the liquor, which he tossed off at a gulp.

"Where's Bob?" he demanded abruptly.

"In there." Mike's thumb indicated the back room of the saloon. Thither Mehaffey strode. Before a table littered with beer and whisky bottles Bob was sitting, the one silent member of a noisy group.

"Where can I see you alone?" the squire interrupted without apology.

"You can see me right here. Boys"—At the unspoken suggestion the group, with frank, matter of fact obedience, gathered up their bottles and went into the barroom.

"Well?" Bob interrogated.

The squire dropped into a chair. "Haggin's turned me down," he announced despondently. "He says I can't run again. He's going to give my job to Harvey, just because he's his nephew. After the way I've slaved for him and done his dirty work in the ward for ten years!" he added bitterly.

"What of it?" Bob asked, with no sign of interest.

"What of it! I lose my only chance to make a livin'. Here I am, thirty-five years old. I've got no education. I don't know bookkeepin' nor anything else. I can't clerk. I ain't strong enough to hold down a job in the mills. I can take care of myself. But how I'm to make enough for three I don't see."

"Three?"

"Yes, there's goin' to be a baby soon, and I can't see"—

"Humph! You politicians have got no business to have kids. What are you going to do?"

"What can I do?" Mehaffey returned helplessly.

"You might fight him," Bob suggested.

"I can't," groaned the squire.

"But I can," Bob said.

By degrees the possible significance of Bob's words wormed its way into the squire's comprehension. His grief gave way to amazement, amazement to an incredulous joy.

"You don't mean it, Bob?"

"I always mean what I say, don't I?" Bob returned impatiently. "Shut up, Jim; I'm thinking."

For some moments Bob stared at the ceiling. Then he called out abruptly:

"Mike, come in here and bring the boys—and some more whisky."

Mike came in as bidden, bringing the liquor, "the boys" trooping obediently in behind.

"The drinks are on me, boys," Bob said by way of preliminary.

When every one had taken his quota he continued, "Boys, Haggin has turned Jim down."

"Well, I guess that lets Jim out," said Mike pityingly.

"I tell him," Bob continued, "that he ought to fight him."

Mike shook his head. "It can't be done, Bob."

"Yes, it can," Bob responded tartly. "And I'm going to do it."

An amazed silence fell upon the group. The silence was broken by Mike's delighted ejaculation.

"Be th' poker, it's a fine scrimmage we'll be havin'. If anny wan can lick Haggin ye're th' bye, Bob."

"That ye are," assented the others, awakened from their wonderment.

"All right. Be here tomorrow night and I'll tell you what to do. And bring the other boys along—as many as you can get. Come along, Jim." And, meekly followed by the squire, who had not yet recovered from his astonishment, Bob left the saloon.

Haggin had been a prizefighter and a successful one. History records how he fought a twenty round draw—bare fists—with Donnelly, the heavyweight champion of the world. At the zenith of his career he abandoned the ring and invested his last purse in an Irishtown saloon. And Irishtown counted it an honor to buy its drinks from the only man that had ever given Donnelly a hard fight. So that Haggin waxed prosperous and sported many diamonds. It was a natural result of his popularity and business that he should go into politics. He developed a certain crude genius for the game. He was good natured—when not opposed. He knew how to be generous, when to be generous was a good policy. And he learned to organize his henchmen. But beneath all were his fame and skill as a fighter. Consequently he became the undisputed autocrat of things political in the Fourth ward.

Now the average American, especially the Irish-American, loves fair play and has a sneaking admiration for the under dog. Bob already had a certain personal following, which nucleus he began systematically to augment.

"This young McAdoo of the Fourth is a corker," said the great MacPherson. "Of course, Haggin 'll beat him; the old grafter has too strong a grip on his ward to lose this time. But the youngster will bear watching in the future."

"Say, now, this is a fight!" Haggin exclaimed when reports began to come in to him.

But the fight came to a most unexpected ending.

The second night before the primaries Irishtown was in a frenzy of excitement. The saloons were crowded, the streets alive with eager, expectant men and boys. A reporter of one of the morning papers entered Maloney's saloon and accosted Bob.

"I hear," the reporter remarked with what was meant as an ingratiating smile, "that you intend visiting Haggin's saloon."

"An ass," Bob answered dryly, amid the guffaws of his followers, "havin' long ears, can hear a lot that ain't his business."

The reporter flushed angrily. "I told the same thing to Haggin," he said spitefully, "and he said if you entered his saloon he'd kick you out. 'Knock the stiff's block off' were his exact words, I believe."

The crowd stood aghast. It was a challenge.

"Is that so?" Leisurely Bob emptied his bottle of beer and then without a word left the saloon, followed at a respectful distance by friends, torn between delight and fear.

Haggin sat in the rear room of hi saloon trying to maintain a conversation with some of his lieutenants, a difficult matter because of the tumult in the outer room. Suddenly the clamor ceased; blank silence enveloped the saloon. Haggin sprang to his feet and rushed to the door. There he stopped short, petrified by amazement at the sight before him, for there by the bar in the midst of an awestruck, dazed crowd towered Bob McAdoo.

Bob calmly struck a match and lighted his cigar. "Line up, boys!" he commanded.

Slowly, mechanically, as under a compulsion they could not resist, the men moved to the bar.

"What'll you have? This is on Jim Mehaffey, boys."

Not a man dared to name his drink.

"Humph!" Bob sneered. "Whisky for mine. The best in the house, barkeep," he ordered sharply. The bartender moved fearfully to obey.

Then Haggin came to himself. With a low growl he sprang in front of Bob, who nonchalantly looked him over.

"Not a drink d'ye get in this house, Bob McAdoo," Haggin raged. "Not a drink, d'ye hear? An' git out o' this saloon, quick—see!"

Bob's only answer was to take the bottle from the bartender's uncertain hand, pour himself a liberal portion and swallow it at a gulp. Then he seized a glass of water and tossed its contents full into Haggin's face.

The crowd breathed painfully.

Haggin dashed the water from his eyes and shook his great fist before

THERE WAS A SHORT, FIERCE INTERCHANGE.

Bob's face. "D'ye know what that means, Bob McAdoo?" he roared. "It means you got to fight."

"All right," Bob responded cheerfully. "That's what I'm here for."

Then began Bob's last fist fight, a battle which still lives unparalleled in Irishtown annals.

Man for man in point of size, weight and courage the two were equally matched. On Haggin's side there was the advantage of superior science and the cool generalship of the trained boxer. But Bob was the born fighter, and his muscles were hard and elastic as the steel whose forging had developed them, whereas his antagonist had been years out of training. Amid a tense silence, broken only by the shuffling of their feet, they faced each other and began the combat. Coolly, warily, savagely they fought, two splendid brutes, beasts of prey thirsting for each other's blood.

Suddenly Haggin feinted, then brought his right crashing to Bob's temple. For an instant Bob was numbed and blinded with pain. Then all feeling of hurt left him. He saw as though a red film had been lowered before his eyes. His thin lips drew back cruelly, and he pressed forward to meet the onslaught of Haggin, who had thought to finish him with one more blow. There was a short, fierce interchange, then—no one knew just how it happened—it was all over. Haggin, the mighty, lay on the floor, helpless and groaning, his head rolling from side to side in the futile effort to raise himself.

"Bring some water," Bob ordered.

The bartender brought a bucketful, with which Bob carelessly deluged his prostrate antagonist. Then he turned to the bar.

"The boys 'll take another round of the same they ordered before," he said in dry sarcasm.

The spell was broken. The crowd of men who had in awed silence watched the combat, McAdoo followers and Haggin adherents alike, cheered the victor, each trying to shake his hand, a familiarity which he coldly denied them and for the refusal of which they strangely admired him the more. Haggin, staggering to his feet, looked on dumbly, uncomprehendingly.

"What—what's the matter?" he muttered thickly.

"Ye're licked, Tom Haggin! Bob McAdoo licked ye!" they yelled derisively.

"Ye didn't lick me. Ye never licked me, Bob McAdoo. My God!" His voice rose to a loud shriek, the agonized cry of a monarch who sees his kingdom forever departed from him.

"Yes, I did," Bob said sternly. "And if you want more of the same, come on."

But Haggin did not come on. He took one step toward Bob, then a new, unfamiliar sensation entered his heart—fear—fear of the big young man who stood before him.

"My God," he groaned hoarsely, "ye did lick me!" Then in a pitiful attempt to gather the tatters of his lost a hideous death. Perhaps her smile became more kindly than she intended, for he dropped her hand as though it had been a hot coal.

"And now," Mrs. Dunmeade said promptly, "peace having been established all around, let us go in to dinner." She took Bob's arm and led the way into the dining room.

At dinner Bob sat opposite Eleanor, to his considerable discomfort at first. Perhaps Mrs. Dunmeade saw this, for she guided the talk to subjects which allowed him to be the audience. And after awhile his discomfort was forgotten in his interest in the conversation and in his covert study of Eleanor, especially in his study of Eleanor. He watched her critically that he might learn, if possible, the secret of her influence over Paul. His study forced him to admit very grudgingly that any man might find it hard to resist her charm.

"Any man of Paul's temperament, that is," he corrected himself hastily. And he began to doubt the success of his mission to the capital in its ultimate purpose.

Finally Mrs. Dunmeade turned to Bob. "Tell us, how is your campaign progressing?"

"There is considerable opposition."

"If your friends' good wishes count for anything," she said kindly, "you will win. We're all anxious to see you elected."

"One good indication," Murchell added, "is the viciousness of the newspaper attacks. They overstep all bounds. That courthouse story, for instance—I personally know that you had nothing to do with it."

"No: I had nothing to do with it."

"Surely there must be some way to stop such stories," said Eleanor.

"What business is it of yours?" Bob wanted to say roughly. Instead he said grimly: "Yes. Bribe the owners."

"Who are the owners of the paper that published the courthouse story?" she asked, not seeing or not understanding the danger signals flashed across to her by Mrs. Dunmeade.

Bob was tempted. To tell her the truth, to shame and hurt her before her friends, would have been an incense of sweet savor to his hostility. But he caught Mrs. Dunmeade's pleading look.

"The opposition," he said carelessly. He was repaid by a grateful look from his hostess.

"How do you arouse a people, Mr. McAdoo?" Eleanor inquired quizzically.

"Denounce the other side," he said shortly.

"Then in politics one depends for success on the faults of the other side rather than on one's own virtues?"

"Precisely."

"No, no," the governor protested kindly. "Mr. McAdoo isn't just to himself. The truth is while he has been at the head of the Steel City organization"—

"Is that a polite name for boss?" Eleanor interrupted.

"I'm afraid it is," the governor returned pleasantly. "I was going to say that under Mr. McAdoo's leadership the district attorney's office in your county has been most efficiently and honestly conducted and the present city administration is the cleanest, most economical the city has ever known."

"Why are you so sure of being elected?" Eleanor asked.

"Because I play the better game."

Suddenly Murchell, who had taken little part in the conversation, leaned forward and leveled an accusing finger at Bob.

"That's not true," he said sternly. "It's false to the people of your city and to yourself. You're the shrewdest and boldest politician in this state. But your knowledge of the game alone would never make you mayor of your city, nor will it be due to the fact that you are a boss with an ironclad machine at your back. You're more than a boss. You have made yourself the leader of the people in their fight against the railroad-steel trust. Therefore you will win. Not the master politician or the boss of a machine will be elected, but Robert McAdoo, leader of the people. The responsibility will be yours, but it will not be your victory, but the victory of the cause you represent, the victory of the force."

"The force?" Bob and Eleanor exclaimed together.

Murchell's hand dropped to the table. His lean, haggard face showed a red spot in each cheek. "Yes, the great social force in whose grip we all are: the force that makes the man, the social unit, find his happiness, his welfare, in the happiness and welfare of his brethren, of society; the force that has given John Dunmeade strength to struggle, libeled and misunderstood, against those who defy this principle of the universe. The force that has placed in you—forgive my bluntness—the crassest egoist I have ever known, the spirit to defy and fight the same enemy of your brethren. The force that makes you and John Dunmeade, by grace of a common enemy, necessary to each other, and makes you both necessary to the people of this state. The force that will give you the victory."

The old politician stopped, his black eyes gleaming fiercely at Bob through the shaggy eyebrows. Of what was going on within him Bob's masklike expression gave no hint as he met Murchell's gaze impassively. He shifted his glance to the others and found that he, not Murchell, was the target for their eyes. Upon Dunmeade's gentle face was written the exaltation of the martyr who sees into the beyond and beholds his triumph; upon his wife's countenance, both triumph and understanding. Eleanor was looking at him with an expression Bob could not understand, though he knew that for once it was not hostile. He turned again to Murchell, an ugly glitter in his eyes.

"Do you add the force that led you, the first of the school of corporation politicians, to create the very conditions we are fighting?"

Murchell did not flinch. "No, I have been of those who abused power, and therefore I have been the greatest criminal of my day. I add the force that will lead you two to repair the damage I have done."

Bob's mouth twisted into his sardonic grin. "It's a hopeless theory, Mr. Murchell. You make us all blind automatons. You take away from me—the crassest egoist you have ever known—my individuality, my reason for existence, my self, and you give me in exchange a species of sublimated socialism."

"Yes," Murchell said quietly, "the socialism of Christ when he commanded 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.'"

"Your force is as inexorable as God!"

"The force is God," Murchell answered quietly.

"Yes," Mrs. Dunmeade said gently, "for God is love."

Bob turned to her, and the sneer faded from his mouth. "What does the force give us in exchange for our selfishness? What have I, reduced to an automaton, to make life and action worth while?"

"The happiness of seeing your fellows happier," she replied, "and love."

He broke into a rasping, mirthless laugh. "Pardon me," he said, recovering himself. "I'm not laughing at you or your force, but at a joke I had forgotten. I was introduced to your force two months ago."

"No, my friend," Murchell said, "at your birth."

When the men were alone Bob proceeded to explain his visit.

"Now that we have reached a verdict convicting me of conspiring to uplift humanity," he began, "let's get down to business if you're ready to hear me."

"We are ready."

"The other day," Bob went on, "I had an interview with Henry Sanger, Jr. The interview was at his request. He is backing Harland. Harland doesn't know it, but there's no doubt about it. Sanger was very frank. He informed me that he and his 'fellow investors' intend to break with you openly and finally and to select the next governor, legislature and senator. He came to propose that I join with them. He held out big inducements. He offered to contribute to my campaign fund; also to place the next governorship under my control and to put me at the head of the new state organization, subject to certain limitations, of course.

"I told him that I proposed to line up with you." Bob paused, looking at the others inquiringly.

On account of the threatening weather conditions Saturday afternoon, only two games were played in the Central New Jersey League and both of these contests resulted in easy batting bees for the two leading clubs in the organization. Plainfield clouted Herbst's curves ai over and came out with a 9-0 victory while High Bridge's best twirler, Morris, proved only to be a mark for the Somerville swatters and they banged his delivery for twenty safe hits.

Westfield's diamond was more or less of a mud hole with swimming pools on all the corners and consequently the game with Scotch Plains, which was scheduled for that place, was called off early in the day. The majority of the Thistles journeyed to Crescent Oval to spy a bit on the Pets, whom they meet next Saturday for the last time this season.

Several new players were on the lineups of the various teams, and three new faces were seen trying their best to win the game for the Pets. Ernie Linderman, who has been signed to carry on the work which was left so suddenly by the Peerless Red Waller and he started his task auspiciously Saturday. The big independent twirler held the Bound Brooks to five scattered hits and when he fanned Bruggy with the bases full, his name and fame were heralded as much as that of his predecessor.

By winning from High Bridge Saturday, Somerville continued the close race with the Pets and will make the game in this city on Labor Day morning all the more exciting. Only one game separates these old rival clubs and the Labor Day meeting will practically decide the pennant race in the league. All the players of the two teams are working hard for the final struggle and with the new efficient pitcher on the slab the Pets have high hopes of running off with the rag. Somerville showed its strong point Saturday afternoon—that is in the batting line. The Blues are undoubtedly the best sticking team in the league and upon this fact they will lay claim to the top position at the end. But the Pets for speed!

PETS SCORE SHUT-OUT

That Bound Brook with Andy Herbst on the mound would turn the Westfield trick on Dorflinger's Darlings proved to be only the fear of the victorious at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon for the Pets hung it on to the Tailenders and rubbed it in with a whitewash brush. When the ninth inning was finished "Jim" Martine's namesake, in the shape of the scoreboard, had the figures—Plainfield, 9; Bound Brook, 0. The score almost tells the story although one might think that it was a forfeited game but it was not. It was the plain garden variety of a one sided swatfest for the locals without even the fancy work of good pitching by the opposing twirler.

Ernie Linderman, the Big Blondy, made his debut in the Central League and was invincible in the pinches, becoming stronger as the innings rolled by. Andy Herbst, on the other hand, proved to be only a matter of reputation for the Pets clouted his best deliveries to all corners of the lot and then some. Twelve hits were registered altogether by the local aggregation but nearly all of these came in packages while Bound Brooks five safeties were sent C. O. D., but they were never delivered.

Up to the fourth inning, it looked like a close game for neither side was able to score while the visitors threatened to shove a man over the rubber on two occasions. Each time, however, Linderman tightened up and retired the side. But Plainfield had its turn to jump into the lime light in the fourth round, in which Eddie Stallings was the chief factor. Cassett, a new Pet from Utica, followed Brown's long fly to center with a two base wallop into left field. Eddie Stallings then advanced to the plate with the thought of breaking up the game then and there and he did it. He caught one of Herbst' high ins and sent the pill skyward, far above Roberson's head, the hit being good for three sacks. Nolan made a wild throw in relaying the ball to the diamond and Stallings crossed the pan in the wake of Cassett. Another run came over on the Plainfield total in the fifth when Linderman poled out a two bagger to deep center and raced home on a sharp grounder to Powers by Cosgrove. The Bound Brook short stop juggled the ball and both men were safe.

The game was put in the ice chest when the cover was opened in the seventh. The cover was also torn off the ball in doing it. After Brit Martin had died on a pop fly to short, Walter Nelson started the cannonade with a long two base clout to the centerfield dandelions. Linderman registered his second safe hit and scored the Plainfield catcher. Cosgrove advanced Lindie a peg by landing on the sphere for a clean drive into center garden and they both scored when Buster Brown leaned against the ball for another hit toward the left field ditch. Cassett added a two cushioned wallop to the slaughtering party, bringing Brown to third. A slow grounder was then sent to short stop by Joe Harter and Powers failed to catch Brown at the plate. Poole threw to first to nab Harter and Cassett started for home, Wunder heaving wild to the plate and Cassett scored while Harter took third on the error. Eddie Stallings died on the Herbst to Wunder route but Billy put another hit in the collection and brought Harter down the aisle of desire. Brit Martin popped up another fly to third and the agony for Bound Brook was over.

At the start the game had a Bound Brook aspect for the Giant team of six footers managed to keep the Pets in a worrying streak for four innings. In the second round, the Tailenders had their best chance to score for Roberson and Nolan both singled and were advanced a peg by Herbst's well placed sacrifice. Linderman then shot the ball over at terrific speed and fanned Powers and Bollinger in order.

Again in the third Bound Brook looked dangerous when Lindie passed two men in succession and the best batters were slated to appear. Buster Brown relieved the pressing situation by nabbing Poole's low liner and doubling up Wunder at first. In the fourth Nolan reached first when Cosgrove dropped his long fly and Herbst sent him to third on a clean single. Powers was an easy out on a grounder to first and Big Bruggy was sent in as a pinch hitter in the place of Bollinger. The heavy batter was foiled, however, and took three vain swats at the air.

Eddie Stallings was again the feature of the agme with two sentational running catches of difficult flies. In the ninth inning he nabbed the last ball off Herbst's bat by sprinting almost to the left field embankment. Nolan brought the fans to their feet in a burst of applause by a fly thrown to home plate from deep centerfield.

Dave Driscoll was out of the playing on account of a sore arm and Billy Stallings ably filled his place on the initial sack. Buster Brown, a speedy little player from Ridgewood, was on third for the Pets and put up a remarkable game. He hit the ball for keeps and played with an effervesing ginger in the field. Cassett, form the Utica, New York State League club, covered Harter's place in centerfield, Joe being on duty at short stop, and the new player made good with the stick, polling out two doubles.

HIGH BRIDGE SWAMPED

Morris proved to be an easy mark for the Somerville sluggers at High Bridge Saturday afternoon and the Blues made what looked like a close game, a one sided farce by using their willowed bats to great advantage in the sixth round. In this inning the Somerville sluggers touched Morris for eight solid smashes, which brought in as many runs and clinched the game decidedly.

When Morris had been knocked off the mound, Apgar, a High Bridge twirler, was sent in to do the box work and he held the chasers of the Fets to five runs. Jimmy Clinton had the Hunterdon county boys at his mercy after the sixth inning and they never looked dangerous while the big pitcher took things easy in finishing the game.

Up to the sixth round High Bridge held the lead, 4-3, and the game had the aspect of a nip and tuck struggle although Somerville was trying its best to score a victory and keep within striking distance of the league leaders. Somerville put two runs across the pan in the third and High Bridge tied the score in the next chapter and when Somerville brought in another tally in the fifth, the High Bridge team sent two more counts home and gained a lead.

A vertitable cannonade was started by the Somerville hitsmiths in the sixth, mixing two baggers with singles and making more than a complete circuit of the batting order. The best that High Bridge could do after that was to score one run in the sixth and be blanked in all the other innings.

The feature of the game was a sensational one handed catch of a line drive over short stop by J .Walton. The speedy High Bridger had to make a hard jump to reach the speeding sphere, which he nabbed when it was travelling at a terrific pace. Another bit of speedy fielding was a double play of O'Rourke and Lidgate. O'Rourke caught a long fly to center and made a beautiful throw home, in time to catch the runner who had tried to score from third on the clout. Gordon, MacDonald, McGee and Grimes were the chief figures in the hitting department.

The Monroe Avenue Methodists were brought to a halt in their final speedy rush for the silver cup in the city Sunday-school baseball league by the Park Avenue Baptists Saturday afternoon and the fight for the championship was brought to even terms by the defeat of the league leaders. Each of these two teams has one more game to play with the Trinity Reformed aggregation and from the looks of matters at present, they will be tied for first place when these contests have been decided.

Saturday's game on the Clinton avenue grounds was the turning point in the cup race for had the Monroes come out victorious, they would have won the undisputed right to the top position in the percentage column, from which they could not have been displaced except by a defeat at the hands of Trinity next week. The result of this deciding game came as a surprise to all the league fans for the Parks were easy winners by the one sided score of 14-7.

While the fight for blood was going on at Clinton avenue, the First Baptists were hanging another Trinity scalp to their pelt on the West End avenue grounds. The Baptists had an easy time with the cellarites and defeated them by the score of 8-2.

On account of the two coming games with Trinity, the final contest between the Parks and the Monroes will not be played until September 16. This game might not be played at all should Trinity win either of the coming two matches, one of which is a regular scheduled game with Monroe Avenue and the other is a postponed one from August 19.

PARKS WIN IN SEVENTH.

Although leading by three runs until the seventh inning, the Monroe Avenue Methodists lost to the speedy Park Avenue Baptist in one of the most important games of the city Sunday school league Saturday afternoon on the Clinton avenue grounds, when the Baptists started a batting rally in the sevent and eighth rounds for a total of ten tallies. The final score was 14-7.

Both teams went in the game for blood and both had been working hard in practice throughout the entire week. The Monroes had their strongest lineup on the field while the Parks also used the best men from their school. All three pitchers were hit hard, but the safe clouts were bunched from VanArsdale's delivery and consequently fourteen runs were scored on the same number of hits. The Monroes walloped the horsehide for fifteen safe ones, but they were kept scattered and also through poor base running they resulted in only seven tallies.

At the start the Baptists climbed into the lead by piling up three runs when they took their turn at bat. These were brought across the pan on a group of hits and an error. The Methodists came back in the next inning and forged ahead with a cluster of five runs on their scoreboard, these being the result of two doubles and three singles.

The Parks added another run to their total in their half of the second, but the league leaders smothered this advantage by bringing two more men down the home stretch in the fourth. Harry VanZandt was then substituted in the box for Hobson and his speedy curves were a complete puzzle to the Methodist batters. "Wiggy" showed better form Saturday than he has all season and it was predicted that he will finish the remainder of the schedule with a flourish.

While the Monroes were standing helplessly before VanZandt's. pitching for the rest of the game, the Parks stirred themselves and caught on to VanArsdale's twisters. The product of their experience was gleaned in the seventh when they banged the ball hard for a total of seven runs, which put the game on ice. To make it a more complete victory, the Park scored three more runs in the eighth inning. The Monroes made a desperate effort to win out in the ninth but they were powerless before VanZandt's clever twirling.

TRINITY AS USUAL.

Trinity was no match for the rejuvenated First Baptist team and the cellar champions of the City Sunday-school League went still deeper in the hole Saturday afternoon while the Baptists climbed a peg closer to a respectable percentage. The score was 8-2 but the supporters of Old Trim were so completely outclassed that their opponents did not have to work hard to win.

Pierson Bailey was again on the mound for the Baptists and he held the Reformers to five scattered hits. Raymond Force did the slinging for the Trinity team and pitched good ball considering that he allowed but seven hits. The majority of these were of the bunch variety, however, and eight runs were scored with ease.

Dunning, a Presbyterian, played the role of a Baptist on first base on a mutual agreement between the two teams and he held down the sack like a vet. Carlton Smith did the catching for the Baptists with Harriman on the receiving end for the opposing nine. Both catchers put up a snappy game. Schenck was the star of the afternoon with two hits and five accepted chances in the field without an error. Townley, on third for the Baptist aggregation, had an equally good record. Sidney Mackey made a favorable impression as a right fielder.

DUNELLEN WINS FROM WEST ENDS IN TENTH

One of the most exciting games of the season was played at Dunelen Saturday and resulted in a ten-inning victory for the Dunellenites, who won out from the West Ends, of this city, by the score of 4-3. Both teams were evenly matched and for nine innings the game was a nip and tuck struggle, the lead being held by both sides. In the tenth round two errors by Jaeger allowed Elliott to reach third base and Curl brought him home with the winning run by a clean single to left field.

Dunellen was minus the services of three of its best players, Ramsberger, Barnes and Schott, and consequently Manager Bogardus was obliged to change his lineup considerably. Errors were responsible for ll the runs made by the local team, for seven misplays were charged against the Dunellen boys. The rugged, sloppy condition of the diamond was the cause of the majority of the errors.

In the eighth and ninth innings the fans were kept on edge when the Dunellen players populated the bases with but one out and only scored one run. Harney was in rare form on the Dunellen slab and allowed only four scattered hits. He struck out twelve men without giving a free pass. Fulton did good work on the opposing box with eleven strikeouts to his credit, but he was banged for twelve hits.

Dunellen tied the score in the eighth when three hits were made in rapid succession, thus filling the bases and a tally was brought across on Fulton's wild throw to third. The feature of the game was the playing of Percy Harney. He not only pitched a great game but he accepted seven fielding chances without an error, and poled out three clean hits.

CYCLE CLUB RACES

Nine Events Are Scheduled For Labor Day on the Mountain Ave. Track.

FAST RIDERS ARE ENTERED.

Handsome Medals Offered in the Various Events—County Championship to Be Contested at This Meet.

Plans for the road races of the Plainfield Cycle club to be held here Labor Day morning have been completed and all indications point toward a most sucessful meet. Nine races are on the car, a feature of the day being a five-mile motor paced match race between Gifford Jones and William Drake, two of the speediest riders in this vicinity. Jack Horner will set the pace for Jones and Malcolm Lindsey will ride a motorcycle along side of Drake.

On account of the small number of entrants, the proposed race for boys has been called off, there being but four juvenile cyclists who had signified their intentions of competing in this event. The interest of the spectators will be centered largely in the one-mile city championship and one-mile county championship events. Both of these titles are now held by Percy Haberle, who captured them against a classy field on Labor Day last year. Several of the best riders in the county will try to take the honor from the local boy when the events are run off Monday morning and from all indications Haberle will have to do record time to defend his title.

In the one-mile county championship there will be plenty of excitement for all the local riders have been training hard to bring the victory to this city. Sherman Haberle, of this city, won this event three years ago at Westfield, covering the course in the exceptional time of 2:02, which set a world's record for amateur road racing. Percy Haberle, a brother of the record holder, captured the event last year and will again enter the race this year. Word has been received that a large number of the crack riders from Westfield, Rahway, and Summit will try their speed for the county title although the entries of these men have not been turned in as yet.

Handsome medals have been offered as prizes in the one mile events, a diamond studded gold medal forf first place, a silver medal for second and a bronze one for third. The reward for the winner of the special match race will be $10 worth of merchandise.

The races will be held on the Mountain avenue course, the finish line being about one-eighth of a mile east of Norwood avenue. The five mile event will be run on a straightaway course from Mountainside to the finish line. Three heats and a final will be run in both the one-mile events, the first being called for 10 o'clock.

Among the local riders, who are training for the races are Percy Haberle, city and county one mile champion; Gifford Jones, winner of the twenty-five mile event on Decoration Day; George and Edward Simon, Kenneth Mair, Ernest Mantz, A. B. Dunham, Frank Sheppard, Paul Phillips, William Drake, George Martin and E. S. Bird.

TEPPER BROTHERS PLAN IDEAL SUIT DEPARTMENT.

One of the most complete women's, misses' and children's suit departments in the State will be opened at Tepper Brothers' store on West Front street in the near future, carpenters and painters having been at work on the new addition for the past two weeks. The suit and ready-to-wear department will be located on the second floor, the space, which is now being used as a store room, to be converted into a model women's cloak store.

Twenty-six modern dust proof cabinets will be built on the walls and in these the suits and cloaks will be exhibited. The room will be made cozy and home-like with rugs and easy chairs and for the benefit of those who desire to wait there for their friends, an ample supply of all the current magazines and papers will be on the tables. Plenty of light will be furnished by large tungsten filaments.

Miss Smith and Miss Alice Keely will be in charge of the cloaks and suits, and Miss Tunison, of shirt waists. The management expects to open the department about the middle of September, with a fresh stock of goods, the old stock to be sold out in a clearance sale.

MRS. L. A. WALKER PASSED AWAY TODAY

After an illness of about four months, Mrs. Lottie A. Walker, wife of Walter C. Walker, of Somerset street, died this morning. Kidney trouble was the cause of death. The funeral service will be held at her late residence Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Mrs. Walker was a daughter of Mrs. Mary M. and the late E. C. Morse. She was born and always lived in the borough. For years she was a member of Trinity Reformed church and an active worker in the home department of its Sunday-school. For fourteen years she was secretary of Old Glory Council, Daughters of Liberty, resigning only a short time ago owing to failing health.

Surviving besides her husband is one son, Walter G. Walker, at home; her mother, Mrs. Mary M. Marse, and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Mosher, of Cranford, with whom Mrs. Morse is living, and Mrs. Daisy Schutt, of Bayonne. During her life Mrs Walker had won the esteem and respect of the community where she had always lived and the fortitude with which she bore her suffering won their admiration.

REV. C. E. CONOVER SECRETARY OF UNION

Baraca classes all over the country are pleased with the action taken at the recent annual convention in Kansas City when the National Baraca Union and the National Philathea Union, hitherto distinct organizations for Bible study in adult classes in the Sunday-schools, were combined, and one set of officers selected for the two organizations. The Baraca movement was inaugurated in 1890 and it was several years later before the women's class—known as the Philathea classes—were begun. While the individual classes will work separately, as in the past, there will be both economy and greater effectiveness through this merging of the National bodies.

Reports at the Kansas City convention showed a remarkable growth of both the Baraca and Philathea classes, new ones having been formed all over the country and those already in existence showing growth and strength.

Besides the officers chosen at the convention in June secretaries for the States of the Union and for Cuba, Mexico, Sicily, Straits Settlements, India and the Canadian provinces, were named. The State Secretary for New Jersey is the Rev C. E. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, Plainfield. The officers of the World-Wide Baraca-Philathea Union are: President, Marshall A. Hudson, Syracuse, N. Y.; first vice-president, the Rev. Charles McKenzie, Johnstown, N. Y.; second vice-president, R. N. Simms, Raleigh, N. C.; third vice-president, Mrs. Florence E. Hanna, Los Angeles, Cal.; fourth vice-president, Miss Henrietta Heron, Elgin, Ill.; general secretary, Luther C. Reynolds, Maysville, Ky.; treasurer, the Rev. Frank Anderson, Johnstown, N. Y.; recording secretary, W. G. Monk, Syracuse, N. Y.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. G. Womack, Spartanburg, S. C.; Baraca Junior secretary, the Rev. C. D. Reed, Jamestown, N. Y; Philathea Junior secretary, Miss Kathleen D. Ware, Asheville, N. C.; Baraca secret service secretary, A. S. Hampton, Detroit, Mich.; Philathea secret service secretary, Mrs. Thomas Lawrence, Cleveland, O.; publicity chairman, J. C. Johnston, Omaha, Neb.; transportation manager, H. R. Blackburn, Spartanburg, S. C.

The first Baraca class was organized October 20, 1890, at Syracuse, N. Y., by Marshall A. Hudson, and in honor of the twenty-first anniversary of that small beginning of what is now a great movement, Sunday, October 22, will be devoted to anniversary exercises. Many classes will use the program suggested by the National Union. Plainfield churches have taken much interest in the movement and there are several classes here.

Borough Education Board Meets.

A meeting of the borough Board of Education was held last night in the Somerset street school building, six persons being present. Only a little routine business was transacted and a report of the building committee was read. Nothing was done in regard to the opening of the schools for the fall term on account of the absence of the superintendent, H. C. Krebs.

—Neuman Brothers will have 200 baskets of choice Jersey peaches on sale tomorrow. Prices 75c, $1.00, $1.25. This is fine fruit. Also Bartlett pears.

'PENNSY' REDUCES COMMUTERS' RATES

The commuters of Metuchen are in a high state of jubilation over the announcement that the Pennsy has decreased its monthly commutation rate to New York from $11 to $8.90. The commuters of that borough are given one of the biggest reductions granted any municipality, as the difference between the old and new rates amounts to $2.10. The citizens of Metuchen are responsible to a considerable extent for the general decrease along the Pennsy lines, as they united with the New Brunswick Commuters' League and the Board of Trade in presenting the case in a forceful manner to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The lower rate is expected to be a boom to Metuchen, as well as various other places along the Pennsy which have been discriminated against the most.

The rates from Perth Amboy have also been decreased from $10.50 a month to $9. The tickets to the new station in Manhattan are also lowered from $16.50 to $15.

Woodbridge commuters will only have to pay $8.30 a month, instead of $10, from September 1.

South Amboy is not affected, as the sliding scale which makes an average of $7.70 a month is retained, in accordance with the custom of the Central Railroad. South Amboy tickets have been used for many months by the greater part of the army of commuters living between Perth Amboy and Linden, as the old rates made it cheaper by over $2 for South Amboy tickets to be purchased by them; in fact, the new rates from these places do not equal the $7.70 fare charged by the Pennsylvania from South Amboy to New York, and by the Central from both South Amboy and Perth Amboy to New York.

SEEK REDUCTION OF FREEHOLDERS BOARD

With more than 400 signatures already secured and the number increasing daily, the promoters of the petition requesting the reduction of the Board of Freeholders of Union county from the present twenty to seven members feel sure that when it is put to a vote it will meet with success. The petition is being circulated and signed by Democrats mostly, although among the singers are a number of Republicans.

The document must be filed with County Clerk Calvert, in Elizabeth, by September 1, but its backers are confident of securing the other 800 names as they will circulate through the large factories during the present week.

WOMAN SCHOOL OFFICIAL SOUGHT IN NEW JERSEY.

The new State Commissioner of Education, Calvin N. Kendall, is asked by a number of well-known and progressive women of New Jersey to appoint a woman as assistant commissioner of elementary education. In the circulars which they are scattering among their sex throughout the State, urging them to send in their names to the commissioner as endorsing the movement, they present a strong and logical argument for representation in the administration.

They point out that while a large proportion of the school children are girls and the great majority of the educators women, their sex has in the past had no member in the higher educational councils of this State.

Commissioner Kendall has three assistants to appoint, he having already selected one, former Assistant State Superintendent Betts, of North Plainfield. Those familiar with Mr. Kendall's methods and policies say he will very probably select his other three lieutenants from among educators of country-wide reputation. He well knows the place woman occupies in the public schools, and no doubt recognizes the wisdom of having one to do some of the work he must needs delegate to others.

It would not be at all surprising if he chose one, if not all three assistants, from those who have worked with him in Indianapolis and elsewhere and whom he knows to be in full sympathy with his educational systems and ideas.

Mrs. Drake's Funeral.

The funeral service of Mrs. Martha Jobs Drake, whose death occurred suddenly yesterday, will be held at her late residene on Duer street tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, will conduct the service and interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

Miss Kathryn Day, of Grove street, is visiting relatives at Weston.

RE-DISTRICT STATE

Governor Expected to Call Session to Re-Apportion Congressional Districts.

THE DIVISIONS AS PROPOSED.

Fifth District May Consist of Union, Warren and part of Morris While Fourth Will Remain As it is at Present.

Governor Wilson may call a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of reapportioning the Congressional districts of the State if he carries out his expressed intentions. The Governor has discussed the wisdom of taking this course with some of the Democratic members of the House of Representatives from this State and, as a general thing, they have urged him to call the special session. The New Jersey members of the lower house of Congress are said to be a unit in the belief that a special session should be held, and they now have the understanding that the Governor will not delay much longer in calling the lawmakers back to Trenton for the purpose of redistricting the State.

In fact, the plan is so far advanced and it is held to be so certain that the Governor will issue his proclamation for the extra session that a tentative redistricting plan satisfactory to the Democratic Congressmen has been mapped out. Here is the proposed re-apportionment:

FIRST DISTRICT.

Counties.	Population.
Camden	142,029
Gloucester	37,368
Salem	26,999
	206,396

SECOND DISTRICT.

Atlantic	71,894
Burlington	66,555
Cape May	19,745
Cumberland	55,153
	213,357

THIRD DISTRICT.

Middlesex	114,426
Monmouth	94,734
Ocean	21,318
	230,478

FOURTH DISTRICT.

Mercer	125,657
Hunterdon	33,569
Somerset	38,320
	197,546

FIFTH DISTRICT.

Union	140,197
Warren	43,187
Part of Morris (south)	35,000
	218,384

SIXTH DISTRICT.

Part of Morris (north)	39,704
Part of Passaic (west)	137,413
Sussex	26,781
	203,898

SEVENTH DISTRICT.

Bergen	138,002
Part of Passaic (east)	78,489
	216,491

(Eighth, Ninth, Tenth Eleventh and Twelfth districts to be cut out of Essex and Passaic counties)

Essex	537,231
Hudson	512,886
	1,050,117

Under the recent act of Congress providing for 433 members of the lower house instead of 391, as now, a ratio of 211,877 was adopted for each representative. The population of each State was then divided by that ratio and one Representative assigned for each full ratio and one in addition for each major fraction thereof. This gave to New Jersey twelve members, a gain of one. The perfect theoretical ratio for each representative in the case of New Jersey is 211,430. It will be seen that the proposed redistricting gives each district almost that number.

As far as the political complexion of the districts to be changed is concerned it is interesting to note that while the Fifth went slightly more than 3,000 Democratic last fall it was Republican by more than 7,000 two years previously.

TO CANDIDATES.

Candidates for assembly, sheriff and coroner are obliged to file their petitions with the county clerk by September 1, twenty-five days in advance of the primary election. Candidates for municipal offices have until September 6 to file their petitions of nomination.

Councilman and Mrs. W. L. Smalley, of the borough, left yesterday for Riverside, where they will join their son, Ralph, who has been spending some time with James McAleer.

ELIZABETH OFFERS SITE FOR MOOSE COLLEGE

During the Loyal Order of Moose convention at Detroit it was decided by the large delegation of New Jersey Moose in attendance to hold an annual State field day next spring. Elizabeth was given the honor of being the first city at which the games will be held, it being decided that the lodges throughout the State shoud meet there next spring. Efforts were made at first to hold the field day in October, but as the time is too short to arrange for so large an event, it was decided to postpone the celebration until the spring.

The title of past dictator was bestowed upon four Elizabethians for their energetic work at the convention. Those honored were Jacob Hagin, Russell Bennett, Samuel Ammermann and Oscar DeHart. Two Jerseymen were elected to National offices, Ralph W. Donges, of Camden, being chosen vice-dictator, and James Finn, of Jersey City, trustee for three years.

During the week a board of trustees was chosen to arrange plans for a Moose College. John Hays Hammond was appointed chairman while the following were chosen to serve on the committee: Congressman Lentz, of Ohio; Congressman Gregg, of Pennsylvania, and former Senator Scott, of Iowa. A donation of $100,000 was made by John Hays Hammond to go toward the furtherance of the project, while $50,000 was donated by Organizer James Davis. Delegates from Elizabeth lodge offered 300 acres of land within a mile of that city as a site for the college. A similar offer was also advanced by the Muncie Lodge, in Indiana. The convention closed with both offers under consideration.

NIGHT MOVE ON CROSSING WAR

Central Railroad officials stole a march on the Elizabeth authorities Saturday night at Elizabeth and before the latter awoke the disputed railroad crossings at Second, Third and Fourth avenues on the Long Branch division at Elizabethport had been crossed by a new railroad track. Even the police, who for two months, have been guarding the crossing while the controversy raged, were caught napping.

At midnight Saturday a gang of more than 100 men, headed by Roadmaster Griffin, got off a train at Elizabethport station and marched silently over the Long Branch division to the points in dispute. The heavy rainfall did not deter the workers, who carried with them all the necessary implements for the job. The rails had been previously shipped to the spot and by daylight the track was completed and a new spur track had been laid from First avenue to the Elizabeth River.

The company intends to elevate its tracks between the two points so as to do away with the steep grade. The draw bridge over the river will also be raised twelve feet. In order to do this it was necessary to lay an additional track on which trains could be run while the work was in progress.

The Elizabeth officials had objected to this plan, and as a result the work had been held up.

Flag Raising Committee.

A special meeting of Camp Bagley, No. 21, Spanish War Veterans, was held last night to complete arrangements for the exercises marking the formal opening of Parker Field on Labor Day. Commander M. D. O'Keefe appointed a committee of six to assist the flag committee composed of Dr. H. D. Corbusier, chairman; J. D. MacNabb and D. J. Shea. The assistants appointed were Theodore Martin, E. F. Stilwell, William R. Townsend, Dennis M. Baglin, John F. Sickler and Dennis O'Keefe. The committeemen will report to Comrade Corbusier at the field at 2 o'clock. All Spanish War Veterans are invited to be present.

Martine Dinner Tickets.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the testimonial dinner to be given Senator James E. Martine in the Waldorf Hotel on East Front street Thursday night, report that the tickets are rapidly reaching the limit of 200. All desiring to attend should secure their entrance cards early as there are but a few left. The committee is composed of James F. Buckle, Walter L. Hetfield, John J. Kenny, L. B. Woolston, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and J. A. Staats.

MAYOR SMALLEY SITS ON BORO COURT BENCH

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, sat in the North Plainfield magistrate's bench last night and listened to the case of Garfield Nelson, a negro living on Warren street, who was arrested on complaint of his brother-in-law, William Hooper, also of Warren street. Hooper claimed that Nelson was in the habit of bringing beer in the house and being disorderly until the late hours of the night.

Nelson pleaded guilty to the charge as well as to having had a fight with his brother-in-law but promised to leave the borough if allowed to go free. The Mayor decided that the family was better out than in North Plainfield and so he dismissed the case upon Nelson's promise to leave the borough as soon as possible.

After the Nelson-Hooper case was finished, Justice of the Peace, Thos. H. Snape took the bench and listened to the complaint of Chris Huff, of Lincoln place, against Albert Potts, of Somerset street, both of whom are painters. Huff alleged that Potts and he had quarrelled and that Potts had assaulted him brutally. The prisoner was held in $100 bail to await the action of the Somerset county grand jury.

TAX RATE IN CITY TO BE ABOUT $1.75

Plainfield's tax rate will be approximately $1.75 on the $100, according to the rough estimates made at a meeting of the finance committee of the Common Council last night. All the members were present, when Chairman Herbert Buxton took up the work of compiling the budget with his colleagues.

For certain data desired, Tax Collector W. R. Townsend was summoned, and when the committee adjourned from the councilmanic committee room at 10:30, the members felt certain that the rate would be either $1.75 or $1.76, according to information obtained by a representative of this paper.

Although the rate will show an increase of probably ten points, the city fathers are in nowise to be held to account. As a matter of fact, the increase for local purposes will be less than two points. The big drains on the treasury are principally made for county and school tax purposes and for the expenses of the elections under the fantastic, equivocal and luxurious Geran bill.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. ANNETTE MOORE.

Funeral service for Mrs. Annette Moore, wife of Harry H. Moore, whose death occurred at her home on Grove street Saturday, was held at her late residence yesterday afternoon. Rev. St. John Fitch conducted the services in the absence of Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of which Mrs. Moore was a member. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery.

The home was well filled with mourners. There was a large number of floral tributes to her memory. The bearers were W. W. Thomas, of Morristown; John S. Baldwin, of Montclair; C. D. Goodwin and George W. Gardner, of New York and Judson Bonnell and J. M. Bettman, of this city.

Gift for Chorister.

The choir of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church was entertained on Saturday evening by the chorister, A. Preston White, at his residence, 405 Plainfield avenue. Vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed and a collation was served. During the evening a fine folding camera was presented to the choirster by the choir, Miss Alden making the presentation speech. The gift was a complete surprise and Mr. White was for a moment at a loss to find language to express his appreciation. Those present were Misses Alden, Jones, Frazier, Alston, Clay, Brown and Lilly, Mrs. S. Laine and Messrs. Blair, Bailey, Johnson and Lambert.

Last Excursion.

The last excursion of the season from this city to Asbury Park will be held Thursday, Sept. 7, under the auspices of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T. The train will leave this city at 9 a. m. and returning will leave Asbury Park at 9 p. m. A feature of the day will be the parade by the Knights Templar.

Hebert E. Parker, secretary of the local Y. M. C., will return tonight from his vacation, which he spent at Falls, Pa.

Mrs. William W. Warnock, of Craig place, returned last night from Lake Hopatcong, where she has been spending the past week.

ARREST M'MAHON

Alleged Dunellen Burglar is Caught When About to Flee to Nevada.

COMMITTED TO COUNTY JAIL.

A Pipe Which the Suspect Left in Coriell Home Will Be Used As Evidence Against Him, 'Tis Said.

James McMahon, who is believed to be the Dunellen burglar, was arrested in that borough yesterday morning and taken to the Middlesex County Jail at New Brunswick yesterday afternoon. Marshal James Benson, of the Dunellen police force, made the arrest, catching the prisoner as he was about to leave Dunellen for Nevada. Immediately upon being brought to New Brunswick, Justice Sudam committed McMahon to the county jail in view of the evidence against him. He will be held to await the action of the Middlesex County Grand Jury.

It is believed that in the arrest of McMahon the mystery concerning several robberies, which have been committed in Dunellen during the past six weeks, has been solved. It is not supposed, however, that the prisoner was at all connected in the recent bold burglary at the jewelry store of H. H. Hollingsworth, when the thieves broke a $40 plate glass window, stole several watches in the display case, and made their escape without even being heard.

On the night of Monday, July 31, the house of George Coriell was entered and Mr. Coriell's daughter was awakened by a noise downstairs. Upon going down to the first floor, Miss Coriell says that she saw a man attempting to enter the window. He opened the sash and entered the room and when he flashed a pocket light, Miss Coriell says that she had an excellent opportunity to see the man's features, which corresponded exactly with those of McMahon. When Miss Coriell struck a light in the room, the intruder fled, making his exit through the window by which he had entered. He left a pipe in the room and it is believed that this will furnish conclusive evidence against McMahon. Nothing was stolen by the intruder at the Coriell home but it is believed that McMahon is connected in the robberies at the homes of Louis Schneider and Peter Monaghan, which occurred at about that time.

Since July 31 McMahon has not been seen in the borough of Dunellen except occassionally when he would slip in town and then go out again in a short while. He was susupected from the description given by Miss Coriell and Detectives Peltier and Ferguson, of the Middlesex county prosecutor's office, began to follow the movements of McMahon. They informed Marshal James Benson to keep a sharp look-out for the suspected man.

On Sunday night McMahon was reported to have come into Dunellen and consequently Benson watched for the man. Yesterday morning McMahon was standing at the Dunellen railroad station with a bundle of clothes and Benson placed him under arrest. He said that he was on his way to Nevada but would say nothing further in regard to the charge against him. Several residents of Dunellen will go to New Brunswick today to appear against McMahon and give evidence which will be of importance when his case is brought up in the fall.

NORTH PLAINFIELD'S ELECTION OFFICERS.

Judge E. S. Atwater, of Elizabeth, sitting in Somerville for Judge Clarence E. Case, and the Somerset County Election Board drew these as election officers for North Plainfield borough: Republicans—First district, Nelson Harrison and David King; Second district, W. W. Rowley and Daniel Gulick; Third district David Allen and Horace Conover; Fourth district, P. H. Currin and Archibald Davie; Fifth district, John Y. Barrett and Clark Mundy.

Democrats—First district, Andrew Love and Andrew Carney; Second district, L. W. Hammond and Charles G. Wood; Third district, James P. Walker and Fred Kohler; Fourth district, Isaac N. Sheppard and L. B. Bodine; Fifth district, Levi C. Kline and Dennis E. Gavin.

They're Not Married.

It has been found that the widely circulated report of the marriage of Miss Helen Sutton, of Spooner avenue, to Edwin Schorb, formerly of the borough, but now of Bound Brook, was spread about as a joke, and was perpetrated by some friends of the young people. Miss Sutton and Mr. Schorb emphatically deny their marriage.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Although the borough baseball team was minus the services of three of its best players, Barnes, Ramsberger and Schott, on Saturday afternoon, the game with the West Ends, of Plainfield, proved to be the most exciting contest yet played on the Madison avenue grounds this season. For nine innings the result was in doubt and finally the local boys won out by bringing a run over in the tenth. This is but one of the many speedy and close games, which Manager Bogardus has arranged on the schedule for the Dunellen team. Next Saturday the local boys play off their rubber game with the fast nine from the Central Railroad of New Jersey, each team having won two games this season. The Dunellen players are practicing hard for the deciding game and from all indications it looks as if they would bring the victory to the local club. Manager Bogardus is arranging to handle a large crowd at the field that day as the spirit for the game in Dunellen is running high.

Rev. George Francis, of the borough and formerly of Plainfield, occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church Sunday and his sermon was greatly enjoyed by the large congregation which attended.

Wilson Frederick spent Saturday afternoon in New Brunswick, where he attended the meeting of the Middlesex County Republican committee.

Mrs. Louis L. Block, of North avenue, is spending a week at Port Jervis, N. Y.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Ladies' Circle of the Baptist church is arranging to hold a sale in the near future for the benefit of the parish house, which is to be opened this fall.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks, as a rule, were strong in New York yesterday.

James R. Keene, ill in London, was reported much improved.

Redmond Barry, Attorney General of Ireland, was appointed Lord Chancellor of Ireland.

Demonstrations of protest took place in France against the high cost of meat and provisions.

Several thousand Bowery residents went to College Point on "Big Tim" Sullivan's annual summer outing.

The two New York policemen who have been guarding Mayor Gaynor since he was shot a year ago were sent back to patrol duty.

The Secretary of War ordered every officer and man in the army under forty-five years old to be vaccinated against typhoid fever.

A. S. Veit, an executive clerk employed by the Standard Oil Company, committed suicide by shooting, at Beaver and New streets, New York.

Paul Giedel, testifying in his own behalf, sought to palliate the killing of William H. Jackson by putting a stain on the aged broker's character.

Through the arrest of two men for stealing automobile tires it was brought out that West Side concerns in New York had recently lost $100,000 in this way.

The National Progressive party met in national convention in Mexico City; it will proceed to nominate candidates for Presidency and Vice-presidency of the republic.

It was announced in Colon that the islands of Naos, Flamenco, Culebra and Perico, at the western end of the Panama Canal, had been acquired by the United States.

The Emperors of Russia and Japan exchanged telegrams of felicitation on the final settlement of the indemnity claims and counter claims growing out of the war between the two countries.

Charleston, S. C., was swept by a storm that killed five persons and did $1,000,000 damage; the wind blew ninety-four miles an hour and the city was cut off for a day by washouts and broken wires.

Postmaster General Hitchcock, in Washington, decided no stamps other than United States postage stamps could be used on letters; the order eliminated the Red Cross and McNamara defence fund issues.

In a statement as to the proposed New York charter, sent to the legislative committee, Mayor Gaynor argued in favor of the provision giving the Mayor decisive power over the Board of Estimate in transit franchises and contracts.

A Washington dispatch said Postmaster General Hitchcock would recommend to Congress the establishment of the parcel post on the rural mail routes; also advances in second class mail rates and changes in compensation of the railways for carrying the mails.

Paul D. Beattie, cousin of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., on trial at Chesterfield Court House, Va., for murdering his wife, testified that he had bought the gun with which Mrs. Beattie was killed and gave it to the prisoner just before the shooting; the witness also testified that the prisoner had told him twenty-four hours after the murder that he was sorry he had done it.

PRAISE FOR GOV. WILSON FROM ROOSEVELT'S ORGAN.

The Outlook, of New York, which is strongly "Progressive" in politics and which has ex-President Roosevelt as "contributing editor" and is the organ of his opinions, published last week a character sketch and interview with Governor Woodrow Wilson, of the most enthusiastic praise. It was written by Henry Beach Needham and is accompanied by pictures of the Governor. His antagonists in his party are painted in the blackest colors and the Governor is given credit for all the reforms which have been recently made in New Jersey. The writer is painfully lacking in a sense of humor, however. He quotes Governor Wilson as follows: "I don't want you to suppose that when I was nominated for Governor of New Jersey I emerged from academic seclusion where nothing was known of politics. Politics had been seething in Princeton ever since I had had any connection with the university."

One can imagine the twinkle in the eyes of the Governor when he made his reference to the very lively times when he and the trustees of Princeton locked horns, but his interviewer evidently did not see the point.

Miss Gladys and Harry Stites, of East Second street, are visiting in Chester.

Miss Grace Jerrold, of Bristol, Conn., is spending a vacation with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stites, of East Second street.

WE ARE REMODELING OUR SECOND FLOOR AND WILL FIT IT UP AS ONE OF THE FINEST READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENTS IN JERSEY. WE WANT TO OPEN IT WITH A BRAND NEW STOCK. HENCE EVERY GARMENT IN OUR PRESENT STOCK TO BE DISPOSED OF REGARDLESS OF LOSS!

Carpenters are at present busy making extensive alterations on our second floor, which heretofore has been used for reserve stock. We are going to make it one of the finest ready-to-wear departments in New Jersey. The entire second floor will be devoted to this line. We ordered from the Grand Rapids Show Case Co. their finest Wall Cabinets of the newest style, for the handling of Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts and Furs. These will be here shortly. In the meantime the rest of the floor is being fitted up for Waists, House Dresses, Petticoats, Kimonas, etc. Every modern convenience for shoppers will be installed. There will be large comfortable arm chairs and tables with the latest magazines. In short this new ready-to-wear department will be far and away ahead of anything of its kind in town.

Now, we want to open this department with an entirely brand new stock; every garment fresh and in latest style. To dispose of our present stock is an undertaking requiring the most powerful and drastic measures at our command. Extraordinarily low prices will do it; we have marked every Suit, Coat, Dress, Skirt, etc., now in stock at such absurdly low prices that there should be no trouble aa all in disposing of our stock.

Consolation thought for today—The Pets can come back!

Possibly Bound Brook was not so much after all but they certainly had the Plainfielders worried just a bit.

Hats off to Linderman—he has the earmarks of a winning pitcher.

But in looking over that game and recalling the good plays, you will find that Walter Nelson was just about the big squeeze. Old Six feet was in every play and stopped two wild heaves from the salary wing of the Blondy, which would have resulted in runs.

And isn't it consoling to find that the team, which had expected to win was whitewashed? Yes, indeed!

Buster Brown made one large hit with the local fans and cerealy speaking—there's a reason. The star Ridgewood player was right on his job for the Pets and covered third to the acme of perfection. The kid had the correct swing with the stick as well as the speedy whip to first and every time he stepped to the plate the fielders moved back. He sent two long flies skyward and poled out two safe hits.

Then there is Cassett, who played centerfield for the Plainfield leaders, and who has done time on the Utica club team of the New York State League. He was not given so much as a chance in the line of catching flies but he showed that he knew the game when it came to the batting end. Two two sackers isn't a bad record for one afternoon.

Dave Driscoll might have had a sore arm but his wing wasn't missed while Bill Stallings was in the city. Billy made a sensation as a first sacker and he didn't lose his batting eye either.

But Dave Driscoll's "No bad ones, my boy!" could stil be heard even on Saturday. He knows the game and can play it from the coacher's bench as well as the rest of them.

Andy Herbst's pitching was almost as sad as that riding exhibition! Did you get stung, too?

Bound Brook had enough Giants on their team to have licked an army. They were evidently built for comfort and not for speed.

For membership in the Can't Come Back Club—Andy Herbst, Bruggy, Bollinger, Wiltse, "Marc." Hoyt and "Red" Waller.

But there were no flies on Brit Martin Saturday—beg your pardon, be caught two.

Those Baptists are certainly good in the delayed sprints. Here is the Park Avenue team coming up and tieing the Monroes at the eleventh hour after the First Baptists had paved the way last Saturday by clouting a victory from the Methodists.

Cast your eyes Dunellenward, Mr. Fan and you will behold one speedy bunch of balltossers. They play ten rounds every Saturday and for excitement, they have funerals beat a mile.

Taking the foot off the soft, soft pedal—get ready for the band concert at the league game Labor Day.

Our idea of nothing to remain seated for at a baseball game is a cowgirl exhibition. That rope would have done better service as a hook.

Somerville is coming fast with the batting fever and their temperature ran up to 20° at High Bridge Saturday afternoon. One pitcher named Morris was overcome by the fever and a Mr. Apgar was kept in the box to nurse the rest of the team along.

The popular song for the Somerville game here will be—Will Lindy Lose?

But if Trinity should win the next two games—the Sunday-school league would still be tied. And then again it would be tied if they should drop two more. There's no use worrying, however.

No sugar but only lemons are served now with Trinity. (Easy with the wash rag—Lizzie!)

White Sox Want Games.

The White Sox A. C. would like to arrange a series of games with clubs averaging from 12 to 15 years. Call at 418 Darrow avenue or 'phone 1323-J. The White Sox have a strong team booked and are out for the scalps of all fast juvenile nines in Plainfield. Elmer Blimm is the White Sox manager.

A Thrilling Detective Story.

The ninth adventure of Peter Ruff, investigator, will appear in the magazine of the New York Sunday World, Sunday, Sept. 3. This is another of the Complete Detective Stories being given weekly with The Sunday World. They are from the pen of E. Phillips Oppenheim, the unequalled writer of mystery and stories. Order the Sunday World for Sept. 3, and you will not be disappointed.

RED CROSS STAMPS BARRED FROM MAILS

Serious inconvenience in handling the mails from particular localities is being experimented by the postal authorities on account of general use of adhesive stamps other than United States postage stamps.

In view of the trouble experienced from the use of the Red Cross stamps during the last Christmas holiday period Postmaster General Hitchcock, at Washington, issued a general order that no adhesive stamps should be attached to the address side of a letter or package. Ten thousands of stamps are being issued, including Panama Exposition stamps, state exposition stamps and what are known as the McNamara legal defence fund stamps, authorized by the American Federation of Labor.

Thousands of letters bearing such stamps on the obverse side of the envelopes are being received in the Dead Letter Office at Washington. The problem of handling letters bearing such stamps is so serious that it was decided by Postmaster General Hitchcock that no stamps may be used on either the obverse or reverse side of mailed envelopes. This order will eliminate from the mails absolutely the Red Cross stamps because on their faces they are called "stamps."

After considering the question Postmaster General Hitchcock decided not to modify his previous order in any respect.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press: —

A few minutes ago in walking over to the postoffice an automobile driver tried how near he could run me down, and in doing so positively run his machine close to me as I got near the curbstone. It was a case of reckless driving. Now, if those in authority in Plainfield cannot and will not protect those who pay them for protecting them, then I for one will carry something to protect myself with, and I will use it on the reckless ones you may be sure.

I claim a person crossing, or on the street, has the right of way. A sounding of a whistle does not and is not intended to give over to recklessness the right of way of the people's streets.

STUDENTS AT PRINCETON TO PASS PHYSICAL TEST.

Princeton, Aug. 29.—All students at Princeton University will be compelled to learn to swim and will be required to pass other physical requirements.

The university will be opened next month with one of the largest freshmen classes in its history. It is expected that nearly 400 men will be in it. They will face a new physical instructor, Dr. Joseph H. Raycroft, who comes from the University of Chicago. He succeeds George Goldie, for many years the instructor at Princeton, who formerly was connected with the New York Athletic Club. Mr. Goldie recently resigned after receiving the thanks of the university.

Dr. Raycroft comes to Princeton with a course of physical culture which will be made part of the regular curriculum. In other words, the students must pass physical tests as the men do at Annapolis or West Point. If he fails he may have to leave the university. There will be exceptions, but these will not weaken the rule to any considerable extent. The principle on which Princeton is proceeding is that a student who is defective physically may suffer from the strain of mental effort.

USED SHOTGUN ON FARMHAND HE FEARED.

Paterson, Aug. 29.—Charles De Chimoney, seventy-five years old, a well-known farmer of Rochelle Park, was arrested yesterday on a charge of felonious assault upon one of his farmhands, Karima Stuper. He sent a load of birdshot into the farmhand at rather close range. De Chimoney gave bail in $1,000 to await the action of the grand jury. The farmer says that he acted in self-defense, for Stuper was following him to the house with a scythe, after threatening to cut him in two.

DeChimony started for the house with the farmhand close behind. About five yeards from the door the farmer called out to his daughter to hand him his shotgun in a hurry. The gun was standing in the doorway and was handed to him at once.

Stuper saw what the farmer was about to do. He turned, dropping the scythe, and started to run, but in his excitment DeChimoney fired Stuper will recover.

WHEN'S A CANDIDATE LEGALLY A CANDIDATE?

When is a candiate legally a candidate? This question is agitating political circles to such an extent that Attorney General Wilson will in all probability be called upon for a decision. Activity of announced candidates in lining up voters by methods which the new State law, recommended to the Legislature by Governor Wilson, denies to bonafide office seekers has brought the matter to a keen issue.

The new law expressly forbids any candidate for political office to offer a voter any inducement for his vote.

BOY LOCKJAW VICTIM.

Bayonne, Aug. 29. — Lockjaw, which developed following injuries sustained when he was run over, caused the death in the Bayonne Hospital yesterday of William Dora, four years old, of 4 West Eighteenth street.

The boy was run over by a truck in front of his home August 19. A wheel of the vehicle passed over his left foot, crushing it. An operation was performed, but a few days ago the fatal malady developed.

WALKED OFF ROOF; IS HORRIBLY CRUSHED.

Perth Amboy, Aug. 29.—Peter Zosek walked off the roof of his boarding house at 658 State street early this morning and was horribly crushed by striking the pavement. Both arms were broken and his skull was fractured so that his brain was visible. He only lost consciousness after climbing into the ambulance of the local hospital. The surgeons say he cannot live.

Clay a Sure Thing.

So trifling is the opposition to the renomination of George S. Clay on the Republican ticket in the Second ward that it was reported today that Cornelius vanHerwerden, who aspires to Councilmanic honors, would withdraw from the race. Mr. Clay has made an excellent city father in all respects, his constituents say, and it is considered that he will be returned by a flattering vote.

Miss Josephine B. Steward and Courtney Smith, of 621 West Third street, have returned from Charlottesville, Va., where they have been spending a pleasant seven weeks' vacation.

SUDDEN SHOWERS HELPS THE CIGAR BUSINESS.

"Did you ever notice," said the observant citizen, "the fact that a sudden shower booms the cigar business. I have talked to many cigar men on the subject and they confirm my information on the subject.

"There is no doubt that the cigar man on a busy street reaps a harvest during an unexpected rain-fall. Next time it happens you take notice that most of the women on the street will scurry for shelter under an awning in a doorway or in a drug store or a department store. In the event of their going into a place of shelter they seldom make a purchase. On the other hand a man will instinctively look about for a cigar store, and he will make a dash for it, and once in, he feels obliged to make a purchase, even though his pockets may be full of cigars.

Of course, some men go for a saloon door, but as a rule those are the kind that hardly need an excuse. The average business man, who abstains from drink in the working hours will beat it for the cigar counter, and he always makes it a point to pay for his shelter."

RAIN ARGUMENT FOR SUNDAY TRAIN STOPS.

Asbury Park, Aug. 29.—An argument why trains should stop at the main depot here on Sunday was advanced by travelers, when thousands of people were obliged to wait in the rain, because the station acommodations at North Asbury were not sufficient.

The automobile washeaded from mained out in the rain because there were no places to shelter them. Those who were waiting for trains raved and stormed, but there was no redress.

The question of having the trains stop at the main depot on Sunday will be heard by the Public Utilities Board on September 12. The drawback is Ocean Grove, which gave the land for a freight depot, with the understanding that in so doing the New York and Long Branch Railroad would not permit trains to stop at the Asbury Park Depot on the Sabbath.

FIVE MEN HAVE A CLOSE CALL.

Netcong, Aug. 29.—Five men, said to be surveyors on the Lackawanna Railroad cut-off work, narrowly escaped serious injury and possibly death Saturday afternoon, when an automobile containing two young women and two young men, said to be Newarkers, crashed into them head-on. They were riding in a carriage, which was demolished.

One of the quintet was hurled headlong over the horse's back, another was thrown over a fence at the side of the road and the others fell dangerously close to the side of the automobile.

An unusual feature of the collision was the fact that when all the damage was done and the men had picked themselves up each of them uninjured, they did not appear to regard the affairs as seriously as did the occupants of the automobile. Both parties appeared to be willing to assume the responsibility for the wreck. In consequence all hands refused to give their names or any information concerning the accident.

The automobile was headed from Newark, and was said to be bound for Newton. One of the young women as the crash came stood up in the automobile and was about to jump when restricted by her escort. The sympathy of the autoists for the surveyors is believed to have had as much to do with the amicable settlement of the mishap as anything.

Persons who witnessed the accident did not take the number of the license on the automobile and if any of the men in the wrecked carriage knew it or the owner of the machine, they would say so. It was declared, however, that the automobile was not proceeding very rapidly at the time.

The front wheel of the auto locked between the shaft and the front wheel of the carriage as the two rigs came together. The chauffeur brought the car to a sudden stop and the only damage done to the machine was a dent in the mud guard.

—It was Mrs. Edward Rushmore and not Mrs. Edmund Rushmore who fainted in a Front street department store a few days since.

Miss Barbara Fleming, of Park avenue, is spending the remainder of the summer at Lake George, N. Y.

POSTMASTERS BEGIN THEIR MEET AT SHORE.

Asbury Park, Aug. 29.—The Presidential Postmasters of New Jersey met at Hotel Brunswick this morning and continue in session two days. The meeting began with an address of welcome by Postmaster M. H. Bannard, of this city. There will be a session in the afternoon with a banquet in the evening.

Among those who have promised to address the postmasters are First Assistant Postmaster Charles P. Greenfield, who will talk on the "Operations of the Postal Service;" Chief Clerk T. L. Weed, whose subject will be "Postal Savings Banks;" Inspector J. T. Cortelyou, Assistant Inspectors A. E. Furness, J. H. Wardle and M. C. Duryea.

PAYS $80 FINE FOR THREE BIRDS HE SHOT IN SPORT.

Jersey City, Aug. 29.—It was an expensive shooting expedition that Mario Michellette, a manufacturer of embroidery here, made into the wilds of Bergen county Sunday, when he shot three birds that are protected by law, a thrush, a robin and a woodpecker. Reinbold and Bratf, game wardens of Hackensack, heard the shooting and arrested Michellette. Justice E. M. Johnson fined him $20 for not having a hunter's license and $20 for each of the bird. He handed it over like a real sport and made no complaint.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union was held at the Court House, Elizabeth, New Jersey, on Thursday, August 3, 1911, at 2:30 p. m.

Members present: Director Cady and Freeholders Acken, Bourdon, Crane, Darby, Fay, Hall, Hennessey, Jones, Krouse, Meisel, Perry, Pierson, Randolph Smith, Swain, Teller, Wilbur, (18).

Members absent: Freeholders Doane and Gruener, (2).

The reading of the minutes of meeting, July 6, 1911, were on motion by Freeholder Wilbur dispensed with and they were approved as per printed copies on members' desks.

Communications.

A communication from J. F. Ostrander, Clerk of the Borough of Roselle, advising the board that the provisions under which permission had been granted the Borough to construct a sewer along St. George's avenue, would be complied with as far as possible, was read and on motion by Freeholder Krouse the communication was received and ordered placed on file.

To the Clerk of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County:

Dear Sir:—The appended resolution was adopted by the Board at a regular meeting held on Wednesday, July 12, 1911.

Yours truly,
FRED W. GEORGE.
Clerk of Board of Chosen Freeholders of Camden County, New Jersey.

Whereas, There sems to be a disposition on the part of the Del, & Atl. Tel Co., to abrogate a favorable agreement of long standing with Camden county as to telephone charges and also with the public in general, particularly in the county districts thereby making the use of the telephone more expensive.

Be it resolved, That we instruct our solicitor to co-operate with the solicitor of the Camden City Board of Trade and use every legal means, including an inquiry into the constitutionality of the various acts under which said company is operating, so as to protect the county's interest and the public in general.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Clerk of each Board of Chosen Freeholders of this State and a request extended to them to join in this improvement looking to the protection of the public.

Singed, J. P. EARL,
THOS. N. LEESON.

Camden, July 21, 1911.

This communication was on motion by Freeholder Smith received and ordered placed on file.

A communication from James C. Park requesting permission to operate over the County Roads a traction engine similar to that now used on the roads by the Fanwood Stone Crushing and Quarry Company, was read and on motion by Freeholder Krouse the communication was received and ordered placed on file and the request referred to the County Road Committee with power.

A communication from James W. Fink, County Road Inspector, advising the Board that the Cranford Gas Light Company had opened the county road on South avenue, near Terrill road, Westfield, New Jersey, for the purpose of installing a gas main, without the necessary permission from this Board, was read and on motion by Freeholder Smith the matter was referred to the County Road Committee.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Gentlemen—I send you herewith a copy of a request adopted at the meeting of City Council held August 1, 1911.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. KENAH,
City Clerk.

Elizabeth, Aug. 3, 1911.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen—Your Special Committee on Street Repair, after having had several meetings, one of which was with the Road Committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders and having also made several inspections of smooth dustless roads, begs to report progress and recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the City Council request the Board of Chosen Freeholders to take over and improve the following streets in the City of Elizabeth, as County roads: Rahway avenue, from the city line to Broad street; Cherry street, from Rahway avenue to Morris avenue; Westfield avenue, from the city line to North Broad street and Jersey street from Cherry street to Staten Island Sound.

Respectfully submitted,
PATRICK J. M'GURN,
W. F. MARSH,
OTTO WAGNER,
CHAS. H. MOORE,
MAHLON MOREY,
FRANCIS ENGEL,
Special Committee on Street Repairs.

I hereby certify the above to be a true copy of a report adopted at the meeting of the City Council, held August 1, 1911.

JOHN F. KENAH,
City Clerk.

Freeholder Krouse moved that this matter be referred to the County Road Committee, said motion being seconded by Freeholder Smith.

Freeholder Hennessey moved an amendment to this motion, that the said communication be referred to the County Road Committee and a Special Committee of four to be appointed by the Director. After discussion on the amendment by Freeholders Hennessey, Krouse, Meisel, Fay, Pierson, Acken and Swain the amendment was on roll call declared lost. Eight ayes and ten nays. Freeholders Acken, Bourdon, Fay, Hennessey, Jones, Pierson, Swain and Teller voting in the affirmative and Director Cady and Freeholders Crane, Darby, Hall, Krouse, Meisel, Perry, Randolph, Smith and Wilbur voting in the negative.

The original motion to refer this communication to the County Road Committee was then adopted.

Committee Reports.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Gentlemen—Your Committee on South and Union avenue bridges, Cranford, N. J., would report that they have made an examination of the bridges.

The bridge over Rahway river at Union avenue has a loose railing and needs some planking and painting. Your Committee would recommend that the railing be made tight and firm, and the other iron members be tightened up, where necessary, also that the planking be gone over, and renewed, where necessary, also that the bridge be then painted, the whole work to cost not more than $400.

The bridge over the Rahway River, at South avenue, is a highway bridge, and is also occupied by the tracks of the street railway. It is in need of repairs, if the present bridge is to be continued in use. Your committee has asked the County Engineer to test the deflection of this bridge under trolley cars, and it has been found to deflect one-half inch under passing cars. The bridge is old, and narrow. This location is about to be improved by an undercrossing under the tracks of the N. J. Central R. R., which when carried to completion, will result in placing considerable more traffic over this bridge than formerly. The agreement between the county and the street railway company as to this bridge states that in case of repairs, the street railway company is to pay the whole cost. In the case of a new bridge the street railway company is to pay one-half of the cost of the bridge.

In view of all of the conditions at this point, your committee would request that it be empowered to take up with the Public Service Street Railway Company, the matter of constructing a new bridge at this place, this committee to report to the Board at the next meeting, the result of the conference.

GEO. G. TELLER,
W. A. BOURDON.
BURTON P. HALL,

August 2, 1911.

On motion by Freeholder Wilbur this report was received and the recommenadtions contained therein were on roll call adopted unaimously.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Gentlemen—Your Committee appointed at the last meeting of the Board to "investigate into the method of the burial of inmates at the Alms House" and especially the case of Mrs. Emma Best, would respectfully report

That we fail to find that the Board of Freeholders have any authority over the Morgue Keeper. The statute provides that they shall pay his bills. Your Committee feel, however, that it is within the province of the Board to see that the county receives a just and proper return for the moneys paid. Your Committee also fail to find any authority for the payment of more than $15 for his services; and $25 has been paid him in the past, restitution should be made, which restitution Morguekeeper Engel agrees to make provided he cannot show any authority for the payment of a $25 fee.

In regard to the method of burial it was found that it has not been the custom of Mr. Engel to use coffins but instead, a rough and crudely made box. Your Committee personally inspected and measured the box used for the burial of Mrs. Emma Best and found it to be made of rough boards of 6 feet long, 18 inches wide and 10 inches deep, the top and bottom boards being held together by rough pieces of packing boxes nailed on the inside, thus reducing the depth between cleats to 8 inches. Your Committee considers this an improper and inhuman method of disposing of the dead and especially so when a coffn, shaped, stained and lined, and of proper size can be purchased for $3. Mr Engel has promised to use coffins hereafter.

In regard to Mrs. Best, it was found that she had been a resident of Rahway for some years, that she had relatives living there and that her daughter had been in the habit of visiting her weekly while in the hospital; also that there was some insurance on her life. In view of these circumstances your Committee are in doubt that she could be properly classed as "Unknown dead" or that her burial is a proper charge against the County.

In view of the above facts your Committee cannot recommend the payment of Mr. Engel's bill for the burial of Mrs. Best.

Respectfully submitted,
GEO. G. TELLER,
S. P. T. WILBUR,
THOS. J. PIERSON,
Committee.

Freeholder Jones moved that the report be received and the recommendations contained therein be adopted, said motion being seconded by Freeholder Wilbur.

Freeholder Randolph requested information as to the rights of the Board to prescribe the methods as to the burial of inmates at the Alms House, and Freeholder Acken requested an opinion from County Attorney Coddington as to the requirements and provisions of the law regulating said burials.

County Attorney Codington advised the Board as to the provisions of the law stating that the Board was without jurisdiction in the case except as to the approval and payment of bills incurred. The court having the supervision and full authority over the Morguekeeper.

The original motion that the report be received and recommendations contained therein adopted was on motion by Freeholder Randolph amended that a copy of said report under seal of the Board be sent by the Clerk to Hon. Edward S. Atwater, Judge.

The motion as amended was on roll call adopted unanimously.

Bridge at Riverside avenue and drainage of Casino avenue, Cranford.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed on above named matters would report that a meeting has been had, and the places examined.

Your Committee would recommend the raising of the present Riverside avenue bridge to the new grade of the roadway, the extension of the southerly end thereof about 8 feet, and the rearrangement of the railing at the upper end, all to cost not more than $400.

Your Committee would recommend the construction of a new iron box culvert across Claremont place, at Casino avenue, to take care of the water accumulating at that point, at a cost not to exceed the sum of $250.

GEO. G. TELLER,
D. F. HENNESSEY,
AARON D. CRANE,

August 2, 1911.

On motion by Freeholder Krouse this report was received and the recommendations contained therein were on roll call adopted unanimously.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Vauxhall road bridge, Union, would report that they have received bids for the redecking and extension of same, and have awarded the contract to the lowest bidder, Wilfred A. Cole, for the sum of two hundred and sixty-four dollars ($264).

Respectfully submitted,
AARON D. CRANE,
CHAS. D. SMITH,
A. A. BOURDON,

August 2, 1911.

This report was on motion by Freeholder Smith received and ordered placed on file.

New Business.

By Freeholder Perry.

Resolved, That a Committee of three be appointed to examine the brook crossings at Maple avenue and at Sinclair place, Westfield, N. J., the Committee to report at a subsequent meeting of this Board as to the advisability of constructing bridges on the two streets named, together with the probable cost of the work.

This resolution was on motion by Freeholder Krouse adopted unanimously. The Director appointed as said Committee Freeholders Perry, Darby and Fay.

By Freeholder Pierson.

Resolved, That the Director of the Board set a day for the whole Board to go over the County and State Aid roads, now under construction and repairs, for the purpose of getting an idea of the work being done by the County Road Committee.

This resolution was on motion by Freeholder Hennessey adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Smith.

Resolved, That the County Collector be and he is hereby authorized to transfer the sum of three hundred and sixty-one and five hundredths ($361.05) dollars from the account "For Registrar's office" to the account "For record books and repairs."

This resolution was on motion by Freeholder Smith adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Krouse.

Whereas, The Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, have constructed and improved many roads, streets and avenues within said county, and which the said county of Union is now charged with the repairs and maintenance of said roads, streets and avenues, and

Whereas, It is desirious on the part of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, that said roads, streets and avenues should be protected against promiscuous excavations, tunnels, etc., for the purposes of laying, replacing or repairing of water, gas or sewer pipes, or for any other purpose;

Therefore, In acordance with the provisions of an Act entitled "An Act Concerning Roads," approved April 16, 1907, be it

Resolved (1) That it shall be unlawful for any person or corporation to make any excavation in, or tear up the surface of any road or street in the County of Union, (which road or street has been improved by the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, and for which the said Board of Chosen Freholders is charged with repairs) for the laying, replacing or repairing of water, gas or sewer pipes, or for making any drain, or for any other purpose without a witten permit being first had and obtained from this Board.

(2) That application for such permit shall be made to the County Engineer in writing, signed by the applicant, specifying the place, kind, size of excavation and time required.

(3) And that applicant shall agree to keep such opening properly guarded and at night to have lights placed thereat, and in doing the work to interfere as little as possible with the travel along such street; and to open no greater part of such street than shall be allowed by the County Engineer, and to fill such opening promptly, and in the manner directed by the County Engineer, and to pay any and all damages resulting from negligence in making, guarding or filling such opening.

(4) The issuing of permits shall be subject to the approval of the Road Committee.

(5) Where the roadway is paved with ordinary macadam pavement, the applicant shall, at the time of making said application, deposit with the County Engineer, twenty-five ($25) dollars, which deposit shall be retained by the County Engineer until the replacing of the road is completed in a manner satisfactory to the County Engineer and County Road Committee, and then returned to the applicant. Should the applicant fail to satisfactorily replace the road bed so disturbed within five days after notice so to do, the County Road Committee may cause the same to be done, and deduct the cost thereof from the deposit so made by the applicant, and the balance, if any, remaining in the hands of the Engineer, be returned to the said applicant.

(6) Where the roadway is paved with pavement other than ordinary macadam, the applicant shall, at the time of making said application, deposit with the County Engineer, the sum of twenty-five ($25) dollars.

Out of this sum of twenty-five ($25) dollars there shall be retained by the County Engineer the following named sums, to wit:

For roadways paved with Bitulithis pavements, three ($3) dollars per square yard of pavement disturbed, but in no case less than fifteen ($15) dollars.

For roadways paved with Amiesite pavements, two ($2) dollars per square yard, of pavement disturbed, but in no case less than ten ($10) dollars.

For roadway paved with material other than the above such, a sum per square yard and such a minumum sum as may from time to time be determined by the County Road Committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

The work of trenching, removing the old pavement, replacing the material up to the subgrade for the pavement, tamping, etc., shall be done by the applicant under the supervision of the County Engineer, and at the cost of the applicant.

The work of replacing the pavement shall then be done by the oBard of Chosen Freeholders and the cost thereof shall be met by the above named, payments to be made by the applicant to the County Engineer.

Upon the completion of the work by the applicant to the satisfaction of the County Engineer, there shall be returned to him the difference between his deposit of twenty-five ($25) dollars, and the sum retained as above by the County Engineer to pay the cost of replacing the pavement.

This sum so due the applicant, however, may be used by the County Road Committee in replacing the trench fillings, etc., as provided in clause No. 5 of this resolution.

(7) And in addition to said deposit, whenever deemed necessary, the County Road Committee may demand from the applicant a bond in such amount as to them shall seem necessary to indeminfy the County of Union, against damages by reason of imperfect work.

(8) The applicant shall in every instance be responsible for all damages to the traveling public.

(9) That this Board hereby prescribes a penalty by a fine not exceeding one hundred ($100) dollars for the violation of this resolution or any section thereof.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur this resolution was adopted unanimously and the Clerk instructed to have same published in the Elizabeth Daily Journal, Plainfield Courier-News and the Summit Herald once a week for two consecutive weeks.

By Committee on Elizabeth drawbridge.

Resolved, That repairs be authorized to the flooring and other portions of the drawbridge over Elizabeth River, at South street, Elizabeth, N. J., at a cost not to exceed the sum of $250, this work being necessary for the proper care of this bridge.

JOSEPH PERRY,
J. LOGAN FAY,
GEO. G. TELLER.

On motion by Freeholder Jones this resolution was on roll call adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Krouse.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed with power to lengthen the bridge on Linden avenue, near First avenue, Roselle, so that it will include the new sidewalk now laid there. The additional length to be about 17 feet, and the work to cost not more than $150.

The same committee to examine a bridge on Linden road, near St. George avenue, and to report as to its repair, at a subseqeut meeting of the board, presening also an estimate of the cost of the work.

On motion by Freeholder Smith this resolution was on roll call adopted unanimously. The Director appointed as said Committee, Freeholders Krouse, Hall and Jones.

By Freeholder Hennessey.

Resolved, That the four freeholders representing the City of Elizabeth be permitted to attend the meeting of the Joint Committees, viz., from the City of Elizabth and the County Road Committee, in matters relative to the improvement of the streets in the City of Elizabeth.

On motion by Freeholder Smith this resolution was adopted unanimously.

Freeholder Randolph requested information as to the report of the special committee appointed at the last meeting as to the application received for the appointment of a County Sealer. Freeholder Krouse of this committee reported "Progress" in the matter.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The Montclair Board of Health must be a very accommodating body of men, at least, to those best citizens, when they consented to the wanton destruction of thousands of useful as well as innocent birds. But the best citizens made the mistake of their lives when they failed to honor that occasion by hiring a brass band and joining in a parade headed by their board of health. Well, if Montclair has nothing else to be remembered by that city will always be famous because of that wholesale slaughter of the innocents.

THE MAN HIGHER UP

man for man in point of size, weight and courage the two were equally matched. On Haggin's side there was the advantage of superior science and the cool generalship of the trained boxer. But Bob was the born fighter, and his muscles were hard and elastic as the steel whose forging had developed them, whereas his antagonist had been years out of training. Amid a tense silence, broken only by the shuffling of their feet, they faced each other and began the combat. Coolly, warily, savagely they fought, two splendid brutes, beasts of prey thirsting for each other's blood.

Suddenly Haggin feinted, then brought his right crashing to Bob's temple. For an instant Bob was numbed and blinded with pain. Then all feeling of hurt left him. He saw as though a red film had been lowered before his eyes. His thin lips drew back cruelly, and he pressed forward to meet the onslaught of Haggin, who had thought to finish him with one more blow. There was a short, fierce interchange, then—no one knew just how it happened—it was all over. Haggin, the mighty, lay on the floor, helpless and groaning, his head rolling from side to side in the futile effort to raise himself.

"Bring some water," Bob ordered.

The bartender brought a bucketful, with which Bob carelessly deluged his prostrate antagonist. Then he turned to the bar.

"The boys 'll take another round of the same they ordered before," he said in dry sarcasm.

The spell was broken. The crowd of men who had in awed silence watched the combat, McAdoo followers and Haggin adherents alike, cheered the victor, each trying to shake his hand, a familiarity which he coldly denied them and for the refusal of which they strangely admired him the more. Haggin, staggering to his feet, looked on dumbly, uncomprehendingly.

"What—what's the matter?" he muttered thickly.

"Ye're licked, Tom Haggin! Bob McAdoo licked ye!" they yelled derisively.

"Ye didn't lick me. Ye never licked me, Bob McAdoo. My God!" His voice rose to a loud shriek, the agonized cry of a monarch who sees his kingdom forever departed from him.

"Yes, I did," Bob said sternly. "And if you want more of the same, come on."

But Haggin did not come on. He took one step toward Bob, then a new, unfamiliar sensation entered his heart—fear—fear of the big young man who stood before him.

"My God," he groaned hoarsely, "ye did lick me!" Then in a pitiful attempt to gather the tatters of his lost prestige around the nakedness of his defeat he yelled again: "But ye could never 'a' done it when I was in trainin'. Ye never could."

A derisive shout went up. "Ha," sneered one, an erstwhile supporter, "it's easy enough to say that now, when there's no chance o' provin' it."

With the bellow of a mad bull Haggin sprang toward the speaker, who fled the saloon. The ex-pugilist, grim and desperate, turned to the crowd.

"Come on, ye dogs! Bob McAdoo's licked me, but ye hain't An' ye can't—none o' ye, all o' ye! If there's any thinks he can come on, as many as ye like, an' I'll show ye!"

"Right!" said Bob contemptuously. "I judge you can handle about a dozen, Haggin. If more'n that comes I'm with you."

But none came.

The next was the hardest and the greatest moment in Haggin's life. Under the bully was hidden a crude manhood. He turned to his conqueror and said slowly:

"Ye licked me, Bob McAdoo, fair an' square. That goes. Ye're the only man as ever done it. There ain't another man in the city can do it. Shake!"

"Sure," said Bob heartily, grasping the outstretched hand.

"The drinks is on me," Haggin continued painfully, thus completing the public acknowledgment of his defeat as required by Irishtown etiquette.

While the drinks were being poured and consumed Bob took Haggin by the arm and led him into the rear room, whither many a longing glance was cast, but none dared follow.

"Haggin," he said gruffly, "you're a man. What's the use of you and me fightin'? I can lick you after tonight—that's right, ain't it?"

"That goes," Haggin assented.

"When I went into this political game," Bob continued, "it was to help the squire out. But I like it, and I'm in it to stay now—for myself. I've got you licked this time. I can go on lickin' you if I have to, but I don't want to have to. Now, what's the matter with me and you hangin' together in this deal. Between us we can hold this ward so no one can hurt us. What do you say?"

"Shake again," said Haggin huskily. "You're a man."

Thus Haggin was conquered and became Bob's faithful retainer. The squire was renominated and later reelected without opposition.

CHAPTER III.

THE ROAD TO POWER

THE lure of politics had caught Bob. From the night of his fight with Haggin he began to take the game seriously, devoting much time and work to the perfection of his organization. A few months later the new field suddenly opened wider before him. An era of "reform" was impending.

Now, the Steel City was ruled by what was popularly and appropriately denominated the "hog combine," a group of gentlemen headed and herded by Steele and Harmon, voluntarily associated to relieve the public of the burden of government.

While Steele, a born political strategist and a man of magnetic personality, the heart and brains of the organization, lived the machine found smooth sailing. But the "combine" fell upon hard times. Steele died, and the leadership devolved upon Harmon. Harmon possessed none of the personal magnetism that had made Steele's critics love the man while they hated his misdeeds; also he lacked the sagacity and caution of the dead leader. So the machine was allowed to fall into excesses that Steele never would have permitted. The Tenderloin ran openly and flagrantly. A big boodling escapade in the halls of the city fathers came to light. Certain public contracts were let with such incautious unfairness that murmurs of discontent began to be heard. All this might have had no important results of itself. But to cap the climax Harmon, to satisfy a long cherished dislike, dismissed MacPherson from the directorate of public works.

MacPherson was a hatchet faced, saturnine votary of Mammon; also there was enough of the Indian in him to make revenge for all affronts a necessity. He accepted his dismissal with apparent equanimity and instituted a campaign to destroy his enemy. A sturdy little band of reformers that had fought long but fruitlessly to overthrow Steele's defenses suddenly and mysterously took a new lease on life. MacPherson bought a morning and an evening newspaper. Sensational exposures followed startling revelations with great effect. The city began to stir uneasily. One day MacPherson called a few men into his office.

"Gentlemen," said he, "let us reform the city."

And thereupon the "Citizens' party" was formed.

So it happened that one evening Bob received a call from Robbins, a MacPherson benchman who had the reputation of knowing how to deal with all sorts of men.

"McAdoo," Robbins greeted him, "without beating round the bush I'll tell you what I'm after. I come from Mac. We want you with us in our fight against Harmon and"—

"All right," Bob interrupted carelessly. "Tell MacPherson I'll talk to him any time he says."

"But I have authority"—

"I don't talk to middlemen," Bob said curtly. "Good night."

"All right," Robbins laughed "You're the doctor."

The next evening Bob was by appointment shown into MacPherson's downtown office. Besides the prospective boss, there were in the office Robbins and Graham, the independents candidate for mayor. Mr. Graham was an elderly gentleman with a pretty complexion, white mutton chop whiskers and shapely, beautifully manicured hands. He thought he was a reformer and a gentleman of the old school.

"How are you, McAdoo?" MacPherson greeted the newcomer with a cordiality cleverly toned down to fit the man he saluted. "Shake hands with Mr. Graham. You have met Robbins, I believe. Mr. Graham, this is the young leader of the Fourth whom we're hoping to have with us."

Bob maliciously caught Graham's ladylike hand in his own iron grasp and squeezed it until the little man's eyeballs rolled in agony.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

"Alma, Where Do You Live?" with its Parisian flavor, its highly amusing situations and its many sparkling musical numbers will be the pleasing attraction at the Plainfield theatre Saturday matinee and evening, September 2. No more pleasing musical comedy has been presented to the American public than this French vaudeville. There is not a dull moment during the entire performance of this bright comedy, but two and a half hours of solid merriment and laughter. There is scarcely a ball room or restaurant in New York that one cannot hear the delightful "Alma" score played. It is the first music since "The Merry Widow" to catch and hold the public fancy. The amusing little play with its sparkling music, funny situations and witty dialogue is the greatest musical comedy seen in New York in years. Every song in "Alma, Where Do You Live?" is a decided hit and Jean Briquet's music continues to be the most tuneful heard in New York. The excellent cast which Joe Weber has given "Alma" does full justice to the exquisite melodies. Every one of the fourteen song hits are repeatedly encored at every performance. The story is of intense interest and George V. Hobart in his English version has greatly improved upon the original of Paul Herve, interjecting much native American humor and eliminating all of the unpleasant Gallicisms. All of the sparkling music of Jean Briquet has been retained and Mr. Hobart's fourteen lyrics are laughable and clever in the extreme. "Alma, Where Do You Live?" played for an entire season at Weber's theatre, New York, and Mr. Weber will send en tour the entire original production of scenery and cast of brilliant players.

BASEBALL SCORES.

Odd Way the Plays Were Recorded Back in the Sixties.

The baseball public of today, accustomed to the minute reporting of games, wherein each run is compounded and many a play analyzed, is offered the account of a game played in Syracuse in 1868. The contestants were the Central Citys of Syracuse and the Athletics of Philadelphia, and the score was 41 to 12.

The game was delayed a half hour by the difficulty in finding an umpire. Then the report goes on to state:

"The game opened loosely upon both sides, and at the end of the first innings the score stood Athletics 5, Central City 4, each side making its tallies promptly from the loose playing of the out club. After the first inning the Athletics played more carefully, while the Central Citys grew more cafeless until the fifth inning, when they became more demoralized than was the Union army at the battle of Bull Run.

"Considerable dissatisfaction was manifested and expressed, and in two innings rightfully so, at the evident one sided decisions of the umpire.

"We will not particularize, but suffice to say that several of the players on both sides did well, while others, especially the Central City side, were not fully up to their standard efforts. The following is the

A CRUSHING RETORT.

Mme. Songbird Paid Her Haughty Society Patron In Full.

Last year a prominent Boston society leader, in arranging a musical surprise at an elaborate dinner given to the town's elite, called on a singer of renown to engage her services for that event. It chanced that the singer was naturally independent. On the other hand, the caller was notoriously haughty. As a result this was what transpired between them:

After the visitor had announced the import of her coming, the singer succinctly said she would sing one number for $200, and that it would be a Wagnerian selection.

"The price we will not haggle over," said the visitor, "but instead of that grand opera selection I want you to render one of the light and popular ditties of the day!"

"For the Wagnerian song, $200; for the popular ditty, $300," was the firm reply.

"But, madame," expostulated the society leader, "your classical song is much more exacting on your powers, so why should you charge more for the lighter and easier song?"

"Ah," replied the independent one, "the harder song is all fun to me; the easier one all work!"

So the price was fixed at $300.

Just as the haughty visitor was about to depart, she turned to the artist and said:

"Of course, I shall not expect you to mingle with my guests."

"Ah," was the biting retort, "I shall throw off $50."—Life.

Extremely Polite.

The forms of Mexican politeness to the stranger are sometimes embarrassing. Miss Mary Barton, who visited the country to paint landscapes and tells her experience in "Impressions of Mexico," says that "people seemed anxious to help me in all possible ways, from the railway conductor, who invited me to dine with him, to the very smart young man that I met in the postoffice when I had a number of invitations in my hand and who offered to lick the stamps for me."

Shutting Him Off.

Tasty Poison.

Customer—The poison may be excellent, but the rats won't take it. You'll have to make it more tasty. Druggist—I've tried that already, but the apprentice boys eat it.—Fliegende Blatter.

LEADERS STILL HAVE SOME ELECTION POWER

Common Pleas Judges all over New Jersey are taking the first steps toward filling the vacancies for civil service election officials in their respective counties as provided for by Governor Wilson's election reform law of last winter.

Mr. Wilson planned, through his elaborate election law, to break the grip of the leaders in the State's election machinery. Through their county committee they had been able to fill all the election boards with men of their own choosing. To dissociate the election officials from the leaders the Governor's law requires that only those found eligible at civil service examinations, shall be permitted to officiate in the election places. If there were not enough candidates to man the booths, the Common Pleas Judges were empowered to fill the vacancies.

In Hudson, Sussex, Bergen and Mercer counties in the north part of the State, and in two or three of the counties in South Jersey, the Common Pleas Judges have put this feature of the new law into practical operation. Very many of the men they picked to fill vacancies are those of the old-time retainers of the leaders. This is due to the fact that when candidates for the places were called for, the leaders hurried their lieutenants forward to take the examinations.

Even with the assistance the leaders thus gave them in getting men to serve at the polling places, the judges have found the number passing the examinations far short of the number required.

As a consequence the courts in all the counties have been obliged to fill hundreds of vacancies with men not in the eligible lists. In Hudson, the eligibles are 200 short of the total number required. In Essex there is a shortage of nearly 300. In two of the South Jersey counties there wasn't a candidate, and the courts have been called upon to name the whole list. The judges did not know where to find the men to serve, and they have requested the chairmen of the county committees to send names to them. The county chairmen have acommodatingly sent in lists of those whom they would have appointed under the old system.

FORMER GOVERNOR'S HOME FOR LICENSED HOTEL.

The staid citizens of New Brunswick were surprised Saturday when they learned that the Ludlow mansion, the home of former Governor George C. Ludlow, is to be converted into a licensed hotel. This old-fashioned home, which sheltered Governor Ludlow when he was chief executive, and later when he was chief justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, and which was the scene of his death, has always been revered by the people of New Brunswick. When the Pennsylvania Railroad elevated its tracks through New Brunswick and built its new depot adjacent to this property, it was feared that it would be wiped out to make way for the improvements, but it was not molested.

The Ludlow family continued to live there. Recently they sold the property to Street Commissioner Abram Jelin, a real estate speculator. Friday night Joseph Harding, a New Brunswick bartender, made application to Common Council for a license for 145 Albany street. The location was not identified at that time and the application went to the license committee without comment and is now in its possession.

Saturday it developed that 145 Albany street is the Ludlow house and Mr. Jelin admitted that he plans to remodel the building and transform it into a first class hotel property if the liquor license for it is granted. There are now five licensed places in the immediate vicinity of the depot and the Ludlow house.

Bitten by Rat; May Die.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 29.—Ruth Jones, six months old, daughter of Charles Jones, is believed to be dying as the result of a rat bite. The child was in a bed beside that occupied by her parents, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when she was bitten on the left hand. Her screams awakened her parents, but she had lost a large part of her blood through an opened artery before the parents discovered the trouble and stayed the flow. ANSWERS PASTOR

Mr. Adkins Resents Assertion That Bible Writers Were Ignoramuses.

CITES PROOF TO CONTRARY.

Reply to Sermon Preached by Rev. A. S. Zimmerman, of New York, at Union Service Here on Sunday Night.

As a reply to the sermon delivered by Rev. A. S. Zimmerman, of Newark, at the union service at the First M. E. church on Sunday night, R. Morris Adkins, of this city, has sent the following for publication:

Editor, The Daily Press:—

"Being one of the many in that great audience that listened to the Rev. A. S. Zimmerman in his masterful sermon reported in your valuable paper Monday afternoon, that could not agree with what he said of the writers of the Bible, I take this way of putting myself on record as being opposed to all such statements that would seem to elevate and aggrandize roughness and ignorance as being more useable to accomplishment God's purpose than refinement and intelligence. With all respect to the learned gentleman who prided himself on his having human ancestors seven feet high and made by God himself in his own likeness and image, while, he at least insinuated that the rest of us common people might have descended from monkeys.

"I do not see how he can say that the writers of the Bible were ignorant and unlearned men—ignoramuses, to use his own ungenerous expression. If his Bible reads like mine does, it must say the writers of what has been proven to be the greatest literary production of all times, were men in advance of, rather than in the vanguard of their fellows in literary attainments.

"Take Moses, the writer of what is admitted to be the greatest production of jurisprudence the world has ever known, was surely no ingoramus—'He was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptian.' Acts 7:22. And the Egyptians were the most literary people of all time.

"Nor was Solomon, the wisest king that ruled over Judah or that the world has ever seen, a son of the 'wooly wilds.' But he was a son of Judah's best and noblest King, who although once a sheppard boy was nevertheless of the blood of Abraham, the strain that has produced the noblest men of all history. And who in his later years become the sweet singer of Israel and writer of the sweetest and purest psalms of the psalter.

"And I fail to see how he can call the Christ an ignorant man even from a worldly point of view. Are not his sayings full to the overflowing with quotations from the Old Testament, the law and the prophets. And at twelve years he was found disputing with the learned men—the Scribes and Pharisees—the L.L.D.'s of his time. And there is no evidence that goes to prove that he got what he learned in any different way than you or I get what we learn i. e., by reading, hard study and observation. He was awfully human as well as Divine.

"And were all the apostles ignorant and unlearned men—men with the smell of the salt and the fishnet clinging to their garments?

"Luke was a physician. Our physicians are required to be the brightest and most learned men of the day and although the standard was not then as high as now it was no doubt as much in advance of the rabble as our doctors are above the man of the street, and I venture that Luke was as good as the best of them.

"And then coming to the great Apostle Paul, does not he himself tell us and with a touch of pardonable pride that he was no common Jew and that he was learned. 'I veribly am a man which am a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city of Sicily, yet brought up in this city (Jeruselum) at the feet of Gamalin (a most learned Jew, Acts 5:34) and taught according to the perfect manner of the Law,' Acts 22:3. These are but a few conspicuous examples of the literary qualifications of the men who have left upon this great book of books the impress of their remarkable intellectuality as well as their great spirituality that has made the book what it is and has kept it in the forefront of literature for all the ages past as it shall ever be kept in the forefront in all the ages that are to come.

"Ezekel was the son of a priest Daniel was a man of prominence in his time—Prime Minister of Asyeria, if you please. Amos was a man of independent means.

"Jonah was written by some humane and Catholic-minded man far in advance of his time—and in some respects in advance of ours.

"But why prolong the list, I feel

SCHOOL SITE PICKED IN NEW PROVIDENCE

About two and a half acres was the greatest amount of land the New Providence Township School Board could secure as a site for the proposed new six-room school without exceeding the appropriation of $1,000. The site selected has a 200-foot frontage on Plainfield avenue, with a depth of 500 feet.

The majority of the board favored a site nearer the centre of the population, where the building would be in sight of the railroad and the main street, Springfield avenue. To secure the support of both the people, of Berkeley Heights and Stony Hill a compromise was necessary.

The site selected is to be purchased from Frank Sohl, being cut from a tract of about six acres. The contract was signed Monday night. It is practically a sixty-day option.

As soon as the plans and specifications are ready the board will start the erection of the building. The Building Committee will meet this evening to alter the plans and specifications now on hand and to arrange them for the meeting of the board to be held on September 11.

RE-DISTRICTING FIFTH WOULD HELP TUTTLE

If the plan which is said to have been proposed for the redistricting of the various Congressional districts of the State is carried out by Governor Wilson calling a special session of the Legislature for that purpose, which now seems very probable, there will be a radical change in the Fifth district.

The Fifth at present includes all of the counties of Union, Warren and Morris. According to the plan which has been proposed, the change provides that Union and Warren remain intact, but that only the southern part of Morris be included, the northern section going over into the Sixth, which will include, besides, the western part of Passaic and all of Sussex.

While this change, geographically, does not appear marked, still there is little doubt but that the result would have a decided bearing on the choosing of a Congressman at future elections, for that half of Morris county which would be dropped from the present Fifth, is the more strongly Republican, while the remaining portion is strongly Democratic.

There is little doubt but that Congressman Tuttle, of the Fifth, will seek a re-election, and it is conceded by the Republicans that the change in Morris would benefit him.

Under the plan now under consideration, the Fifth district with one exception would have a larger population than any of the remaining other eleven, with 218,384, the Third, in which no change is proposed and which consists of Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean counties being the largest with 230,478.

The Governor has discussed the wisdom of taking this course with some of the Democratic members of the House of Representatives from this State and, as a general thing, they have urged him to call the special session. The New Jersey members of the Lower House of Congress are said to be a unit in the belief that a special session should be held, and they now have the understanding that the Governor will not delay much longer in calling the lawmakers back to Trenton for the purpose of redistricting the State.

In fact, the plan is so far advanced and it is held to be so certain that the Governor will issue his proclamation for the extra session that a tentative redistricting plan satisfactory to the Democratic Congressmen has been mapped out.

Accuses Her Neighbor.

The complaint of disorderly conduct brought against Mrs. James Traynor, of South Second street, by Mrs. Mary Allard, a neighbor, was dismissed in the city court this morning by Judge William G. DeMeza as in making the complaint, Mrs. Allard had named the wrong date. A new complaint was drawn and the hearing will take place tomorrow morning. Mrs. Allard charges Mrs. Traynor with using profane and indecent language in an argument over some chickens.

BUSY ON ELECTION

City Clerk MacMurray Selects Polling Places and Receives Candidates' Petitions.

SAMPLE BALLOT PRINTED SOON.

Every Voter Will Get One Which Can't Be Used at the Primary—Australian Ballot for General Election.

City Clerk James T. MacMurray is making initial preparations to handle the work which will devolve upon him under the provisions of the new Geran election law. Already he has selected the location of the polling places which are required in Plainfield by reason of the redistricting of the city. A considerable portion of the actual clerical work, however, cannot be undertaken until after the last petition of the municipal candidates is filed with the city clerk.

As soon as all the petitions are in it will be necessary to make up the tickets for the primary election, have them printed and proofed and sample ballots mailed to all the voters registered at the last election. These sample ballots, of which 4,500 will be sent out among both parties, are for the purpose of familiarizing the voters with the personnel of the ticket to be voted at the primaries. The sample ballots will be of a different color from he ones to be used officially at the polls and are of no use except as fac similes.

The ballots for the general election will be sent out in the same manner, the only difference in these being that they are of the style known as the Australian ballot and contain the names of the candidates of both parties on the one ballot. This will in a measure reduce the amount of work required to mail them, as it will not be necessary to make any distinction between the Democratic and Republican voters.

RULE IS CLEAR AS TO THE GRAND JURY

The Supreme Court considers that the recent decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals sustaining the conviction of Horace Codington, a Somerset county lawyer, accused of misapplying township funds, finally established the fact that a grand jury need not consist of twenty-four members. Holding this view the court in an opinion by Justice Parker has sustained the indictment for breaking and entering brought in Ocean county against Charles A. Robinson.

Robinson's counsel contended that an act passed in 1819 requiring sheriffs to summon twenty-four grand jurymen abrogated the old common law rule that a grand jury should consist of not more than twenty-three members. He argued that there had not been a legal indictment in the State for nearly a century. Justice Parker held that the purpose of the act of 1819, which has been more or less closely followed in subsequent criminal legislation, was not to change the number of jurors but to dispense with the requirement of a precept to the sheriff whenever a grand jury was to be summoned.

He said it was conceded that up to 1819 an indictment might be returned by a jury consisting of any number from twelve to twenty-three. The court's conclusions were stated in the syllabus of the opinion as follows:

"Section eleven of the criminal procedure act of 1898, requiring the sheriffs of the several counties to cause to come before the courts of oyer and terminer at the times and places of holding the same twenty-four good and lawful men to serve as grand jurors, makes no change in the rule of common law which has always prevailed in this State, that a grand jury shall consist of not more than twenty-three members."

Mid-week Prayer Meeting.

The mid-week prayer meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church this evening will be in charge of the Bible school. The superintendent, George E. Hall, has prepared a special program for this service, including a number of attractive features, and the meeting promises to be as interesting in every way as the other services that have been conducted by the Bible school. The musical portion of the program includes solos by Mrs. Robert Giddis, and selections by a quartet from the Park Avenue church. The Bible school orchestra will accompany the singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Backer, formerly of this city but now of Pompton Lakes, are the parents of a girl, born to them Monday morning.

HURT AT STATION

Boehringer in Trying to Board Moving Train is Seriously Injured.

ESCAPED INSTANT DEATH.

Rebounded from Car and Picked Up Unconscious—Extent of Internal Wounds Not Yet Known.

Arriving at the North Avenue station this morning just as the 7:05 train was pulling out for Jersey City, Rudolph Boehringer, of Norwood avenue, attempted to board it and was thrown violently to the ground receiving a bad scalp wound and being injured internally. He was carried to the baggage room in an unconscious condition by Patrolman Birmingham and Baggagemaster Swartz. Dr. Albert H. Pittis was summoned and ordered the wounded man removed to the hospital. Reports from there this afternoon say that he is recovering from the shock but the extent of the internal injuries have not yet been determined.

Mr. Boehringer is a chemist in New York and it was while on his way to business that he received his injuries. He is a young man and boards with Miss S. S. Smalley, at 36 Norwood avenue. He is married and his wife at present is in Switzerland.

So far as is known there were no eyewitnesses to the accident and Mr. Boehringer is unable to say exactly how it happened except that he slipped and fell. Fortunately the train struck him, knocking him away from the wheels, otherwise he would have been ground to pieces.

JOEL D.F. RANDOLPH, AGED 83 YRS., DEAD

After an illness of about three weeks, Joel D. F. Randolph died yesterday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. William M. Sandford, of East Front street, in his eighty-fourth year. Death was caused by complication which his weakness owing to advanced age, could not overcome. The funeral will be held from the residence of his daughter Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Randolph was a native of this city and aside from a number of years he spent in the West had always lived here. For more than twenty years he has been making his home with his daughter, or since he returned from Pontiac, Ill., where he located after serving through the Civil War.

Surviving besides Mrs. Sandford are two sisters, Mrs. Marion VanNulse, of Plainfield avenue, and Mrs. William Dayton, of New Market.

THIEVES KILL A CALF; CART CARCASS AWAY

Union county farmers are complaining more than ever of the depredations of thieves. Tomato patches, cornfields and all kinds of fruit orchards are being raided and hundreds of dollars' worth of produce is being carried off.

The thieves are not confining their operations to produce alone, Wednesday night a cow and six-week-old calf was left in the pasture besides the road on the Lamb farm between Cranford and Linden; during the night the calf was caught and slaughtered in the field and the carcass carried off in a wagon.

Conditions are worse this year than ever before. The president of the Union County Board of Agriculture has been requested to call a meeting of the board to consider the situation and lay the facts before the county authorities and ask for police protection, either from the county or the various municipalities.

In Union the farmers themselves contribute to the expenses of a patrol and they suffer less than in any part of the coupty, but it is not considered fair by them that they should be compelled to pay the expense.

McCutchen for Mayor.

The Democrats of the borough see in the "mix-up" of the Republicans a chance to elect a mayor and to that end will endeavor to persuade Samuel St. John McCutchen or some other equally as prominent a citizen to become the candidate to lead the way, it is reported by a prominent Democrat.

HITS WILSON HARD

Former Mayor Chas. Place Calls Governor "A Determined, Conniving Political Boss."

WILL NEVER BE PRESIDENT?

North Plainfielder Predicts That Woodrow Wilson's Ambitions Will Meet the Fate of Clay and Bryan.

In the following letter published in the New York Press today, former Mayor Charles Place, of North Plainfield, arraigns Governor Woodrow Wilson as a political "boss" and predicts that he will never be President:

"Sir—There has never been in any party in the State of New Jersey a more determined, conniving political boss than Woodrow Wilson. You know that he bossed both the Democrats and the Republicans in the last Legislature in this State, and they did his bidding. The Democrats in that body were desperately afraid of him, and the Republicans dare not lift voice or vote against anything he suggested, so that his domination became full and complete over that body in both houses.

Almost twenty years ago we had Grover Cleveland and a Democratic Congress cast upon the country, and, as you know, that unfortunate condition of things, brought about by Republican votes and Republican shortsightedness, in a large degree destroyed for six years the business of the country and sent hundreds of men into suicidal graves through the desperate conditions which were brought about by Republicans putting that party of destruction in power.

No man, who, like Woodrow Wilson, has sought with all his powers the nomination has ever been elected President. Beginning with Henry Clay down to William J. Bryan, there has never been a man who sought that office who has ever yet attained it. And I firmly believe that history is to repeat itself in the case of Woodrow Wilson.

FROST GETS MILLION FOR ENGINEERING NEWS

The Hill Publishing Company announced yesterday that it had bought "Engineering News" which has been published weekly by its founder, George H. Frost, of this city, for the last thirty-eight years in New York. Mr. Frost announced that he wanted to retire from the active work of publication, but said he would continue as chairman of the board of directors.

"Engineering News" will continue in its present shape and form for a few weeks, and will then be cut down in size to conform to the standards of the other Hill publications, at which time the printing will be transferred to the Hill plant, at No. 505 Pearl street. There will be no change in the editorial or business management of the paper.

John A. Hill, president of the Hill Publishing Company, said that the price paid for "Engineering News" was probably the largest ever paid for any publication outside of the daily field. It is understood that the price was close to $1,000,000.

Mr. Frost president of the Courier-News Publishing Company, of this city, is a former Common councilman.

Exhibit at Bryant Playground.

A final exhibition of handwork, games and dances will be held at the Bryant School playground Saturday afternoon. The public is cordially invited to attend the affair, which promises to be a most interesting one. The work in basketry and sewing which hast been done this summer under the direction of Miss Harriet Moe, will be placed on exhibition. The final exercises in the other school yards will be held during next week, the announcements for which will be made later.

Picture of the Clans.

At the regular meeting of Clan Mackenzie Monday evening, Chief Robert Murray, who was the delegate to the Royal Clan Convention held last week in Boston, made his report. He also presented a large picture entitled "The Gathering of the Clans," which was taken at the time. All of the clansmen in the picture are in Highland costume and present a striking appearance. Tanist Donaldson, of the local clan, made the speech of acceptance.

Mrs. Hattie R. Batchelor, of East Fifth street, who has been spending the summer in Castleton, Vermont, has gone to Hague, N. Y., on Lake George, where she will stop at the Pinehurst Hotel.

BEARDSLEY DECLINES TO SEEK SENATORSHIP

TenEyck R. Beadsley, of Fanwood, declines to be a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the following public letter:

"While I deeply appreciate the compliment in having been urged by my friends and fellow democrats of Union county to seek the nomination for State senator, I have declined to become a candidate for the following reasons:

"First—I have thought that as a resident of the western end of the county, it might seriously effect the prospects of Calvin E. Brodhead for sheriff and Robert C. Woodhouse for assemblyman, and knowing both these gentlemen as I do and appreciating how eminently fitted they both are to fill the offices for which they are respectively candidates, I felt it my duty, as a Democrat and the part of good citizenship to withdraw from the senatorial race.

"Second—The press of my professional engagements would not permit of such attention to legislative duties as the office of senator would certainly demand.

"While not a candidate for office this fall, I do, however, pledge myself to do yeoman's service for the success of the Democratic ticket."

FREE TRANSPORTATION FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

All the school children, who are to participate in the exercises of the opening of Parker Field Monday afternoon, will be taken without charge to the field in trolley cars. Trolley cars will leave the Bryant, Irving, Parochial and Franklin School yards at 1:45 and all the children are requested to be present at these playgrounds at that time.

The children will give an exhibition of games and folk dancing and will assist in the exercises of the raising of the flag, which is to be presented to the city by the members of Camp Bagley, Spanish War Veterans' Association. The program will start at 2:30, at which time the children will begin their dances.

TRINITY COMMANDERY ARRANGES FOR OUTING.

The general committee of Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, met in the parlors of Masonic Hall last evening to arrange for the trip to Asbury Park on Thursday of next week. The Commandery has engaged a special train consisting of several coaches to take the members and their friends to the great "Field Day" celebration and review of the knights of New Jersey. Suhr's Imperial band will accompany them.

Headquarters at the West End Hotel have been engaged by the Commandery and the large porches of the hotel which is next to the hotel where the Grand Commandery will have its headquarters are to be reserved for the women to view the parade. Trinity Commandery has a wide reputation for doing things right and will sustain it in the coming great event.

WOMAN TO AGAIN RIDE ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Red Bank, Aug. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Field, of the Middletown Stock Farm, are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gable, of Helena, Mont. Mrs. Gable is better known as "Nan J. Aspinwall." She recently completed a ride on horseback from San Francisco to New York in 180 days. She carried a letter from Mayor McCarthy, of San Francisco, to Mayor Gaynor, of New York.

Before going to Middletown, Mr. and Mrs. Gable were camping at Red Bank on the banks of the North Shrewsbury River. Richard K. Fox presented to Mrs. Gable a diamond studded medal.

Mrs. Gable will return in October, and she has decided to ride from Red Bank to California.

Dr. Eaton to Preach.

As John McDowell, of Newark, will be unable to officiate at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on the coming Sunday, Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church of New York, whose country home is at Watchung, has consented to take his place. De. Eaton is always welcome whenever he preaches or lectures in Plainfield and should have a large congregation even in this vacation time.

Mrs. Watt's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Jane Watt, mother of Thomas Watt, of West Front street, will be held tomorrow morning from her late home in Somerville. She was in her eighty-fifth year and for some time had been a resident of Trenton, where her death occurred yesterday.

SMALLEY DECLINES

Won't Run For Mayor of Boro Again and Says He's Out of Politics.

MAKES FORMAL STATEMENT.

A Thankless Job He Declares in Paying His Respects to the "Standstills"—Criticizes Newfangled Laws.

In a formal statement made public last night, Mayor Newton B. Smalley of the borough, declined to again be a candidate for re-nomination. His statement follows:

"After considering the wishes of my friends for the past month who have beseeched me to seek renomination as Mayor of the borough of North Plainfield, I have decided that it will be impossible for me to do so as I have already neglected my business to give time and attention to public affairs. This I can no longer afford to do as my business interests are of such a nature that it is absolutely necessary for me to devote my entire time to them. Reasons more vital to the public will present themself in due time and I shall not refer to them now.

"No matter what personal sacrifice a man may make as a public official, the public generally is unappreciative and he gets but little thanks for the efforts he puts forth. There are two classes of citizens in North Plainfield—the progressive and the stand still. If the latter class was in the majority the status of the borough would now be as it was twenty-five years ago. The borough is in need of a sewage system and should own its water supply. During my time in office I have tried to bring these improvements about.

"The Sewage Commission was constituted of able men who devoted much time and study to the solution of the sewage problem and had it not been for the adverse attitude of Governor Wilson, who vetoed legislation passed by both houses of the legislature giving the borough the right to construct its sewage system, this problem would have now been solved. But notwithstanding the efforts of the Sewage Commission and myself, there are men in North Plainfield who now say that had the matter of providing a sewage system been placed in their hands, they would have accomplished results.

"The Municipal Water Commission will soon make its report and the report will be favorable to the borough owning its own water plant. When the gentlemen of this commission have completed their labors they can expect no more than was given the members of the Sewage Commission and they will probably be asked why the present system of water supply is not sufficient and what advantage it would be to the borough to own its plant.

"The widening of Somerset street from Jackson avenue to Johnston's Drive is an improvement that I had hoped to see before the expiration of my term, but the 'standstill' element opposed this so strongly that the improvement has been retarded to some future time. Arguments such as the street has been wide enough in the past to accommodate traffic and is surely wide enough to accommodate it in the future, were advanced by the class of citizens who opposed this improvement. Any man who contends that what was good enough in the past is sufficient for the future, manifests a retrogressive spirit.

"I sincerely hope that my successor will be able to secure some of the improvements that are thought to be so easily obtained. I shall look with pleasure upon any accomplishment he may achieve. At some time in the future I may become interested in politics, but it will be at a time when the impractical laws now on the statute books have been tried and their defects remedied; when practical men are administering local and State affairs and when those who think they know it all have realized that they have something yet to learn."

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Plainfield People Know How to Save It.

Many Plainfield people take their lives in their hansd by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs nee dhelp. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health. The slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has cured thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Plainfield citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Margaret Reville, 732 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For a long time I was troubled by lame and weak back and I never found anything that would help me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills from Randolph's Drug Store. My back was so painful and sore that I dreaded to tsoop and whenever I caught cold or exerted myself, I suffered more severely. I tried several kidney remedies but it was left for Doan's Kidney Pills, which I obtained at Randolph's Drug Store to cure me. They are certainly a most effective preparation for kidney trouble."

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks closed weak in New York yesterday.

Police Inspector Richard Walsh retired from the New York force.

The commission government plan was defeated at a special election in Paterson.

A Beverly dispatch said that President Taft would cruise up the Maine coast from Friday until Monday.

The first anniversary of the annexation of Corea to Japan was celebrated at Seoul with public rejoicing.

A secret offensive and defensive alliance was reported to have been signed between Chili and Colombia.

President Taft said, in Manchester, Mass., that millionaires should endow the negro school in Hampton, Va.

Lieutenant Schultz, the German officer arrested in England as a spy, was committed for trail by a London magistrate.

Mayor Gaynor, of New York, sent to the joint legislative committee a second statement of his views as to the proposed city charter.

The court refused to admit testimony reflecting on the character of W. H. Jackson in the murder trial of Paul Giedel in New York.

It was annuonced that Commissioner Fosdick, of New York, would begin at once a complete reorganization of the Park Department.

Mayor Gaynor's excise policy, praised by the Mayor of Binghamton, roused the cheers of the State liquor dealers' convention in that city.

Bankers sent a letter to President Taft asking him to appoint a board of arbitration to consider repudiated State bonds amounting to $60,000,000.

It was reported in Berlin that four American cruisers, the Saratoga, the Olympia, the Brooklyn and the Raleigh, were about to be sold to the Turkish government.

Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, in an interview at Quincy, Ill., attacked President Taft for the speech he made at Hamilton, Mass., on Saturday.

W. L. Park, vice-president of the Illinois Central Railroad, indicated at Chicago that the officials of the road have determined not to deal with the Federated Shops Employes.

Several wills filed for probation in New York bequeathed money to charity, that of Mitchel Valentine giving $1,100,000 each to the Presbyterian and Hahnemann hospitals.

At least eleven deaths and $1,000,000 damages to property by storm were reported in Charleston, S. C.; the Clyde liner Apache arrived there from New York after a perilous voyage.

Admiral Togo left the United States by steamer from Seattle, Wash., bound for Japan; two naval vessels escorted the outgoing steamship until international waters were reached.

President Taft informed the promoters of the National Conservation Congress at Kansas City that he would speak on the opening day, September 25, his subject being "Conservation."

E. H. Farrar denounced the recall of judges in addressing the meeting of the American Bar Association in Boston; he urged uniform coroporation laws for the States rather than federal control.

Marquis Saionji, the new Japanese Premier, completed his Cabinet and will submit the list to the Emperor today; the present Japanese Ambassador in Washington may become Foreign Minister.

The mistake of a broker who bought Standard Oil when ordered to buy a mining stock boosted the price 45 points, and unfounded rumors of a bonus kept it active, the net gain for the day being 41.

A witness called by the prosecution in the Beattie murder trial at Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., testified in discovering several blood spots near the place where Mrs. Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., was shot; Paul D. Beattie, a cousin of the prisoner, was suddenly ordered to be detained in the Chesterfield county jail.

HELD FAST BY TONGUE.

Red. Bank, Aug. 30.—Frank Kuhl has fully recovered from the effects of a peculiar mishap that occurred recently when he was on a shopping tour with his mother.

The youngster accompanied his mother to Doremus' grocery store Saturday and while Mrs. Kuhl was making a purchase, Frank found his way into a large refrigerator in the rear of the store. Frost on a pipe there attracted his attention and trying to relieve his parched tongue placed it against the frost-covered pipe. The tongue immediately froze fast and Frank was a prisoner. His mother, missing him, became almost frantic. While a number of persons searched for the boy in the streets, a clerk happened into the refrigerator.

Hot clothes were applied to the pipe and after Frank's tongue thawed out he was taken to a drug store, where he received medical attention.

WE ARE REMODELING OUR SECOND FLOOR AND WILL FIT IT UP AS ONE OF THE FINEST READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENTS IN JERSEY. WE WANT TO OPEN IT WITH A BRAND NEW STOCK. HENCE EVERY GARMENT IN OUR PRESENT STOCK TO BE DISPOSED OF REGARDLESS OF LOSS!

Carpenters are at present busy making extensive alterations on our second floor, which heretofore has been used for reserve stock. We are going to make it one of the finest ready-to-wear departments in New Jersey. The entire second floor will be devoted to this line. We ordered from the Grand Rapids Show Case Co. their finest Wall Cabinets of the newest style, for the handling of Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts and Furs. These will be here shortly. In the meantime the rest of the floor is being fitted up for Waists, House Dresses, Petticoats, Kimonas, etc. Every modern convenience for shoppers will be installed. There will be large comfortable arm chairs and tables with the latest magazines. In short this new ready-to-wear department will be far and away ahead of anything of its kind in town.

Now, we want to open this department with an entirely brand new stock; every garment fresh and in latest style. To dispose of our present stock is an undertaking requiring the most powerful and drastic measures at our command. Extraordinarily low prices will do it; we have marked every Suit, Coat, Dress, Skirt, etc., now in stock at such absurdly low prices that there should be no trouble aa all in disposing of our stock.

D. FOSTER UPDIKE'S Amusements!

SOME PUMPKIN

I am Mare and the whole Common Council of Uptodate. I have no arguments to disgust there, I say what, and do as I please there, and you have no say in the matter. Do you know I feel sorry for some of you, because I know you have been trying to get your nose in my affairs for sometime. Well, you have a chance to get even with me. I started in business just last May, and did not have as much as four dollars, and all the money I borrowed was $75 to pay my first month's rent with, and now I only own this town. but have anywhere from $10,000 to $15,000 in other property; and nothing but howlers against me to help me. You can do the same thing. I don't know nothing, and you don't know nothing, so why can't you do it?

Now what I have to say as to Uptodate is this: If you try build on a lot less than 50 feet or a house to cost less than $2,000 I will not consult Mr. Law, but I will tare it down, because I want this town to be up-to-date and it has to be so. Price of lots $25, $30 and $35 on the come and see me often plan.

CRAWFORD STILL GOOD.

Ball players may come and ball players may go, but Sam Crawford goes on forever. The great Detroit outfielder, who has been a big league star for close to twenty years, seems immune to the inroads of time. Sam is, with the exception of Cobb, the only regular player in the Tigers' present lineup who was with the team when Jennings assumed the management in 1907 and molded a pennant winner out of an aggregation that had never but once finished in the first division. Sam has seen many a youngster break in and after a short career pass on to the bushes, while he himself has held his "sit" in the outer garden with never a danger of being supplanted. It is doubtful if Jennings today would accept any amouny of money no matter how great, for the celebrated Wahoon barber.

WIND UP TRAINING FOR BIG WRESTLING MATCH.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—George Hackenschmidt, challenger for the world's wrestling championship, began the last week of his training for his match with Frank Gotch with the same light work that has characterized his preparation since reaching America. He declared he already was in the best possible physical condition and required only sufficient training to keep him from going back.

Hackenschmidt was up with the sun, took a long walk and later played a few games of handball. The remainder of the day, he devoted to entertaining callers at his quarters. Referee Edward Smith left for Humboldt, Ia., to confer with Gotch on the rules of the match.

PRESENT DAY BALL PLAYERS ARE BEST

Here are some of the reasons why it is claimed the present-day ball players are better than the old-timers:

The batters work for runs instead of hits.

Where the old-timers turned to the right at first base after hitting a single the present-day stars turn to the left so as to make an extra base if the fielder should fumble.

The systematic handling of records and the continual publication of the feats of players has enabled the pitchers to make a closer study of batters.

The infielders are able to make much more difficult stops by the use of the gloves than did the old-timers with bare hands.

The first baseman is now a position that requires great fielding, while he was formerly nothing more than a man placed on the bag to catch thrown balls.

Many years ago the batter could call for any kind of ball that he wanted. In other words, they pitched to a batter's strength in those days, and now they pitch to his weakness.

The deportment of the players is different. In the old days the players did not pay so much attention to their physical well being. Now they have to live and care for themselves so as to hold good in their respective positions.

The outfielders have a greater knowledge of the individuality of batters. They learn the direction in which certain batters hit and shift their positions accordingly.

CHINESE STUDENTS IN CLOSE TRACK CONTEST.

The Chinese students of Princeton, resumed Monday the activities of their seventh annual conference with fresh vigor. The track meet in the afternoon brought out many fleet-footed though short-legged Oriental athletes on the university athletic field.

No intercollegiate mark was broken, but all the records except that for the century, made at former conferences, were smashed. As Yale, Columbia, Cornell, Princeton, Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology all had representatives, the meet was a miniature intercollegiate contest. There were men entered in all the big events. There were all the dashes, half-mile, one-mile and two-mile runs, 120 and 220 hurdles, pole vault, high and broad jump and shot-put. There was also a half-mile relay race, in which Columbia, Yale, Andover and Cornell competed. Cornell won a close race from Yale.

The Amherst Chinese Club won the championship with thirty points while Clarence Chow, a prospective Yale freshman, was the best individual performer, capturing four firsts. He cleared the bar at 5 feet 3 inches and pole vaulted 10 feet. S. P. Wo, who won the broad jump, leaped 19 feet 9 inches. Gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded to the successful contestants.

The contest in kite flying, in which the Oriental students showed great dexterity, was won by the kite made by the Cornell students.

E. B. Drew, director of the Pelyans Chinese students, who was formerly connected with the Chinese Custom-house, delivered an address on Sir Robert Hart, the English diplomat in China, and on his work for the Empire. Mr. Drew was once an associate of Sir Robert in the Chinese Custom-house.

H. G. Murray, secretary of the Princeton Graduate Council, gave a tea to the Chinese women graduates at his home. The Oriental maidens put on their fancy Chinese silken gowns and scarfs and captivated the townspeople.

A BASEBALL BARGAIN.

Last Friday, the Giants' percentage being .60714 and the Cubs' .60747, the New York papers regard the thing a tie and, sports that they are, gave the Giants the lead. Now since

.60747—.60714, we have, subtracting .607 from both sides, .00047—.00014, and, multiplying by 100,000,

47—14, and, adding 3,

Therefore all bets made on those games we are settling at 34c. on the dollar. Q. E. D.

How to Hold the Bat.

Good hitters hold their bats different ways. Larry and Cobb grip their bat at the end. Jim Delehanty grips his bat six inches from the end. Larry and Cobb take long, hard swings at the ball. Del chops at it. Tris Speaker and Sam Crawford hold their bats like Larry and Cobb. So do most other batters who hit long drives. Willie Keeler, one of the greatest hitters, choked his bat. He gripped up from the end like Delehanty, and used a short bat.

ARMY-NAVY GAME TO BE AT PRINCETON

It is stated on excellent authority at Annapolis that there is every prospect that this season's Army-Navy football game will be played at Princeton and that the date will be November 25. There would be no thought of leaving Franklin Field, the grounds of the University of Pennsylvania, upon which the majority of the annual games have been played, except that both branches of the service felt that it was imperatively necessary to obtain more tickets than the Pennsylvania authorities could see their way clear to offer.

While it is not settled that Princeton will be the location of the big game, yet indications now point that way strongly. It is also thought likely that the Navy will yield to the Army as to the latter's desire to have the game played on the Saturday before Thanksgiving Day, rather than the Saturday after.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The most stirring event on the program of the K. of C. games in Newark Saturday proved to be the one-mile relay race, which was won by the Irish-American A. C., with Kiviat, Pepis, Sheppard and Rocenberger on the team. The winged fistites were on scratch and handicap up to sixty yards were allowed. Kiviat and Pepis, who by the way, is the one-mile junior champion, cut the lead down to thirty yards in the first two relays. Sheppard, on taking up the third leg, gave an exhibition of running that has seldom been equaled in these parts. The time of 3 minutes 28 4-5 seconds was remarkably fast for a dead track.

Most of the star athletes found the handicaps too much for them and only a few figured. Sheppard started in the half-mile, but found the going too difficult and finished in the ruck. The event went to E. Frazer, of the Institute A. C., who formerly carried the silks of East Orange High School in interscholastic competition. Kiviat made a belated sprint in the mile and finished third. John Daly, who made such a clean sweep in the steeplechase races in England this summer, plugged along to first place in the three-mile run.

Another star athlete will soon make his home in this State. Jim Duncan, who has been Sheridan's closest rival in the discus this year, has become smitten with one of the belles of Elizabeth. He will be married during the winter and will live in Betsytown.

The annual track and field championships of the Middle Atlantic division of the A. A. U. will take place at Philadelphia on September 16.

Rey Ewry, of the New York A. C., is spending the summer in a houseboat at the Atlantic Highlands. Although Ewry has not done any jumping lately, he intends to get busy soon for the fall games.

Jack Moakley, the Cornell trainer, who developed such a wonderful track team at Ithaca, this year, and who produced a world beater in John Paul Jones, the mile record holder at 4.15 2-5 seconds, still believes Jones will be able to lower these figures. "Give Jones a suitable day and a fast enough pace," says Moakley, "and he will travel just as fast as he has to."

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

On Saturday evening the New York Hippodrome will open for the season with an entire new series of spectacles under the single comprehensive title "Arcund the World." The big new production was conceived and invented by Arthur Voegtlin, the Hippodrome's famous scenic producer, written and staged by Carroll Fleming; musical numbers staged by William J. Wilson; music and lyrics supplied by Manuel Klein. "Around the World" will have for its theme the adventures of a party of travelers making the grand tour and this idea affords scope for the introduction of 17 special sets of scenery, water effects in connection with the Hippodrome tank besides the ballet and many special dancing and singing numbers. Preparations for the new show have been in progress throughout the entire summer and the management declares that no previous production has been executed on a more lavish scale. 200 animals will take part in the pageants of "Around the World" and the entire Hippodrome company and corps de ballet will be utilized.

New Canadian Dollar Bill

A new Canadian one dollar bill has been issued at Ottawa, on which the photographs of Lord and Lady Grey appear. These portraits are most skillfully engraved and are excellent likenesses. At each end of the new note there is the usual "one" but a new feature has been introduced in the shape of the word "one" printed in bold type above each figure. A difference has also been made in the color. Instead of being printed in brown and black, green and black are used, and the result is a bill of considerably lighter and more attractive appearance.—Exchange.

Plainfield, N. J., August 30, 1911.

MAYOR SMALLEY RETIRES.

No single man in the borough's history has done any more to promote North Plainfield's welfare than Newton B. Smalley and we say this advisedly. In the light of his many achievements for the good of that community, which for years has been blessed by having him in the executive chair, it is a matter of deep and sincere regret that he has decided not only to refuse renomination, but to retire to private life.

At times, the borough has needed a man with a strong will, with a persistent nature and with the ability to get results. On such occasions, Mayor Smalley has been the man of the hour. It is only necessary to cite one instance of how he fought to a successful finish for a sorely needed improvement, although a score of such cases come to our mind. It will be recalled how strong and bitter was the opposition against the widening of the lower end of Somerset street, and the installation there of storm sewers. In the face of all obstacles, his honor finally won the day. Consider at the present time, how that important thoroughfare would appear should that improvement never have been brought about. We could go on and cite numerous such cases, as we say, including the organization of a paid fire department and a more superior police department. His greatest work has been for a sanitary system of sewage disposal and no one will deny that today the borough would enjoy that improvement were it not for matters over which the mayor could have no control.

We are not at all surprised that Mayor Smalley should pay his respects to the element to whom he refers as the "stand-still." We are surprised, however, that a man of his force of character should "let them down" so easy. It is a mistake on his part, at the same time, to think for one moment that his work has not been appreciated. The mayor has "made good" and no man in the borough can produce proof to the contrary. His successor, whoever he may be, will find that his efforts will meet with the same reception as have Smalley's and that when his term of service is completed he will learn to his sorrow that many are unappreciative. But, we repeat, it is a mistake for Mayor Smalley or any other efficient public official to think the he does not receive the credit due from the great majority of his constituents.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

I have received a threatening letter from the owner of the Boreas Kennels from which I quote, as follows: "That should my dogs suffer any injury through your acts or those of your servants or agents, I shall at once bring action for the value of such dog or dogs, together with primitive damages. That should I hear of any further threats of the unwarranted use of firearms by yourself, your servants or agents in protection of the family name I shall proceed to have you and them put under bonds to keep the peace."

"R. W. K. ANDERSON."

"To R. W. Anderson."

As from the foregoing I am not expected to protect myself and servants against the attacks of these dogs which are liable to be made at any time, (the nuisance continuing unabated), I again call upon the authorities to remove them at once from the neighborhood of my dwelling.

Yours Respectfully
RUPERT W. ANDERSON.
North Flainfield, Aug. 28.

A BAD TOOTHACHE.

The nineteen-month old son of P. D. Simmons, of 90 Stockton avenue, Ocean Grove, is recovering from the effects of a dose of toothache mixture, which it drank Saturday while his nurse and parents were temporarily out of the baby's room. The child found the medicine on a shelf and drank all the contents, which consisted of oil of cloves, laudanum and chloroform.

When the nurse returned and found the baby in convulsions she ran for a physician. Dr. Henry B. Dorr, of Main street, there, gave the baby strong emetics, and in two hours it was out of danger.

Boys' Race on Labor Day.

It was decided this morning by the committee of the Plainfield Cycling club to include a boys' race in the list of races to be held on the Mountain avenue course on Labor Day. The event will be a two mile handicap affair and silver and bronze medals have been offered as prizes for the winners of first and second places. It will be open to all boys under sixteen years of age whether they reside in this city or not.

Can't Pick Mushrooms There.

Charles Trotter, of Duer street, and John Cooley, of Fritts place, were arrested yesterday afternoon by Marshal William Kiernan for picking mushrooms on the property of Mrs. F. DeL. Hyde, on Mountain avenue. When arraigned before Recorder Charles M. Dolliver in the borough court this morning, the men were told that they must not trespass and sentence was suspended.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Once more the question, "Alma, Where Do You Live?" becomes pertinent. For seven months the answer has been Joe Weber's theatre, New York. On Saturday, September 2nd, at the matinee and evening performance, it will be the Plainfield theatre. When Mr. Weber made his plans for the season even his sanguine managerial hopes would have been satisfied with six months of successful business on Broadway. An agreement with "The London Follies" company for a summer season at the cozy playhouse; became a matter of regret in that it necessitated the withdrawal of "Alma." Plainfield theatregoers will be able to see the production intact as it was seen at Weber's.

For a Homeless Cripple.

The Charity Organization Society makes an appeal for a homeless little cripple, to which we are sure some reader of this paper will respond. The little fellow is suffering from a tubercular knee joint and the physicians have decided that a brace would be better than an operation. The brace will cost $25. If some well-disposed, financially able citizen will send the desired amount to The Daily Press or to the C. O. S., his goodly deed will be promptly acknowledged and his name will not be made public if he so requests.

Philip Maguire's Funeral.

Funeral services for Philip Maguire were held this morning at his late residence on Central avenue and at St. Mary's church, where a requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Sciolla. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery. There was a large number of relatives and friends at the services to pay their last respects to the memory of Mr. Maguire whom all of them had known and respected many years. The bearers were M. Higgins, C. Heenan, W. Barry and C. Geary.

McCarty-Cassidy.

Miss Katherine Cassidy, of Park avenue and Charles P. McCarty, were married this morning at St. Mary's church with a muptial mass celebrated by Father Daniel F. Hogan. A sister of the bride, Miss Mary Cassidy was bridesmaid, and a brother of the bridegroom, Carnelius McCarty, was best man. Following the wedding ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. After a tour the young couple will reside here.

Festival at Marconnier Chapel.

A peach and ice cream festival will be held at Marconnier chapel, Oak Tree, Thursday night, September 7. If stormy at that time, the affair will be held on the next clear evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull, of East Second street, have gone to Lake Hopatcong, where they will spend their vacation.

HARD WORK TO GET HORSE OUT OF PIT.

A horse, belonging to a local peanut vender, had a narrow escape from serious injury last night when it fell into a pit in the yard of Boice's stable on Somerset street. The hole, which is eight feet deep, was partly filled with rain water and for one hour and a half the animal kicked and moaned until he was finally released through the efforts of several men with tackle and blocks.

When the driver unhitched the horse from the wagon at 10:30, the animal started for his stall in the barn and walked right into the pit. All efforts to get him out were in vain and it was not until the hole was partly filled with earth, could the horse be removed. A crowd of fifty boroughites was attracted to the scene by the moans of the imprisoned animal and one of the spectators volunteered to strip off his clothing and descend into the pit in order to fasten ropes about the horse's body.

While the man was in the pit, the horse began to kick and the rescuer narrowly escaped being crushed against the boarded sides of the hole. By some hard pulling on the ropes, the animal was finally hauled to safety, uninjured but badly shaken.

DEMONSTRATION WILL BE HELD IN OCTOBER.

Although no date has been set for the annual demonstration of the Union county Holy Name Societies, which in all probability will be held in Elizabeth, it is believed that the event will be on October 8. This date has been set by the societies of the Trenton Diocese and there is reason to believe that the Newark diocese, of which Elizabeth and county are a part, will select the same date. As in the past, the demonstration will be held under the auspices of the United Holy Name Societies.

Last year the Union County Societies united in one body and met in Plainfield. As in the course of events Elizabeth is in line this year, it is probable that the meeting will be held in Elizabeth. Delegates for making the arrangements have not yet been appointed from the various parishes in which there are societies but according to prominent members in Elizabeth, they will be named early next month.

Appointed Executor of Wills.

The Plainfield Trust company was appointed as was one of the executors in the will of the late Frederic H. Wills, of 217 East Seventh street, which was filed for probate in the office of the Union county surrogate on Monday. This company was also appointed executor of the estate of the late Henry Miller.

Misses Lillian and Idabel Conover have returned from a vacation spent at the Hotel Lorraine, Ocean Grove.

ATLANTIC CITY SCENE OF WATER CARNIVAL.

Atlantic City, Aug. 30.—Atlantic City's first water carnival, a pageant of many decorated and illuminated motorboats, presided over by Miss Olga Vogler, of Philadelphia, as queen; Miss Edna Calder, as princess royal; Miss Sylvia Errico, as princess, and Miss Ruby Murray, as duchess, in robes of state, drew thousands to Venice Park last night.

With the Corintha, private yacht of Albert E. Burk, of Philadelphia, as flagship, the brilliant procession moved over a course in Beach Thoroughfare and Venice Lagoon, the waters of which were made bright by hundreds of flaming torches.

The royal party disembarked at the clubhouse of the Atlantic City Motorboat Club, on Riverside drive where the coronation ceremonies, which consisted of the crowning of the four young women in the presence of a large assembly of cheering "subjects" was followed by the coronation ball. The four girls who filled the spectacular roles were selected from a score in a popular voting contest which aroused the interest of residents and visitors.

Prizes were awarded to the club with the largest number of boats in line, as well as for the prettiest and the most novel craft.

DOVER WELLS POLLUTED, REPORTS STATE BOARD.

Dover, Aug. 29.—That many of the wells in and about Dover are polluted was the gist of a report from the State Board of Health to the local Health Board read at a meeting of the latter body last night. The municipal water system was given a clean bill of health, however.

Among the wells under suspicion was the Lackawanna's driven well near the freight depot, which has been a neighborhood supply almost since the railroad was first put through Dover. It was pointed out that a State law empowered the health authorities to condemn wells which were polluted, providing that the local Board of Health had passed an ordinance adopting the State law Such an ordinance has not been passed by the local Board of Health, and the Law and Ordinance Committee was directed to have the necessary measure prepared.

The members of the board have decided to petition the Common Council to change the method of appointing members of the Board of Health, making the term of the members three years, with two members' terms expiring each year. This matter will be brought before the Council at its next regular meeting.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Mrs. Mary Mohan, who was sentenced to the Middlesex county jail for thirty days recently by Recorder David Campbell, has been released from that institution on an order from Judge Daly. Lawyer George L. Burton pointed out that the woman had been committed to the jail under the disorderly act and that the commitment contained an alternative punishment, thirty days or $20 fine, a fatal defect according to the decisions of the Supreme Court. Mrs. Mohan has returned to the borough.

Harry Giddes, of North avenue, will not play on the Central Railroad of New Jersey nine when that team lines up against the local aggregation for the rubber game Saturday afternoon. Giddes has started his vacation and will leave the borough Friday for a trip to Niagara Falls.

Miss Tillie Block, of North avenue, who is employed in Tepper's department store in Plainfield, is enjoying her annual two weeks' vacation.

This is the second time that Mayor Smalley has refused renomination for election as Mayor of North Plainfield. He has served five terms which represent nearly eleven years' service. The term of the office is two years but owing to the abolishment of the spring election when he was serving for his third time he held over nearly a year to the ensuing fall election. The first time he refused to stand for re-nomination was four years ago and as a result the Republicans had no candidate. Samuel Townsend, the Democratic candidate, was elected. The following election Mr. Smalley was chosen without opposition on the Democratic ticket, but was opposed by William Lunger, on the Prohibition ticket.

The first time he was elected, Mayor Smalley defeated the late Col. John F. Wilson, who was running for re-election in one of the hardest fought contests in the history of the borough. Col. Wilson was defeated by 13 votes. W. J. Conroy, the Democratic candidate was defeated at the next general election by a decisive margin. He was also beaten by Mr. Smalley at the election four years later, Hiram Woodruff having been the Democratic candidate the third time Mr. Smalley ran.

For years Smalley has been a power in Somerset county politics. On more than one occasion he was able to show his prowess when he swept North Plainfield into the Democratic column carrying the county the same way. He and former State Senator C. A. Reed generally joined forces and fought in Somerset politics for North Plainfield's interest.

LOCAL BANKER SITS AS A COUNTRY SQUIRE

Wheels of justice rolled in "Maycr" Anderson's Watchung last night when Gerard Underhill, a respected and much admired citizen of that community was placed on trial for the life and well being of his horse and without a doubt the Henry Clay Beattie trial was not in it with last night's dealing of justice. If the case had been one of murder in the first degree, there couldn't have been more interest in the affair than was manifested by the residents of Watchung as well as of Plainfield and of North Plainfield township, who thronged 200 strong, into the tiny court room at Texier's Mills.

It was a peculiar case for the home Justice of the Peace, George T. Hughes was a witness in the proceedings and consequently a judge from the wilds of Greenbrook was called in to sit on the bench, this being Edward F. Feickert, who deals in matters of legal intrigue while away from his banking duties. It was Judge Feickert's first sitting on the bench and he performed his duty to the satisfaction of all the populace of Watchung except the prisoner. He says he will appeal the case and declares that he will not pay the fine of $10 which was imposed upon him for his neglect, and would rather spend days behind the bars of an iron cell and allow his name to appear as a 'martyr to the cause' than to give in to such justice.

But the case was only this—Mr. Underhill left a bay horse, which belonged to him, out in the cool breezes of the Watchung Hills, which even caused the city farmers residing there to sleep under blankets during the torrid weather of the first week in July, and the equinne was also left out in the rain. For twenty-four hours the beast of burden withstood the cold blasts and early Sunday morning, it fell over exhausted, trying to get a drink from a small pond in the pasture. The owner then had the horse hauled out of the water and at 2:30 in the afternoon, he took his trusty revolver to the place and shot the animal dead.

Nevertheless Mrs. Stephen G. Van-Hoesen, the local agent for the S. P. C. A. heard of the case and several neighbors of Mr. Underhill requested her to prosecute him for his neglect. She immediately notified Lewis C. Teed, the State agent, who arranged his case against Underhill and the trial was set for last night. The defendant was not to be without counsel and so he engaged Charles E. Neier, a New York lawyer, who is also a Watchung Hiller during off hours, to present his case before the crowded court.

It was a great defense and upon these grounds, Mr. Underhill refuses to pay his fine and will appeal the case. Despite the testimony of a multitude of witnesses, among whom were Justice of the Peace George T. Hughes, Dr. F. C. Herbert, Postmaster Smith, Detective Sergeant Canning of the third precinct of the Watchung police, John Gunn, Jr., and his brother George Gunn, Attorney Neier made a strong appeal for his client. He showed that Mr. Underhill had complied with all the requirements of the S. P. C. A. in as much that the horse was used for farm work only, was not driven on the public roads and that when he was disabled, he was immediately put out of misery. With an eloquent summing up, the case was concluded at 11 o'clock when the first nods of the sleepy were noticed.

A hush fell over the audience of preachers, farmers, lawyers and mostly politicians and real estate dealers when Judge Feickert began to anounce the sentence. When the decision of the court was learned, some of the notables nodded approval, others smiled but the prisoner's face showed only grim defiance.

EXCISE RAID IN ASBURY CATCHES ONLY SMALL FRY.

After continued complaints had been made to the authorities, three arrests for alleged violation of the excise laws were made late Monday afternoon by Asbury Park officers. Capeases had been issued by the county court against John R. and Katherine R. White, proprietors of the Lynnhaven; Henry Metzgar, of the Winthrop, and Mrs. Katherine Zeigenbalz, proprietor of a retaurant at 1110 Kingsley street. All will be arraigned Thursday before Judge John E. Foster at Freehold.

The question has been asked: "Why don't the authorities raid the large hotels?" It is said to be no secret that several of them are violating the excise law by selling liquor, but no arrests have been made.

FUNERAL TORTURE.

Ways of the Wives When a Bororo Indian Dies.

On the death of a Bororo Indian the wife tears out handfuls of her hair and throws it on his corpse, says a writer in the July Wide World Magazine. At intervals during the first day after his death she shakes him, as though wishing to bring him back to life, and kisses his cold brow. Her efforts being in vain, she retires and the Baire approaches. He proclaims that the man has died for the sins he committed during his life. Then the relatives paint his body with "urucu," an ointment made out of the root of a wild tropical plant. Gorgeous feathers of the most varied hues are then strewn over him, and the corpse is wrapped up in a matting of straw. The moment before the burial the wives approach one after the other and cover his feet with the blood dropping from the wounds and gashes they have inflicted on their backs and arms.

This ceremony is followed by another. Three Indians appear dressed in the clothes—if the few rags they wear can be called thus—of the dead man and begin singing and dancing. In the meantime the corpse is carried to the "Bahyto," a huge mound in the center of the colony, and should the dancing and singing Indians become tired before it is reached three others take their places. The body lies on the mound three days. Then the Baire goes to the mound and, seating himself at the foot of the dead man, is supposed to receive his soul in keeping.

THE BRAIN IN SLEEP.

Changes in the Volume of Blood Circulation When We Dream.

Dreams are due to an increase of sensation and circulation over that which exists in profound sleep. Observations made upon patients with cranial defects show that when we are dreaming the brain is greater in volume than in deep sleep and less than when we are awake. Thus this intermediate volume of blood would indicate that dreams are an intermediate stage between unconsciousness and wakefulness, and their incomplete and irregular intelligence would indicate the same thing. This increased circulation is usually due to sensory stimulation affecting the vasomotor center and causing a return of blood to the head, with resultant increased consciousness.

Contrary to popular belief, dreams in themselves do not contribute to light or broken sleep in which they are present. Such a condition is due to the ever present stimuli, which according to their strength or the degree of irritability of the cells, maintain even in sleep a varying degree of consciousness of which the dreams are merely a manifestation. Therefore the fatiguing effect often also attributed to dreams is not due to them, but to the lighter degree of sleep and less complete cell restoration which they accompany and which are due to some irritation.—Atlantic.

A Painful Mistake.

Bitter experience is a wonderful teacher. No doubt the young lady of whom London Ideas tells had often been told that she ought to wear glasses, but had neglected or refused to do so.

There was a most determined look in her eye, however, as she marched into the optician's shop.

"I want a pair of glasses immediately," she said, "good, strong ones. I won't be without them for another day!"

"Good, strong ones?"

"Yes, please. I was out in the country yesterday, and I made a very painful blunder, which I have no wish to repeat."

"Indeed! Mistook an entire stranger for an old friend, perhaps?"

"No, nothing of the sort. I mistook a bumblebee for a blackberry."

Life in Persian Oases.

Dr. Sven Hedin, describing his overland journey to India across the Persian desert, gives a graphic account of the oases where his party occasionally camped under palm trees. There the singing birds which twitter during the day are silent at night, but the "song of the desert" is continued during the hours of darkness by the melancholy serenade of the jackals. These oases are infested by three objectionable and dangerous inhabitants—a deadly snake, black and white scorpions and a poisonous tarantula spider, which, although it lives out in the desert, is attracted to the oases by the light of the campfires.

Her Self Sacrifice.

"She's awfully self sacrificing."

"How do you make that out?"

"Well, she stayed at home from church Sunday to sit up with a sick woman."

"Huh! She isn't a regular churchgoer. I don't see anything self sacrificing in that."

"You don't? But, my dear, she had a new gown and a new hat that had just arrived Saturday night."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Real Ingratitude.

"Republics are ungrateful," said the ready made philosopher.

"Perhaps," replied Mr. Chuggins, "but if you want a taste of real ingratitude take a party of friends out for an automobile ride and listen to their sarcastic remarks if you happen to break down."—Washington Star.

At the Literary Club.

"Maria, what was done at the meeting of your literary club last night?"

"We fined Mrs. Chillicon-Kearney $5 for accusing Mrs. Highmus of cheating at bridge."—Chicago Tribune.

The Human Element

Some people think that if they place their affairs in the hands of a Trust Company, that they immediately become involved in the operation of a mechanical routine from which all individual interest has been eliminated.

Come in and talk it over.

This is far from true—in fact, exactly the opposite is the case. When, for instance, an estate is left to the

Fidelity Trust Co.,
NEWARK, N. J.,

as executor or trustee, every individual feature, every courtesy and special attention, which could possibly be offered by an individual executor, is afforded, and, in addition, the ESTATE HAS THE ADVANTAGES OF ALL THE GREAT RESOURCES OF THE COMPANY—its wide experience—its tried judgment and proved dependability, at no greater expense, and NO MATTER WHAT THE SIZE OF THE ESTATE.

Not Open Friday Night. Close at 1 p. m. Saturday.

A Sewing Machine?

Do you intend buying a machine this year? Now is the time—this is the store—the "Free," the "Elbeco" and the "Elbeco, Jr." are the machines. Come in and look at these famous machines—you can buy one of them on our liberal partial payment plan. Fifth floor.

THE "FREE" MACHINE.

You have probably read the advertisements of the Free Sewing Machine Co., but have you ever investigated this wonderful machine at close range? The "Free" is the coming sewing machine—we might say the sewing machine of the day. There are so many points about it which differ from the usual machine that to buy a sewing machine of any make without first seeing the "Free" is to do yourself a positive injustice. Come in tomorrow and allow us to demonstrate to you why the "Free" machine is the machine for you to buy. We can do it.

OUR "ELBECO."

The name "Elbeco" spells perfection and an "Elbeco" machine is an addition to any home. When we tell you that it is the best machine on the market today at the price, we are speaking the truth. This machine is made especially for us by one of the largest manufacturers and it embodies all of the latest improvements; ball bearing head and stand; handsome golden oak finish woodwork, colonial style; five drawers; full set of attachments $22.50

Elbeco Special Machines $25.00

"ELBECO, JR."

Our "Elbeco Jr." at $14.50 must not be confounded with $14.50 machines. Disregard the price entirely and inspect it with the same critical eye that you would a $25.00 article. When you get through you'll be forced to admit, as many others have, that the "Elbeco Jr." is a $25.00 machine. New high arm head; finely finished; woodwork of golden oak; one centre and two side drawers; automatic lift; ball-bearing stand; equal to many $25.00 machines $14.50

Elbeco Jr., 4-drawer model..... $17.00

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Value of Fat.

The popular view of the close connection between fat and good nature and weight and balance is not wholly without rational foundation. Fat, unpleasant and stodgy as it is, is one of the most valuable tissues in the human body, and any man who reduces his share of it below a certain reasonable level not only takes the smooth edge off his temper and balance off his powers of judgment, but exposes all of his higher tissues, notably the muscular, nervous and secreting, to danger of both starvation and disease. A moderate cushion of fat is one of the best buffers and bucklers against the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," whether in the form of disease germs or in strains upon endurance. The man who makes himself into a lean and hungry Cassius even with the best of intentions is very apt to get himself into a state of both mind and body where he is more fit for treason, stratagem and spoils than for comfort, wholesomeness and a long, happy life. —Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Outing.

A West Indian Fish Dish.

A novelty to the jaded palate and a delightful luncheon or supper dish is made of equal quantities of potatoes and fish, halibut or cod preferred. Butter well a deep baking dish and first put in a layer of breadcrumbs, then a layer of sliced onions, then a layer of the fish. Cut in fairly small pieces and entirely free from skin and bones. Season well and repeat until the dish is nearly filled. Sprinkle each layer with small bits of butter. Now pour over it all a pint of tomato ketchup and finish with a layer of buttered breadcrumbs. A layer of sliced tomatoes may be put in and will improve the flavor. Bake in a very slow oven for at least four hours and baste three or four times with a mixture of vinegar, flour and water, watching it carefully to prevent scorching. This dish has an unpronounceable and decidedly unspellable name, but it is very good and decidedly out of the ordinary. —Philadelphia Press.

The Absolute Zero.

What is the absolute zero of temperature? The zero of thermometers is purely conventional. The inventor of the centigrade simply took for zero the coldest temperature known in his day, while Fahrenheit had even less ground for his selection. Absolute zero is a point fixed by nature and may be arrived at in a variety of ways. All gases expand or contract equal amounts for every degree of heat. The amount of 1-273 of their volume for each degree centigrade. If, then, a gas is cooled down continuously it must reach a point at which further contraction is impossible. If a gas loses 1-273 of its volume at each downward degree of centigrade then in 273 degrees it would exhaust this power and become a solid; hence (minus) 273 C. is the absolute zero of temperature. This answers to 461 F. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

Belief in Ghosts.

In most of the Oriental countries, notably in China and in many quarters in Europe, the belief in ghosts is still active, quite as much so as it was a thousand years ago. The peasantry of Russia, and especially of Siberia, are in constant dread of ghosts, and much of their time is taken up with devising ways and means of safeguarding themselves against their visitations. Not even in the United States of America is the ancient superstition defunct. The negroes are notorious believers in ghosts, and thousands of white people, remote from the center of intelligence, are still the victims of the old idea.—New York American.

Able, but Not Willing.

"Come, now," persisted the lawyer, "are you not able to say of your own knowledge that the defendant was in the room at the time and objected to the whole proceeding?"

"Yes, sir," savagely replied the witness. "I am able to say it, I reckon, but I'd be telling the biggest lie you ever heard of if I did."

Sensitive.

"Ah," he protested, "my love for you is the greatest thing in the world. It is larger than the world. It is wider than the sea. Let me pour it into your ears."

"Sir," ejaculated the fair maid, "do you mean to insinuate anything about the size or shape of my ears?"

An Old Superstition.

It was a common superstition in ancient Italy that if a woman were found spinning on a highroad the crops would be ruined for that year. In most sections of Italy a woman was forbidden by law thus to spin or even to carry an uncovered spindle on the highway.

THE MAN HIGHER UP

COPYRIGHT, 1910, BY BOBBS MERRILL CO.

"You have a strong grip, Mr. McAdoo, an abnormally strong grip, if I may say so, sir. But"—he recalled the effusively patronizing manner that he thought so highly politic—"I am glad to meet you, my dear sir, very glad indeed. I am glad to meet all those who are helping me in my fight. I may say it has been with no inconsiderable inconvenience that I have consented to lend in this great reform. But I have refused to permit personal considerations to stand in the way of manifest duty. I am for political purity, sir. In the past the methods of the tough wards, applied to gentlemen in politics, may have"— He stopped suddenly, warned by a sharply monitory cough from Robbins.

Bob grinned sardonically. "Oh, don't mind me. I'm tough, all right, but don't mind me."

Mr. Graham's blush might have been envied by a young girl. "My dear sir, I—er—apologize. Pray do not misunderstand. My remarks do not, of course, apply"—

"Don't mention it," Bob interrupted. "In tough wards men don't apologize. You're goin' to run this campaign yourself?"

"And why not?" Graham once more mounted his parlor hobby. "Should not the candidate always be the leader? Are we not working for a bossless era, in which the leader will be where he belongs—in the front rank under the folds of our standard?"

"Sure! Why not?" Bob rejoined. "Go ahead and try it. It'll be quite an experiment. I'll be interested in watchin' it—from the outside."

"Surely not from the other side?" Robbins suggested smilingly.

"From the winnin' side," Bob answered dryly.

"Well, of course," Mr. Graham stammered, "of course—er—that is—ahem—I do not propose to—er—dictate tactics to my assistants. We may have to resort to disagreeable means to gain our great end. We must if necessary fight the devil with fire—that's it, fight the devil with fire."

"Humph!" Bob grunted.

"Well, gentlemen," Graham concluded briskly, "I must leave you. My wife and I are dining out, and I am already late. I am glad to have met you, Mr. McAdoo." He added this from a safe distance, his hands behind him. With a bow, nicely delivered, he left the room.

"What do you think of him, McAdoo?" Robbins queried.

"He's a curiosity. I'd like to take him in a glass case with a sign, 'Hands Off,' down to Tom's saloon and show him to the boys. Why'd you take him up?" he demanded of MacPherson.

That worthy looked sharply at Bob before responding. "He carries along the old reform crowd, and he'll contribute his money."

"I'd prefer to work for a man," Bob said contemptuously.

"Well, are you coming along or not?"

"What are you goin' to do?"

"In the fist place," said MacPherson, "we're going to clean the city of this gang of infernal scoundrels"—

"Talk business. I'm not Graham," Bob interrupted impatiently.

"I know that," MacPherson answered sharply. "I'm not preaching reform. I mean, we're going to knock Harmon and his crowd out of control of the organization and the city and take them ourselves."

"Do you mean that?" Bob demanded keenly. "Or are you only goin' to fight them until they let you to the trough, and then you go back on them that helped you?"

MacPherson brought his clinched fist hard down on the desk. "So help me God, I mean it! I'm going to see that dog dead and buried politically if it takes every dollar I have in the world."

"That's all right, but can you do it?"

"We can," MacPherson said more quietly. "We've got the money, and we've gone over the ground carefully. Here, Robbins, you have the figures."

From memory and with a glib certainty that bespoke careful study of the situation, Robbins reeled off a list of putative majorities, to which Bob listened thoughtfully.

"You see," Robbins summed up eagerly, "this gives us all the upper wards, sure. We come to Irishtown with an easy 5,000 majority, and we'll about break even on all the Irish town wards but the Fourth, Seventh, Thirteenth and Fourteenth. That brings us to you. If we get the Fourth by its usual majority we can't lose. If we don't get it we may win anyhow. That's what we want you for. Some of us advised going to Haggin, but I said, 'No, McAdoo's the man.' You'd better get your horn and climb on the band wagon. There's five thousand in it for you if you get us the Fourth. And five thousand more if you get the other three—besides expenses. That's fair, I think. Or, if you prefer, a lieutenancy on the force. The pickings to be for yourself. What do you say?"

"No office in mine," said Bob. "I'll think it over."

"I'd like to hear you say yes now."

"No, I'll think it over," Bob repeated coldly. "I don't know as I care to get in your wagon."

SHE GAVE ONE DESPAIRING SHRIEK.

Perhaps MacPherson caught a hint of contempt in the slight accent on "your." "It won't pay you to stay out," he said in half threat.

Bob laughed insolently. "I'm not afraid of you. You see, you've showed me your hand. You can't do without me."

MacPherson with difficulty repressed an angry retort, and Bob left the office with a curt "Good night."

Before he descended to the street—MacPherson's office was on the top floor of an eight story building, the skyscraper of those days—he stopped to look out through the corridor window. It was one of the Steel City's rarely beautiful nights. A strong west wind had swept away the dome of smoke, and overhead a myriad of stars shone brilliantly, and below him and on the hills around him twinkled a myriad of other lights, the street lamps of the big city, lighting the night for a half million souls. And of the half million two men were struggling with each other for mastery over all the rest. The half million indifferently watched the game and permitted it to go on.

"You fools!"

Yet the thought came to him that, fools though the victims were, between the contestants it was a game worth playing. To hold the great city in the hollow of one's hand, to twist it and buffet it and mock it and use it, to make of it a huge automatic engine to lift one to a chosen eminence—yes, that was a game for a man, for a strong man!

* * * * * * *

Henry Sanger, Sr., steel king, had one passion—his business—and one love—an orphaned niece. He displayed less acumen in the training of the latter than in the management of the former. Two nights after Bob was invited to join the reformers, while he was working an extra shift, Sanger personally conducted a party through his mills, and the niece was of the party. The guest of honor was a famous engineer of the English army.

Sanger was dilating upon his passion.

"You are enthusiastic, sir," ventured the guest.

"And why not? We're the most important industry the world has ever known or ever will know. We're the right hand of modern progress. We take a carload of rock from the earth and convert it into steel, the framework of civilization. We are defying Nature, conquering her. Here is a tremendous force, the finest product of the human mind, doing in one day what 10,000 men couldn't do in a lifetime. Right here is the beginning of modern progress. Here we make civilization while you wait!"

"You have reason to be proud of your industry, Mr. Sanger," the Englishman assented.

"To put it in terms of your profession, major," Sanger pursued his topic eloquently, "I command in the army of construction, while you command in the army of destruction. And I have a notion that when our respective achievements are summed up we'll be given the palm."

"Granted, my dear sir," laughed the major. "And I must say you've mustered in a fine lot of men in your army. That young giant, over there, for instance—I'd like to have him."

Sanger's forehead wrinkled in a frown of irritation. "He's the best man in the works—and the worst! I almost wish you did have him, though he's more use in my army than he'd be in yours. He's—well—hardly amenable to discipline—ah!"

His exclamation was called forth by a sudden movement of the young man under discussion. Intent on his task, he had become aware of Sanger's niece, who stood at his elbow watching and admiring his deft manipulation of the heavy tools. He glared insolently at her.

"You are very strong, aren't you?" she said.

For answer he dropped his tools, caught her by the waist and set her back from the machinery.

"Get out of my way!" he growled fiercely.

In an instant he was once more intent on his work, while the young girl flushed and indignant, stared angrily at him.

"Eleanor!" called her uncle, sharply for him. "Keep away from the men and the machinery. You'll get hurt."

The girl, unmindful of her uncle's warning, had ventured again, in a spirit of resentful daring, too near the rolls. A quick gust blew her skirts against the machinery. Suddenly she felt herself caught from the ground in a terrible grip and thrown prostrate on the rolls. She had a vision of a white hot steel serpent darting toward her. She gave one despairing shriek. Then another hand caught her. She felt the serpent's hot breath as it passed—interminable—beneath her and the arched, rigid body that bridged the rolls and held her.

Bob, too, had seen.

For a time, while the clock might tick off a long minute, the group stood as though paralyzed, the girl leaning weakly against Bob's strong arm. It was Sanger who first came out of his daze.

"Eleanor, Eleanor! Thank God!" It was a signal for them all to gather around the pale, trembling girl, forcing Bob away from her and staring at her stupidly, nervously, gabbling unintelligibly.

Suddenly Bob strode into the group a towering figure of wrath, elbowing his way roughly. Before his sudden intrusion the group involuntarily fell back, leaving him face to face with the girl whom he had saved. A hot rage possessed him. He saw red as on that night when he had fought Haggin.

The girl, in the reaction from her fright, did not see this. "You saved my life," she said tremblingly. "It was very good of you."

"You little fool!" Bob burst out hoarsely in his anger. "How dare you risk my life?"

Later, in a cooler moment, Bob remembered the girl and could but admire her, by his roughness restored instantly to her strength and courage. Her head went back spiritedly. "How dare you reprove me?" she said.

"Dare?" Bob held out one great, hairy arm and then glanced over the slender figure before him. He could have snuffed out her life with a single sweep of his arm. He laughed unpleasantly.

The scorn in her eyes shifted to contempt. "That is a coward's thought. You think because I'm a girl and you're so strong you can say what you please. You cannot. I'm not afraid of you."

"Coward!" A deep flush crept under the smut on his face. "I saved your life when they"—his arm indicated the astounded group—"when they were afraid to move."

"Yes, that is true," she said. "You are just a brute, not a coward. You did save my life, but that gives you no right to reprove me."

"I was a fool to do it. My life is worth something, but you"— The unfinished sentence gave contempt for contempt. "But why have I no right?"

"Because you are you."

"Because I am I?"

Because he was himself—he, Bob McAdoo, before whom no man, howsoever strong, dared to stand in combat; whom politicians of high degree approached on terms of equality—nay, as do those who seek favors; he, so great in his own eyes and in the eyes of his own little world, must not rebuke a mere girl whose life he had saved because he was himself. Here was a new idea indeed.

Because he was himself!

Bob stared at his hands, the thick, muscular fingers, the calloused, blackened palms, the hands of whose strength he had been so proud. For the first time in his life his strength seemed to him futile, made so by a slight, pretty girl who looked upon him as a lower order of being. Then, in a quick revulsion of feeling, the old pride of strength returned to him in all its arrogance.

"I wonder I don't kill you," he growled savagely.

"I'm not afraid of you," she said contemptuously. Then "Ah!" she cried. "You are hurt!" It was true. The flesh under his arm, revealed by his gesture, was scorched from the hot steel that had passed so closely to it. In his anger he had not thought of it.

"What's that to you?" he answered roughly. "Get out of the way."

For the second time that night he lifted her and set her to one side. Then he strode abruptly away and out of the mills—forever.

"Oh, I forgot to thank him for saving my life!" Eleanor said penitently watching his retreating figure. "I didn't mean to be so horrid to him. Uncle, why couldn't he have been a gentleman? He's so big and strong and isn't he fine when his eyes blaze? I'm so sorry he was hurt. And I've ruined this dress completely."

CHAPTER IV.

THE POLITICIAN.

WHEN his lines were ready Bob went to MacPherson. Robbins was there, as usual.

"Good!" exclaimed the latter. "I knew you would be with us."

Bob met his enthusiasm indifferently. "Oh, I'm not with you until you meet my terms, you know."

"What's the matter with the terms I offered? Aren't they liberal enough?" demanded MacPherson.

"No. I'll turn over the Fourth, Seventh, Thirteenth and Fourteenth by 3,000, you to give me $10,000, and $10,000 for expenses, the Sixth legislative's share of the payroll to come to me for appointment and all orders. Of course this means the Sixth's regular share." It had been customary under Steele and Harmon to give the Sixth legislative district the lion's share of the plums.

"Say," MacPherson sneered, "you take over the leadership of the party and buy my support. It would be cheaper for me."

"Take it or leave it," Bob said coolly. "I can do better with Harmon."

"But I don't propose to buy you at this price every trip."

"Of course. This deal only covers this fight. We mayn't be together next time."

"Why not?" the boss demanded sharply.

"I don't like you," Bob replied, "and you don't like me. We mightn't get along, you know. Then I'll go somewhere else. You can make out a check for the twenty thousand right now."

"Before you deliver the goods? Not much!"

"Oh, yes, you will," Bob said easily. "I'll do what I promise, and you know it. I don't know that you will, and after the election I couldn't make you do it. Make it to my order."

"That is, I'm to trust you, and you won't trust me?"

"You can; I can't."

"Well, for concentrated gall you take the blue ribbon!" MacPherson ejaculated. But he made out the check as Bob had suggested.

It was a lucky bargain for MacPherson. Bob kept his promise. His four wards returned a majority of nearly 4,000 for the Citizens' party ticket. That party also carried the city by 3,000.

So came the "reformation," and Robert McAdoo began his political career in earnest.

The night after the election Bob entered the Flinns' sitting room.

"Kathleen," he said abruptly, "what does a good private teacher cost?"

She looked at him in surprise. "To teach what?"

"Oh, Latin, Greek, German, history—everything you learn in high school and college—grammar, for instance. I ain't much"— He caught himself and laughed shortly. "For one thing—I want to get out of this pesky habit of sayin' 'ain't.' What will it cost me?"

"Two or three dollars an hour, I think."

"Can you do it?"

"I can at the beginning if you will let me."

"All right. We begin tomorrow night. I'll pay you $3 an hour."

The flush became a deep crimson. "No, not that way, Bob. I couldn't take your money."

"Why not?"

"For one reason," she answered quietly, "you've already given too much money to this family."

He looked at her a moment intently.

"All right. We do it your way then. You—you're all right, Kathleen," he added gruffly and went up to his room. Later Kathleen left Patrick and Norah alone.

Patrick, who had not been dozing, opened his eyes and winked significantly at Norah.

"Norah, d'ye smell nawthin'?"

"Pathrick, arre ye clane crazy over the gurrul? Besides, Bob's no marryin' man."

"Faith," said Patrick proudly, "an' could he do betther than marry her mother's gurrul. I'm goin' up to talk to th' bye."

He knocked on Bob's door, which was significant, since in that simple household it was not the custom to herald your approach by a knock.

"Come in. Oh, it's you, Pat? Take a chair," Bob answered.

"Arre ye busy, Bob?"

"Oh, no. Glad to see you. Only thinkin' a little."

For some moments the two sat silent before the fire, Patrick shuffling about in embarrassment, for he knew not how to unburden himself of his errand. At last he bolted out:

"Bob, why don't ye git married?"

"Humph!" Bob ejaculated contemptuously. "Why should I get married?"

"Ye're a quare laad, Bob McAdoo. Ye have no bowils av tinderniss at all. I don't belave there's a person in th' worruld, av he'd die, ye'd give th' lasthe heartache to. Ye have no frinds. Ye're th' lonest, frindlissist man I know—sarve ye right!" he concluded exasperatedly.

"Friends!" Bob sneered. "I don't need 'em. They do what I want. That's enough for me. What do I want with friendship?"

Patrick threw out his hands helplessly. "Av ye could ask that quistion ye could nivir undherstand th' answer. But," he returned doggedly to his text, "ye ought to git married just th' same. Ye nade some wan to care f'r ye an' like ye."

Bob laughed. "You just said no one likes me. Anyhow, who'd I marry?"

DOUBT HIS DENIAL

Elizabeth Democrats Consider Brodhead Candidate of Collins For Shrievalty.

AND ROBERT H. McADAMS TOO.

Tell of Conference With Collins and Tuttle on the Sirius—Regulars Are Out for William A. Coddington.

The denial that he was in any way influenced by General Dennis F. Collins or Congressman Tuttle in deciding to become a candidate for Sheriff, made by Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead, of this city, in his apparent effort to stem the wave of discord which Democrats throughout the county claim threatens seriously to affect his chances of winning the nomination, has caused no end of comment among the regular Democrats.

That Brodhead and McAdams are the candidates of General Collins and Congressman Tuttle, the regulars are assured. It is pointed out that Brodhead on the morning of the Democratic outing, when asked by prominent Democrats as to whether or not he would be a candidate for any office, declared that he was undecided. Brodhead, Democrats at Elizabeth declare, was undecided until late in the evening of the day of the outing and it was only after a long conference with Collins and Tuttle on the outing that he changed his mind.

Democrats who were aboard the Sirius declare that Brodhead was in conference with Tuttle and Collins in the bow on the second deck of the steamer Sirius for more than two hours. Assistant City Attorney Hague, of Elizabeth, was also long in conference with the three men and for a time Robert H. McAdams and other recognized friends of Gen. Collins held converse with the Plainfield man. The object in view and the result of the confab also were made known when Brodhead admitted in the evening that he was in the race for sheriff and friends began to circulate his petition about the boat.

Assemblyman McLaughlin, when seen relative to the conference on the Sirius, declared that he did not know whether or not Brodhead was influenced in deciding to run for sheriff by General Collins or Congressman Tuttle. He did say that he urged Brodhead on the day of the outing to stand with him again this year as a Democratic Assembly candidate. McLaughlin says that Brodhead was undecided at the time he approached him, but he learned later on that he was in the race for sheriff.

"Brodhead is a straightforward man," McLaughlin declared, "and I suppose he knows what he is about. He has brains enough to decide for himself whether or not he ought to be a candidate and I guess he knows what he is doing."

Democrats in this city who were anxious to have Brodhead as a candidate for State Senator, and many of whom were on the outing, were surprised when it was learned after the conference which Brodhead had with Collins and Tuttle that he had decided to enter the fight for sheriff. These local Democrats had during the day been displaying Schlotterer buttons in their hats and on their coat lapels and were rather taken back when they learned of Brodhead's decision. They continued to wear the Schlotterer buttons and some of them were not in a position to sign Brodhead's petition when asked because they had already affixed their signatures to the petition of Schlotterer and some had signed for Freeholder J. Logan Fay.

"Brodhead sees the mistake he made in allowing General Collins to meddle with his candidacy," said a prominent member of the Democratic City Committee of Elizabeth yesterday. "Brodhead might be satisfied himself that Tuttle and Collins did not persuade nor influence him, but it is useless for him to try to convince regular Democrats in Elizabeth and other parts of Union county that this is the case."

The regular Democrats in Elizabeth are not only dissatisfied with the candidacy of Brodhead, but are certainly opposed to Robert H. McAdams as a candidate for State Senator. The regulars are supporting former Judge W. A. Coddington, of this city, for State Senator, and the latter's petition was being circulated in Elizabeth yesterday afternoon. It was signed by some of the most influential Democrats in Elizabeth, Mayor Stein, Edward Nugent, William J.McCloud,George H. Schlotterer and others being among those who signed Coddington's petition, thereby giving him their unqualified endorsement over McAdams. The seriousness of the split on the senatorship will be seen when it is pointed out that McAdams is chairman of the Democratic City Executive Committee of Elizabeth.

'BILLY'S BUNGALOW' IS WELL RECEIVED

Owing to the successful production of "Billy's Bungalow" last night by the Watchung Comedy Club, the piece will be presented again tonight. Despite the storm there was an audience of more than a hundred to greet the amateur thespians at the raise of the curtain on a piece which proved to be a laugh from start to finish.

Miss Elsie Schmidt takes the part of the leading woman as Peggy Middleton.

Edward F. Bodin as Billy Middleton is the leading man and the others in the cast are:

Col. George Varker, Kenneth K. Randall; Miss Laura Cauldwell, Theresa C. Schmidt; Miss Dorothy French, Dorothy R. Underhill; Miss Kitty Campbell, Agnes W. Mantz; Theodore Thurston, Lawrence J. Vail; Gordon Middleton, Douglas W. Demler; Hon. Francis Fairweather Spaulding, Thomas R. Featherson; Bridget O'Flaherty, Helen Y. Hughes; Mike O'Reily, Clarence B. Schmidt.

The Misses I. Gillie and F. and M. Randall are the coaches.

SAY THAT M'ADAMS HAS CHANGED FRONT

That Robert H. McAdams, of Elizabeth, the Collins-Tuttle candidate for State Senator, changed front when he was for the abolition of the office of the county registrar and that his sentiments now are very different than they were a few months ago when Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead introduced the bill in the Legislature to have the office abolished, is claimed by Democrats and Republicans to be true, because of the fact that McAdams, along with other prominent Democrats, it is asserted, addressed personal letters to Brodhead declaring that the sentiment was against the abolition of the office.

Mr. McAdams, in an interview yesterday admitted that he wrote such a letter and he qualified his action by declaring that he did it at the request of Mr. Brodhead, who was anxious to learn the sentiment. He declared that he told Brodhead, that the sentiment of the legal fraternity in Elizabeth seemed to be opposed to the bill. This was true all the time,he declared, and he believed that the letters were addressed to Brodhead by Democrats, not so much in the interest of retaining the office, but because personally County Registrar Frank H. Smith was well thought of by both Democrats and Republicans.

It would appear, from opinions expressed by Democrats who read the unqualified declaration by McAdams for the abolition of the office of county register, that he could not have been sincere in his stand, because if he were opposed to the abolition of the office he would not attempt to tell Brodhead the sentiment was for its retention, even if he did qualify the sentiment as being "legal" or among the members of the Union County Bar Association.

It is not denied that some of the most influential Democrats in the city of Elizabeth as well as here in Plainfield, at the time the bill was introduced by Brodhead readily sent letters to the Assemblyman declaring that the sentiment was against his action.

If McAdams took a stand at that time for the retention of the office Democrats point out that, no matter whether he did it purely as a personal matter, his emphatic declaration for the abolition of the office in the heat of a political campaign cannot help but be taken "with a grain of salt."

Complain About Crosswalks.

Residents of the West End, especially in the vicinity of West Front street and Grant avenue, are complaining about the wretched condition of the crosswalks at that corner. During the recent rainy weather the crossing have been unusually muddy, it being almost impossible to find the walks, while the streets are filled with pools of water, which causes great inconvenience to pedestrians at night. The condition of the streets at these points as well as the crosswalks have been a source of complaint for sometime, and the residents think it is about time they were given some attention.

Announce Approaching Marriage.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Helen Page Smyth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smyth, of South Bound Brook, to Fred Speary, of Buffalo, N. Y., which will occur on Wednesday, September 20 in Bound Brook. Miss Smyth is a sister of Mrs. Robert Scott, of West Fourth street.

TRUSTEES' FAREWELL TO DEPARTING PASTOR

Rev. John Estlund, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church for three years, who preached his farewell sermon last Sunday, removed today to Brooklyn, where he becomes pastor of St. Paul's Swedish Lutheran church. He will deliver his first discourse in Brooklyn on Sunday.

At a meeting of the trustees of the local church held at the home of John Gettjelsen, on East Fourth street, last night, Mr. Estlund took occasion to thank all for the kindnesses and courtesies extended through his stay in this city. A purse of money was presented to him as an evidence of esteem. On behalf of the congregation the trustees also expressed their appreciation for the good work performed by him here.

The trustees announced that the local pulpit will be occupied next Sunday by Carl Lund, a student at Upsala College. Later arrangements will be made for securing a regular pastor.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS INVITED TO A SERVICE

That the observance of Labor Day be approached in the right spirit, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, in the following open letter invites all members of labor organizations to attend a service at that church on the preceding day:

Editor, The Daily Press:

The first Monday in September is set aside by the will of this nation to commemorate a most important feature in the common welfare of the land; and if Labor Day is to bring its most grateful influence to bear upon society, it will be by constant recurrence to our mutual responsibilities as well as our individual privileges in a land of such marvelous resources and in which we have the happy fortune to labor at our various crafts and occupations.

The idea possess me strongly that such national holidays would be more potent to their intended effect and purpose, if the religious aspect of each could be more distinctly emphasized and the secular and religious interests more closely united—that Labor Day would be better for Christianity and Christianity bettered by Labor Day.

Had not my absence from the parish prevented, I should have liked to have invited more directly the members of the various labor organizations and associations in Plainfield to join us at Grace church on Sunday next in a religious anticipation of the day. Since I have not done this, may I avail myself of your goodness to say that we shall be greatly pleased to have with us on Sunday morning as many individual members of such societies as would find it a pleasure or a benefit to attend our services. As far as possible the spirit of the day will be emphasized and we are anxious to welcome all who will join us. The service with full choir in attendance and at which the sermon is preached begins at 11 a. m. There is also a celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. and choral evensong at 4:30 p. m. Than this it would seem that there is no time when a common interest and a common faith should draw us more closely together as brethren.

Thanking you for your goodness, I am,

Very truly yours,
E. VICARS STEVENSON,
Rector.

TRULY SHATTUCK IN "ALMA" SATURDAY NIGHT.

Joseph Weber's remarkable musical comedy, "Alma, Where Do You Live?" which played all last season at Weber's theatre, New York, will be seen at the Plainfield theatre Saturday matinee and night, en route to Philadelphia, where on Labor Day the piece begins a four weeks' engagement at the Forrest theatre. Miss Truly Shattuck will be seen in the title role, and she has every quality necessary to portray the bewitching milliner. The music of "Alma" is regarded as the real musical find of the season, and has been played so continually that already it is familiar to the ear. The particular musical hit is the "Alma" waltz, and its lifting strains have won for the composer a position second to none. "Alma, Where Do You Live?" is a particularly pleasing performance and should pack the theatre at both performances here.

ENDED PASTORATE

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss' Resignation at First Baptist Church Takes Effect.

FIFTY YEARS IN MINISTRY.

Comimttee Will Suggest Clergyman to Suceed Him, But Early Action is not Expected—Supplies Filling Pulpit.

Rev. Dr. John A. Chambliss, who has been pastor of the First Baptist church for the past eight years, and who tendered his resignation on Sunday, May 14, will end his pastoral relations there today. His resignation was presented on May 14 through L. V. F. Randolph, president of the board of trustees, the same to take effect September 1. At the time of the resignation the matter was referred jointly to the board of trustees and deacons, with the understanding that it was to be acted upon at a meeting of the church, May 24. This was done and the resignation was reluctantly accepted at that time.

Dr. Chambliss is now past seventy years of age. In June he and Mrs. Chambliss celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, at which time a large reception was given for them by the members of the flock. Both were the recipients of valuable gifts, including a generous purse of gold.

Dr. Chambliss was born at Athens, Ga., in 1840. He has held a number of pastorates, including that of the First Baptist church, East Orange, from 1889 to 1899. He gave up that pastorate to engage in literary work. For two years he was the supply for the Montclair Baptist church. Dr. Chambliss is a man of high literary attainment. He was elected to the presidency of Washington College, Maryland, refusing this position ne become pastor of the East Orange church. He served during the Civil War as a chaplain in the Confederate Army. The church of which he has been pastor for the past eight years is one of the largest and mast influential of that denomination in the State and during his stay here, he has received a large number of new members into the church as well as kept the finances up to the high water mark.

At present it is not known who will be the successor to Dr. Chambliss. A committee has been apointed to secure a pastor, but it is not likely that the matter will be decided soon. The pulpit is now being filled by supplies, but the committee has already announced that those engaged to preach here are not considered as candidates for the position of pastor. However, it is known that of the list of supplies several names have been recommended to the committee for the vacancy.

MID-WEEK SERVICE AT PARK AVE. CHURCH.

In spite of the storm, a large number attended the mid-week service at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, which was in charge of the Pible school. The program was arranged by the superintendent, George E. Hall, who selected for the subject of the meeting, "Our Needs." Mr. Hall prepared a number of questions and answers calling for passages of Scripture bearing upon this subject; this gave each one present a part in the meeting, and brought to mind many passages from the Bible.

Music was also an attractive feature of the service and was well rendered by the church quartet, Mrs. Ada Cuming, Miss Adelia Runyon, W. S. Lowry and Robert H. Lowry. A solo was also sung by Miss Estelle Pitt, of Brooklyn. This orchestra accompanied the singing and rendered several selections: Miss Evelyn Berg, Miss Marjorie Brown, violins; Mr. Higham, Dr. J. F. Berg, 'cellos; Whitney Frazee, cornet. Miss Arline Brown presided at the piano.

The audience enjoyed a social hour at the close of the meeting, during which refreshments provided by Mr. Hall were served. Mrs. G. E. Hall and Mrs. Ada Cuming were the committee in charge of the social.

Will Return September 10.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, today notified his consistory by night letter that the affairs in settling the estate of his mother demanded his presence at Grand Rapids, Mich., and that he will return in time to occupy his pulpit on Sunday, September 10. Rev. E. G. Read, D.D., of East Ninth street, this city, will preach at the morning service. No evening service.

Council Will Meet Tuesday.

Monday being Labor Day and a holiday, it is expected that the September meeting of the Common Council will be held Tuesday night, September 5, following the usual custom when the meeting night falls on a holiday.

JARED S. KENYON TO WED MISS GILBOUGH

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gilbough, of Bayonne, to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Woodward Gilbough, and Jared Shotwell Kenyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burnett C. Kenyon, of West Seventh street. The wedding will take place at the Fifth Reformed church, Bayonne, Tuesday night, September 19, at 8 o'clock. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. George Horter, of Pittsburgh, Pa., an uncle of the bride.

Miss Gilbough is prominent in the younger society set of Bayonee. She is especially fond of athletics, being a golfer and tennis player; is an expert horsewoman and is talented as a musician and artist.

Mr. Kenyon is a graduate of Cornell university, Class '09. He holds a responsible position as manager of the Philadelphia branch of the Diehl Manufacturing Company, of New York. He formerly resided in Bayonne, removing to this city with his parents about three years ago. His father is president of the Diehl Manufacturing Company. The couple will make their home in Jenkinstown, Pa., after a wedding trip.

COW IN THE CORN; COURT CASE RESULTS

Who or what hit the cow was the question at stake in the borough court this morning when Mr. and Mrs. George Rillings, of Harrison avenue, were arraigned before Recorder Charles M. Dolliver on complaint of Patrick Regan, a neighbor who claimed that one of his cows was struck by a stone thrown by Mrs. Rillings and that the animal had been seriously injured from the effects of the wound. J. Henry Crane appeared as counsel for the plaintiff and S. S. Swackhamer was the lawyer for the defense.

The complaint was that the cow, which belonged to Regan, was struck by a stone while grazing near Rilling's yard and that the wound caused the cow to become violently stricken, since the missle hit her in a vital part. Mrs. Johanna Miner, of Cedar street, and Charles Carr, colored, of Jefferson avenue, were called in to testify in the case and both declared that they had seen the cow jump from the ditch as if suddenly frightened. Mrs. Regan and her young daughter also stated the same story. Mr. and Mrs. Rilling and their son, were the only witnesses for the defense, all declaring that the cow was not hit on Saturday but Mrs. Rilling admitted that she har thrown some dirt at the animal Sunday afternoon, when it was pulling down some corn in her garden.

After recording the testimony of both sides Judge Dolliver reserved his decision for one week.

UNION CO. SOCIALISTS AGREE ON CANDIDATES.

County candidates were nominated and a county platform adopted at a meeting of the Socialists of Union county held in Proctor's Broad street Theatre building, Elizabeth, this week. Following is the Socialist county ticket: For State Senator, Christopher J. Cosgrove; Assembly, Dudley L. H. Ferguson, B. F. Belsford and Emil Speck; sheriff, Gustave Theimer; coroner, Joseph Storz. All the candidates are from Elizabeth.

Postal Clerks Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shea, of this city, left this week for Rochester, N. Y., where Mr. Shea will attend the annual convention of postoffice clerks to be held in that city. He goes as a delegate from the New Jersey Association of Postal Clerks.

Joint Prayer Meeting.

The members of the Plainfield Rescue Mission will meet at the W. C. T. U. rooms this evening at 7:40 and the proceed to the Temple Baptist church, where they will unite in the prayer meeting.

INVESTORS ACT

Some National Mining and Leasing Co., Stockholders May Seek Law's Aid.

APPOINT NEW COMMITTEE.

To Consult With County Prosecutor and U. S. District Attorney—Mayor Moy Presides at Their Meeting.

When the stock and bondholders of the National Mining and Leasing Company met yesterday afternoon at the Coward building a resolution was passed authorizing the appointment of a committee of three to bring the condition of the corporation and the circumstances causing the condition to the attention of the county prosecutor of the United States district attorney, whichever in the committee's opinion after investigation seems to be the proper one. The purport of the motion, it was explained is to have criminal action, if necessary, brought against such officers and directors as may be believed in anywise responsible for the condition of the corporation and for the alleged fraud perpetrated on investors.

It was alleged at the meeting that some, at least, of the officers have not done anything to protect the investors and now seem indifferent as to the extent of their losses or what becomes of the company, its alleged holdings in rich copper lands or any resources that may exist. It is alleged there is an inclination on the part of a number of prominent stock and bondholders to allow the concern to "go by the board" as one expressed it, inasmuch as the report made by the investigating committee showed, it is claimed, that the known assets would not cover the counsel fees in any action that may be taken.

A sentiment expressed at the meeting yesterday by C. L. Bell, of Cranford, was to the effect that a fraud had been perpetrated and that the guilty ones should be brought to justice even if those alleged to have been defrauded had to create a fund to defray expenses. His expression followed an important motion which was carried and was in reply to one given adversely on the motion as made.

This action will be a separate one to that now being pursued by the United States Federal authorities who are making an investigation of the company for the purpose of learning if the mails were used to defraud. If it is learned that this was done, two actions may be brought against some officers and directors. The late E. D. Middlekauff was president and treasurer. The committee appointed yesterday consists of C. L. Bell, of Cranford, Israel TenEyck, of this city and Dr. George VanNest, of Hopewell.

The committee appointed at a meeting some months ago to make an investigation of the corporation and report to the stockholders was discharged yesterday at the meeting. Since the appointment of that committee, it is alleged that there was not the unity of purpose that was intended when the committee was named, and considerable time was consumed at yesterday's meeting in threshing out various matters concerning the work of this committee, but nothing of importance resulted in this display of "snap" except both sides entering denials to the majority of statements made by the other.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy was selected chairman of the meeting and D. J. Galbraith , secretary. Mayor Moy stated the purpose for which the meeting was called and had the report of the committee read. There were about twenty-five present and the meeting lasted several hours.

Jaseph Cadmus said yesterday that he did not intend to be present at the meeting, which he said had been called without authority and was not regular. In effect he referred to it as a "rump" meeting and had been called by one not a stockholder at this time. He added that Mayor Moy had requested him to be present with the company's books, but that he had declined to do so.

Matthew C. Mauro.

Matthew C. Mauro, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Matteo Mauro, of 307 East Second street, died this morning. The funeral service will be held at the late home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and at St. Mary's church at 2:30 o'clock. The burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Harry Flannery, who wrenched his ankle several weeks ago, while playing with the Elks' team at Crescent Oval, has discarded the crutches for a cane, but he will probably be out of the game for the balance of the season.

Miss Louise Meyer, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is convalescent, being able to be around again.

Gene Paff, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, has returned to his home at Glen Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jamison have returned from a two weeks' outing with relatives near Catskill, N. Y.

Charles Eller, treasurer of the baseball team, has returned from a two weeks' outing at Atlantic City.

Miss Mattie Hull has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Crtie Price, at Forty Forks, Pa.

POISON OVERDOSE SAVES MAN.

Having taken an overdose of corrosive sublimate, Leo Carilla, who lives in the Riverside section, of Paterson, is a live today, despite his act The poison was so violent in its action that the patient is in a fair way to recover.

An ambulance in charge of Dr. E. E. Miller was summoned from the General Hospital, and then it was found that the patient had taken twenty-nine grains of the corrosive sublimate. A small part of that dose would in many cases produce death.

Carilla had taken so much that it did not remain in his system. It was stated at the hospital last night by Dr. Pal, in whose charge the patient is, that Carilla will probably recover.

As near as those who have investigated are able to make out, the patient is suffering largely from a case of unrequited affection.

FINDS MAN DEAD IN BED.

Passaic, Aug. 31.—The body of Arthur Dicky, brother of Mrs. Lionel Finzi, was found late Tuesday at the Finzi home, 7 High street, by a domestic. Death occurred at least thirty-six hours before the body was found.

The gas was turned on and the windows closed. Upon investigation it was found that there is a quarter meter in the house, and during the day the gas had run out and the light went out. Tuesday afternoon as the maid placed another quarter into the meter the gas was turned on.

Death, it was found, was due to natural causes.

Scalds Fatal to Child.

After twenty-four hours' suffering from burns received when he fell into a tub of boiling suds, Howard, two years old, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Horner, of Riverside, died Tuesday afternoon. While the mother was washing Monday she left the little fellow playing in the kitchen. Later she heard a scream, and turned to see the baby struggling in the boiling water.

LEFT LARGE ESTATE.

The will of William Rowland, a retired New York shipbuilder, who died on his country place near New Brunswick two weeks ago, was filed in the Somerset County surrogate's office at Somerville yesterday. The estate is valued at nearly $2,000,000, the bulk of which consists of New York City real estate.

The will makes a number of small bequests to friends, employes and institutions, but the bulk of the estate is left to two married daughters and grandchildren of the testator. The daughters are Mrs. Grace Riva, of New Brunswick, and Mrs. Jane Adrain, of Middlesex county.

Killed at Grade Crossing.

While driving his horse and wagon over an unprotected crossing of the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Middlebrook, Tuesday, James McGloin, seventy-four years old, was struck and instantly killed by a passenger train. McGloin's wagon was demolished, but the horse escaped serious injury. McGloin was a truck farmer, who lived at Chimney Rock, a mountain hamlet two miles from the scene of the accident.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were heavy in New York yesterday.

Police Commissioner Waldo, of New York, appointed one new inspector and promoted twenty-three detectives.

A Mount eVrnon, N. Y., youth risked his life off the Maine coast in a vain effort to save a girl when their canoe capsized.

Governor Mills issued a proclamation fixing Tuesday, November 7, as the date for holding the first State election in New Mexico.

Both sides rested at the trial of Paul Giedel, and the case will go to the jury today; the twelve men visited the scene of the murder.

Lehigh Valley Railroad attorneys said in Manchester, N. Y., the train wreck there probably would cost the road $750,000 in damages.

Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, expressed the belief that the American sponsors of reciprocity anticipated ultimate annexation.

The application for an order to compel E. M. Grout to testify in the Union Bank investigation was heard in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn.

A cashier of the Hotel Manhattan, New York, was arrested on a charge of theft, and it was said that the amount involved would reach $50,000.

Francisco I. Madero, Jr., was nominated for the Presidency by the Constitutional Progressives of Mexico at the party convention, held in the capital.

The steam yacht Gunilda, on which her owner, W. L. Harkness, was believed to be cruising, was reported wrecked on the Canadian side of Lake Superior.

The joint New York charter committee announced that it had reached a tentative agreement on several changes in the charter since the public hearings closed

Marquis Saionji announced the composition of the new Japanese Ministry, of which he is head; Viscount Uchida, Ambassador in Washington, will be Minister of Foreign Affairs.

A boy wireless operator on the steamship Lexington saved many lives by summoning a revenue cutter to the assistance of the vessel, which went aground on the South Carolina coast in the hurricane.

Appraiser Bird, of New York, caused the arrest of a government packer, charged with stealing $5,000 worth of merchandise in transit, and suspected of taking an antique ring owned by Mrs. J. P. Morgan.

Two bombs wrecked buildings, frightened hotel patrons and blew a cabman from his seat, in New York, and Inspector Hughes said the refusal of Black Hand victims to confide in the police made their labors fruitless.

Pessimism as to a peaceful outcome of the Franco-German negotiations on the subject of West Africa were expressed in London; Belgium advanced her preparations to enforce the neutrality of her territory in the event of war.

W. B. Hornblower protested against "further drastic experiments in legislation against business" before the American Bar Association in Boston; Justice Brown (retired), of the Supreme Court, spoke against the recall of judges.

Two witnesses testified for the defense of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., on trial at Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., for the murder of his wife, that they saw a strange bearded man near the scene of the shooting a short time before the tragedy.

DECLARED DEAD YEARS AGO; JUST SUCCUMBS.

Port Murray, Aug. 31.—William Crotsley, a Civil War veteran, died at the home of his son, George Crotsley, near here Tuesday, after an illness of more than a year. Because of an experience four years ago, when the veteran was pronounced dead by two physicians and the undertaker had been called, his son yesterday took every precaution to make certain his father had succumbed before summoning the undertaker. For fully four hours after life was extinct the family physician was at the bedside because the younger Crotsley thought he had detected a sign of life. Then the undertaker was called.

TRAIN VICTIM NOT HIS SON.

Believing that the youth who was killed in a railroad accident at Bound Brook Monday night was his son, John Bartley, of Newark, went to Bound Brook Tuesday morning, but was unable to identify the body as that of his son.

Charles Bartley, the son, who is eighteen years old, disappeared from his home two months ago in company with Bernard Murray, of 198 Emmet street.

Mr. Bartley says he does not know why his son went away. He had received an unsigned postal card from Asbury Park three weeks ago, he declared, and the writing resembled that of his son.

WE ARE REMODELING OUR SECOND FLOOR AND WILL FIT IT UP AS ONE OF THE FINEST READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENTS IN JERSEY. WE WANT TO OPEN IT WITH A BRAND NEW STOCK. HENCE EVERY GARMENT IN OUR PRESENT STOCK TO BE DISPOSED OF REGARDLESS OF LOSS!

Carpenters are at present busy making extensive alterations on our second floor, which heretofore has been used for reserve stock. We are going to make it one of the finest ready-to-wear departments in New Jersey. The entire second floor will be devoted to this line. We ordered from the Grand Rapids Show Case Co. their finest Wall Cabinets of the newest style, for the handling of Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts and Furs. These will be here shortly. In the meantime the rest of the floor is being fitted up for Waists, House Dresses, Petticoats, Kimonas, etc. Every modern convenience for shoppers will be installed. There will be large comfortable arm chairs and tables with the latest magazines. In short this new ready-to-wear department will be far and away ahead of anything of its kind in town.

Now, we want to open this department with an entirely brand new stock; every garment fresh and in latest style. To dispose of our present stock is an undertaking requiring the most powerful and drastic measures at our command. Extraordinarily low prices will do it; we have marked every Suit, Coat, Dress, Skirt, etc., now in stock at such absurdly low prices that there should be no trouble at all in disposing of our stock.

D. FOSTER UPDIKE'S
Amusements!

SOME PUMPKIN

I am Mare and the whole Common Council of Uptodate. I have no arguments to disgust there, I say what, and do as I please there, and you have no say in the matter. Do you know I feel sorry for some of you, because I know you have been trying to get your nose in my affairs for sometime. Well, you have a chance to get even with me. I started in business just last May, and did not have as much as four dollars, and all the money I borrowed was $75 to pay my first month's rent with, and now I only own this town. but have anywhere from $10,000 to $15,000 in other property; and nothing but howlers against me to help me. You can do the same thing. I don't know nothing, and you don't know nothing, so why can't you do it?

Now what I have to say as to Uptodate is this: If you try build on a lot less than 50 feet or a house to cost less than $2,000 I will not consult Mr. Law, but I will tare it down, because I want this town to be up-to-date and it has to be so. Price of lots $25, $30 and $35 on the come and see me often plan.

LONG BRANCH RAIDERS MAKE TEN PRISONERS.

Following closely on the heels of the raid led by Mayor Packer on an Elberon garage Wednesday. Captain of Detectives William D. Walling and County Detective Elwood Minugh made ten prisoners in an excise raid at Long Branch, early yesterday morning. The prisoners, with several exceptions, are charged with the illegal sale of liquor.

Wesley Edwards, accused of conducting a disorderly house, was held in $500 bail. The remaining prisoners held and their bail are as follows: Fannie Mason, of First avenue, $300; Mattie Taylor, also of First avenue, $200; Frank Lepardo, $300; Thomas Bailey, Belmont avenue, $300; Melissa Jones, Angelo Sacco and George Williams, $200 each. Bella Cahill, of Abbotsford avenue, and William Cahill, will be given a hearing later.

It is reported that the raid was in retaliation on the Mayor for having gone over the head of the chief of police yesterday. More raids are looked for.

FARM HAND HELD FOR MURDER.

Mt. Holly, Aug. 31.—At an inquest at the courthouse Tuesday in the case of Giuseppe Mattero, shot and killed on the farm of James M. Stokes, near Centerton last Saturday, a jury sworn by Coroner Grabler held Salvator Jacono, a fellow-farmhand, responsible. The prisoner was remanded back to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Testimony was given by two persons who saw the shooting. From other witnesses came the story that Mattero was constantly quarreling. A niece of the defendant will figure in the trial, when Jacono will enter a plea of self-defense. He fired five shots at his victim, the last one taking effect.

The unclaimed body of the murdered man has been buried in the almshouse cemetery at New Lisbon.

Plainfield, N. J., August 31, 1911.

The sale of the Engineering News is worthy of comment, not simply because the consideration, nearly one million dollars, is the highest ever paid for a class journal, but because the paper is a monument to its founder, George H. Frost, a valued resident of Plainfield. Beginning the publication of this now internationally famous publication as a monthly in 1874, he occupied a new field in class journalism, but his success was so marked that before long he had powerful competitors. That the paper is today the leading one of its kind in the world is in itself a tribute to the business sagacity, judgment and general executive ability of the man who for thirty-seven years guided its destinies.

CARS AT PLAYGROUNDS ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

The Plainfield Board of Playground Commissioners announces that cars for the transportation of the children from the four playgrounds to Parker field on Labor Day afternoon will be the following places at 1:45—East Fifth street opposite the Bryant school; corner Arlington avenue and West Fifth street for Franklin playground; corner of Liberty street and West Fourth street for Parochial playground; corner Monroe avenue and West Fourth street for the children of the Irving school playground.

In each instance the children will be in charge of the supervisor of their playground. The Commission provides these cars at its own expense and no fares will be collected form the children. Returning from Parker field, the special cars for the children will leave directly after the flag raising and run to their starting points.

An interesting exhibition of the individual work done at the different ploygrounds will be placed on tables opposite the entrance to the field. Final plans for the opening of the new playground will be formulated by the commission at a special meeting to be held Friday afternoon in the office of Harry W. Marshall on Watchung avenue and East Fourth street.

—The LaRue Realty Company, owner of the Plainfield City Market, is erecting a large fruit stand in the market and will have a full line of fruits and vegetables. The stand will be ready for business tomorrow. The company is conducting several other stands in the market.

Miss Helen Carson and her brother, Walter Carson, of East Second street, leave tomorrow for South Norwalk, Conn., to visit for a week.

ACCIDENT AT WATER FETE.

Atlantic City, Aug. 31.—An incident not down on the program and carefully hidden from the thousands who attended the water carnival in Venice Lagoon and the Beach Thoroughfare was brought to light Tuesday, showing that Miss Olga Vogler, of Philadelphia, who was selected by popular vote as queen of the carnival, had a somewhat stormy reign.

Sometime after the start of the water pageant, and when far down the lagoon, something went wrong with the steering apparatus of the barge of State upon which were seated Queen Olga and her retinue of retainers, and a moment later the craft had run into a sand bar.

A scream went up from one of the young women nd to render the situation more trying, the supply of redfire on the barge gave out at the same time. Then followed an incipient panic in which Miss Helen Vogler, sister of the carnival queen, and Miss Gertrude Moore, one of the ladies in waiting, swooned.

At this junction the barge bearing Miss Sylvia Errice, the carnival princess, and her retinue, hove in sight and after some of the more alarmed young women had been taken aboard the queen's craft was floated and the party continued on its way.

WOMEN FAINT IN PANIC AT SEASHORE THEATRE.

A panic occurred in the lobby of the Savoy Theatre, Asbury Park, Tuesday night after the performance of "Maggie Pepper," in which the leading role was taken by Miss Rose Stahl,. When the audience began leaving the playhouse the rain was coming down in torrents, and those in front did not show a disposition to move on.

In a minute the lobby was congested with men and women who were struggling to get out. Those in the rear pushed and fought hard to make their way to the open air. Women fainted in the crush, and evening gowns were torn.

The women who fainted were carried out by officers. They were taken across the street to the store of Councilman Thomas J. Winckler, where restoratives were given them. It was three-quarters of an hour before the lobby was cleared. Queen Titania, her maids and the members of the carnival commission occupied boxes as the guests of Dr. H. S. Kinmonth.

Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, will hold a melon social at the home of Mrs. Maria Terry, 331 East Second street, tomorrow evening. Members are requested to invite friends as the affair will be a public one.

TUBERCULOSIS CAUSES ATHLETIC GIRL'S DEATH.

Boonton, Aug. 31.—Miss Cecilia Carroll, who little more than a year ago was noted as a tennis player and all around athlete in the Stte Normal School at Montclair, died at her home here Tuesday after a lingering illness of tuberculosis. The young woman had been in failing health for about a year and for the last eight months had been obliged to remain indoors.

Miss Carroll was twenty-one years old. She was of robust build and attracted much attention by her athletic prowess while at the Normal School. She was the daughter of Lawrence Carroll. Besides her parents, five brothers and a sister, the latter residing in Boston, survive her. The funeral services will be held in St. Mary's Roman Catholic church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Miss Carroll was a member of the Children of Mary Sodality of the church and prior to becoming broken in health she was active in all the church affairs.

DINED ON TOADSTOOLS, FOUR GO TO HOSPITAL.

Poisoned from eating toadstools PJQin mistake for mushrooms, four persons were removed to the City Hospital in Newark for treatment Tuesday afternoon. They are Albert Russo, a barber, thirty years old; his wife, Donata Russo, the same age, and his mother, Mrs. Rosalie Russo, fifty-three years old, all of 318 Sixteenth avenue, and Pasquale Williama, fourteen years old, of 437 South Seventeenth street. Their condition is not serious.

Williama is employed by Russo in the latter's barber shop. When the Russos sat down to eat the "mushrooms" at their home Monday afternoon, Williama was invited and joined them at the meal. The fungus did not take effect until Tuesday when all four began to complain of feeling ill. Dr. Francisco Cella, of 230 Hunterdon street, was summoned.

The doctor examined the four and decided that they needed hospital treatment. He then telephoned for the ambulance.

LITERARY.

There are many of us who care much less for political machinery than for the way in which it is used. This magazine has not been ardent in demanding the initfative, the referendum, or the recall, while being very willing to see all these things tried, in order that experience may test their value. If the people of Arizona are indeed fit for Statehood, and if they should be allowed to send two Senators to Washington to help govern the entire country, they must surely be regarded as competent to settle for themselves the various details of their domestic government. —From "The Progress of the World" in the American Review of Reviews for September.

The French Canadian always has trouble with the aspirate "th." At a debating club in the Province of Quebec members were required to draw a slip from a hat and debate upon the subject they received. A young countryman arose

"I have drew the word 'bat.' I must told you dere is two, tree different kind of bat. Dere is de bat wot you play de baseball wit, de bat wot fly in de air at night and also de bat where you take de swim."—From "Success Magazine."

Tex Ramsdell to Turn "Pro."

Contrary to reports, Tex Ramsdell, the former University of Pennsylvania sprinter, who has been running during the summer in Europe, arrived on the steamer Caronia from Liverpool Tuesday. Ramsdell had a fairly successful campaign abroad, winning the English 100-yard and the 220-yard championships. He was defeated, though in the sprint races by Rau, the German champion, at the Berliner games. The former U. of P. speed marvel paid a visit to "Sparrow" Robertson's Nest, the great gathering place for athletes, before making his adieu for Pittsburgh. Although he declined to discuss the subject, Ramsdell has probably run his last amateur race. He has been effered an alluring position as athletic instructor at the Carnegie Technical School in Pittsburgh and he has been thinking seriously of accepting the offer.

PERSONALLY REGISTER ON TUESDAY SEPT. 5

In compliance with the law, City Clerk James T. MacMurray gives notice today that the first registry day is Tuesday, September 12, when all must be registered in order to cast their ballots at the primaries to be held on Sept. 26. The Geran law provides for personal registration and it is up to the voters to see on that day that their names are on the registry list in the district where they vote. If not registered on that day they cannot vote at the primary.

At a great deal of time and expense, City Clerk MacMurray has had the registry lists made up and then revised. This has been difficult work because of the changes in the districts and in order that there be a minimum of mistakes, the city clerk has had recourse to the county clerk's books. If you want to vote at the primaries, it is necesary that you personally see to it on Tuesday, Sept. 12, that your name is on the list.

TRANSFER RULE TO THE COURTS.

That the Public Service Railway Company intends to contest the ruling of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners in regard to trolley car transfers in Newark was admitted by officers of the corporation yesterday.

It was said in this connection by Frank Bergen, general counsel of the company, that the matter will be taken to the Supreme Court on a writ of certiorari and that the contest will be based on the insistment that the Utility Commission misconstrued the ordinance upon which its order is founded.

The necessary papers in the matter are now being prepared by the company's attorneys and it is likely that they will be presented to the court this week. It is also probable that when the application is made the courts will be asked to grant a stay of the Utility Board's order, which goes into effect September 5 next.

HARD FOR WOMAN TO TO GET A NIGHT'S LODGING.

Mrs. Layton was taken from a porch on East Front street at midnight last night after a 'phone message had been received at police headquarters that she had been there more than an hour. The woman was in search of a night's lodging. Those in charge of the place said this morning that they did not 'phone for the police and did not know that the woman was on the porch until told. After being taken to police headquarters in the patrol wagon the woman told who it was that directed her to the lodging place and when he was called up he said that if the police would take her to a hotel he would stop and pay her bill this morning and during the day would see what he could do for her otherwise.

Had Husband Arrested.

On complaint of his wife, Michael Kennedy was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza, in the city court this morning to answer to the charge of disorderly conduct. The couple are not living together and Mrs. Kennedy alleges that Mr. Kennedy went to the house where she resides with her daughter and caused a disturbance by quarreling and calling the daughter foul names. In order to give Kennedy time to secure counsel the hearing was postponed until Monday morning.

Mrs. Drake's Funeral.

The funeral service for Mrs. Martha Jobs Drake was held yesterday afternoon at her late home on Duer street and was attended by a large number of friends. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated and burial was made in the Evergreen cemetery.

Trial Postponed.

The trial of Mrs. James Traynor, of South Second street, who is charged by her neighbor, Mrs. Mary Allard, with the use of indecent language in an argument the women had, was put over for Saturday morning by Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning.

Boy Dies Victim of Rabies.

Morris Gruber, aged six years, died at the Long Branch Hospital Tuesday night of hydrophobia, the second victim of a rabid dog which attacked several children last June. The lad was bitten on the ear and little or nothing was thought of it at the time. The death of Franklin Brown last week, however, alarmed others who were bitten,and the parents of young Gruber took him to the Pasteur Institute. They were told there that it was too late.

GOVERNOR INSPECTS RAHWAY REFORMATORY

Governor Woodrow Wilson yesterday officially visited the New Jersey State Reformatory at Rahway. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Carolyn B. Alexander, of the New Jersey State Charities Aid Association. The Governor's party reached the institution shortly after 10 o'clock and were met by the superintendent, the Rev. Dr. Frank Moore and the members of the reformat ory commission. The visitors were shown through and carefully inspected the institution, the Governor expessing himself as well pleased with the condition and management and congratulated Dr. Moore.

At noon Governor Wilson addressed the inmates in the chapel. A dinner was served in the parole room of the reformatory at which were: Governor and Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Carolyn B. Alexander, Superintendent and Mrs. Moore, ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees, D. W. Sawyer, of Montclair; George M. Fortmyer, of Orange; Judge Freeman Woodbridge, of New Brunswick; the Rev. Dr. John Handley, of Ocean Grove; Edarwd D. Duffield, of Perth Amboy; William Edgar, of Woodbridge, commissioners. Senator Michael T. Barret, being out of the State, was unable to be present.

Severely Cut in a Fall.

While Fred Coalfax, who is visiting his brother, Richard Coalfax, of South Plainfield, was walking from the dining room to the kitchen of his brother's residence yesterday afternoon, he tripped on a small pair of steps, which he did not know were located there and fell against the stove in the kitchen. Mr. Coalfax's head was badly cut and a five inch gash was inflicted on the right side of his jaw. His forehead over his right eye was also severely cut. The injured man was brought to this city for medical aid.

Plan Reunion Services.

Reunion services will be held at the Temple Baptist church this evening, when Rev. J. W. Musson, of Meriden, Conn., a former pastor, and Rev. L. J. Westphal, of Wilmington, Del., will take part; also L. W. Randolph, superintendent of the Sunday-school, who has returned from his outing. It was expected that Rev. E. C. Conover, pastor of the church, would be present, but he has been delayed and will not return until tomorrow. He will occupy his pulpit on Sunday.

Miss E. B. Hartridge, of West Seventh street, has returned home from Saranac Lake, N. Y., where she spent the summer.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 3, 1911.

Topic.—Lessons from great lives.—IX. Daniel.—Dan. vi, 10-23. (Consecration meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The life of Daniel is one of the most interesting and inspiring to be found in Biblical history. It appeals especially to the young, and his example should ever be a guide and a help to young people amid the trials and temptations of youth. Of Daniel's parentage or childhood life nothing is known. He was probably born in Jerusalem and seems to have been of royal or noble descent.

In the third year of Jehoiakim Daniel was taken to Babylon and trained for the king's service. Because of his courageous fidelity to God and to his religious faith he was divinely blessed and rose to positions of trust and power under the Persian kings. Although he does not seem to have spent his entire life in Babylon, yet the story of his endeavors, his achievements and his prophecies, as recorded in the Scripture, deals alone with his life in the land of captivity. There is no record of his death, but he had played well his part in life and when the end came he was ready to be "gathered to his fathers" to await the time when "many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake," and among them Daniel himself, to everlasting life.

1. The life of Daniel teaches a lesson on moral heroism. Where physical danger was concerned Daniel was fearless and courageous, but above this he was a moral hero. He had deep religious and moral convictions, and regardless of everything he lived up to them. In his early experience in Babylon he "purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself" with meat and drink offered to idols. It was against the law of Moses to do so, and Daniel stood firm. Fortunately he was able to persuade the king's servant to test the value of his position, but we can well believe that had the necessity arisen Daniel would have boldly refused to obey the king's command. But the success of his test has proved for all time that rich foods and especially intoxicating liquors are detrimental to physical, mental and spiritual growth and development. But what moral courage it must have taken in Daniel under the circumstances to have stood up for the right as he saw it. He was in a strange land and might have eased his conscience by saying, "In Babylon do as Babylon does," but instead he determined that in Babylon as in Jerusalem, in a strange land as well as at home, he would do only that which was right.

Later on in the king's prohibition of prayer to God we have another illustration of the moral courage of Daniel. No fear of the den of lions caused him to waver in his allegiance to God. Daniel was not fraid of lions, but he was afraid of living a lie before God. "Dare to be a Daniel."

2. The life of Daniel teaches a lesson on daily prayers. "He kneeled upon his knees three times a day and prayed and gave thanks before his God." This glimpse into the daily habits of Daniel is enough to reveal to us the secret of his fidelity and integrity among the fearful temptations of his life. Daniel was a man of prayer. Prayer was the daily habit of his life and a king's command could not break that habit. Daniel no doubt led a very busy life, but he had time for daily communion with God, and so should all His children. We should have a time and a place for daily fellowship with our heavenly Father and thereby we will be strengthened to meet the daily temptations that assail us and enabled to better perform the daily duties of life.

3. The life of Daniel teaches us that it is possible to be faithful to God in every avenue of life. If Daniel, surrounded by the temptations and allurements of a dissolute, heathen court, could be faithful to God and live a life devoted to holiness, it is possible anywhere. To doubt it is not to doubt the power of man, as many suppose, but the power of God. God kept Daniel and God can keep us, if like Daniel, we trust Him, and pray to Him to do so. It is possible to live a Christian life in high places as well as in low places, in palaces as in hovels, in politics and in business as in the trades and professions. Any other claim is a libel against God, and the excuse of cowards who would charge their dishonesty to environment rather than to the inherent evil dispositions of their own hearts and to their own deliberate choosing. In any honest calling in life if we will "purpose in our hearts" to be true, God will give us the grace to do so.

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. i, 10-19; xxii, 1-6, 28, 29; xxiii, 29-32; Ps. xcii, 1, 2; Dan. i, 1-6, 8-15, 17; ii, 19-23, 31-45; iii, 16-30; vi, 4, 5, 16-23; xii, 1-3; Eccl. xii, 1.

Its Future.

Answering the question, "What is to be the future of Christian Endeavor?" Dr. Leach, a member of the British parliament and chairman of the British National Christian Endeavor council, says: "The future of Christian Endeavor will be just what its friends and those who love it determine to make it. The central idea of the movement is what it has ever been, to promote the interests of the kingdom of Christ through the church. Hence those who desire Christian Endeavor to flourish must ever make the world Redeemer the center of all they do."

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Feet Tired—So Tired?
TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well, No Matter What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.
It's the sure remedy, you know, for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweaty, bad-smelling feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too.
"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pains. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used." A. F. Dreutzer, Chicago.
TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other fot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.
You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.
TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Reading For the Sick.

"And now a word about patients who may feel like reading," said the house physician to the nurse. "When they ask for something to read be sure to give them continued stories—always continued stories."

"Is that wise?" she ventured to remonstrate. "Won't the excitement over what is going to happen in the next number have a bad effect?"

"No. Even if it does it will be counteracted by the encouragement. Sick people have queer fancies. One of the queerest pertains to literature. Feed a patient's mind with nothing but short stories and he will certainly get into his head that he is going to die so soon that it isn't worth while to start him on a long one, and he will droop accordingly. But give him only yarns of the to-be-continued-in-our-next variety and he will take it for granted that you expect him to get well so he can finish the story, and he will perk up amazingly. Just try it."

The nurse did try it and found that the doctor's theory was built on a sure foundation.—New York Times.

Lion Signs In England.

In the middle ages the country houses of the nobility in England when the owners were absent were used as hostels for travelers. The family arms always hung in front of the house and gave it a popular name among travelers, who called a lion "gules" or azure simply "red" or "blue." As these mere intimations of good cheer and entertainment innkeepers adopted the idea. Lions have always been and are now very favorite signs in England—lions white, black, red, brown, golden, yellow—red being the most common. Probably the Red Lion originated with the badge of John of Gaunt, duke of Lancaster, who married the daughter of Don Pedro, king of Leon and Castile, and who adopted the lion rampant gules of Leon to represent his claim to the throne. Under Richard and John lions became the settled arms of England and were generally used by those who could find any claim.

Rook and Gull.

The rook appears to have become the bird whose name stands for swindlers in a distinctly unfair way, the London Chronicle says. At first "rook" meant a dupe, then the verb "to rook" came to mean to cheat, and out of this was evolved "rook," a cheater—a complete topsy turvy process. It is curious that the same thing has not happened to "gull." Here also the verb came from the substantive meaning a dupe, and, as the gull strikes one as rather a knowing bird, one might have expected the same evolution as in the case of the rook. It should be observed, however, that "gull," a dupe, did not refer specially to the seagull, the word having formerly meant a young bird of any kind. In Elizabethan English it signified a callow youngster who wished to be thought smart.

Literary Cure For Snoring.

To the snorers who ask for the cure let the cause be announced. Snoring is the result of stomachic repletion and mental vacuity. A correspondent who has suffered from both prescribes the cure—a light supper or none, to avoid repletion, and the frequent repetition of some literary phrase to provide occupation for the mind during sleeping hours. Go to bed and think of some short literary phrase to occupy your mind. The combination of the two prescriptions against snoring—the abstention from food and the meditation upon a literary phrase—may be found in Ecclesiasticus, the ninetieth verse of the thirty-first chapter, "How sufficient to a well mannered man is a very little, and he doth not breathe hard upon his bed."—London Spectator.

Dead Men's Teeth.

Before artificial teeth were created deficiencies had to be made good by the real article, so body snatchers ravaged the cemeteries at night, breaking up the jaws of the dead to extract their teeth to sell to dentists for insertion in live men's mouths. An army of these ghouls followed Wellington's army. They were licensed as sutlers, but once night fell out came their nippers and they prowled over the battlefield extracting the teeth of the dead or dying.

Asafetida.

Sheep have a fit of joy eating the young asafetida plant, and Persians and other oriental races relish it as much as sheep. The juice of the asafetida plant when fresh is so strong that a teaspoonful turns out more smell in a house than a hundredweight of drug store asafetida.

THE MAN HIGHER UP

BY HENRY RUSSELL MILLER

COPYRIGHT, 1910, BY BOBBS MERRILL CO.

"Well," Patrick said defiantly, "there's Kathleen."

"Oh, Kathleen ain't the woman for me," Bob said carelessly.

Then Bob did a strange thing. With a quick movement he t[ore] his shirt and undershirt from his body and stood before Patrick stripped to the waist.

"See!"

He drew his arms up, and the huge biceps swelled until you would have expected the skin to burst. Then he drew himself tensely together. The big pectorals stood out in thick layers, and his waist muscles were a series of bulging, sharply defined ridges. He turned around. Patrick saw a back covered with knots and lines of magnificent muscles. Bob seized him by the wrists.

"Break loose," he commanded.

Patrick writhed and pulled to break the iron grasp in vain.

"Bah!" Bob threw him contemptuously into the chair.

"That's why," he cried in passionate pride — "that's why I don't want friends. That's why Kathleen ain't for me. But muscle is nothing. I'm just as strong here." He struck his forehead with his palm.

"I never felt what you call friendly to any one," he went on, dropping into his usual quiet tone. "I never wanted a friend. And I'm glad of it. I can't have anybody through friendship gettin' a hold on me. It's the same reason that made me quit drinkin'. It don't hurt me now, but it might get hold of me some day. It's the strongest win out in this world, Pat, and I must be strongest."

Patrick sat, awed and half frightened by this the longest speech he had ever heard from Bob's lips and by the spirit that inspired the outburst.

"Ye're right," he said slowly. "Ye're cruel sthrong. An' mebby ye can do without friends. I don't know. But some day, I'm thinkin', ye'll love somebody—hard. Thin God pity ye!"

They did not know that in another room lay a girl who had chanced to hear words not meant for her ears. Minute after minute, hour after hour, dragged by and Kathleen never stirred. Poor Kathleen! Her love, battered and torn under the heedless wheels of a strong man's ambition, was fighting the bitter battle of her life's one romance.

But next evening began the lessons. Never was a more earnest tutor and never a more faithful pupil. And no one saw the change in Kathleen, her girlhood lost, her womanhood won in a night.

One day five years later Director of Public Safety McAdoo arranged the documents he had been reading into neat, methodical piles and rose from his desk, stretching his muscles with a sigh of relief. He had become a faithful desk worker, but there were times when he longed for the fierce muscular effort of the old mill life.

Five years had wrought many changes in the life of Bob McAdoo. He was twenty pounds lighter than when he had worked in the mills, although his sinews were still kept in condition by systematic, vigorous exercise. His face was thinner and finer and marked by lines of thought and study. He had grown mentally in the new life and under Kathleen's tutelage. His clothes were now made by the city's highest priced tailor, but, worn carelessly, gave little hint of that subtle thing we call style.

His bold negotiations with MacPherson had given him a hold on the Sixth legislative district, which careful organization and judicious bestowal of the patronage made his by virtue of that deal had converted into a veritable despotism. All candidates for councilmanic and legislative honors from that district had come to look to him for nomination and election. When the second mayor under the MacPherson regime was elected Bob was one of the four men who finally selected the fortunate candidate. Under this administration he accepted the office he now held. His signature at the bottom of a check was now familiar to the banks of the city and passed without question, since he was rapidly becoming a rich man.

A street railway franchise was engineered through councils, largely by means of the votes of Bob's group of councilmen. Bob's share of the spoils was a large block of stock, which he afterward sold for almost twice its par value. It was at the time of this franchise affair that he was first cartooned under the sobriquet "Knockout Bob," as a big, burly prizefighter, with the ugly, brutal features and particularly the heavy, undershot jowl supposed to be characteristic of men of that profession. Kathleen, with a troubled smile, showed it to Bob.

He gave vent to one of his very rare laughs. "Why, this is fame, Kathleen. Get a scrap book and save all the cartoons of me, will you?"

All this success was not accomplished easily, but by dint of hard, unremitting work and unceasing watchfulness upon MacPherson, for, although they had so far stood together, Bob knew that it was only an armed truce, that the boss hated him. It was largely for this reason that he had made haste to accumulate a large bank account.

But to what end, all this? Lately he had begun to ponder this question.

Bob had cast all but self out of his scheme of life. This was violating a law of nature, and he was beginning to reap the punishment in a strong discontent. He was not given to sentiment, but as he looked out on the passersby, all wearing the Christmas air, he realized that they had something he, with all he had won and all he would win, had not.

"But, after all," he mused half aloud, "for a man of my sort power is the only thing worth living for. The trouble with me is that God—if there is a God—made me too big to be contented with ordinary people and their ordinary emotions. Come in. Oh, hello, Tom!"

"Fine Chris'mus weather we're havin', Mr. McAdoo," said Haggin, who was the intruder. Like the other "boys," he always called Bob "Mr." nowadays.

"Fine enough, I guess. Can I do something for you?"

"Oh, no," Haggin answered, with ponderous bashfulness. "I only dropped in to say 'Merry Chris'mus' to ye."

"Very good of you, I'm sure, Tom." Bob's tone was anything but enthusiastic. Yet he was surprised by a faint glow of pleasure at the ex-pugilist's greeting.

There was an awkward silence, at length broken by Haggin: "Smith's been raisin' a big howl about not gettin' back to the legislatur'. Says he oughter git another term. Goin' 'round among the boys an' kickin' like a mule."

"Can't help that. I promised Stoughton, and he goes."

"Of course. You say so, and he goes. 'Tain't him that's raisin' the trouble, but a young feller named Remington. An' he ain't no slouch, you bear me. He's the feller I told you about came down to the Liberty hall meetin' last campaign. The boys was waitin' an' growin' impatient, until 'long about 9 o'clock in comes a tall young feller, regular kid. Good looker, with long curly hair an' a dashin' kind of way. An' swell? He made me feel like a glass fact'ry, an' I had on me hunderd dollar suit too. He steps up to me an' says, 'Mr. Chairman, my name's Remington, an' I'm here to make a speech.' At that the boys sets up a yell, hootin' an' guyin' him like four of a kind. Swell chap doesn't say a word, but offs with his overcoat an' sits on the table with his hands in his pockets, laughin' as if he had a good joke on somebody else. Fin'ly the boys lets up fer lack of wind. Then he starts in an' tells a story fit to make you bust. The boys laughs hard until they begun to see the point was on them. Then he gives 'em the worst tongue lashin' you ever heard. I thought there would be trouble an' was gittin' ready to keep the peace when one of the boys sings out, 'You're all right, kid.' An' dash me if they didn't cheer him louder than they'd guyed him. Then he talked fer near an hour. An' talk! Say, that kid had 'em all tied in a knot. When he was through they all crowded up to him an' wanted to buy him drinks. Oh, he's a corker an' no mistake."

"Well, what of him?" Bob interrupted Haggin's flow somewhat impatiently.

"He's takin' the Smith end of the row. Lives in the Seventh—Stoughton's own ward, you know—gets himself elected ward chairman—how, I don't know. An' now he's goin' round sayin' 'tain't fair to turn Smith down this trip. He's gettin' the boys stirred up some too."

"Why didn't you send him to me?"

"I did try to. He said: 'You tell Bob McAdoo to go plumb to thunder. If he wants to see me let him come to me.'"

"You call the district committee together Monday. I'll fix him," Bob promised grimly.

"Can't you make it Tuesday? Monday's Chris'mus."

"What of that?"

"Well," Haggin explained apologetically, "the boys like to be off Chris'mus, you know, with the kids."

"Can't help it. I've got to go out of town Tuesday. Make it Monday night."

"All right," Haggin assented regretfully. "I suppose you'll have to turn the kid down. I hate to do it, though, he's such a corker. Well, I must be goin'."

"Wait a minute, Tom." Bob sat down and filled out a check. "Here's something for Christmas."

"What! You givin' Chris'mus gifts?" Haggin took the check in amazement.

Bob's face burned red at something implied in Haggin's words. "Why not?" he retorted gruffly. "You need another diamond, Tom. Here's another for the boys in the Fourth. They haven't found much pickings lately."

"How d'you know I won't keep it too?"

"Nonsense, Tom! I know you."

Haggin swallowed hard. "Mr. McAdoo," he said awkwardly, "you're a man. I'd ruther hear them words than git the check. I hain't words to thank you. Merry Chris'mus!"

"The old man givin' Chris'mus gifts an' tellin' me he trusts me!" he murmured to himself in the corridor. "Hanged if he ain't changin'! Hanged if I don't believe he's got bowils, after all!"

Bob stood staring at his check book. Finally he sat down and lighted a fresh cigar.

"All of which is nonsense!" he exclaimed in a tone of disgust, although apropos of what he did not indicate. "Nevertheless, since I have been foolish for once, I might as well carry it to the end by getting something for the Flinns. They've earned it, that's sure."

He closed his desk with a slam and, putting on his overcoat, went out into the Christmas atmosphere.

CHAPTER V.

A NEW ACQUAINTANCE.

Bob walked hastily through the crowded streets, half ashamed of his errand. He came to a jewelry store and, entering, took his place in the long line of holiday customers. A young man beside him nodded. "How do you do, Mr. McAdoo?"

Bob returned the nod carelessly. He was growing used to be addressed by strangers.

A dapper clerk bustled up to him. "What can I show you?" he asked politely.

Bob frowned in perplexity. "Well," he said slowly, "I hardly know."

The young man beside him laughed heartily. "Is there, then, one thing the great McAdoo doesn't know?"

Bob turned on him sharply, fixing on him the cold, steely glare that even MacPherson feared to meet. The young man returned it with a quizzical smile.

"Yes, one thing—how to take impertinence."

The young man laughed again. "I've heard of your acrid humor. Here, you'd better let me attend to this job for you. You're out of your element, and I'm at home at it."

Bob grinned in spite of himself at the young man's gay assurance. "All right. Go ahead."

"Whom is it to be for—a lady?" the young man inquired briskly.

"Two, and one man."

"Any limit?"

"No."

"Let's take up one of the ladies first. What's she like, young or old, complexion dark or light, slender or plump? And what sort of jewelry does she affect?"

"She's not young. Hair red. Complexion? Well, red too. She's not plump. She's fat."

"Ah, I see! Mrs. Flinn."

"What do you know of Mrs. Flinn?"

"I know a good deal of you," the young man smiled quizzically again. "We want something gorgeous. A ring, I should say—something in diamonds and rubies. Let's see what you have."

The dapper clerk brought a tray on which precious stones glittered in all colors of the rainbow. At last a ring, set with a large ruby and two fine diamonds, was set aside.

"We'll take that," the young man decided.

For Molly Mehaffey and Patrick—he seemed entirely familiar with Bob's home relations—he chose respectively a very pretty pearl pendant and a silver cigar case. This done, he laid the three purchases in a row before him and surveyed them critically.

"There," he said finally; "I think those will help make a very satisfactory Christmas for the lucky ones. But aren't you forgetting something?"

"For Miss Flinn? Not here. I'm much obliged to you, though." Bob said as he filled out a check that ran into four figures.

"Oh, it's been a pleasure, you may be sure," the young man replied pleasantly. "I like to spend money, even if it is some one else's."

When they left the store the young man turned up the street with Bob in the matter of fact way of one whose company is justified by lifelong acquaintance. Bob, grimly amused, permitted it.

"It takes Christmas time to make a fellow expand. There's a lot in this 'good will to men,' after all. That's what I like about Christmas."

"It's nonsense," said Bob. "I don't believe in giving Christmas presents. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent this week in this city by people who have trouble scraping enough together to make ends meet."

"I'll admit it is the dramatic view of it that appeals to me. I always go broke myself Christmas time, and I positively gloat in my bankruptcy, not because others see it as a fine thing—few people have the superfine theatrical sense I have—but because I see it so myself and like to look on at myself in a gorgeous role. You don't understand that, do you?"

"I do not."

"No, of course not. You have been too busy driving ahead, trampling the world under your feet, to cultivate these finer pleasures."

"There are some people who would be afraid to say these things to me," Bob interrupted, half angrily.

"Oh, I'm not afraid of you, you know," was the cheerful answer. And he continued: "Yours is what I call grand opera egoism. Now, mine is vaudeville. I don't ask the world to prostrate itself before me. All I want is that it shall place me in the foreground, so that I may enjoy myself playing a striking role. Of course the same principle underlies both our natures—concentrated selfishness, self love. Were you ever in love?"

"Well, hardly!"

"Neither was I. It's a shame, too: I'd make such a splendid lover. I'm not a sentimentalist, though—rather a sensationalist. I love a strong sensation. I like the feel of doing the big, the unusual, the beautiful things. I like the sensation of talking about myself frankly to a man who never saw me before and doesn't give a hang whether he ever sees me again."

Bob laughed loudly—he could not help it. "Well, you've got nerve, there's no doubt of that. I stop at this bookstore."

"I'll go along. I want to deliver a homily with that laugh of yours as a text."

But this time Bob needed no aid from the talkative stranger: the present was for Kathleen. As with the discriminating eye of the book lover Bob chose a superbly bound set of Shakespeare the young man exclaimed:

"By Jove, I envy the one who gets this present! You love books?"

"They are my chief extravagance."

The young man surveyed him thoughtfully. At length he said:

"You have accomplished more than any young man I know of. You are the third strongest man politically in the city. You are apparently rich. You have accomplished this by dint of sheer strength, leaving out entirely the question of personal popularity. That's the weak spot in your armor. Now you have chosen politics as your particular field. So have I."

"Then I guessed right," Bob said to himself, and the amused gleam died out of his eyes.

"Downright brute strength and the fear inspired by it have carried you through so far, but if you are going further you must consider the question of personal popularity. Get the public into the habit of loving a man and they will keep on loving him—just because they love him."

"That's not true," Bob interjected sharply. "Do you know more about any other subject than you do about politics?"

"Oh, I know politics," the young man said calmly. "I know the power of money and of the big corporations and financiers whom you and I know to be the kings in politics. I am speaking of the politicians, who stand to capital in the relation of attorney to client. I have studied the big political men of our country closely, and every man jack of them has been personally popular or at least able to make himself an attractive public figure. It is the lack of it that will keep you out, if anything can, of control of the city, at which I shrewdly guess you are aiming."

"Perhaps you intend to capture the city yourself?"

"It is not beyond the possibilities," the stranger youth responded imperturbably. "I'll admit, though, that you might be able to prove the exception to my rule. You are so infernally strong, body and soul," he swept Bob with a frankly admiring glance, "as I have been told by those who know you and as I feel it now when I meet you at close quarters, I almost believe you can do anything in your own way. Still, even if you can accomplish what you want by main force it would be mighty poor strategy when, by the use of popularity and diplomacy, you can get the same thing more quickly and more easily. A rapier is a deadlier weapon than a meat ax."

He stopped. And Bob took the opportunity to scrutinize the man beside him very carefully. It flashed across his mind that here was one who would attract the hero worshiping public. He saw a lithe, well set up, springily carried figure; long dark hair, slightly curling, crowning a fine brow and a handsome, regular face of a slightly Semitic cast; an olive complexion, dark eyes, flashing just now in the light of debate; a finely molded chin, neither weak nor strong, and a mobile, sweetly smiling mouth—the mouth of a woman.

REFRIGERATORS. AT HALF PRICE.

The opportunity is still open to you to secure a splendidly built hardwood refrigerator at just half the regular selling price.

These boxes are in golden oak finish, metal lined, and the inside parts are removable so that they may be easily cleaned and kept in perfect sanitary condition; they have most effective dry-air circulation; boxes of a make that have added immensely to our reputation, and the only reason these can be sold at half price is because they are styles that the makers are discontinuing.

The regular price of the box we offer tomorrow would be $32.70; the special price will be.....$16.35

Some other good sizes also at half price.

MEN'S AND YOUTHS' $15 SUITS $6.

No suit in this lot could possibly be produced by any maker for $6 so that you are assured that you are getting suits at very much less than the cost of making, when you buy one of these tomorrow or Saturday morning.

The only reason for this decided break in price is that sizes are broken.

Choose from worsted, cassimeres and cheviots, cut in up-to-date styles; well tailored throughout; standard $15 suits for only $6.

Youth's New Fall Suits, $10 and $12—Smart models in gray and brown clothes, excellently tailored.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We beg to call your attention to the opening of our new store, Nos. 229, 231, 233 West Front Street, on Saturday, September 2d, 1911.

With the increased facilities, which our new store gives us (one of the largest in the State) we shall endeavor to carry everything new and up-to-date in Men's, Women's and Children's footwear in great variety.

My reputation for the past twenty years in Plainfield for square dealing needs no further comment on my part.

It shall be my aim in the future as in the past to furnish my customers with good reliable footwear at prices always the lowest.

Thanking you for past favors and trusting to merit a continuance of your kind patronage, and hoping to have the pleasure of seeing you at my store on the opening day, I am,

Yours very respectfully,

M. ABRAMS.

Store open Friday evening for inspection.

O'TOOLE MAKES HIS DEBUT IN BIG LEAGUE

Marty O'Toole, the South Farmingham, Mass., boy, stood on the threshold of his home town yesterday afternoon and successfully made his debut in National League circles, pitching his team, the Pittsburgh Pirates, pennant contenders, to a 6 to 4 victory. Had it not been for the erratic work of his fellow-players in the eighth inning, Boston's score would have been reduced by two runs, these two being scored on errors, despite the fact that at times the gold-mounted kid was apparently after an altitude record, Marty passing two of the three men who clogged the bases.

Marty was as wild as the hawk that figures in the proverbs associated with the soaring pitcher. He had a most peculiar record and it stands unique in proving that a hurler can be lavish with passes, yet if he is in possession of the real goods he can produce at times when the situation is both tense and critical. O'Toole passed ten men, but to offset this he struck out nine, and the majority of the nine went down when their elimination was of some value. O'Toole not only proved that he has confidence but he proved to the 9,000 howling fans that he had nerve. Time after time he had the stations congested, yet he pulled himself together and without any apparent effort used his famous moist ball which proved to be too much for the Boston swatters, who are now recognized at the hitters par excellence in the National League.

At no time was Fred Clark afraid of his $22,000 pitching treasurer. Once he walked in from the field to assure the red-headed pitching find that he was not worrying, and the Pirate manager gained the applause of the enthusiastic bugs by thoughtfully placing his hand on Marty's back and congratulating him publicly.

BASEBALL.

Consolation thought for today—Marty O'Toole, the $22,500 beauty, won his first game even though he did give ten free passes!

And some more consolation is to be found in the fact that this is good weather for ducks even if it isn't for baseball.

The Elks weren't disappointed today anyway for they didn't have a game scheduled.

A meeting of the Central New Jersey League has been called for September 6, when the question of the Westfield protest of the recent Somerville game will be decided. It looks as if the Mt. Ararat combination had a strong chance of carrying the point and having the game played over for the umpire was evidently wrong in his decision, which allowed a man to cut across the diamond to a base.

According to an unofficial report, Wilbur leads the hitsmiths of the Westfield team with an average of .473 for five games, having registered nine hits in nineteen times at the bat. Flynn is second on the list with .428 for three games while Howard Craig, of this city, is banging at a .262 clip. The local player has participated, however, in fifteen games.

The success of the city Sunday-school baseball league is due, in a large measure, to Sidney Mackey, of the First Baptist school, who was the instigator and chief enthusiast of the organization. Mackey has only played in one game but he attends every contest which his team plays and is a leading light in the government of the league.

After Labor Day it is expected that a large number of baseball games will be played in this city since a new diamond on the Parker field will be available for all teams in Plainfield. This will give the youngsters a chance to settle their baseball disputes in the mornings and the older teams to practice in the late afternoons. The time for teams to play on the field will be equally divided by Charles R. Bostwick, the director of the playground, and all amateur nines will be given a chance.

Hogarty is slated to twirl for the Westfield aggregation when it crosses bats with the Plainfield Pets on Labor Day afternoon and it is reported that Otto Frederickson will uphold the slab honors for the locals. It is extremely doubtful that Freddie will twirl for Plainfield, however.

Here is one true statement, even if all the other dope should be false—If it rains as hard on Saturday as it does today, there will not be any Central League games. Can you beat it?

We actually believe, as we go galloping to press, that it rains harder in August than it does in Plainfield.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Before a crowd of more than 10,000 people, which packed Madison Square Garden from pit to dome, Matt Wells, the lightweight champion of England, defeated Valentine (Knockout) Brown, of New York, in a ten-round glove contest last night, which marked the revival of legalized boxing under the new Frawley law in this State. The cleverness of the English man was something that the rough east side boy could not fathom and while not badly punished Brown was outpointed from start to finish. During the ten rounds Knockout failed to get his dangerous left punch working more than half a dozen times, and when it did land on Wells it lacked the sting which gave the tow-headed boxer his nickname.

Speeding over a course of twenty-two nautical miles at a pace never before accomplished by a motor boat in America in a public demonstration Dixie IV, plowed through the distance in 33.07, and earned the right to be named as one of the defenders for the British International Trophy races to be held next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The speed was at the rate of 39.86 nautical miles or 45.9 statute miles an hour, and was shown during the progress of the initial elimination trials, held yesterday in Huntington Harbor, adjacent to the Chateau des Beaux Arts.

That relay the Irish A. A. C. are going to put through Labor Day in Sheppard, Resenberger, Hayes and Gish would receive plenty of opposition if a quartet composed of Gissing, McEntee, Edwards and Frick should oppose them. The last four are all N. Y. A. C., or former athletes of the Mercury Foot organization and there is hardly a doubt they would give the "relay de luxe" the race of their lives.

Melvin W. Sheppard, the world's greatest middle distance runner, has entered the half mile special race at the Irish-American A. C. games next Monday, and he is anxious to win it in record time. Opposing him in this event will be a dozen of the fastest men in the East. He is training hard for the event. Besides this race there are sixteen other contests on the program. In each of them champions will compete. In a 5,000 meter special George Bonhag and Louis Scott will be among the starters.

Platt Adams, the all-around athlete of the New York A. C. breezed into Newark yesterday from Budd Lake, where he has been spending his vacation. Adams says that the injury to his leg is fast mending and he expects to be back in competition in a few weeks' time. If Platt recovers from his injury in time he intends to enter the competition for the all around honors in the Thirteenth Regiment games.

Vacation on Ocean.

Frank H. Smith and Charles H. Dunham left New York today on the Santa Marta for Colombo, South America. They will be home again on Sept. 22.

Miss Nellie Bogart, of East Sixth street, has gone to Ashville, North Carolina, where she will visit relatives.

NEW PROVIDENCE WOMAN AND BABY ARE SCALDED.

A mother and her six months' old daughter are in critical condition at their home in Springfield avenue New Providence, in consequence of a peculiar mishap Tuesday night. Both were scalded with water which was in a dishpan on the kitchen stove.

The woman is Mrs. Louis Marinelli and she held the babe in her arms when the accident occurred. As she was passing around the stove, Mrs. Marinelli tripping over a coal hod and in an effort to save herself and the infant from falling she upset the hot water.

At the time the woman held the baby in her right arm and most of the scalding water spilled over that arm, and the baby's body. A physician was summoned. He removed the baby's clothing and some of the flesh clung to it.

LICENSES FOR BOXING CLUBS.

Licenses to hold boxing contests under the new Frawley law were granted to four additional clubs at a meeting of the New York State Athletic Commission in New York city yesterday. The clubs granted licenses were the Longacre Athletic Association, the Atlantic Athletic Association, the Brighton Beach Athletic Club, and the National Sporting Club of America. Six licenses had been previously granted for New York City organizations, so that a total of ten have been authorized to hold boxing exhibitions.

The commission will hold another meeting tomorrow, when additional applications are expected to be considered.
